Learn the record and apply it as the acid test for election support. Do this; register and vote, and we'll have a progressive Congress to go with FDR in 1945.

127 Labor Papers Expect FDR Victory; Just One For Dewey

WASHINGTON (FP)—The organized labor support of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that the Republican Natl. Committee keeps harping on as "increasing" cannot be found in a 31-state poll of 139 labor papers conducted by Federated Press and released this week.

Including more AFL papers than those backed by CIO and with a sprinkling of independent labor journals, the FP survey shows an overwhelming support of Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Just one editor, who runs a small independent paper in Salina, Kas., said he supported Dewey. And none of those answering the poll said they expected the Republican candidate to win on Nov. 7.

So far as the FP poll shows, there are only 2 instances of any local union or other trade union body indorsing Dewey. One was a local union of 85 members in Missouri and the other a boilermakers local in California. All other answers said the editors had not heard of any union opposition to Roosevelt.

The returns of the 139 papers showed a total circulation of 6,287,359, or an estimated readership in excess of 18 million persons. Participating papers included 60 AFL organs, 58 CIO and 21 independent or joint AFL-CIO enterprises.

127 SAY FDR WILL WIN

Out of the 139 responses, 117 papers are actively supporting Pres. Roosevelt and 127 say he will win on Nov. 7. The Central Labor Journal (Independent) of Salina, Kas., is the lone paper backing Dewey.

AFL papers, 60 strong, with a total circulation of 2,867,483, were found abandoning the so-called "traditional AFL non-partisan political policy" and 47 reported to be actively backing Roosevelt, with a total of 52 predicting his victory.

Only 11 AFL papers took the "non partisan" position seriously enough to remain neutral. Three said the election is in doubt and 5 failed to answer the question as to the outcome.

Among the 58 CIO publications, with a circulation totaling 3,245,500, all back Roosevelt, and 55 expect him to win. Only 1 was in doubt and 2 did not answer the question.

Dewey a la Goebbels Fed to the Public, Hillman Charges

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—The Goebbels technique of creating "confusion and distrust" among the enemies of fascism is being applied by the enemies of FDR and CIO Political Action, PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman told the 10th UE convention in a prepared address here this week.

Analyzing the anti-FDR propaganda, Hillman pointed out the division of work that exists among four of its main exponents: Scripps-Howard, the N. Y. Herald-Tribune, the Saturday Evening Post and the Hearst-McCormick-Patterson axis.

Scripps-Howard, he said, claims that "PAC is out to form a third party;" the Tribune and the Post that it's out to "capture the Democratic Party;" while Hearst et al rely on the simple old red-baiting theme—"PAC is a Communist conspiracy."

These three lines contradict each other, he said, but that doesn't faze the people who put them out, any more than contradictions fazed Hitler or Goebbels.

"Those who are running this campaign against the common man have quite obviously adopted the Hitler thesis that a lie often enough repeated is likely to be believed in the end—provided it is big enough."

OPPONENTS BADLY FRIGHTENED

The forces that try to use the Hitler-Goebbels line against political action do so because they're scared, Hillman pointed out—scared that the people will win in November.

"It is because they do not dare to face the great issues of foreign and domestic policy that the Republican leaders find themselves driven to make up a spurious issue out of whole cloth," he said. "That is why they have tried to raise the Bolshevik bogey as a red herring.

"The truth is that the reactionary leadership is badly frightened. It concentrates its fire on PAC because it knows our organization is a strong liberal influence in both of the major political parties. It fears us because we represent the people—because it dreads the day when the American ideal of a government 'of the people, for the people and by the people' will be fully recognized."

The answer to this smear technique, Hillman told his listeners, is the same answer that UE has given to all enemies of unions and progress—the answer of political action.

MAGNIFICENT JOB

"You of the UE have done a magnificent job in war production," he said. "Under the alert and forward looking leadership of your great union, I am confident that you will do an equally fine job in political action."

Hillman's speech crackled with sharp cuts at the anti-FDR, anti-PAC press which has outdone itself in the attempt to smear labor political action. Speaking of the general technique of spreading as many lies as possible, he said—looking hard at the press table:

"The daily press is a department store of lies. You pay your money and you have your choice of whatever particular kind of lie about FDR, about PAC and about labor that you like."

He also hit the scarcely-veiled campaign of anti-Semitism that has been coming out more and more into the open in the Hearst-GOP drive. "Jew-baiting is right on top in this campaign now. It's here—and frankly, I'm glad the opposition has brought it into the open. I rather have it out where we can see it than under cover," he said.

Five Weeks To Go, CIO Women Warn

Reminding everybody that there are only five weeks left before November 7, the CIO Women's Auxiliaries issued this statement from their general executive board meeting in Chicago:

"The welfare of our country and of the world, of our own families, our children, our boys and girls in the armed forces will be decided by our votes on the first Tuesday in November.

"It's up to us to get out and work for Roosevelt and a Congress that will back him with the same fervor we put into backing the strike struggles of our unions in an earlier day.

"Let's slight the cleaning, let's leave the mending, let's skimp the cooking and give every second we can save to getting every community in which we live 100% registered before registration closes and 100% voted on election day."

BETTE DAVIS is pictured here in a pleading mood in this scene from one of her many screen success, but she was not acting when she pleaded at a recent New York City rally that women vote for Roosevelt. The rally, sponsored by the Independent Voters Committee of the Arts and Sciences for Roosevelt, was attended by 20,000 persons.

Back FDR, Bette Davis Tells Women

Bette Davis, twice winner of the coveted Oscar award, recently appealed at a "Rally for Roosevelt" in New York City to the women of America in the name of their husbands, sons and brothers in the service to vote for Roosevelt.

The speech was particularly important in view of the estimate that about 60 per cent of the vote on November 7 will be cast by women.

Miss Davis said that she could not believe that 39 of every 100 women would stay away from the polls this year as they had in "the last five presidential elections."

Because their husbands, sons and brothers are in the service, she believed that these women will "demand that their voices be heard" on election day.

"They know the need for a swift victory," the Hollywood luminary said.

WOMEN WANT FACTS

She was confident that women are not interested in party labels, but in facts, and that they want to know "what those who seek office have said and done."

The movie star said that women are no longer "the timid Mrs. Milquetoasts who were fearful of the complexity of the voting machine."

She said they "are first-class citizens who have learned their responsibilities, the hard way, who know that their security, and that of their returning husbands, and that of their unborn sons is bound up in the single, simple gesture that will pull the voting lever down over the name of Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

By ELEANOR FOWLER

Secretary-Treasurer, CIO Auxiliaries

Verda Barnes, Women's Director of the Political Action Committee, gave a fine speech at the UE Auxiliary Convention. She pointed out the tremendous responsibility which rests on the women of this country in the November election for two reasons.

First, the failure of our Congress to adopt a federal ballot for servicemen will mean that probably at most only two million of our 11 million servicemen and women will vote. And, by the way, it's particularly tough for New York servicemen to get a ballot—Dewey has seen to that—and merchant seamen, Red Cross workers and other civilians in war services can't vote at all unless they come home for November 7.

Second, many men have left their homes temporarily to take war jobs elsewhere. Some of these war workers have a right to vote by absentee ballot, and one of our jobs is to see that they know how. But many of them are going to lose their vote this year.

MOST VOTERS WOMEN

That leaves us women casting as high as 65% of the votes in November. Just think of that for a moment—that's almost two-thirds of all the votes. What a responsibility we have, because our votes will determine whether our boys and girls in uniform come back to a country where there are jobs and security for the people or breadlines and apple-selling. Our votes this year will decide whether our children will grow up in a world at peace, or whether they will have to march off to war 20 years from now.

PAC has given us wonderful help in the new Women's Guide to Political Action which explains very clearly and simply why politics concern women, what forces we must fight, how we must organize to win in November.

Don't scorn parties or other social affairs in your campaign to get women interested in politics.

PUSH DOORBELLS

But don't depend on social affairs to substitute for doorbell ringing. There is no substitute for that and in most cases women are better than men at that job. Why? Well here's what PAC says in "What Every Canvasser Should Know."

"Women start a conversation more easily, know better how to get the information they are after, and, usually, make friends quicker than men."

Come on, girls, there's only five weeks to go!

UE Women Spearheading Political Action

With more than 40 per cent of its membership women, you would expect that the 10th annual convention of the CIO United Electrical Workers would give a sizable share of its time to involving women in union work and in political action.

The UE's convention, held last week in New York City, did that. Reporting on membership gains during the past year, the officers pointed out that women are taking their full part in the union's affairs, that this leadership has enriched the contribution of UE in the war.

"UE women over the nation are mobilizing the membership to register and vote. UE experience proves that women—who constitute a majority of the potential voters—will meet the challenge of the 1944 elections."

Here's one example if the specific gains UE has won for its women members—gains that go side by side with those won for all members. A year ago, 56 percent of UE's women members had contract guarantees of equal pay for equal work. This year, the percentage has climbed to 68.

AUXILIARIES GROW

UE Women's Auxiliaries have also grown during the year, and have taken on more active political work. Auxiliary legislative work has also increased during the year, as many Congressmen found out when they began to get floods of letters on price control, the soldiers' vote, reconversion and like issues.

Summing up on "the woman question," the UE officers' report pointed out: "The UE program for full employment and security, based on expended foreign and domestic trade and planned reconversion, is the only effective answer to such attempts at disruption (pitting men against women workers). UE veterans and war workers, both men and women, are uniting in this campaign to achieve that program."

CU Tells Best Buys

Burns are fatal to 8700 Americans each year.

Use of simple flameproofing compounds in many danger spots in the home will prevent many of these fatalities.

The September issue of Consumers Reports, publication of the Consumers Union, recommends two compounds, a commercial product, DuPont Fire Retardant, and a home-made solution of seven parts of borax and three parts of boric acid, dissolved in 100 parts of water.

Fabric treated with either compound will char, but won't burn. Dry cleaning removes the home-made product, but not the Du Pont Retardant. Washing removes both compounds.

The Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., has promised the government to stop representing that "the use of Palmolive Soap and water has any direct effect . . . upon the skin except as a mild cleansing agent" or that "Palmolive Soap and water will protect the skin against, or avert or postpone the consequences of advancing age or will cure the facial eruptions common to adolescence," CU reports.

Keep Your Eye On Congress

This is the last Keep Your Eye On Congress you'll see in The CIO NEWS until after the election, because Congress has gone home to build up its political fences for Nov. 7.

The majority of the Congressmen and Senators are bringing back a thoroughly negative record; on reconversion, on taxes, on the soldiers vote, on polltax repeal (in the Senate) and a number of other major issues.

At the same time, they're leaving an assortment of unfinished business that is also concerned with the issues of winning the war and building a solid peace.

Next week, The CIO NEWS will review the record of issues decided in Congress that you will want to ask your Congressman and your Senator about before election.

This week, we're printing a partial list of the unfinished items that you will also want to question them on. Here it is:

BILL	WHAT IT DOES	WHERE IT IS	ACTION
Permanent FEPC (S 2048)	Makes anti-Jim Crow agency part of permanent U. S. governernment setup.	Reported out of Senate Labor sub-committee by Democratic majority. Still in House Labor Committee.	Ask your Senators to supportion when they get back; also Representative to get out of House Committee.
Substandard wage floor (S Con Res 48)	Sets 65c an hour wage floor throughout U. S. Industry.	Hearings by Sen. Pepper's (D.Fla.) subcommittee set for 1st week in Oct.	Urge Senators and support when they port as measure to increase purchasing power, end sweatshops.
Federal Aid to Education (HR 2849)	Provides $300,000,000 to raise substandard wages of teachers and improve schools.	Stalled in House Education Committee; Discharge Petition 12 on floor to get it out.	Urge your Representative to sign DP 12 on his return; bill gives your kids a break on a good education.
Social Security (S 1161) (HR)	Broadens and improves present Social Security; protects war workers, veterans, mothers, etc.	Stalled in House Ways and Means Committee and in Senate Finance Committee.	Urge your Senators and Representative to press for early hearings, vote.
"Equal Rights" amendment	Would wipe out all social laws protecting women workers; wedge against all labor laws.	Ready for Senate action any time; Discharge Petition circulating in House. Danger of quick vote in Senate after election.	Urge your Senators to oppose and your Representative to refuse to sign DP.

(Note: Remember to ask your Congressman about bills now. Legislative action by the new Congress in January means that the whole process of getting a bill introduced, through committee and onto the floor has to start all over again.)

AROUND U.S. WITH THE CIO

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

CIO Sub-Reg. Dir. A. B. Martin, Altoona, Pa. reports: Sylvania Electric Products Plant, Altoona, Pa., UE-CIO 1154; no union 698.

Lewis Alan Berne, pres., FAECT., reports: Engineers and draftsmen of Radio Corp. of America, RCA Victor Division, Camden, N. J., CIO 298; no union 132.

William B. Taylor, Dir. of Orgn., OWIU, reports: Lone Star Gas Co., Pipe Line Dept, Waco, Texas: OWOC-CIO 14; against 5.

C. H. Gillman, CIO Reg. Dir., Atlanta, Ga. reports: Swift Co. CIO 21, no union 10, AFL 2. Packinghouse representative, G. R. Hathaway, was in charge. United Stone & Allied Products Workers of America won an election at Nelson, Ga. 74 CIO; against 6.

CIO Reg. Dir. Frank J. Bender, Baltimore. Md., reports: Production and maintenance employees of Rustless Iron and Steel Co., USA-CIO 763; 623 independent union; 32 neither.

G. Geo. DeNucci, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Columbus, Ohio, reports: Shunks Mfg. Co., Bucyrus, Ohio, USA-CIO 50; against 1. Representatives Henry Johnson and William Bell were in charge under direction of District Director Howard N. Porter.

CIO Reg. Dir. George Craig, Philadelphia, Pa., reports: B. F. Goodrich Co., Oakes, Pa. URWA-CIO 373; against 206. Frank Wolf Company, Philadelphia, UERMWA-CIO 21; against 1.

Helen Kingery, Dir. of Publ., UOPWA, reports: Bigelow-Stanford Carpet Co., Thompsonville, Conn., CIO 82; against 39.

James C. Quinn, Director of Dist. 26 USA-CIO Youngstown, Ohio, reports: Truscon Steel Company, Youngstown, Ohio, USA-CIO 988; AFL 576. Truscon Steel is a subsidiary of the Republic Steel Co. and this remarkable victory brings all of the Republic Steel plants in District 26 into the United Steelworkers of America. The organizing campaign was under the direction of Staff Representative Russell L. Thomas, who was assisted by Truscon Local 2334 officers and members.

The United Railroad Workers at their conference in Cleveland last week decided to call for an election among the shop crafts on the Pennsylvania Railroad System.

The writer attended and addressed the convention of the Alabama State IUC held in Birmingham on Sept. 23 and 24th. It was the best attended CIO convention held in the State and represented remarkable growth, particularly when one recalls the year of 1936 when ruthless sluggings and non-union activity was practiced against the workers of this state.

The CIO through the PAC did some real effective work on political action. They defeated Congressmen Starnes from Gadsden, Ala., and Congressman Newsome of the same. Fitzpatrick who defeated Congressman Newsome addressed the CIO State Convention and pledged all out support to the CIO program. The delegates were enthusiastic in adopting the policies of the CIO.

President Noel Beddow, on account of his many duties in Washington declined nomination and Brother Carey Haigler, Acting CIO Regional Director was elected president of the State Council unanimously.

From Birmingham I proceeded to Atlanta, Ga., and met with the officers of the Atlanta IUC and Regional Director Chas. Gillman, representatives of CIO and our affiliated unions.

Like Alabama, the CIO is on its toes in Georgia and by hard work and confidence in our cause they are overcoming many obstacles. Everywhere we go our people are vitally interested in PAC and are putting into effect the slogan ORGANIZE! EDUCATE! ACTIVIZE!

CORRECTION

In this column for August 28 the result of the election at the Beckton-Dickinson Co., E. Rutherford, N. J., was incorectly reported. The vote at that plant was: UERMWA-CIO 693; no union 110. The vote at Bendix Radio Division, Red Bank, N. J., where the result was UERMWA 950; no union 96, was omitted by error from the column on that date. Both victories were reported by Ewald Sandner, CIO reg. dir.

CIO Conventions Back FDR, No-Strike Pledge

Indiana Council

So. Bend, Ind., Sept. 30—A strong program aimed at aiding a quick end to the war and building a lasting peace with jobs and security for all was drawn up at the seventh annual convention of the Indiana CIO Council in session here Sept. 23-24.

Pres. James McEwan and Sec.-Treas. Walter Frisbie were re-elected and Anthony Piscione, steel worker from Gary, was elected vice-pres., replacing O. H. McKinsey who declined to run.

Delegates voted to endorse the Roosevelt-Truman ticket and re-affirmed the no-strike pledge.

Resolutions were also passed urging relief and rehabilitation for the suffering peoples of Europe and independence for India and other colonial peoples.

FOR ANNUAL WAGE

The Convention demanded that the Little Steel Formula be revised and the annual wage principle established. Price control and rationing during the war period and for a necessary time after the war were given complete endorsement by the Convention.

A strong report by the Anti-Discrimination Committee pointed out that at the Indiana CIO Convention for the first time in South Bend Negro and white delegates were given equal accommodations in all the hotels and that the overwhelming majority of downtown eating establishment served all delegates without regard to race, creed or color. A complete program furthering the drive to abolish race discrimination in Indiana was unanimously adopted.

WOMEN IMPORTANT

Pat Riley, Negro steelworker, Chairman of the Anti-Discrimination Committee, was re-elected to the State Executive Board with a tremendous standing ovation.

Women performed an important role in the State CIO Convention. Nelle Riddle and Marie Talbot were elected to the Executive Board and the Convention unanimously added a third women to the Board by creating a new board membership for the Indiana Congress of Women's Auxiliaries.

Principal speaker at the Convention was Frank Rosenbloom, vice-pres. of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and personal representative of Sidney Hillman, who expressed the need of support of President Roosevelt and defeat of the reactionaries to guarantee a post-war world of security and peace.

Addresses to the Convention were also made by Irwin L. DeShetler, CIO Regional Director of Missouri; Powers Hapgood, Regional CIO Director of Indiana; Robert R. R. Brooks, Chief, Labor Division, OPA, Raymond S. McKeough, Mid-West PAC Director and Pres. Faye Stephenson of the Congress of Women's Auxiliaries.

United Gas, Coke Union

Cleveland, Sept. 30 — By a unanimous vote, delegates to the second convention of the CIO United Gas, Coke & Chemical Workers which concluded its session here last week-end, re-affirmed the union's no-strike pledge and endorsed the Roosevelt-Truman ticket in the coming national election.

A substantial growth in membership during the past two years was reported by the union's officers. The convention adopted an organization program providing for further expansion of activities to unionize workers in industries under the jurisdiction of the union.

Delegates re-elected the three top officials—Pres. Martin Wagner, Sec.-Treas. Cecil Martin and Vice-Pres. William Ross — and elected two members to the Executive Board—Wendell Ringholz, Dist. 5, and Fred Hamilton, Dist. 3.

Main speakers at the convention were Jack Kroll, Ohio chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee, and Allan S. Haywood, CIO vice-pres. and director of organization.

Hereafter conventions of the Gas, Coke & Chemical union will be held every two years instead of annually in accordance with an amendment to the constitution adopted at this convention.

Pay Raises For 250

Upward wage rate adjustments affecting about 250 employes in the Brandt Cabinet Works and the Statton Furniture Manufacturing Co., both of Hagerstown, Md., have been approved by the Reg'l War Labor Board. Employes in both firms were represented by Local 472, CIO United Furniture Workers.

Intl. Oil Workers

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 30—Labor's no-strike pledge was reaffirmed without a dissenting vote at the convention of the Oil Workers Intl. Union which met here last week.

Delegates enthusiastically endorsed Pres. Roosevelt as "the unmistakable leader of the American people, whether in time of peace or war" and pledged support to Pres. Philip Murray and the CIO.

A policy was adopted on the rights of war veterans, protecting their seniority rights and jobs and backing federal legislation for the benefit of servicemen.

The convention authorized publication of an official organ to be known as the International Oil Worker, and drew up a slate of offices to be presented to the membership for election by referendum. The candidates are:

Pres.—O. A. Knight, incumbent, and Thomas McCormick, now Intl. vice-pres.

Sec.-Treas.—E. C. Conarty, incumbent, and Thomas Fairley.

1st Vice-Pres.—E. Carl Mattern, incumbent, unopposed.

2nd Vice-Pres.—A. R. Kinstley Intl. Repres. and Sam Beers.

Vermont Council

Burlington, Vt., Sept. 30—Anthony Jenkins, new president of the Vermont CIO Council elected at the annual state convention held here Sept. 16-18, started to put into action his pledge to double the CIO membership in the state during the coming year, by announcing plans for a big union drive.

Organization now, he told delegates to the convention, is essential "if we are to carry out our resolution to do all within our power to re-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The convention during its two-day conclave here endorsed Roosevelt for President and voted renewal of its no-strike pledge. Newly elected officers were installed at the convention by Frank Carmichael, CIO regional director. In addition to President Jenkins, they included John C. Lawson, re-elected sec.-treas. by acclamation, John Mitchell, exec. vice-pres., and a slate of vice-presidents representing various affiliated unions.

"Labor holds the balance of power in the State of Vermont," Carmichael told the delegates in his speech to the convention. "If it secures its demands, it will receive the notice of the whole nation." CIO membership in the state has jumped from 1,200 a year ago, to 10,400 today, he reported.

"We must protect labor's gains since 1933 by political action," Carmichael said.

Resolutions passed by the Vermont CIO demanded repeal of the Smith-Connally Act; endorsed the establishment of a Veterans Hospital in Vermont; urged support for the labor school opened at St. Michael's College; and backed Robert W. Ready, Democratic candidate for Congress, in his fight against the anti-labor Rep. Charles R. Plumley.

Alabama CIO Council Elects New President

By WARREN SMITH

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 30—Carey E. Haigler, asst. CIO regional director, here was elevated from secretary-treasurer to the presidency of the Alabama State Industrial Union Council at the closing session of the council's two-day constitutional convention held here this week.

Haigler's election was by acclamation. He was unopposed as Noel R. Beddow, retiring president, declined nomination to remain in Washington where he is assistant to the vice chairman, Office of Civilian Requirements.

Election of Haigler, an active figure in organization work in Alabama for some years and a veteran in steel union circles, came as one of the highlights of the convention.

Spirited appeals urging strong support for the re-election of Pres. Roosevelt were made at the convention by John Brophy, Natl. Director of CIO Industrial Union Councils and CIO Vice-Pres. Allan S. Haywood, who is also Natl. Director of organization.

Brophy declared that the life and death of the CIO might well hang on the election of the Roosevelt-Truman ticket.

Haywood said that it is the duty of a good citizen to take an interest in government and called for active political action on the part of CIO members.

The stocky, white-haired labor leader asserted that the CIO wants cooperation between management and labor, but if business and industry tries to fight labor, "American labor is not going to take it lying down!"

Other speakers included Congressman-elect Luther Patrick, who defeated Congressman John Newsome in the May primaries.

In addition to a slate of vice-presidents representing the various intl. unions elected at the convention, two Negroes were elected from the State at large. They are Robert McGruder, USA-CIO and Frank Allen, Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers.

For the first time these offices will have a full vote on the executive board under a constitutional amendment passed at this convention.

WHERE WE STAND

Highlights of Some of Week's Most Significant Statements

Postwar Plans for Jobs

Program Outlined To UE by Murray

CIO Pres. Philip Murray this week told the 10th annual convention of the CIO Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers what the CIO had cooking in the way of postwar plans to help guarantee jobs. Main excerpts from the part of his speech dealing with this subject follow:

You have provided an outstanding example because of your conduct during these extremely trying periods. You, like other CIO organizations have diligently maintained your no-strike commitment and your pledges to not only the Commander-In-Chief of our great country and all of the citizens of our nation but to the members of our armed forces as well and to all of the Allies engaged with us in the conduct of this mighty enterprise.

I have often wondered what might have happened to America, what might have happened to the cause of democracy throughout the world, had the leaders and members of organized labor in the United States refrained from making their no-strike commitment to the President of the U. S. and to all of our people.

Aided Soldiers

Perhaps in the absence of a no-strike commitment the forces representing our mighty cause overseas would not have made their remarkable advances in Africa, in Italy, in France and on many other fronts including the South West Pacific.

There are other great issues which will naturally be brought to your attention in the course of this Convention involving the future of America when the war ends. The CIO has taken again a leading position in the preparation of constructive plans designed to produce for America the fullest degree of employment at the war's end.

In that regard we have drafted, and we now have ready for presentation, a most comprehensive plan designed to meet the needs of all the people throughout the United States of America at the war's end.

That plan encompassed several ideas simple but nevertheless constructive in nature. That plan was designed to produce the fullest measure of employment at the end of the war.

CHEERS greeted CIO Pres. Philip Murray as he addressed the annual convention this week of the CIO Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, 3rd largest CIO union.

It encompassed ideas of this nature: The construction of some six thousand small airports, close to municipalities having a population of 2500 and over, making it possible to an air-minded country to avail itself of all the convenient facilities necessary toward the production of the greatest number of privately owned airplanes at the end of the war.

Mr. Henry Kaiser together with myself some seven months ago projected the idea of expanding the aircraft industry at the end of the war to the fullest possible degree by encouraging the purchase of individually owned airplanes. That idea was presented formally to the President of the United States.

It suggested that in connection with the construction of 6,000 independent community-owned airports that the aircraft industry if need be secure a sufficient amount of finances to provide all of the necessary undertakings incident to the successful promotion of an enterprise of that description.

The plan entails the construction of a privately owned plane, a safe plane, at a price approximating $1300 per plane, in due course to be produced at a price much lower, meaning that the individual who owned the plane would be able to travel distances of perhaps fifty miles from port to port, airport to airport, to do his community buying, to take his little trips to his neighboring communities, or when taking a vacation to fly over the country for whatever might be the necessity.

Aids Auto Trade

The plan itself did not seek to eliminate the production of automobiles; rather it provided for the encouragement and the expansion of the automobile industry because in conjunction with the construction of these air ports and the expansion of the aircraft business the plan suggested the construction of super-highways all over the United States and inter-connecting highways to make automobile transportation more accessible to the thousands of communities all over America and to build better highways and thereby provide through the construction of these highways a greater degree of employment than our country can envisage up to the present moment.

In addition to that we suggested the construction of 1,-500,000 new privately owned homes each year at least over a ten-year period, providing through the construction of these homes opportunities for further expansion in the field of employment.

Then we pointed out that most of our railroad equipment in the United States was practically obsolete—I am told that approximately 80 percent of all the equipment now in use by American railroads is in use 25 years or older.

This equipment is obsolete. If it is going to meet the competition of the automobile and the airplane at the end of the war it must be constructed with facilities to meet modern present-day requirements.

Then in consideration of the further expansion of American business and enterprise we suggested a greater development of our foreign trade possibilities, the utilization of our capital goods here to be shipped to countries for the industrialization of backward countries, to provide those peoples living in those countries an opportunity to enjoy the greater benefits that flow from greater productivity and greater industrialization.

I say that there are great opportunities for America. There is no reason to be optimistic about the future unless all right thinking citizens and all right thinking leaders of these respective segments of our national population are willing to sit down around the conference table and work together, and with government as well, toward the attainment of these most noteworthy objectives.

We have suggested that we erect in the United States more schools, that every backward community and county and state be provided all of the necessary facilities to give every citizen in the United States of America an opportunity to secure for himself and his family all of the advances and advancements of progressive education here in our great country.

That envelops of course a very comprehensive plan and necessitates the cooperation of the states with the Federal Government in the promotion of such a plan. We have advocated the employment of more teachers because the nation needs more teachers. We have advocated not only the use of more teachers, but higher salaries for our teachers because our teachers too need higher salaries.

All of those things CIO has been and is now promoting as its postwar program to provide the fullest opportunity for full employment at the end of the war, and then in addition to that we have suggested a most comprehensive universal system of hospitalization.

Health Plan

We do not believe industry is manifesting the kind of interest that it ought to manifest in health and in the prevention of industrial accidents.

Hence, we have presented a formidable plan, a constructive plan, a practical plan, designed to reduce the number of industrial accidents in America's industry to the lowest possible minimum, and in addition to that, to construct health centers and great medical institutions and hospitals to promote the national well being by increasing or bettering the health of our national population, not only in the great centers of industry but also in other sections of the United States where there are no great centers of population.

This is a portion of the plans which CIO is now promulgating and will direct to the attention of the American people as we do down, down that road to the end of the present war.

"Boy, am I glad I just contributed to PAC!"

Labor Goes to School

West Coast Schools Open

Thousands of union members will have the opportunity of attending the California Labor Schools at San Francisco and Oakland, Calif., when the fall term opens Oct. 2. Both schools get their major support from Bay Area unions.

One class, conducted by outstanding lecturers, will deal with housing plans for San Francisco. A special section of classes on unionism will offer World Labor; American Trade Unionism and Public Speaking.

N Y. State Labor School

A tentative program for the New York State Industrial & Labor Relations School to be set up at Cornell University is now being studied by the temporary Board of Trustees, announces Louis Hollander, pres. of the N.Y. State CIO Council, who is the CIO member of the Board.

The school will provide resident and extension instruction; furnish information both in response to specific inquiries and through regular publications; and conduct research.

Course given by extension staffs in the principal industrial centers of the state are among those being planned. Subjects will include Collective Bargaining; Mediation and Arbitration; Social Security and Workmen's Compensation; Personnel Management; Industrial Psychology; and the Labor Movement, Labor Legislation, and Intl. Aspects of Industrial and Labor Relations.

Pres. Edmund E. Day of Cornell University expects to have the school functioning in 1945.

NMU School Opens

Leadership training classes for active members of the Natl. Maritime Union start at union headquarters on Oct. 2, under the direction of the NMU education dept. Classes will be limited to 20 students each.

Students will be NMU members chosen by ship crews. They will attend classes for five straight days in a week.

For UCAPAW Leaders

A school for shop stewards, local leaders and union officials in the South has been opened at Winston-Salem, N. C., announces the CIO United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing & Allied Workers union.

Bridges Denied Rehearing

Pres. Harry Bridges of the CIO Warehousemen's and Longshoremen's union was denietd a rehearing by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco last week on the court's decision that he be deported to his native Australia Thus the way was cleared for Bridges to carry his fight against deportation to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Bridges contended that the deportation decision was based on acceptance of a "mere scintilla of evidence."

"Federal courts do not regard a mere scintilla of evidence as effective for any purpose," Justice Stephens, who wrote the majority opinion said, but he admitted that the court was bound by rule to be guided by the fact-finder's discretionary conclusions" in deportation cases, irrespective of the court's own view.

The Third Reg'l Board recently approved check-off privileges for Local 30 CIO Fur and Leather Workers at Dungan, Hood & Co., Inc., at Philadelphia.

Leadership Institute

Some 400 persons attended the first Leadership Training Institutes held recently by the Michigan CIO Council at Camp Chief Noonday in Hastings, Mich.

Courses included Union Counseling, Political Action, Collective Bargaining, Grievance Procedure, Postwar Plans and Education Leadership. Among the faculty members were Kermit Eby asst. director, CIO Dept. of Research & Education; Don Kingsley, Antioch College; John Pierson, U. S. Dept. of Labor, and Ed Connors, Detroit Planning Assn.

Joseph Kowalski, Mich. CIO Council educational consultant, is planning follow-up programs for the students who included members of the Council and CIO union officials.

CSC Trips Ben Stolberg In Falsehood

The U. S. Civil Service Commission this week nailed a lie on Benjamin Stolberg, writer on labor subjects.

The CSC in a letter to Stolberg signed by Head Commissioner Mitchell and Commissioners McMillin and Fleming stated that it did not supply him with a list showing 110 of the 141 original members of the Natl. Citizens Political Action committee as participants in sundry "Communist fronts" as Stolberg said in a radio program.

The three commissioners wrote that CSC had investigated 10 members of NCPAC before accepting them for Government position and had given them a clean bill of health.

Biddle Tells Moore NPAC Is Legal

Atetn. Gen. Biddle last week bluntly told Senateor Moore (R., N. J.) that the National Citizens Political Action Committee is not violating the Corrupt Practices Act.

Moore had suggested in a letter to Biddle that the NCPAC was violating the act. Biddle replied:

"There can be no illegality under section 313 of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, as amended by the Smith-Connally Act, unless a contribution is made by a labor organization; in the absence of that fact the penalties of the section do not attach either to the one who makes the contribution or the one who receives it.

"It seems clear that the persons who are now making individual-contributions to the NCPAC are not labor organizations. The first prerequisite for the application of the statute is therefore absent."

Correction

Congressman Stevenson (R. Wis.) was incorrectly reported in the Congressional Record as being pared against the measure for unemployment benefits for 3,000,000 Federal workers, and was so reported in the Sept. 23 issue of The CIO NEWS. The Congressional Record for Sept. 19 reports that Congressman O'Konski was granted permission to correct the record to show Stevenson being pared for the measure.

MARINES HIT BEACH AT PELELIU: U. S. Marines swarm ashore as American landing forces hit the beach at Peleliu Island. Behind them, amphibious tanks churn out of the surf. Smoke in the background spirals from a burning Amtrack. (Federated Pictures radiophoto.)

Books for the Union Hall

A list of publications dealing with various phases of the trade union movement has just been published by the CIO Dept. of Research & Education in an attractive pamphlet called "Union Hall Book-Shelf."

Arranged by subjects, the list contains both book and pamphlet material and has an index of authors. It was issued as one of the Department's Facts for Action pamphlets.

Copies may be ordered from the CIO Publicity Dept. 718 Jackson Place, Washington 6, D. C. Price 10c each.

U. S. Delegates Laud Italian Labor Unity

London, Sept. 30 (ALN)—Addressing the first convention of the reconstituted Italian General Confederation of Labor (GCL), which concluded its sessions in Rome last week, British and American fraternal delegates were unanimous in hailing the unity achieved by all union groups in liberated Italy.

Luigi Antonini, vice-president of the International Ladies Garment Workers (AFL), described labor unity as the "indispensable basis for the reconstruction of national life in Italy, while George Baldanzi, vice-president of the CIO Textile Workers Union, stressed the importance of both "trade union and political unity" to the Italian people.

Conference Theme To Be 'Right to Job'

"The Right to a Job" is the all-important and timely question to be discussed at the first Int. Religion-Labor conference to be held at Hotel Fort Pitt, Pittsburgh, from Oct. 9-11. Prominent religious and labor leaders will lecture on various aspects of the subject.

Speakers representing labor include Van A. Bittner, CIO Steelworkers; Dr. J. Raymond Walsh, CIO director of Research and Education; Victor G. Reuther, asst. director, War Policies Commission, CIO United Auto Workers; Charles H. Millard, director, CIO Steelworkers for Canada; David J. McDonald, sec'y.-treas., USA, and James B. Carey, sec'y.-treas., CIO.

Back FDR With Bucks

Erie, Pa., Oct. 2—Local 616, CIO Electrical Radio & Machine Workers reports that from 270 dues-paying members, $258 was collected at $1 each member.

British Security Plan Falls Below Hopes of Labor

LONDON, Sept. 30 (ALN)—While the social insurance plan presented to Parliament this week by the British government represents a great advance over existing laws, it has not met the full expectations of the labor movement here through its failure to accept the principle of financial compensation regardless of the period of unemployment. This was embodied in the Beveridge report, which received the backing of labor, and which also provided higher benefits than does the government plan.

The government provides for a family allowance of 5 shillings ($1) per week for each child whereas the Beveridge plan recommended 8 shillings ($1.60). Thirty-five shillings ($7) a week are granted by the government for married couples as retirement pension, as compared to 40 shillings ($8) in the Beveridge report.

Unemployment compensation would be paid for a maximum of 30 weeks, while under the Beverldge plan, compensation would be paid throughout the period of unemployment.

CIO Leader Urges Iowa Postwar Plan

Ways in which to ease the shock of peace on Iowa's economic system were suggested by the Postwar Rehabilitation Commission's labor committee, headed by Ben Henry, regional director of the CIO.

The proposals of the committee included recommendations that the old age pension age minimum be reduced from 65 to 55 years; that the jobless compensation payment rate be lifted to a flat $25 a week, and that occupational diseases be made compensable under the the state workmen's compensation law.

A Dollar to PAC Will Pay Dividends. GIVE.

There Are No Master Races!

Reprint: Courtesy of "True Comics" Magazine—Continued from Last Week

INTELLIGENCE HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH SKIN COLOR. IN WORLD WAR I, TESTS GIVEN TO U.S. SOLDIERS OF ALL COLORS SHOWED THAT EDUCATION, NOT SKIN COLOR, DETERMINED THEIR INTELLIGENCE RATING!

I DON'T GET IT. THIS IS TOUGH. WHAT A PUSH-OVER! A CINCH!

RACE HAS EVEN LESS TO DO WITH ONE'S IDEAS OF LIFE. THE POINTS OF VIEW OF INDIVIDUALS ARE NOT INBORN. THEY CAN BE GREATLY CHANGED BY EDUCATION, PROPAGANDA OR CIRCUMSTANCES. FOR EXAMPLE....

IN THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY, THE INDIANS OF MEXICO WERE CONTINUALLY FIGHTING EACH OTHER—UNTIL THE SPANIARDS INVADED THE COUNTRY.

AFTER THE SPANISH CONQUEST, FIGHTING SPANIARDS AND BELLIGERENT INDIANS SETTLED DOWN AND INTERMARRIED. TODAY, THEIR DESCENDANTS ARE OUR PEACEFUL GOOD NEIGHBORS BELOW THE RIO GRANDE.

IN CONTRAST TO THE ONCE WARLIKE MEXICANS, THE JAPANESE—AS RECENTLY AS FIFTY YEARS AGO—WERE PEACEFUL FISHERMEN AND FARMERS, POETS AND ARTISTS.

IN 1854, WHEN THE AMERICAN NAVY OPENED JAPAN'S GATES TO THE REST OF THE WORLD, SOME JAPANESE LEADERS SAW A CHANCE TO GAIN GREATER POWER FOR THEMSELVES.

OUR NATION SHOULD BUILD SHIPS OF WAR LIKE THOSE OF THE AMERICANS.

BUT OUR PEOPLE ARE TOO PEACEFUL FOR SUCH THINGS. WE WILL HAVE TO TEACH THEM TO THINK OTHERWISE, IF WE WISH TO GAIN POWER.

101 I.P.E.U.

SO, WITHIN TWO GENERATIONS, THE JAPANESE HAVE BEEN TAUGHT TO BE WARLIKE TO SATISFY THE AMBITIONS OF THEIR MILITARY RULERS!

BANZAI! WE ARE THE SONS OF HEAVEN! KILL! KILL!

AND TWENTY YEARS AGO, MUSSOLINI USED THE SAME "MASTER RACE" TACTICS TO SEIZE CONTROL OF ITALY AND MAKE ITALIANS WAR-MINDED.

ITALIANS, DO NOT FORGET THAT YOU ARE CHILDREN OF DESTINY! YOU ARE THE DESCENDANTS OF THE VALIANT ROMANS!

THEN, A DECADE AGO, HITLER ROSE TO POWER IN GERMANY, REVIVING THE WARLIKE AMBITIONS HELD BY THE GERMAN RULING CASTE FOR MANY GENERATIONS.

OUR NATION MUST BE A NATION OF WARRIORS! IF WE ARE TO CONQUER THE WORLD, WE WILL HAVE TO TEACH OUR YOUTH THAT THEY ARE UNBEATABLE!

REMEMBER, THROUGHOUT HISTORY WE GERMANS HAVE ALWAYS BEEN VICTORIOUS IN WAR! THERE IS NO PLACE FOR WEAKLINGS AMONG US! WE ARE THE MASTER RACE! HEIL HITLER!

BECAUSE GERMAN YOUTHS WERE TAUGHT ONLY WHAT HITLER WANTED THEM TO BELIEVE, THEY BECAME WARLIKE, FOR THEY KNEW NO OTHER WAY OF LIFE.

OUR PLANS ARE WORKING WELL! WE ARE RAISING A GENERATION OF BRUTAL KILLERS..

151 I.P.E.U.

ALTHOUGH THEIR SKIN COLOR MAY BE VERY DIFFERENT, ALL MEN—OF EVERY COUNTRY—ARE REALLY "BROTHERS UNDER THE SKIN." FOR ALL MEN ARE TRUE BLOOD RELATIONS.

YOU SEE, THERE ARE FOUR TYPES OF BLOOD—O, A, B, AND AB. THEY HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH RACE OR COLOR.

YOU MEAN, AN AMERICAN MAY NOT HAVE THE SAME TYPE OF BLOOD AS HIS PARENTS, YET MAY HAVE THE SAME TYPE AS AN AUSTRALIAN BUSHMAN?

THAT'S RIGHT. IT'S PRETTY MUCH THE SAME AS HAVING A PAIR OF SHOES THAT WON'T FIT YOUR BROTHER OR YOUR FATHER. BUT THAT SAME PAIR OF SHOES MIGHT FIT A HAWAIIAN BOY OR A NEGRO OR THE KID WHO LIVES NEXT DOOR

OUR SOLDIERS' LIVES ARE BEING SAVED BY BLOOD PLASMA CONTRIBUTED BY AMERICANS WHOSE ANCESTORS CAME FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD. EVEN THE BLOOD TYPES DO NOT MATTER BECAUSE SCIENTISTS REMOVE THE RED AND WHITE CELLS FROM THE BLOOD, AND THE REMAINING PLASMA CAN SAVE THE LIFE OF ANY HUMAN BEING.

WE HAVE BEEN MAKING RAPID PROGRESS IN ELIMINATING OLD SUPERSTITIONS ABOUT "SUPERIOR RACE" AMONG OUR CITIZENS, EVER SINCE ABRAHAM LINCOLN ISSUED THE EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION THAT ENDED SLAVERY IN AMERICA FOREVER.

OUR NATION IS DEDICATED TO THE PROPOSITION THAT ALL MEN ARE CREATED EQUAL.

TODAY, ON FOREIGN BATTLEFIELDS, ALLIED SOLDIERS OF MANY UNITED NATIONS ARE FIGHTING TOGETHER TO EXPLODE THE MYTH OF THE NAZI AND JAP "SUPER-RACES." THEY STRUGGLE TO GAIN ULTIMATE VICTORY—NOT IN THE NAME OF ONE RACE OR ANOTHER, BUT IN THE NAME OF THE UNIVERSAL HUMAN RACE

THERE ARE NO MASTER RACES...NOR ANY INFERIOR ONES!

MEIN FUEHRER, WE HAVE OUR STORM TROOPERS AND OUR BRUTAL FIGHTERS, BUT WE MUST INSTILL IN THEM A FEELING OF MENTAL SUPERIORITY.

THAT IS EASY! WE WILL MAKE THEM FEEL STRONG BY MAKING OTHERS LOOK WEAK. THERE ARE JUST A FEW JEWS, WE WILL CALL THE JEWISH RACE INFERIOR!

WILL THE PUBLIC BE CONVINCED? THE JEWS ARE NOT A RACE—THEY ARE PEOPLE OF MANY RACES WHO FOLLOW THE SAME RELIGION.

THE PUBLIC WILL ACCEPT WHAT WE WANT THEM TO BELIEVE BECAUSE WE HAVE TAUGHT THEM TO DO SO!

JEWS ARE NOT A RACE. THEY HAVE A COMMON RELIGION BUT ARE OF MANY DIFFERENT STOCKS. THERE ARE JEWS IN VIRTUALLY EVERY COUNTRY.

HITLER CALLED HIS NAZI FOLLOWERS "PURE ARYANS," AND ENCOURAGED THEIR FEELING OF SUPERIORITY BY STRESSING THEIR "DISTINCTIVE DIFFERENCES" FROM OTHER PEOPLE.

AN ARYAN IS SLENDER! ...AND TALL! ...AND BLONDE!

BUT—THE "PURE ARYAN" NAZIS WHO CONQUERED FRANCE ACTUALLY CONQUERED PEOPLE CLOSELY AKIN IN RACE TO THEMSELVES.

SYSTEMATIC PROPAGANDA ENABLED HITLER AND THE MILITARY LEADERS OF JAPAN TO MAKE THEIR PEOPLE BELIEVE THAT THEY WERE "MASTER RACES," BUT THIS SIMPLY IS NOT SO!

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 41 82 October 9, 1944

Good News!

Farmers Profit From New Deal Land Program

(See Page 5)

★ ★ ★

Exclusive

Truman Talks Turkey on Need For Jobs

(See Page 4)

Chief of Staff Nails Lies About Home Front

The War Dept. has taken steps to nail the reactionary press and radio lies about strikes.

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, sent instructions on August 21 to every orientation officer ordering discussion of these main lies.

"Today, 44 million Americans are at work combating the Axis home fronts, and this increase," Gen. Marshall said, ". . . has been accomplished despite the withdrawal of 12 million men and women into the armed services. Since Pearl harbor we've built 15 billion dollars of new war industries in addition to converting our peace industries to war . . .

"Our production front has not only caught up with the Axis," says Gen. Marshall, whose instructions were revealed this week by the publication In Fact, "but right now our people alone are giving us more weapons than the combined output of Germany and Japan. . . . .

"From shortly after Pearl Harbor until July 1 of this year we have had 9,285 strikes or work stoppages, and these have cost 23 million man-days of labor. It is obvious that our war effort would be even greater if perfect harmony prevailed and these stoppages had not occurred.

"On the other hand, so prodigious and faithful have been the efforts of the great majority of our people that the loss represents less than one-tenth of one percent of the total labor time available. This bears out the statement by the Secy. of Labor to Congress that the no-strike no-lockout pledge of management and labor 'has been kept at a rate of 99%.'

"Our civilians are exactly like us, and we have just about the same proportion of men who slow the Army effort by going AWOL, joining the VD ward, or just plain goldbricking. . . ."

He said that at the same time Germany and Japan have admitted to their own people that they cannot match American production, but nevertheless they have sought "to create a split between the fighting American and the producing American."

CIO Fights Alabama Law

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 7—An anti-labor law known as the Bradford Act passed last year by the Alabama State Legislature was challenged here recently at a hearing before the Judge of the Chancery Court.

John Brophy, CIO director of Industrial Union Councils, testifying in an application for an injunction by the CIO against enforcement of the Act which is aimed at crippling the legitimate functions of trade unions, told the court that the CIO was concerned with any legislation, Federal, state or local, affecting the rights of CIO members as unionists and as citizens.

Plan N. J. Drive

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 30—Some 110 delegates representing 29 local unions attended the third Annual State Conference of the State, County and Municipal Workers at the Hotel Hildebrecht, and laid plans for an all-out campaign to continue to organize the rest of the 100,000 public employes of N. J. The conference also endorsed the candidacy of Pres. Roosevelt and his administration and pledged support to the PAC and its work.

GI's in Italy Laud NCPAC, Send 18 Bucks

"On the home front, as we see it, you bear the brunt of the battle," wrote seven GI's on the Italian front to the National Citizens Political Action Committee.

Matching their actions to their words, they dug down in their denims to send $18 as their contribution to NCPAC.

"The leadership has been taken away from the do-nothings — the appeasers," the seven, one of them a staff sergeant and two of them sergeants, wrote. "We believe that by your efforts, combined with those of honest public officials and clear-minded people everywhere, victory at home will be ours, as by the efforts of our armies it will be abroad.

"We close in sincere salute to PAC and to our leadership in both battles—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Wisconsin Council Backs Roosevelt

Squarely facing the great responsibilities of winning this war and a lasting peace, delegates to the 7th Annual Convention of the Wisconsin CIO Council, meeting in Milwaukee on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, overwhelmingly reaffirmed their no-strike pledge, adopted a program to win the state for President Roosevelt and Senator Truman, and outlined a reconversion plan.

Unity behind the win-the-war policies of President Roosevelt and the National CIO leadership marked all the main actions of the convention.

The no-strike pledge was reaffirmed by a voice vote, with the delegates speaking for renewal demonstrating the tremendous advances both labor and the nation have made through exercise of this policy. Harold Christoffel, speaking for the Allis-Chalmers local of the United Auto Workers, of which he is president, and which introduced the resolution, declared that this pledge had brought victory over fascism near and had a tremendously advanced both the prestige and numbers of organized labor.

J. Raymond Walsh, national CIO research director, addressing the convention in behalf of Sidney Hillman whose illness prevented his making a personal appearance, emphasized what Roosevelt has done for the farmers and urged all political action leaders in Wisconsin to concentrate upon uniting labor and farmer behind FDR.

Mel Heinritz, secretary-treasurer, who delivered the officers' report, was reelected unanimously, and Thomas White, Sr., president, was reelected over Walter Cappel, who ran against him.

The executive board elected by the delegates is:

Harold Christoffel, Joseph De Muth,, Winand Kult and Hilary Merchle, Auto Workers; Director Meyer Adelman, Walter Burke, and Eugene Turman, Steel Workers; James O'Connell, United Electrical Workers; Leonard Berg. United Rubber Workers; August Piepenhagen, Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Major Banachowicz, Hosiery Workers; James DeWitt, Cannery Workers; Ed Lambert, Woodworkers; Vernon Rasmus, Aluminum Division of United Steelworkers; Orville Rooks, Municipal Workers; George Bradow, Fur and Leather Workers; Al Boskowitz, Packing House Workers; Harry Virgil, Retail Clerks; Hy Cohen, Communications Association; and Chester Walczak, Gas Workers.

Tips on Rent Saving--Ask For Deposit

While the CIO in Washington is fighting to help uphold a recent OPA ruling requiring the refunding by landlords of "security deposits", it is urging members throughout the nation to demand their return.

Pointing out that about 400 million dollars have been collected as "security deposits" mostly since the Pearl Harbor attack, Nathan Cowan, CIO legislative director, called on OPA Administrator Bowles "to stand firm in the face of pressure" to rescind the rule requiring their refund.

Meanwhile, John Brophy, director of CIO Industrial Union Councils, in a letter to IUC's asked that members be informed of the ruling, and pointed out that "only in special situations is it possible for the landlord to get permission from OPA to collect security deposits, and then they can be no more than $10".

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE, SUNDAY, MAY 7,

Bloc Insurance On Health Rises In War Industry

Group Programs Now Cover 5,400,000 With Part of Cost Paid by Employers

Group health insurance is growing steadily in the war industries of the nation, for manufacturers, workers and the government all recognize that the highest levels of production are reached by healthy workers. Already more than 5,400,000 industrial workers have their health insured at a cost of $61,000,000 a year, or approximately $12 for each worker, under contracts made by 15,700 employers.

Martin Segal, president of the Trade Union Agency, which serves as consultant to unions on group health and group insurance programs, has obtained coverage for more than 300,000 workers under contracts whereby employers pay a part and sometimes all of the premiums. "This has been accomplished in less than two years," Mr. Segal said. The War Labor Board has approved such insurance as a non-inflationary method of raising the living standard of the employees without increasing wages, he said, and the cost to employers is deductible from state, Federal and excess-profits taxes up to 5 per cent of their employees' wages, as a business expense.

"The material returns, in terms of reduced absenteeism and raised production, are worth much more than the initial investment," Mr. Segal said. "In recognition of this, various companies are paying different percentages of the premiums up to 100 per cent, within the limits of state regulations."

Million in Benefits

Benefits amounting to more than $1,000,000 were paid to almost 21,000 workers last year under the policies negotiated by the Trade Union Agency. The average of 2,600 hospital bills paid for this group amounted to $113, including surgical care averaging $71. Weekly accident and sickness benefits for 18,000 workers averaged $29 a week and death benefits for 184 cases averaged $1,071. About one worker in twelve covered by this type of insurance draws direct benefits annually.

Group insurance plans, now frequently under joint labor-management administration usually are underwritten by private insurance companies and by Blue Cross Hospital Associations. Those arranged with the help of the Trade Union Agency are negotiated through the trade union representing the employees in each plant.

The Trade Union Agency, which was organized in 1939 to study insurance problems of the growing trade union movement, helps unions to formulate health insurance programs to be included in contracts with employers, estimates costs, and serves as a general consultant on the subject.

Immediate Protection Goal

"We do not consider our group asurance and health plans as a ubstitute for any government ealth bills that may be passed," Mr. Segal said, "but rather as an mmediate means of protecting the vorker and his family until more far-reaching provisions are made."

Group health insurance provides a regular weekly income to replace earnings lost through illness or accident, provides funds for hospital expenses and doctor and provides life insuran der many of these plans, part of the benefits are not only for the employee, the entire family. Thus workers who have been u afford medical care in rises in wages, for the fi have economic protection in cas of illness or hospitalization.

According to the United Stat Public Health Service, 40,000,0 persons receive inadequate med cal care. This is reflected in t high number of men who are ph cally unfit for military service many again as those who are cepted. It was found that 2,000, of every 9,000,000 men exam by Army doctors had remed defects. When this figure of 2 000 men within draft-age is revised to account for working population both male and fe ance of the ind insurance and equate medic

GROUP INSURANCE in Collective Bargaining Agreements

As of July 31, 1944, more than 350,000 union members were covered by TUA group insurance programs secured as part of regular collective bargaining agreements.

These comprehensive life and health insurance programs were negotiated by leaders of such CIO organizations as the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, District 4 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, and the United Furniture Workers of America — with the technical assistance and advice of Trade Union Agency.

Today the collective bargaining agreement which guarantees the wage and union security of the individual worker also provides him and his family with protection against the economic distress which is created by emergency expense and loss of income due to death, sickness, and disability.

for further information write to

TRADE UNION AGENCY

Consultants to unions on all insurance problems

80 WEST 40th ST., NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

The Trade Union Agency is not an insurance company. It acts as consultant and advisor to Unions and Union members.

Key To Victory

A "get there fustest with the mostest" philosophy helps win battles. U. S. fighting forces help provide the "fustest" and American workers give them the "mostest." What this unity of purpose adds up to is told in this exclusive article.

By CAPTAIN C. T. DICKEMAN (CEC), USN

Director, Advance Base Dept., Bureau of Yards and Docks, Navy Dept.

AMERICAN-BUILT "CAT" TRACTORS help unload Navy landing craft at the Green Islands, add a thin mist from their exhausts to the tropic humidity. The Green Islands were seized Feb. 16 by U. S. and New Zealand forces.

At the beginning of the war we needed everything — planes, ships, guns, tanks, ammunition — lots of them and quickly. American workers turned them out in faster time than anyone believed was possible.

American industrial resourcefulness enabled our armed forces to match the enemy blow for blow. German submarines sank our shipping to the point where it became dangerously serious. Free American labor built destroyer escorts and baby flat-tops with such speed that the wolf packs were subdued.

Again, when the way was found to land our armies from the sea, we were called upon to rush landing craft and pontoons, and the call was answered by American labor with its usual thoroughness. Finally, when our fighting men had established footholds, American workers furnished the advance base gear which transformed former Jap and German strongholds into Allied stepping stones to further offensives and victory.

It is a tribute to labor and management of our generation that America has — in her matchless ability to produce — a weapon which no enemy can neutralize. For this production miracle, the members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations share the Navy's "Well done to all hands."

Captured equipment, both Jap and Jerry, has shown us that we would be only imitating the ostrich by scorning their manufacture as inferior to ours. It is not. We have only outmaneuvered them by outproducing them. We have come to learn that final victory will be won throuh sheer weight of men and materials, backed by American spirit and ingenuity.

We have another reality to face now. It is no mere rumor that cutbacks in war contracts are taking place today. Everyone knows it and worries about it, realizing that the problem must be faced squarely.

These cutbacks, however, at present involve only certain former vitally-needed materials, and the remedy here lies in the fact that new requirements — as war needs change each day—call for greater produciton in other critical fields. The over-all production requirements of the Navy in dollar volume are still increasing.

In the naval advance base procurement program alone, even in the face of cutbacks on certain items, there is still need for increasing production of wire rope, bulldozers, cranes, tractors, graders, bake ovens, washing machines and other gear. This equipment is urgently needed by the U. S. Navy Seabees, many of whom were recruited from the ranks of the CIO.

The whole story of the victory brought about by American labor and management is not yet told. Much of our endeavor is yet to come. The headlines of approaching victory or the rumor of cutbacks should not be a signal to slacken effort, to lay down tools and desert war jobs in order to get a Number One position on the post-war production line. Rather, it calls for continued effort on the production front, so that our fighting men may share in those post-war plans sooner.

A rivet gun is still as important as a tommy gun; a tractor is as essential as a tank; and the American Worker is still as much the core of production as the American fighter is the backbone of the battlefield. Together they are an unbeatable combination. They must work as a team until the goal is reached.

The stakes are the same as they were on December 7, 1941. We are playing for human lives—American lives. A winning team never takes time out. Such rest periods merely give the enemy a chance to recuperate and strengthen himself against our future thrusts.

The game can't be won merely because we are in the shadow of the goal posts. We must cross the line—and the line in this case is Tokyo and Berlin.

We have the spirit—we have the men—we have had and must continue to have the weapons. American labor will see our fighters through to final victory.

AMERICAN-BUILT HEAVY MACHINERY aids Navy Seabees in reconstruction of Kwajalein, in the Marshalls, after invasion of the Pacific stronghold.

AMERICAN-BUILT BULLDOZER helps Seabees begin the tedious task of converting war torn Kwajalein into a useful advance base.

SENATOR HARRY S. TRUMAN

EXCLUSIVE

No. 1 Issue—Security, Jobs, Says Truman

By HARRY S. TRUMAN

United States Senator from Missouri

The most important issue before the American people is jobs and security, both now and after the war. Every American has a stake in the way this issue is resolved, whether worker, farmer, businessman, professional worker or housewife.

Under the drive of a great war for survival as a nation, we have achieved miracles of production in war materials. Now the end of this war is in sight. As V-Day approaches, we see clearly that the tremendous industrial machine that we have built up for our protection in time of war must be turned to peace-time uses.

How are we to utilize this industrial machine, the greatest in all history? Are we going to use it to its full capacity, employing all Americans who are able to work in doing so, or are we to let it lie idle and force millions of men and women into idleness with it?

This is the question we as Americans and voters have to decide next November 7. Like many other questions, it is a political one—one that is decided by the political process of selecting a President and a Congress in our democratic, American manner.

To achieve full production and jobs for all, we must have planning—national planning.

With the best will in the world, individual industries or individual men and women cannot achieve this goal working outside the framework of a national plan. We have found this to be true during our period of all-out war production. It will be just as true during the postwar period now coming so close to us.

Startling Contrast

When we look at the two candidates and the two political parties seeking our support in this election, we find a startling contrast in the thinking and in the programs that they propose for our future.

On the one hand, we have the record of successful planning and carrying out of defense measures and of the final offensives that are leading us to victory over the Axis.

This planning and these programs have been carried out under the direct guidance of our President and Commander-in-Chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt. His leadership has made the "miracle of production" possible. Industry, labor, agriculture government and the people as a whole have worked together under his leadership to bring us to the very eve of victory in war.

On the other hand when we look at the opponents of President Roosevelt we find a record that grows hourly more negative. Not only do the Republicans lack the ability to plan or the foresight to look ahead but they are unable or unwilling to cooperate with those who do possess foresight and the ability to think a problem through.

The clearest evidence is found in the recent refusal of the Republican members of Congress, particularly in the House of Representatives, to take any steps toward planned, rational reconversion of industry from war to peacetime production. The record of the Republicans has been found wanting; not only were they unwilling to cooperate with the plans of the Roosevelt Administration for reconversion but they were unable to come forward with anything resembling a plan or a program of their own.

The reconversion issue goes right to the heart of jobs and security for all. The administration proposals would have taken a long step toward this goal, by securing war workers and veterans against unemployment and by aiding industry with a planned, rational approach to the difficult change-over period.

The Republican proposals contained no protection for war workers or veterans. They had nothing for industry, nothing for the farmers, nothing for merchants.

Rubber Stamp

Yet this is the type of Congress that the Republican candidate for President wants elected.

Much hullabaloo used to be made about an allegedly "rubber stamp" Congress. Now we have the astonishing demand from the Republican candidate for a rubber stamp with nothing written on it.

It is my deep conviction that the workers, together with the farmers, the businessmen and the housewives of this country will answer this plea for a do-nothing, plan-nothing, think-nothing Administration and Congress with millions of votes for the election of President Roosevelt and a progressive Democratic Congress to lead our country during the difficult years ahead.

Inside Story Of French Labor's Anti-Nazi Fight

The vital role played by the labor movement in the liberation of France is gradually coming to light, and is completely destroying the story often repeated by the reactionary press here that the workers caused the downfall of that nation.

It was difficult to conduct widespread sabotage and resistance until the three union groups in France joined the National Committee of Resistance, a spokesman of the French Delegation in Washington told the CIO News.

News that the unions were the backbone of French resistance was brought to this country recently by Pres. R. J. Thomas of the CIO United Auto Workers and David J. McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the United Steelworkers, upon their return from a trip to Europe under the auspices of the War Dept. Pres. S. H. Dalrymple of the CIO United Rubber Workers and three AFL leaders also took the trip.

Several resistance groups were in existence, but the three main union groups preceded the French political parties in forming the National Committee of Resistance, the spokesman said. This underground committee was operating in France before the Anglo-American landing in North Africa.

Gestapo Active

Meanwhile, the French National Committee has been operating in London under the leadership of General Charles de Gaulle since the capitulation of France. The committee in France kept the resistance functioning in France, while the committee in London actually directed the guerrilla and sobtage activities, the spokesman said.

He explained that because of the necessity for great secrecy in France, where the Gestapo was ever watchful, the work had to be directed from London, where it was possible to obtain a better overall picture.

The activities of the whole movement had to be conducted in the greatest secrecy. Nobody knew more than two others in the movement the man he got his orders from and the man he gave the orders to. Thus, if a resister broke under Gestapo torture, only three persons would be lost to the organization and the chain could soon be repaired.

Among the big sabotage operations was the dynamiting of pipes supplying water power for the operation of huge hydro-electric plants in the French Alps. Several months were required to repair such damage. Industries, dependent on the plants for power, such as a large bauxite works and the Creusot armament plant, closed.

Sand in Machines

Hitlerites were harrassed by the workers through countless acts of sabotage such as the placing of sand in machinery, making parts that would not fit and shipping parts to the wrong factory.

Members of the railroad unions were in a strategic position to commit acts of sabotage and they missed no opportunities. The French railway system was kept in a constant stage of disorganization through placing of dynamite in locomotive boilers and destruction of turntables at vital rail centers.

Shortwave radios were utilized by the underground movement to keep the British informed through De Gaulle's committee in London of the movements of ammunition trains.

Trains Bombed

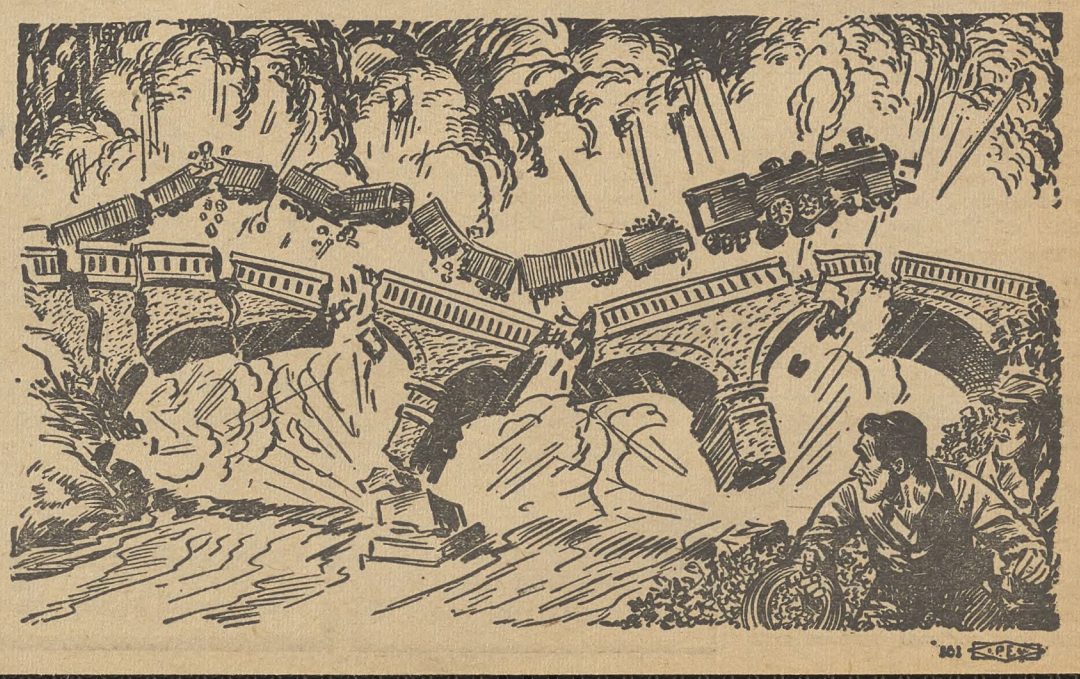
Here, too, the railroad workers played an important part. One of them would send word of the proposed ammunition movement to the shortwave operator who would relay the message to the London committee. The result: the RAF and American bombers would blast the train off the face of the earth but the crew, aware of the plan, would jump for their lives before the bombs began to fall.

In other cases railroad workers would accomplish a similar result by "tipping" resistance groups, who would dislodge the rails at a least expected place.

So successful was the work of the railroad workers and the bombers that the Provisional Government has asked the Allies for 1300 locomotives to replace those destroyed.

It was pointed out that while the great majority of union members were true to the French people, there were a few false labor leaders as there were traitors in other walks of life. These formed the phony Vichyite National Workers Union, which did not deceive the rank and file of the workers.

Union members also joined the Maquis in fighting the Germans. They became parts of units that were formed or were in the precess of being organized. Often union members became the leaders of Maquis units.



Steel Case to Board; Expect Decision Oct. 15

The Natl. War Labor Board was chewing its collective cud over the Little Steel wage case this week, with a report expected to come forth for President Roosevelt's consumption—hopefully by Oct. 15.

Meanwhile, in a nationwide broadcast over CBS, Philip Murray, president of CIO and of the United Steelworkers, warned:

"The Little Steel formula is tending to hold back the war production program. This formula, which is more than two years old, holds wages and salaries down to a level but 15 percent above Jan., 1941.

"The formula was based upon conditions in May, 1942, when living costs supposedly had risen only 15 percent above Jan., 1941. Wages and salaries, being tied to living costs by the formula, were frozen at this 15 percent point.

"This freezing of wages and salaries has worked a great hardship upon the vast majority of American people because the cost of living has multiplied—not twice as much as the Little Steel formula allows, but three times as much."

Final arguments before the Board were presented by Lee Pressman, general counsel for CIO and the union, who declared that if the premise of the steel makers is accepted—that the industry will operate at 60 percent of productive capacity after the war—then the nation must accept the premise that the steel industry and other industries will suffer from severe unmployment.

The Board late last week heard representatives of eight other CIO unions which presented their arguments in favor of junking the Steel formula and of substituting a policy which would bring frozen wages into line with rising prices.

WARNS OF FRUSTRATION

Pres. R. J. Thomas of the CIO United Auto Workers warned that workers are evidencing "a mounting sense of frustration" over delays in WLB procedure which keep them from getting wage increases in time to meet price increases.

"That such a lack of confidence in the Board exists among rank and file workers is a fact of which cognizance must be taken," he declared. "It can be neglected only at the peril of the whole war effort.

Representing the CIO United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, with more than 300,000 workers directly affected by cases before the Board, Washington Rep. Neil Brandt asked:

"How high does the cost of living have to go before the WLB will recognize its responsibilities to the American wage earner?"

MANPOWER SHORTAGE

Pres. Emil Rieve of the CIO Textile Workers told the Board that a shortage of manpower in the textile industry, due to a low wage policy, is the biggest single factor in holding up war production.

He submitted a brief showing that 90 percent of the workers in southern mills earn less than the 72.7 cents an hour a WPA emergency budget fixes as necessary for maintenance of health and efficiency.

Other points of argument, which in effect repeated those already made by the Steelworkers in previous panel and Board hearings, were presented for their unions by:

Pres. Sherman Dalrymple and Gen. Counsel G. L. Patterson, Rubber Workers; Isadore Katz and Sol Barkin, Textile; Ralph Helstein, Packing; W. T. Lewis, Glass; N. A. Zonarich and Ben Fischer, USA; Pres. Donald Henderson, Cannery, and Pres. Lewis Merrill, Office Workers.

CIO Convention To Be Held In Chicago Nov. 20

The 7th Annual Convention of the CIO will be held beginning Monday, Nov. 20, at the Hotel Stevens in Chicago, CIO Pres. Philip Murray announced this week.

Calling for action and cooperation now in order to secure full employment, full production, and an annual living wage for all workers, Murray in the convention call warned of reactionaries' attempt to halt the people's cause.

Farmers Solvent Plus Under New Deal Plans

By C. W. FOWLER

U. S. farmers have received from the New Deal the best prices for their products, possess the largest capital setup and have more security than ever before in their history, either in war or peace.

These apparently sweeping statements are based on an official Government report prepared as far back as last June, using statistics from a variety of Government agencies, but unfortunately suppressed because the agency preparing it is afraid it might be accused of "politics" in releasing it in an election year.

The report is a complete answer to Republican charges that the New Deal has "ruined" the farmers. that its regulations and price policies are "regimenting" the farmer into poverty, and that FDR and the New Deal generally favor only the workers at the expense of the rest of the country.

The report completely backs up Philip Murray's contention that the income and living standards of workers have stood still or retreated while those of farmers and business have gone ahead. CIO, Murray has pointed out, does not object to the farmers getting a good break or industry its profit guarantees, but it does seek equal consideration for labor in revision of the Little Steel wage formula.

THE FIGURES SHOW

Official figures in the suppressed report show that net farm income during this war is $4,000,000,000 above the previous all-time high of 1919.

They show that the prices of things farmers sell are up 118 per cent, while the prices of things they buy are up 38 per cent—giving the farmer an edge of 80 per cent.

They show that rural bank deposits are up 199 per cent.

They show the lowest level of distress sales of farms in 18 years.

They show that farm mortgage debt has gone down from nearly $7 billion in 1939 to less than $6 billion in 1944, while the price of farm land is up 36 per cent in the same period.

They show the number of farm animals up 31 per cent for beef cattle; 10 per cent for dairy cattle; 91 per cent for hogs; 41 per cent up for poultry.

They show the greatest overall farm production in history, with an increase of 21 per cent between 1939 and 1943. This contrasts with a 5 per cent increase in 1914-17.

They show, finally, that farm operators' net income has increased 182 per cent between 1939 and 1943.

POSTWAR PROSPECTS

After the last war, farm prices, which had become seriously inflated due to lack of price control, collapsed. The collapse came with the "back to normalcy" of the Republicans under first Harding, then Coolidge and finally Hoover. For example, farm income which was $8.79 billion in 1919 under Wilson shrank to $2.99 billion in 1921 under Harding.

By 1933, after four years of Hoover, distress sales of farms—i.e., foreclosed mortgages, tax sales and the like—were 54.1 per cent of the total of all farm sales. By 1943, after 10 years of FDR, the proportion was down to 6.6 per cent.

The biggest collapse in farm income came after World War I, with the advent of the GOP in Federal office.

This time, under FDR's leadership, the farmers are protected from postwar collapse. The Stabilization Extension Act passed this summer provides that farm prices shall be supported at parity or at the highest price received from Jan. 1 to Sept. 1, 1942.

In other words, farmers are guaranteed the income level they've been getting during the present war. No matter what happens to prices, they will get their parity level, which means that they get enough for the products to equal the cost of the things they have to buy.

ANSWER TO GOP

Dewey, who pretends to be a farm expert, will have a hard time answering these figures—if they are made known to the farmers. The farm vote is important in the election, just as important as the workers' vote.

Many farmers have been confused by the welter of outright lies that the Dewey men have been spreading among them. They know they're doing OK, because they can see the evidence in their own incomes and their economic position. But they don't always remember that FDR's administration has made their good position possible.

Anything that union members can do to bring these facts to their attention will help both farmers and workers together. Workers are not jealous over the fact that farmers have fared well under FDR. They have a natural desire to achieve the same degree of security for themselves.

The only way that degree of security can be kept for the farmers, for industry and be attained by the workers is through the election of FDR and a progressive Congress on Nov. 7.

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933

Of The CIO NEWS published weekly at Washington, D. C., for 1944.
District of Columbia, ss.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the District of Columbia aforesaid, personally appeared Len DeCaux, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Editor of The CIO NEWS and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication to the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, as amended by the Act of March 3, 1933, embodied in section 537, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are: Publisher, Congress of Industrial Organizations, 718 Jackson Place, NW, Washington, D. C.; Editor, Len DeCaux, 718 Jackson Place, NW, Washington, D.C.; Managing Editor, none; Business Managers, none.

2. That the owner is: (If owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated and also immediately thereunder the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding one per cent or more of total amount of stock. If not owned by a corporation, the names and addresses of the individual owners must be given. If owned by a firm, company, or other unincorporated concern, its name and address, as well as those of each individual member, must be given.) Congress of Industrial Organizations, 718 Jackson Place NW, Washington 6, D. C.; Philip Murray, President; J. B. Carey, Secretary; Joseph Curran, Vice-Pres.; S. H. Dalrymple, Vice-Pres.; Albert Fitzgerald, Vice-Pres.; John Green, Vice-Pres.; Allan S. Haywood, Vice-Pres.; Emil Rieve, Vice-Pres.; Reid Robinson, Vice-Pres.; Frank Rosenblum, Vice-Pres.; R. J. Thomas, Vice-Pres.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.) None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only a list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in case where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustees or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the twelve months preceding the date shown above is —. (This information is required from daily publications only.)

(Signed) LEN DeCAUX.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 22nd day of September, 1944.
(Seal) MARGUERITE N. CARROLL
(My commission expires 1-15-45.)

CIO UNION CHARGES

Transit Strike Report Used As Political Weapon

A charge that the "Republican high command" and reactionary employers were hoping to use the Philadelphia transit strike as a political weapon against President Roosevelt was made last week by Vice Pres. James J. Fitzsimon of the CIO Transport Workers Union after a Federal grand jury indicted 30 strikers on charges of violations of the Smith-Connally Act.

"The report of the grand jury coupled with the indictment only of the PTC employes, shows beyond any doubt, it was dominated by reactionary partisan Republican thinking," Fitzsimon said.

"The criticism directed against the CIO which has fought for equal rights for all, against wartime strikes, and has made possible the greatest industrial production in the nations history, and the commendation of company unionism clearly show the profound anti-labor bias of the grand jury.

"Notwithstanding the fact that there were those within the ranks of the company who bear primary responsibility for the stoppage which took place during the first week of October, no one connected with the management has been indicted or even criticized."

Fitzsimon charged that "several innocent workers" were indicted in an attempt "to whitewash the real instigators of the strike located in high places in industry, city government and Republican organizations".

The outlaw strike occured last October as a result of the upgrading of eight Negro workers after the Philadelphia Transportation Co. had been ordered by the Fair Employment Practices Committee to cease discrimination against Negroes.

The TWU fought the strike from its beginning, and its international and local leaders pleaded with the men to return to work. The stand of the TWU against the strike drew a public statement of approval from CIO Pres. Philip Murray.

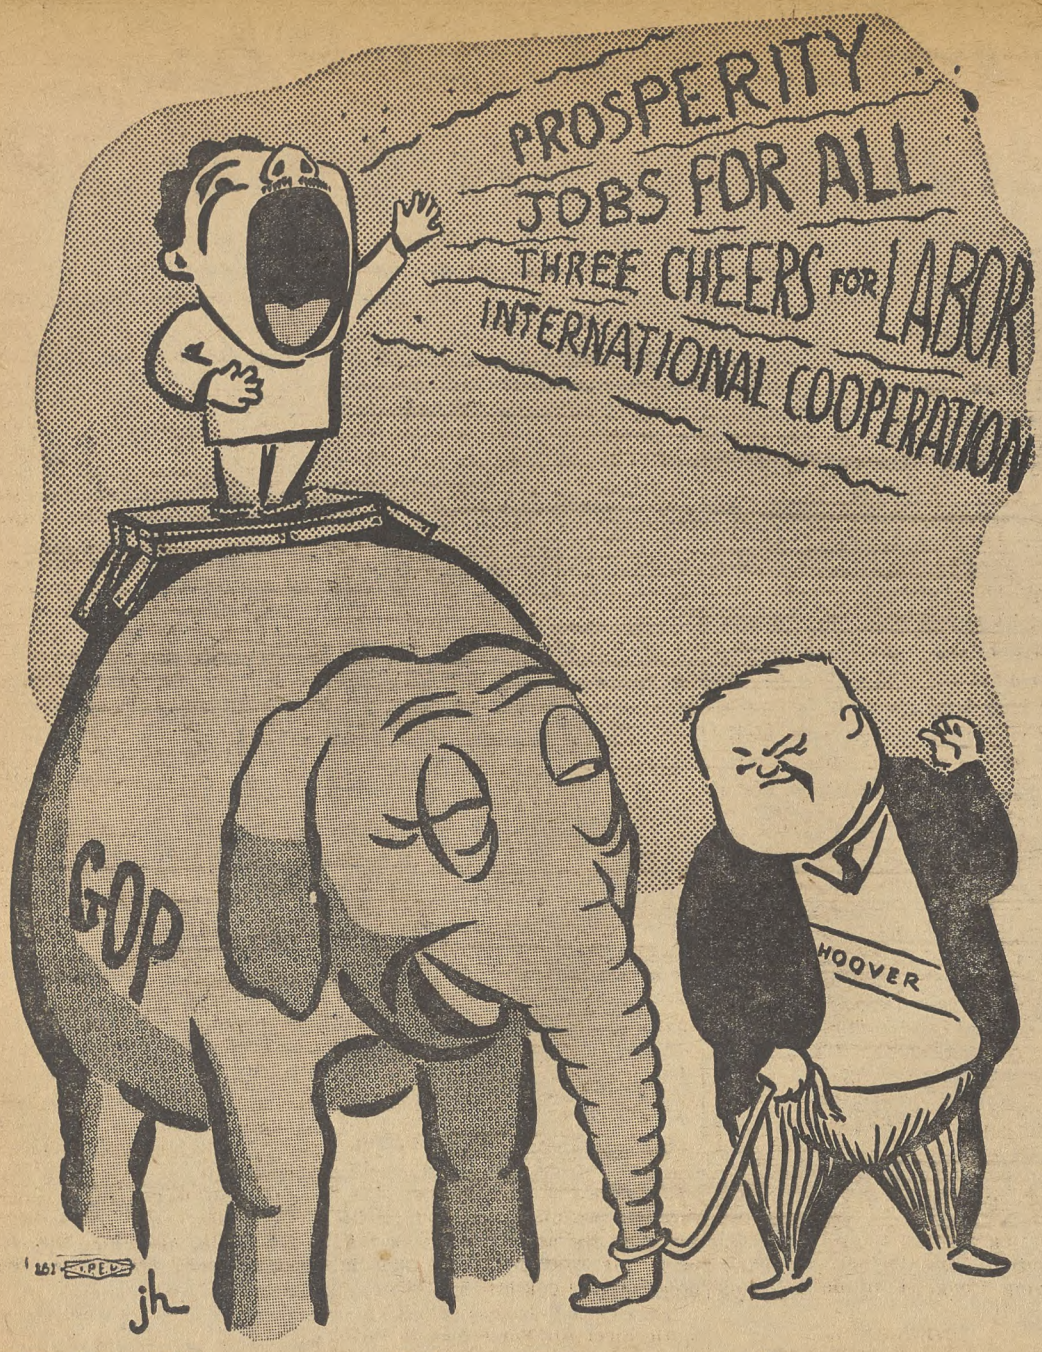
The strike was broken after the Army took over the transportation facilities and several leaders, including some of the officers of the old company union, which the TWU had defeated in a NLRB election, were arrested.

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

UNION MADE
MONTHLY
DUES BUTTONS
RIBBON BADGES
AND EMBLEMS
C. M. Geraghty, Inc.
500 Sherman Street, Chicago

A WIN-THE-WAR MOVIE WITH A REAL WALLOP
HELL BENT FOR ELECTION

CAPTIVATING NEW, COLOR CARTOON FILM Featuring The Gay Song Hit "GOTTA GET OUT and VOTE" Music by Earl Robinson Lyrics by E. Y. Harburg
The American People on the WIN-THE-WAR SPECIAL behind F.D.R. vs. the DEFEATIST LIMITED
ACT NOW! BOOK IT FOR YOUR SPECIFIC MEETING DATES!
Service Points Nation-Wide
BRANDON FILMS
1600 BROADWAY • NEW YORK 19, N. Y.



FDR Shows Up Deweyites

Pres. Roosevelt's criticisms of the miserably inadequate reconversion bill passed by Congress illuminate the contrast between his attitude and that of his political opposition.

Last June, Roosevelt urged unified programs for the demobilization and re-employment of civilian war workers, with appropriate unemployment benefits. His running-mate, Senator Truman, jointly with Senators Kilgore and Murray, sponsored the labor-backed bill that was designed to achieve these purposes.

But the Dewey-Republicans ganged up with anti-New Deal Democrats to defeat the Kilgore-Murray-Truman bill, and to strip from even the inadequate George bill its few protections for laid-off workers.

Roosevelt declares the bill finally passed "does not adequately deal with the human side of reconversion." He denounces its failure to prescribe federal standards of unemployment compensation, to provide any benefits for federal employes and to pay transportation costs for laid-off workers stranded far from home—and calls for the prompt rectifying of these deficiencies.

Roosevelt further notes that Congress has provided prompt and generous settlements for business interests, and declares: "We should be no less fair in our treatment of our war workers."

When Dewey and his crowd speak of reconversion, ram down their throats their shameful record in Congress—and vote for a President and members of Congress who will give fair treatment to labor.

Union Figures Tell A Story

Union membership figures compiled by the research department of the CIO Political Action Committee point a moral which all labor unionists should ponder in this election year.

In 1920, following the last world war, total union membership in the United States was 4,078,740. But in that year, the reactionary and anti-labor Harding administration was elected, with a "back-to-normalcy" program not dissimilar to that of Dewey today.

As a result of the union-busting open-shop drives of that regime, union membership dropped to 2,877,297 by 1925.

Then followed the long years of Coolidge and Hoover reaction, in which big business was in the saddle riding roughshod over labor's rights. These resulted not only in the hideous Hoover depression but also in a union membership drop to 2,532,261 in 1932.

By this time, however, the American people had learnt its lesson and the New Deal administration of President Roosevelt was swept into office.

The right to organize was protected by its NRA and Wagner Act, and union membership rose to 3,750,000 in 1935. With the aid of CIO it doubled between 1936 and 1939, reaching a total of 8,000,000. Since then, under the Roosevelt administration, union membership has continued to rise, until this year it is estimated at 13,750,000.

On November 7, America will go to the polls. It can elect Pres. Roosevelt and a progressive Congress, with the assurance that labor's rights will continue to be protected and expanded. Or it can elect Dewey and his assorted reactionaries, with the knowledge that his anti-labor supporters will be pressuring for a return to the union-busting of the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover regimes.

Labor voters should have little difficulty in deciding which choice to make.

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

GARBAGE-DISPOSAL is an unpleasant but necessary job. So let's hold our noses and dispose quickly of the Hitler left-overs whose stench is becoming unbearable in this election campaign.

Sample No. 1 is an oversized postcard with the American fascist slogan, "Wake Up America!" on it, carrying excerpts from a speech of fascist origin red-baiting the Roosevelt administration, and with such catchlines as "Browder, Hillman and the Communists will vote—will you?"

More than three million copies of this smelly stuff have been mailed at a public expense of $50,000 through the connivance of 13 Republican members of Congress, including the perfumed Mrs. Clare Boothe Clare.

★ ★ ★

Sample No. 2 is billboards posted in the Pittsburgh area proclaiming: "It's YOUR country—Why let Sidney Hillman run it?"

To which even the Republican Post-Gazette rejoined: "Sure—it's YOUR country, but it's Hillman's, too."

★ ★ ★

Sample No. 3 is that open sewer and public nuisance, the Dies committee, now conducted by lame-duck Congressmen rejected by the voters and thirsting for revenge.

The daily output of unsupported smears from this discredited committee has become so fantastic and ridiculous, and its anti-New Deal malice so obvious, that many reputable publications no longer consider it news.

★ ★ ★

For further samples, in any quantity, refer to the daily columns of the Hearst and Scripps-Howard press, the Chicago Tribune and most of the rest of the anti-Roosevelt press.

There you will find an endless stream of red-baiting, scarcely veiled appeals to racial prejudice and other similar propaganda to divide the American people and the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

Top leaders in the Dewey camp self-righteously disclaim any thought of appealing to racial, religious and national prejudice.

But they cannot deny their propaganda strategy has been to single out Sidney Hillman for more personal attention than any other opponent.

Nor are they unaware that this leads to constant references to his race and national origin, to exaggerated cartoons, and to other race-baiting ranging from the sly and subtle to outright anti-Semitism.

★ ★ ★

If there is some attempt to disguise or disclaim appeals to racial prejudice, no similar attempt is made in regard to the equally Hitleresque tactic of red-baiting.

Dewey's side-kick, Bricker, indulges in it openly, blatantly and unashamedly in nearly every speech, and Dewey himself employs it. The "red bogey," in fact, seems to have become the Deweyites' chief stock-in-trade.

The aim of this tactic, copied from Hitler and Dies, is to create in the minds of the ignorant and unthinking a fantastic image, like the old cartoons of bewhiskered Bolsheviks with knife in mouth and bomb in hand, and then by baseless insinuation to identify with this bogey every liberal and progressive in public life.

★ ★ ★

These types of propaganda are a measure of the bankruptcy of the Roosevelt opposition.

Realizing they are at a disadvantage in appealing to the intelligence of voters who want a President and Congress that will bring speedy victory, postwar prosperity and international cooperation for lasting peace, the Deweyites are relying less on their candidate's insipid speeches than on appeals to the lowest forms of divisive prejudice.

Their "line" is reminiscent of the propaganda campaign against CIO union organization a few years back.

Little or no attempt was made to argue against the merits of unionism, higher wages and better working conditions—which were the only real issue.

Instead, the red bogey was constantly raised and every other kind of appeal to irrelevant prejudice was made, to divert attention from the real issue and to prevent workers from combining together in their own interests.

★ ★ ★

In their cynical and contemptuous attitude, however, the Deweyites grossly underestimate the intelligence of American voters.

The American people have seen Hitler rise to power on race-baiting and red-baiting, and use these tactics as his chief propaganda weapon to divide and weaken the democracies.

They have seen his "Bolshevik bogey" take shape as a brave people and gallant ally against fascism, whose efforts have saved countless American lives and whose friendship and cooperation are essential for future world peace.

With such lessons in mind, American voters are not likely to be diverted from electing Roosevelt and a progressive Congress by pip-squeak propagandists who rehash Hitler's lies.

The CIO News

Published Weekly

Congress of Industrial Organizations

Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer

Vice-Presidents

Joseph Curran, John Green, Reid Robinson, S. H. Dalrymple, Allan S. Haywood, Frank Rosenblum, Albert Fitzgerald, Emil Rieve, R. J. Thomas

Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director

Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.

Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925

Vol. 7 October 9, 1944 No. 41

Let's Look At The Record—

There's nothing like a good look at the record to set you straight on the election.

Next week (Oct. 16) The CIO NEWS will bring you this record, showing in a special four-page supplement what FDR has done for workers, farmers, businessmen, for the nation.

It will also show what Dewey, Hoover, Dulles and all that gang intend to do if they get a chance—based on their past records and their promises.

Order now from Publicity Dept., CIO, 718 Jackson Place NW, Washington 6, D. C.

Editors: order mats for use in your own papers now. Whole supplement will be profusely illustrated.

Dewey's Dulles—A Smelly Record

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—New chapters in the career of John F. Dulles, Dewey's "expert" on foreign affairs, show him up to be a man of distinctly dubious background and preparation for the job of Secretary of State that he is slated for—if Dewey wins.

According to Drew Pearson, author of the Washington Merry-Go-Round column that ordinarily reaches some 500 newspapers, Dulles has spent a long and profitable career as lawyer and agent in a number of affairs closely connected with fascist financing.

Here's a quote from one of Pearson's latest columns—suppressed by most of the many pro-Dewey and anti-FDR newspapers that syndicate his column:

"Thus the record shows him (Dulles) as arguing personally for Dictator Franco of Spain; having legal relations with Count Rene de Chambrun, son-in-law of Laval, now arrested; discussing plans whereby Swedish SKF (manufacturers of roller bearings) could protect its U. S. plants from seizure as alien property, and repreesnting such clients as the J. Henry Schroeder baking firm, E. K. Halbach, chief owner of General Dyestuff, and N. V. Phillips Gloelampenfabrieken of Eindhoven, Holland."

Describing the Schroeder connection, Pearson points out that Dulles' brother and law partner, Allen Dulles, is a director of the firm whose member, Baron von Schroeder of Germany, helped finance Hitler.

"That was on Jan. 4, 1933, when Hitler had made desperate efforts to get into power but had not succeeded," Pearson wrote in the second of three suppressed columns on Dulles.

"It looked as if he might not succeed at all. Then, suddenly, through Franz von Papen, now retired as Nazi Ambassador to Turkey, Hitler met Banker Baron von Schroder."

This Dulles, it should be remembered, is the man who said in 1939, when hell was breaking loose in Europe: "Only hysteria entertains the idea that Germany, Italy or Japan contemplates war upon us."

This Dulles, it should also be remembered, is the man that Dewey would make Secretary of State—if Dewey gets elected on November 7.

Negro Paper For FDR

The Chicago Defender, one of the foremost Negro newspapers in the nation today, in a two-column, page-one editorial unqualifiedly endorses President Roosevelt for re-election, referring to the President as the "foremost American liberal of our times."

"In an open, above-board battle between liberalism and Bourbonism," states the editorial, "his stand is taken for granted. Nowhere was this better shown than in his stalwart, forthright action in crushing the Philadelphia "white supremacy" transit strike. His record of 12 years on the Negro issue entitles him to recognition as the best President black Americans ever had since Lincoln."

The editorial termed the Grand Old Party as the "Same Old Party of Hoover & Co., steeped in the dangerous brew of isolation and reaction, wedded to the ideology of the bread line and controlled by dyed-in-the-wool Tories."

In opposition to the Republican presidential candidate, the editorial says:

"Governor Dewey in his few campaign speeches has made very clear where he stands. He has stated it openly constantly. He sees the future only in terms of the past—of Republican rule under Hoover and Coolidge."

"A vote for Roosevelt is a vote for the future," declared the Defender. "A vote for Dewey is a step backward into the dark past."

Murray One Of Pittsburghs' 'Greats'--Wallace

CIO Pres. Philip Murray this week received high praise from Vice-Pres. Henry Wallace. Speaking in Pittsburgh, Wallace described Murray as a man whose "life typifies in so many ways all that is best in modern Pittsburgh."

Ranking Murray among the greatest men that the coal city has ever produced, Wallace cited the labor leader's early fight against injustice and lawlessness with the result that "today in the Pittsburgh area there is remarkable harmony between Americans of all races and colors."

Probe of CIO-PAC Boomerangs on GOP

One of the most conspicuous political boomerangs in campaign history is now curving around the necks of the people who first threw it here in Washington.

This boomerang is the GOP-inspired Congressional investigation of labor political action, and particularly of the CIO-PAC, which was to have turned up earth-shaking revelations of huge CIO slush funds, corruption of the electorate, buying-in of the Democratic Party, etc.

This was to be the more "serious" side of the charges against labor political action. The routine chore of red-baiting was left to Dies and the other lame ducks on his un-American committee. That too has been a flop.

TRUTH WILL OUT

Sidney Hillman started the boomerang on the way back to its original launching-site when he testified to the small amounts of money PAC gets from its contributors and asked the House Campaign Expenditures Committee to look into contributions to election funds by the duPonts, the Weirs, the Girdlers and the like.

He started something even more embarrassing to the GOP when he asked the committee to look into Frank E. Gannett's Committee for Constitutional Government, Joe Kamp's pro-fascist Constitutional Education League and G. L. K. Smith's America Firsters.

Following investigations ordered by House Committee Chairman Rep. Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.), these people, and others like them, are seen as openly and brazenly violating the law on political contributions, and further, as openly defying Congress to do anything about it.

UNLUCKY 13

Then, to cap it, 13 Republicans in both House and Senate have been revealed as sponsors of a 3,116,000-piece mailing—at the taxpayers' expense—that contains one of the most vicious attacks on labor yet made.

The attack, in a speech by Rep. Busbey (R., Ill.), was mailed under Congressional frank, at a cost of 18 or 19 tons of paper, and at a money loss to the Government of some $50,000 in postage.

Senators and Representatives who used their free mailing privilege to circulate this attack were: Sen. Moore (Okla.), Clare Boothe Luce (Conn.), Reed (N. Y.), Talle (Ia.), Bennett (Mo.), Carrier (Ky.), Rowe (O.), Woodruff (Mich.), Bates (Mass.), Knutson and Maas (Minn.) and Busbey (Ill.),.

Deep silence has been the only comment from this unlucky 13 of GOP's best since the disclosure was made a week ago. Though the story has made newspaper front pages, no denial, excuse, alibi or cover-up has been attempted—for the very good reason that nothing can be said.

DEFY U. S.

One of the defiant witnesses, Edw. A. Rumely of Gannett's committee, has already been cited for contempt for his refusal to reveal the source of the committee's income. Kamp, of the Constitutional Education League — which was shown by the LaFollette to be neither constitutional nor educational but simply an anti-CIO racket—has also refused, and will presumably also be cited.

Other Dewey backers who have failed to reveal names of contributors and amounts given include the anti-FDR American Democratic National Committee and Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel's (poll-taxer, Tex.) splinter group which has announced it is out to raise $1,000,000.

As the score adds up, the pro-FDR organizations, chiefly the CIO-PAC, are completely in the clear. They were investigated, they appeared, they testified, and have been found OK—except of course by the dead-duck Dies Committee.

But the Republicans and their backers among the pro-fascist fringe are definitely not in the clear. Between them, they've managed to get cited for contempt, are faced with criminal prosecutions, and are seriously involved in spending the taxpayers' money for partisan purposes.

AFL Agent Boosts PAC

New York, Oct. 7—Here's the way one U. S. Navy man, who also happens to be a former AFL Business Agent, feels about CIO-PAC and the way it's rallying the people to vote for FDR and a progressive Congress in 1945.

It's a letter from a U. S. Atlantic Fleet Air Force man to PAC headquarters here, and it says:

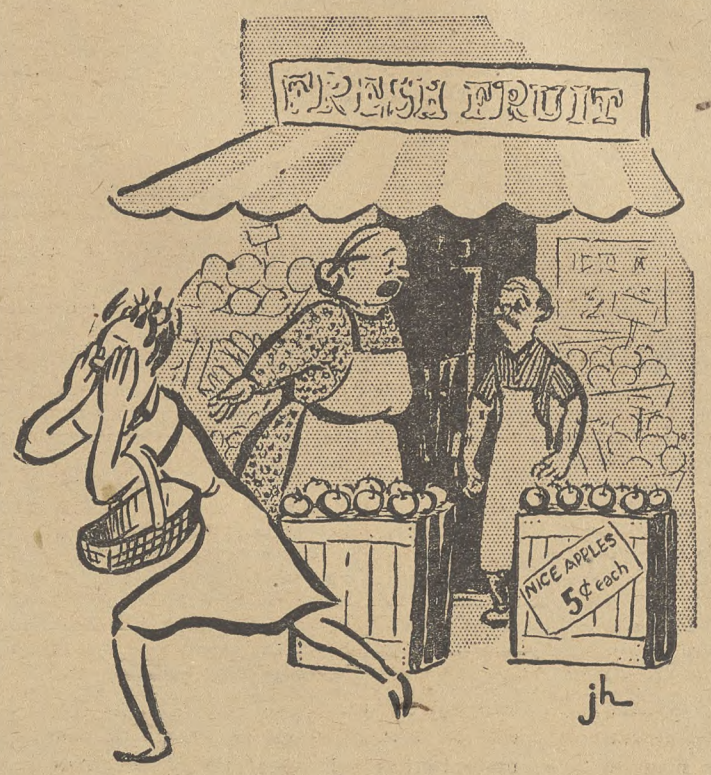
"I am highly interested in the coming election and through your earnest effort have received my War Ballot. Being a Business Agent myself (AFL) I can appreciate your well-organized effort.

"In the near future I am to address the entire membership of my local in New York City and would appreciate if you would send me any or all of your political leaflets, especially your 'Manual on Public Speaking.'

"Realizing this work entails tremendous monetary efforts on your part, advise me by return mail of the cost of these leaflets and I'll send check for same."

Barney Ross Heads Youth For FDR

Formation of a nation-wide non-partisan movement of young voters to work for the re-election of President Roosevelt was announced recently in New York City by Barney Ross, cochairman of the group, which will be known as Young Americans for Roosevelt. Ross, a Guadalcanal marine hero, is the former lightweight and welterweight boxing champion.



"SHE SAID IT REMINDED HER OF THE REPUBLICAN POST-WAR PLANS"

Register To Vote—It's Your Duty!

By HOWARD FAST

Author of "Freedom Road"

If the actual casting of the ballot is today one of the prime duties of the American citizen—then surely registration is a fourfold obligation. Yet with all the talk of the necessity to vote, it is possible that once again, as so often in the past, election day will find thousands of citizens regretting the fact that they did not register.

How can we prevent this? Certainly, if we consider the two, voting and registration—registration becomes the more important factor, the decisive factor, the decision to vote which brings with it the right to vote.

A campaign must be fought, immediately and fiercely, to bring home to Americans that registration, and registration alone, enables the citizen of a democracy to exercise his prime democratic function. He must register consciously and willingly, as an individual, without the prompting of a machine; he must talk registration and promote registration, even more than he talks and promotes the actual vote.

He must understand how registration is not merely red tape, not merely a nuisance, but a safeguard of the ballot, a safeguard that has been worked out over many years —years of strife, years during which rotten politics was toppled from its place in American civil life.

Only a strong, purposeful campaign for registration can bring out the vote. And only if the vote is brought out, as it was never brought out before, can the progressive elements in American life triumph in the forthcoming election.

"WE BELONG," these young women seem to be thinking as they eagerly hurry to work. "A Woman's Guide to Political Action," CIO Political Action pamphlet, says that by fighting the jobs-for-all program reactionaries plan to throw them out of their jobs. That Roosevelt and a progressive Congress will assure them their retention in industry is the moral.

Your Future Depends On FDR's Reelection, Women Told By PAC

"A Woman's Guide to Political Action," pamphlet of the CIO Political Action Committee, marshals the facts showing why women should vote and work for the election of Roosevelt and a progressive congress.

"Since the inception of our Republic," says CIO Pres. Philip Murray in the introduction, "women have been on the forefront of every progressive movement which has increased and secured our Democracy. . . . I know the women of America will not fail us."

NO SEX IN VOTING

Plunging into the subject of women as voters, the pamphlet states that "at the voting polls there are no separate booths reserved for 'Gentlemen' and for 'Ladies.' A vote is a vote—and sex has nothing to do with it . . . we estimate that women will cast 60 per cent of the total vote in November of 1944.

"Women should take advantage of this numerical superiority at the polls. Because women will be affected by the outcome of the forthcoming elections just as much as men."

"But none compare in importance with the election of 1944," says the pamphlet after reviewing important presidential elections of our history. ". . . . The outcome of this election of 1944 will have a bearing on how decisive will be our victory over the Axis. The outcome of the election of 1944 will determine how secure we shall make our peace.

WAR AGAINST POVERTY

"The election of 1944 will decide whether we shall have full employment after the war and win our war over Poverty, Illness and Ignorance."

"Fully one-third of all civilian employes today are women," the pamphlet points out, and then gives reasons why women should receive equal pay for equal work, a principle which has been resisted by large segments of industry.

"President Roosevelt and the War Labor Board which he created have gone far toward establishing the 'equal pay' principle. Under President Roosevelt this battle can be completely won," CIO-PAC declares in the attractively illustrated booklet.

The most pressing need of women in industry is care of their children while they are at work. Steps to meet this need have been taken in the Federal child-care and school lunch programs, but much remains to be done.

FDR FOR U.S. HEALTH

The pamphlet sets forth that President Roosevelt and his Administration are well aware of the problems, for, he said:

"All Americans want this country to be a place where children can live in safety and grow in understanding of the part they must play in the Nation's future.

"If anywhere in the country any child lacks opportunity for home life, for health protection, for education, for moral or spiritual development, the strength of the Nation and its ability to cherish and advance the principles of democracy are thereby weakened."

In a chapter on "A Padded Cell for the HCL" (High Cost of Living), how ceiling prices, rationing and subsidies have prevented prices from skyrocketing as they did during World War I is graphically told.

Health advances under President Roosevelt are recited as the purposes of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill, which would bring medical care to a the people, are clearly stated.

Re-election of Roosevelt and the election of a progressive Congress will make possible an expanded health program.

Women will go back to the kitchen, if the reactionaries have their way, says the pamphlet in another chapter telling how a progressive government will provide a jobs-for-all program in which women will be assured of continued employment.

The answer to the reactionaries will be that "the first step forward is the eradication of discrimination" against women and Negroes, with whose economic fate the former are tied.

DISCRIMINATION VARIES

"Discrimination is like a weathervane—it points only in one direction. But it also shifts with the wind," says the pamphlet, which gives practical steps to end discrimination under an enlightened government.

How women's lot is also tied up with the kind of international order we have is the subject of several paragraphs, and in others a warning sounded against forces behind Dewey and Bricker, who would destroy the very principles for which the sons, husbands and brothers of women are fighting.

Naming the Loyal American Mothers; We, the Mothers, Mobilize for America; Mothers of Sons Forum; National Blue Star Mothers of America and Mothers and Daughters of Pennsylvania as organizations solidly behind Dewey and as seeking to sow disunity, the pamphlet calls on women to unite with church, truly patriotic or civic organizations to rout these groups by re-electing Roosevelt.

PAC LOGICAL STEP

Because CIO believes in all the things advocated in the booklet, the logical step was to organize politically through PAC to assure the people that these objectives would be obtained.

In short order, CIO-PAC became "a popular people's movement" and the next logical step was to utilize the broader base by setting up the National Citizens' PAC.

It is pointed out that PAC is not a political party, but is "dedicated to the task of educating the people to use their votes or political strength for the protection of their rights and interests."

(This pamphlet may be obtained from CIO Political Action Committee, 205 E. 42nd St., New York 17, N. Y.)

By ELEANOR FOWLER

Secretary-Treasurer, CIO Women's Auxiliaries

The clothing shortage is an issue which is very close to the heart of the women of this country. When we can find garments we need the price is so high and the quality so poor we buy them only in desperation. And if we have children under 12, ourselves wear a size under 44 or larger, or need durable work clothes—overalls and work gloves for our husbands — we're often completely out of luck.

One of the auxiliary officers, not long ago, met a friend sobbing on a bus. She offered her help, but the woman replied: "I don't know what to do. I've had my three children downtown shopping for seven hours and I can't find a thing for them to wear."

It's time for us to stop sobbing on our neighbor's shoulders and griping to our friends. This is a political action issue and if we approach it that way there are things we can do that will get results.

The CIO Auxiliaries have issued a petition, an Open Letter on Clothes, addressed to Mr. A. J. Krug, head of the War Production Board. It calls on him to use the war powers which WPB has to see to it that serviceable cloth is made and used for clothes the people need. It asks him to set standards to make sure these clothes will wear, and to give OPA a basis on which to set price ceilings so that we can afford to buy them.

REASONS FOR PROTEST

We don't want in any way to interfere with the requirements of our armed forces. Their needs come first. But our shops are full of cloth so flimsy that it doesn't pay to sew it, of garments so sleezy and so poorly cut it's a complete waste of money to buy them, and of expensive cotton dresses we can't afford.

We think that the plants which are now being used to turn out these useless products should be used to meet the needs of our people—and that's what we ask of WPB.

This is a campaign in which we can get the help of most American housewives. And it will give us a chance to explain to them the urgent need for women to take part in political action. One of the reasons WPB has done nothing and allowed this clothing crises to develop is because they've been afraid of Congress.

REPUBLICANS' ROLE

The Republican leaders on the Hill shout continually about the sanctity of usual business practices. Our present Congressmen and Senators spend lots of time pressuring OPA and WPB for price increases and special concessions for their business friends. They haven't gone to Mr. Krug asking for decent clothes for us.

We have a chance to change all that November 7 and we must point that out to every woman who signs our Open Letter on Clothes. Our votes will determine whether Congress will back the policy of our President for a stable wartime economy for our country and jobs and security in the peace to come.

For copies of the "Open Letter on Clothes" write to Congress of Women's Auxiliaries of the CIO, 1019 - 15th St., N.W., Washington, D. C.

'Digest' Not Digest, Probe Reveals

The Reader's Digest, allegedly a condensation of periodical literature, is floundering in hot water.

Investigating charges of anti-Semitism, and of anti-Negro, anti-labor, and anti-Roosevelt bias fired at the RD by publications and individuals from two continents, the Natl. Council of Teachers of English has issued a 16-page, single-spaced analysis of the Digest. Their inquiries pin the RD in a suffocating corner.

What is the Reader's Digest? This question was flung at DeWitt Wallace, editor, by the council. In his reply he said that the question is best answered through a careful examination of the magazine itself with reference to all the articles published over a period of one, two or three years.

ANALYZED CONTENTS

And this is exactly what the Council did. Asking the question, "Is the RD really a Digest," they analyzed the articles appearing from Jan., 1943, to July, 1944. Here's what they found:

1. 45% did not appear in magazines or newspapers before the editors of the Digest saw them.

2. 33% were "editorially planned."

3. 19% of those appearing originally in the Digest, or which appeared later digested by the magazine, were signed by editors of the RD.

A breakdown of the Dec., 1943, issue shows:

1. Five original articles written by the staff.

2. Six digested articles which appeared elsewhere first, but which were originally written by the staff.

3. Seven original articles written by others than the staff.

4. Eleven others, of which one was "editorially planned."

AROUND U.S. WITH THE CIO

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

CIO Reg. Dir. Geo. Craig of Philadelphia, reports: McCann Manufacturing Co., Inc., ork, Pa., USA-CIO 68, Against 61.

John J. Maurillo, CIO Sub-Reg., Syracuse, N. Y., reports: American Locomotive Works, Auburn, N. Y., USA-CIO 100; No Union 47. Brothers Bert Danquer and John Kowalski of the USA directed the drive.

The United Automobile Workers, CIO, won an election among the employes of the Gray Wire Specialty Co., Cleveland, Ohio, by three to one. The drive was conducted by Intl. Rep. Stanley Kwiat and Bus. Agent of the Local 217, Clinton Bell. Negotiations for a contract will start immediately.

Reg. Dir. Paul R. Christopher advises: United Transport Service Employes won an election among Red Caps of Union Terminal in Memphis, by a vote of 24 for CIO as against 4. Brother W. A. Copeland, CIO Sub-Regional Director reports this NLRB victory.

Wm. B. Taylor, Dir. Org. OWIU-CIO Campaign, reports: Sohio Pipeland, CIO 51; Against 25.

Reg. Dir. C. H. Gillman, Georgia, reports: Swift Packinghouse, Moultrie, Ga., CIO 353; No Union 33. This drive was under the direction of Southern Director G. R. Hathaway, of the United Packinghouse Workers.

CIO Reg. Dir. Ben Henry of Des Moines, Ia., reports: Rankin Manufacturing Co. plant, Waterloo, Iowa, CIO Amalgamated Workers 89; Against 21.

CIO Reg. Dir. Jos. M. Walsh of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., advises: United Gas, Coke, Chemical Workers won collective bargaining rights for employes of the Atlas Powder Co. plant at White Haven, Pa., CIO 141; No Union 74. CIO Field Rep. Fred Fudge informs us that the union has prepared a draft of a proposed contract which will be presented with the request for early negotiations.

The Indus. Un. Marine and Shipbuilding Workers held their convention last week in Atlantic City. There was a lot of energy displayed and the CIO programs endorsed by the Union was fully sustained. Pres. John Green, Vice-Pres. Grogan and Sec. Van Gelder were all reelected. The enthusiasm that greeted full support of Pres. Roosevelt for reelection was tremendous. This union has made splendid progress both in building up its membership and obtaining results for them.

This makes four powerful unions of the CIO which have met within a period of about two weeks, all of which have overwhelmingly endorsed the policies of the CIO and reelected their officers who have effectuated these policies.

Last week the United Shoe Workers met in Chicago. The writer addressed that convention as well as the State Council convention in Missouri. Following the victory at three plants of the West Virginia Paper & Pulp Co., a meeting of the Paper Workers Organizing Committee is called for Cleveland on Tuesday, Oct. 10. The Ohio State Council convention will be in session at the same time. Plans will be laid at this PWOC meeting for intensification of the organizing of the unorganized in this industry.

Consternation prevails in the anti-union camp of the Nation and their guns are trained on the CIO's Political Action Committee. Every foul untruth that can be uttered is being printed, but the members of the CIO are used to these attacks. They serve only to rally our people and to make them more united in their efforts. As a result, registration of workers is rolling merrily along and the support for the Commander-in-Chief, President Roosevelt and a progressive Congress is getting stronger every day.

Under the guise of free press our enemies are resorting to every known trick to deceive in an attempt to poison the minds of the people of the Nation. Our No. 1 job between now and November 7th is to keep our political activity going and work for the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as President so that we can be assured of a continued aggressive war policy and an early, sound and lasting peace.

Shipbuilders Hold Lively Convention

By HOLLACE RANSDELL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 7—Johnnie Green, as he is affectionately called by members of the CIO Marine & Shipbuilding Workers, had a job on his hands presiding over the convention of the rambunctious young giant of a union in session here Sept. 28-Oct. 4.

Pres. Green has seen his union grow from a few thousand members ten years ago to more than 400,000 today, making it the CIO's fourth largest international. And he has grown with it. Even his enemies, and there were very few of them at the convention—he was re-elected by a vote of 801 to 141—would have to admit that Johnnie Green presided with outstanding skill and fairness over even the stormiest sessions.

Friend and foe alike were firmly hammered to order by Green's gavel when necessary, and his rulings were often tempered with wit. It was a democratically run convention. At one time when an anti-administration delegate was loudly demanding the floor, which had at the moment been given to somebody else, Green shouted in his rich Scotch burr, "You'll get the floor if I have to tear it up and give it to you myself!"

Quotes From Speakers

Henry Wallace

Stressing the importance of expanding foreign trade to assure full post-war employment, Vice-Pres. Wallace said: "Only through a program of planned expansion of the domestic economy and of foreign trade" can shipyard, aircraft and other workers have jobs after the war.

He urged the need of active political support for Roosevelt up to day of election, in cooperation with other democratic groups, and attacked those who are trying to drive a wedge between farmers and workers.

Philip Murray

"The future of the labor movement of America and particularly the CIO, hangs upon organized labor's willingness to keep the no-strike pledge."

Warning against the notion the war is almost over and the no-strike pledge can be withdrawn, the CIO president said: "The primary duty of labor is still, above all, to see to it that victory is won and won speedily."

Hitting at the Republican critics of PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman, who are attacking him on a racial basis, Murray said: "If a McGillicuddy headed the PAC instead of Hillman, they would try to do the same thing . . . This is a campaign to tear down the leadership of an organization where efforts to kill the institution failed."

In outlining the CIO's post-war plan, Murray advocated vast expansion of the aircraft and auto industry; nation-wide low-cost housing; vast road construction program; building of schools and hospitals and stimulation of foreign trade.

IMPORTANT SPEAKERS

The importance with which the shipbuilders union is regarded today was shown by the number of distinguished outside speakers who came to address the convention: Vice Pres. Henry Wallace, CIO Pres. Philip Murray, Sen. Claude Pepper, PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman, UAW Pres. R. J. Thomas, Under Sec. of the Navy Ralph A. Bard and that grand old patriarch of the labor movement, Charlie Erwin, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, who told the delegates he was celebrating his 80th birthday and still going strong for labor.

All, in their own way, urged the shipyard workers to work actively for the election of the Roosevelt-Truman ticket in November.

Liveliest debate at the convention was on the resolution to reaffirm the no-strike pledge, though the final vote showed that the opposition had more noise than power. Only a few scattered hands were raised to oppose the pledge, whereupon Al Myers, pres., Local 42, at the Cramp Shipyard, Philadelphia, who presented the minority resolution opposing the no-strike pledge, announced from the platform that his group was willing to withdraw its opposition and make the decision unanimous.

"On us, the Shipyard Workers of America, falls the responsibility of seeing to it that the ships so necessary to victory are delivered," the resolution stated, and called for a re-affirmation of the no-strike pledge "until the war has finally been won, both in the West and the East."

Earlier the convention unanimously endorsed President Roosevelt for re-election and Sen. Truman for Vice President, and called upon "all the nation's shipyard workers to work unceasingly for their election."

Some opposition was expressed from the floor on a resolution supporting the Natl. War Labor Board as an agency but criticizing its policies, but after prolonged debate, the resolution was passed.

It urged "complete support of the NWLB as an agency which must be continued to resolve in a peaceful manner the industrial disputes that arise between management and labor," and condemned the "interminable delays in the disposition of cases."

The resolution also endorsed the position of the CIO executive board and requested the CIO president to appoint a committee of five to present a statement of abuses heaped upon labor through the board's policies. In addition, officers of the shipyard union were authorized to appoint a committee to take up their grievances with the board.

RED BAITING OPPOSED

Following a speech by PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman, in which he told of being made the target of every possible kind of red-baiting, the convention passed a resolution condemning those "reactionary forces in this country whose candidate is Thomas E. Dewey and who are now resorting to Hitlerite tactics of red baiting in attacking the CIO and our Political Action Committee."

In their efforts to beat Roosevelt, these forces, stated the resolution, "have adopted red-baiting as their major weapon of confusing the American people and disrupting our national unity."

The convention later approved a resolution to have the union's general executive board review the case of Irving Velson, Brooklyn Local 13, who was removed from the board on the charge of being a Communist, under a clause in the constitution barring Communists from holding office. Velson denied the charge.

On Tuesday the convention elected officers for the coming year. In addition to Pres. Green, Sec.-Treas. Phil Van Gelder now in the Army, and Vice Pres. John J. Grogan of Hoboken, were both re-elected.

Grogan was re-elected unanimously, and Van Gelder defeated Herbert Moyer, Cramp Shipyard Local 42, Philadelphia, by a of 796 to 138. Thomas Saul, Camden, N. J., Local 1, who ran against Pres. Green, was defeated 801 to 141.

New members elected to the executive board were: C. R. Brown, San Pedro, Calif.; R. Blood, Camden, N. J.; Charles W. Hansen, Mobile, Ala; Nat Levin, Kearney, N J.; Ben Maiatico, Camden, and Walter McManamon, Baltimore.

Re-elected to the board were: Richard Bersch, Brooklyn; Richard Carter, Bay City, Mich.; Thomas Flynn, Staten Island, N. Y.; and Andrew Pettis, Portland, Me.

Shoe Workers Strong For FDR No-Strike Pledge

By ERNEST CALLOWAY

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct.7—Representing more than 100,000 members from 26 states, the CIO United Shoe Workers meeting this week in its fourth annual convention called for the re-election of Pres. Roosevelt, reaffirmed its no-strike pledge, and voted full support to the CIO Political Action Committee.

USW-CIO Pres. Frank McGrath in presenting his report to the 500 convention delegates brought applause when he declared that, "Mr. Dewey will go down in American history as the man who brought double talk into a national political campaign."

"Dewey is 100 per cent pro-labor and 100 per cent pro-National Manufacturers Association," McGrath accused, "He is for full employment and against the Kilgore bill which would bring it about. He is for social security and he is for destroying it by reducing the social security tax. He is for international peace organization and he is suspicious of our Allies. He is all things to all people."

McGrath urged the convention to work for stabilization of the shoe industry, a guaranteed annual wage and to support Senator Claude Pepper's proposal for a 65 cent minimum nation-wide wage rate. "Caravan methods" of the shoe industry would be stymied by an over all 65 cent minimum wage proposal, he said.

He reported that 50,000 workers are necessary to bring the industry to its pre-war level. The union called for an extensive drive in the south and in the Endicott-Johnson Shoe Co., the second largest in the country. "The USWA-CIO will play its part in the reawakening of the South", the shoe workers president promised.

The convention adopted a resolution commending the labor statesmanship of Pres. Philip Murray and reaffirmed "full support and confidence" in his leadership.

Pres. Roosevelt in extending greetings to the convention praised the role of the union and stated that "American working men and women have established new production records in turning out the weapons and materials of war needed by our fighting men".

PAC DIRECTOR SPEAKS

Raymond S. McKeough, CIO-PAC regional director, outlined the need and the role of the CIO Political Action Committee.

"If Roosevelt fail of reelection with a progressive Congress, then God help America and God help the world," the former Illinois Congressman declared.

McGrath accused the anti-Roosevelt press of exploiting anti-semitism in an effort to head off the effectiveness of the PAC.

WHERE WE STAND — Highlights of Some of Week's Most Significant Statements

Wages And America's Future

By CIO PRES. PHILIP MURRAY

Excerpts from Radio Address, Pittsburgh, Oct. 3

The Little Steel Formula is tending to hold back the war production program. You will recall that this Formula, which is more than two years old, holds wages and salaries down to a level but 15 per cent above January, 1941. The Formula was based upon conditions in May, 1942, when living costs supposedly had risen only 15 per cent above January, 1941.

Great Hardship

This freezing of wages and salaries has worked a great hardship upon the vast majority of American people, because the cost of living has multiplied—not twice as much as the Little Steel Formula alows, but three times as much.

The manpower needs of critical war production programs demand a prompt lifting of the Formula so that our armed forces will not be lacking in needed materials.

To speed up final victory, war production, which is so dependent upon a realistic wage and salary policy, cannot—for any reason—be permitted to lag. The mounting cost of living, and its attendant consequences, make it imperative that the 15 per cent limit of the Little Steel Formula be substantially raised.

Guaranteed Wage

Over and beyond the immediate task of adjusting wages and continuing to increase war production, there is the compelling task of providing jobs and prosperity in the transition and postwar periods.

As an indispensable step in this task, the steelworkers' union proposes that industry incorporate in its collective bargaining contracts with labor a provision for the guaranteed annual wage.

In this regard the annual wage is but an extension to labor of the guarantees already provided for agriculture and industry.

The Federal Government guarantees to farmers for two years after the end of the war a minimum return of 90 per cent of parity. War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes has estimated that two billion dollars will have to be appropriated to carry out this guarantee, and he stated: "It is a wise policy not only for the farmers but for the nation as a whole."

Break for Farmers

The farmers are justly entitled to this guarantee, because it will permit them to plan their programs in advance, and to remain as continuing customers of the products of industry. To assure jobs and prosperity, however, a guarantee must likewise be extended to industry and labor.

Such a guarantee has already been extedned to industry through the Federal tax laws. It is not generally known that much of the excess profits taxes paid by industry during the war are refundable. The steel industry, for example, is guaranteed a refund of at least enough of its wartime taxes to assure it—for two years after the war—net profits as high or higher than it made in peacetime.

Whether industry is entitled to this huge guarantee—which in the aggregate far exceeds the two billion dollar guarantee to farmers—depends entirely upon the purpose to which industry puts these guaranteed profits. If they are used to pay dividends while workers walk the streets hunting for jobs, then these guaranteed profits are not going to promote prosperity.

The enormous corporate profits accumulated during the war are well known. As compared to peace time, industry as a whole has increased its profits after taxes by almost 200 per cent. Where the steel industry, for example, made $138 million dollars before federal taxes in peacetime, during the war it has made over $631 million, a rise of 355 per cent. In addition, the steel industry has increased its reserves by 203 per cent, and its undistributed profits by 74 per cent. At the same time it has reduced its debt.

The wage adjustment requested by the union for this industry doesn't involve any increase in the price of steel. There can be no claim that the wage adjustment would have any inflationary impact. On the contrary, the wage adjustment would simply make up the loss in weekly earnings due to cut backs in hours and down grading.

The guaranteed annual wage would help provide the one essentil factor that is necessary for postwar jobs and proseprity—the purchasing power of the people.

Chicago, Oct. 7 — William F. Sullivan has been appointed director of publicity for the CIO Political Action Committee in Region 7, comprising the States of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, Regional Director Raymond S. McKeough announced here this week.

'Yank' Readers Hot About Slap At Merchant Seamen

A volley of verbal rights-to-the-jaw was aimed by servicemen at Lt. (jg) Bergen Van Brunt who, in a letter recently printed in the Army weekly Yank, criticized the Merchant Marine seamen as "civilians who make overly high wages" and "cheat on overtime."

The tempers of fighting men in every branch of the service, men who had worked shoulder-to-shoulder with the Merchant Marine, were exploded by Van Brunt's charges, and their letters of hot protest swelled an entire column of Yank.

What the men of Uncle Sam's military personnel think of the Merchant Marine follows:

Sgt. W. M. Taegel, Percy Jones General Hosp., Mich.: "When bombs are falling thick and fast a steel deck is a damn hard place in which to dig a foxhole. I know what a part the Merchant Marine plays in this war because they stood by when our transport went down and lent a hand. Out there in a far-away country white markers indicate where some of them are now buried. There are enough of these graves to make a good-sized army."

S/Sgt. A. Didario, Alaska, quoting Lt. (jg) T. A. Potter: "This is my third merchant ship . . . in charge of the Navy gun crews . . . We took part in the invasion of Sicily. . . . Without the fine help of the merchant crew who assisted and augmented our gun crews we never could have maintained the rapid fire necessary to defend the ship. It has been a pleasure to work with these merchant seamen."

Pvt. C. J. Richardson, Camp Chaffee, Ark.: "When I was in the MM I was not thinking of money. I was thinking of that brother of mine in a foxhole who needed food and shells, of my other brother in the air corps who needed gas, of a pal in the Navy who needed oil. My brother told me to get the hell out of the MM before I went down with my ship. He told me to get into the Army where I would at least have a gun to fight with."

Pvt. N. F. Doherty, USMC, West Coast: "Our victories would never have been possible without the Merchant Marine. I am proud of the MM. May God bring them all back home over a peaceful sea some day."

Concentrated Hiring Power Controls Lives of Millions

One one-hundredth of one percent of all U. S. manufacturing firms owned $23 billion of assets in 1943 and employed 2.8 million people, according to the current issue of the CIO's Economic Outlook.

Twenty-nine manufacturing corporations employed in 1943 almost as many people as the U. S. Govt. Eight of these companies had assets of over two billion dollars each or more than the assessed value of property in each of 33 States.

U. S. Steel alone "owns over two billion dollars worth of the national wealth and employs nearly 350,000 people, according to the Outlook.

"The decisions that shape the lives of workers are very largely in the hands of a small group of corporation officials," the Outlook states, in reporting that 5 per cent of business firms employed 76 per cent of the total number of people working in such concerns at the end of 1942.

CIO unions are asking for the guaranteed annual wage in an effort to narrow the range of business control over the lives of their people," it says. It also calls for "joint discussion with the people most concerned" on important company decisions.

The article goes on to say that the concentration of control is "not a wartime phenomenon," since in 1940, "159 manufacturing corporations (.19 per cent of all manufacturing corporations) owned almost half of the total manufacturing corporate assets."

It cites the LaFollette Committee's revelations concerning the Special Conference Committee, made up of representatives of all huge manufacturing concerns, which met regularly and more or less secretly to discuss joint action on labor policies.

"The power of such a group, acting as a policy-making spearhead for business, can well be imagined We can only hope that now similiar groups are not planning an organized attack on standards of living and labor unions," the Outlook says.

To Look Your Best
...Buy The Best
BUY DOUGLAS!

W. L. Douglas Shoes are the winning combination for Fall... good looks and long wear plus correct styling for all occasions! Made by master craftsmen of the finest leathers, W. L. Douglas Shoes are the first choice of men who know the importance of taking pride in their appearance. Buy a pair today!

Top Style — THE CLIPPER No. 4661
Bottom Style — THE CLIPPER No. 4663

W. L. Douglas Shoes
W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO., BROCKTON 15, MASS.

905 PENN. AVENUE N. W.
(Opposite Department of Justice Building)
(Men's and Boys' Shoes Exclusively)
Open Thursday and Saturday Evenings

MANY STYLES WITH OIL-TREATED SOLES FOR LONGER WEAR.

New Reading

CIO's New Pamphlet On Labor and Religion

A plea for enlightened church leaders of all denominations to cooperate with the labor movement in its aims to improve the lot of America's workers is argued eloquently in a pamphlet, "Labor and Religion," just issued by the CIO's Dept. of Research & Education.

Both true religion and trade unionism, states the pamphlet, stand for the protection and extension of democratic rights. "Democracy firmly rooted in the industrial structure, resting securely in strong and independent unions, will be able to withstand not only the attacks of those who would turn back the clock of progress, but, with the cooperation of its friends in the church, can put through an enlightened legislative program in the interests of the entire nation."

Unfortunately, the pamphlet points out, there are many false religious leaders, including thousands of misguided cultist ministers" who "are united workers in hate, fear and intolerance of minority races, creeds or nationalities."

Some of these "are subsidized by reactionary industrialists who unscrupulously seek to divide the workers in any way they can. But whether these preachers are sincere fanatics or are paid disrupters, they are a menace to the hope of a better tomorrow. "Those who preach hate to the frustrated are sowing the seeds of Ku Klux Klanism and our own brand of American fascism."

"Once humanity becomes the measure of both organized religion and organized labor, we can push forward together toward the good life. Together we must strive to organize a world based on love and order instead of force and rancor. Both labor and religion put their faith in the people, believing in power with, not over them. Both believe in education, not exploitation."

Labor and Religion, CIO publication No. 111, may be ordered from the CIO Publicity Dept., 718 Jackson Place, Washington 6, D. C., 16 pp., 5 cents a copy! 100 for $4, 500 for $15.

From Kitchen To Congress

Why the women folk of merchant seaman should back up their men and join the NMU Women's Auxiliary is told in a pamphlet, "From Kitchen to Congress" just published by the Natl. Maritime Union's Education Dept.

The pamphlet asks the women: "Does it make any difference to you whether you are the mother or wife of a man who is treated like a bum and feels lonely, insecure and kicked around—or of a man who has the dignity of a man, who walks up straight because he belongs to a strong union that belongs to him, and that protects him, and fights for his rights?"

Some of the valuable services that women's auxiliaries can perform are listed and the importance of helping in the political field is stressed. "Sister, if you don't believe that Hitler was right that women should stay in the kitchen and talk about diapers, measles and apple pie, you had better come out of that kitchen right now and help us over that 1944 crisis," warns the pamphlet.

From Kitchen to Congress, published by Educ. Dept., Natl. Maritime Union, 346 West 17th St., New York 11, N. Y. May be obtained free upon request.

PAC's Snappy Leaflets Going By the Millions

Action literature by the scores of millions of pieces is pouring out of CIO-PAC headquarters in New York as the campaign to keep FDR in the White House goes into its final weeks.

Short, snappy little illustrated 4-page throwaways are leaving headquarters to the field at the rate of better than two millian pieces a day. Between now and the end of October PAC expects to keep up and increase this volume.

One of the simplest of the leaflets is one called "Lest We Forget," which shows a picture of a 1932 apple seller standing outside a "Hoover Club" in Pennsylvania during the first FDR election and the second Hoover campaign—(the third one is going on now, with Dewey as the front man).

All the leaflet says is, "Prosperity was just around the corner." Another one says: "Back to Breadlines With Dewey—or—Forward to Jobs With Roosevelt." A third pictures the Hoover-ordered bayonetting of the veterans of World War I during the Bonus March of 1932, and asks, "Will They Come Back to This?"

The leaflets are being put out by the millions, sent to where they'll do the most good. You can get them free from PAC. But the leaflets take money—and PAC needs your help. Send your dollar and more to CIO-PAC, 205 E. 42nd St., New York 17, N. Y.

More and Better Schools Needed

If democracy is to be a permanent success, American voters must have sufficient education to weigh the fundamental problems involving government. This is the conclusion of the Natl. Commission for the Defense of Democracy through Education, appointed by the Natl. Education Assn. after studying the problem of education in the postwar world.

Nearly 20 million persons, 20 years and over, have a sixth grade education or less, the Commission reports, while the number of citizens, 25 years and over having a sixth grade education or less, is greater than the entire population 25 years and over in 29 states.

At an NEA conference held at the White House last week to discuss improvement of rural education, some startling facts also came to light about the poor schooling provided for the 12,000,000 rural children who make up nearly 50 per cent of the entire school population.

Rural schools are badly equipped, many of them are mere shacks, and teachers get about half the salary of city teachers. The conference, which was attended by some 200 of the leading rural experts of the nation, presented proposals to remedy present conditions, which included Federal educational aid; better paid teachers; reorganization of small district schools, and an extensive school building program.

Poison Leaflets

A series of articles by John Roy Carlson, author of "Under Cover," starts in the October issue of The Woman Magazine, 420 Lexington Ave., New York 17, N. Y., under the title of "They Praise the Lord and Pass the Poison Leaflets."

Second of the series, "Daughters of Dissension and Defeat" will appear in the November issue.

INCH THEIR WAY ACROSS PELELIU: Digging into every bit of natural cover available, U. S. Marines crawl along the ground as they pour shells into Japanese positions on Peleliu Island in the Palau group. (U. S. Marine Corps photo via Federated Pictures.)

World Neighbors

Italians Building Unity Despite Fascist Ruin, Baldanzi Reports To CIO

Unity of all political groups exists in the Italian working class and is centered around the one idea of reconstructing the labor movement and the nation, George Baldanzi, Textile Workers Union vice president just returned from Italy told The CIO NEWS this week in an exclusive interview.

"This is the most significant development in recent Italian working history," Baldanzi said. "It shows that all political groups, Communist, Socialist, Christian-Democrat, in the workers' movement are united on one basic program.

"That program is the reconstruction of the Italian Confederation of Labor and the reconstruction of their shattered country. They have agreed to submerge whatever political differences they have in making the Confederation a single, unified labor body, which will not indulge in political factionalism."

Baldanzi said he saw the evidence of this especially keenly in a two-day conference in Rome where all political groups met to agree on a program. Included among the delegates were a number representing the partisans in the north where the Nazis still hold out. These people were particularly insistent on unity, he said, which indicates its great strength in the more heavily industrialized sections of the country.

Italy is as much devastated as any of the countries that have been fought over, Baldanzi reported. Industry, except for a small part of it running for Allied needs, is at a complete standstill. Factories have been destroyed, usually by the retreating Nazis. There are no raw materials, no fuel, no coal, no electric power.

There is little or no food. In Rome, only 22 percent of the food available can be bought either on the rationed or the free market. The rest has to be bought on the black market, at fantastic prices if you can get it.

Italian workers' wages, when they have jobs, range from 65 to 150 lire a day. The lira is worth one cent, U. S. currency. One meal costs 300 lire and up. A package of cigarettes cost 200 lire, a pair of shoes 5,000. As a result, the people are starving. In Rome, 450 per 1,000 of children are dying before they reach one year.

"Conditions are simply unbelievable," he told The CIO NEWS. "How do the people live? The answer is they don't—unless they can live by stealing and by prostitution. They have to—otherwise the family starves."

Baldanzi made a strong plea that Americans of Italian descent or birth be permitted to send packages to relatives and friends, which they are not now allowed to do.

"This would do more to restore Allied prestige than any immediate measure I can think of now," he said. "The Italian people simply cannot understand the way they are being treated. If they are regarded as enemies, they say, that is one thing—but the Allies themselves made the distinction between the Italian people and their fascist rulers."

(This week, President Roosevelt promised that food and other economic aid would be sent to Italy. Lend-lease and relief from United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation is also greatly needed.)

WAGES WORSE

According to an American report brought back by Baldanzi, it is almost incredible but true that Italian workers pressed into service by the Nazis were better off than they are today. The Nazis did not pay in money, but in food allowances, he explained, and quoted the report:

"It is clear to anyone familiar with the Rome situation that: 1) there was less spread between unskilled, semi-skilled and skilled workman's rates of pay under the German system than under ours, and:

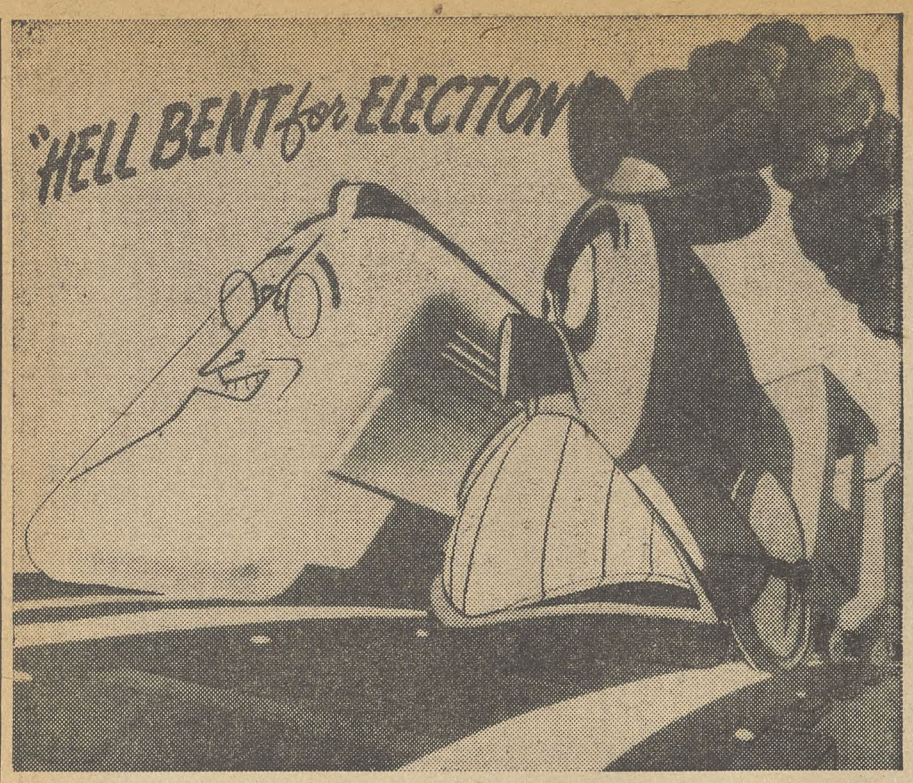
"2) that considering the food allowances, the German rates were considerably higher than our rates of pay."

LOOK TO FREE UNIONS

Baldanzi, who made the trip with Luigi Antonini of the AFL and Will Lawther and Tom O'Brien of the British TUC, said that the Italian workers and people look to the trade unions of the United Nations for help.

"What they ask," he said, "is the chance and the materials with which to begin their new life. They have 25 years of fascist corruption, plus military destruction and the horrible blight of the Nazi occupation to deal with.

"With help from the United Nations, and with their unity which I believe they will keep no matter what the difficulties they face, they can rebuild their nation and make it the first to rise from fascism."



Win-the-War Special and Defeatist Limited are heading down the track for 1944. Only one of them can get through. . . .

Uncle Sam tells Joe Worker, the switchman, it's up to you . . . don't go to sleep like you did in '42.

But Sen. Blow is busy too. He starts by trying to slug Joe to sleep with anti-labor laws. It doesn't work. . . .

UAW 4-Star Movie

UAW-CIO's latest movie feature—"Hell-Bent for Election"—is a big-time success. Made by Karen Morley, actress turned progressive producer, with music by Earl Robinson, composer of "Ballad For Americans," and a full staff of Hollywood technicians, the 15 minute movie is packing them in at union halls and movie houses all over the country.

Production was initiated and supervised by the UAW's Educational Dept., William H. Levitt, director. If you rush your orders into the distribution points listed below, you can still get it in time for a pre-election showing.

Hebert Studios, Inc., 53 Allyn Street, Hartford, Conn.
Stevens-Ideal Film Co., 89 Cone Street N.W., Atlanta, Ga.
College Film Center, 84 East Randolph, Chicago, Ill.
Burke's Motion Picture Co., 434 Lincoln Way West, South Bend 5, Ind.
Modern Talking Picture Service, 615 N. Illinois Street, Indianapolis, Ind.
D. T. Davis Co., Lexington, Ky.
Stark Films, Howard & Centre Streets, Baltimore, Md.
Visual Education Service Inc., 131 Clarendon Street, Boston, Mass.
K. C. Sound Service, 926 McGee Street, Kansas City, Mo.
James E. Duncan, 196 Ridge Road E., Rochester, N. Y.
Brandon Films, Inc., 1600 Broadway, New York City, Circle 6-4868. (For New York City, Lower New York State and New Jersey.)
Modern Talking Picture Service, 1219 Farnam Street, Omaha 12, Neb.
Sunray Films, Inc., 2108 Payne Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
Twyman Films, Inc., 29 Central Avenue, Dayton, Ohio.
Cousino Visual Education Service, 1221 Madison Avenue, Toledo 2, Ohio.
James A. Peters, 41 South Fourth Street, Allentown, Pa.
Visual Art Films, 419 Empire Bldg., 507 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Photo Art House, 844 N. Plankinton Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

Then he tries doubletalk, meanwhile pressing election cigars, champagne on Joe, who gets a little groggy.

In his dream, Joe sees Defeatist Limited getting through . . . with hot air, high prices, apples (5c) and Hooverism as cargo.

But it's only a dream, or rather a nightmare . . . Joe wakes up with a start, finds out what the score is, grabs the switch, throws it. . . .

And Win-the-War Special with victory, jobs and security for all as its freight goes down the track to November, '44.

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 42 — 82 — October 16, 1944

Labor Blasts WLB For Stall On Steel Case

(See Columns 1 & 2, Editorial Page 2)

★ ★ ★

Facts, But No Action—WLB Stalls Pay Case

Labor members of the Natl. War Labor Board this week unanimously accused public and industry members of "inexcusable dereliction of duty" following an 8 to 4 Board decision against making a recommendation to President Roosevelt on proposed destruction of the Little Steel wage freeze formula.

The Board decided to present FDR only with facts on the relationship of wages to the cost of living, making no policy recommendation despite the fact that a Board panel and the Board itself have been considering the wage cases of the CIO United Steelworkers and other big CIO unions for a total of over seven months. The factual report is expected to go shortly to the President.

Labor members R. J. Thomas and Emil Rieve of CIO and George Meany and Mathew Woll of AFL charged that the Board's refusal to make a recommendation is "compounded of timidity, contradictions and double-talk."

The labor members pointed out that the Board by formal resolution had agreed to recommend a change in the formula if it was found to be operating to create "gross inequalities" and if a change could be made consistent with the need to stabilize the entire national economy.

"This resolution," the labor members charged, "as well as the action of the Board in accepting the evidence in all the cases presented to it on the matter, was a clear undertaking, that the Board would exercise its judgment upon such evidence.

"Timid, Incompetent"

"The resolution adopted today (to refer only facts and not a recommendation to FDR) is a clear surrender of the Board's commitment to exercise its judgment. It is an indefensible demonstration of timidity by men who are charged with the duty of advising the President of any changes which the present situation may require."

The labor members declared that the majority position, which held that the Board cannot make a recommendation because it is not sufficiently informed as to the effect on the entire stabilization program, "is tantamount to an admission by the public members of the board that they are not competent to perform their duties."

The labor members criticized as inconsistent the Board's failure to recommend an immediate wage policy, while agreeing in another part of the same resolution to consider:

1. Inequities in the wage stabilization policy, including the so-called bracket system and substandard wages.

2. Wage problems with respect to reconversion of wartime industry to peacetime production.

Inconsistent Decision

"The Board's inconsistency is astounding," the labor members declared. "For over two years now the Board has been handling cases and becoming fully informed of the effect of the Little Steel formula and the relationship of wages to the cost of living.

"It has accumulated a mass of evidence on the subject. But the Board now says it is in no position to make any recommendations as a result that experience and any changes in our economy which have taken place.

"The Board feels fully competent, however, to make recommendations on matters which have not yet occurred, matters on which it has had no experience, heard no cases, and been in no position to make any more than a guess."

The Board's position was described as the equivalent of failure of the U. S. High Command to make a recommendation to FDR because the High Command did not know what the Nazis were going to do.

Prices Up, Pay Low

Labor representatives felt, that with prices up 45.3 percent since Jan. 1, 1941, while wages have been allowed to rise only 15 percent, any fair report that the Board would make on the facts could not fail to lead to the conclusion that the Little Steel formula should be revised immediately.

Exclusive!

FDR vs Dewey—The Facts For Action!

(See Pages 3-6)

Your Job—Nov. 7

The Facts Cry For Action

The National War Labor Board has not enhanced its reputation, to put it mildly, by its latest stall on the issue of the Little Steel formula.

Labor unions have had many bitter experiences with the Board's endless delays and evasions, its buck-passing and sometimes deliberate stalling, and its timid reluctance to exercise the full responsibilities that are vested in it.

The most notorious example of these attitudes has been the Board's handling of the long-pending wage demands of the United Steelworkers and other CIO unions.

The Board has been juggling with these cases for nearly a year now, during which time the lopsided relationship between frozen wages and soaring living costs has become worse and worse and the workers' sense of grievance and injustice more and more acute.

Last March the Board held that it could not grant wage increases in excess of the Little Steel formula and lacked the power itself to change it.

But at the same time, the Board held it could recommend a change in the outdated wage-freeze formula, if it found it "operating to create gross inequities" and was satisfied the change was consistent with the stabilization needs of the country and with the act of October 2, 1942, which called for a stable relationship between wages and prices.

So for seven long months since then, the Board has been holding endless hearings and mulling over mountains of evidence—which has proved again and again that living costs have risen far, far beyond frozen wage rates; that wage increases can be granted without price increases or other inflationary effects; and that such adjustments are not only consistent with the Oct. 2 act but also essential for economic stabilization and the balanced relationship between wages and prices for which that act called.

But instead of acting speedily on this evidence and making the logical recommendation for revision of the Little Steel formula, the Board has taken until the middle of October getting around to the point of deciding whether or not to make a decision.

And now, finally, by a vote of eight to four, with all the labor members dissenting, the Board has made up its mind—to dodge its responsibilities and to refrain from making any recommendation to the President one way or another with regard to the Little Steel formula.

The Board states, however, that "as expeditiously as possible" it will submit to the President through the Economic Stabilization Director "a report setting forth pertinent data regarding the relationship of wages to the cost of living, and an appraisal of the nature and extent of alleged inequities created by the changes which have occurred."

The Board may repair some of the damage done by its delays and evasions if its report to the President is expeditiously made and sets forth honestly and accurately the full facts relating to wages, prices, profits and economic stabilization.

For these facts speak more loudly and convincingly than any arguments or recommendations. The conclusion which any thinking person must draw from them is inescapable—namely, that revision of the Little Steel formula is a measure of justice that can be no longer delayed or denied without serious detriment to the economic welfare of the whole country.

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

UNABLE to hear any labor voices raised on his behalf, Dewey's supporters hopefully conclude there must be a big "silent labor vote" for him.

The silence is rather deafening, but nevertheless Dewey has some grounds for counting on quite a few labor voters—and it's time their best friends told them.

Don't get mad—we won't mention names—but YOU may be among those on whom Dewey is counting. Here's a quiz test that will give you the answer.

★ ★ ★

Are you one of those who sometimes say, "Let George do it?"

George has been known to perform near-miracles at times. But on election day he can cast only one vote for FDR. If you mentally make him your proxy your vote will go by default to the little man who's counting on a little vote.

★ ★ ★

Are you a political Milquetoast without realizing it?

Do you fight for your rights with all you've got, or do you humbly cave in on election day, saying, "What difference can my one little vote make?"

The anti-labor bullies who back Dewey are counting on a big Milquetoast vote that won't be cast for FDR.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, are you a Superman addict? Do you suffer from over-confidence?

Ask yourself if you've ever said or thought: "He'll win anyhow, so why should I bother to vote?"

The champ packs quite a wallop, but even he can't win without our votes.

★ ★ ★

The road to the hell of another Hoover depression is paved with good intentions.

The signposts along that road read: "I meant to vote, but I forgot;" "Just couldn't make it;" "Got there too late."

If you're a well meaner but a weak doer, Dewey is counting on you.

★ ★ ★

Maybe you're far from home on your war job. If so, absence should make the heart grow fonder. You'll be all the more anxious for your home's security and decent representation in Congress.

So you'll find out if, and how, you can cast an absentee ballot—or you might even manage to make a trip home.

If you're one of the out-of-sight-out-of-minders, we hate to say it, but you're on Dewey's silent list.

★ ★ ★

In 1942 there were many could-be voters who were penny-wise and dollar-foolish, and who sold their birthright for an hour's overtime pay.

As a result, we got a Congress that picked the workers' pockets through higher living costs and soak-the-poor taxation.

No anti-union boss can keep you from the polls on election day, but some have hopes to buy you off.

★ ★ ★

"Too little and too late" could lose the war. "Too busy" and "too much trouble" can lose the elections and lose the peace.

Are you a patriot who would die for your country, but who find it too inconvenient to do one of the easiest and most important duties in our democracy's defense?

If so, the defeatists, isolationists, American and foreign fascists, labor-baiters, race-baiters and all others who threaten our liberties and future peace, count you on their side in this election.

★ ★ ★

The Deweyites and all the motley crew of reactionaries on the anti-FDR and anti-labor side have several big advantages in these elections.

They can count on a full turnout of the stick-in-the-mud encrusted tories, those wealthier folks who set imagined money interests ahead of national welfare, and all the other camp followers of reaction.

They can also count on the absence from the polls of millions of servicemen and women, kept from voting because the Deweyites blocked the federal ballot bill; migrated war workers unable to vote at their new residences because of state voting restrictions; and persons disfranchised by the polltax—all of which big groups are overwhelmingly progressive and pro-FDR.

But so great is the popular preference for FDR and a progressive Congress that the Deweyites need much more than these huge initial advantages to win.

They need also the uncast votes of folks like you and me, who can and would vote against them but may fail to do so. So let's fool them by voting ourselves and getting everyone we can reach to do the same!

The CIO News
Published Weekly
Congress of Industrial Organizations
Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer
Vice-Presidents
Joseph Curran, John Green, Reid Robinson
S. H. Dalrymple, Allan S. Haywood, Frank Rosenblum
Albert Fitzgerald, Emil Rieve, R. J. Thomas
Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director
Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.
Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925
Vol. 7 October 16, 1944 No. 42

A Special CIO News Supplement

FDR vs Dewey—The Record

This election is going to be won or lost on the record. Despite Tom Dewey's attempt to get away from it, the record stands clear for all to see.

The record of Franklin D. Roosevelt speaks for itself. The record of Tom Dewey doesn't. To find out what he stands for, you have to study the record of the people who are backing him—the GOP men in Congress and outside it who have been fighting against FDR's win-the-war, progressive program since the beginning of the New Deal.

Here are the records of President Roosevelt and Governor Dewey. Study them; get your shopmates and your neighbors to study them. Then vote—and help your wife, your neighbor, your friend to vote.

Solid Gains for Labor . . .

Under FDR's administration came economic and social freedom to the workers. Under him, we won the Wagner Act to end sweatshops by enforcing minimum wages and maximum hours; the Social Security Act to lessen the shocks of unemployment, old age, disability; under FDR we have won many more progressive social laws.

His program of public works and relief provided millions of jobs and lifted the country out of Hooverism.

Under his administration, labor unions have grown to a membership of 13,000,000. Industrial unionism has been brought to industries that were open shop for decades. Wages were raised from the coolie levels of the early '30's.

Business as well as labor has benefitted from these measures. Prosperity can only be built on freedom and jobs for workers as well as all other people.

FDR is labor's friend. GOP politicians seem to think this is somehow a crime. Labor knows better. Labor and all the plain people know FDR is their friend.

It takes a short memory—even shorter than Dewey's—to make workers forget it.

Sabotage and Double Talk

The Dewey-GOP record on labor is one of opposing measures now recognized as just and practical. In Congress, GOP men voted against the Wagner Act and the Wage Hour Act. GOP anti-union employers defied the Wagner Act after it was passed. They have tried to wreck it by crippling amendments ever since. These men are behind Dewey now, with unlimited cash, with newspapers and every other anti-union weapon in the arsenal.

Today Dewey-GOP praise labor. As FDR pointed out in his Sept. 23 speech: "When votes are at stake they suddenly discover that they really love labor, and are eager to protect it from its old friends."

Dewey-GOP promise all things to all men. But they let the cat out of the bag when an indiscreet GOP man on the west coast revealed Dewey's plans for labor if he wins—to cripple the Wagner Act by amendments, to whittle down unions by restricting the right to organize, to hamstring normal union activities.

Dewey-GOP would "free" labor from FDR—back to the open shop and the blacklist.

Cooperation for Victory . . .

FDR is the architect of the United Nations. Under his leadership, the United Nations have gone ahead in the war against fascism on all fronts. Military victory is within our grasp.

After victory come the problems of permanent peace. In the Teheran meeting of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union, and at other United Nations meetings, FDR has worked out the basis for a postwar world of freedom and security. His policies of working with the great freedom loving countries both now and after victory guarantee that our children will not go to war again in another 25 years.

FDR saw the Axis attack coming and prepared us to meet it. In 1937, he called on the world to "quarantine the aggressor." When war came, FDR led the nation first in defense and then in the offensive against our enemies.

FDR can lead us to a world of freedom and security. He has the knowledge, the experience and the wisdom for the task.

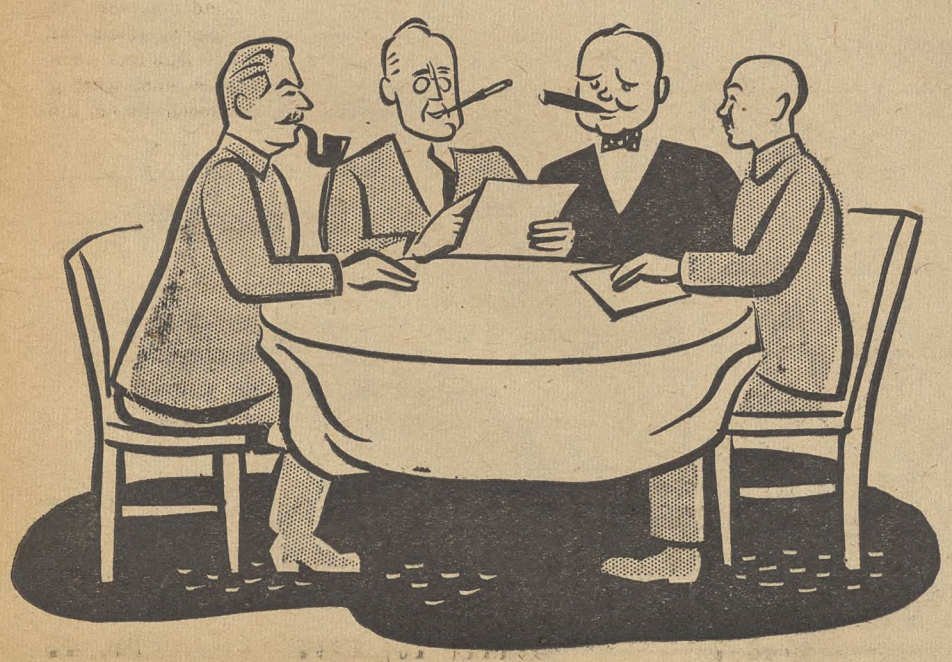
Petty Sniping, Disunity

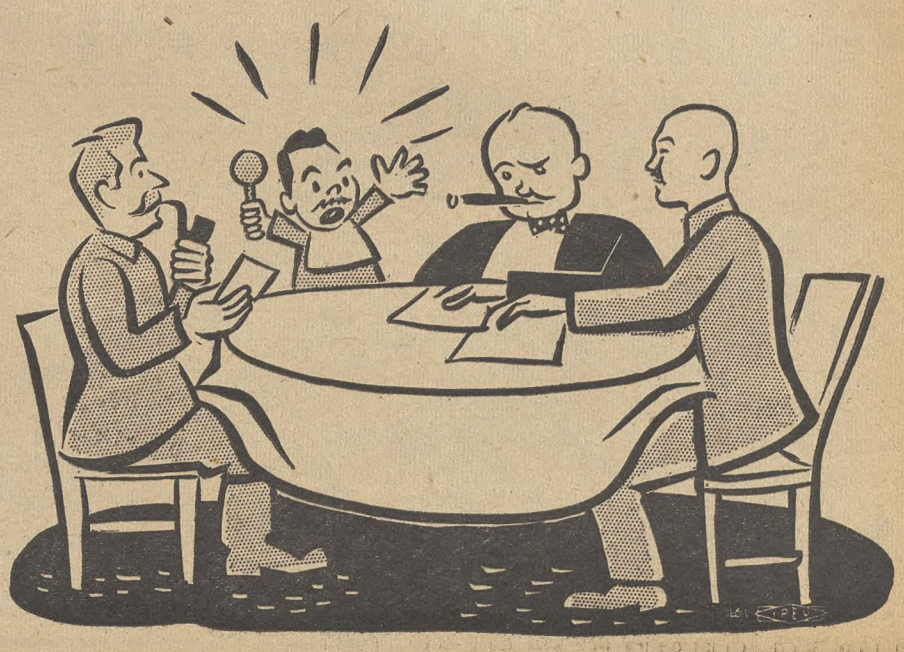
The pre-war record of the GOP is one of obstructing most measures of U. S. defense. In Congress, GOP men voted against lend-lease, against fortifying Guam, against other plans to arm our country for attack.

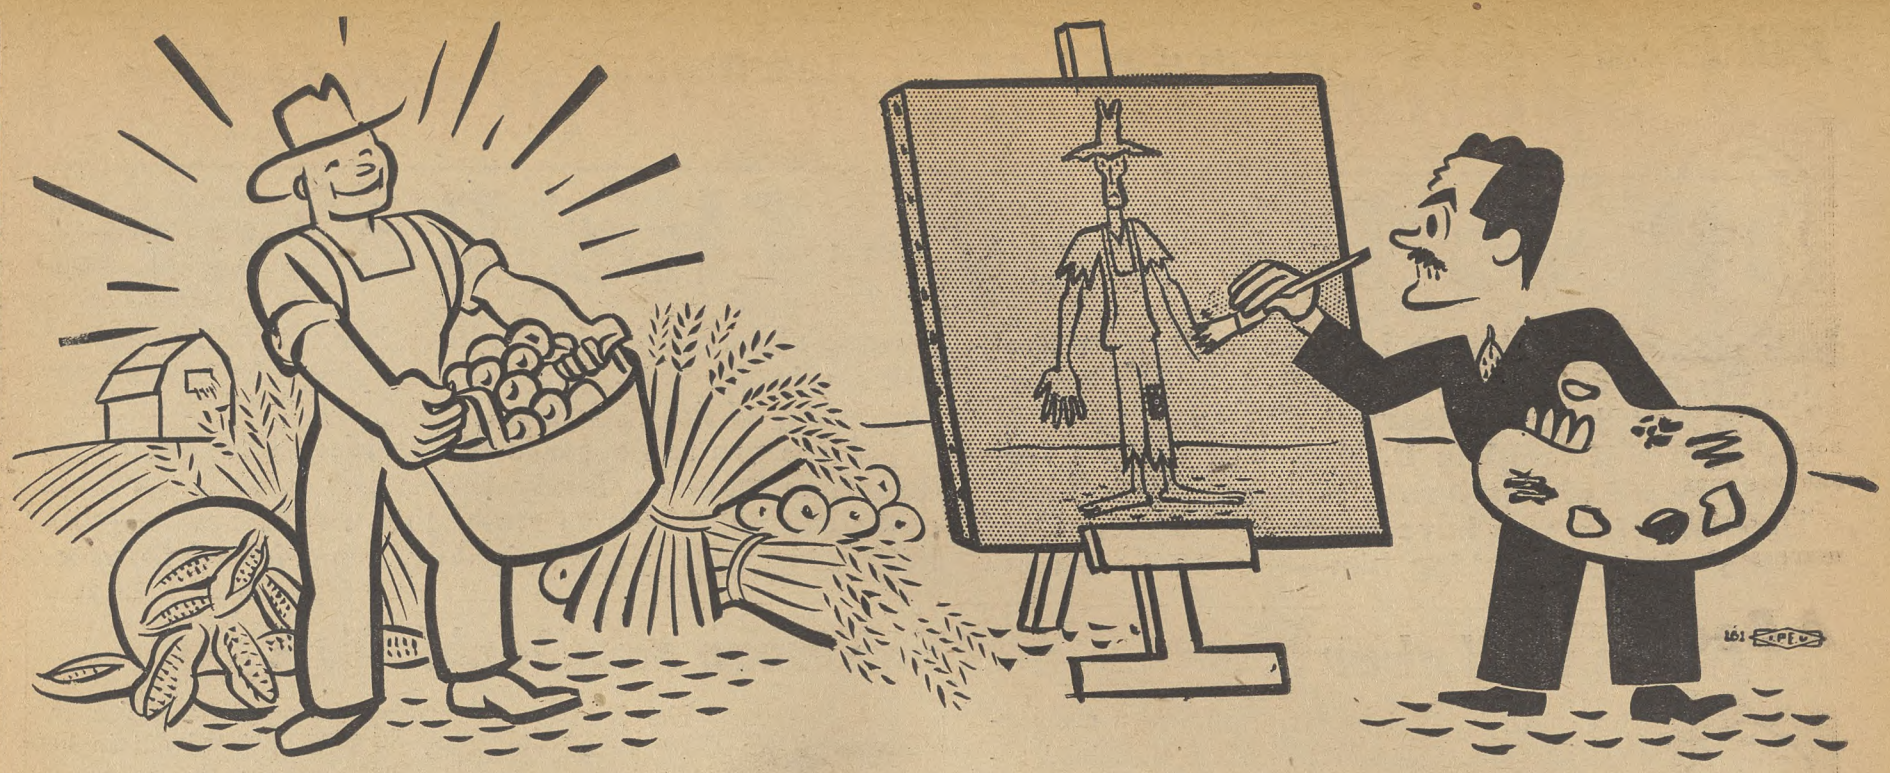
They have denounced Teheran and the United Nations. Dewey has attacked the whole idea of United Nations unity, has said that recognition of the Soviet Union was a mistake, has opposed the use of force against possible future aggressors.

Yet such is Dewey's eagerness to be elected that he also "supports" with words the Dumbarton Oaks plan of world security worked out by the U. S., Britain, the USSR and China. Thus he pays lip-service to international unity, while at the same time opposing it.

Dewey's choice for Secretary of State, if he wins, is one John F. Dulles. Dulles said in 1939, while FDR was preparing us for attack: "Only hysteria entertains the idea that Germany, Italy or Japan contemplates war upon us."







Record Income for Farmers . . .

When FDR was elected in 1932, farm income was at its lowest level since pre-World War I. Farm mortgages were at their highest levels. Rural poverty rivalled city poverty—after 12 years of GOP.

Today U. S. farm income is up $4 billion over the highest year ever before — 1919. Prices of things farmers sell are up 118 per cent while prices of things they buy are up 38 per cent, giving them an edge of 80 per cent.

Rural bank deposits are up 199 per cent. Distress sales of farms are at their lowest levels in 18 years. Farm production is at its highest level in history; up 21 per cent since 1939.

Farmers today are protected from the postwar collapse that overtook them in 1920 when the GOP came in. Parity prices (prices for products farmers sell fixed at levels equal to prices of the things they buy) or better are guaranteed now and after the war.

This is important to labor. Farmers buy the things workers make, sell things workers use. Each prospers when the other prospers.

Record Farm Depression

There isn't much to say about Dewey's farm program. He doesn't have one. Last year, he talked a lot about a "feed shortage" that was supposed to ruin New York state dairy farmers. There was no shortage, and the farmers weren't ruined.

But farmers remember that back of Dewey stand the Old Guard GOP men who did have a farm "program" when they were in power from 1920 to 1932. That "program" brought farm income down from $8.79 billion in 1919 under Wilson to $2.99 in 1921 GOP Harding.

By 1933, after four years of Hoover, distress sales of farms were 54.1 percent of all farm sales. By 1943, after 10 years of FDR, distress sales of farms were only 6.6 percent of all farm sales.

Dewey-GOP would "free" farmers from "New Deal regimentation"—free them back to bankruptcy and the auction block.

For a Stable Economy . . .

The fight for a stable economy is the fight against inflation, the struggle to keep the cost of living within reach of lagging wages.

To win this fight, it was necessary to keep profiteering down, to pass fair tax laws based on taxing swollen incomes and war profits and not on the wages of the workers and other low income groups.

FDR led this fight for a stable economy. In his messages to Congress, he asked for tight price control, for fair taxes on wealth and war profits, for holding personal incomes to $25,000 and for other means of stopping inflation.

The Deweyites did everything to block this program. Yet the amount of control and the degree of economic stability we do have is due to FDR's leadership.

For the 'Privilege' of Chaos

The GOP men behind Dewey fought FDR's program with everything they had. Ganging up with the poll-taxers, they opposed real price control. They passed a tax law through Congress that soaked the poor and spared the rich. They voted solidly against the $25,000 income limit. They voted for the Ruml plan tax plum for the wealthy.

Dewey and his GOP men in Congress and outside it have some public weeping over the lag between wages and living costs. They have done nothing and committed themselves to nothing that would help close that gap—except criticize FDR.

Right now they're dreaming of taking all taxes off profits, if they get elected. This means the sales tax on everything you buy.

Which Hand Do You Want at the Throttle?

How to Get Extra Copies of This Supplement

Extra copies of this Special "FDR vs. Dewey" Supplement of The CIO NEWS may be obtained at the following prices: 100 for $1.25; 500 for $5; 1,000 for $7.50. Special prices for very large orders.

Order from: CIO Publicity Dept., 718 Jackson Pl. N.W., Washington 6, D. C.

Full Employment—Security . . .

FDR's program for now and after the war is jobs for everybody who is willing and able to work. This is best summed up in his "Second Bill of Rights" message of January, 1944, where he said we must have:

"The right to a useful and remunerative job in the industries, or shops or farms or mines of the nation;

"The right to earn enough to provide adequate food and clothing and recreation;

"The right to adequate protection from the economic fears of old age, sickness, accident and unemployment."

FDR men in Congress tried to get these rights secured in the reconversion bill. They tried to help business, war workers, veterans now and in the postwar period.

Unemployment—Bread Lines

Dewey— GOP plans for after the war were best summed up by GOP Senator Taft of Ohio who said in Congress in August:

"I do not see how we can possibly employ all the people who want to work. . . . Obviously we cannot employ them at the present take-home wage."

And by Dewey himself, who said on August 5:

"There will be a very substantial reduction in production when the war in Europe is over—a very substantial one—the overall picture will decline and decline very substantially."

The GOP men in Congress ganged up with polltaxers to wreck the reconversion bill that would have planned jobs for all. They knocked out aid to business, to veterans, to war workers. Their progream is—jobs for a few, breadlines for the rest.

A Decent Break for GI Joe . . .

One of the basic things our brothers in the armed forces are fighting for is the right to vote. FDR and FDR Democrats in Congress tried to see that they should get this right to vote while they're fighting. They tried to get Congress to pass a simple, uniform Federal service voting law that would make sure all GI's received ballots on time, that the ballots were returned to the states and counted.

FDR Congressmen led the fight to raise GI pay, to increase GI dependents' allowances, to provide free maternity care for GI wives, and to pass the GI Bill of Rights that helps them in the return to civilian life.

Roosevelt forces in Congress fought for aid to veterans in the reconversion bill, including unemployment benefits, re-training, etc.

Return to Apples—5c Each

Dewey - GOP in alliance with polltaxers fought down the Federal ballot for servicemen. They jammed through Congress the so-called "state's rights" law with so much red tape written into it that most servicemen will either be unable to vote or their votes will not be counted.

Dewey intervened personally in this fight in Congress, urging GOP Congressmen to stick to the sabotage "state's rights" bill. Dewey has also refused to change the New York State law to enable GI votes to be counted when they do come in.

Dewey-GOP did nothing to help on other legislation to aid GI's and veterans. They ganged up on the reconversion bill to knock unemployment benefits out of it in Congress.

GOP Tries to Hide Votes Against Women, Kids CIO Auxiliaries Warn

Between now and November 7 millions of women voters will be making up their minds how to cast their ballots. We hope they will study the record of each candidate in reaching a decision. But there have been some issues of special importance to women before Congress this year and last on which there were no record votes. Unless you were in the gallery watching, you won't know whether your representative voted for school lunches for our children, or for adequate funds for child care for working mothers, or to allow O.P.A. to tie prices to quality.

There was discussion of those issues, though, and the debate tells a story which American women should know.

Take child care, for instance. Just before recess in the summer of 1943, Congress voted $50,000,000 to expand the Lanham fund program for war public services, including child care, which is administered by the Federal Works Agency. Senator Taft of Ohio, one of the Senate Republican leaders, got a sentence inserted in that appropriation limiting to $40,000,000 the funds that F.W.A. could spend for child care.

In January, 1944, the President asked Congress to appropriate another $150,000,000 under the Lanham act and to remove the ceiling, since close to $40,000,000 had already been spent and there was urgent need for expansion of the child care program.

The House Appropriations Committee cut the appropriation to $127,500,000 and recommended removal of the ceiling. One of the Republican leaders in the House, Taber of New York, made a point of order which resulted in keeping the $40,000,000 limitation in the bill. That would have meant the end of our wartime child care program if the Senate had not voted to increase the ceiling.

Representative Taber then moved to cut the appropriation in half. He was supported ONLY by Republicans and his motion only lost by five votes when a handful of Republicans joined all the Democrats present to vote against it.

Let's ask women to remember, when they consider voting for Dewey, that the Republican leadership in Congress tried to kill the child care program.

Or take school lunches. In the debate on that issue 12 Congressmen spoke against federal aid to school lunches for our children—10 Republicans and 2 Democrats.

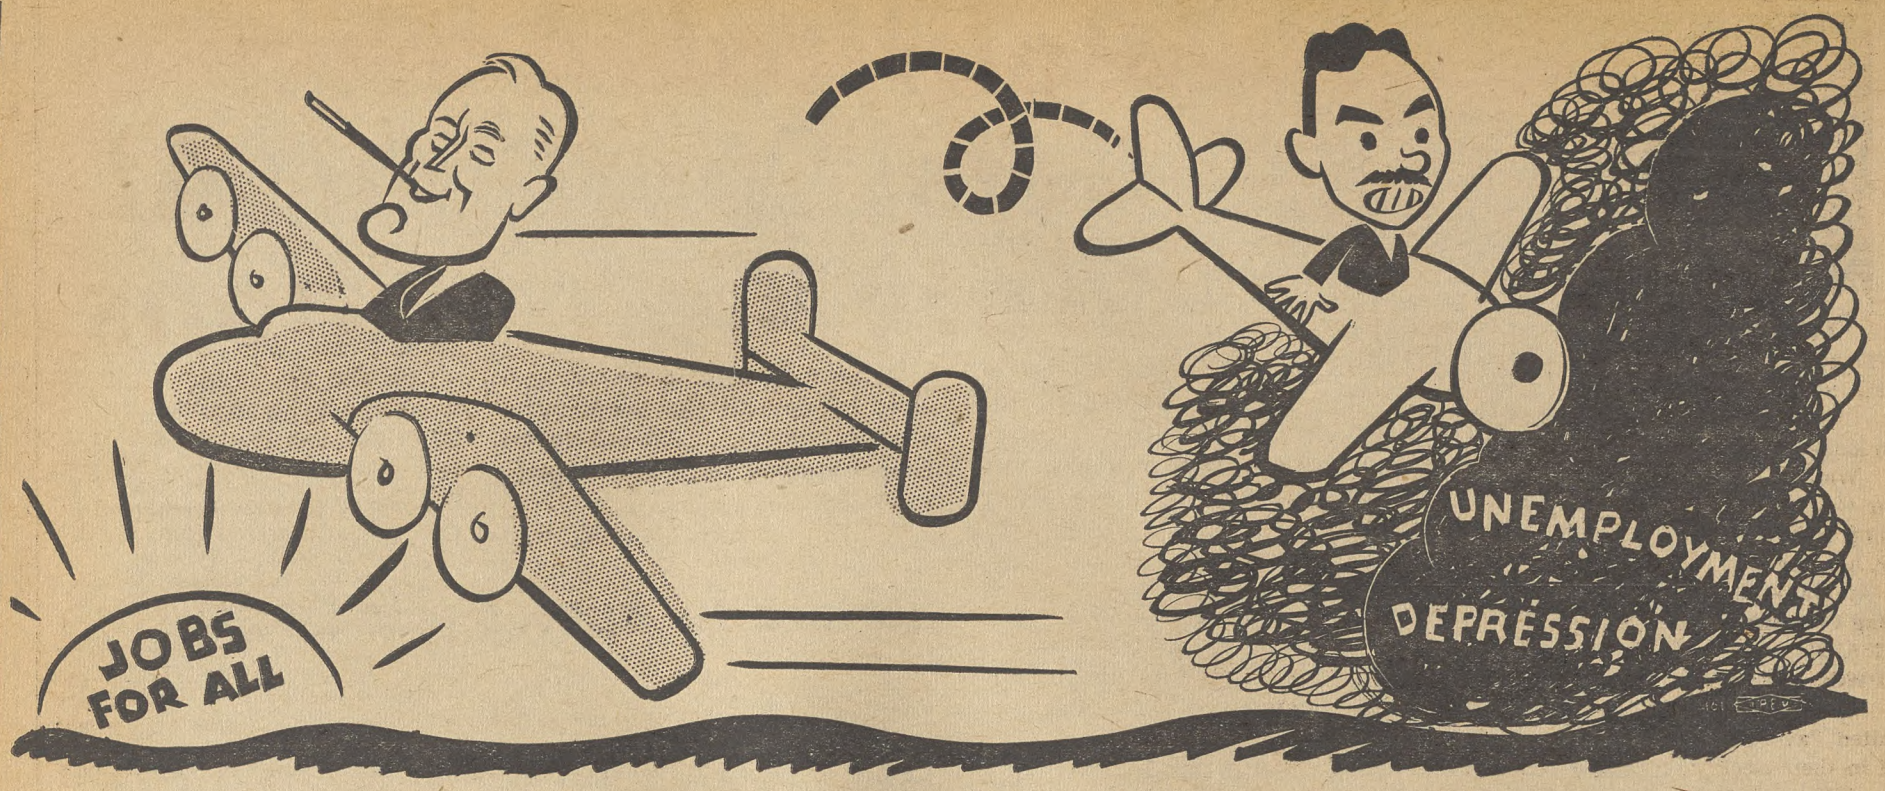
Among the 10 Republicans were men of considerable seniority in Republican Congressional circles. Hope and Lambertson of Kansas, August H. Andresen of Minnesota, who have been in the House for 16 and 18 years, hold key positions on House Committees and help to determine Republican policy. They succeeded in killing the school lunch program last March. It was saved in the Senate and finally passed in the House, but only over the protest of these Republican leaders. Let's remember that when people urge a Republican for President.

As to grade labeling, I guess most women know that they can thank Senator Taft every time they pay grade A prices for grade C eggs, because his amendment to the 1943 O.P.A. Appropriation Bill forbade O.P.A. to require sellers to mark the quality of their product where the consumer could see it.

GOP Denies Even 'Dead' The Right to Speak

The attitude of the Republican leadership that a soldier is good enough to die for his country but not good enough to vote found concrete expression in Michigan last week.

Atty. Gen. Rushton gave it expression when he ruled that the votes of Michigan soldiers who cast ballots and are killed before Nov. 7 will be cancelled. Apparently realizing Rushton's blunder, his fellow Republican, Gov. Kelly said that he would try to have such votes counted anyway.



FDR for Human Needs . . .

FDR and FDR men in Congress have fought for increased social security; for better education; hot lunches for millions of school kids; child care for children of working mothers; housing for war workers; a national health program.

Right now there's a campaign to raise sub-standard wages of some 10,000,000 people who get 50 cents an hour or less to 65 cents an hour. Pro-FDR men are leading this campaign.

FDR men in Congress are trying to raise Social Security benefits, extend them to all workers.

FDR and FDR men in Congress led the fight for consideration of the human side of reconversion.

Planning for Scarcity

Dewey - GOP have consistently fought all attempts to increase social security; they were against lunches for school kids; against child care; housing; national health.

Right now GOP Senator Wherry (Neb.) is fighting the proposal to put a 65-cent floor on wages.

As Governor of New York, Dewey cut $8,000,000 from school funds despite crowded schools and low-paid teachers. He refused even to consider a $5,000,000 child care program advanced by the New York Conference of Women Workers.

This is how Dewey achieves his "surplus" as Governor of New York—by ignoring human needs.

Planning for Plenty—FDR . . .

Freedom from fear and freedom from want take planning. Wars are won by planning. Jobs and prosperity for all after the war must be planned before they can be achieved.

FDR and his Administration believe in planning. They planned the TVA; planned flood control; erosion control; conservation of national resources. Today they're planning to do for the Missouri River Valley what TVA did for the Tennessee River.

FDR men in Congress have tried to plan for an orderly reconversion from war to peacetime production. The plan here was to help business, labor, the veterans and the farmers by guaranteeing jobs and purchasing power.

But Dewey Says To H---

Dewey - GOP rely heavily on loud outbursts against planning, as though it were wrong to sit down and think about a project before tackling it. They have no plans for jobs and prosperity after the war. They prefer to take the defeatist line that unemployment and depression are "inevitable" and to do nothing to avert them.

GOP men in Congress joined in wrecking the National Resources Planning Board that was preparing blueprints for full and careful use of our resources for the benefit of all the people. They have opposed public power; have fought soil conservation; have done little to help planning war production.

GOP men also joined in sabotaging plans for the reconversion period, even to the extent of endangering business as well as labor's welfare.

HOW TO CANVASS FOR F.D.R.

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

CIO Reg. Dir. E. B. Pugh of Virginia advises, CIO won the run-off election at Norfolk Shipyards by a vote of 731 as against 652 for no union.

CIO Reg. Dir. Edward McCrone of Connecticut reports: Eastern Malleable Iron Co., Naugatuck, Conn., CIO 248, no union 26.

Wm. B. Taylor, Org. Dir. OWIU Campaign, reports: Lonestar Gas Co., Leak Inspection Crews, Gainesville, Northwest Division, two for, none against. Henrietta North East Division, three for, none against.

Walter Smethurst, Director of Paper Workers Organizing Committee, reports: National Envelope Co., Chicago, CIO 156, No Union 23. Burt Mason, Intl. Rep. and Member of PWOC was in charge.

CIO Representative Pete Jackson, Washington, D. C., reports: United Paving and Building Supply Workers, CIO, were successful in their election by a vote of 160 for CIO, as against 35 for the AFL and 63 for No Union. Congratulations on this new victory. The day before the election District 50 withdrew from the ballot.

CIO Reg. Dir. George Craig of Philadelphia, reports: Armstrong Cork, Millville, N. J., CIO Glass Workers, 155, AFL 13.

Pres. Martin Wagner, UGCCWA, reports following election victories: Carborundum Corporation, Niagara Falls, N. Y., CIO 1809, District 50, 1067. UG Regional Director Charles Doyle was in charge. General Chemical Co., Buffalo, N. Y., CIO 105, No Union 2. Victory Chemical Co., Buffalo, N. Y., by a card check CIO were successful in getting 114 out of 141 eligible.

CIO Regional Director Hugh Thompson, UG Regional Director Chas. Doyle, UG Representative Gavin Mitchel and CIO Representative John Boyd assisted in these fine victories.

Fred Fudge, CIO representative reports additional UG victory: White Haven Plant, Atlas Powder Co., CIO 141; Against 74.

The Federation of Architects, Engineers, Chemists & Technicians advises:

The Marine Draftsmen's Assn., at Cox & Stevens, affiliate of the Natl. Council of Marine Draftsmen, a national independent and incorporated organization of naval architects, engineers, and draftsmen, overwhelmingly voted to disaffiliate from that organization and following that action, its membership, through a referendum, voted to affiliate with the CIO by a vote of 122 to 19.

The writer attended and addressed the Ohio State Convention meeting in Cleveland this week. It was a very enthusiastic meeting and the officers report to the convention showed a splendid growth. Chairman Sidney Hillman of the PAC made a very stirring address. The delegates wholeheartedly endorsed the CIO policies and are determined to reelect our commander-in-chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt, with Senator Harry S. Truman as vice-president and a progressive congress.

While in Cleveland the Paper Workers Organizing Committee met and this organization is making fine gains in organizing the unorganized in this industry. Their recent fine victory at the West Virginia Paper & Pulp Co., is proving a spring-board for further successes. Intensified organizational activities' plans were laid down.

Martin Gerber, Director District No. 9, UAWA-CIO, reports: Office Workers at General Service Division of Mack Truck Plainfield, N. J., UAW-CIO 146; against 31.

Michael Livoda, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Denver, Colo., reports: Production and Maintenance employees of Golden Cycle Corp., Colorado Springs, Colo., Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, CIO 55; no union 11.

Political Action Gets Spotlight At State Conventions

New Jersey

Newark, N. J., Oct. 14.—Plans for a month's intensive drive to keep New Jersey's 16 electoral votes in the Roosevelt column on Nov. 7 and a program for the postwar period occupied most of the attention of the 600 delegates to the seventh annual convention of the New Jersey State CIO Council held here last week-end.

It was the fourth wartime convention held by the organization, and without a dissenting vote or a moment's discussion, the opening business session reaffirmed the CIO's no-strike pledge and dedicated the 300,000 CIO workers in the state to an uninterrupted flow of the materials needed to defeat Germany and Japan.

The CIO's No. 1 job—political action—was emphasized by the fact that U. S. Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida was selected as the speaker for the first gathering of the delegates and a large number of guests. Introduced by State CIO Pres. Irving Abramson as one of the nation's leading progressive statesmen, Sen. Pepper reviewed the achievements of Pres. Roosevelt's administration and declared that the election of Thomas E. Dewey would mean not only the end of constructive legislation but serious weakening, if not total destruction, of New Deal measures that already have improved the lot of many millions of Americans.

Carl Holderman, state CIO secretary-treasurer, and also state PAC chairman, reported that the registration drives staged throughout New Jersey had produced gratifying results and had proved the CIO's contention that citizens who had hitherto neglected to vote could be stirred to action if the issues were properly presented to them.

The convention unanimously passed a resolution pledging the unions to spur political activities, to seek contributions of $1 each from their members and to build PAC as a force for the future beyond the Nov. 7 election.

In his report to the convention, Pres. Abramson attacked the proposed revised New Jersey Constitution to be voted upon Nov. 7, and the delegates unanimously approved his recommendation that the document is "full of basic defects."

Ohio

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 14.—The thousand delegates and alternates attending the Ohio State CIO convention in session here this week took an afternoon's recess the opening day to "go out and ring doorbells." They took time out to visit shops and homes of Clevelanders to push registration of voters and to intensify their fight to defeat the Dewey-Bricker ticket.

This practical application of political action was decided upon after Ohio CIO Pres. Jack Kroll reminded the delegates that it was the final day for registration and the one day on which all precinct booths were open to permit workers to register in their own neighborhoods.

The time was made up at a night's session at which delegates heard Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee, make a vigorous attack on the Republican candidates. Part of the speech was broadcast and could be heard in the homes of Ohio's 500,000 CIO production workers.

"When John Bricker talks," Hillman said, "one can at least tell what he means. He leaves no doubt in anyone's mind that he is an old-fashioned Hoover reactionary and a hard-hearted isolationist. He makes little if any pretense of being anything else.

"Thomas Dewey, on the other hand, has developed his own peculiar form of deliberate 'double-talk' to such an extent that the only way to judge him is to cancel out everything he says and judge him solely on what he has failed to do."

Pres. Kroll drew cheers from the delegates when he said in opening the final four weeks campaign to explain election issues to the people of Ohio that labor is not a special pleader for any privilege. "The economics of labor, the economics of high wages and full employment," he said, "is the economics of national prosperity and stability, full employment and world peace."

Missouri

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 14.—Resolutions adopted at the state CIO convention here this week put the state organization on record in favor of pending legislation to create a Missouri Valley Authority and pledged full support to national and state Political Action Committees.

Delegates heard Attorney General Roy McKittrick, Democratic senatorial nominee whom the PAC here supported against Senator Bennett Clark in the primary elections, argue in favor of the MVA proposals.

Another resolution endorsed the national CIO program for returning veterans, calling for "full employment, especially for the disabled," and for a liberal interpretation of the GI Bill of Rights. The same resolution called for the passage of legislation along the lines of the Kilgore bill to guarantee full production and full employment. Locals were instructed to establish veterans' welfare committees to assist returning soldiers in adjustment to civilian life.

Additional resolutions called on Congress for the repeal of the Smith-Connally act as "dangerous to democracy and the labor movement," and demanded that Congress enact legislation outlawing poll taxes.

The convention also expressed itself in favor of abandonment of the Little Steel formula, besides calling for addition of medical insurance to the social security program.

Officers elected at the close of the two-day session were Harold Edwards of Kansas City, Steelworkers president, and Louis Wagner of St. Louis, Elecrtical Workers vice-president. James A. Dacis of St. Louis was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The nation-wide drive of Community War Chests to raise a quarter billion dollars was supported this week in a pledge by William R. Bidner, Southern California director, CIO War Relief Committee.

Broadcasting Hit for Public Irresponsibility

A charge that the radio industry has failed to measure up to its public responsibility was made by Richard T. Frankensteen, UAW-CIO vice-president, to the Natl. Assn. of Broadcasters last week.

Presenting labor's views on the radio industry to the Code Committee at New York City, Frankensteen stated that the NAB has violated the standards of operation which the industry itself set up in 1934.

Asserting that labor issues had been given a one-sided presentation over the radio, Frankensteen said, "While the radio industry has given the employers' associations millions of dollars of free time to present their views, policies and beliefs . . . it has given comparatively little free time to organized labor. And in most instances you have even refused to make time available . . . when we offered to pay for it."

Characterting the Broadcasters Code as "a respectable cloak to justify refusal of radio time to labor organizations while . . . enabling the employers to present their views without restriction," Frankensteen urged its abolition.

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE
BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

UNION MADE
MONTHLY
DUES BUTTONS
RIBBON BADGES
AND EMBLEMS
C. M. Geraghty, Inc.
500 Sherman Street, Chicago

SAYS DEWEY IN 1944: "Of course the rights of labor to organize and bargain collectively are fundamental." And here's how "fundamental" they were to Dewey in March, 1941 when he smilingly walked through a picket line of Local 6, Hotel and Restaurant Workers, AFL in New York. Dewey wasn't running for President then.

Family Of 7 Gets $18 A Week, And GOP Senator Doesn't Want To Hear About It!

By C. W. FOWLER

The elderly looking textile worker from Virginia spoke slowly and clearly, telling how he and his wife and their five children made out on $18 a week.

"Its hard, with rents and food and clothes and everything so high, but in a way I'm lucky. I got a house that costs me only $10 a month and we get by. What's in the house? Friends, there ain't nothing in the house, just a house. No water, no toilet, no light, nothing.

"Ive worked 35 years for the Dan River Mills. Now I'm getting 50 cents an hour. Sure could use that 65 cents; sure would help."

The worker, David Hardy of the CIO Textile Workers Union, had come to Washington to testify on Senator Pepper's resolution for a 65 cent floor on wages. He wasn't testifying, because the hearings were postponed, but he told his story in Washington just the same.

The hearings, set for October 12, were postponed because Senator Wherry, Republican of Nebraska, got sarcastic about holding them at this time, saying it was politics. Brother Hardy and about 10 other CIO rank-and-filers from substandard industries didn't know about that, but they did know how tough it is to live on 50 cents an hour.

Mrs. Lena Reneau, a glove worker and member of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers from Louisiana, Mo., is a widow with a 15-year-old girl that she keeps in high school. This is her story:

"I get 50 to 55 cents an hour no matter how hard I work. We have a 40 hour week. It's pretty hard to get along. Even with a man it's pretty hard for us workers. We get nothing to lay by in case we get sick. And clothes, food, everything's higher now."

And Mrs. Ora Green, clothing worker from Lawrence, Pa., who makes work shirts for the Navy. Mrs. Green has been a widow for seven years, has three children.

"Without my brother, he's an engineer on the railroad, we'd starve, I guess. I don't see how others get along. I take home $38 every two weeks. I have to work, and it's hard to get by."

Senator Wherry was quite witty as he complained about holding the hearings at this time. "Furthermore," he said to the N. Y. Herald-Tribune, "I think it's singular that a resolution which has lain dormant since August should be brought up suddenly and simultaneously with the publication of the Hopkins article."

(The article mentioned was by Harry Hopkins, adviser to President Roosevelt, and urged raising substandard pay to "at least 50 and subsequently 60 cents an hour.")

THE CIO CRUSADE

Speaking to the visiting rank-and-filers, Allan S. Haywood, CIO director of Organization, told them: "CIO will keep up this fight until we win. We've never lost yet. This is a crusade for decency in our way of living."

Then there was Clinton Turner, member of the Cannery and Agricultural Workers and a compress worker from Memphis, Tenn. Mr. Turner is a Negro. He makes $22 a week, keeps Mrs. Turner and seven children on it.

The Turners pay $2.50 a week rent. Their home has electricity, no toilet, no hot water. Fuel costs $60 a year. Food costs $14 to $15 a week. Mrs. Turner has "tried and tried, but can't make it any less." There's no item in their budget for clothing, which they buy when they can, nothing for recreation or health, but there's 70 cents a week for their church and $1.25 a month for union dues.

It's not just a "Southern" problem. Fred Barth, delegate from the CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers, told about wages in the cosmetic industry in N.J., where he works. Three quarters of the workers there make less than 65 cents, he said, even though many of the plants are now making war supplies.

Barth has an idea that people should get to learn about the Pepper resolution, and demand action. "We ought to tell the workers in the locals about it," he said. "Tell them and they'll take action — political action — when the election comes."

WAR PROBLEM

It's a war production problem, too. Five thousand workers have left the Riverside Mill in Danville, Va., where one third of the remaining 10,000 get 47.5 cents an hour.

Riverside's profits are up 400 percent. They could easily absorb the difference between 47.5 cents and 65 cents. One of Riverside's vice-presidents gets $45,000 a year. That's about $21 an hour, figuring a 40 hour week.

A WIN-THE-WAR MOVIE WITH A REAL WALLOP

CAPTIVATING NEW, COLOR CARTOON FILM
Featuring The Gay Song Hit "GOTTA GET OUT and VOTE"
Music by Earl Robinson
Lyrics by E. Y. Harburg

The American People on the WIN-THE-WAR SPECIAL behind F.D.R. vs. the DEFEATIST LIMITED

ACT NOW! BOOK IT FOR YOUR SPECIFIC MEETING DATES!
Service Points Nation-Wide

BRANDON FILMS
1600 BROADWAY • NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

GI Bill Fails To Meet Vets' Needs—Murray

Both the GI Bill of Rights and the Selective Service Act fail to meet the needs of war veterans, CIO Pres. Philip Murray said in a forum in New York Times Hall last week.

He also stressed that the only real guarantee of jobs for returning servicemen is the CIO program of full employment.

Murray declared that under the GI Bill of Rights "most veterans will have less than the usually publicized amounts (of unemployment compensation) and some will get nothing," because the measure is tied to inadequate state laws.

Inadequacies of Section 8 of the Selective Service Law are so great, he said, that "about one out of every five veterans will have valid claim on a job and that only for 12 months."

"Accrued seniority," he said, means that the months spent in military service shall be added to any time previously at work.

Murray pointed out that CIO unions have maintained their members in good standing without payment of dues while they are in the services, and that veterans going to work in shops covered by CIO contracts don't have to pay initiation fees.

Murray said that not only will veterans turn to labor organizations for job opportunities but also for advancement by legislation.

"We are not satisfied only to support legislation to provide full veterans' benefits," he said. "It is the burden of the CIO to further protect the veteran by helping to build a society in which all can be secure.

"This is the full reward for their full measure of devotion."

UAW Sets Up Anti-Bias Group

A CIO United Auto Workers Union Fair Practices Committee, composed of five members of the Executive Board and an executive director, was appointed this week by R. J. Thomas, president of the union.

UAW Secy. Treas. George F. Addes was designated chairman, and George W. Crockett, Jr., formerly UAW Consultant on Minorities, was appointed executive director.

The FPC will receive and investigate all complaints alleging violation of the union's anti-discrimination policy. It is empowered to hold hearings and to summon any member or officer of the union to testify. All findings and recommendations are to be presented to the Executive Board for approval and enforcement.

CIO Head Urges Unity Output Plan

Labor, industry and government must cooperate in organizing production around an overall national industry plan supplemented by specific industry plans, CIO Pres. Philip Murray told a Conference of The Nation Associates in an address last week at New York City.

"Labor, management and government got together successfully to produce the weapons for victory," Murray said. "We can stick together to build an enduring prosperity." When government begins withdrawing purchases of 100 billion dollars a year at the end of the war, "there must be consumer demand to equal and exceed the expenditures for war goods," he stated.

"The guarantee of a market for the maximum volume of business can be provided through a Natl. Production Council, with functional representation from labor, industry, agricultural and government.

"Government must provide the vehicle through which national planning can be accomplished."

SEE YOUR
SINCLAIR DEALER
for service that makes your car last longer

STAINLESS STEEL EQUIPMENT FILLS HOSPITAL NEEDS

Stainless steel equipment answers many hospital problems, for hospital equipment has to be strong, easily cleaned, and highly serviceable. Stainless steel resists corrosion from constant cleaning, disinfectants, sterilization with hot steam. It will not rust, chip, or peel with wear. It retains its smooth polished surface which repels dust and dirt.

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 43 82 October 23, 1944

Registration Up! People Rally To Back Roosevelt

(See Page 5)

★ ★ ★

Time Off To Vote— How To Get It In 23 States

(See Page 12)

Auto Union Wins Free Speech on Air In WHKC Case

Freedom of speech on the air won a solid victory this week when radio station WHKC, Columbus, O., agreed with the United Auto Workers Union to carry "controversial" broadcasts without censorship and to give equal time to all points of view.

The agreement, signed by WHKC and the UAW-CIO and filed with the Federal Communications Commission, "is a significant step forward in the development of radio in the interests of all the people," according to UAW Attorney Ernest Goodman.

The agreement provides: 1) time to "non-profit organizations for discussion of issues of public importance, including controversial issues;" 2) no censorship of scripts; 3) maintenance of a "fair balance among various points of view;" and 4) that refusal of time be made with reasons in writing.

WHKC became an issue with the UAW last summer, when the station attempted to censor a speech by Vice-President Richard T. Frankensteen criticizing Senator Taft. The UAW took the issue to the FCC and made it a national campaign for freedom of the air.

With this agreement, WHKC becomes one of the first major stations to break away from the Natl. Assn. of Broadcasters' "code" which prohibits stations from selling time for "controversial" issues. This code has been vigorously attacked by labor as a weapon aimed at gagging its radio voice.

CIO Soldiers Brave Nazi Fire, Win Decorations

Two CIO United Steelworkers in the Army have been decorated for gallantry, one of them for the third time, the War Dept. announced this past week.

Thrice-decorated, Tech. Sgt. John L. Hoover, of Mongahela, Pa., is now a prisoner of war in Germany. Sgt. Paul R. Davidson, McKeesport, Pa., was awarded a Silver Star.

Hoover won a Silver Star for exceeding his orders to locate an enemy position in Italy. Wounded a month later, he received a Purple Heart. In action again a month later in Italy, he was decorated with an Oak Leaf Cluster for reorganizing his platoon twice under heavy enemy fire and thus holding a difficult position until reinforcements arrived.

Davidson also received the Silver Star for bravery in Italy. A radio operator, he left his position to rescue a wounded comrade, returned to his post to direct artillery fire. Thirteen days later after the concussion of a shell had destroyed his radio, and had wounded him, he built one good radio set out of two damaged ones and thus was able to direct fire against the enemy.

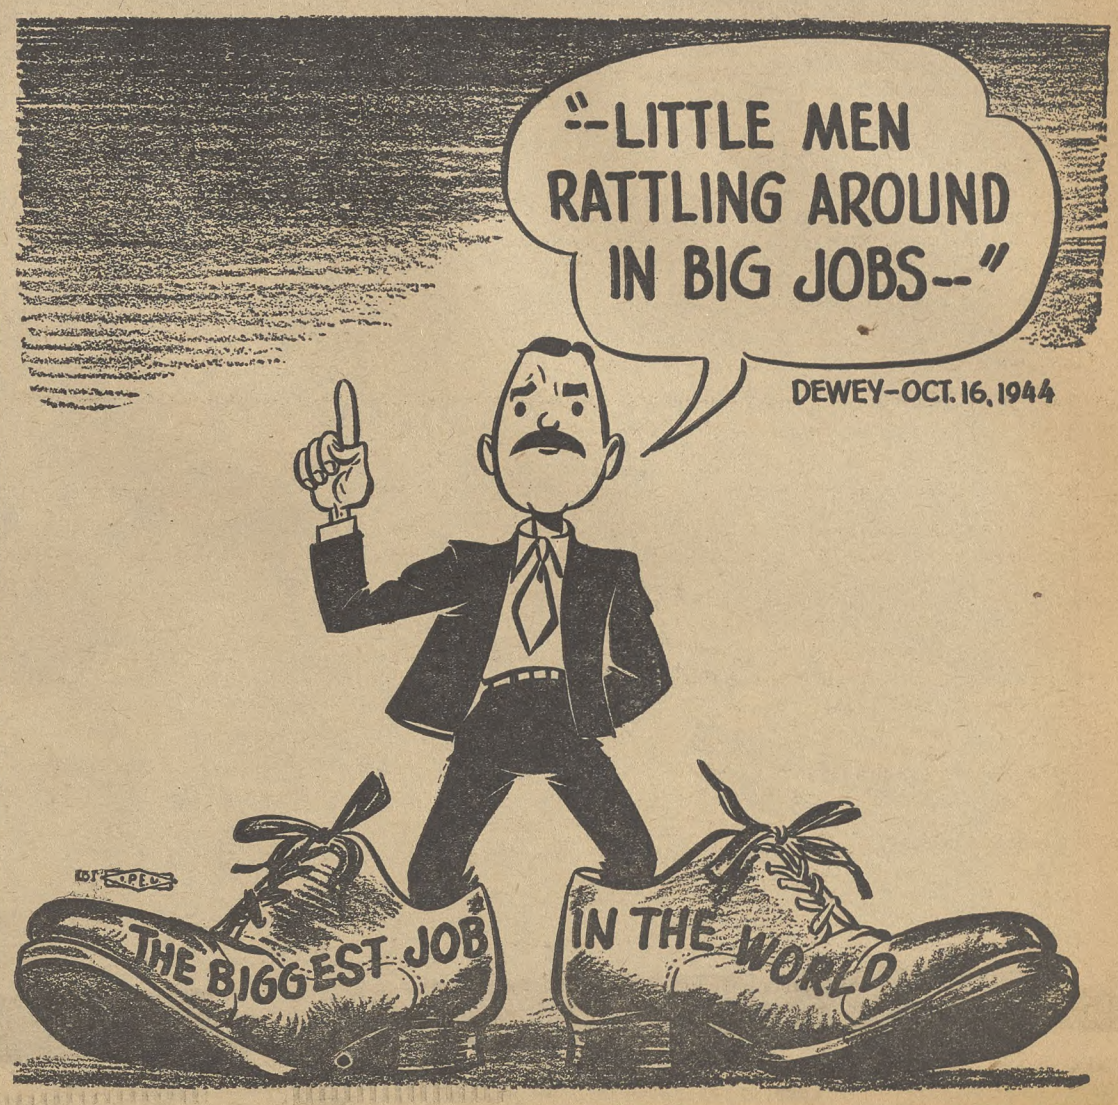
Listen In November 2

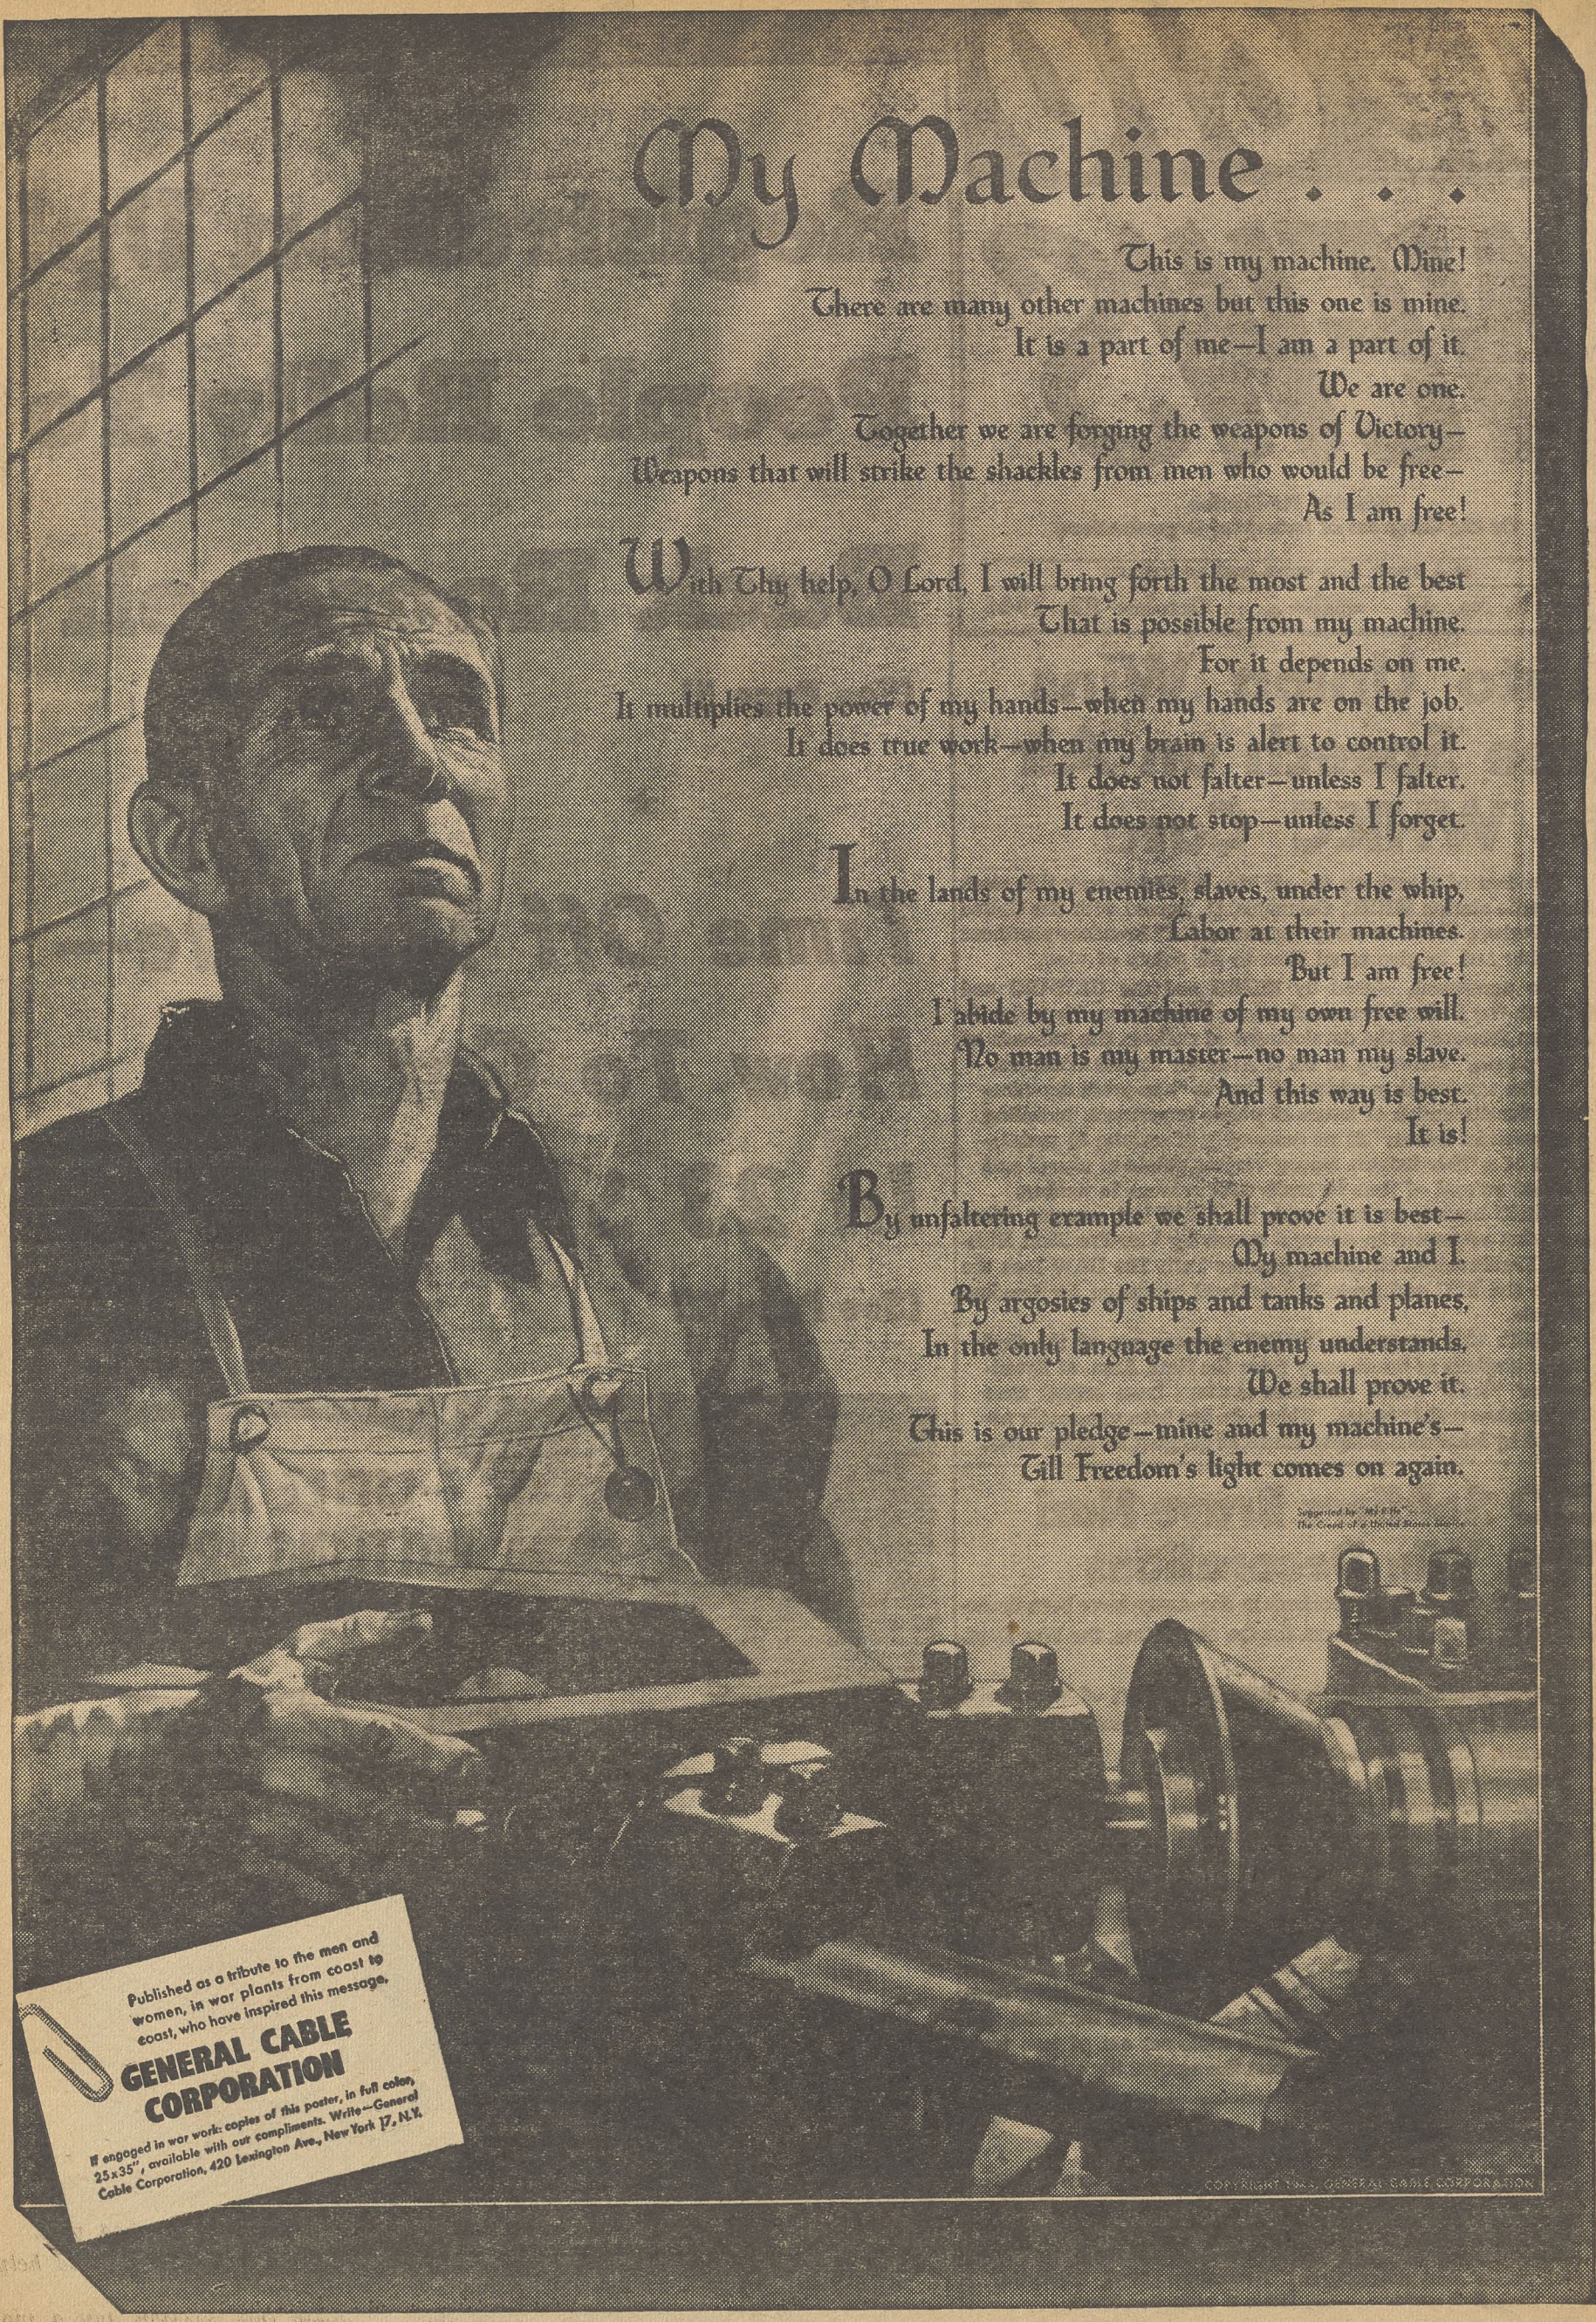
Tune your radio to Natl. Broadcasting Co. stations Thursday, November 2, at 10:30 p.m. Eastern War Time.

Philip Murray is going to speak from a mass FDR rally in New York that night.

He'll make an appeal for every American man and woman to get out the vote for FDR and a progressive Congress.

Remember: NBC, Thursday, Nov. 2, 10:30 p.m. EWT.





My Machine . . .

This is my machine. Mine!
There are many other machines but this one is mine.
It is a part of me—I am a part of it.
We are one.
Together we are forging the weapons of Victory—
Weapons that will strike the shackles from men who would be free—
As I am free!

With Thy help, O Lord, I will bring forth the most and the best
That is possible from my machine.
For it depends on me.
It multiplies the power of my hands—when my hands are on the job.
It does true work—when my brain is alert to control it.
It does not falter—unless I falter.
It does not stop—unless I forget.

In the lands of my enemies, slaves, under the whip,
Labor at their machines.
But I am free!
I abide by my machine of my own free will.
No man is my master—no man my slave.
And this way is best.
It is!

By unfaltering example we shall prove it is best—
My machine and I.
By argosies of ships and tanks and planes,
In the only language the enemy understands,
We shall prove it.
This is our pledge—mine and my machine's—
Till Freedom's light comes on again.

Suggested by "My Fifth"
The Creed of a United States Soldier

Published as a tribute to the men and women, in war plants from coast to coast, who have inspired this message,

GENERAL CABLE CORPORATION

If engaged in war work: copies of this poster, in full color, 25x35", available with our compliments. Write—General Cable Corporation, 420 Lexington Ave., New York 17, N.Y.

COPYRIGHT 1944, GENERAL CABLE CORPORATION

No. 1 Job for Nov. 7— Get Out the Vote!

The day will soon be here. Before you know it November 7 will be upon us.

We hope on that day you will vote for Roosevelt and a progressive Congress to support him.

But whatever way you have decided to vote—decide right now that, like the postman, "neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night" shall keep you from voting on November 7.

Let's Get Down to Cases

What can I do, you may ask, other than to vote and to make sure that my family votes?

You can make a pledge to yourself or to your union, or to whatever oganization you may belong, interested in good citizenship, that you will get at least 10 people to vote.

Make a list of these 10 people—friends, relatives, co-workers, neighbors. Several days before election contact them and ask them to be sure to vote.

Do not argue with them. Do not try to convince them at this late date how to vote. Their minds are undoubtedly already made up.

Tell them it is their duty to vote. Offer to help them, if they need help, to find their polling place, how to use a voting machine, or in whatever other way you can help them.

On Election Day call on these people or telephone them to make sure that they voted.

What the Union Can Do

Every union hall should be turned into a Get-Out-The-Vote Center.

1. As soon as registration is over, each union should get the lists of voters. The Political Action Steward should be supplied with a list of all the qualified voters in his shop and the number of members in their families who are also eligible to vote.

2. Each Steward or Political Action Shop Chairman should call a shop meeting and elect an Election Day Shop Committee.

3. Members of the Election Day

Committee may be able to arrange to take a day off to volunteer as Poll Watchers or as canvassers.

4. The Committee should check the list of voters in their shop before Election Day.

5. They should tell workers that they are entitled to two hours leave, without deduction in pay, provided they apply for it the day before.

6. On Election Day the Committee should check to make certain that all those registered to vote get to the polls on November 7.

Non-Partisan Committee

You can help in your neighborhood.

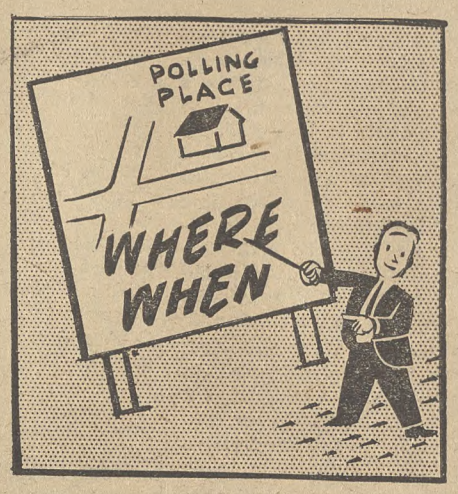
In every block or in every apartment house you should help organize a Non-Partisan Election Day Committee. This Committee should not concern itself with how people are going to vote—but to see to it that they do not fail to vote.

Each community committee should have the information they need for their particular district—where the polls are located; the people running for office; how to use a voting machine; and so on.

The best way to reach people is through a personal visit.

The best time to reach them is on Sunday morning or weekdays, 7-9:30 in the evening.

Every voter should be visited at least twice: once, during the week before Election Day, and again on Election Day.



No canvasser should undertake too large a territory. It is better to cover less ground to do it thoroughly.

The Telephone Brigade

If you cannot undertake to go out and ring doorbells, do it by telephone.

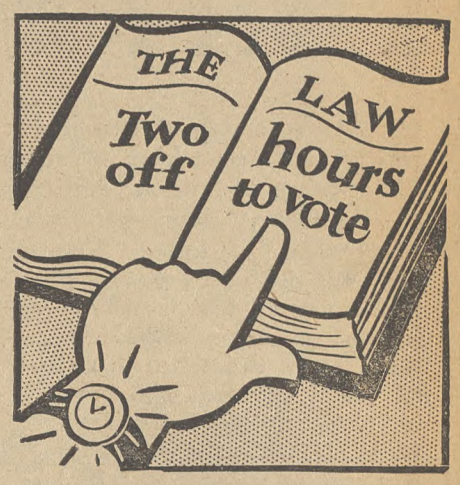
A well-organized telephone brigade can do marvels for any election.

Whether you are canvassing in person or by telephone—start out with an offer to help them. Ask them whether there is anything you can do to make it possible for them to vote on November 7.

1. Do they know where the polling place is?

2. Do they know that they are entitled to two hours off for voting without deduction in pay, if they apply for it the day before?

3. Do they know how to mark a ballot or use the voting machine?



4. Do they know that they are allowed three minutes in the poll without being disturbed?

5. If the voter is a woman with small children, offer to stay at their house, or get someone to stay, while she goes to vote.

6. Urge housewives to vote early in the morning, when the children are in school or the husbands at work.

7. Urge housewives to get after their husbands to vote.

8. Ask your neighbors and friends to help out on Election Day—to take people to polling places or stay at their homes with small children while the mothers vote.

On Election Day

Some of you will be able to arrange to take Election Day off and help your union on your Community Get-Out-The-Vote Committee in various Election Day activities.

Women who are not on a job can be particularly helpful on Election Day.

But to be helpful on Election Day you must prepare for it in advance.

Start right now.

A big vote is a good vote.

Make it your business to help turn out the vote!

Make this election day a victory of the people.

Canadian Labor Is Strong For Political Action

By LEN DE CAUX

At the scene of two historic meetings between Roosevelt and Churchill, on a mighty cliff for which three nations battled centuries ago, a parliament of labor held session last week, dedicating itself to the goals of freedom, international unity and lasting peace set by the United Nations.

Quebec's Chateau Frontenac was an unusual setting for a labor convention. The 500 delegates to the fifth anual parley of the Canadian Congress of Labour, representing all that is newest and most progressive in the New World, found themselves in an Old World city that still preserves the architecture and traditions of 17th century France. They met in a hotel that has been the haunt of kings and queens and presidents and millionaires.

In this French-speaking city of contrasts, where a modern luxury hotel on the historic ramparts looks down on the huddled poverty of narrow streets and ancient slums; where English afternoon tea is served and "Quick Lunch" signs contrast with the prevailing French on little restaurants; where wealthy tourists jostle pale, stunted and undernourished victims of low wages and little unionism; and where one of the most reactionary provincial administrations has its seat of government—the labor delegates presented an even more challenging contrast.

Political action for victory and progress, to end unemployment and provide jobs for all, to make democracy live and grow for all the people—this is the main issue in 1944 for Canadian labor, which has reached new heights of organizational strength. And the tactics which labor political action should follow were the chief bone of contention at this CCL convention.

Two languages, French and English, were used throughout at the convention. Some of the delegates used the English expressions, "hear, hear" and "shame," to voice approval or disapproval during speeches. But aside from such surface differences, the Canadian Congress was much like a U. S. labor convention.

Varied Backgrounds

The delegates have the same wide variety of national and racial backgrounds, work at the same kind of jobs under closely similar conditions, belong mostly to the same unions and often work for the same employers as their brothers in the United States.

The Canadian Congress is made up of the Canadian sections of CIO international unions together with a number of purely Canadian national unions and locals. Its membership has increased by 50 thousand since last year to a present total of about 250,000. This makes it approximately equal in strength to the Canadian Trades & Labour Congress, which is composed of AFL affiliates in Canada.

Biggest unions in the CCL are the UAW-CIO, the CIO United Steelworkers, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes, and the United Mine Workers of America, whose Canadian districts remain affiliated to the CCL despite John L. Lewis' desertion of the CIO in the United States.

Political Action

Other strong and growing CCL unions include the CIO United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, Intl. Woodworkers, Packinghouse, Clothing, Rubber and Fur and Leather Workers.

Canadian labor has long realized the importance of labor political action, and the CCL has a Political Action Committee to promote activity in this field. At its 1943 convention it endorsed the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, which since that time has increased its strength to become the second party in the Ontario legislature and has established the first CCF provincial government in Saskatchewan.

More than 30 CCL and AFL unionists have been elected to provincial legislatures on the CCF ticket, and several more as candidates of the Labor-Progressive party.

With these and other evidences of labor's growing political influence, with the early approach of federal elections, and with the increasing realization that Canada's postwar prosperity and peace will depend on the election of a progressive government, the CCL convention devoted its chief attention to the program and policies which should be followed in political action.

Relations With CCF

CCL Pres. A. R. Mosher, who is also president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes, in his keynote speech stressed the great expansion of war production and employment made possible by government planning and control.

He declared that similar controls over private enterprise would be necessary after the war "to win the war against poverty, unemployment and the other evils which have in the past resulted from the operation of the so-called system of free enterprise," and advocated the wide extension of public ownership, operation and control over industry.

Mosher stated that the Montreal convention of the CCL had endorsed the CCF and recommended affiliation by its unions because "we believe that the principles and policies of the CCF represent more closely the views of Canadian workers than those of any other political party in Canada at the present time."

He explained, however, that "the Congress is not affiliated with the CCF, and that no Congress union, whether chartered or affiliated, is under any compulsion to become affiliated with the CCF, so far as this Congress is concerned."

Sharp Challenges

This attitude toward the CCF was sharply challenged at the Quebec convention in a large number of resolutions from CCL affiliates, which opposed restricting support to one political party; called for expansion of the Political Action Committee to include representation for a wider range of political thought; and advocated a non-partisan policy similar to that of the CIO in the U. S. for the election of pro-labor and progressive candidates regardless of party, and looking toward a coalition of all progressive and democratic forces for the enactment of a common program.

A prolonged debate took place on a resolution endorsing the program of the Natl. Political Action Committee and recommending that provincial and local political action committees representative of organizations affiliated with the Congress be set up as soon as possible.

A. R. MOSHER
President, Canadian Congress Of Labor

PAT CONROY
Secy.-Treas., Canadian Congress Of Labor

This was opposed by spokesmen for the UAW, UE and other unions on the ground that it retained the existing tie-up with the CCF. An amendment was moved from the floor favoring broadening of the PAC "to include every shade of labor and progressive political opinion in our ranks," opposing restricting PAC activities "to the support of any one party," and calling for non-partisan political activity "to unite all forward-looking progressive forces around a commonly accepted program of postwar reform, progress and world peace."

The amendment was defeated by a hand vote, and the original resolution endorsing the program of the Natl. PAC without change in the tie-up with the CCF was adopted by a rollcall vote unofficially estimated at 270 to 180.

There were another flurry of controversy during discussion of an unanimously adopted resolution in support of the United Packinghouse Workers' struggle for a "master" or national agreement with their employers.

No-Strike Policy

A number of delegates from the floor spoke vigorously for observance of a no-strike policy during wartime. But Pres. Mosher declared that whereas "of course we're all opposed to strikes," the CCL had never given a no-strike pledge.

C. H. Millard of the Steelworkers; J. E. McGuire of the CBRE, and other national CCL executives from the platform also disclaimed any CCL no-strike pledge and declared their opposition to the adoption of any no-strike pledge or policy.

Later a resolution was introduced pledging all-out production for victory and declaring that the CCL "reiterates its pledge to do all in its power to avoid strike action."

This resolution was challenged from the floor as inadequate by advocates of a no-strike pledge, who described it as a "retreat" from the action taken at the 1943 convention when a resolution was passed declaring that the CCL "reaffirms its win-the-war no-strike pledge."

In a long and warm debate, national CCL executives, including Silby Barrett, A. McAuslane and Millard, again opposed a no-strike pledge or policy and favored the resolution, which was finally adopted by a substantial majority in a hand vote.

The debate was in sharp contrast to similar debates at CIO conventions in the U. S., where national CIO and union leaders have fought to retain a no-strike policy against occasional rank-and-file opposition. Here the roles were reversed.

In a resolution on foreign policy, the CCL voted for international cooperation for peace; against "economic isolation" and for "unrestricted trade and economic cooperation with other nations;" for Canada to join the Pan-American Union; and for a pact between Canada and the USSR similar to the treaty between Britain and the Soviet Union.

In its postwar program, the CCL stressed dismissal pay for displaced workers; adequate provision for veterans; expansion of "social ownership," and preference for companies with union agreements in the allocation of government contracts.

CIO Vice-Pres. Reid Robinson, president of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, addressed the convention, urging the early calling of a world labor congress, stressing that labor's first responsibility is to destroy fascism, and describing the CIO program for political action and jobs for all. He said that his union now has 140,000 members in the United States and Canada.

Govt. Speakers

Canadian Minister of Labor Humphrey, Quebec Prime Minister Duplessis and an imposing list of national and provincial government leaders also addressed the convention, as well as Asst. Director of the Intl. Labor Organization Adolf Staal.

Staal called attention to the "immense importance" of ILO plans to set up International Industrial Committees, including representatives from unions in each country in a given industry, along with government and employer representatives, to regulate social and economic conditions in the various industries.

The International Federations of Textile, Transport, Mine and Metal Workers' unions, and the British Trades Union Congress had asked for such ILO committees, Staal said, and the last ILO convention directed immediate steps to set them up.

Canadian War Film Board

JUST LIKE HOME: Crowd of delegates at CCL Convention looks just like delegates to U. S. labor parleys.

Congress and US

FDR Foes Use Nazi Tactics to Evade Democratic Justice

By C. W. FOWLER

One of Joseph Goebbels' most boastful lines ran to the effect that Nazism knew how to destroy democracy from within. Exploiting what he called democracy's weakness, Nazi agents would be able to take over in the U. S. or any country simply by taking advantage of the democratic process of fair and open trial and hearing of those who seek to destroy it.

This attempt has been made at the sedition trial here in Washington, where 20 odd indicted seditionists have stalled a jury trial for six months now. The same theory is being used before the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee by a group of pro-fascists calling themselves the "American Democratic National Committee."

Masquerading under the "democratic" mask of defeating FDR and "saving the country from communistic dictatorship," this group is trying the same fascist-style defiance of law and order perfected by the Stormtroopers in the time of the German republic.

They have openly defied the law (Federal Corrupt Practices Act) which says that all political contributions must be listed, with name and address of the contributor, with the Clerk of the House of Representatives. They have defied the Smith-Connally Act by accepting contributions from corporations. They have defied the law by accepting anonymous contributions.

CRUMMEY TESTIMONY

When faced with these facts by the Senate Committee, William J. Goodwin, American Democratic National Committee treasurer, blandly said: "I don't believe we come under the Act," and then hastily added in a loud voice: "We're trying to save your country, Senator, from the communistic New Deal dictatorship."

Under further questioning, Goodwin and his committee's auditor, a character named Crummey, revealed further defiance of the letter and spirit of the law. Books were kept under fictitious conditions. Obscure items were listed simply as "expenses," turning out to be commission fees, radio fees, etc.

Always the reluctant admission of illegal or dubious acts was accompanied by loud bellowings about "saving the country" from FDR, "dictatorship," etc. This is the fascist technique when caught in a legal snare—deny that the law applies and yell slogans.

FOR BRICKER AND DEWEY

Two more interesting points were brought out by leader Goodwin. One came in his unsolicited denial that he had ever described democracy as "unadulterated slime," and that he was anti-Semetic. The other came in his confession that of the two GOP candidates he preferred Bricker to Dewey.

Goodwin, however, has been able to swallow his disappointment over the selection of Dewey as GOP front man to campaign for him in Queens County, New York, and to predict that his support will give Dewey the county by 60,000 on election day.

Dewey once made an equivocal repudiation of another pro-fascist supporter of his, G. L. K. Smith. The repudiation came only after heavy prodding, chiefly from CIO-PAC. Goodwin's headquarters in New York, at Park Avenue's Murray Hill Hotel, carries a big Dewey-Bricker streamer.

Will Governor Dewey and Goodwin's special favorite Bricker repudiate this one too?

'Hot' Type Artists Control Hot Air Too, Survey Shows

Newspapers associated with radio stations are plugging Thomas Dewey three-to-one, and the radio stations with whom they are affiliated favor Dewey by more than two-to-one.

"Editor and Publisher," which disclosed these facts in its Sept. 23 issue, found that of the 208 newspapers which have taken sides in the present campaign and which are associated with either newspaper-owned or affiliated radio stations, 152 favor Dewey and 56 favor Roosevelt.

Analysis of the policy of the 163 radio stations with whom they are affiliated reveals that 103 are out for Dewey, 47 favor Roosevelt, and 13 favor each candidate.

Herbert's Little Hitch-hiker

Papa Herbert's little hitch-hiker has been at it again. Not content with trying to steal a ride on the New Deal social progress wagon, Tom Dewey is now trying desperately to grab a free ride on FDR's foreign policy.

To listen to him talk about "Mr. Hull and I" you might think that Dewey was already in the White House and Hull was working for him and his front man Dulles.

To hear him say in his patronizing way that "a good beginning has been made" with the Dumbarton Oaks United Nations conference, you might think that Dewey and Dulles were already dealing with Churchill and Stalin and Chiang Kai-Shek.

That's the side Herbert's little boy presents to the voters who believe in world unity now and after the war. The side he presents to the isolationists and the Axis admirers like Col. McCormick and the Nazi Bund is different.

For their benefit he denounces Dumbarton Oaks because the meetings were held in secret. What does he want—a Madison Square Garden meeting with every German and Japanese spy in the country sitting in front row seats?

For their benefit he rants at Russia and sneers at Britain. For their benefit he has his lady liars like Luce say that we attacked Japan at Pearl Harbor, that FDR deliberately goaded innocent peaceloving Hitler into war.

But Herbert's little boy isn't going to hitch his way into the White House—not if YOU get out the vote on election day.

Phooey for Dewey

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 21—The CIO Electrical Workers were so eager to support the Political Action Committee that, although their Pneumatic Aerol Co. plant is just being organized, they chipped in and donated $25 in cash to the organizers.

"That's what we think of Dewey," the men said.

Nov. 7 Lullaby

Last night I heard upon the air
The little man who isn't there;
He'll not be there again that day
When John Q. Voter has his say.

F. H. Luscomb

Registration Tops 1940 In Cities—Vote Drive Now No. 1 Job

Registration of eligible voters in chief industrial cities will top 1940, despite GOP efforts to block CIO registration drives and despite migration of millions of war workers in the past four years.

This is the encouraging report, based on incomplete figures coming to The CIO News. It shows that the 1940 total of some 60,000,000 registered voters may be exceeded when final reports come in—and it gives special urgency to the next step in the campaign—the drive to get out the vote on election day.

Emphasizing this final drive, CIO Pres. Philip Murray and PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman told all CIO members this week:

"We must concentrate our effort on just one task—to get out the vote on election day. This is the No. 1 job of every local union officer, staff member, shop steward and PAC committeeman.

"This is the No. 1 job, to assure the re-election of President Roosevelt for speedy victory in the war, lasting peace and jobs for all."

THE FIGURES

Here are some of the registration returns, showing increases in the principal industrial cities where the FDR vote can be expected to be heaviest.

In Chicago, the total on Oct. 20 was 2,390,853, including suburbs. This is 250,000 over 1940. More than 70,000 soldier ballot applications are in, with about 4,000 a day coming in.

New York totals closed at 3,216,613. With some 375,000 soldier ballot applications in, this will top 1940 by better than 160,000. The figure was achieved in spite of New York's having lost almost 750,000 people who have migrated to other war industry centers. Upstate New York figures were not available as The CIO NEWS went to press.

New Jersey's principal industrial counties showed a total of 1,742,300 registered, up about 35,000 over 1940.

Boston, where registration closed Oct. 18, showed a total of 349,000 in a report dated Oct. 10, not counting the soldiers' vote. PAC people expect Boston and other Massachusetts cities to top 1940 easily.

MIDWEST REPORTS

Cities in the industrial belt in the midwest, where Republicans are counting on isolationist feeling to carry them through, show increases over 1940.

Milwaukee reported 286,000 registered Oct. 18, with nine days of registration to go. The 286,000 figure is 92 per cent of the 1940 total.

Marion County, Ind., which includes Indianapolis, showed 325,000 with the closing date Oct. 9. This is 15,000 above 1940. Evansville, Ind., showed 108,000; 23,000 over 1940. Lake County, including Hammond and the Gary steel districts, totalled 180,000, an increase of 30,000 over 1940.

Incomplete returns from Michigan, where registration closed Oct. 18, show a total of 733,000, including soldiers' ballots applied for. This is 11,000 over 1940.

Philadelphia figures are up over 1940 by about 63,000, including armed forces ballots sent out. Alleghany County (Pittsburgh) showed a total of 709,805 for 1944, not including 93,603 ballots sent to soldiers.

FAR WEST TOTALS UP

Far West totals are up too, according to incomplete figures received at PAC. Seattle, Wash., showed an increase of 97,000 over 1940. Portland, Ore., showed an increase of approximately 17,000 without counting the soldier vote.

Incomplete returns from California show that registration will be well above 1940 figures.

All in all, the registration results are encouraging. But registration is only half the battle. The rest of the campaign will be decided on election day. Victory will depend on whether or not we get out the vote.

What do you want to hear on your radio late Tuesday night, on November 7? Dewey or FDR?

FDR EARRINGS: A smart fashion note is set by Miss Ann Burr, New York actress. The earrings are being distributed by the Teachers Union, affiliated with the CIO State, County & Municipal Workers.

Says Ohio Congressmen Anti-Labor, Anti-Negro

A charge that residents of Greater Cincinnati have representing them in Congress men who are anti-labor and anti-Negro was made this week by Pres. Willard S. Townsend of the CIO Transport Service Workers Union. He identified the men as Senator Taft and Congressmen Ellston and Hess.

Townsend said that Taft "reached an all-time low when he generaled the sabotaging of the Federal Education Bill."

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE
BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

UNION MADE
MONTHLY
DUES BUTTONS
RIBBON BADGES
AND EMBLEMS
C. M. Geraghty, Inc.
500 Sherman Street, Chicago

• MEMBERS OF THE CIO TRANSPORT W a N. Y. City councilman, tell them that "T and what is good for Delaney is bad for you

LABOR FOR

By HELEN KAY, Editor
State County & Municipal Workers New

IT'S a people's campaign, this campaign to g President Roosevelt re-elected. It's a peopl march to the polls, and the methods go do into the ways of the people. Milk drivers lea FDR literature tied to the morning milk b tles. Laundry drivers deliver bundles wi PAC's punchy campaign literature. Offices y phone, answer: "Have you registered? Vo for FDR."

The ways of a people's political campai are numberless. Hundreds of volunteer wo ers went through thousands of membersh cards, sorting them into election distric Thousands are still ringing doorbells, and ta

• ABOVE: Hannah Zweibel, Brooklyn, N. Y., is a housewife. She is holding a piece of literature which urged her to be sure to register and vote for FDR. CIO laundry workers packed the message into her bundle a month before election. On their trucks they carried "Vote for Roosevelt" signs.

• WHEN LEAFLETS WERE given out in Wall Street (above, middle), some sneered. One well dressed Wall Streeter queried a leafleteer, an office worker: "You're a brave one to come down to Wall Street with FDR literature." Quipped back the office worker: "I would have been brave to have come in 1929, when I hear men like you were jumping out of windows."

• LEFT, ABOVE: Workers at the Gusbach Machine Products Shop, Brooklyn, arranged through their union, the CIO Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, to get time off for registering with pay. Worker Georgiana Shaible and Manager Milton Kail discuss joint management-labor prizes for the shift that gets 100 per cent registration first.

• LEFT: AFTER THE MEETING Mike Quill gave the They had heard him tell Transit workers that he had same shop gate 10 years back, when the men were w week. "And if Dewey were elected, it would no longe five-day week, or even a six-day week, you'd get tha again." Small fry immediately wanted FDR buttons, one, "if Dewey's elected, he'll make us go to school

RKERS hear Michael Quill, union president and sit Commissioner Delaney wears a Dewey button, Most of the workers wear CIO and FDR buttons.

● ART WELD
SEAMAN
CANVASSER

● ABOVE: Office worker Lois Remmers, member of the CIO Office & Professional Workers Union, works for a religious magazine. She, with hundreds of others, distributed leaflets on N. Y. City street corners. One million leaflets were distributed in one day.

ROOSEVELT!

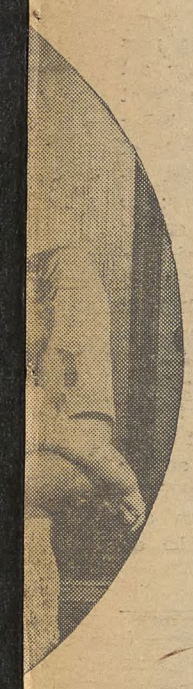
ing to their neighbors. Millions of leaflets have been distributed under doors, at street corners, on trains and buses. Plus hundreds of shop gate meetings and lunch hour meetings, between shift meetings and neighborhood meetings, street corner meetings and church teas, to spread the word: "FDR pledged jobs. He has put forward an economic bill of rights. We're voting against breadlines and apples, when we vote for FDR." CIO teachers go down to a neighborhood election club, and teach the literacy requirements for first voters. CIO insurance agents chat on their collection rounds about the campaign's importance. CIO rental clerks wore badges during registration week, asking their customers the simple question: "Have you registered?"

Sound trucks played martial, patriotic music, as workers covered street corners and shop gates, gave out literature to mothers with babies, fathers with lunch boxes, shoppers with bundles, and children with school books, to carry the message back into the homes.

A million leaflets were distributed in New York City in a single day. And there were stair climbing and doorbell ringing, too, because just putting leaflets under doors isn't enough. There are vital questions of war and peace to be decided with this election, and there are many questions that the doubtful and the sincere may have. And it's important for the welfare of the nation and of the world that any doubts the people may have, be resolved in favor of the man who is their hope and guiding star—Commander-in-Chief Franklin D. Roosevelt.

● ABOVE: John Loukas and Ignatio Alexandrakis are quizzing each other in preparation for literacy test they must pass in order to vote. CIO teachers taught classes, but these two oldsters preferred to help each other out. Alexandraskis has two sons in the Army. That's why he felt impelled to vote for the first time. They're both fur workers.

● The Rev. John H. Johnson, of St. Martin's Episcopal Church, urged Harlem parishioners to register and vote.



ds FDR buttons.
n coming to this ding a seven-day a question of a eventh day back ause," explained the sixth day."

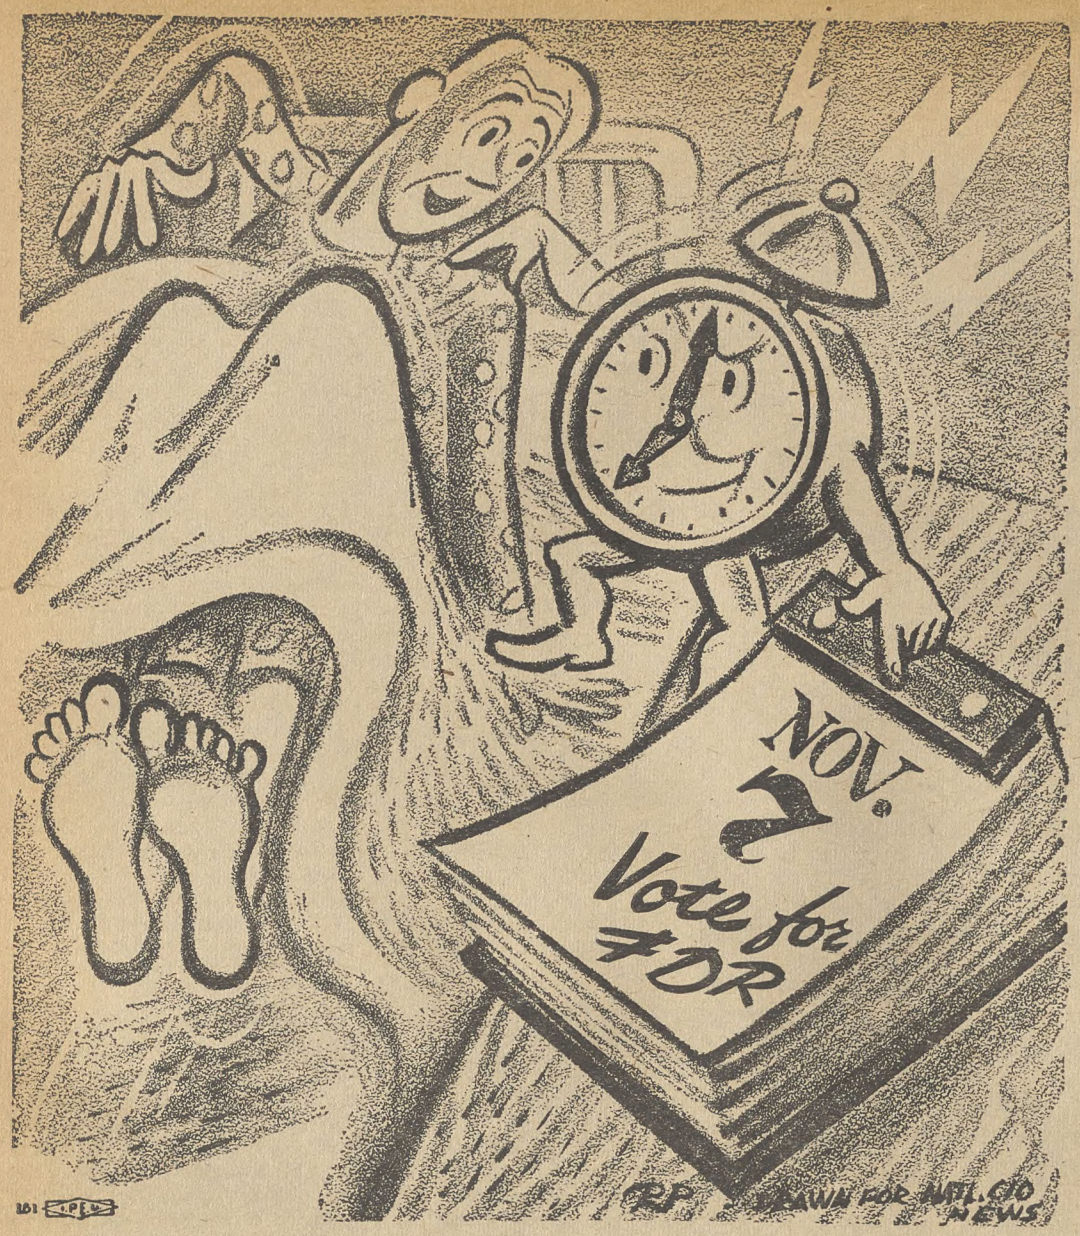
● SEAMAN Art Weld wears the pin seamen wear when they have been in combat waters. (Notice picture at top.) He says: "Dewey wants to fight the world for foreign trade. The cut-throat policy of competition leads to conflict and war. With victory must come cooperation with other nations. As merchant seamen we see this clearly. Our jobs are tied up with this."

● LEFT: Art Weld, merchant mariner, canvassed in Chelsea. He didn't have much convincing to do with Mrs. Leona Lane. She's voting for FDR, for herself, her family and her baby. "My husband's in war industry, and we've got to think of reconversion. It's most important. We want to know where the baby's next meal is coming from, and that he won't have to go to war in 20 years. We're for FDR because he's behind OPA, and trying to hold down the cost of living. We know what he stands for."

● AT RIGHT: The Negro Labor Victory Committee, composed of Harlem trade union leaders, looks over territory at campaign headquarters, blocking out street rallies, neighborhood canvassing, getting the message out to Register and Vote for FDR.



Getting Out The Vote

Registration is pretty much over as this issue of the CIO NEWS goes to press. The figures are encouraging. They show that despite the absence of millions of young people in the armed forces, despite the moving around of millions of war workers, the people are determined to do their part November 7.

Much credit is due to CIO and CIO-PAC for mobilizing the people to vote. This they have done as a public service, not inquiring how each citizen intends to vote once he has registered.

It is well recognized that a big vote will be a vote for President Roosevelt and a light vote will tell for the Dewey - Hoover - Dulles gang. FDR's foreign policy, the record of the New Deal over the past 12 years, the fact that Dewey and the GOP have nothing but isolationism and hunger to offer the nation, have given FDR the support and enthusiasm of the people.

But enthusiasm is not enough, nor is support concrete unless it is translated into votes on November 7. The same patriotic job that CIO and CIO-PAC have done in turning out a big registration must be repeated in turning out an equally big vote on election day.

Every worker and every citizen who loves his country will make this job of helping to get out the vote his major assignment between now and November 7. This is more than simply a matter of each man and woman determining to cast his or her own individual ballot.

This is the most important crisis America has faced since 1864, when Lincoln, Commander-in-Chief and President, ran for re-election in the midst of a great war. The people of America voted to retain their Commander - in - Chief then, in a time of great national crisis. They will vote to retain their Commander-in-Chief in a time of equal emergency now—and must vote in unprecedented numbers to make sure of retaining him.

It will be the duty and privilege of every American next November 7, as it was 80 years ago, to vote and to help his neighbor and his fellow citizen to vote.

A Major Job For Women

War production has gone far to show that there are very few "men's jobs" that women can't do.

Next November 7, there's a job women must do that matches and even outweighs the task for the men on that day. This is the job of getting out a huge vote for FDR.

According to Mrs. Verda Barnes, director of the Women's Division of CIO-PAC, it's a matter of simple arithmetic; women voters this year outnumber men voters. Here are some of the figures:

The total of adults of voting age is 88,500,000. Ten million can't vote due to the polltax, leaving 78,500,000. Of these, about 5,500,000 men in the armed forces won't be able to vote, due to Dewey-GOP refusal to allow them.

Another 30 percent of the 73,000,000 now left won't be able to vote because of failure or inability to register, due either to restrictive laws or to inertia and plain forgetfulness.

The U. S. Census shows men and women about equally divided, with women having an edge of some 600,000. This doesn't take into account the absence of 11,000,000 or more men in the armed forces.

As Mrs. Barnes points out, women will therefore cast about 60 percent of all votes November 7.

Women have a stake in this election equal to and in common with the stake of all Americans. Dewey-Hoover-Dulles and Co. promise only insecurity; in foreign policy leading to another war and in domestic policy leading to unemployment and breadlines.

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

A RECENT anti-FDR cartoon lampooning the occupants of the White House includes Fala sniffing for Dewey—down a rat-hole!

Which prompts the reflection that Dewey's biggest liabilities are his own supporters, who seem to delight in showing him up.

Every time Dewey trims his moustache and his sails and tries to prove he's almost as good as Roosevelt, along comes Bricker denouncing the New Deal and promising Dewey will undo all the good Roosevelt has done.

When Dewey pitches some woo at labor, every anti-union employer and every labor-baiting newspaper shouts, "Hurray for our side, we'll sure stop this coddling of labor and put the unions in their place."

Dewey says "me too," when Roosevelt talks of winning the war and international collaboration for lasting peace—and the Chicago Tribune, N.Y. Daily News and Hearst press add to their daily doses of isolationism, defeatism and United Nations-baiting, "Vote for Dewey, he's our man."

★ ★ ★

Dewey tries to make a noise like a New Dealer himself at times; says he'll do almost as much as Roosevelt to retain and expand New Deal social gains; promises to keep Roosevelt's military leaders; and even hints he might like to keep Cordell Hull.

The sincerity of such professions might be more evident, however, if Dewey would carry them one step further by coming out for keeping the Commander-in-Chief too.

For Pres. Roosevelt is the keystone of the whole structure of New Deal social gains, victorious military strategy, and a foreign policy for world peace and prosperity.

★ ★ ★

Despite Dewey's double-talk, the real choice in these elections is not between Roosevelt and an aspiring substitute or rather splotchy carbon copy of the original.

It is between two diametrically opposed programs for the war and postwar periods, whose differences Dewey simply tries to gloss over for vote-catching purposes.

Roosevelt, along with his military advisers and the leaders of the other United Nations, has devised the grand strategy that is leading us to final victory.

His removal as Commander-in-Chief is ardently desired by all the shady pro-fascist elements that trail along behind Dewey. Even the most patriotic Deweyites cannot believe such a change would hasten victory.

Roosevelt is the leader who consistently warned against the fascist menace, who worked to unite the United Nations for victory, and who is now carrying forward this unity for the preservation of future world peace.

John Foster Dulles, whom Dewey would make Secretary of State, has had a long record of sympathetic association with Nazi and Fascist elements in most foreign countries and declared before the war that Germany and Japan would never attack the United States.

Isolationists and snipers against the United Nations are 100% for Dewey in this campaign. If you doubt this, read the pro-Dewey press or listen to such British and Soviet-baiting radio commentators as Upton Close, sponsored by James S. Kemper, chairman of the Republican National Finance Committee.

★ ★ ★

If Dewey has any sympathies for labor, why are union-fighting bosses like Ernest Weir and Sewell Avery of Montgomery Ward so active on his behalf? Why do his supporters in Congress have an almost 100% anti-labor record?

And why has he so little labor support that the Republican Natl. Committee has not even been able to get enough window-dressing for a "labor division" such as it has had in previous campaigns?

★ ★ ★

Dewey talks demagogically about "jobs for all" after the war, but he neither offers nor supports a single constructive proposal to bring this about.

His supporters in Congress have fought every administration and labor move for properly planned reconversion to full production after the war, or to protect the human element.

Their record has been to pass the anti-labor Smith-Connally act over Roosevelt's veto; to prevent the anti-polltax bill from being passed; to sabotage the efforts of the President's FEPC against racial and job discriminations; to vote taxes "to relieve the greedy and not the needy"; and consistently to oppose or sabotage the administration's efforts to roll back prices and control the cost of living.

Dewey's fanciest and most liberal-sounding speeches are not even a false-front. They are just a cellophane wrapper, which anyone can see through, over the package of labor-baiting, isolationism and postwar depression which he offers to the country.

The CIO News
Published Weekly
Congress of Industrial Organizations
Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer
Vice-Presidents
Joseph Curran, John Green, Reid Robinson
S. H. Dalrymple, Allan S. Haywood, Frank Rosenblum
Albert Fitzgerald, Emil Rieve, R. J. Thomas
Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director
Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.
Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925
Vol. 7 October 23, 1944 No. 43

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

R. J. Davidson, director, USA Drive at Weirton, reports. Phelps Can Co., Weirton, W. Va., CIO 127; No Union 81. This plant is within the shadow of Weirton Steel Company and will be the first certified CIO Union in Weirton. This victory has been won in spite of a strong opposition by the company which in the final days offered five and one-half cent increase and a vacation plan, as well as an open campaign against us with letters and personal contacts in the shop the day of the election by company officials. A splendid start to an ultimate goal.

District Director, USA, Brother I. W. Abel, Canton, Ohio, reports: Canton Drop Forge, Canton, Ohio, main plant, USA-CIO 183, Against 18. Forge Department, USA-CIO 73, AFL 30. The AFL had had a contract here for many years. USA Representative Larry Larkins was in charge under the direction of Brother Abel.

CIO Sub-Reg. Dir. J. E. Crossland, Houston, Texas, reports: Reed Roller Bit Co., USA-CIO 839; AFL 803; No Union 22. The company had had a contract with the AFL since 1937. USA Representatives Speaks Randall and Leo Gatewood directed the campaign.

UAW Intl. Rep. Harland D. Burcham reports: Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. Louisville, Ky., Division voted for CIO with majority of better than two to one against the AFL. This is the first UAW-CIO victory in Kentucky.

UAW Reg. Dir. Paul E. Miley, advises: Local 176, UAW won an NLRB election among employees of Hamilton Tool and Hamilton Gage Co., Hamilton, Ohio, by two to one. The drive was conducted by Intl. Rep. Bernard Wilberding and negotiations for a contract will start immediately. This is the fourth election involving the UAW held during the past 15 months in Hamilton, Ohio, the UAW winning the bargaining rights of each of the above elections.

Walter Smethurst, Director, PWOC-CIO, reports: Rex Paper Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., CIO Paper Workers, 66; No Union 32. William Mayo was in charge.

Pres. Dalrymple of the URWA-CIO, reports: Firestone Rubber Co., Hamilton, Ontario, CIO 1020; Against 191.

CIO Reg. Dir. E. L. Sandefur, Carolinas, advises: Gibsonville, N. C., CIO Textile Workers 386; Against 188. TWUA Rep. L. L. Shepherd in a large measure was responsible for this victory.

Chas. Doyle, UGCCWA Reg. Dir., reports: run-off election at Union Carbide, Niagara Falls, N. Y., CIO 1042, No Union 709. The Buffalo CIO Regional Office assisted in this splendid victory.

CIO Reg. Dir. I. L. DeShetler of Kansas City, reports: CIO Gas, Coke & Chemical Workers was established by a vote of 17 for the Union and 15 against on a cross-check of cards as the collective bargaining agency for the employees of the American Creosoting Co., Kansas City. Intl. Rep. Ira Williams, assisted by the CIO Regional Office, was in charge of the organizing drive.

Geo. Brown, Dir. Org. IWA-CIO Drive, reports: IWA-CIO won the following elections: Jerry Garris, Carlton, Ore., CIO 9, No Union 2. Powell Logging Co., Eugene, Ore., stipulation—125 men involved. Wittick & Sjorgren, Reedsport, Ore. A. B. Berns Logging Co., Sweet Home, Ore. Lebanon Logging Co., Sweet Home, Ore.

Bohemia Sales Co., Dorena, Ore., consented to bargain with the CIO without an election. Brother Brown also reports that certification has been received at the North Shore Lumber Co., Vancouver, B. C., which is the first operation we have had certified in the north shore of Vancouver.

Reg. Dir. I. L. DeShetler of Kansas City, reports: Middle States Utilities Co., Bethany, Mo., CIO 127; No Union 11. Representative Rizer handled the case.

Civil Rights in '44— Keep Them With FDR, Lose With Dewey

By JAMES B. CAREY

The fight our men and our allies are waging in this war against fascism is in every sense a fight for the civil rights of mankind.

We are winning this fight against enemies of freedom abroad. At the same time we on the home front are waging a struggle to preserve and extend the same rights that are threatened by the same forces here in our own country.

Every time we win a round in this struggle we help to bring the victory in Europe and Asia that much nearer. By the same token, every time we retreat here, we find the task of victory abroad becomes that much more difficult.

THE ISSUES

What are the issues in this campaign for civil rights? What successes have we had under the leadership of President Roosevelt and what remains still to be won?

The most important issue in the fight for civil rights is the struggle for equality of treatment for all, including our Negro people and all other racial and minority groups in this country.

Here we have scored notable gains, though much remains to be done. Under President Roosevelt's leadership and on the insistence of the CIO, the Fair Employment Practice Committee has made a great contribution to combatting Jim Crow and other forms of discrimination in industry.

Right now we are campaigning to assure the continuance of the FEPC through our support for the Administration-backed bill to make FEPC a permanent government agency.

GAINS MADE

We have made considerable advances towards ending discrimination in the Army and Navy. The War Department has ordered an end to Jim Crow in Army posts, recreation and exchange centers. For the first time the Navy Department has consented to the use of Negro enlisted men in other than mess men's work.

We have not yet succeeded in wiping out the poll tax which deprives millions of Negro and white citizens of their most basic civil right—the right to vote. With a new and more progressive Congress after November 7, we shall do so. This campaign has made great headway and has the full backing of President Roosevelt.

Throughout its history, the CIO has fought for the right of all workers to organize and bargain collectively in unions of their own choosing. The cornerstone of this basic right is the Wagner Act, passed by a New Deal Congress in 1935. The CIO has consistently defended this act from its enemies since its first passage and will continue to keep it intact.

Restrictions of rights of free speech and assembly have been numerous in our history. There is probably no single time at which CIO has not somewhere had to protest some regulation, ordinance, or state legislation attempting to restrict this right. Many of the repressive laws have been knocked out of court; others still remain to be dealt with.

ONE THING CERTAIN

Of one thing we can be certain—the struggle for freedom would be incomparably more difficult if Dewey and his Old Guard GOP are placed in power on November 7. The struggles we have had since 1935 will look like easy exercises in civics compared to those we would face under a Dewey-Hoover regime.

REGISTERED BEAUTY: Mary Ellen Funk, a student at Denver (Colo.) University, took the spotlight at a Democratic rally for Pres. Roosevelt as Miss Registered Voter. (Federated Pictures.)

Unity on Major Issues Marks FE Convention

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 21—Without disagreement on any major issue, the second biennial convention of the CIO United Farm Equipment & Metal Workers meeting here this week unanimously reaffirmed its no-strike pledge, endorsed Pres. Roosevelt and re-elected its three top national officers.

Organization Director Joseph R. Weber reported that in the two years since its first convention, the union has doubled its membership and achieved the basic organization of the farm equipment industry.

Officials unanimously re-elected were Pres. Grant W. Oakes, Vice-Pres. John Shaffer and Sec.-Treas. Gerald Fielde, who is now in the U. S. Maritime Service.

A slashing resolution on the "reactionary press" singled out the Chicago Tribune especially and asked postal authorities to label all copies mailed overseas "Enemy Propaganda." On the other hand, locals were urged to see that all officers received the National Edition of The CIO News.

A recommendation brought in by the constitution committee calling for a Negro member on the Executive Board was defeated after two Negroes opposed it on the basis that they trusted their union and did not need a constitutional directive to protect them against discrimination. No white members were nominated for the position on the Board which went to Pope Huff of Chicago.

The convention criticized certain policies of the War Labor Board, made suggestions for changes in procedure, urged revision of the Little Steel Formula and asked that the 17c general increase demanded by the CIO be granted.

Other resolutions denounced the semi-Fascist governments of Argentina and Brazil; called on Atty-Gen. Francis Biddle to dismiss the charges against Harry Bridges; urged international labor unity and unity among the United Nations in the postwar period; demanded that Italy be recognized as an ally; urged a permanent Fair Employment Practice Committee and adopted an advanced tax program.

The convention also voted to help build the Women's Auxiliary, and appointed a special Women's Committee which brought in recommendations for integrating women members more closely into the union.

ON POLITICAL ACTION

The Constitution was amended to provide for a legislative director in every local so that political action could be continued after Nov. 7. Delegates were urged to make the elections their first order of business on returning home.

It was reported that great activity on registration had shown results, with registration the highest on record in every city in Illinois and Indiana where the FE has locals.

Discussion and action taken at the convention showed that the war was constantly in the minds of the delegates. Five military men visited the convention. CIO speakers included Regional Directors Frank Bender and Walter Harris, and Walter Frisbie, Indiana CIO Council secretary.

At a special rally the opening night Gov. Schricker of Indiana, candidate for the U. S. Senate and Marshall Kizer, candidate for Congress, gave political talks.

Kansas CIO Convention Elects Murphy President

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 21—Delegates to the annual convention of the Kansas State CIO Council held here last week-end condemned the notorious Kansas Labor Control law passed to throttle unions, mapped out a legislative and post-war program, and elected officers for the coming year.

The convention also endorsed the leadership of CIO Pres. Philip Murray in his fight to break the Little Steel formula.

Main speakers at the convention were Irwin DeShetler, CIO regional director, and W. A. Holloway, regional director of the Political Action Committee.

Willard Murphy of the United Packinghouse Workers was elected president, and H. J. Yount of the United Automobile Workers was elected secretary-treasurer. Three vice-presidents were also elected—S. E. Hanes, Oil Workers; F. D. Brown, Packinghouse Workers; and Charles Cunningham, Auto Workers.

Murray Urges Aid To Natl. War Fund

An appeal for support of the War Fund Drive was made this week by CIO Pres. Philip Murray.

"The Natl. War Fund," Murray stated, "is the active expression of your interest in our own fighting men and our brave Allies. Your dollars have made possible the great work performed by USO, War Prisoners' Aid, United Seaman's Service, and the war-related agencies of our Allies.

"Now, as never before, we must assure the continuance of these organizations that are financed by the Natl. War Fund. And we must maintain our home front agencies served by community or war chests."

FDR Battled Hard To Hold Down Prices

FDR did all he could to hold the legislative line against soaring wartime prices, but with little help from the 78th Congress.

Congress' record as compiled by the Consumer Clearing House, and distributed by a number of consumers' organizations in Washington, shows:

Twice the President vetoed measures that would have prohibited the Commodity Credit Corp. from paying subsidies to hold down prices, which had proved so successful in England.

Twice the House failed to obtain the necessary two-thirds vote to override the vetoes.

(In both cases, Congress later extended the life of the CCC, stripped of the power to pay subsidies but empowered to make dairy feed payments to farmers.

(The Reconstruction Finance Corp., however, pays subsidies to keep down the prices of butter, meat and flour.)

BLAME CONGRESS

On the debit side of the price regulation record of the 78th Congress must be placed:

Measure requiring manufacture of low-cost clothing killed by the Senate.

Compulsory grade labelling banned.

Compromise reached on permitting cotton textile manufacturers to pass on increased cost, irrespective of their profits.

Federal taxes retained on oleomargarine.

HOW SENATE VOTED

The votes on the various measures in the senate were:

No use of Commodity Credit Corp. Funds for subsidies: 39 against the consumer, 37 for.

No use of Federal funds to roll back prices: 36 against consumer, 28 for.

Use of CCC funds for subsidies: 49 against consumer, 36 for.

Price control amendment requiring cotton price rise: 39 against consumer, 35 for.

Price control amendment raising price of crude oil: 42 for the consumer, 25 against.

Price Control amendment requiring production of low cost clothing: 51 against consumer, 24 for.

Eliminating Federal tax on oleomargarine: 55 against consumer, 23 for.

Change name of dry skim milk: 46 against the consumer, 4 for.

HOW HOUSE VOTED

The House voted as follows:

Vote to override President's veto of bill forbidding roll back subsidies: 228 against consumer, 154 for.

No Commodity Credit Corp. funds for subsidies: 248 against the consumer, 118 for.

Vote to override President's veto of no CCC funds for subsidies: 226 against the consumer, 151 for.

Price control amendment raising price of crude oil: 178 against consumer, 204 for.

Price control amendment providing court review of OPA regulations: 206 against the consumers, 181 for.

Sour Grapes Gripe By La Luce

Washington, Oct. 21—As little as two months ago Mrs. Clare Booth Luce, who blasts regularly at CIO-PAC, was begging for CIO-PAC support in her election, Pres. R. J. Thomas of the CIO United Auto Workers revealed this week.

Coming up to Thomas at a special luncheon for Congressmen of both parties, La Luce complained that CIO-PAC was working against her in Connecticut and asked him to do something about it.

"She offered me the advice—'as a friend of labor'—that it would be wiser for PAC to support Republicans as well as Democrats," Thomas said.

"I told her that the local PAC in her District would decide for itself which candidate it would endorse. I told her also that PAC is supporting progressive Republicans and that we were not wedded to any political party.

"Mrs Luce tried very hard to get PAC support for her campaign. The PAC in Bridgeport, Conn., has evidently decided Mrs. Luce is not worthy of labor's support.

"Mrs Luce seems to be giving a demonstration of another playwright's lines: 'Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned'."

Weirton Fires War Veteran

Weirton Steel Co., open-shop concern at company-dominated Weirton, W. Va., has violated the Selective Service Act by discharging a World War II veteran, according to The Facts, publication of Weirton Steel employes who belong to the CIO United Steelworkers.

The veteran, Jack Givens, left his job on the steam crane to enter the Army late in 1942. Honorable discharged from the service 10 months later, he was rehired by the Weirton firm only to be fired two months later, the union says.

The firing "disproves the company's boast that it is providing jobs for all returning GI's," The Facts stated.

The company's answer was to publish an advertisement accusing Givens and his union of lying. In a letter to Thomas E. Millsop, company president, Givens said the story in the union's paper was true.

Givens said that four months after he was fired the company president wrote him, asking him to report for work. He did so, Givens declared, and was offered a laborer's job but neither "my regular rating nor my regular classification to which I am entitled." He said that he was thrice refused a job by the company.

Women Told Not to Envy Girl Welders

Don't fall for the stories about high wages paid glamorized welders.

That's the message of Malvina Lindsey, Washington Post columnist, to discontented clerks, domestics, elevator operators, office workers, housewives and all other women who look with envy on the lot of women in war industry.

She says that "the famed $65 and $75-a-week checks" go only to "experienced workers of exceptional skill and ability and in shipbuilding one of the highest paid war industries' "women 'mechanic learners' were paid around 58 cents an hour."

After pointing out how dirty and how tough war plant work is, and what cumbersome and heavy and unattractive clothes women in such employment must wear, she asks whether their envious sisters realize that since Pearl Harbor "nearly 50,000 war-workers have died from accidents."

"Did you housewives," the columnist asks, "who rebel so bitterly against your extra scrubbing, your difficult marketing, and yet are arbitrary of your time and your domains, ever think what it would mean to punch a time clock, to wear regimented work clothes, to stand and turn a lever all day?

"Or would you like to work on a graveyard shift and have complete social isolation?"

Teachers for Roosevelt

New York, Oct. 21—Every member of the Teachers Union, Local 555, including some 350 members of the armed forces, contributed to a sum of $3,000 which they sent to the National and Local Political Action Committees, Samuel C. Greenfield, treasurer of "Teachers for Roosevelt," announced this week. Local 555 is affiliated with the CIO State, County & Municipal Workers.

By ELEANOR FOWLER

Secretary-Treasurer, CIO Women's Auxiliaries

There's real food for thought for consumers in the "Voting Record on Consumer Issues" just put out in Washington by the Consumer Clearing House and distributed by a number of consumers' organizations. It shows the House votes of each Congressman on five clear consumer issues during the past two years.

If you total up all the Congressmen who voted for the interest of the consumer on each of those five votes you will find there are 80. If you add to that Congressmen who were absent on one or two important consumer votes, but who voted when they were present, you get a grand total of 110 friends of the consumer in the House.

Of that 110, four are Republicans, one is American Labor Party, 105 are Democrats.

In the Senate the picture is even worse. On the eight issues listed in the chart, only three Senators voted consistently for the consumer. Four others voted right two or three times and were absent for all the other votes. If you add to those all the Senators who only voted against the consumer once or twice, you get a total of 22 Senators who favor consumer interests three-quarters of the time or more. All of those are Democrats.

GOP LEADERS' ROLE

There are two conclusions to be drawn from this voting record. The first is that the Republican leadership in Congress does not have the interest of consumers at heart. Senators Taft (Ohio) and White (Me.) voted right on two of the eight issues. Wherry (Neb.) voted against the consumer every time. Vandenberg (Mich.) was half right, Joe Martin (Mass.), House Republican leader, voted against the consumer four times out of five.

All of these men are supporting Dewey!

But there's more to protecting consumer interests than electing the right president. Only about a quarter of our present Congressmen and less than a quarter of our Senators can be called friends of the consumer.

As the introduction to the Clearing House voting record says:

"A THORNY PATH"

"During the past two years, legislation of vital interest to consumers has followed a thorny path through Congress. The Emergency Price Control Act was threatened with enough inflationary amendments to render it practically ineffective. Food subsidies did not pass through Congress until spurred by Presidential vetoes of anti-subsidy legislation. Measures designed to protect consumers against hidden price rises through quality deterioration have been blocked altogether."

HIS SHOES MUST PASS "Captain's Inspection" DO YOUR SHOES PASS Civilian Inspection?

Head high, chest out, uniform immaculate and shoes gleaming, that's how a Marine passes "Captain's Inspection"! A good appearance is equally important in civilian life! When you wear well-made, smartly-styled W. L. Douglas Shoes you can pass "civilian inspection" with complete assurance. See W. L. Douglas' new winter and stormy weather styles today!

Top Style, THE CLIPPER No. 4693
Bottom Style, THE CLIPPER No. 4661

W. L. Douglas Shoes

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO., BROCKTON 15, MASS.

905 PENN. AVENUE N.W.
(Opposite Department of Justice Building)
(Men's and Boys' Shoes Exclusively)
Open Thursday and Saturday Evenings

MANY STYLES WITH OIL-TREATED SOLES FOR LONGER WEAR.

INVEST IN VICTORY—BUY BONDS

New Reading

By HOLLACE RANSDELL

New Picture Magazine Out

A Peoples Picture Magazine "WE," has been added to the numerous snappy campaign publications being issued in support of a Roosevelt-Truman victory in the November elections, and is now ready for mass circulation.

The magazine's 32 pages are crammed full of action pictures and timely articles by prominent Americans. U. S. Sen. Harley M. Kilgore tells "How America can do in peace what she has done in war—provide jobs," and Sen. Claude Pepper discusses "Health, the Wealth of a Nation."

Sec. of the Interior Harold Ickes has an ironic piece on "Clear it With Clare!" and Lowell Mellett, in "Roosevelt, Commander-in-Chief," gives the "story of a civilian leader whose military strategy is winning the war."

Novelist Fannie Hurst and Actress Bette Davis write from the woman's angle in the election campaign, and Howard Fast, author of the best-seller "Freedom Road," tells the story of the "Veterans of Two Wars."

Copies of the magazine may be had in bulk orders for 8½c each, or $85 a thousand, if ordered at once from Miss Hannah Dorner, Independent Voters Committee of Arts and Sciences, Hotel Astor, New York City. Single copies are 10c each.

UAW Issues Campaign Guide

A good campaign guide book for labor speakers, writers and voters, called "The Score in '44" has been issued as a 32-page Political Action supplement to Ammunition, monthly publication of the United Autoworkers' Dept. of Education.

Included are foreign and domestic issues of the campaign; records of both presidential candidates and of all members of Congress on important roll-calls together with an explanation of what the bills voted on were about.

Copies may be obtained from the UAW Education Dept., 1324 Maccabees Bldg., Detroit 2, Mich. Price 10c a copy; 100 for $6 1000 for $45.

Fast at Work On New Novel

Howard Fast, whose new novel "Freedom Road" is a best-seller, is at work on another novel based on the life of Gov. John Peter Altgeld of Illinois. The novel will be published by Duell Sloan & Pearce in 1945.

Gov. Altgeld, elected to office in 1892, was an outstanding friend of labor of that day who attracted international attention by pardoning leaders involved in the Haymarket frame-up of 1886. He died in 1902.

School's Welfare Seen by Eby in Full Employment

Our school system's future is tied to the national economy, Kermit Eby, CIO assistant director of research and education, states in an article on "Education and Our American Economy" in the October issue of the School Board Journal.

"The schools of America cannot be kept up, new school houses built, and teachers adequately paid unless the nation is prosperous," Eby says.

He wrote that "full production and full employment that will provide a living annual wage" are necessary to maintain our institutions.

AFL Support For Roosevelt

The story of "Why millions of AFL members are supporting Pres. Roosevelt again," is told in a 24-page illustrated pamphlet, "This is FDR" just issued by the New York State Council of Machinists.

In text and pictures the pamphlet shows what a Dewey victory would mean to the average union worker, and lists AFL unions which have endorsed Pres. Roosevelt. Quotes from AFL leaders who support FDR are included.

Copies may be obtained from the N. Y. State Council of Machinists, c/o Machinists Lodge 402, 231 E. 84th St. New York, 28 N. Y. Price 5c a copy or 4c a copy for orders over 1,000.

Labor And The Church

Efforts of a group of CIO leaders to bring a broader understanding of labor into church circles is discussed in the latest Social Action pamphlet, "Church - Labor Relations," published by the Council for Social Action of the Congregational Christian Churches.

"Many CIO leaders regard the organized churches of America as among the largest opinion-moulding agencies of the country," states the pamphlet. "The church differs from the radio, newspapers, and movies in that it is not capital-owned and not so fixed in its opinions."

Jesse Cavileer who wrote the pamphlet, tells of the work with religious groups being done by Kermit Eby, asst. director of the CIO's Dept. of Education and Research, John Ramsay, an official of the United Steelworkers; Alfred Hoffman vice-pres., American Fed. of Hosiery Workers; Lawrence Rogin, Educational director of the Textile Workers Union; Lucy Mason, CIO public relations representative in the South, and others.

"Church-Labor Relations" may be ordered from the CIO Dept. of Education and Research 71 Jackson Place, Washington 6, D. C. Price 10c a copy.

Freedom Of Press Week

A Freedom of the Press Week for libraries to run from Nov. 19-25 has been proclaimed by the American Library Assn. executive board, to give libraries "the opportunity of taking a stand on the absolute right of the individual to read anything of public value and interest, whatever racial, political and religious issues may be involved, so long as national security is not endangered."

Declaring that there have been frequent infringements of the freedom of the press in recent months, including pressure from some community groups on libraries to remove certain books and periodicals from circulation, the ALA states: "Libraries have a double responsibility for creating an informed public opinion about threats to freedom of the press."

Liberty Ship to Honor Cartoonist Art Young

Washington, Oct. 21—A new Liberty ship named after Art Young, artist and cartoonist who devoted much of his time and talent to the cause of labor and the oppressed, will soon be launched, announces the U. S. Maritime. Art Young's death some months ago is still mourned in labor circles.

World Neighbors

British Unions Put World Labor Meet No. 1 On List

The United Nations labor conference, originally urged by CIO but postponed for the past several months, is on top of the agenda of the British Trades Union Congress meeting now in Blackpool, England.

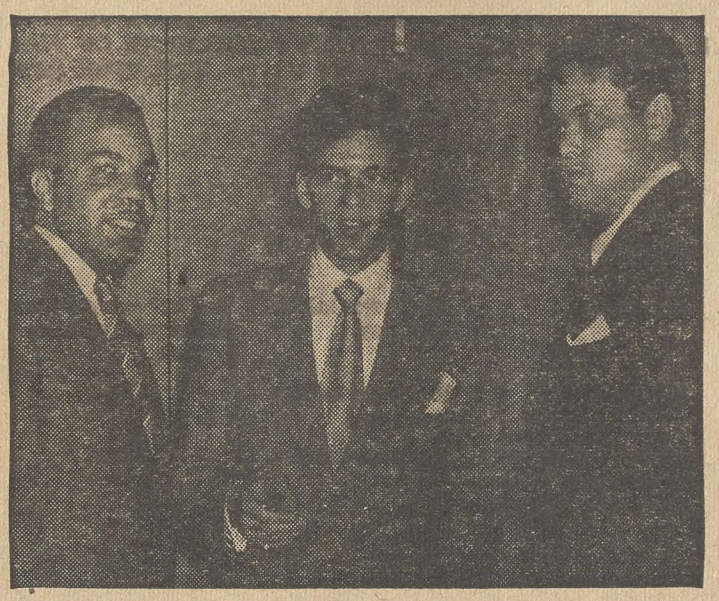
According to Allied Labor News pre-convention reports from the TUC, Ebby Edwards, TUC chairman said in his opening speech that the world labor unity is the key to lasting peace. Labor of the United Nations he said must not leave peace making in the hands of a few statesmen and must act "to remove all vested interests standing in the way of making this the last war."

A few days before Edward's speech, the London Daily Herald, official British Labor Party publication predicted that the meeting would be held in January 1945. Inferentially blaming the AFL's holdout attitude for some of the delay, the Herald said:

"It will be a great misfortune if the AFL by maintaining this attitude witholds its council from a conference which has been welcomed by its rival, the CIO, and by trade union movements throughout the world.

"The issues which will face us at this great gathering are so vital to organized workers that the AFL should surely feel justified in putting aside its objections."

And in its report to the TUC convention, the General Council outlined a plan for a permanent world labor federation, with a top "International Trades Union Congress" meeting every three years. The report did not mention any specific date for the first world labor meeting, but the TUC is expected to take CIO Pres. Murray's plea for holding it as soon as possible.



'THE VOICE' FOR FDR: The bobby-sox brigade picked itself an all right guy. Frank Sinatra (center) and his wife gave $7,500 to the Natl. Citizens Political Action Committee. Here "The Voice" tells Baritone Aubrey Pankey (left) and Orson Welles in this election the choice is clear-cut: "It's FDR or Nothing." (Federated Pictures.)

On the Air

Spot Lessons In Democracy

New Yorkers who listened at all to the radio on last Saturday, final day to register, could not help but hear an appeal reminding them of their obligation as Americans to grab their coats and get down quick to the nearest registration booth, rain or shine.

All day long from early morning to 9:30 that night, spot announcements sponsored by CIO unions in New York came over the radio on an average of every 20 minutes.

"This is your last chance to register," every radio listener was bound to hear sometime during the day which threatened to be damp but later cleared up. "A soldier fights, rain or shine. You should register, rain or shine. Because that's the way you can fight for democracy. Votes are the weapons of democracy.

"A soldier couldn't win if he didn't use his gun. You can't win if you don't use democracy's weapon. Remember, you can't vote on Nov. 7 if you don't register. The registration polls are just around the corner or on your block. Take your friends with you. This is your last chance."

In Idaho

From far-off Coeur d' Alenes, Idaho, comes news of a radio skit called "When the Whistle Blows" put on by members of the CIO Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers as one of the programs being broadcast by the Political Action Committee every Thursday afternoon. The programs will continue until the November election.

Argue Texas Union Case

Washington, Oct. 21—State laws that restrict the right of anyone to ask workers to join a union are aimed at the right of unions to exist, Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel, told the U. S. Supreme Court in rearguing the R. J. Thomas case before it.

The case arose when Thomas was arrested last year for asking a non-union oil worker in Texas to join the CIO Oil Workers Union. According to Texas, this was illegal since Thomas had not registered under the state anti-labor law.

The case before the Supreme Court now hangs on the question of Thomas' openly asking the non-member to join, after the state had secured injunction against him. Thomas was arrested at the time, and an appeal to the state Supreme Court was denied.

"If it be true that both speech and solicitation were forbidden by the injunction, then that is a determination by the lower court that both are prohibited without registration and license; if this be so, the statute prohibits speech, which is unconstitutional, and the whole must be unconstitutional," Pressman said.

CIO Organizes Prison

Newark, N. J., Oct. 21—Among the first group of state employes to apply for a charter from the CIO State, County & Municipal Workers here are the Rahway Reformatory employes. The majority of the new members are uniformed prison officers.

CIO Blasts Argentine Fascism

A sharp blast at the fascist dictatorship in Argentina came from CIO's United Packinghouse Workers, in a statement by Pres. Lewis J. Clark.

The blast come all the more appropriately from the Packinghouse Workers because of their fraternal ties with a brother union in Argentina whose officers and members have been jailed.

Calling on the State Dept. "to knock the props from under the anti-labor anti-democratic Argentine dictatorship," Clark pointed out that export of beef to the United Nations, "principally Britain," keeps the pro-Nazi clicque in power.

Through sales of beef, Argentina is building up a huge gold reserve which it is using for economic dominance in Latin-America. Sec. Hull's recent freeze order on $2,000,000 worth of Argentine gold here can be a beginning in blocking this.

Ample meat supplies exist in the United Nations and other supplying countries, Clark said, adding that only a very small number of British with investments in the Argentine would be affected by cutting off purchases there.

Protest Used Car Sales Rules

OPA offices throughout the nation are reported to be receiving a host of complaints from union members about the operation of the warranty clause in OPA's used car regulations.

Unscrupulous dealers are said to be taking advantage of the warranty clause which provides that they may add 25% to the car price provided they pay 50 per cent of certain repairs within 30 days.

The OPA Labor Policy Committee has recommended to OPA head Bowles that the warranty should enumerate extensive repairs, and that the cost of repairing all mechanical defects that occur within 30 days be paid by the dealer.

Here's Score On State Time-off-to-Vote Laws

American citizens have the right and duty to vote on November 7. Under the law in 23 states, workers are entitled to time off to vote which their employers are required to grant them. Under the law in 15 states, workers are entitled by law to be paid for time off to vote.

The following chart, prepared by the CIO Political Action Committee, gives provisions of laws in 23 states where time-off is allowed. States not listed in the chart have no legal provisions for time off to vote. This does not mean that workers cannot ask their employer for time off or cannot take it. Voting is the highest duty of an American citizen, whether or not the law provides for paid or unpaid time in which to carry it out.

STATE	TIME ALLOWED	PARTICULAR HOURS SPECIFIED BY	MUST EMPLOYES APPLY?	PROVISION REQUIRING PAYMENT OF WAGES FOR TIME OFF	PENALTY ON EMPLOYER FOR VIOLATION	EMPLOYES AFFECTED
Arizona	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer may specify.	Yes, prior to Election Day.	Yes	Misdemeanor	Any person entitled to vote.
Arkansas	Suspend work or change shifts before four p.m.	Statute.	No.	None	$25 to $250 fine.	Employes of mills, mines, shops and factories.
California	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Not specified.	Not provided for.	Yes.	Not stated.	Any person entitled to vote.
Colorado	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes, prior to Election Day.	Yes, but excepts those employed and paid on hourly basis.	Misdemeanor; $100 to $1000 fine or imprisonment in county jail up to one year or both.	Any person entitled to vote.
Illinois	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes, prior to Election Day.	Yes.	Misdemeanor; $50 to $300 fine.	Any person entitled to vote.
Indiana	No one to be employed for four hours after opening of polls. (Employes of "works of necessity" given same period of four hours between opening and closing of polls.)	Statute alternative by agreement of employer and employe.	Not provided for.	None.	Misdemeanor; $50 to $500 fine. Circuit Court may enforce provisions of section on application of voter.	Employes of manufacturing, mining, mechanical or mercantile establishment or railroad corporation.
Iowa	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes, prior to Election Day.	Yes.	$5 to $100 fine.	Any person entitled to vote.
Kansas	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes, prior to Election Day.	Yes.	Misdemeanor $50 to $100 fine.	Any person entitled to vote.
Kentucky	Four hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes, prior to Election Day.	Yes.	$50 to $500 fine.	Any person entitled to vote.
Maryland	Sufficient; not exceeding four hours.	Employer	Not provided for.	May not prevent, hinder induce, or threaten to discharge or reduce wages or salary.	Misdemeanor; fine not exceeding $500 or up to six months in jail or both.	Employes of every employer.
Massachusetts	No one employed for two hours after opening of polls.	Statute	Yes.	None.	Not stated.	Employes of manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishments.
Minnesota	During the forenoon of each election day.	Statute	Not provided for.	Yes.	Misdemeanor.	Every employe entitled to vote.
Missouri	Four hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Not privided for.	Yes.	Misdemeanor; fine of not more than $500.	Any person entitled to vote.
Nebraska	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes, prior to day of primary.	Yes.	Not stated.	Any person entitled to vote.
Nevada	Full holiday except for such establishments as may lawfully do business on holiday or election day, who get three consecutive hours between opening and closing of polls.	Statute as to the full holiday not specifield as to the three hours.	Yes.	None.	Misdemeanor; $50 to $100 fine or 25 to 50 days in county jail or both.	Any person entitled to vote, and employed in manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishments which may stay lawfully open on holidays or election day. (see 1st col.)
New Mexico	Two hours between opening and closing of polls "for purpose of voting."	Employer	Not provided for.	Employe "shall not be liable to any penalty therefore."	Misdemeanor; $50 to $100 fine.	Any registered elector.
New York	Two hours while polls are open.	If employer makes no designation, employe can choose 2 consecutive hours.	Yes.	Yes.	Misdemeanor.	Any person entitled to vote.
Ohio	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes, prior to day of election.	Prohibits penalty.	$5 to $100 fine.	Electors.
Oklahoma	Two hours when election is open (or more if required).	Employer (and he must notify employes of hours).	No.	No.	Misdemeanor; $50 to $100 fine and two to six months in county jail.	All electors employed or engaged in service of corporation, firm, association or individual.
South Dakota	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes.	Yes.	Misdemeanor.	Any person entitled to vote.
Texas	Not specified.	Not specified	Not specified.	Yes.	Fine of not more than $500.	Employe entitled to vote.
Utah	Two hours between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes, prior to day of election.	Yes, but excepts those employed and paid on hourly basis.	Misdemeanor.	Any person entitled to vote.
West Virginia	Three hours or more if necessary between opening and closing of polls.	Employer	Yes (written demand).	Yes.	Misdemeanor; $500 to $1000 fine, for company or corporation. Individual misdemeanor; $100 to $500 fine, or up to 60 days in county jail or both.	Employes of person, company or corporation entitled to vote.

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 44 82 October 30, 1944

For FDR and Victory—VOTE!

Women PAC Workers Help Boost Registration

Members of the Women's Division of the CIO Political Action Committee deserve a large share of the credit for boosting the registration figures in the chief industrial cities.

And now they are bending their efforts to getting out the vote for Roosevelt, Truman and a progressive Congress on November 7.

Most of the work was done by thousands of women who never figured in the spotlight but who were willing to do the doorbell ringing necessary to bring the issues to the people.

KNOW THEIR PEOPLE

The task required a lot of hard work—in many cases after long days at the plant or in the office—but it was made easier by the fact that the women PAC workers were for the most part of the people.

The job was done by women like Mrs. Billie Vincent of Philadelphia, mother of three children, who braved the wrath of a Republican watcher on Registration Day when he challenged the right of a Negro woman to register. Because of Mrs. Vincent's intervention, the woman, who wanted to vote for Roosevelt, was registered.

Or like Mother Mosby, 73-year-old Negro of East St. Louis, who got up at 7:30 a.m. to get out 16 fellow residents of her precinct who were not registered.

Not all the workers were of the rank and file. For there was Zara du Pont, liberal cousin of Pierre, Lammot and Irene du Pont, heavy contributors to the Republican Party, who was enlisted as a speaker by the women PAC workers of the Boston area. They also put Mrs. Thomas Hepburn, mother of movie star Katherine Hepburn, to work making pep talks at rallies.

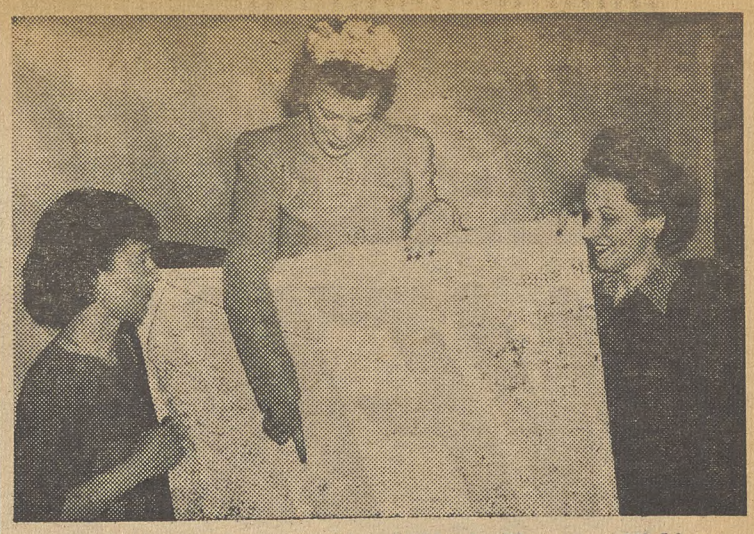
The women's work was colorful and effective. For example, many of the 22,000 women in CIO United Auto Workers' Local 600 became active after the Women's Division held a combined fashion show and rally. It is significant that incomplete returns show that registration figures for Michigan were greater by at least 11,000 over the year 1940.

At Park City, Utah, the women PAC workers were few in numbers but they made the most of what they had by persuading the milk companies to deliver registration forms with the morning's milk.

Supervising all this work was Mrs. Verda White Barnes, Women's Division director, fully conscious of the necessity of driving home to the women of the nation the importance of registering and voting.

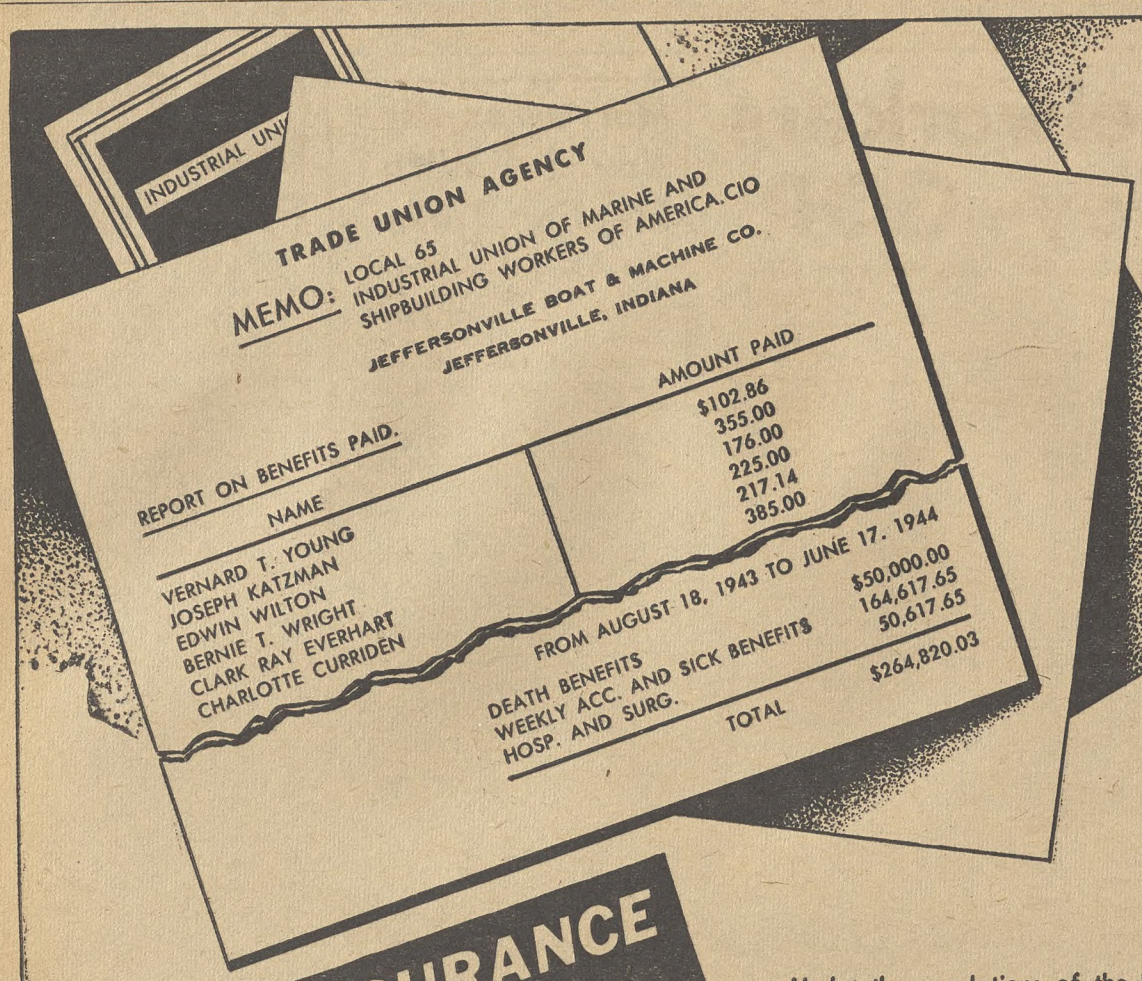
Another important phase of the work of the Women's Division is carried on by the campus activities division headed by Mrs. Trudi Kingdon Behrle.

As a result of these efforts college students throughout the country not only are becoming more interested in day-by-day politics, but in such centers as Boston and New York City, they are doing the hundred and one tasks that are necessary to get out the vote for FDR.



RARIN' TO GO: Mildred Thomas, Michigan chairman of Women's Division, CIO Political Action Committee, is pointing to the spot where the first county-wide women's meeting was to be held in Wayne County. At the left is Elizabeth Hawes of the educational department of the CIO United Auto Workers, and holding the other end of the map is Vera Primrose, Wayne County Chairman of the Women's Division, PAC.

STRESSING A POINT: Barney Conal, political action director of the N. Y. C. CIO Council, appears to be impressing his audience, judging by the faces of this group of students.



GROUP INSURANCE in Collective Bargaining Agreements

In the last two years, 350,000 union members have received comprehensive life and health insurance through group plans prepared by Trade Union Agency. These plans were negotiated by union leaders as part of regular collective bargaining agreements.

In the first nine months of this year, more than thirty-three thousand workers received approximately $1,800,000 in benefits under these plans.

Twenty-five thousand union members received weekly accident and sickness benefits in the total sum of $740,000, an average of $29 per week. Forty-two hundred members received hospital and surgical benefits amounting to $756,000, covering an average hospital and surgical bill of $184 per person. Three hundred families received death benefits averaging $1046 per family.

Under the regulations of the Economic Stabilization Director these programs do not require the approval of the War Labor Board. Their inclusion in regular collective bargaining agreements has added greatly to the security of the union member and his family.

TRADE UNION AGENCY

CONSULTANTS TO UNIONS ON ALL INSURANCE PROBLEMS

80 WEST 40TH STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

*The Trade Union Agency is not an insurance company. It acts as consultant and advisor to Unions and Union members.

This is the question on the voter's mind — what's cookin' Mr. Dewey, apples? And he knows the doubletalk answer he gets from little Tom and his big boss Hoover won't satisfy him.

Look at the company little Tom keeps, and remember that in case you feel too "busy" or just plain too lazy to get out the vote November 7. Hoover, duPont, Joe Pew, Weir, Eugene Grace, Henry Ford and all of America's meanest and most chiselling pro fascists. fascists.

And look at the people that're for little Tom Dewey—the isolationists, the pro-Axis McCormick, Hearst, Roy Howard, Patterson, all the big boys who hate labor much more than they hate their country's enemies.

Here's How Steelworkers Feel About Dewey—GOP

Here's how the United Steelworkers, CIO, feel about the election. Its a statement their executive board passed this week in Pittsburgh, and it says in part:

"The blackest forces of reaction in this country, with respect to domestic and international policies, have brought forth a man named Dewey to beguile the American people and dissipate their anger against those who brought this country to the brink of disaster under Hoover.

"Never in the political history of this nation have we witnessed the equal of the chicanery, falsehoods, and racial and religious bigotry that has been injected into this campaign by the Republican candidates for President and Vice President and their followers.

"Dewey seeks to affirm his faith in collective bargaining, but how can the workers forget that it was the outstanding representatives of his party who, for the past several years, have clawed at labor organizations with a ferocious desire to destroy them and to emasculate the National Labor Relations Act?

"The workers are deeply aware of the desires of such men as Weir, Girdler, Pew and Grace. From them labor organizations and their members can expect no quarter. Yet they are the very individuals who are supporting with all their vigor the candidacy of Dewey and Bricker.

"Dewey professes his faith in the imperative need of this country continuing its part in international affairs and the cementing and growth of unity among the united nations in peace as well as during the war.

"But at the same time every single policy adopted by President Roosevelt to further this goal has been criticized and sabotaged by Dewey and his co-workers.

"He has with the reckless indifference to facts and almost a sinister deliberateness made statements designed to destroy the growing unity between this country and its allies, criticized and condemned the nations who are allied with the United States in our common cause to crush Nazism. With demagogy and chicanery, he actually espouses the cause of negotiated peace with Nazi Germany.

"How can this pitifully small man named Dewey—puny in mind and devoid of any understanding of the truthful aspirations of the common man—hope to impress the American people who have placed, with justification, their complete faith in the great humanitarian, our president and Commander-in-Chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt?

"President Roosevelt has brought during his administration the greatest gains to the working people that they have ever achieved in the history of this nation. We must only compare these accomplishments with the despair and chaos of the Hoover days of apple selling.

"The United Steelworkers of America is confident that the steel workers, together with an overwhelming majority of the people of this nation, will demonstrate their complete faith in the determination of President Roosevelt to carry through the war against Nazism and Jap militarism to an early and decisive victory, to provide the basis for an enduring peace and freedom for the people of the world, and their complete distrust of the sinister forces who support this man Dewey—by the smashing victory of President Roosevelt on election day, November 7."

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Vote Nov. 7

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Murray on Air Nov. 2, 5 With Election Talks

CIO officials throughout the nation this week were asked to give the broadest possible publicity to two important pre-election broadcasts scheduled by CIO Pres. Philip Murray.

On Nov. 2, at 10:30 p. m. EWT, Murray will speak over NBC as one of a number of nationally known leaders who will address the nation's mass rally for President Roosevelt in New York City.

On Nov. 5, from 9:45 to 10 p. m. EWT, Murray will deliver a nationwide broadcast, under the auspices of the CIO United Steelworkers, dealing with the election.

Be sure to listen in!

Nazi Funds Used To Fight FDR

Clear proof that Nazi money is being used to fight FDR's re-election came to light in the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee this week when a Nazi-owned corporation was revealed to be a contributor to the "American Democratic National Committee."

This makes the corporation, American Potash, doubly guilty, since it's illegal under the Smith-Connally Act for corporations to give money to political campaigns.

American Potash is now in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian. Reports around Washington are that a number of people responsible are going to find themselves in hot water.

It's long been suspected that Nazi money was being used to oppose FDR in the campaign. Now it's proved.

Security for Vets Guaranteed by UAW

Seniority rights would be extended to millions of veterans unprotected by the re-employment provisions of the Selective Service Act under a model contract clause approved by the executive board of the CIO United Auto Workers.

Pres. R. J. Thomas of the UAW also announced the appointment of Joseph G. Velosky, wounded veteran of the Sicilian campaign, as director of the UAW Veterans' Dept.

The model contract clause grants accrued seniority equal to length of military service to veterans who were not employed at the time of induction and those who were considered "temporary" employes by employers before induction.

"These groups," Thomas said, "have no protection under the re-employment provisions of the Selective Service Act. Col. Paul H. Griffiths of the Selective Service system has estimated that only 20 per cent of the men now in service have any re-employment rights under the terms of the act."

Velosky's appointment is the first step in the creation of a staff for the department. He served six years in the regular army as an enlisted soldier from 1928 to 1934, was inducted into the Army in Sept., 1942; was wounded in the Sicilian campaign Aug. 5, 1943, and was honorably discharged a year later.

For FDR and Victory—Nov. 7!

Congress and US

GOP Promises Gouge For U. S. Consumers

By C. W. FOWLER

One of the GOP's favorite slogans calls for an end to all "restraints" on business as soon as the war is over. After V-E Day, both Dewey and Bricker promise, industry will be allowed to go its own sweet way again; price control will be abandoned and all controls over production dropped.

Its easy enough to say this, but just what will it mean to us as consumers if we have all "restraints" — meaning controls—dropped as soon as the military end of the war is over.

Scrapping price control and OPA would mean inflation on a terrific scale. People who remember the last war will recall with shudders the way prices jumped after Nov. 1918. The cost of living in 1919 and 1920 (incidentally under Republican administration) doubled and more, didn't go down until we had a major economic crisis in 1921.

If we keep price control after V-E day, we have a chance of holding the cost of living to not much more than the 44.4 per cent increase since Jan. 1941 proved by the CIO. If we don't, we lose out completely. Wages never keep up with inflation. The gap between earnings and the cost of living, wide enough now, gets unbridgeable.

People in OPA, including the Administrator, Chester Bowles, are worried about Republican pressure for dropping price control after the defeat of Germany. Some unemployment, they figure, will come during the reconversion period. During that time, food prices will tend to sag a little, or at least will not be under the same buying pressure they are now—which is a politer way of saying people won't be eating so much.

As food prices go down, OPA people figure, the cry for dropping of all price control will double and redouble — on the ground that prices are going down and it isn't needed. Then, when controls are dropped, prices will zip up again, with the food monopolies enjoying Mr. Dewey's free hand for free enterprise.

The manufacturers are hoping for the same free hand on production. Since the war, clothing manufacturers have almost stopped making low-cost clothing, particularly children's clothes. Ask your wife how hard it is to get a pair of kid's pants—they simply aren't on the market. The reason is that clothing manufacturers can make more profit per unit out of the high priced stuff, so they drop the cheaper lines that workers and farmers buy.

The War Production Board has several times ordered clothing manufacturers to make low cost items. True, WPB doesn't specify quality, but without WPB nothing at all except the expensive stuff would be made.

Take production controls off as soon as the military phase of the war ends and you'd have an even worse situation than you have now, not only in clothing but in everything consumers use.

This is the Dewey-Bricker idea—to drop all the necessary controls that war has brought as soon or even sooner than the fighting is over in Europe. And if they win the election, this is one election promise they'll keep—because it's a promise to soak the consumer and help the profiteer.

Warning on Checks

All recipients of Government checks should watch mail boxes and avoid carrying endorsed checks, the U. S. Secret Service warned this week.

The service recommended cashing checks at the same place each month, arranging to have some family member at home when checks are delivered, and urged businessmen not to cash checks for strangers unless they are certain of their identity and their right to such checks.

The Choice—FDR and Peace, Or Dewey and World War 3

FDR's Oct. 21 speech on foreign policy, followed quickly by Republican Senator Ball's emphatic declaration of support for him, has brought this issue sharply before the voters as one of the most important of the campaign.

Sen. Ball's support of FDR rocked Dewey off his feet as far as the midwest is concerned, but it surprised no one in Washington. After all, once voters start thinking about the difference between the two on this issue they have only one place to go—for FDR and away from Dewey.

A quick look at the record will show you why. Back in 1937, FDR already was warning us against the fascist aggressors, in his famous "quarantine" speech in Chicago.

This was two years before the Nazis' attack on Poland. But in 1939, the year Hitler started World War II, Dewey's foreign affairs adviser, a man named John F. Dulles, was saying: "Only hysteria entertains the idea that Germany, Italy or Japan contemplate war upon us."

Dulles, who is Dewey's choice of Secretary of State if the Hoover Party wins, acted as attorney for Franco of Spain, for Count de Chambrun, Pierre Laval's son-in-law, the German-connected banking firm of J. Henry Schroeder, the German cartel firm of N. V. Phillips and others.

Dewey makes much of the "bipartisan" character of the peace to come after the war. It will be, he says, just as secure in his hands as in FDR's. What is the record here?

FDR AND TEHERAN

FDR, as CIO-PAC has pointed out, is "the architect of the United Nations." At Teheran, Moscow, Cairo, Quebec, Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods, FDR's leadership has helped build the alliance of the U. S. Britain, the USSR, China and all the United Nations for victory.

After the war, FDR calls for a United Nations' organization with the will and the ability to keep and enforce the peace. Groundwork for this is being laid at United Nations' conferences now. It will be completed after the war is won—if FDR is re-elected Nov. 7.

What does Dewey offer, aside from vague speeches? In 1940, he called the recognition by the U.S. of Soviet Russia a "blunder." Every isolationist in the country, from Hearst, McCormick, Taft, Vandenberg down to the smallest seditionist now on trial in Washington is for Dewey.

What would happen if the GOP is put in power Nov. 7? As FDR pointed out in his foreign policy speech, Sen. Hiram Johnson, who led the fight against world security after World War I, would head the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

NYE AS LEADER

Sen. Gerald P. Nye, one of the most notorious appeasers in Congress, would be leading member of the same committee and head of the Senate Appropriations Committee. In the House, as FDR said, "none other than Hamilton Fish" would head the Rules Committee—which passes on all bills before they reach the floor.

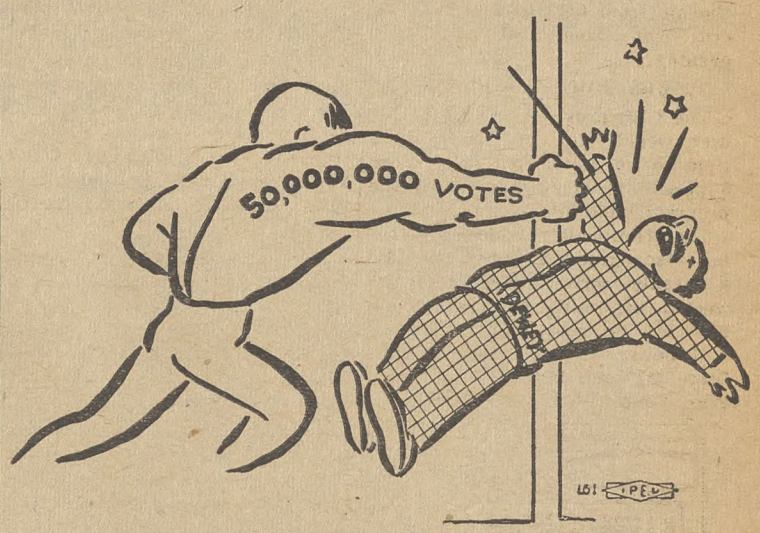
And on the record of preparation for this present war, FDR again called the tune when he cited the rollcall votes and how GOP Congressmen lined up.

They voted against lend-lease, against fortifying Guam, against repeal of the arms embargo, against arming U. S. merchant ships, against extension of Selective Service, against renewing reciprocal trade treaties. All these votes were cast against preparing the U. S. for defense while Germany and Japan were preparing their attack on us.

Foreign policy means a great deal in this election. It means the difference between a world of peace and security and a world of renewed imperialist rivalry, new aggression and new wars.

As Senator Ball pointed out when he made his choice, "neither our enterprise system nor our democratic institutions will survive a third world war."

Workers, farmers, businessmen, women, have every reason for voting for FDR on the domestic issues. They have every other reason for voting for him when they consider the foreign policy issues involved in their choice November 7.



Courtesy UAW-CIO Ammunition.

Remember Bricker's Record On Nov. 7

Americans hold the office of Vice-President in a sort of good-natured contempt, based on a genial ignorance of its real and potential importance and on a memory of a hilarious musical show about a man named Throttlebottom that ran in New York 10 years ago.

If contempt for Vice Presidents is desirable—which it isn't— the GOP has helped it along by its selection of Bricker as Dewey's running mate. Seldom has a more raucous reactionary been nominated for high office by any party.

Let's take a quick look at his record—because he's the man the GOP wants to head the U. S. Senate for the next four years, is willing and eager to place in line for the White House. After all, stranger things have been known to happen when people didn't get out the vote.

THE RECORD

The record is a pretty crude one, as Bricker showed when he tried to gyp Ohio servicemen out of their vote by saying that their ballots would not be counted unless they were marked with black pencil only. This was a little too smelly even for the GOP to swallow, and they made him backtrack—with a strong push from the CIO and outraged liberals in Ohio.

Or ask the unfortunate people who had to go on relief in Ohio when Bricker was governor in 1938. Bricker refused to help with state funds, and unemployed workers in the big cities simply starved. Bricker showed his hatred for the people at the same time; he called Ohio's unemployed "trash." (Dayton News, Oct. 20, 1938).

"I am against Federal housing," he said when he was trying to get the No. 1 nomination out of the GOP. "Private business can . . . deal fully with slum clearance if given the opportunity."

Bricker is against public health services too, as he made clear in a speech in 1939, when he called public health programs "the backwash and pickup of trends in foreign lands. This trend, if it continues, will mean the end of free government and will be a force to destroy civilization."

Think about that when you think of Bricker presiding over the U. S. Senate, where bills for public housing and public health have to pass. How much chance would they have with a man like Bricker in charge?

Take a look at the kind of people Bricker asks for help in winning the election—native Fascists like G. L. K. Smith, Hitler-admirers like McCormick of the Chicago Tribune. Here's what Bricker said of them, July 27, 1944, in a press conference: "If they (America Firsters) agree with you, and vote for you, well and good."

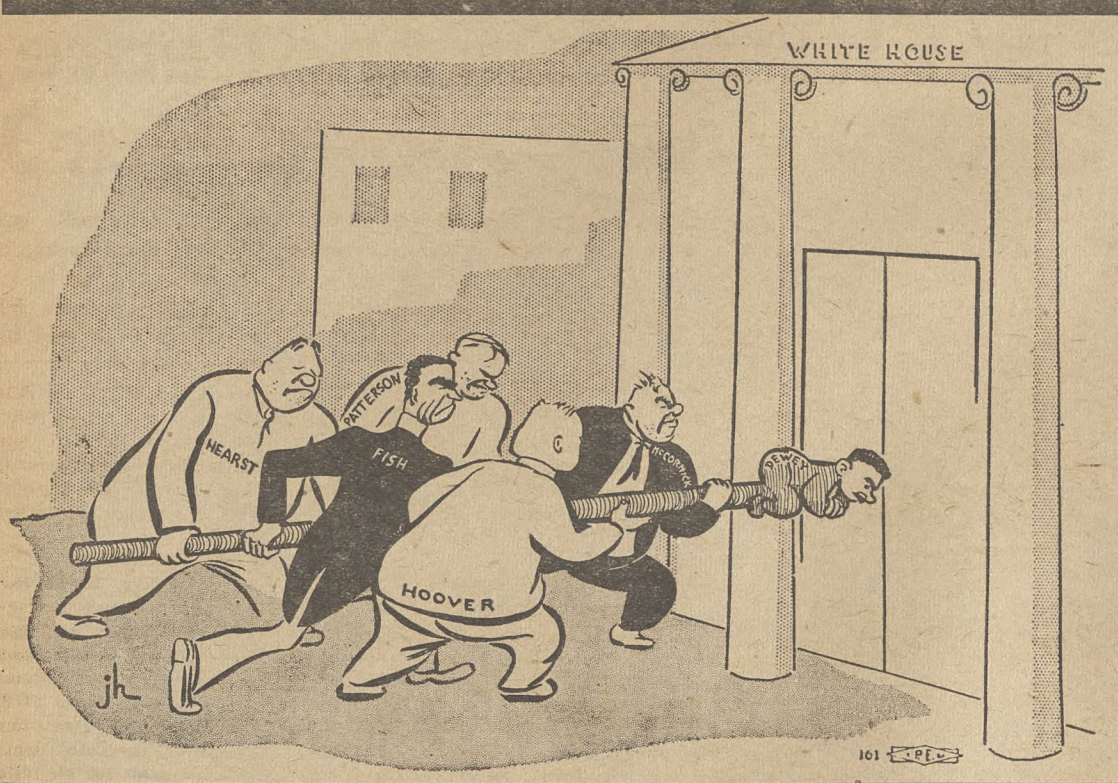
And on foreign affairs, Bricker showed his hand (and the real GOP hand) when he opposed the foreign trade plans worked out at the Bretton Woods and other United Nations meetings. Bricker doesn't want American workers to have the five million jobs that FDR's leadership will get for us from expanded foreign trade.

The next time you feel a sort of good-natured contempt about the office of Vice President of the United States, remember these things about Bricker—and then go out and vote for FDR and Truman.

Camel Tobacco Bows to CIO

Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 28 —The R. J. Reynolds (Camel) Tobacco Co. has agreed with a War Labor Board order to stop its anti-CIO tactics. The firm said it will refuse to recognize a company-union Employes' Assn. as the representative of any of its employes.

For Jobs and Security—Nov. 7!



CIO Wins Time on Major Radio Chains for '45

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—CIO Pres. Philip Murray this week announced the completion of plans for regular weekly CIO radio programs on three major national networks in 1945.

Beginning in January, two separate CIO programs each week will be broadcast by the Blue Network and the Columbia Broadcasting System respectively and be offered to all their network stations.

The Blue Network program will continue for 26 weeks and be on the air from 6:45 to 7 P.M., Eastern War Time, each Saturday evening.

CBS, NBC PROGRAMS

The CBS program will be broadcast weekly for 13 weeks, at a time to be announced later, with a possibility of resumption of the program later in the year.

The National Broadcasting Co. has also agreed to grant the CIO a weekly series running for 13 weeks, beginning in the second half of the year. This program will be on the air each Sunday from 1:15 to 1:30 P.M., Eastern War Time.

The three networks are making the radio time available to the CIO as a public service, to give labor a better and more regular opportunity to report on its activities and express its point of view to the American public.

The negotiations to obtain this radio time were conducted by Pres. Philip Murray and Publicity Director Len DeCaux and were concluded at a luncheon in New York attended by leading executives of all four major radio networks.

The Mutual Network was unwilling to go along with the other networks in granting regular weekly sustaining programs to labor, but it has agreed to offer a similar amount of time to the CIO for occasional special broadcasts.

All networks have made identical offers in regard to time to the AFL as well as to the CIO.

The CIO programs will feature dramatic presentation, with music, news and other entertainment appeal rather than straight speeches, for which time will be arranged separately from the regular programs.

Full particulars of the character of each program will be announced when the details have been worked out in advance of commencement of each series.

Get Out The Vote, CIO Leaders Urge

Getting out a big vote for FDR and Truman is the nation's No. 1 job Nov. 7, CIO Pres. Philip Murray and PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman said in a letter to all CIO affiliates this week.

Text of the letter follows:

Thirty days to November 7.

Our biggest job lies ahead.

We have laid a good foundation. We are doing a splendid job on registration.

But none of our work will count unless we really double our efforts in these remaining days.

We must concentrate our efforts on just one task—to get out the vote on election day.

NO. 1 JOB

This is the number one job of every local union officer, staff member, shop steward and PAC committeemen. This is the number one job to assure the reelection of President Roosevelt, speedy victory in the war, lasting peace in the world and jobs for all here at home.

Every union hall should be turned into a get out the vote center in preparation for November 7.

The success of the job you do will be measured in the number of voters that go to the polls. Here are a number of suggestions for doing the job well:

ORGANIZING THE SHOP

1. Every shop should at once establish an election day shop committee.

2. As soon as registration is over each member of the shop committee should be given responsibility for canvassing the group of workers in the shop so that all workers in the shop will be covered.

3. Every member of a shop committee should canvass a list of workers in the shop before election day.

4. The shop committee should recruit as many volunteers as possible to canvass voters in their communities, both before and on election day. Refer these volunteers to the organization in your community for a canvassing assignment.

5. On election day, the members of the shop committee should canvass all workers in their shop to make certain that all registered workers and the registered members of their families get to the polls.

6. Wherever possible members of the election day committee should arrange to take election day off to volunteer as co-watchers and canvassers and to man the "Union Get Out the Vote Centers."

ORGANIZING YOUR COMMUNITY

1. The size of the vote in your community will depend largely upon the number of canvassers at work before and on election day.

2. Where a community organization has already been established, it must be fully manned with canvassers. It is the job of every shop committee to see that the greatest possible number of canvassers are referred to their community organizations for work.

3. Where no community organization exists, workers should be urged to organize non-partisan committees in your block or in your apartment houses.

4. By October 27, community organizations or non-partisan get out the vote committees should be fully manned and set to go.

Every canvasser should be assigned in his own territory to avoid duplication. No canvasser should be given too much to do. It is better to cover less ground but cover it completely.

5. Canvassing should be started on or soon after October 29. The best way to reach people is by a visit. Ring their doorbells.

6. Every voter should be canvassed at least twice; once during the week before election day and again on election day.

These are the principal organization jobs for election day. To do those jobs and to do them effectively, you must start preparing now.

We have said that a big vote will be a good vote.

A big vote will assure the election of Roosevelt and a progressive Congress.

It is our job to make certain that the vote will be big. There is no more important task for any of us. Let's see that it is done entirely and well

Philip Murray, President
Sidney Hillman, Chairman
CIO Political Action Committee

Your good intentions won't mean a thing unless you express them Nov. 7. Have you and your neighbors made arrangements to vote?

AFL Stalls Steel Case

AFL members of the Natl. War Labor Board, who wanted their organization to get "credit" for breaking the Little Steel formula, this week made it virtually impossible for the Board to send a report to President Roosevelt in time for him to make a decision before the election on badly needed wage increases.

The AFL members, Matthew Woll and George Meany, combined with four industry members to force a 6-6 vote, thus preventing consideration this week of specific wage cases involving CIO unions. CIO members R. J. Thomas and Emil Rieve voted with four public members for immediate consideration of the demands.

The four industry and four public members then combined in an 8-4 vote to force delay in consideration not only of specfic CIO wage cases but also the AFL's general wage case until Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Meanwhile, the AFL members stated that they would not sit with the Board Tuesday when specific cases are under consideration. The move does not embarrass the Board, for its regulations simply call for equal representation by industry, public and labor—with no requirement as to equal division of labor men between CIO and AFL. Thus a 12-man Board might decide the case, with CIO adding two representatives beside Thomas and Rieve, or a six-man Board might consider it, with two representatives from each of the three groups.

LOOK FOR THE AMALGAMATED UNION LABEL WHEN YOU BUY ANY OF THESE ARTICLES

In that way you protect Union Labor, and the American standard of living

Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America
15 UNION SQUARE NEW YORK N.Y.

UNION MADE
MONTHLY
DUES BUTTONS
RIBBON BADGES
AND EMBLEMS
C. M. Geraghty, Inc.
500 Sherman Street, Chicago

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE
BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

FDR=Jobs + Victory—Vote!

More Empty Factories?

We saw thousands of boarded-up factories in the Republican Depression, Tom. Your chum Hoover told us that all we needed was "confidence." But the factories were shut tight—no jobs for us, Tom.

No Thanks!

More Breadlines?

This is a breadline you Republicans made, Tom. That's us starving in the breadline. But your buddy Hoover hollered about states' rights and said it was "unconstitutional" to help us.

More Bonus Marches?

We were desperate in 1932, Tom. We marched to Washington to get the help that GOP administrations promised war veterans. Did we get help? Or even sympathy? We got bayonets and beatings—ordered by your buddy Hoover, Tom.

For FDR and Victory—Nov. 7!

We'll take

Jobs and security. That's what Roosevelt has meant to us, Tom. Our unions are strong. We can bargain for our rights. Wages have gone up. We're getting decent working conditions. Our dough in the bank is insured. We're just the little guys in this country, Tom—but we've attained dignity and security with Roosevelt. We feel like American citizens again. And we like it. We want lots more of the same.

Roosevelt

AND JOBS!

Don't Forget!

Biggest Job Yet To Be Done

The increased registration figures in most of the country's industrial centers are testimony to the devoted and patriotic efforts of countless CIO members mobilized by the Political Action Committee and by their unions to get everybody possible to register to vote.

This CIO registration campaign was without parallel in American political history and was conducted with all the imagination, initiative and enthusiasm of which the progressive labor movement is capable.

It stirred the interest of millions outside CIO ranks and resulted in record registration totals in many cases, despite the absence of so many citizens in the armed forces, and other special wartime difficulties.

The ground has thus been laid for repairing the damage done by the 1942 elections, when the number of voters dropped by more than 20 million below 1940 totals.

The number of Americans qualified to vote is now greater than the total in 1940.

The Deweyites who were pinning their hopes on winning by default—through the absence from the polls of huge numbers of war workers and servicemen — are now seriously worried, and with good reason.

But there is many a slip twixt the cup and the lip.

All of this good work, all of this splendid effort can come to naught, if the final and most important job of all is not completed—namely getting all these registered voters to the polls on Nov. 7.

Let us remember the sad story of the ranchers who worked hard and long to build a great corral, and then all quit work to celebrate before the final gap was closed, each imagining "the other fellow" was attending to this job—with the result that the cattle escaped and all their work went for naught.

CIO President Philip Murray and PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman have called on all CIO unions and members to concentrate all their efforts on just one task—to get out the vote on election day.

They have sent out practical suggestions, printed in this issue, on how this all-important job may be done.

It will require greater concentrated effort than even the splendid registration campaign. For the registration drives could be spread over periods of varying length, but the job of actually getting out the vote will have to be done on just one big day.

Preparations for this great task should therefore be begun at once, and all plans carefully laid in advance, so that there may not be a single slip-up in getting every registered voter to cast his or her ballot on election day.

Only so can we be sure that a big enough people's vote will be cast on Nov. 7 to assure the election of President Roosevelt and a progressive Congress.

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

DID you ever notice how carefully Dewey's moustache is parted in the middle—so each side of his mouth can operate independently of the other side?

That's the only way he can satisfy the isolationist Chicago Tribune and claim to support Roosevelt's foreign policies at one and the same time.

The parting has grown wider with each of Dewey's double-talks. By now he must need some internal communication system to keep the right side of his mouth in touch with what its left side is saying.

After all, it's no mean trick to be able to coo to the Pews, Weirs, DuPonts and other anti-union cash customers with one side of your face, while trying to woo labor with the other side.

And to do Dewey justice, he's just got to be pretty two-faced if he's to win any votes from the people who abhor the policies of the tory, isolationist and anti-labor gang that has chosen him as its mouthpiece.

★ ★ ★

But let us probe a little more deeply and sympathetically into the question of Dewey's moustache.

Have you ever been through the slow agony of those early days of dirty upper-lip?

Have you ever braved the revulsion of your nearest and dearest (particularly the nearest)?

Have you ever heard your innocent children lisp, "What's that, Daddy? Why don't you shave it off?"

Have you ever brazened out the titters of the fair sex, or found yourself the butt of wisecracks from everyone you meet?

Have you ever been compared to Hitler or asked, "What are you trying to hide?" Have you ever had to think up lame answers a dozen times a day to the unanswerable question, "Whatever made you do it?"

If you have ever been through all this, as has the writer, you will realize how a little spinach on the upper-lip can give a man the strength of a Popeye to resist ridicule, advice and abuse—and even to make a public spectacle of himself in an election campaign.

★ ★ ★

As befits the season, the Deweyites are doing their best to give the campaign a Hallowe'en flavor.

They are rushing around smearing everything with red paint, and putting political soft-soap on windows in the hope the voters won't be able to see through them.

Some of the boys have even tried unhinging the doors from Hooverville huts and dumping them in front of the White House.

Then there are those big red Hoover apples they want us to bob for with hands tied behind our backs, instead of voting for Roosevelt and three square meals a day.

And oh! those scary funny masks and bloodcurdling yells after dark. There are so many false faced politicians trying to frighten us with false issues and fairy-tale hobgoblins, you'd think they were after the children instead of adult votes.

The costumes, however, are just too cute! The union-busting bosses, the isolationist and pro-fascist Hearst-McCormick-Patterson press and the hidebound tory leaders of the GOP can hardly recognize their own children—a Dead-End gang of mudslinging labor-baiters and war obstructionists trying to dress up as Little Lord Fauntleroys, good fairies and the like!

As for empty pumpkin-heads with big mouths and unseeing eyes—well, we've got them too in this campaign.

★ ★ ★

But there's one Hallowe'en thought that should stay with us until election day. That's the doorbell-ringing idea—but without running away.

The line-up is clear enough, despite all Dewey's double-talk.

On the one side there's his crowd, including all the isolationists and assorted reactionaries and with a record in Congress that's been nearly 100% against labor, against controlled living costs, against farm aid, against fair taxation and against the soldier vote.

On the other side are FDR and his progressive supporters, with a demonstrated record of war achievement and New Deal social legislation, and standing for speediest victory, postwar planning for jobs for all, and lasting peace through the close collaboration of all the United Nations.

Most people have made their choice by now and registration is over. But the biggest job of all remains—to see that every voter goes to the polls, so the people's choice may take effect.

The CIO News

Published Weekly
Congress of Industrial Organizations

Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer
Vice-Presidents

Joseph Curran, John Green, Reid Robinson
S. H. Dalrymple, Allan S. Haywood, Frank Rosenblum
Albert Fitzgerald, Emil Rieve, R. J. Thomas

Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director

Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.
Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925

Vol. 7 October 30, 1944 No. 44

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

UAW Reg. Dir. Paul E. Miley reports: CIO won an NLRB election among employees of the cafeteria at Aero Products in Dayton, Ohio, by 85%. The drive was conducted by Intl. Rep. Ray Quinlan who will start negotiations for a contract immediately.

Pres. R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO, advises: Reg. Dir. Carl A. Swanson reports CIO won NLRB election at Marvel-Schebler Corp. plant, Flint, Mich., by a 54% majority over the AFL.

E. D. Hodson, CIO Reg. Dir. Wilmington, reports: American Manganese Co., New Castle, Del., USA-CIO 74; no union 0.

Reg. Dir. Paul R. Christopher, Tennessee, reports; Jones and Laughlin Outlet, Memphis, USA-CIO 29, against 0. Sub-Reg. Dir. W. A. Copeland assisted in this victory. Cellophane Division, Dupont Plant, Old Hickory, Tenn., TWUC-CIO, 232; Company Union 201.

Dir. Org. IWA-CIO, George Brown, reports: CIO has been certified by a cross-check at the Bohemia Lumber & Sales Co., Dorena, Ore. He also advises CIO obtained bargaining rights for Ed Hoffman Logging Camp, Ironwood, Mich. The company recognized the CIO without formality of an election.

Walter Smethurst, Dir. Paper Workers Org. Comm., reports: U. S. Printing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, CIO 148; against 393. Harry Haberthear of the CIO Reg. Office took the lead in this campaign, assisted by Nat Goldfinger, PWOC Rep., and CIO Rep. Howard Forkner.

Geo. Craig, CIO Reg. Dir., reports: Penn Surgical Mfg. Co., Philadelphia, CIO 39; against 9. CIO Rep. George Bucher was in charge.

CIO Reg. Dir. E. B. Pugh reports: Southern Biscuit Co., Richmond, Va., UCAPAWA-CIO 273; No union 24. Intl. Rep. Max Sussman did fine work in organizing this plant in a short time.

The United Steelworkers of America Executive Board last week completed a very important meeting at which the endorsement of the CIO-PAC was reaffirmed. This union is in very healthy shape and continues its splendid progress.

This week I attended and addressed the United Federal workers convention held at the Capitol Hotel in New York City. CIO's program was enthusiastically endorsed. The officers reported a splendid growth in organization and the Union elected National Officers. Delegates being Federal Workers, hampered by the Hatch Act, could not pass upon political action but the PAC, Pres. Roosevelt and Senator Truman were cheered at every mention. The union is now asking for proper collective bargaining rights with Federal Government departmental heads and insisting that their constitutional rights as American citizens be restored to permit them to participate fully in labor board elections.

The political action merry-go-round continues with Pres. Roosevelt stronger every day. The Hoover-reactionaries are all getting alarmed. Don't fail to cast your votes on election day!

The Kansas CIO Council concluded its convention last week in Topeka. The convention was well attended and many progressive steps were taken by the delegates. Brother Willard Murphy was elected pres. and H. J. Yount, sec.-treas. A progressive program was adopted for the ensuing year.

Woodwkers. Set Up Plans For Post-War

By MANLEY J. WILSON

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 28—Three hundred delegates to the eighth annual convention of the CIO Intl. Woodworkers of America in session here this week for four days heard IWA Pres. Worth Lowery in his keynote speech to the convention urge that special consideration be given to post war problems.

Because the lumber industry will be in favorable position in the reconversion period, the woodworkers must take the lead in plans to protect and strengthen the position of all workers, he said.

The delegates were welcomed to the city of Vancouver by Mayor J. Cornett and by Harold Pritchett, pres. of the IWA British Columbia Dist. Council.

Special committees on war manpower and production, and on reconversion policy were established by the convention. The Officers' Report stressed the need for giving all possible support to the CIO Political Action Committee's program for the re-election of President Roosevelt, and charged the delegates with the responsibility of drafting plans that will advance the interests of the citizens and the common people of America.

UFWA Becomes Full Fledged Union

By DONALD MURRAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—Four hundred delegates at the third convention of the CIO United Federal Workers of America stood up and cheered when Michael Quill, pres., United Transport Workers Union and City Councilman, in his welcoming address to the convention predicted the re-election of Pres. Roosevelt.

Quill greeted the delegates on behalf of the New York City CIO Council. Condemning the Hatch Act under which federal workers are barred from taking an active part in political campaigns, Quill said that it would be dumped just as "the people in Boston dumped the tea."

The Federal Workers Union which has doubled its membership since its last convention in 1942, took action at the convention demanding, in addition to full political rights for government workers, the right to full recognition by government agencies in places where it represents a majority of the workers, and the same wage policies which are standard for workers in private industry.

After a thorough discussion of the problems of Negro workers in the post-war period, a resolution was adopted unanimously calling for the "maintenance of employment gains made by Negro workers during the war period."

The resolution, which directed the national officers to press for this in the Federal Civil Service, was adopted as a substitute for a resolution favoring the maintenance, through "proportional layoffs" of the present ratio of Negro and white workers in government.

Status of the UFW was changed at the convention to make it an independent national union, and for the first time, the union elected its own national officers. Previously the UFW had been under the administration of CIO Vice-Pres. Allan S. Haywood.

Newly elected officers are: Pres., Eleanor Nelson, who has been secretary-treasurer of the union since its inception. She is the first woman to become president of a CIO national union.

First Vice-Pres., L. E. Tempest, president of the Philadelphia Navy Yard UFW local; Second Vice-Pres., Thomas Richardson, former member of the Union's organizing staff and an outstanding Negro leader.

Sec.-Treas., Arthur Stein, formerly assistant to Eleanor Nelson, and a former employee of the Federal Works Agency and the War Production Board.

CIO Vice-Pres. Haywood pledged full support of the CIO behind the union's fight to secure collective bargaining elections and full union recognition in government agencies, in his address to the delegates.

Labor Broadcasts Are Making Big Hit

Dramatized radio programs being presented by the American Labor Party in New York are making a big hit inside and outside the labor movement. Variety and Billboard, two of the leading radio weeklies, both have carried plugs praising the programs.

"Using name performers and straight air sales methods, including dramatization and spot announcement jingles," said Variety, "the ALP is using showmanship in its campaign supporting Roosevelt."

A vote for FDR is a vote for victory and for lasting peace—Remember Nov. 7!

60,000 WU Workers To Vote On Union

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—Nation-wide election among 60,000 Western Union workers within 90 days was ordered this week by the Natl. Labor Relations Board. The employes will choose between the CIO American Communications Assn. and the AFL as the union they want to represent them.

Seven voting units were ordered by the Board, six on a regional basis in the Metropolitan, Eastern, Southern, Gulf, Lake and Pacific divisions of the company and one at the Home Office in New York City.

The company and the AFL asked that all employes be lumped together in one nation-wide unit. In rejecting this the Board said that "the time since merger (of Postal Telegraph and Western Union in October, 1943) is too recent and conditions too unsettled and abnormal . . . to declare now as most appropriate a unit which by its nature tends to finality."

The CIO union had asked that some 100 district and city units be set up.

Because of the unprecedented scope of the elections, the Board specifically authorized the use of the mails for balloting purposes wherever it is most expedient.

Employees eligible to vote will be confined to those who were on the company's payroll immediately following Oct. 7, 1943, and who are still employed by Western Union.

CIO Greets Soviet Union

Washington, Oct. 28.—CIO's "most cordial greetings" were sent to the American-Soviet Friendship Council for its Nov. 16 rally in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Writing to Council Director Edwin S. Smith, Pres. Murray said: "American labor appreciates how much our country and all the other United Nations owe to the magnificent war effort of the Soviet Union, and how much the future peace and prosperity of the world depend on the continuation and strengthening of this alliance of all the freedom loving peoples.

"Essential to our alliance for victory over fascism and lasting world peace is the strengthening of the bonds of sympathy and understanding between the peoples of our great nations."

Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, will be a featured speaker at the meeting.

Where a good appearance counts GOOD SHOES ARE IMPORTANT!

A well-groomed appearance is essential, whether you wish to impress the lady of your heart, or the "head man" at the office. W. L. Douglas Shoes, with their superb styling and expert construction, will give you the confidence that comes from always looking your best. Buy them today!

Top Style, THE ETON No. 4673
Bottom Style, THE CLIPPER No. 4693

W. L. Douglas Shoes

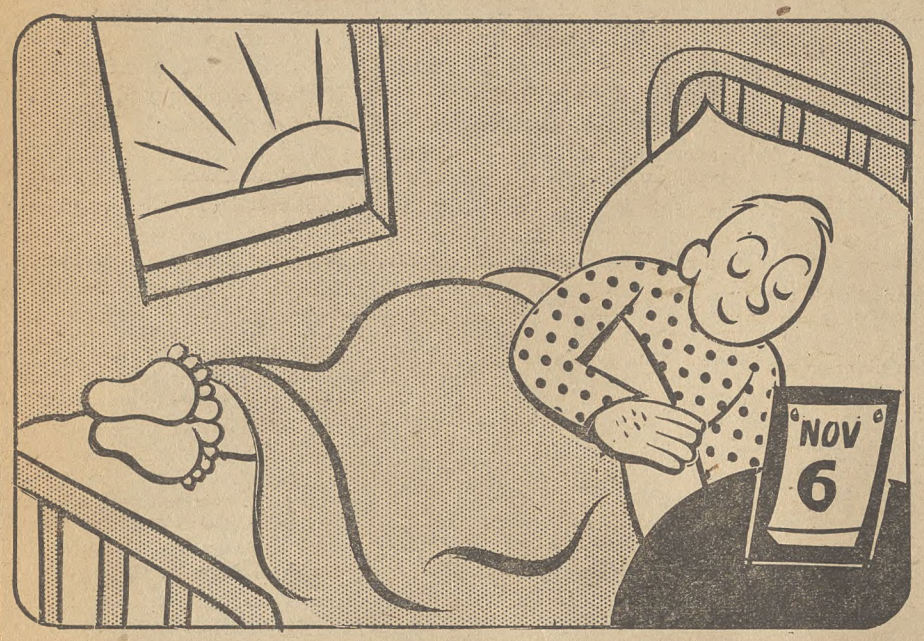
W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO., BROCKTON 15, MASS.

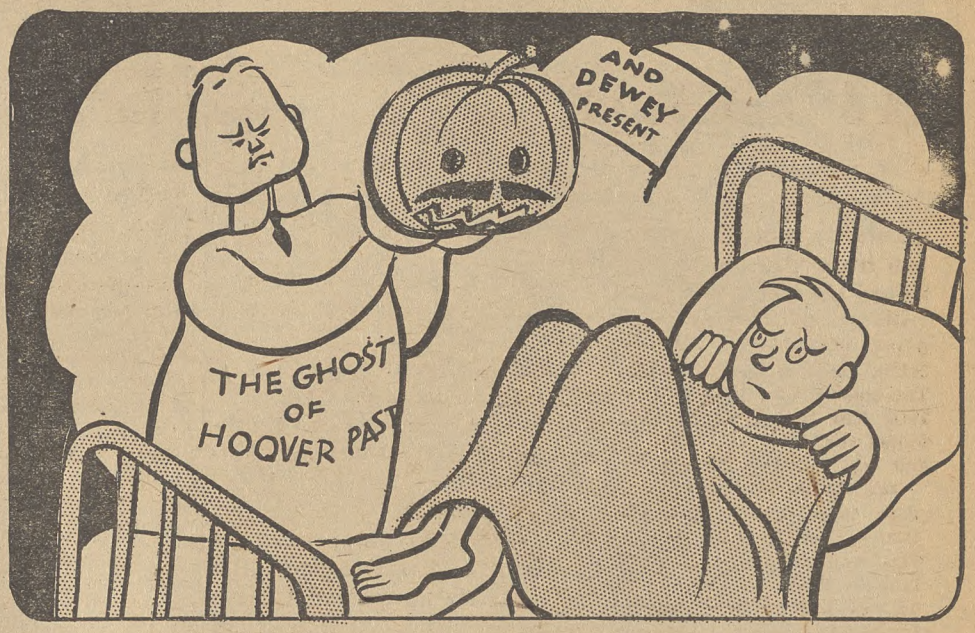
905 PENN. AVENUE N. W.
(Opposite Department of Justice Building)
(Men's and Boys' Shoes Exclusively)
Open Thursday and Saturday Evenings

MANY STYLES WITH OIL-TREATED SOLES FOR LONGER WEAR.

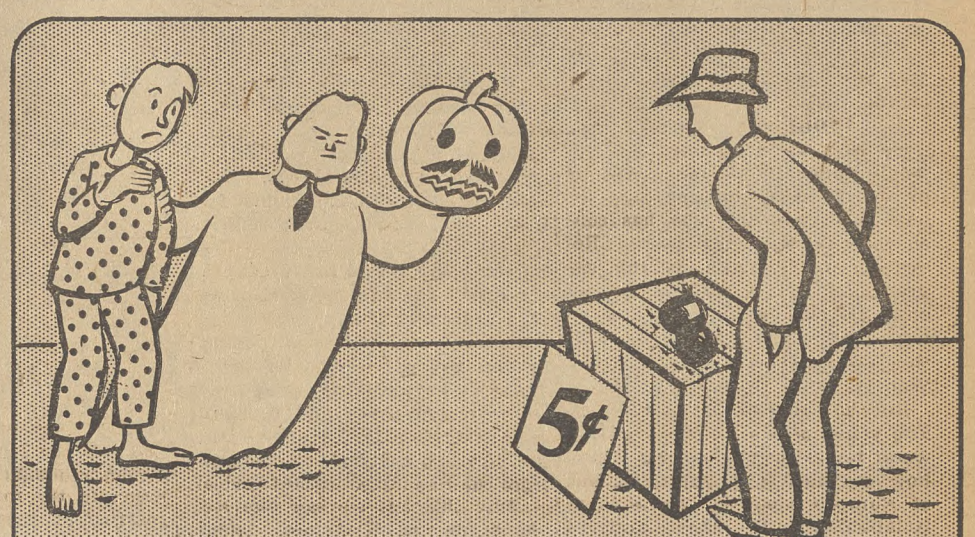
INVEST IN VICTORY—BUY BONDS

Your Job for Nov.—Victory!





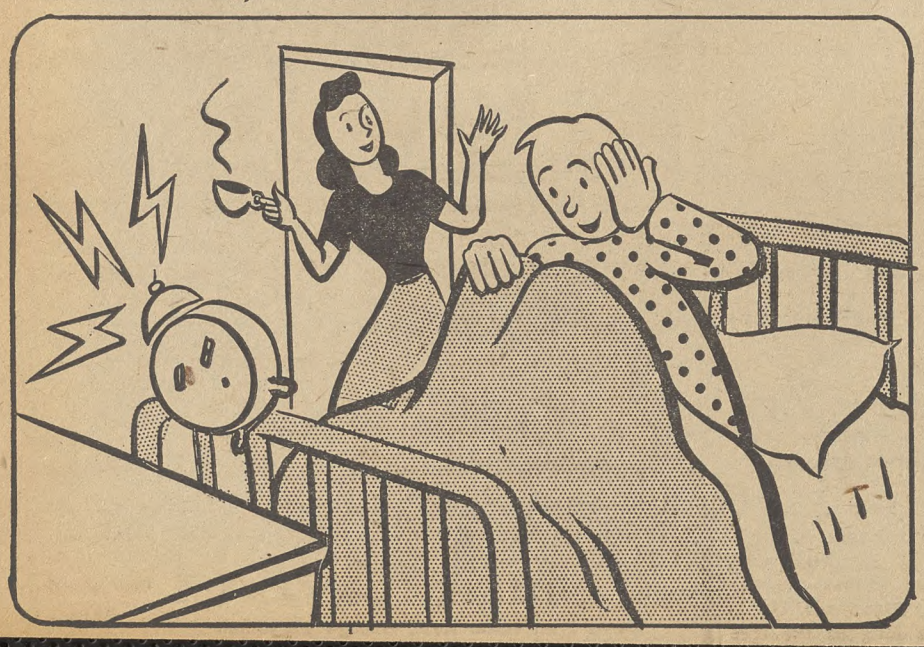
"HOUSING FIT FOR HEROES"



"PROTECTING SMALL BUSINESS"

"FREEING LABOR FROM NEW DEAL SHACKLES"

"THAT GREAT WIDE AREA OF AGREEMENT"



By ELEANOR FOWLER

Secretary-Treasurer, CIO Women's Auxiliaries

"Are you going to vote for a third world war?" That's the question a speaker asked at a big political rally here recently — and it's a question we ought to get every woman to ask herself before she votes November 7.

Did you see that picture in the paper recently of a World War I soldier with a baby in his arms? The soldier was killed in France in 1918. The baby grew to manhood, joined the Army in World War II, and was killed in France in 1944.

It's up to us to resolve that that shall not happen again—that there shall be no World War III. And the first step we must take to carry out that resolve is to vote and see to it that every friend and neighbor votes for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Why not for Dewey?" someone may ask you. "He says he's for a lasting peace."

JUDGE BY DEEDS

He says so, yes. But how are we to judge people, by words or by deeds? Here on one side we have our President who has consistently worked for peace. Remember his "quarantine the aggressor" speech in 1937? If we had only listened to him and backed him then, while there was still time, we could have stopped World War II.

But not enough of us listened. The voices of the America Firsters were too strong—shouting about how we must keep our noses out of Europe's muddles. Those same isolationists still shout today—they shout "Vote for Dewey."

We've all seen the constantly growing closer cooperation of our country with our allies during the war. We've read the statement adopted in Teheran in which our President, Churchill and Stalin pledged themselves to joint military action for Victory and continuing cooperation to safeguard the peace. (Remember Dewey attacked the President for maintaining friendly relations with Russia in 1940.)

We've seen Teheran followed by the Bretton Woods monetary conference where the United Nations planned guarantees of stable financial relations between nations and laid the basis for increased international trade, and incidentally 5 or 6 million jobs for American workers. (Dewey's running mate, Bricker, says we ought to be careful on this trade business—we don't want foreign goods dumped here.)

After Bretton Woods came Dumbarton Oaks where, at the President's invitation, our allies sat down with us to plan the machinery for world security.

That's a wonderful record of deeds by Roosevelt—and on Dewey's side in international affairs, we have only words and question marks and the memory of how Republican lip service at the end of World War I turned to sabotage after election.

But we can't judge our chance for peace only on foreign policy. Peace in the world must be based on jobs, prosperity and economic security within each nation. Hunger and unemployment breed war. Here the Republican record is clear.

Just this fall we saw the Republicans in Congress defeat every provision of the administration-supported Kilgore bill to increase unemployment benefits to war workers, to extend them to federal workers and seamen, during the period of reconversion. That's not the road to full employment and peace. It's the road to depression and war.

We're deciding November 7 which road our country shall take. We must not lose.

World Neighbors

British Urge World Labor Meet Jan. 4

Latest date for the world labor conference, originally urged by CIO over two years ago, is now set at Jan. 8, 1945, following action of the British Trades Union Congress meeting in Blackpool this week.

The TUC action came in endorsing the Jan. 8 date suggested by the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union Committee. It also endorsed the committee's proposal for a preliminary meeting not later than Dec. 4, with two representatives each from the AFL and CIO and one from the Railroad Brotherhoods.

According to ALN reports, the TUC convention also called on world labor to block any attempt "to mitigate the punishment of Hitlerite criminals." The vote on this was five to one, showing that soft peace advocates have very little following in British labor.

Immediate public ownership of fuel, power and transport and public control of all essential industries was also urged, plus continuance of government controls over industry after the war.

CIO Auxiliaries Issue Call For Conclave

Three fundamental goals of American women are outlined in the call to its Fourth Annual Conference just issued by the Congress of Women's Auxiliaries of the CIO. The Conference will be held in Chicago at the Hotel Stevens, Nov. 20-23, concurrently with the CIO Convention.

Speedy final victory over the fascist axis, the assurance of an enduring peace and an "America where there are jobs for all, where expanded social security assures every citizen of freedom from want, where President Roosevelt's Second Bill of Rights is a reality" are the goals which the call declares are common to American women.

The auxiliary call pledges the women to dedicate themselves anew, in the words of Pres. Philip Murray in the CIO Convention Call, "to the ideals of CIO organization, economic justice and legislation in the interests of all, irrespective of race, creed or color," and asks them to meet in Chicago "to plan our part in realizing these ideals."

The Call is signed by Mrs. Faye Stephenson, of Cleveland, president of the Auxiliary Congress and Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, of Washington, D. C., secretary-treasurer.

Says War Chest Helps Build Unity

Los Angeles, Oct. 28—Cooperation in support of the national War Chest drive is bringing labor and employers closer together, William R. Bidner, Southern California director of the CIO War Relief Committee, pointed out this week.

"Many hostile attitudes by employers and conservative community forces have been replaced by cooperation and respect for the CIO's ability to do a good job," Bidner declared. "The unity created around the War Chest is the kind of unity that must—and can—be carried over into the postwar period."

Clothes for Czechs

Newark, N. J., Oct. 28—An appeal for every kind of good, warm clothing for 10,000 adults and 8,000 children in Slovakia was made this week by the American Relief for Czechoslovakia, Inc.

Clothing may either be mailed or brought to the Slovak American Political Club, 225-227 Bruce St., Newark 3, N. J., every day from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

As shipments to Europe will begin on November 1, prompt action from contributors is urged.

Pol. Action In Hawaii Grows

PAC is getting results in elections in Hawaii, according to a letter from a CIO serviceman on the islands. Plantation interests, which formerly ran the political machines, got a few setbacks. Two CIO Intl. Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's members were nominated and are expected to win seats in the Territorial house.

Two plantation men were defeated on Hawaii itself. ILWU organization has made considerable progress among the plantation workers. Principal demands are for unemployment benefits and the right to bargain collectively.

Soviet Workers Read About Us

Interest in the U. S. and other foreign countries among Soviet workers has increased since the war, leading "Trud," the Soviet trade union daily, to set up a "Labor News From Abroad" department, ALN reports from Moscow.

Trud is one of the USSR's biggest newspapers, with a daily circulation well up in the millions. It has correspondents in all cities and at the front. Such writers as Ilya Ehrenburg, recently decorated for his writing on the war, are contributors.

New Reading

By HOLLACE RANSDELL

UAW Launches Book Club

A Labor Book Club heralded as the first ever sponsored by a union, has been announced by the Education Dept. of the CIO United Automobile Workers. A yearly membership of $5 entitles union members to buy six books a year at about a third of their regular trade edition price.

The Book Club was authorized by the UAW executive board as a non-profit making enterprise.

The UAW also has a Union Bookstore at 5021 Woodward Ave., Detroit 2, Mich., where members may obtain books of all kinds, from current best sellers to books on union problems, economics, politics, and history.

Best sellers during the current month at the Union Bookstore are: Non Fiction—Under Cover by John Roy Carlson, Black Mail by Henry Hoke, People on Our Side by Edgar Snow, Why Women Cry by Elizabeth Hawes, and Facts and Fascism by George Seldes.

Fiction—Strange Fruit by Lillian Smith, Freedom Road by Howard Fast; A Bell for Adano by John Hersey, A Tree Grows in Brooklyn by Betty Smith, and The Razor's

Postwar Plans For Seamen

One outstanding question bothers all seamen alike—what is going to happen to them after the war—states a new pamphlet just issued by the CIO Maritime Committee under the title "After the War—What?"

The 32-page pamphlet gives the Committee's Postwar program which was based on a study made by seven maritime unions. Illustrations by Xavier Gonzales and pictorial charts help explain the points brought out.

Copies of the pamphlet may be obtained from the CIO Maritime Committee, 1319 F St., N.W., Washington 4, D. C.

Digest Shows Labor Gains

Extension of benefits to injured workers was the outstanding legislative achievement in the State legislature's meeting in 1944, according to the "Annual Digest of State & Federal Labor Legislation" just issued by the Division of Labor Standards, U. S. Dept. of Labor.

The Digest shows that six states

Unions Fine, Says Corp.

Union labor gets plenty of praise in a pamphlet called "A Plan for America at Peace" just issued by the Electronic Corp. of America.

The booklet was inspired, says the foreword, by the workers in the ECA plants, "men and women, Negro and white, Christian, Jew, Republican, Democrat, liberal and conservative . . . hoping and striving as Americans together."

"It is men who unselfishly give their skill and their zeal to their jobs that made possible the stupendous production feats of America," it states. "And behind these men are their trade unions—and it is to the great credit of these unions, CIO and AFL and Railroad Brotherhoods, that the machines of war were fueled, shipped, harnessed to the armies of the United Nations."

A Plan for America at Peace; Electronic Corp. of America, 45 West 18th St., New York 11, N. Y.

Draftsmen Go CIO

New York, Oct. 28—The Marine Draftsmen's Assn. at Cox & Stevens has voted to withdraw from the Marine Draftsmen, a national independent organization, and to affiliate with the CIO Federation of Architects, Engineers, Chemists & Technicians. The vote was 122 to 9.

men's compensation laws.

Sample copies of the Digest will be supplied upon request to the Division of Labor Standards, Washington, D. C., as long as the free

L. J. IMBER
COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber, Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE
METAL LITHOGRAPHED
BUTTONS

for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES

Recognized Union Labels
No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in
Light and Heavy Stamping - Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and Special Stampings - Tools and Dies
N. Y. Representative, Herbert R. Lerman, 37 E. 14th St., Algonquin 4-3356

L. J. IMBER COMPANY
1725-41 W. North Ave., Chicago 22, Illinois
BRUnswick 7815

FDR=Jobs + Victory—Vote!

Spends Policy Holders' Dough to Back Anti-FDR, Anti-Unity Gab Artist

Supporters of President Roosevelt who own policies issued by the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co. will be interested to know that their dollars are being spent for anti-FDR propaganda.

Here's the plot:

1. President of Lumbermen's Mutual is James S. Kemper, leading isolationist and chairman of the Republican National Finance Committee.

2. Kemper's company sponsors radio commentator Upton Close, who pours weekly poison into millions of listeners against the New Deal, against social progress generally, and against unity among the United Nations.

Some of Close's prize comments read like this:

"I see less reason," he said in March, 1941, "for having a war with Japan who is frayed out, eaten out at heart, who has blind staggers . . . I would rather see them given a chance . . . than I would see us force war with them, smack them down—then have an awful time deciding how far we must defeat them . . ."

"These wars," said foreign expert Close on last March 19, "begin in mystery. They continue in mystery . . . I would hate even to entertain the thought that Selective Service was being intentionally used as a weapon to destroy the American system."

And on June 4, 1944, Close charmed his listeners with: "But the sheer fact also remains that the American who hates Hitler and the Son of Heaven expects a whole lot more out of his contribution of wealth and blood than the crushing of two tyrannies in order to replace them with two others."

Close's efforts to divide the Allies and to sprinkle distrust of FDR's motives in the eyes of the American people were hailed for what they were worth in the May 22 issue of the out-and-out pro-fascist magazine "Broom," which said:

"Remember, dear reader, as Senator Johnson of Colorado warned us, we have passed the crossroads and our once-great, almost bankrupt Republic is on the downgrade turnpike toward totalitarianism, militarism and permanent despotism . . .

"It will take a constant campaign of education and Herculean efforts to turn back . . .

"Friendly columnists, editorial writers and radio commentators, such as Col. Robert R. McCormick, Upton Close, Rupert Hughes, Fulton Lewis, Jr., Boake Carter . . . could give valuable platform suggestions and ideas for campaign success."

How about it, Lumbermen's Mutual policy-holders—do you agree, or don't you?

GOP Official Sued Over Big Insurance Pay

New York, Oct. 28 — A charge that James S. Kemper, Republican Natl. Committee financial chairman and president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Insurance Co., has been administering company funds for the enrichment of himself and his friends was made this week in court.

The claim was made in a suit filed by a policy holder, Dr. Eugene Koster, who declared that the alleged gains were made at the expense of other policy holders.

Among the charges listed was one that Kemper allegedly received, as salary, bonuses and other compensation, a total of $251,543 in 1942, an increase of more than 235 per cent over the preceding year.

SEA-GOING ORGANIZERS: Radio officers just returned from the war zones help tell the story of their union, the CIO American Communications Assn., to hundreds of Western Union workers in New York City. 60,000 W. U. employes will soon vote for a collective bargaining representative in an NLRB election, with the ACA on the ballot.

Urge War Workers To Vote Nov. 7

Washington, Oct. 28 — All war industries are urged to make arrangements to let their employes vote in a joint statement by Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and Chairman James A. Krug of the WPB.

"Recognizing the paramount obligation of every citizen to vote, we request that war industries make arrangements to permit employees to vote during regular working hours in cases where voting before or after work is not possible, so that there will be a minimum interruption in production.

"We urge war workers to go to the polls either before or after work. It will help greatly in that connection, if other voters at the polls will take pains to let war-plant employees vote first so that production time is not unnecessarily wasted by voters standing

GI IN FRANCE

'Kept on Swearing to Keep From Being Shot . . .'

"The sentries were a bit jittery and kept challenging me. I expected some 'trigger happy' guy to take a shot at me so I kept swearing and talking to myself so they could hear the English and wouldn't mistake me for a sniper. By the time I found my tent I was so tired that if I had wandered into a German tent by mistake I would have crowded in it and gone to sleep . . . "

Short snatches like that tell the story of the Battle of France, in the letters to his wife, of T/5 Thomas Wayne Ball, 33-year-old member of the CIO United Federal Workers Union, and former employe of the U. S. Securities & Exchange Commission at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ball, an employe of the CIO office in Washington, D. C., this week released excerpts from her husband's letters, which tell a day-by-day story of the Battle of France in the intimate style associated with Columnist Ernie Pyle. Some of the excerpts follow:

9-5-44: "So far my stay in France has been more like a vacation camping trip. You should see all the stuff we carry for our personal convenience and comfort. Cots, no less, which we expropriated at one stage of our journey, rubber life belts to use as pillows (mementos of our trip across the channel), extra blankets found at one place or another.

"I'm as warm as toast at night. Ah! the hardships of the Battle of France! If, when I get back I start spouting about all we went through over there, just drag out this letter, as evidence that I'm talking through my hat."

9-7: (inconveniences crop up) " . . . water, for example, is very scarce and we are limited to about a canteen a day for washing and drinking. That includes washing of clothes, too. What I usually do is use it first to clean my teeth, the remaining is used to wash my face and from then on to shaving and washing of clothes, the water getting dirtier and dirtier so that it is pretty black at the end . . . "

T/5 T. W. BALL

9-8: (evidently pushing toward the front) "We are becoming a rather tough looking bunch; some of us are beginning to look like Mauldin's cartoon here. Once or twice, I'm ashamed to say, little French children, seeing me coming, have run screaming, 'La Boche, la Boche.' "

9-9: "Nights here are a blackout within a blackout. The other night, I was working late in a brightly lighted tent. My own wasn't more than 50 feet away but it took me a half-hour to find it when I came out.

"I would start down the road and then start wandering around in a circle, getting tangled up in briars, falling in foxholes and everything else. Previously I had tied some white toilet paper on a tree near my tent but I couldn't even see the paper.

"The sentries were a bit jittery and kept challenging me. I expected some trigger-happy guy to take a shot at me so I kept swearing and talking to myself so they could hear the English and wouldn't mistake me for a sniper.

"By the time I found my tent I was so tired that if I had wandered into a German tent by mistake I would have crowded in it and gone to sleep. War was never like this in the movies.

9-21: "I wrote yesterday about how war looks in the daytime. At night the background is more appropriate and we get jittery as hell if out alone. Nights never appeared so black and never were there so many strange and frightening noises. A walnut drops from a tree and it sounds like a German stepping on a twig . . . no German within miles . . . but you get to imagining things."

Weirton Steel Charged With Contempt

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 28—The drive of the CIO United Steelworkers to organize one of the long-time hold-outs of the industry, Weirton Steel, was given additional impetus this week by a contempt petition filed this week in Federal court by the National Labor Relations Board.

The petition charged that Weirton Steel, at Weirton, W. Va., its parent company, Natl. Steel, and officers of the Weirton Independent Union violated a May, 1943, court order to disband two company unions and to end "hostility" to the USA-CIO, which is attempting to organize the 12,000 Weirton employes.

While the company disbanded the so-called unions, the Weirton Independent Union was "organized before they were disbanded," the NLRB declared, and was dominated by the company "financially and otherwise."

As part of its war against the CIO, NLRB Atty. Winthrop A. Johns said, the company gave 200 employes time off from their jobs last February and March and armed them with riot clubs, with which they proceeded to beat up CIO organizers.

Johns told the court the NLRB's action was of a remedial nature, intended only to force company compliance with the 1943 court decree to guarantee workers a free choice of their bargaining agent.

CIO Man Wins Catholic Award

Chicago, Oct. 28. — Secretary-Treasurer John L. Yancey of the CIO Transport Service Employes has been awarded the Catholic Interracial Council's 1944 award. Yancey is treasurer of the Catholic Labor Alliance.

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 45 82 November 6, 1944

It's FDR Day Nov. 7! Have You Voted?

★ ★ ★

Nazi-Type Trade Groups Seek Grip On World

(See Page 3)

Dead Hero's Dollars Go to PAC With Father's Blessing

Dollars of a dead soldier this week took up the fight for democracy that he was prevented from finishing. The soldier, who died a hero, was 21-year-old Pfc. Roger C. Lawn, of New York City. The money, $20.53, was contributed to the CIO Political Action Committee.

The contributor was Roger's father, Victor H. Lawn, editorial employe of the N. Y. Times. With the money came a letter from Roger's father, which said:

"In all his letters from overseas my boy expressed the fervent wish that he might be able to fight for the welfare of his country at home as well as in foreign lands.

HITS ISOLATIONISTS

"He placed the job of buttressing the United States against the weakening inroads of isolationists and social mossbacks only a trifle below that of ridding the world of Nazis and Fascists.

"He was so convinced that the cause of international peace and domestic social progress required the reelection of President Roosevelt that he did his utmost to influence his fellow soldiers and urged me to work as hard in the States. He was equally positive that the defeat of all isolationists and obstructionist Congressmen was of the same vital importance.

"Under such circumstances I know that in sending you the enclosed check as a bequest from him I am merely carrying out his desires. For my part I wish I could impress upon the men and the women of my generation that it is a solemn obligation resting upon us to try, by our actions and our votes, to uphold the desires of our young men and youths who are dying to uphold our right, as well as theirs, to vote and enjoy the other blessings of liberty, freedom and democracy."

Roger Lawn would have been 22 this December. On May 20, he was working on a plane at the 15th Air Force Base somewhere in Italy, when a Flying Fortress, riddled with Nazi bullets, crashed nearby and burst into flames. He rushed into the flames in an attempt to rescue the Fortress' crew.

The flames won and, reaching the plane's ammunition, exploded magazines of 50 caliber machine gun bullets. Roger and the crew were kiled.

Texas U. Profs Fired For Aiding Labor's Cause

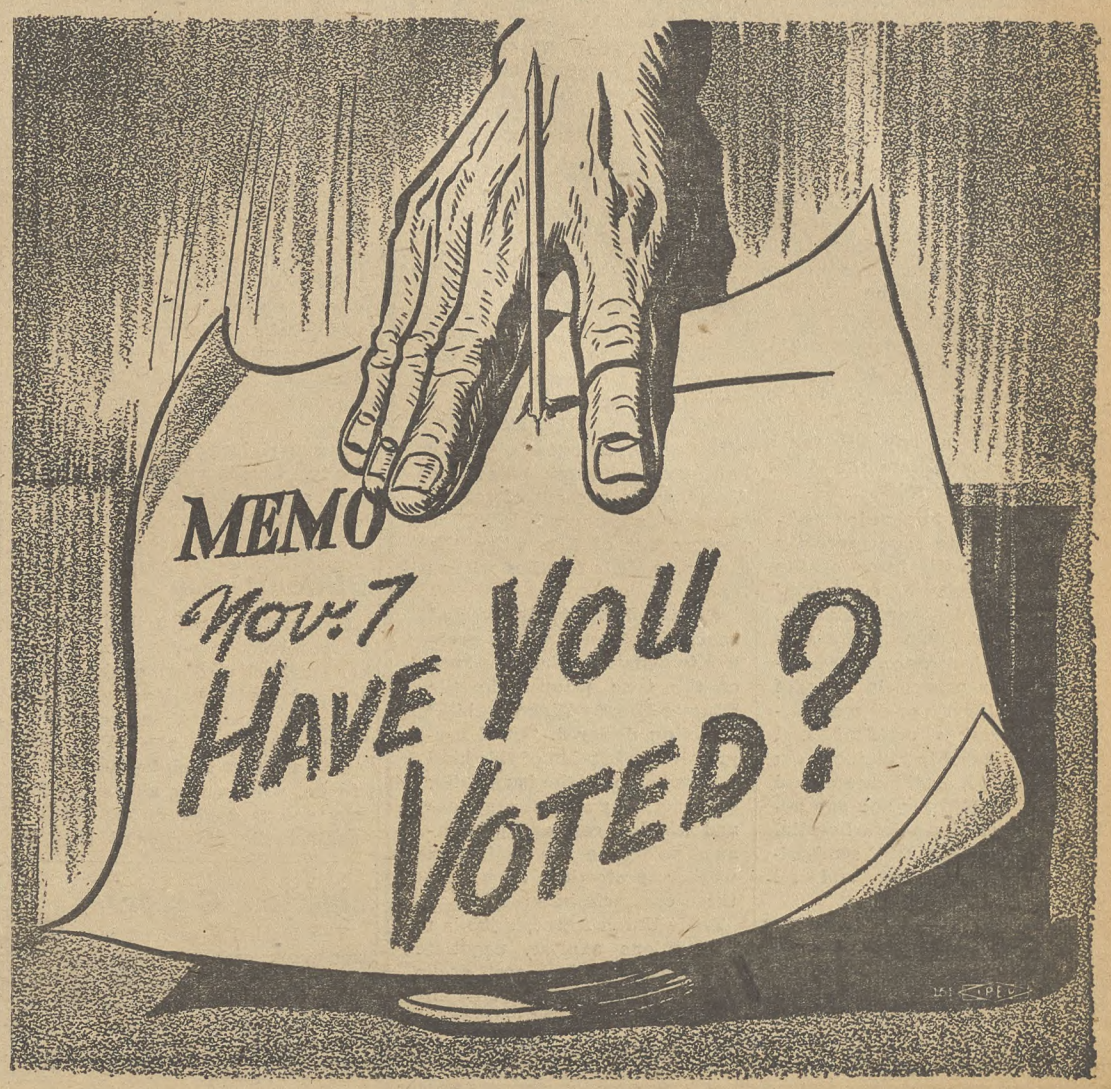
Austin, Tex., Nov. 4—A fight for academic freedom is being waged down here that has an angle of interest to all labor people.

The fight began when the so-called "Christian-Americans" were starting their drive to get anti-labor laws passed in southern states. They had a meeting here which was attended by two professors from the University of Texas.

The two professors spoke against the anti-labor laws and against the "Christian-Americans," who are a latter day version of the Ku Klux Klan. The professors were fired by the Board of Regents of Texas U.

Pres. Homer T. Rainey reinstated them. Now he's been fired by the Regents, who are mostly wealthy oil men and conspirators in the short-lived Texas Democratic "revolt" against FDR.

Gov. Coke Stevenson, no small-time reactionary himself, appoints the Regents. A few wires and letters to him would help a courageous trio of educators who stood up for labor.



Her Job's Unique

110-Pound Woman Heads Natl. Union

By FRED d'AVILA

A 38-year-old woman whose father has been a Republican Congressman is the only female in the United States who is president of a national union. The holder of this unique position is 5 feet, 6 inches tall, weighs 110 pounds sopping wet, has frank blue eyes, brownish hair that's tinged with red, and an upturned nose that photographers describe as cute.

Her name is Eleanor Nelson. Her union is the CIO United Federal Workers of America.

Miss Nelson, as she is known professionally, comes from New England ancestors that sank their roots into the rocky soil of Maine as far back as the Revolutionary War. It is lucky that some of the persistence distilled in their struggles with a harsh climate and an unfriendly soil has been handed down through the generations, for a person of less perseverance might easily have been frustrated by the stupendous task of attempting to organize the three million workers currently employed by Uncle Sam.

Grown With Union

Miss Nelson has grown with the union. It was in 1936, when rank and file rumblings of discontent grew loud over lack of grievance machinery, that Miss Nelson was president of a Labor Department local of the AFL American Federation of Government Employes in the nation's capital. It was in 1937 that she helped to lead a rank and file movement to CIO, setting up the UFWA and becoming its first secretary-treasurer.

She held the post until last week, when the organization sprouted wings of full autonomy to become a national union, independent, but still affiliated with CIO. Miss Nelson was unanimously elected UFWA's president.

Miss Nelson's background is as much a composite of the progressive and conservative as are some of the policies of the organization she represents. She was born 38 years ago, in Waterville, Me. (pop. 15,000), to a family sired by a well-to-do lawyer destined to become a Republican Congressman. She attended fashionable Wellesley College, majoring in economics.

Liberal Thinking

Fortunately the Wellesley campus had attracted a few professors whose theories stimulated Miss Nelson's liberal thinking. These, plus a visit to nearby Boston's slums, gave her a peep-hole view into the problems of the working class.

Her thirst for deeper understanding led her, on graduation, to successive laboring jobs in a clothing shop, in the Hood Rubber Co., at Watertown, Mass., and in a shoe plant at Haverhill, Mass.

The job with the Department of Labor followed. She kept it for nine years, becoming assistant to the policity director of the Women's Division.

Miss Nelson's background, with its strong urge for closer identification with industrial workers, may influence her emphasis of the fact that the UFWA is not really a white collar union.

Thousands of its members push pencils or pound typewriters, but there are thousands more who run the range from stout prison guards and hospital attendants to husky boiler makers who take their double shots of rye straight, without chasers.

Another false impression of the union (and of the federal government) is that most of the workers are women. In both cases the great majority are men!

That Miss Nelson could hold high office under such a division of the sexes is a tribute not only to the intelligence and lack of male chauvinism existing in her union, but also to the broad non-discrimination policy of CIO, which calls for judgment of a person's worth on some basis other than sex, race, nationality, religion or political belief.

Miss Nelson is both a leader in her own right and the maker of a family. She is married to Al Soyring, a second mate in the U. S. Merchant Marine. They have a two-year-old son.

Difficult Job

Her wide-awake, militant battle for government workers' rights and her quick, clear grasp of the union's contemplated relations with government agencies, make her a "natural" to head the UFWA.

It's a difficult job her union has to do, with major aids of ordinary unions denied to it. Strikes against the government both in peace and war are forbidden by the union's constitution. The UFWA does not sign contracts, nor does it enjoy the right to check-off dues of members who approve this method of assuring steady support for their organization.

The UFWA has many employers to deal with—Congress which frequently sets pay scales, administrators and the Civil Service Commission which interpret them, and in the background the people of the United States.

Even the question of grievances used to be a moot point. One of the UFWA's earliest and most outstanding victories was a pledge from every member of President Roosevelt's second cabinet to recommend a policy of dealing with union representatives in the solution of grievances.

Drive for Equality

Currently the union is pushing for equality of government workers with non-government workers in the fields of political action (by urging repeal of the Hatch Act), wages (by seeking more adequate basic and overtime compensation), and social security (by working for unemployment insurance and old age protection).

The UFWA is seeking to speed the march toward these goals by asking the government to grant bargaining rights to it in places where the majority of workers have freely chosen the union to represent them.

Union members have confidence that this struggle, like many in the past, will be led with the same quiet determination that has marked their president's career to date.

The UFWA has a potential membership of millions. Its influence far exceeds its current numerical strength. Its ranks are made up of people of widely diverse backgrounds, employment and opinions. Its continued growth calls for leadership with the combination of the talents of a crusading organizer, a sober administrator, and a Philadelphia lawyer to keep ahead of changes in the necessarily complicated structure of our national government.

The union's leadership seems to have what the job requires. The UFWA's future looks bright.

ELEANOR NELSON
Her Position in the Labor Movement Is Unique

Here's to Your Health Protection!

Forced layoffs due to illness are one of wage workers' worst headaches. More than 350,000 workers, however, have found a permanent cure. It's no Superman invention designed to keep away everything from cancer to the common cold; instead, it's a very practical device for protecting the workers' pocketbooks.

Sponsor of the cure is the Trade Union Agency, which to date has helped more than 350,000 members of CIO unions negotiate group insurance plans, providing (frequently at the expense of employers) for protection against costs of death, sickness, medical and hospital care.

CIO unions most active in pushing such insurance plans have been the Shipyard Workers, Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, Fur & Leather and Furniture Workers, according to Henry W. Wenning, of TUA.

TODD SHIP SIGNS

Latest such plan involves 11,000 employes of the Todd Corp's. Los Angeles shipyard. It is the first labor-management group insurance plan of any size that's been negotiated on the West Coast, Wenning said.

The L. A. Ship plan is roughly similar to one recently negotiated with three of the largest furniture employers' associations in New York City. The N. Y. plan guarantees $1,000 life insurance, $1,000 additional insurance in case of accidental death or dismemberment, weekly accident and sickness benefits ranging from $10 to $27.50, maximum surgical benefit of $150 for any one operation, and complete hospital care, including full semi-private accomodations and all miscellaneous expenses.

Furniture employers will pay the entire cost of this program, turning over 3 per cent of their gross payrolls to the union's insurance fund. Control and supervision of the program are completely in the union's hands.

The union hopes to extend the plan to every employer in the industry, Wenning declared.

He pointed out that group insurance plans do not require War Labor Board approval. Management is allowed to pay up to 5 per cent of total payroll costs for such insurance, with the costs constituting a deductible expense for the employer.

Significant fact in the extension of such agreements is that many present day pacts are being negotiated and administered by trade unions as part of their collective bargaining contracts. Until a few years ago almost all such plans were instituted—and sometimes abandoned—solely by employers.

Need for group insurance is shown by U. S. Public Health reports that 40 million Americans receive inadequate medical care. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, more than two billion dollars in wages are lost annually because of disability due to accidents and sickness not covered by Workmen's Compensation laws.

SICKNESS TOLL LARGE

Three workers out of every ten lose pay each year because of illness, while one out of ten has to meet a hospital bill. Two workers out of five, when they die, leave their families without funds.

"The only satisfactory and conclusive answer to this problem is Federal social insurance of the type planned in the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill," Wenning declared. "Until progressive legislation of this kind is enacted, only the bargaining power of his union to negotiate and win low cost group insurance will give the individual worker protection against those economic hazards."

Trade Union Agency's job is to help unions analyze, negotiate and administer low cost group insurance programs specially fitted to the needs of workers in each particular industry.

Election Order

The Natl. Labor Relations Board last week ordered the Wehl Steel Co., West Allis, Wis., to stop urging employes to vote against the CIO United Steelworkers in any election conducted by the board. The firm agreed.

L. J. IMBER
COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber, Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE
METAL LITHOGRAPHED
BUTTONS

for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES

Recognized Union Labels
No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in
Light and Heavy Stamping - Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and Special Stampings - Tools and Dies
N. Y. Representative, Herbert R. Lerman, 37 E. 14th St., Algonquin 4-3356

L. J. IMBER COMPANY
1725-41 W. North Ave., Chicago 22, Illinois
BRUnswick 7815

Cartels Used to Pave Way For Nazi Conquest; Now Planning World War III

By C. W. FOWLER

The problem of how to prevent Germany from starting a third world war after defeat in its second one is already engaging earnest attention in the United Nations, even though World War II is not yet won.

Twice now in a quarter century the rulers of Germany have overwhelmed Europe and the world in war and devastation.

First Of A Series

Plenty of evidence is piling up to show that Nazi plans for a third try have been drawn up and put on file for the next generation.

The economic preparation for this present war is well worth study, if we are to prevent an even more ghastly repetition along about 1970. Much of this economic preparation is to be found in the operations of German dominated international trade cartels.

German industrialists used cartels in the economic preparation for conquest of the world. They will try to use them again for the same purpose. If they are permitted to survive, as they survived after 1918, they have the same chance of succeeding as they had in 1939 and 1940.

How these international trade cartels were set up, how German industrialists dominated them, how they operated not only in Europe but in this country and in Latin America, and what they meant to the lives of hundreds of millions of unsuspecting people has been the subject of intensive study in the United States, organized and carried out by supporters of President Roosevelt in the U. S. Senate.

What is to be done to stop cartels as they have operated in the past is also the study of FDR supporters, both in Congress and outside it. The key to cartels' suppression lies in the re-election of FDR and the application in terms of international economics of the principles laid down at Teheran, Bretton Woods, Dumbarton Oaks and other United Nations conferences initiated by him.

What Is A Cartel?

According to the simplest definition, a cartel is an agreement among a group of industrialists to divide up international markets, to suppress competition, to keep prices and profits high, and to suppress industrial developments that may be of great value to the consumer.

"Cartel activities are designed to maximize the profits of participants by directly or indirectly maintainng prices at the level of greatest net return," Corwin D. Edwards of the U. S. Dept. of Justice's Anti-Trust Division, wrote in the first report on the subject by Sen. Kilgore's (D., W. Va.) subcommittee on war mobilization.

In this form, cartels divide up markets among various producing nations. Thus, U. S. participants in a chemical cartel may be limited to the Latin American market or even to the domestic market only, with the rest of the world reserved for European (mainly German) producers.

The cartel primarily freezes out the "outsiders." This means that patents, industrial information and "know-how," as well as markets, are restricted. This in turn means that the consumer is deprived of the benefits of free competition. He has no chance to buy the products or processes he needs from another firm, because the other firm doesn't have them to sell. Consequently, he pays a higher price for a monopoly product.

Cartels are also used to keep quality down. The electrical manufacturing cartel dominated by N. V. Philips, nominally of Holland but actually of Germany, has been successful in preventing the distribution of longer-life electric light bulbs and other equipment.

One of the most fantastic examples of cartel price gouging is in dental plastics. The world drug cartel dominated by I. G. Farben (Germany) had a line of plastics useful for making dentures. It sold for 85 cents a pound commercially.

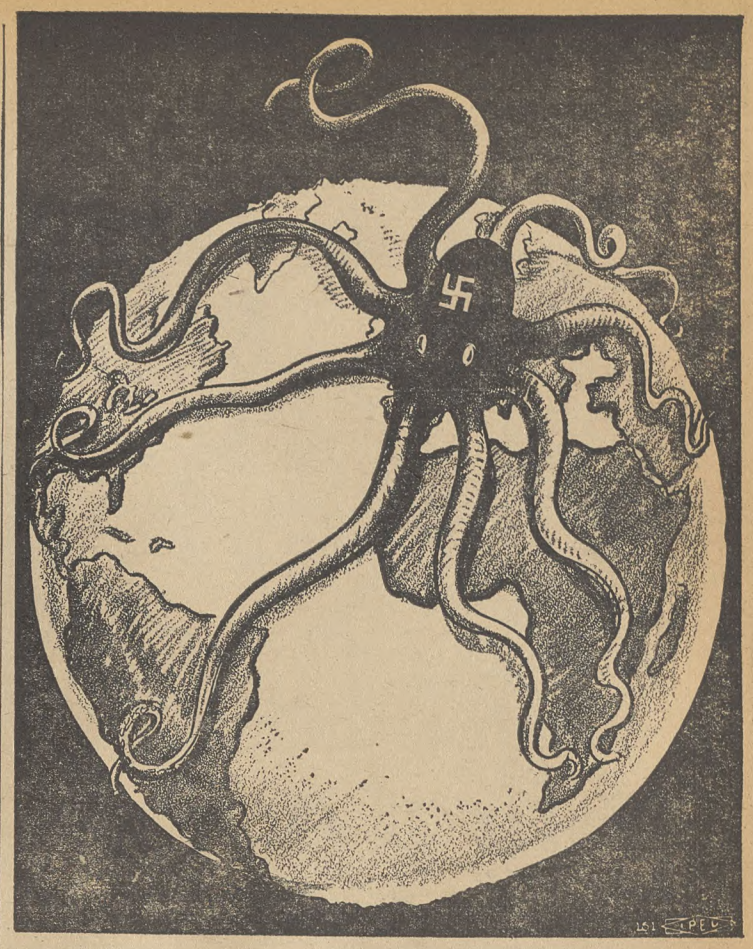
Dentists forced to pay $45 a pound for the same product found they could use the 85-cent stuff, which was identical. The cartel discovered this and immediately put a bitter substance in the commercial plastic that made it useless for dentures.

But the international cartel as manipulated by German industrialists, with the frequent cooperation of their English and American colleagues, was more than a device to gyp the consumer.

It was the means by which Naziism and its German industrialist masters spread economic talons all over the world. It was the means by which they planned to penetrate, weaken and disarm other nations. It was the real "softening-up" process that paved the way for military attack.

And the German-dominated cartel began to operate long before Hitler was placed in power. It hopes and plans now to survive him and go on to World War III.

(To Be Continued)



Loss Seen, If Wages Aren't Upped

Even if everybody works who is working today, the country may well lose $14 billion of workers' purchasing power as war ends if wage rates are not raised, according to an OPA study quoted in the current issue of the CIO's Economic Outlook.

Most of the increase in workers' wages during the war has come from overtime pay and shifts of workers to higher-paid industries, according to official figures of the U. S. Department of Labor. General wage increases have raised urban factory rates only 16 per cent, and these raises account for only 15.3 per cent of the total additions to weekly payrolls since January 1941, the article states. All other increases may well disappear after the war, according to the CIO.

If employment should also fall to 1939 levels, manufacturing payrolls would amount to less than half their 1943 total, the Outlook states—a loss of $3 billion dollars of buying power.

"The dangerous plunge in payrolls when Germany falls must be offset by higher rates now to provide a market," the Outlook states.

CIO-AFL Unity Move At Fort Wayne

A milestone on the march toward labor unity was clicked off this week by CIO and AFL unions in Fort Wayne, Ind. The central bodies of both organizations set up a 10-man joint committee to consider common problems, particularly those of a political and economic nature.

A declaration of unity listed the following aims which the organizations said could best be achieved by united action:

Elimination of jurisdictional disputes, a postwar housing program, political action to back labor's friends, the battle to raise wages, and aid to returning war veterans.

"We believe," the joint CIO-AFL statement said, "that one of the greatest contributions we can make to the winning of the war and the achievement of our postwar aims would be unification of our ranks.

Gallup Polls Gallop By 30 Million People

How good is a Gallup Poll? To read Dr. Gallup, it's practically perfect. From a few thousand or less people, he says, he can tell exactly what's on America's mind—not only what's cooking, but what's going to cook.

In fact, he's published a book to prove that his method is sound and that no other method quite equals it. Occasionally, of course, the poll goes slightly wrong. This is accounted for by the normal "margin of error." The good doctor's margin has been called lately on registration figures—he said they'd be low—but he's corrected it in time.

Perhaps one clue to the margin of error is found in a revealing sentence in Dr. Gallup's book: "A Guide To Public Opinon Polls," which has been running in the newspapers owned by the Gallup patients. The sentence says:

"Except on questions involving social issues, non-voting groups in the South and elsewhere are excluded."

A QUERY

This raises a query. According to estimates, some 25 to 30 million eligible American citizens do not vote even in the best election years. About 88 million citizens are eligible to vote. The best pre-election figure for the total vote this time was 50 million.

If Dr. Gallup's book represents his Institute's policy, then about 30 million people are not represented even by the sampling method in his polls—unless the question is a "social" one.

At least 10 million of the country's non-voting citizens are in eight Southern states, where the polltax prevents them from voting. A large proportion of the nation's 13 million Negroes live in these states. The rest of the polltax disfranchised are white citizens who can't afford to pay the tax.

According to the Gallup principle, these citizens' opinions don't count. They aren't asked if they intend to register. They aren't queried on their preference as between FDR or Dewey. Thy simply don't rate—unless the question is officially designated by Dr. Gallup as "social."

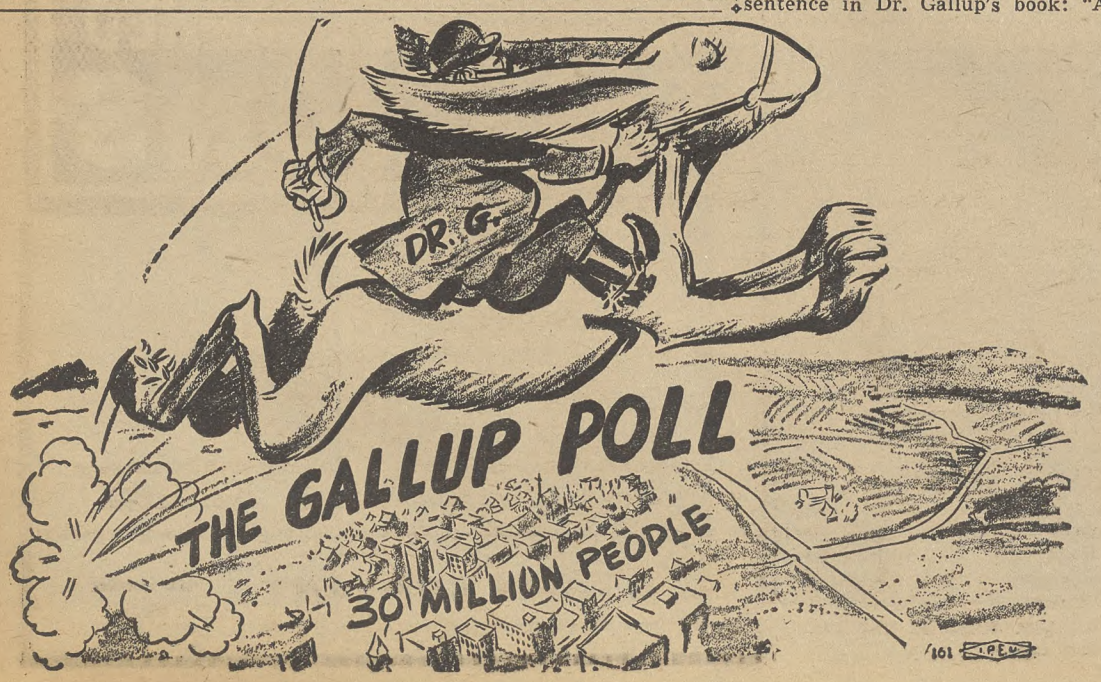
MORE QUERIES

This of course raises more queries in a restless mind. What is the definition of a "social" question as opposed to a "non-social" one?

Your correspondent worried about this and wrote to Dr. Gallup. The letter asked for such a definition and asked if polls on such things as taxes (Dr. Gallup has frequently shown that low income groups think high sales taxes are just the thing), regulation of labor unions (remembering the poll that had union members coming out for more regulation), wage stabilization etc., were considered "social" or "non-social."

The answer was brief, and not signed by Dr. Gallup. It said: "I think that you realize as well as I that no general definition is available on your question."

So the followers of the Gallup poll will never know for sure what Dr. Gallup considers a "social" or a "non-social" question, and whether or not some 30 million people are left out of a particular poll.



Political Action—The Hope Of The South

By GEORGE S. MITCHELL
Director, Southeastern Region,
CIO Political Action Committee

CIO Political Action south of Mason Dixon is in tough territory. Its goal is working unity among industrial laborers, farmers and liberal elements to break the grip of big farmers and big business boys who control the South's political life. To the manufactured obstacles that these elements build in the path of working people must be added the natural obstacles of political indifference due to a one-party system and to a primarily agricultural economy.

Yet Southern people—working farmers, industrial laborers, both CIO and AFL, and other progressive forces—have already this year "Xed out" the names of such enemies of progress as Congressmen Kleberg, Patton and Dies of Texas, Starnes and Newsome of Alabama, and Senators "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina and Hattie Caraway of Arkansas. And political action by working people played no small part in the re-nomination of New Deal Senators Pepper of Florida and Hill of Alabama.

MITCHELL

Typical of the problems throughout the South are those of the CIO Political Action Committee's Southeastern Region, including Florida, Louisiana, North Carolina and the polltax states of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Add to Southern heat the political inertia caused by a one-party system, the fact that a huge part of the territory is primarily agricultural, and the relationship of dependency that exists between sharecroppers and the people who own the land, and you have a situation that gives even the most experienced political worker cause for pause.

Most industrial workers—the real base of a political action job—never have voted. Up to six months ago, only 10 to 20 per cent of them were qualified electors!

The first road block on their advance to full citizenship is the polltax. But the reasons for not voting go far deeper than this. Another major factor influencing their lack of activity is the absence of any effective opposition to the old-line Democratic Party. Campaigns are cut and dried. The sharpness of struggle that marks political battles up North is missing, and as a result the people are less interested.

The cities, which are the most fertile fields for Political Action, have drawn to their new war factories thousands of country people who are only recently learning the need to exercise their franchise rights. And in most cases, Negroes have been carefully kept from the polls.

The South is more accustomed to a relationship of dependency than the North, and useful political activity lives in independence. If a man trusts to his boss for his job, his promotion, his credit, and his chance of making a crop, as most poorer people in the South have done, he is apt to leave voting to the boss and the boss' friends. The answer to this is to bring home to him the fact that he can be politically independent.

CIO has talked on these terms: The government now controls wages, hours, prices, taxes, rent and housing, the waging of the war, the making of the peace, the volume of employment. Government thus sets the framework for most of the material side of our lives. In the long run, government is operated in the interests of the people who vote. We have not voted in the past, and we have had low wages, high prices, poor housing, one bad peace and much unemployment.

Local unions of all kinds, feeling the new stimulus, have added at least 50,000 new voters in the southeastern region during 1944.

All branches of organized labor in the South enthusiastically welcome the beginning of organization by the National Farmers Union. Here and there, small farmers and city workers are voting together.

Farmers Count

When progressive Albert Rains defeated Joe Starnes in Alabama, many of Rains' votes came from small farmers who were visited by industrial workers commuting to their jobs from their own farm homes.

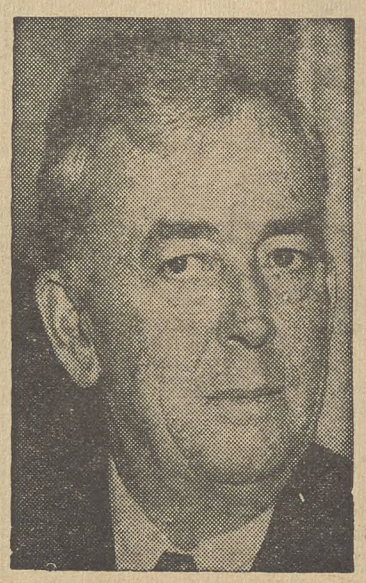
The South in the main is still agricultural. So long as we rely solely on industrial districts for political action, the list of progressive Congressmen from south of Mason Dixon will be small. Rankin went back to Congress, Cox went back, and a lot more or less like them will go back until the farmers begin to vote.

CIO and political action have aroused Southern workers about government. Slowly a determination gathers that town councils, county commissioners, state house officials, and our Congressmen and Senators shall feel the strength of the little fellows whom they chivvied around before. PAC in the South means the beginning of true democracy—reality to replace the manipulated sham that has passed for our self-government.

Farm Security, OWI Photos.

POLITICAL KEY IS UNITY: Election victories for progressive forces in the South hinge not only on educating and activizing industrial workers like those shown marching out of a Sheffield, Ala., plant, but also in building unity between them and working farmers, like those, above, planting corn in Virginia's fertile Shenandoah Valley.

REP. EUGENE COX
Georgia Re-Elected Him



REP. JOHN E. RANKIN
Still to Be Defeated

REP. MARTIN DIES
Texas Made Him A Lame Duck

SEN. LISTER HILL
Backs FDR in Alabama

PAT HARRISON, MISS., CHAIRMAN
WALTER F. GEORGE, GA. — ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE, JR., WIS.
DAVID I. WALSH, MASS. — ARTHUR CAPPER, KANS.
ALBEN W. BARKLEY, KY. — ARTHUR H. VANDENBERG, MICH.
TOM CONNALLY, TEX. — JAMES J. DAVIS, PA.
JOSIAH W. BAILEY, N. C. — HENRY CABOT LODGE, JR., MASS.
BENNETT CHAMP CLARK, MO. — JOHN A. DANAHER, CONN.
HARRY FLOOD BYRD, VA. — ROBERT A. TAFT, OHIO
PETER G. GERRY, R. I.
JOSEPH F. GUFFEY, PA.
PRENTISS M. BROWN, MICH.
CLYDE L. HERRING, IOWA.
EDWIN C. JOHNSON, COLO.
GEORGE L. RADCLIFFE, MD.
FELTON M. JOHNSTON, CLERK

United States Senate COMMITTEE ON FINANCE

July 16, 1941.

Mr. Edward James Smythe,
Chairman, Protestant War Veterans of the U.S.,
149 Vermilyea Avenue,
New York, New York.

Dear Mr. Smythe:

I have your letter of July eleventh. I wish to thank you for your kind words regarding the course which I have pursued in the Senate.

The difficulty with any move to impeach Roosevelt is that the Democrats have a large majority in both House and Senate, constitutionally elected, and there would be no possibility of getting a majority for impeachment.

I believe that any manner in which you can bring home to the President or Congress the fact that a majority of the people are opposed to their course will have some effect in deterring their constant course towards war.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Robert A. Taft

RT:M: lbl OPEU

GOP THANKS FASCIST:

This letter from Sen. Robert A. Taft, one of the GOP's most vocal appeasers and reactionaries, is addressed to Edw. J. Smythe, now on trial for sedition in Washington. Smythe tried to run away from the trial, was brought back by the FBI. Note the friendly tone Taft takes in writing to this indicted seditionist.

GOP Convicts Self Of Axis Tactics

Two sensational charges were directed at the GOP this week, one by the CIO-PAC and the other by GOP's own admission in Pennsylvania. They linked GOP leaders with native fascism and with anti-Semitism as developed by Hitler, Goebbels and Julius Streicher.

The first charge was made by the Ohio CIO-PAC in a pamphlet titled "He Wanted To Do Business With Hitler and Hirohito; the Amazing Story of Senator Taft"; and described to the Senate Campaign Committee by Jack Kroll, PAC director.

The second was by admission of Harvey Taylor, Pennsylvania state GOP chairman, that his party printed and distributed 3,000,000 copies of a virulent anti-Semitic pamphlet entitled "Clear Everything With Sidney."

Typical of the charges against Taft—which he has not denied and which the Republican members of the Senate Campaign Committee did not attempt to deny—was a statement he made in May, 1940, at the height of Hitler's blitz of Europe:

"I (he said in the Senate) see no reason why the Germans, if we remain neutral, should attack the U. S., even if victorious. I don't understand why if peace is restored we could not trade as well with Germany as with England."

VIOLATE PENN. LAW

The Pennsylvania State GOP pamphlet, a filthy blast of anti-Semitism in the worst Nazi style, is a flagrant violation of a Pennsylvania law requiring signature of political pamphlets by the agency issuing them, since the signature on this job is not that of the state committee but an obscure thing called "Trade Union News." The pamphlet has been barred from the mails as libelous.

GOP state chairman Taylor was very uneasy during the questioning, though it was gentle enough. It took three tries to get the truth about the number of pamphlets printed out of him. He started with the figure of 100,000 for which he said $15,000 was paid.

This figured out at 15 cents a copy at the printers, which was obviously absurd. So Taylor raised the figure to one million, explaining that he was confused about his thousands. Finally he told the truth, which was three million.

Testimony on Taft, presented by Kroll, included a letter from him to Edward J. Smythe (see cut), who is one of the indicted seditionists in the trial now going on in Washington. The letter speaks sympathetically about Smythe's project of having President Roosevelt impeached, though Taft admits a little sadly that the plan is impractical.

ANTI-UNION PRINTERS

To make the story on the anti-Semitic, anti-New Deal pamphlet complete, the state GOP had it distributed by the R. H. Donnelley Co., which the AFL Typographical Union has been fighting for years in an attempt to organize it. Henry Luce's Time, Life and other magazines are printed by this firm.

"We deliver anything," the firm's representative said. "We don't draw the line—provided, of course, that it isn't something that's absolutely vulgar."

Apparently anti-Semitism, attempted linking of the President, his wife, Sidney Hillman and cabinet members to convicted murderers, as was done in the pamphlet, aren't considered "absolutely vulgar" by this anti-labor firm.

The pamphlet and its distribution by the GOP are one more example in a shocking campaign the Republicans are running in their frantic attempt to put Dewey in the White House.

Despite pious protestations from Dewey, anti-Semitism has been made a major weapon in the GOP strategy. The fact that Sidney Hillman happens to be a Jew who was born in Lithuania has been made a major point in their appeals to prejudice and hatred.

The same tactics were used by Hitler and his gang in 1933 and the years that led up to the tragedy of Europe. Perhaps Dewey and other top ranking Republicans are sincere when the denounce racial hatred.

If they are, they're letting their lieutenants get away with a great deal of stuff they disapprove of. The Pennsylvania state Republican Committee is no small potatoes in the GOP setup.

Giant Rally Hails FDR's Leadership

Uniting around the need to re-elect President Roosevelt in the interests of winning the war and building a sound peace, both major wings of organized labor joined with industry this week to urge the defeat of Thomas E. Dewey. The occasion was a giant Madison Square Garden rally for Roosevelt, broadcast nationally, with President Philip Murray carrying the ball for CIO; with President Dan Tobin of the Teamsters and President George Harrison of the Railway Clerks representing AFL; and with Andrew J. Higgins, New Orleans shipbuilder, sharing the platform.

"All of us—businessmen, farmers and the three great labor organizations—find ourselves happily united in the common realization of a mutual interest which far transcends all differences," Murray told the cheering crowd that jammed the huge hall. "That mutual interest is the re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as President, and the election of a progressive Congress which will loyally support him in the tasks which lie ahead."

MOST IMPORTANT ELECTION

Murray warned that this is the most important election that the nation ever has faced, and then proceeded to take the Dewey-GOP platform apart, plank by plank.

"While our men and women in the armed forces are fighting the struggle of their lives and on the very day that the War Dept. announced a program for the orderly mustering out of these people—Mr. Dewey, with a reckless indifference to the truth and to the morale of our fighting men and women, accuses the Administration of intending to postpone their discharge following the cessation of hostilities," Murray pointed out.

"When the armed might of the United Nations has driven the Nazi forces to the brink of a decisive military defeat—Mr. Dewey deplores the refusal of our Commander-in-Chief to offer a negotiated peace to the Nazis.

"On the very eve of the return of American forces to the Philippines and the smashing defeat of the Japanese navy—Mr. Dewey accuses our Commander-in-Chief of neglecting the Pacific warfare because of political reasons.

STANDS ON RECORD

"Is this the record of a man in whom the American people can repose their confidence that the military strategy of this total war will continue as under the unparalleled brilliancy of President Roosevelt? The answer must be an emphatic 'No.'

"The war is not yet won and the winning of it requires the continued services of a tried and trusted Commander-in-Chief.

"The welfare of America demands the continued services of President Roosevelt in helping to build the permanent structure of peace. The foundations for that structure have already been laid under his leadership. We dare not change the architect of peace.

"Britain, Russia, China and the United States will be the four great pillars which support the structure of peace. Do we dare entrust our relations with Britain and China to a man who would have stood idly by when Britain and China were in danger and who opposed giving them aid by means of lend-lease?

"Do we dare entrust our relations with Russia to a man who once said that we wanted no partnership with the Soviet Union?

"Do we dare trust the pious expressions of Thomas Dewey who even now gladly accepts support from such vicious sources as the Chicago Tribune and Gerald L. K. Smith? The answer again must be an emphatic 'No.'

NO TURNING BACK

"The American people are united and determined, as they have never been before, that in the words of our President, 'The clock shall not be turned back.' We have seen that with true leadership, wisdom and boldness, no obstacle can impede the onward march of the American people. The businessman does not want a return to bankruptcy. The farmer does not want a return to foreclosures and evictions. The worker does not want a return to street-corner apple selling.

"The American people desire a quick ending of the war with the decisive defeat of Germany and Japan. They are determined to establish a peace that will last. They are equally determined to create an economy that will provide the blessings of our country to all the people. These achievements must and shall be assured through the re-election of Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE
BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

CASH WHEN NEEDED MOST!

NOW $1 A MONTH PROVIDES

AMAZING NEW GOLD SEAL POLICY

Provides all-around protection, cash for almost every emergency! Issued by old-line LEGAL RESERVE company, yet actually costs less than $1 a month. Protection you need at a price you can afford!

Pays for ANY and ALL Accidents, ALL Common Sicknesses, as provided, even minor injuries. Disability benefits paid from first day. No waiting period. NO, this is NOT the usual "limited" policy. NO jokers. NO trick clauses. It's extra liberal!

NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION

Accumulated CASH BENEFITS for Accidental Loss of Life, Limb or Sight up to $6000.00

For ACCIDENT DISABILITY up to $100 a month for as long as 24 months, or $2400.00

For SICKNESS DISABILITY a regular monthly income up to $100.00 PER MO.

HOSPITAL EXPENSES for Sickness or Accident including room to over $650.00

Policy issued BY MAIL at big savings. Ages 15 to 69. Actual policy sent for 10 DAYS' FREE EXAMINATION. Write for it today. No cost! No obligation! No salesman will call. Use coupon below. Do it today—Provide for tomorrow!

FREE 10-Day Inspection Coupon

The SERVICE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
Service Life Bldg. Omaha 2, Nebr.

Without cost or obligation, send your GOLD SEAL $1-A-MONTH Policy for 10 DAYS' FREE INSPECTION.

Name _____
Address _____ Age _____
City _____ State _____
Beneficiary _____

The Future Depends On You

Don't say we didn't warn you, if next year and for years to come you find constant reason to kick yourself, and if your children and grand-children reproach you for not having been on the job when you could have done so much good with so little effort.

More depends on the results of this Tuesday's elections than on any previous political test in American history.

They will determine the speed and effectiveness of our victory over fascism, the durability of world peace, and the future prosperity of our whole people.

If you fail to vote, you will be endangering Rosevelt's re-election and giving the Dewey gang a chance to win.

Your uncast ballot may mean unemployment for you instead of steady work. It may mean the horrors of another world war for you and your children, instead of lasting peace.

You will have to share the blame for all the griefs that will follow a tory victory, if you can vote but fail to do so.

On the other hand, you can share the credit for a brighter future if you do your part as a good American by voting yourself and getting everyone else you can reach to do the same.

All out to the polls on November 7!

What Kind Of Congress?

The kind of Congress elected on November 7 is of equal importance to the kind of President placed in the White House.

It is not enough to re-elect Pres. Roosevelt, if the kind of Congress that has cursed the country in recent years is also returned.

A reactionary Congress can do even more harm in the years to come than it has done in the past.

Wartime conditions have been a restraining factor in the power for evil of the present Congress. The anti-FDR and anti-labor majority has not dared to go too far in defiance of the war fervor of the American people.

But if the same kind of tories are given a new lease of life by this year's wartime elections, they will take it as a green light to go much further than they have dared to go before. And as the war comes to an end, they are likely to throw off all restraints.

A reactionary majority in the new Congress can sabotage everything the best President may try to do for speedy victory, lasting peace and postwar prosperity.

It can pass laws to cripple the labor movement, to encourage a wage-cutting open-shop drive, to give free rein to inflation and runaway living costs, to prevent real planning for jobs for all, and to enrich the selfish few at the expense of the many.

Before you go to the polls on Tuesday, be sure to check with your union or political committee on the record and standing of all candidates. Then vote for a progressive Congress that will really back up FDR and give labor a square deal.

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

ANY reader of detective stories knows that a big hue-and-cry against a possible suspect is an almost certain indication he isn't the real murderer; and that the latter most likely is diverting suspicion from himself by being loudest in the hue-and-cry.

If we bear this in mind, it's easy to identify the real villains in this year's election campaign.

The main propaganda of the Dewey forces was a terrific hue-and-cry against labor in politics.

They claimed CIO political action was un-American, undemocratic, subversive, mobocracy, etc., etc.

★ ★ ★

If we disregard for the moment the crude appeals to prejudice and bigotry, the labor-baiting, Jew-baiting, red-baiting and alien-baiting that accompanied this line, we can boil down the more serious attempts at argument as follows:

"Labor political action is harmful to democracy because it divides the people along class lines; because it promotes narrow group interests against the common interest; because it appeals to the mob rather than to the intelligence of the upper classes; and because labor's aims are inevitably subversive."

These arguments, of course, are old stuff. They have been used against union organization, against all progressive legislation, and against every advance of democracy itself.

But seldom has their falseness been more glaringly illustrated than in the 1944 elections; and seldom has it been more evident that the loudest shouters of "stop thief" are themselves the real thieves.

★ ★ ★

The emergence of labor as an active and effective political force is the outstanding element in this year's elections.

Millions of working people, thanks chiefly to the CIO, were stirred to a full sense of their democratic rights and responsibilities.

They organized and attended meetings, read and distributed literature, studied the issues, and canvassed and informed their fellow-citizens.

Through their unions and political committees, they conducted the biggest and most successful campaigns in American history to get everyone possible to register and vote.

★ ★ ★

What were the "narrow, selfish" aims of all this political activity? PAC Chairman Hillman boiled them down to three: (1) to mobilize maximum support behind the administration for speedy victory; (2) to lay the foundations for stable and lasting peace; and (3) to make possible postwar prosperity with full production and jobs for all.

Has CIO political activity divided the people along class lines, or group against group?

On the contrary, it has worked to unite labor, farmers, professionals, businessmen and all other good Americans behind a broad and patriotic program in the best national interest—to unify Negro and white, Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant, foreign-born and native-born.

Is CIO political activity subversive? Not unless you regard the defense of American democracy against domestic and foreign fascism in all its forms as "subversive."

Has it appealed to mob psychology and prejudice against the counsels of intelligence and reason? The CIO political program, literature and speeches reveal a more constructive, reasoned and intelligent aproach than has ever marked an American political campaign.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, every false accusation against CIO political action recoils on its accusers.

The very concentration of their attacks on the PAC was an appeal to the class prejudices of the well-to-do against the aspirations of American working people.

The campaign speeches of the Deweyites and the pages of the Hearst, Scripps-Howard, McCormick, Patterson, Gannett and other papers supporting Dewey were filled with narrow appeals to class and group prejudice, setting rich against poor, employer against labor, conservative against radical, Gentile against Jew, native against foreign-born.

While the CIO and other FDR-supporters demanded maximum unity of the United Nations for victory and lasting peace, the isolationist gang supporting Dewey subtly and openly attacked Britain and the Soviet Union and tried to divided Americans from their allies.

As to appeals to mob psychology, the record speaks for itself. The Dewey press constantly appealed to bigotry and mob prejudice in preference to appeals to reason.

And where were the pro-fascists and other subversive enemies of American democracy in this campaign? To a man, they were on the Dewey side, standing out as the bitterest enemies of Roosevelt and labor and supplying the filthiest anti-CIO propaganda that the Deweyites stooped to the gutter to obtain.

The CIO News
Published Weekly
Congress of Industrial Organizations

Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer
Vice-Presidents
Joseph Curran, S. H. Dalrymple, Albert Fitzgerald, John Green, Allan S. Haywood, Emil Rieve, Reid Robinson, Frank Rosenblum, R. J. Thomas
Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director

Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.
Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925

Vol. 7 November 6, 1944 No. 45

Punch Sadly Missed In Election Probes

Congressional investigations aren't what they used to be in the good old days—at least if the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee is a fair sample. They're pale and positively genteel compared to the fireworks that used to appear regularly at the LaFollette and the Black Committees six or seven years ago.

Take the matter of investigating the conduct of the election campaign. The committee has had a gold mine of rich material in the conduct of some of the GOP's most important election machinery, but the rich ore has remained in the ground.

Think of the fun the LaFollette Committee and its top flight investigators would have had with a character like Wm. J. Goodwin, for example, the head of the Anti-FDR American National Democratic Committee.

Goodwin was the perfect type of the shifty witness with obscure connections around the fringes of native fascism. He was extremely evasive in his answers, claiming he didn't know anything about finances of his committee though he was treasurer, didn't know the Corrupt Practices Act, didn't know who his contributors were, etc. All he would admit he knew was that he's against the "Communistic New Deal."

The Committee pretty much let him get away with it. In an earlier day, Sen. Thomas of the LaFollette Committee would have made mincemeat of such a witness, as he did with the head of the "Constitutional Education League, Inc., " when he was on the carpet.

Or take the Committee's handling of the three million anti-Semitic, anti-FDR pamphlets put out by the Pennsylvania state Republican Committee. It was surprisingly gentle, despite the fact that the Keystone state GOP was flagrantly guilty of the worst kind of race hate incitement.

Even the Democratic chairman of the Senate Committee, Sen. Green of Rhode Island, confined himself to poking mild fun at the witness rather than denouncing him for giving Republican endorsement to a 1944 version of Julius Streicher's Der Stuermer.

The House Campaign Committee has been somewhat more vigorous. They've got after Frank E. Gannett's Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc., which is another anti-union, anti-FDR, anti-Semitic outfit. They've slapped down a couple of subpenas and made a few threats.

But both committees let themselves be bogged down in legalistic arguments about fine points of the law rather than going to the heart of the matter, whether that heart be shady contributions to Dewey's campaign funds or slanderous racial hatred directed against labor and the New Deal.

Sen. Ferguson (Mich.) leading Republican advocate on the Senate Committee, keeps the investigation on that level. Ferguson is a fairly able lawyer, and he usually dominates the argument. He's at his best when questicning CIO-PAC witnesses. Then he acts like the demon prosecutor of the radio dramas—hard, sharp and loud-voiced. Maybe he models himself on the perfect small time prosecutor that the Republicans selected for their Presidential candidate.

But to this observer, at least, the latter day Senate investigation lacks the fireworks of the best days of the Civil Liberties Committee. They used to call a phoney a phoney and a fascist a fascist. Or maybe this observer is getting on in years and just yearning for the good old days.

It was more fun to listen to, anyway—and it brought more results for the health of the nation.

GOP APPLE SELLING REENACTED

in New York City. This is one of the first photos of 250 apple sellers on street corners last week, reminding voters of what to expect if they elect Dewey. The idea originated with Larry Menken, director of radio and rallies, American Labor Party.

Hillman Tells Press PAC 'Facts of Life'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Washington's allegedly toughest audience heard Sidney Hillman explain PAC to it this week and on the whole liked it, if audience reaction is any guide.

The audience was the National Press Club, social organization of Washington newspaper correspondents, the big shots of the newspaper trade and most of them working for anti-FDR and anti-PAC papers.

Hillman hit first at the most familiar charge the newspapers throw at PAC—and of course echoed by Dewey—that its nothing but a "Communist front."

"Those who spread this are either misinformed or are deliberately trying to misinform the people," he said. "I've asked the Dies Committee to appear, and though I've been under subpena for six months, they haven't called me.

"Communism is not the issue in this campaign. I've never met Browder, and my record of opposing Communism for 25 years is known. The Communists support the war. Does that mean we were called on not to support it?"

THE REAL ISSUES

The real issues of the campaign and the reason why Pres. Murray called PAC together in 1943 are these, he said:

1. The apathy of the voters in 1942, when only 28 million voted and we got a reactionary Congress. "Our first objective, therefore, was a large registration and a big vote."

2. Support of the war and mobilization of the people behind FDR and victory.

3. A lasting and stable peace, which can only be achieved through the re-election of Roosevelt.

4. A postwar program of full production and jobs for all who are willing and able to work, with economic security for everyone.

ON FOURTH TERM

Turning to the fourth term question, Hillman declared the election of Dewey would mean a "fourth term for the Herbert Hoover philosophy of unemployment and misery. Harding, Coolidge and Hoover himself occupied the first three terms. Dewey's election would mean the fourth."

PAC is not out to "capture or be captured by" the Democratic or any other party, he added; "our only chance of success lay in being and remaining independent."

CIO-PAC has endorsed some Republicans, he pointed out, though "unfortunately they were only a few, since the Republicans don't have such a good record that we could endorse very many of them."

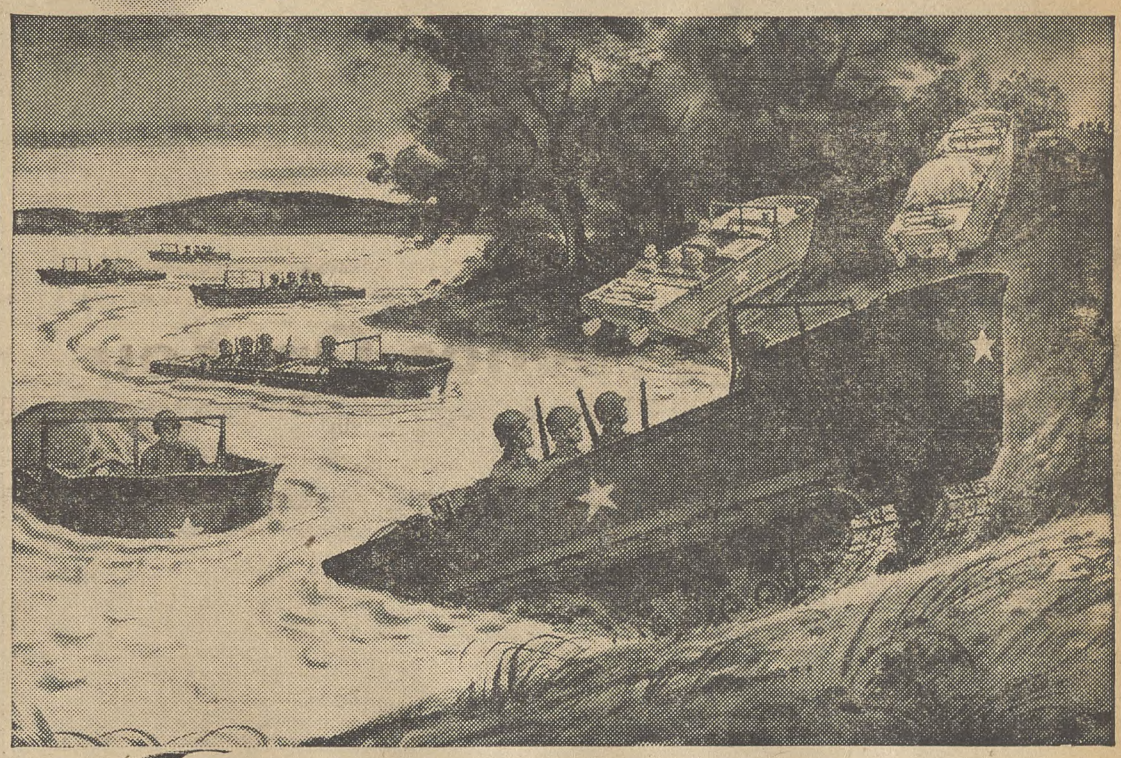
"We take great pride in the real contribution that CIO-PAC has made to America," he said. "We don't of course take complete credit for the big registration, even though Dr. Gallup had to change his predictions on registration three times. But we know we helped and we feel we'll have a bigger vote than in 1940."

And as his final remark, he said: "The election of Dewey would be a national catastrophe."

Anti-CIO Acts Banned

A trial examiner of the Natl. Labor Relations Board last week recommended that the Winter-Weiss Co., Denver, Colo., stop interfering with employes because of their membership in the CIO United Auto Workers.

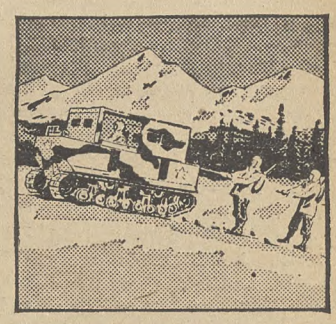
Amazing new war vehicle travels in water ..glides like a ghost over swamp or sand



Army's latest Weasel M-29C

Built by Studebaker and powered by famous Studebaker Champion engine

HERE'S a brand-new example of the teamwork of the Office of Scientific Research and Development, the War Department and Studebaker engineers ... It's the latest model of the Army's versatile track-laying vehicle known as the Weasel ... This new M29C is just as much at home in water as it is on sand, mud, swamp or solid ground ... It not only propels itself in deep water, fully loaded, but it also clambers up and down steep, slippery banks with amazing ease ... This new Weasel M29C is built by Studebaker under contract with the Ordnance Department, Army Service Forces. It's powered by the famous Studebaker Champion engine ... It adds another important unit of war production to an impressive Studebaker list that already includes Studebaker-built Wright Cyclone engines for the Boeing Flying Fortress and heavy-duty, multiple-drive Studebaker military trucks.



Here's a Weasel designed for snow operation

It's camouflaged like the crafty animal for which it's nicknamed. And the M-29 pictured is almost invisible as it glides swiftly and stealthily over seemingly impassable winter terrain.

Studebaker ... Pioneer and Pacemaker in Automotive Progress

BUILDER OF WRIGHT CYCLONE ENGINES FOR THE BOEING FLYING FORTRESS — MULTIPLE-DRIVE MILITARY TRUCKS — THE ARMY'S NEW M-29 WEASELS

Negro Women Finding Freedom in PAC Work

"Opportunties in war industries have given Negro women their first chance to get out of someone else's kitchen," says Miss Anne Mason, field representative for the Women's Division, CIO Political Action Committee, "and they don't intend to go back."

Miss Mason can speak authoritatively, for she has just returned from a trip that included most of the "crucial" states in this election where the Negro population can swing the vote for FDR. Her job is to work with the women in these communities to get out registration and the vote.

Miss Mason found warm response to PAC among women; they and their men believe implicity that their only hope for progress toward their goals lies within the trade union movement. The value of PAC is that both white and Negro can work together in a common cause that is meaningful to both.

"The one thing that Negroes are interested in is first-class citizenship and they realize they cannot get it without full employment and equal pay for equal work," Miss Mason stresses. These—and the establishment of a permanent FEPC—are the aims that PAC has consistently fought for and that President Roosevelt stands for.

In standing solidly for the President, they realize that they will be able to attain the other important planks in the social security structure—decent houses, child care centers, medical care and unemployment insurance—after a solution is found for their first problem: a decent job at decent wages on an equal footing with the rest of the citizenry."

CIO NUCLEUS

"My work, of course, brought me into contact with many women outside the unions. The pattern I followed was to start with a nucleus of CIO members and work through them to the larger community. This was a successful method, and I met many older women who had been working for many years as individuals or through women's organizations to achieve the very goals that PAC is seeking now through national organization. In many cases, these older women have been most self-sacrificing and have paved the way for organizers like myself."

"The attitudes of these women pioneers can be summed up in the words of one Mrs. Mosby. Mrs. Mosby is 73 and lives in East St. Louis; during the week I was there she got up at 7:30 to get out the 16 people in her precinct who weren't registered.

"I'm proud of you,' she told me, 'but you couldn't have the position you have with PAC if people like me hadn't been working for years to get such opportunities for our young people. And I shall keep on working as long as I can'."

Some of the women's activities that Miss Mason reported after her trip follow:

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.:—A sound truck and a squad of eight canvassers covered the housing units to women are planning a combined fashion show and PAC meeting; one scene of the show is to be "What Next Year's Congresswoman will wear" and will feature Margaret Connors.

CHICAGO, Ill.:—On September 29th a mixed meeting of 1600 CIO Packinghouse Workers was held during lunch hour. Talks were given by Mrs. Louise McLaren and Miss Mason, both of PAC's women's division; Sam Parks of the union local, International Representative Martinez and Russell DeBow of PAC's regional staff also spoke. A large dollar collection was made.

At the Doehler plant, the Labor-Management Committee has white and Negro representation, with a special panel set up for handling any racial problems. This was set up through the Mine, Mill and Smelters Union at the instigation of PAC Representative DeBow.

A fine educational job is being done through CIO with the community at large. Films are shown of the Negroes' record in the war, mixed bowling leagues and other recreational activities have been set up with great success.

CINCINNATI, Ohio.:—The Negro Women's Civic League, working with the Adult Education Council, worked out a film on "How to Vote," to instruct audiences in the mechanics of voting. A short training course was given to a group of women who stood ready to travel with the movie and give a short explanatory talk. Showings were made before church groups, civic and women's clubs. This was a non-partisan educational job.

Women in Cincinnati also saw to it that child care centers were kept open and that women in plants and other war work knew about them.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.: — Women got stories to run window displays featuring a voting story. One of them, for Florsheim shoes, read: "Florsheims will be walking to the voting polls on November 7—how about you?"

BALTIMORE, Md.:—Whites and Negroes participated in topical and educational skits at union meetings. Talent was gathered through the unions for use in connection with street meetings held to get out the vote for FDR.

Mrs. FDR to Lead CIO Canteen Forum

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will lead a discussion Nov. 30, sponsored by the CIO Labor Canteen, Washington, D. C. This is part of what is believed to be the first series of forums on servicemen's problems to be conducted by a labor canteen.

Leaders Ask All Women To Vote

Twenty national women's organizations, representing every state and every sector of American life, joined in a non-partisan appeal to women throughout the country to go to the polls and vote on November 7.

"No matter what the obstacles," the organization heads declared, "since 65 per cent of the responsibility for the choice of the right leaders is in women's hands, it is up to the women this year to get to the polls." The statement follows:

"November 7, 1944, will be one of the most crucial dates in the history of American women. On that date an exact record will be made of the measure of responsibility which they wish to assume in the government of their country.

"This year women hold 65 per cent of that responsibility in their hands, for that is the ratio of their voting power. There is no measure of their moral responsibility, for many of them are voting not only for themselves, but for soldier husbands, sons, brothers or sweethearts who may be disenfranchised by the inadequacy of some states' soldier vote laws.

"As representatives of America women of every race, creed, and economic level, we wish to impress upon them the importance of accepting the full burden of this responsibility. Their acceptance can only be indicated by their votes.

"Voting this year may mean some inconvenience. Working women may have to rearrange their hours, housewives may have to leave the baby with a neighbor, many women may even have to travel distances to get to the polls. But if women realize that the choice of leaders responsible for guiding us to lasting international peace and national progress is up to them, they will go to the polls no matter what the obstacles."

The officers of women's organizations making the appeal include: American Association of University Women, Dr. Kathryn McHale, General Director, Washington, D. C.

American Federation of Teachers, Selma M. Borchardt, Vice President and Washington Representative, Washington, D. C.

American Federation of Women's Auxiliaries of Labor, Mrs. Herman Lowe, President, Nashville, Tenn.

American Home Economics Association, Dora S. Lewis, President, New York, N. Y.

American Medical Women's Association, Alma Jane Speer, M. D., Vice-Chairman Legislative Committee, Washington, D. C.

American Physiotherapy Association, Laura A. P. Sansbury, Legislative Representative, Washington, D. C.

Association for Childhood Education, Jean Betzner, President, Washington, D. C.

Auxiliaries of the Railroad Brotherhoods, Mrs. Essman, President, Kansas City, Mo.

Department of Classroom Teachers, National Education Association, Hilda Maehling, Executive Secretary, Washington, D. C.

General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. LaFell Dickinson, President, Keene, N. H.

Girls' Friendly Society, U. S. A., Marguerite T. Fischer, Diocesan President, Bethesda, Md.

League of Women Shoppers, Mrs. Katharine Armatage, Chairman, Newark, N. J.

National Council of Catholic Women, Mrs. Thomas G. Garrison, President, Washington, D. C.

National Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. Joseph M. Welt, President, New York, N. Y.

National Council of Negro Women, Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, President, Washington, D. C.

National Education Association, Charl Ormond Williams, Director of Field Service, Washington, D. C.

National League of Women Voters, Anna Lord Strauss, President, Washington, D. C.

National Women's Trade Union League, Rose Schneiderman, President, New York, N. Y.

Women's Auxiliaries of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, Mrs. Faye Stephenson, President, Cleveland, Ohio.

Women's Division of Methodist Church, Miss Thelma Stevens, Director of Department of Christian Social Relations, New York, N. Y.

Women Take Lead In Political Work

By ELEANOR FOWLER

Secretary-Treasurer, CIO Women's Auxiliaries

One of the very encouraging developments in the election campaign is the extent to which women's organizations of the most varied membership and background have been emphasizing the importance of political action. That used to be the special role of the League of Women Voters.

But this year the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Business and Professional Women, the National Council of Negro Women, the National Council of Jewish Women, the American Association of University Women, the YWCA and many others have been putting major emphasis on informed participation in public life.

They've not only been doing it individually, through their own organization channels, but they've acted jointly, too. More than 20 national women's organizations—including most of those mentioned above, as well as the Women's Auxiliaries of the CIO, AFL and Railroad Brotherhoods—joined in issuing an eloquent appeal to all the women of America to vote on November 7.

The statement is non-partisan. It stresses the very special responsibility of women because of the war situation and the disfranchisement of millions of servicemen. It concludes:

"Voting this year may mean some inconvenience. Working women may have to rearrange their hours, housewives may have to leave the baby with a neighbor, many women may even have to travel distances to get to the polls. But if women realize that the choice of leaders responsible for guiding us to lasting international peace and national progress is up to them, they will got to the polls, no matter what the obstacles."

Many of these national women's organizations have always had a legislative program. Many of them have legislative representatives in Washington who work quietly on the hill on issues affecting child welfare, health and world peace. They have coordinated their efforts through the Women's Joint Congressional Committee and they have been a factor to reckon with in Washington.

But it seems to me there is a new tempo in their work this year—and a readiness to work with other organizations, publicly as well as quietly, which holds the promise of rapid progress towards the enactment of the legislation we need to realize the slogan of freedom from want and freedom from fear which we've been fighting for.

WOMEN UNITED

Women of all groups and economic levels have tremendous bonds with each other. As mothers they are concerned about the welfare of their children—and of each others' children. Peace in the world and security for the family are their major goals.

Since they achieved the right to vote in 1920, women have not made full use of their strength. On the whole they have been considered a reactionary force in our political life. Their ignorance has been responsible.

This election campaign has seen a new awakening of women to their responsibility in our government. A real effort has been made to bring the issues home to them.

WARRIORS AID WAR FUND: The CIO Natl.

Maritime Union, thousands of whose members have been killed while delivering the goods, this week gave the N.Y.C. War Fund $12,000. Presenting the check, left, is Port Agent Joseph Stack, to Virgil Martin, Fund official, with Broadway Star Celeste Holm and Capt. Henry S. Leitman as witnesses.

AROUND U.S. WITH THE CIO

IWA Votes to Retain No-Strike Pledge

By MANLEY J. WILSON

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 4—Full support for the re-election of President Roosevelt and retention of the organization's No-Strike pledge were voted last week by the delegates to the eighth convention of the International Woodworkers of America.

The 300 delegates in attendance threw the full strength of the union behind the drive for Roosevelt and for the election of a progressive Congress, citing the gains made by labor during the 12 years of Roosevelt's administration and pledging the organization to work for the defeat of the isolationist, anti-labor candidates of the Republican Party.

Retention of the union's no-strike pledge, voted last year at the IWA Sacramento convention, was decided as the delegates voted to postpone action on two resolutions on the question until the next convention. President Worth Lowery ruled that, as a result, the Sacramento pledge would continue as the policy of the IWA until such time as the National CIO policy on the question is changed.

Delegates voted to instruct the organization's representatives at the National CIO convention in November to vote against any no-strike pledge that did not contain a reservation for the protection of the union, pointing out that employers have not made any pledges and, in many instances, have taken advantage of the refusal to strike in order to break up labor unions.

WAR EFFORT PRAISED

"Labor surrenders to no one on the no-strike pledge when the life of this union is at stake," President Lowery said. "Woodworkers have made a fine contribution to the war effort and will continue to do so." Production of lumber is the highest it has ever been, because woodworkers are "in there pitching to produce the things needed by their sons and brothers at the battle front," he said.

C. H. Millard, chairman of the Canadian Congress of Labor political action committee, discussed the 29-point program of the CCL and urged the delegates to support the political action program of the CCL and the CIO. Millard is Canadian director of the CIO United Steelworkers.

The delegates adopted a constructive program on reconversion that, among other things, advocated a national reforestation program and recommended representation of the CIO in the National Planning Council.

A war manpower and production committee was set up to consist of one representative of each district council of the union. Members of the committee are to be responsible for promoting increased production in the lumber industry through the proper utilization of available manpower.

The convention adopted the report of the Organizing Committee which recommended the continuation of the union's organizing program and approved the appointment of Ray Kroeger as assistant director of organization, made by the Executive Board when Geo. Brown was appointed IWA Director of Organization. Brown and Kroeger reported a substantial growth for the IWA during the past year.

Resolutions adopted included a demand for modification of the Little Steel formula to enable labor to "secure wage adjustments to levels necessary to maintain morale, health and efficiency."

IMPORTANT RESOLUTIONS

Other resolutions urged the strengthening of Canada's labor laws by outlawing company unions and recognition of the principle of the closed shop; favored rent control for Canada; the franchise for East Indians and Chinese in B. C.; the inclusion of loggers under the Canadian unemployment insurance; pledged support to the IWA Ladies Auxiliaries, and called for the continuation of the sale of war bonds through the payroll deduction plan in the post war period, and a national health plan for Canada.

The convention favored a tax on logging operations for trees as logged, the revenue from such a tax to be used by the Forestry Service for the reforestation of logged-off lands. Selective logging and forest conservation were also urged by the delegates in a resolution that was adopted.

Eugene, Ore., was chosen as the next convention city. Several constitutional amendments adopted by the convention will be submitted to a referendum vote of the membership.

Textile Union Urges World Organization

New York, Nov. 4—Congress must throw the weight of the United States immediately behind a world organization to suppress, by force if necessary, any future menace to international peace, the Natl. Exec. Council of the CIO Textile Workers Union declared this week in a unanimous resolution sent to Secy. of State Cordell Hull and members of the Senate foreign relations committee.

The Council, which represents 450,000 textile workers in 34 states, also called upon Congress to give to the U. S. representative on the United Nations Council "full and complete authority to act for the United States."

The Council pointed out that it "prized world security above a narrow concept of national sovereignty."

$3,650,000 CIO Funds To Aid War

A total of $3,650,000 being collected by the National War Fund in cooperation with the Natl. CIO War Relief Committee will be given to special labor-sponsored projects abroad.

These projects were established by the CIO and help families of executed anti-fascists and prisoners, men, women and children who have suffered in concentration camps and slave labor battalions, refugees, and all victims of Fascist cruelty.

The special funds will be divided among the following countries: England, France, Russia, China, Poland, Belgium, Italy, Holland, Luxemboug, Czechoslovakia, India, Palestine and Norway. Changes in allocations may, however, be made to meet changing conditions as the war progresses.

We Don't Want 'Em Back!

Remember the Years Before the New Deal?

In view of the vital importance of the national elections Nov. 7, Vice-Pres. Allan S. Haywood this week is omitting his regular report on CIO organizing activities and plant elections and substituting the following article. His regular column will be resumed next week.

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

By the time this issue reaches our members, you will be preparing to go to the polls. Upon your decision will rest the future of our Nation and yes, the world.

It is well we look at the past 24 years divided into two periods of 12 years each. The first period you will recall from Harding to Hoover. Warren Harding took office on March 4, 1921. His campaign slogan was "back to normalcy" and "full dinner pails." In a weasel-sort of way, catering to the then-isolationists, he came out for some international arrangement to retain peace, after repudiating the efforts of Pres. Wilson to establish an instrument to maintain world peace.

At the time Harding took office the labor movement had something more than three million members. But labor was soon to learn what "back to normalcy" meant. A nation-wide drive on labor standards began, forcing wages downwards. A number of unions were destroyed and the labor movement declined considerably.

Calvin Coolidge followed. His administration had a record of doing nothing at all times. Unions continued to decline; wages also. Farm prices declined. Coolidge chose not to run and the great engineer Hoover was elected in his place. During his administration the nation witnessed the wildest stock market orgy Wall Street ever experienced. Worthless securities were sold to the people, followed in 1929 by bank failures which continued on until March, 1933.

Wages had reached their lowest ebb. Unions membership had dropped to the lowest in years. For instance, the Miners Union in the bituminous coal areas had been largely crushed in such great union areas as Western Pa., Ohio, W. Va., Kentucky and elsewhere.

Bread lines had grown. Soldiers, veterans of the last great world war, were driven out of Washington at the orders of Hoover, beaten and shot. Many were compelled to sell apples on street corners in order to eke out an existence.

The people were constantly calling for something to be done, only to be told that to do anything would interfere with state rights and violate the constitution. Starving people had the right to die a constitutional death, but the people were assured by Hoover and his clique that prosperity was just around the corner and in the election of 1932 he told us that unless we reelected him grass would grow on Wall Street.

Thus ended the twelve Republican years from Harding to Hoover. Dinner pails were empty; farmers lost their homes to mortgage owners; working people lost their hard-earned savings; suicides were growing in numbers and despair prevailed throughout the nation.

Compare this with the 12 years that followed. Franklin D. Roosevelt took office on March 4, 1933. He immediately took steps to stabilize the banking system; inaugurated legislation to protect depositors; instituted a social security program; adopted a system that brought states into line to inaugurate unemployment insurance, old age pensions, work relief, housing, health programs.

The Industrial Recovery Act, Section 7-a guaranteed workers the right to organize without interference. This made possible the organization of the coal miners unorganized for many years, as well as other groups. Under Roosevelt's administration the Miners Union has reached its greatest numerical strength. The rule of the gunman, thug and industrial spy is fast vanishing. After the NIRA was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court it was followed by the NLRB which is labor's bill of rights.

President Roosevelt advocated the enactment of the Guffey Coal Act stabilizing the coal industry; minimum wage laws and many other things for which labor had struggled for many many years. He stabilized farm prices.

WAR COMES

This program was continuing in healthy stride when our nation was foully attacked by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor, and later war was declared upon us by Hitler and Mussolini. Through the foresight of Pres. Roosevelt our nation was well on its way to converting its plants to produce the instruments of war.

He had recommended the arming of the Islands in the Pacific; proposed lend-lease to those opposing the forces of fascism and nazism; advocated and brought about Selective Service and its renewal which was just barely passed by Congress. He advocated the enlargement of our Navy.

All these things demonstrated his foresight and keen knowledge of international affairs. The steps he took changed conditions from "too little and too late" to a policy of "enough on time."

TWO TASKS

America's No. 1 objective now is to win the war over these forces of evil both in Europe and Asia at the earliest date possible. Our armies and navy today are equipped with the most and the best weapons and the finest care ever accorded fighting men. Our gallant forces have demonstrated to the world how free men can fight; our production workers have demonstrated how free labor can out-produce enslaved labor.

Our second task is to bring about an enduring, lasting and just peace. Our Commander-In-Chief Pres. Roosevelt is working to bring about an International arrangement aimed at the prevention of future wars and the building of confidence between peoples all over the world.

SET PAC FUND RECORD: The crew of the NATHANIEL CURRIER, a rusty old Liberty ship, smashed all existing records of individual NMU ships contributing to the Political Action Committee—turning in a total of $1400 earmarked for the national elections.

CORRECTION

A typographical error in Vice-Pres. Allan Haywood's Organizing column last week gave incorrect figures on an election won by the CIO Paper Workers Org. Comm. at the U. S. Printing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio. The CIO won the election 148 to 39.

The 'Mike's' Yours for the Asking! What's Your Union Done About It?

Postwar radio broadcasting sparkles with opportunities for labor, education and general progressive groups — and the men who control the industry now are fully aware of the situation even if some of the people who should take advantage of it are not.

Low-cost Frequency Modulation broadcasting, television available even for modest budgets, and facsimile transmission of newspapers, magazines and books are not only glittering possibilities but downright probabilities shortly after V-Day.

These facts were brought out at hearings recently concluded by the Federal Communications Commission, and at a more or less confidential war conference of Natl. Assn. of Broadcasters executives.

Top flight radio men at the conference heard William S. Hedges, vice-president of the Natl. Broadcasting Co., warn them:

"There are various interests, groups and individuals who see in FM an opportunity at comparatively modest expense to make their first entrance into the field of broadcasting. FM provides more elbow room in the radio spectrum than has been available since the earliest days of broadcasting.

"The broadcaster who is firmly established in the field of AM (amplitude modulation broadcasting) will be well advised not to take these new competitors too lightly."

Big Shots Active

Just how aware the industry is of the possibility of competition is seen by an FCC report which shows that most of the big shots who control the currently popular form of AM broadcasting are jumping with both feet into the FM field, which features lower original and operating costs, as well as greater clarity of transmission.

The FCC reports that of 204 pending FM broadcasting applications, 178 are from applicants with controlling interests in standard stations. The FM stations that they propose to construct will cost, on the average, $983,991!

But there are plenty of FM stations that are going to be built for much less—and proof of this is the fact that colleges and universities, with limited funds and scattered all over the country, are planning to build them.

The University of Illinois already has an FM station in operation, two other colleges have had construction permits granted by FCC, five have applied for construction permits, 11 will apply, and 16 others have FM stations under consideration.

FM a Success

The broadcasting industry hasn't one bit of doubt that FM will be a tremendous success—and that the people will be demanding FM sets as fast as they can be built. The broadcasters' conference heard Commander T. A. M. Craven, radio expert, say:

"We believe the industry will produce 5 million FM receivers in the first full year of unrestricted postwar production, and in the following four or five years this total will grow to about 20 million.

"We anticipate," Commander Craven added, "that within five years after the war there will be at least 100 master television stations in the country, with 67 million people in their service areas."

The American Television Society has predicted that it will be possible to build a good television receiver for as little as $200—based on 1940 labor cost and materials.

Facsimile Field

Even more fascinating in the possibilities that it holds for transmission of newspapers, magazines and books, without expensive distribution systems, is the field of facsimile broadcasting.

The broadcasters heard John V. L. Hogan, an inventor and developer in the facsimile field, declare:

"Facsimile has now truly become what it was earlier called, the 'home printing press' or the 'magic typewriter,' a machine that can set down on paper by radio control any size or face of type and any sort of chart or picture.

"It can deliver a printed magazine instantly and simultaneously to every radio home. Its technics have advanced so far that it can now deliver a 48 square inch—that is to say, a 6" by 8" picture—or about 1,000 words of text every minute.

"That means that a Saturday Evening Post story in SEP type, of 5,000 words, could be put into the homes within your service area in five minutes, or a 60,000-word book could be put there in an hour if you wanted to run it that fast.

"A facsimile transmitter, that is, the radio part of it, will cost substantially the same as that of a sound transmiter.

"The studio facilities required for the production and editing of a facsimile program will cost far less than even a sound studio setup; it is simply a small editorial office.

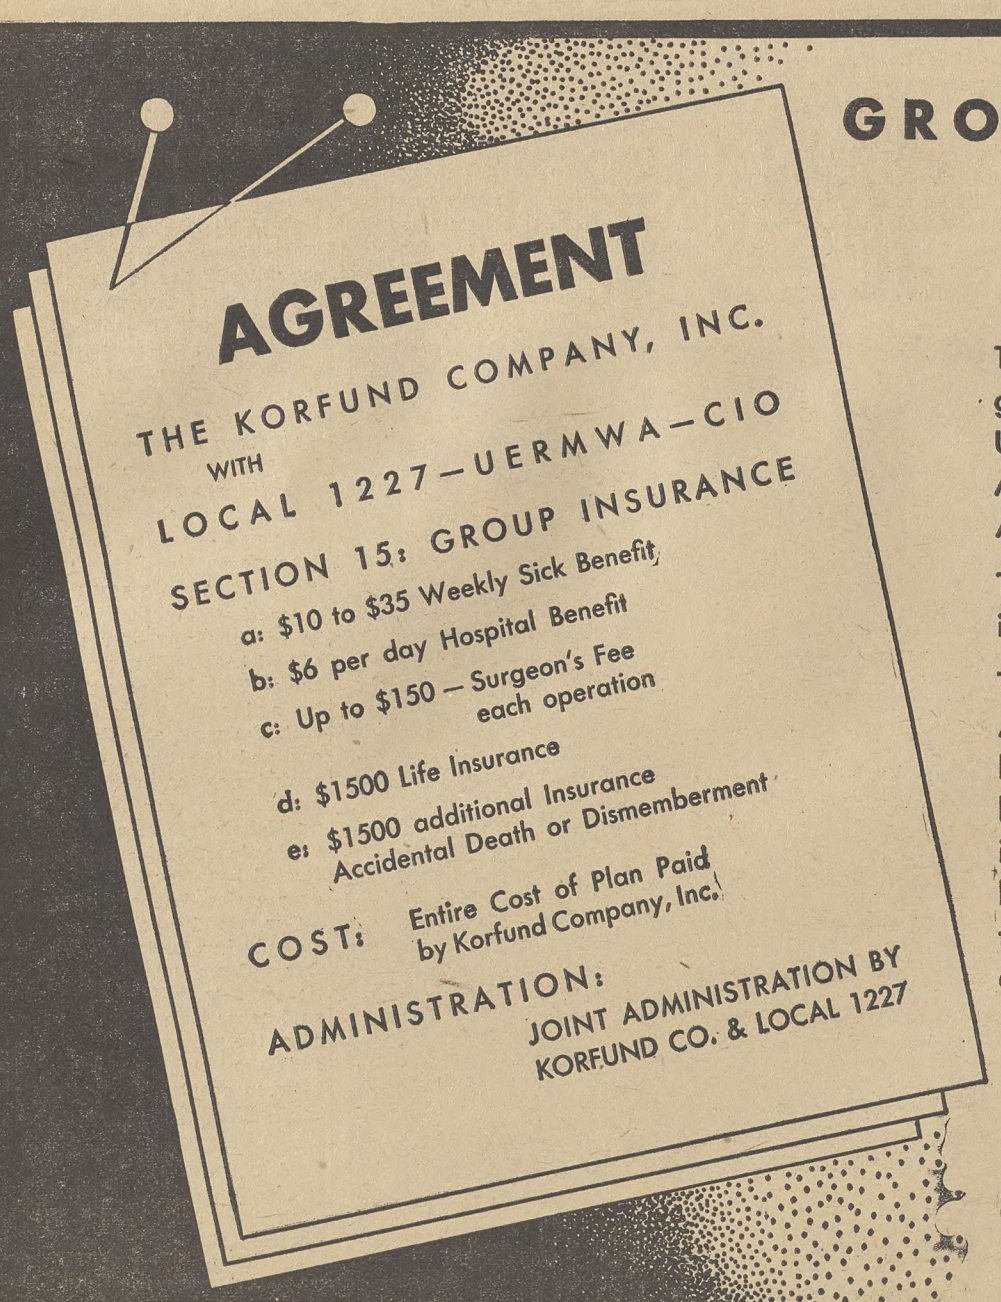
"The cost of a facsimile receiver will inevitably be less than that of a television receiver, but somewhat more than a sound receiver, because the facsimile receiver is the same as the sound receiver, together with an added recorder which will cost, let us say, from $20 to $100, depending upon the production volume and the details of design."

The opportunities pictured by the industry are available to all. Labor unions and other progressive organizations can get into the field. And if they want a break in broadcasting, they'll have to make it for themselves. Because the gang in control of the industry now has so far thrown labor only a bone while giving to big business the grade A beef.

Sees $25 Million In CIO War Relief Gifts

New York, Nov. 4—CIO members throughout the country will contribute more than $25,000,000 to the current Natl. War Fund-Community Chest campaign, Leo Perlis, national director of the CIO War Relief Committee, predicted this week.

"A survey recently completed by our 24 field offices revealed that because of increased union participation, particularly through labor-management campaigns, our total contributions this year will exceed last year's gifts," Perlis said, "and last year CIO members gave close to $20,000,000."



GROUP INSURANCE IN COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

This group insurance plan is part of the collective bargaining agreement negotiated by Local 1227 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, CIO with the Korfund Company, Inc. in April, 1944.

The Union's consultant and insurance representative in these negotiations was Trade Union Agency.

These benefits are typical of plans which Trade Union Agency has helped many unions negotiate in the last two years. Since the beginning of 1943 the TUA has assisted in the securing of 106 such agreements, in the majority of which the entire cost of the plan was borne by the employer. In every instance, however, the agreement stipulates that the Union have an equal or controlling voice in the administration of the plan.

TRADE UNION AGENCY
CONSULTANTS TO UNIONS ON ALL INSURANCE PROBLEMS
80 WEST 40th STREET, NEW YORK 18, N.Y.
*The Trade Union Agency is not an insurance company. It acts as a consultant and representative for Unions and Union members.

New Pamphlets

By HOLLACE RANSDELL

YMCA Moves Ahead With Union Labor

The growing respect with which unions are coming to be regarded by other community groups these days is shown by a new 97-page booklet "Working With Organized Labor" just published by the YMCA.

In the past the YMCA has shown little interest and often much hostility toward unions. As the pamphlet puts it in the first chapter—"while the YMCA has had a long experience among industrial people, it has not generally concerned itself with labor in its organized form."

But now it states, "it has become quite clear that the Association Movement is prepared to move forward."

And so the booklet proceeds to tell YMCA leaders briefly about organized labor—its history, objectives, kinds of unions, leadership and functions—and how they can cooperate with unions on a friendly basis.

In a chapter on "What Is the YMCA Doing to Understand Labor?" the conclusions of a study made in 1942 is given. Among other things, the study found that "The YMCA is apparently weak in its contacts and public relations with union officials. There is evidence of reticence among secretaries as a whole in the matter of approaching a labor union with a view toward serving them through our program."

"Working With Organized Labor" is aimed at remedying this. The booklet is intelligent and well-intentioned and should be of much help in the YMCA's praiseworthy plan "to move forward" in its attitude toward unions.

Published by Association Press, 347 Madison Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

History Of Marine Cooks

A pamphlet giving the history of the CIO Marine Cooks & Stewards Assn. has been published by the union to aid in an educational program for new members. The union's history is told by presenting the story of a seaman who first shipped in 1895, and described the life men who put out to sea had to live before the MCS was formed.

Published by Marine Cooks & Stewards Assn., 86 Commercial St., San Francisco, Calif.

For Study of Race Problems

Howard University has been given a grant for a conference on race relations in the industrial field, Lawrence Rogin, secretary of the A. Philip Randolph Education Fund, announced this week. Rogin is educational director of the CIO Texile Workers Union.

Other grants by the Fund for the study of race relations problems were given to the American Labor Education Service to publish a pamphlet aimed at aiding unions; to the League for Industrial Democracy for a study of postwar race problems, and to the Natl. Sharecroppers Fund for a survey of special aspects of the problem in the South, and for an investigation of involuntary servitude of Negroes in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida and elsewhere.

Teaching Foremen About Union

A foreman who hates unions can cause just about as much trouble to the union's trouble-shooter, the shop steward, as a hostile front office. Unions, therefore, should welcome a 28-page pamphlet called "The Foremen's Guide to Labor Relations," just issued by the U. S. Department of Labor's Division of Labor Standards, and hope it gets wide circulation.

Written in response to many requests from plant managements for material to guide supervisors in handling labor problems, the guide has a section explaining what the rights of workers are under the National Labor Relations Act, and a union contract, and gives some valuable advice for handling grievances.

Be fair, get all the facts, know the grievance procedure and stick to it, be businesslike in discussion; be definite in giving answers, don't pass the buck, and follow through on decisions, are some of the suggestions given which all shop stewards will okay.

As long as the free supply lasts, copies of The Foremen's Guide, issued as Bulletin No. 66, may be obtained from the Division of Labor Standards, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

New Homes Needed

Housing prospects in America after the war offer great opportunities for social progress, according to the latest Public Affairs pamphlet, "Houses for Tomorrow," by T. R. Carskodon.

"Government and private enterprise will have to work together to do the job of providing the millions of houses that Americans will need in the year following the war," states Carskodon. Public housing will have to fill the gap caused by the inability of private enterprise to provide adequate housing at prices low enough to reach the lowest income groups of the population.

Based on a recent study made by the Twentieth Century Fund's Housing Committee, the pamphlet emphasizes the Committee's recommendations that "public activity be designed so far as possible to the end of reduced costs and more efficient form of industrial operation."

"Houses for Tomorrow" may be obtained from the Public Affairs Committee, Inc., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 20, N. Y., at 10 cents a copy.

Your political work isn't ended with the election. Remember that Congress is coming back to Washington. The fights for adequate reconversion legislation, and for many other issues, will need your utmost support. Follow the facts in the CIO NEWS!

UNION MADE

MONTHLY
DUES BUTTONS
RIBBON BADGES
AND EMBLEMS

C. M. Geraghty, Inc.
500 Sherman Street, Chicago

World Neighbors

CIO To Send Three Men To London Talks Dec. 4; Attend Full Jan. Meet

After months of delay, the world labor conference will be held in London Jan. 8, with a preliminary meeting Dec. 4, and CIO delegates as designated by President Murray will attend.

Three CIO leaders, Sidney Hillman, R. J. Thomas and Emil Rieve, have been named to go to the first meeting, according to a cable to Sir Walter Citrine, head of the British Trades Union Congress from Murray.

This meeting will have the job, it is presumed, of perfecting arrangements for the big meeting in January, working out an agenda and the like.

The meeting is in many ways due to Murray's initiative. Following postponement of the conference first scheduled for June 6, due to preparations for D-Day and the invasion itself, Murray cabled Citrine proposing a full conference in December.

This date was picked due to the U. S. election tying up CIO delegates and due to the CIO convention coming on Nov. 20. Calling the January conference is also the fruit of more than two years of steady work by Pres. Murray for international labor unity.

AFL STILL OUT

The invitation, coming from the British TUC in convention at Blackpool, finds no indication of a change of attitude by the AFL which has held that world labor will have to get along by itself, if the CIO and the Soviet trade unions are figured as part of it. This dates back to 1942, when AFL officialdom refused the original proposal to have the United Nations workers get together.

According to reports in Washington, the AFL leaders have refused the bid to the preliminary meeting and have said that the January conference will be taken under advisement by the AFL executive.

This AFL official attitude does not reflect the attitude of the membership. Allied Labor News reports from Canada that the AFL Trades and Labor Congress there in convention has just voted unanimously for a "world labor body to achieve the closest cooperation for victory, a firm peace and a post-war program guaranteeing security to all peoples."

The Canadian AFL has also decided to send delegates to a conference called by the Latin American Confederation of Labor (CTAL) in December. This was done after hearing Lombardo Toledano, CTAL head, speak and warn that the whole of the western hemisphere is menaced by Argentine fascism.

Earlier, many AFL unions and councils in this country opposed the Woll-Hutcheson policy that keeps the AFL from taking its part with fellow unionists throughout the United Nations.

This refusal to cooperate has its roots in the political attitudes of Woll and Hutcheson, who are anti-Roosevelt, anti-United Nations and of course bitterly anti-CIO. Hutcheson, head of the "labor section" of the GOP, is particularly violent against FDR, while Woll specializes in attacks on the Soviet Union.

Free India Prisoners, British TUC Urges

Winding up its convention in Blackpool, the British TUC, in addition to sending the Citrine message to CIO and other labor movements, made a renewed plea for release of political prisoners in India.

The convention also urged renewed efforts at unity between Indian leaders, "enabling the reopening of negotiations with the British government."

The delegates approved sending a "representative delegation to India to study their labor movement and establish a firm relationship with the organized labor movement."

To Look Your Best ...Buy The Best

BUY DOUGLAS!

W. L. Douglas Shoes are the winning combination for Fall... good looks and long wear plus correct styling for all occasions! Made by master craftsmen of the finest leathers, W. L. Douglas Shoes are the first choice of men who know the importance of taking pride in their appearance. Buy a pair today!

Top Style — THE CLIPPER No. 4661
Bottom Style — THE CLIPPER No. 4660

W. L. Douglas Shoes
W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO. BROCKTON 15, MASS.

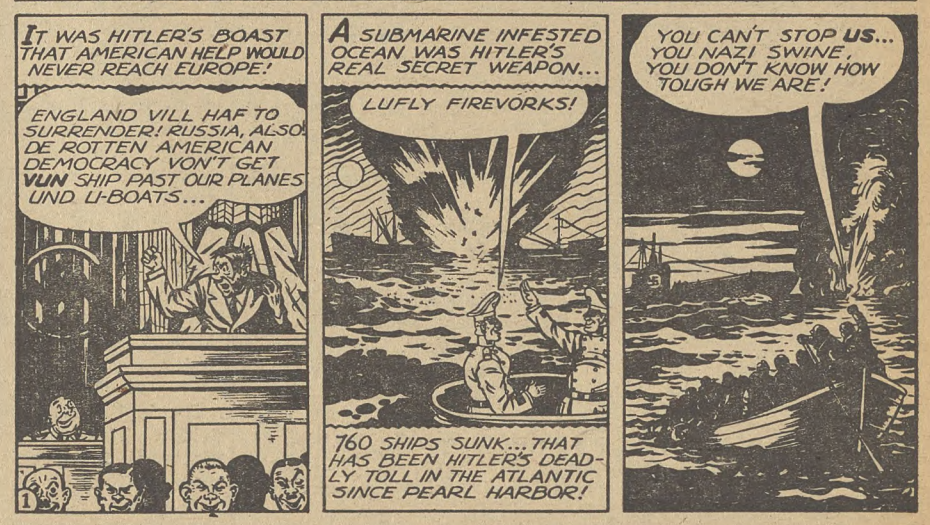
905 PENN. AVENUE N. W.
(Opposite Department of Justice Building)
(Men's and Boys' Shoes Exclusively)
Open Thursday and Saturday Evenings

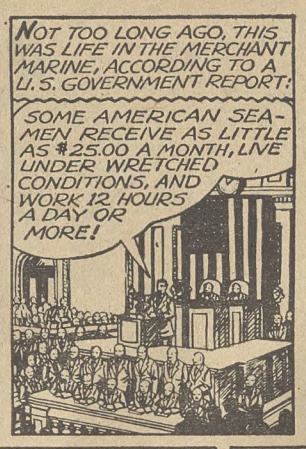
MANY STYLES WITH OIL-TREATED SOLES FOR LONGER WEAR

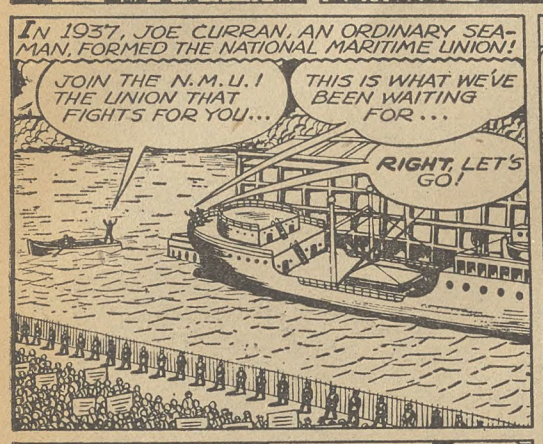
HEROES IN DUNGAREES

The story of the contribution of American Merchant Seamen to the war effort!

PRINTED IN U.S.A.







"Heroes in Dungarees" first appeared in Comic Cavalcade No. 8 and is reprinted with the permission of its copyright owners, the Gainlee Publishing Co., 225 Lafayette St., N. Y. 12, N. Y.

To Be Continued Next Week

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 46 82 November 13, 1944

Exclusive

State by State Story—How CIO Helped to Win The Election

(Pages 6 and 7)

★ ★ ★

Isolationists Walk The Plank

(See Page 5)

Murray Hails War Job Done By Farmers

CIO Pres. Philip Murray this week praised as "magnificent" the job that American working farmers are doing in producing food for victory. The occasion was a letter to Pres. James G. Patton of the Natl. Farmers Union, which is holding a convention the same week that CIO will hold its annual parley, Nov. 20-25.

"The working farmers," Murray wrote Patton, "have done and are doing a magnificant job of producing food for victory. This production job, no less than that on the industrial front, has made possible the victories of our armies and those of our allies in the war against the Axis tyrants.

"Workers and farmers have an equal stake in hastening the final victory over the enemies of all free peoples. One important key to this victory, and to a sound peace after the war is won, is the unity of all freedom loving people, workers, farmers, all groups and classes within our country.

"We of the CIO," Murray stated, "are happy to work with our farmer friends for a speedy and victorious end to the war and for a stable, prosperous peace. Full employment in the factories and mills for industrial workers means much to the farmers who seek a market for their products.

"Full prosperity, fair prices and maximum production on the farms is equally vital to the welfare of the industrial workers.

"The program of the CIO has consistently stood for fair economic treatment of farmers. Our common economic welfare demands that we stand together in the future for our mutual interests as in the past."

CIO Steelworkers Win Another

Busyrus, Ohio, Nov. 11—Production and maintenance employes of the Crawford Steel Foundry Co. voted for the CIO United Steelworkers this week. The union received 90 out of 177 votes.

Dewey Loses Home State!

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey couldn't even carry his home state, Michigan. With only a few polling places yet to be heard from, FDR had a lead of more than 18,000—1,097,581 to 1,079,503.

Dewey lost New York by 61,000 votes—3,293,869 for FDR to 3,032,865, with nearly all returns in.

Union Shop Ban Killed In California

Organized labor defeated a proposal to ban union shops in California, but similar propositions apparently had carried in Florida and Arkansas, incomplete returns showed this week.

With 1,171 of Florida's 1,480 precincts reporting, the ban was ahead by 116,723 to 103,383. In Arkansas the proposal was ahead by nearly 10,000 votes, with 60 per cent of precincts reporting.

In all three states the proposals, submitted in the form of constitutional amendments, provided that no person could be refused employment because of affiliation or lack of affiliation with a labor union.

The Good . . .

WAYNE MORSE
Oregon Voters Sent Him To the Senate

HERMAN P. KOPPELMANN
Labor Helped Elect Good Democrat in Conn.

SEN. ROBERT F. WAGNER
Father of Social Security Act Returned by New Yorkers

SEN. ELBERT THOMAS
Utah Residents Liked His Record

FRANK LAUSCHE
Popular Cleveland Mayor Won Ohio Governorship

VICE-PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN
Helped to Carry His Home State for Democrats

And the Bad

SEN. ROBERT TAFT
Republican Isolationist Won Close Race in Ohio

REP. STEPHEN A. DAY
Illinois Voters Rejected His Isolationist Record

REP. CLARE BOOTH LUCE
Almost Lost to CIO-Backed Candidate in Conn.

Labor's Aid to FDR Victory Hailed by Columnist

Labor's contribution toward the re-election of President Roosevelt and the election of a more progressive Congress won national recognition in the Scripps-Howard press this week under columnist Thomas L. Stokes' by-line.

"Labor, militant, alert and organized as never before, deserves credit for President Roosevelt's re-election," Stokes wrote. "It was a labor educated too, to the great issues of the war and of peace to come.

"The part that labor played was demonstrated in the great hordes who marched to the polls in the big cities and in the smaller towns where war plants are located. It was demonstrated, statistically, in the voting totals in these same cities which equaled or went beyond the figures of four years ago when the country was at peace. It was a mammoth turn-out when the absence of so many millions in the service is taken into account.

"Labor made up for the weakness, in some cases the laxity, of regular Democratic organizations. Here and there it was obvious that these organizations were almost literally shoved into action by the example of their new ally. This ally was not always politely accepted.

"Labor earned the right to partnership in the Democratic Party. It probably will have a struggle for recognition."

Chopped Out Dewey

Seattle—Nov. 7 was a contract holiday for members of the CIO Woodworkers Union, who put aside their saws and axes to get out the vote for Pres. Roosevelt and his supporters.

British Labor Party Organ Praises CIO-PAC

London, Nov. 11 (ALN)—Hailing the "notable role" played by the CIO Political Action Committee in the current U. S. presidential campaign, the Daily Herald, organ of the British Labor Party, this week comments that the PAC's "influence is likely to exceed the present election and probably foreshadows the increasingly direct intervention of labor in American politics."

Pointing out that those connected with the PAC "do not approve all the acts of the Roosevelt administration but remember with gratitude those parts of the New Deal which paved the way for a new era of American trade unionism," the editorial asserts:

"Those initiating this new feature in American politics had no doubt that a Republican victory would be harmful to labor's interests."

Mischief-Making 'Glamor Girl' Wins Narrow Victory

One major disappointment in the campaign was the re-election of Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R., Conn.), the "expert" on mischief making among the United Nations.

Luce squeaked through only very narrowly, with a strong fight put up against her by Margaret Connors, CIO-backed young attorney in Bridgeport.

Luce, billed as the "glamor girl" of politics and much played up in the anti-FDR press, is considerably more than a pretty woman—even though Vice-President Wallace cruelly compared her with her younger and prettier opponent.

Luce represents big stuff in American reaction. She—and more importantly, Henry Luce, her husband—belong to the "American century" school of thought. This school holds that America should embark on a huge imperialist drive after the war to dominate the world in the old fashioned big stick way.

Consequently, the Luce school of thought is opposed to postwar international cooperation, especially with Britain and the Soviet Union. They don't like Teheran and Dumbarton Oaks and other United Nations security plans. They want a free hand for a return to imperialism and aggression of the kind that brought on World War II and will bring on World War III if they win out.

The American imperialists lost heavily when FDR won over Dewey and his man, Dulles, attorney who would have been Secretary of State if Dewey had won. They still have their Luce in the House and their Taft in the Senate, and they still have hope despite the number of other isolationists that were defeated.

La Luce is more than a "glamor girl," more than merely a sharp tongue. She and the remaining few like her in Congress are a definite menace to the peace and security of the U. S. and the world.

CIO-Backed Women Win Seats In House

Five women backed by CIO-PAC were elected or re-elected to House seats.

Perhaps the most colorful of the three is Actress Helen Gahagan Douglas, wife of Maj. Melvyn Douglas, Hollywood star now in India as a special services officer with the Air Forces.

Mrs. Douglas, a Democrat, was elected to Congress from California's 14th district, defeating William D. Campbell, Republican.

Mother of two children, she said in a recent interview that she and her husband became interested in politics after seeing the plight of the migrant Oakies.

She will serve in the seat occupied in the last session by Thomas Ford, ardent Administration supporter.

Voters in Illinois defeated arch isolationist Stephen A. Day, Republican, to elect Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, Democrat, as Representative at Large. She is the wife of Paul Douglas, former Univ. of Illinois professor, now serving with the Marines overseas.

Proving that PAC backs the progressive candidate irrespective of party affiliation, Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, Republican, was re-elected to Congress to serve in the Ohio delegation to which she was elected in 1940 to complete her husband's unexpired term. She has two sons in the armed forces.

Mrs. Chase Goring Woodhouse, Democrat, defeated John D. McWilliams, Republican, in the 2nd Connecticut District (New London) to win his seat in the House.

Not the least gratifying of PAC victories was the re-election of Mrs. Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House Labor committee, for her 11th consecutive term as Congresswoman from the 13th New Jersey district.

Miss Margaret Connors, Democrat, backed by PAC, lost by a bare 2,000 to Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, violently anti-administration Republican, who was returned to her seat from Connecticut's Fourth District.

PolltakersPunk;Vote Shows Major Errors

By FRED d'AVILA

The overwhelming FDR victory took most of the polltakers for a sleigh ride, including Gallup, Crossley, Newsweek and one Emil Hurja, who had the nerve to predict a Dewey landslide.

Most polls headged on the outcome, declaring that victory was possible for either candidate because of the "margin of error" in sampling opinions of a small minority of voters. Notable exception to this was Fortune Magazine, predicting the popular vote only, with FDR to receive 53.6 per cent to Dewey's 46.4 per cent. With returns not all in FDR appears to have about 55 per cent. Gallup predicted 51:5 per cent for FDR, 48.5 for Dewey.

Dewey won definitely in only 12 states, with one other, Michigan, in doubt and leaning toward FDR. The polltakers predicted:

Gallup—19 for Dewey.
Crossley—17 for Dewey.
Newsweek—20 for Dewey.

The polltakers were even more in error on the electoral college vote, with Crossley the best of the lot. Here's what they fed the public:

Gallup—FDR 292 electoral college votes; Dewey 239.

Crossley—FDR 354; Dewey 177.

Newsweek—FDR 249; Dewey 247, with 35 "even."

The tally so far, with Michigan's 19 votes in doubt, is: FDR 432; Dewey 99.

Widest interest centered on the Gallup poll, because of its syndicated newspaper publication.

Gallup maintained until the last that a Dewey victory was possible, listing 20 states as pivotal with neither candidate leading in the civilian vote by more than 3 per cent. These states had 281 electoral votes.

Of the 20, seven turned in thumping majorities and 77 electoral votes for FDR. They were:

California: FDR 1,836,137; Dewey 1,379,440.

Delaware: FDR 66,901; Dewey 55,416.

Massachusetts: FDR 1,015,038; Dewey 932,245.

Minnesota: FDR 508,611; Dewey 457,527.

New Mexico: FDR 78,044; Dewey 68,239.

Oklahoma: FDR 370,263; Dewey 295,513.

West Virginia: FDR 377,184; Dewey 306,464.

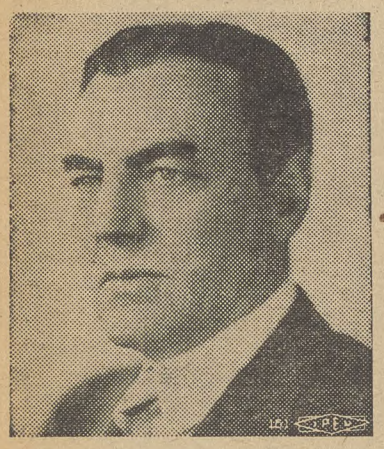
It looks as though the polltakers ought to hide their heads.

The People Won

SEN. GERALD P. NYE

SEN.-ELECT JOHN MOSES

Isolationist Nye Lost to Moses in North Dakota



REP. HAM FISH

AUGUSTUS BENNET

Fish, Friend of Fascists, Lost to Bennett in New York

The People Lost

REP. HOWARD W. SMITH

MRS. ELIZABETH MURRAY

Mrs. Murray's Campaign to Defeat NLRA Foe in Va. Was Strongest Yet

Union Labor Urged to Back 6th War Loan

Members of labor unions have in the past three years bought between 10 and 12 billion dollars of War Bonds—or about one-third of all the bonds sold by the Treasury, according to James L. Houghteling, the Treasury Dept.'s director of labor relations.

Because the successful and easily-operated payroll savings plans are generally found in unionized plants where solid organizations and sound human relations are the rule, Houghteling stated, Secretary Morgenthau announced during the Fifth War Loan Drive that "the majority of plants having contracts with labor unions have met or exceeded their War Bond quotas."

"At a time when victory can be hastened by the united efforts of all Americans," Houghtelling concluded, "we are confident that organized labor will dupicate or exceed its past records in the Sixth War Loan."

Steelman Quits Labor Dept.

One of organized labor's good friends in the federal service, Dr. John R. Steelman, chief of the U. S. conciliation service of the Labor Dept. is quitting Nov. 25.

Steelman has headed the conciliation department since 1937 and had served as a conciliation commissioner for three years prior to that.

While there was no announcement of Steelman's plans, there were two reports about them from unofficial sources. The first was that he was being considered as a candidate for Secretary of Labor by President Roosevelt, the other that he had been offered a labor relations job by a large corporation.

CIO Workers Help Build Robot Bombs

Washington, Nov. 11—Members of the CIO United Automobile Workers at the Ford Motor Co. are making jet propulsion engines to drive some 2,000 robot bombs—Germany's touted V-1 weapon—which have been ordered for Army Air Force experimental purposes, the War Department stated this week.

Other union men and women producing component parts for the robots are members of the CIO Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers at Sperry Gyroscope and Monsanto Chemical; Intl. Assn. of Machinists, AFL, at Jack and Heintz; UAW-CIO at Bell Aircraft.

PAC CHAIRMAN HILLMAN

PRESIDENT PHILIP MURRAY

CIO Leaders Hail Roosevelt's Victory

President Roosevelt's overwhelming victory was hailed this week by CIO leaders as solid proof that the American people support both his domestic and international policies. Comments came from Pres. Philip Murray, CIO-PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman, and CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey. Murray said:

The re-election of President Franklin D. Roosevelt by a landslide majority proves that the American people solidly support both his domestic program to guarantee jobs and his international program to guarantee peace.

Despite a bitter campaign marked by unprecedented appeals to bigotry and intolerance, the American people for the third time declared that the President is the man best fitted for the hazardous job of guiding this country, after victory, into paths of full employment and peaceful cooperation with all other peace-loving nations.

Millions of those who voted for Governor Dewey did so out of belief that his party's program in large measure paralleled that of the New Deal. I am convinced that these millions, now that the issue has been decided in truly democratic fashion, will unite wholeheartedly in support of the President.

Hillman said:

"The American people have reaffirmed the faith and confidence they repose in a great American and an outstanding leader. By voting to return Franklin D. Roosevelt to office as their President and Commander-in-Chief, they have given him a mandate to continue the course he has charted for victory in the war, for an enduring peace, and for jobs and security for our people.

"It is a stunning repudiation of the anti-labor, isolationist and the defeatist elements who based their campaign on bigotry and prejudice.

"We are proud of the contribution to the happy result made by the CIO Political Action Committee and the Natl. Citizens Political Action Committee. And this contribution has been made by tens of thousands of American citizens who participated actively in this most critical of all campaigns—some by pushing door bells, others by doing hundreds of tedious tasks in union and committee offices."

Carey declared:

"The decisive defeat of Dewey ond Bricker will, in itself, help to bring about national tranquillity.

"The large registration and vote of labor in the industrial area of the country contributed in large measure to the re-election of Roosevelt, Truman and a better Congress. It will be a better Congress without Dies, Starnes, Costello, Dewey, Busby and Hamilton Fish.

"The vote again overwhelmingly repudiated the anti-labor program of the Republicans. The efforts to make the CIO appear to be in league with the Communists again failed to fool the people.

"The election result is a clear mandate for a progressive program in the international and domestic field."

Post-Election Pot Shots

Poll-Taker Hurja Has Pipe Dream

Rep. Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) bolted the party ticket to support Dewey and helped through his machine to win Fairfax and Arlington counties, just across the Potomac from Washington, for Buster. FDR, of course, carried the state!

* * *

Of all the polls, the pipe dream issued by Emil Hurja of Joe Pew's Pathfinder magazine took the cake. Hurja released his figures Saturday before the election for release Nov. 6. They were based on 28 "key counties in the U. S." and he estimated Dewey would win by mixing up the figures and multiplying by 3.1416.

* * *

Pity the lost power of the press . . . ! In the U. S. as a whole 60.1 per cent of the dailies with 68.5 per cent of the circulation backed Gov. Dewey. Only 23 per cent, with a mere 17.7 per cent of the circulation, favored FDR.

In New York state 64 papers with 75.3 per cent of the circulation favored Dewey to 15 papers and 17.6 per cent of the circulation for the President. It was even worse in Pennsylvania, where 6 papers with 6.3 per cent of the state's total circulation favored FDR and 69 with 71.1 per cent were all out for Dewey. In California it was 9 papers and 9 per cent for Roosevelt to 79 and 78 per cent for Tom Dewey. Michigan had only 2 dailies for FDR and they had only 4.9 per cent of the circulation while Dewey's 27 papers had 64.2 per cent of the readers.

* * *

Out in sunny Texas, hope just lives longer, that's all. Despite a whopping FDR sweep of better than 5 to 1, the Deweyite "Texas Regulars" announced through Chairman E. E. Townes that they will "go on with the fight until it's won." Those oil-influenced regulars say they are battling for " our free institutions."

Consumer Headache

Cartels Hike Prices, Slash Quality And Restrict Production

By C. W. FOWLER

An international cartel is a private monopolistic agreement that exists to divide markets, to jack up prices, lower quality, restrict production and generally cheat the ultimate consumer. It also exists as a means to world conquest.

In this process, the cartel operates on a worldwide scale. Nations, continents and hemispheres are divided up much as gangsters divide territory in the underworld. Every so often the gangsters fall out and we have a gang war. Every so often one set of cartel operators seeks to overreach the other and we have an international war.

This analogy is far from perfect, however. In a gang war, most of the victims are gangsters, with an occasional spectator stopping a slug. In international war, there are no bystanders. The peoples of all the world, no matter in what remote parts they may live, are in the line of fire in a war such as this one.

2nd Of A Series

Cartels German

The most important international cartels have been historically controlled by Germans. The steel cartel, operating in Europe, is dominated by German steelmasters. English steelmasters did the bidding of Germans, even though England was on the winning side in the war of 1914-1916. They did their bidding to the extent of not only limiting production but of actually destroying steel producing plants in England in the years between World War I and World War II.

Controlling member of the European steel cartel was Krupp, the world's greatest arms manufacturer. One of the second greatest arms producers in Europe and a member of the steel cartel was Schneider-Creusot of France, owned by the de Wendel family. De Wendels lived on both sides of the Franco-German border. It was this family and scores like it that turned France over to the Nazis in 1940.

The chemical cartel, which operates all over the world, is dominated by I. G. Farben, the German chemical and dye trust. Imperial Chemical Industries in England and duPont here are members of this cartel. As one result of this cartel, U. S. consumers have to pay $12 per 1,000 for atabrine tablets which the government gets for $4.50. Atabrine is a substitute for quinine, which was cut off when the Japanese took Malaya.

In Britain, consumers are forced to pay higher prices for dyes, and consequently higher prices for clothes, because the British member of the cartel (ICI) agreed to buy dyes only from the cartel and was given exclusive right to sell in the United Kingdom.

U. S.-Nazi Links

Some of the United States' most solid citizens have been mixed up in cartel agreements. The names of many of them read like a list of contributors to the campaign of Tom Dewey. Take the duPonts, for example. They've contributed millions to the GOP treasury. The firm of duPont has been one of the leading members of the chemical cartel, has had close relations with its German counterpart in I. G. Farben.

The big shots of General Electric were heavy contributors to Dewey's late campaign. Only last month the president of Int. General Electric, part of the huge GE setup, told a House Committee that there are no "bad" cartels, just good ones.

Cartels further provide Germany with outlets for propaganda. As soon as the cartel operators put Hitler in power in 1933 the Nazis started to use these outlets. Thus we find a German firm, Stahlunion Export GmbH, writing as early as March of that year to its American office in an attempt to offset the hatred Americans were already showing for Nazi cruelty to Jews.

"We are always ready to give further information about the present situation in Germany," this firm said after a long tirade against "Jews and Marxists." "We should like to request our agencies to see to it that this circular is passed about in order to enlighten people through the press, chambers of commerce, etc."

Survive Wars

German cartel operators survive military defeat. After the last war, Germany was supposed to be disarmed. But Krupp simply moved his arms making to neutral Sweden until it was safe to rearm openly in Germany again. By the early 1920's the German industrialists were operating all over the world again, making agreements, dividing markets, restricting production—laying the economic base for a second try to world conquest.

Newspapers have carried reports in recent weeks of Germans leaving Germany by submarine and heading for Argentina. These Germans are the advance agents of German industry. This time, they expect that the conditions of peace may be somewhat harsher than they were in 1918, and they plan to lie low for a bit until things are smoothed over again.

It may he that they'll leave Hitler and a good supply of lesser Nazis behind to take the rap and divert punishment for the crimes of Germany from their own heads.

If the German cartellists, the big industry kings, the men who put Hitler in power and started him on the road to world slaughter, aren't put out of business, we'll have World War III anyway, because those men are determined to try again. They've tried twice now in 25 years, and each time they've lost the technical decision.

What can be done to stop them from trying again? There are things that can be done to bring cartels under control. They have to be done the United Nations way, the way FDR showed us at Teheran and Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks.

(To Be Continued)

Pay-Off for Labor-Baiting

The 1944 elections and the primaries that went before them should prove one thing to Congressmen likely to be tempted—and that is this: labor-baiting and red-baiting pay off in defeat.

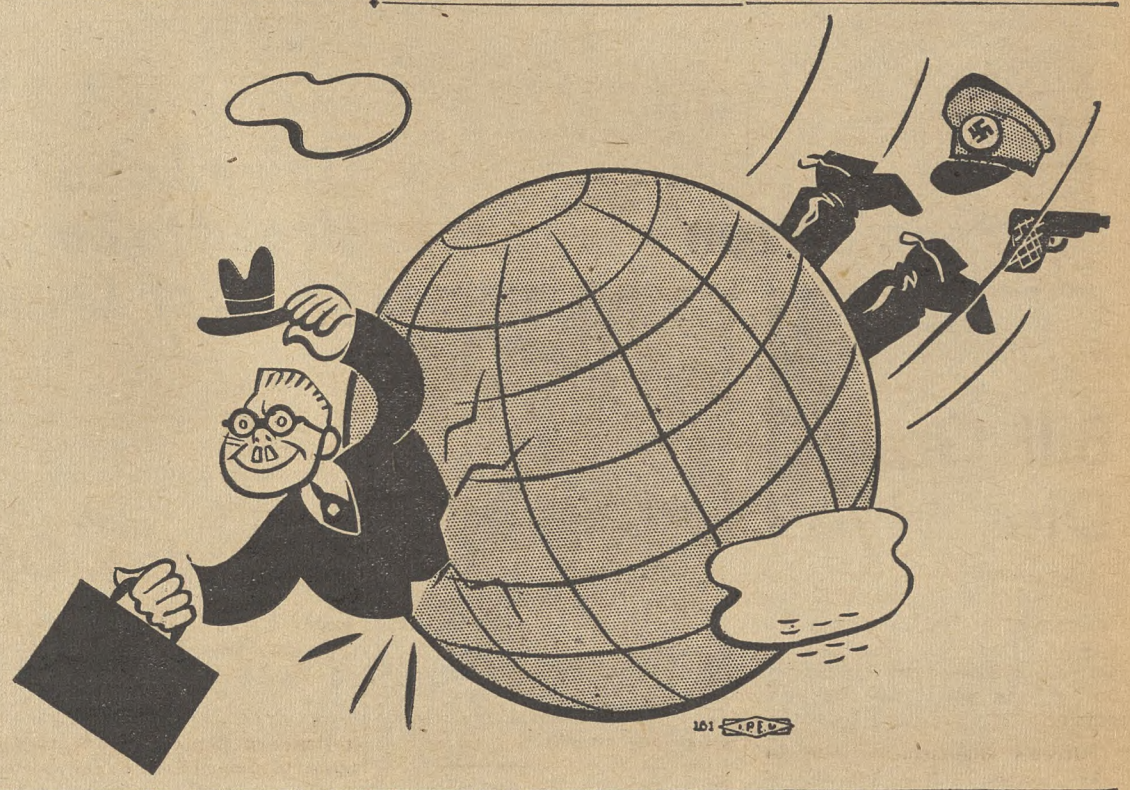
All a Congressman has to do, if he feels the itch for an outbreak of either disease coming over him, is to look at what happened to the unAmerican Dies Committee.

To begin with, Dies himself was retired even before the primary.

Then the voters in Alabama retired Joe Starnes (D), No. 2 on the witch parade. Following this, the voters in California, mobilized with the help of labor political activity, put Rep. Costello (D) out of circulation.

Illinois voters had to wait until the election, but they got their man when they defeated Rep. Fred E. Busbey (R), McCormick stooge from Chicago. Of five among the most rabid red-herring experts, only Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R), (who changed his name from Feeney), remains in a Republican seat from New Jersey.

Just to add point, one progressive Congressman who consistently fought Dies's methods on the committee was returned with the election of Herman P. Eberharter (D), of Pennsylvania. And another liberal, who used to protest occasionally before he left Dies, Rep. Jerry Voorhis (D), was also re-elected in California.



Make a Good Impression!

Want friends to put you down as a successful man? Then look the part—and dress it! Choose handsome, husky W. L. Douglas Shoes for all-winter good looks, and craftsmanship you can't match. Our new winter styles include brogues, moccasins, wing-tips, military oxfords . . . made of top-grade leathers, on lasts that really fit! See them today.

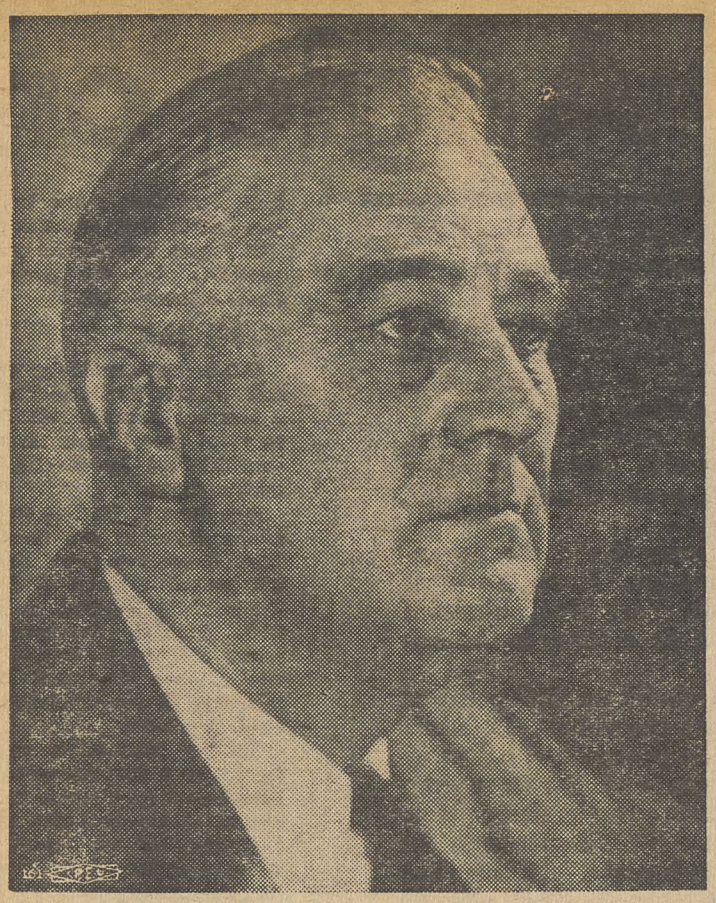
Airplane Stamps. Number One, Two, and Three are all valid.

Top style, THE CROMWELL No. 4528
Bottom style, THE CLIPPER No. 4693

W. L. Douglas Shoes
W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO., BROCKTON 15, MASS.

905 PENN. AVENUE N. W.
(Opposite Department of Justice Building)
(Men's and Boys' Shoes Exclusively)
Open Thursday and Saturday Evenings

MANY STYLES WITH OIL-TREATED SOLES FOR LONGER WEAR.



PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT
His Victory Was Cheered Abroad by All Except the Fascists

FDR Sweep Dumps Senate Isolationists

January 20, 1945, will see a much healthier Senate ready to deal positively with the problems of a permanent peace after the military defeat of the Axis, and inclined to support President Roosevelt's policy of peaceful cooperation with all peace-loving nations.

Three of the Senate leading isolationists were retired by the voters in favor of pro-United Nations men. They were Gerald P. Nye in No. Dakota, James J. Davis in Pennsylvania and John A. Danaher in Connecticut—all Republicans.

The men who succeeded them—all Democrats—campaigned on pledges of support for President Roosevelt's foreign policy and on carrying out the world security plans outlined at Moscow, Teheran, Dumbarton Oaks and other United Nations meetings.

North Dakota's first Democratic Senator is John Moses. He won on the united effort of labor, farmers, professional people and businessmen mobilized in the All Voters Party Organization. The APVO campaigned on support of FDR's world unity program. Labor was represented in the organization by Joe Glaser, vice-president of the state Federation of Labor. Chairman was Edwin Cooper, farm leader.

CIO-PAC support was mainly responsible for electing Brian McMahon over Danaher in Connecticut, where again the main issue was foreign policy. "Puddler Jim" Davis was defeated by Francis J. Myers in Pennsylvania with CIO support going to Myers. Here again, Myers succeeded almost wholly on the foreign policy issue.

The return of Sen. Scott Lucas in Illinois was a sharp setback for anti-United Nations Bertie McCormick, whose stooge Richard Lyons was soundly defeated. Lucas had strong CIO-PAC support, as did a number of pro-FDR candidates for the lower House.

Another leading appeaser, Sen. Robert Taft (R) of Ohio, had a tough fight holding his seat against CIO backed Wm. G. Pickrel. Wayne Morse (R), of Oregon, a pro-United Nations candidate, won easily with CIO support. He displaced Rufus Holman (R), a man given to admiring expressions about Hitler, in the primaries.

Fear of a primary defeat forced another leading isolationist, Sen. Robert R. Reynolds (D., NC) out of the running months ago. In Arkansas, Rep. Wm. J. Fulbright (D) replaced Sen. Hattie Caraway, also in the primaries. Fulbright is the author of the CIO supported "Fulbright resolution" committing the U. S. to international cooperation after the war.

CIO support for Sen. Elbert Thomas (D) of Utah, one of the strongest backers of FDR foreign policy (and domestic, too), helped him win in a tight contest. Similar support helped Sen. Elmer Thomas (D) of Oklahoma in another hot race.

The new Senator from Washington, Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D), is committed by his House record to support of Teheran policies. CIO support was decisive in his election.

All together, the new Senate will be one that FDR can work with—upsetting one of Dewey's main arguments, which claimed that only a Republican President would find a Senate willing to go along on the problems of making a lasting peace.

Bill Green Backed Dies, Nye; Both Beaten

One election result that got little attention in the daily press was the fate of several candidates who had AFL Pres. Wm. Green's personal endorsement for election and one on the progressive side who didn't.

Green's endorsement went to Sen. Gerald P. Nye, defeatist of North Dakota. Despite this, the vice president of the state AFL worked for Nye's defeat and helped in getting him out of the Senate.

Earlier, Green had endorsed Rep. Dies (D), the Texas red-herring expert, who retired in fear of the voters at primary time. Here again the local AFL refused to go along with Green's orders, working hard to defeat Dies.

Most conspicuous success among candidates who didn't get Green's endorsement was Sen. Robert F. Wagner (D) of New York. Wagner, author of the Wagner Act., the Social Security Act, the Housing Act, the Health Act, and lifelong friend of labor, was supported by most AFL locals in the state—and he got in by 400,000 majority.

Another Green endorsement was Rep. Stephen A. Day of the Chicago Tribune, whom the voters decisively repudiated in favor of CIO backed Mrs. Douglas. Still others were Ham Fish in New York, Sen. Davis in Pennsylvania, but the list is too long already.

FDR Hails Election as Test Of Democracy

The American people's faith in democracy is unshaken and the fact that the United States could successfully conduct an election for President in wartime has proved it, President Franklin D. Roosevelt indicated this week in a post-election statement. The President said:

"For the first time in 80 years we have held a national election in the midst of war.

"What is really important is that after all of the changes and vicissitudes of four score years, we have again demonstrated to the world that democracy is a living, vital force, that our faith in American institutions is unshaken, that conscience and not force is the source of power in the government of man.

"To that faith let us unite to win the war and to achieve a lasting peace."

Service Vote For FDR Tops Civilian Tally

GI Joes and Janes turned out a majority for FDR far heavier than that expressed by the civilian population, election returns that separated the service vote showed this week.

A total of 45,365,517 votes have so far been reported. Of these, FDR received 24,184,832 to Dewey's 22,304,755. The electoral college vote was 432 to 99, with 36 states for Roosevelt to 12 for Dewey. Doubtful state was Michigan, with 19 electoral college votes, leaning toward FDR, according to the latest count.

Of 242,082 service ballots counted in New York City, FDR got 175,648 or 72.6 percent. He received 60.7 percent of the civilian vote.

In Oklahoma, an incomplete return of the service vote gave FDR 8,655 to 4,531 for Dewey, or 65.6 percent. The combined soldier-civilian vote was about 59 percent.

20 Workers Out of 500 Injured in '43

Washington, Nov. 11 — A considerable loss of production time due to work accidents and illness in critical war industries emphasizes the necessity of increased safety and health protection in order to use manpower to the fullest extent, the Office of War Information reported this week.

The data on production losses was furnished by the Dept. of Labor, the War Manpower Commission and the War Production Board.

In the entire manufacturing field 20 workers out of each 500 employed suffered disabling injuries in 1943. A disabling injury, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, is one that causes the loss of a full day or more of the productive capacity of a workman.

Industries which have especially high figures of disabling injuries per 500 workers included the canning and preserving industry with 25.3, and logging with 82.2. In sawmills the ratio is about one to nine and in planning mills, one to eleven.

New Congressmen Solid For FDR Foreign Policy

As in the Senate, FDR will have a House of Representatives assembling in January with new members committed to support of his foreign policy, and with some of the worst obstructionists removed.

Most notorious of these was Ham Fish, who was finally defeated with CIO support for his opponent in New York. Fish ends a career of 24 years of working against the interests of the American people.

Along with Fish, the voters rejected some of Col. McCormick's favorite FDR-haters from Illinois. These included Rep. Stephen Day (R), the man who wired Hitler congratulations; Rep. Fred E. Busbey (R), member of the unAmerican Dies Committee; Calvin D. Johnson (R), who fought lend-lease, and Charles S. Dewey (R), who fought the war effort by helping Sewell Avery's disruption.

Pennsylvania, in addition to rejecting isolationist Sen. James J. Davis, retired six Republicans from the House whose record of opposing FDR included both his foreign and domestic policies.

Connecticut not only put isolationist Sen. John A. Danaher back in private life, but also four of six Republican Congressmen. Major loss to an anti-United Nations leader here was the narrow election of Rep. Clare Luce (R), who specializes in fighting world security.

Out in the west, California and Washington turned in sizable Democratic Congressional delegations, defeating a number of reactionary House incumbents.

Some of the most significant changes for the better in the makeup of the House occurred in the primaries and had only to be confirmed in the general elections. These included defeat of Rep. Dies in Texas, whose sabotage extended to U. S. foreign relations as well as to domestic policies, and Reps. Kleberg and Nat Patton, both enemies of price control.

Another primary casualty was Rep. Costello (D) of California, who went along with everything his co-saboteurs on the Dies Committee did by way of mischief making in wartime.

New York sent a much improved delegation to Congress, besides returning Sen. Wagner. The New York vote of half a million for the American Labor Party was the decisive factor in FDR's huge majority there and in returning close to 30 progressive Representatives.

Included was one of two Negro Congressmen, the Rev. Adam Clayton Powell, pastor of the huge Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem. Rep. Powell will not take too calmly to any race baiting that such a man as Rep. Rankin (poll-taxer, Miss.) may indulge in. Rep. William Dawson (D) of Chicago was re-elected.

Along with sending new and more welcome faces to the House, labor votes were decisive in retaining a number of progressive incumbents. Michigan CIO-PAC helped keep such men as Rep. Dingell, Sadowski, Rabaut, O'Brien and Bailey. Illinois, in addition to rejecting McCormick men, returned veteran Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, long a supporter of progressive policies.

Summing up, FDR will have a House much improved over 1942. His foreign and domestic policies both will fare better than they have over the past two years, with the removal of incumbent reactionaries, the retention of tried progressives, and the addition of new ones committed to supporting him.

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE
BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

UNION MADE
BUTTONS
Celluloid or Litho-Metal
For—
Union Dues
Advertising
Campaigns
Badges - Emblems
CHARLES M. GERAGHTY
INCORPORATED
500 Sherman St. - Chicago, Ill.

CASH WHEN NEEDED MOST!

NOW $1 A MONTH PROVIDES
AMAZING NEW GOLD SEAL POLICY
Provides all-around protection, cash for almost every emergency! Issued by old-line LEGAL RESERVE company, yet actually costs less than $1 a month. Protection you need at a price you can afford!
Pays for ANY and ALL Accidents, ALL Common Sicknesses, as provided, even minor injuries. Disability benefits paid from first day. No waiting period. NO, this is NOT the usual "limited" policy. NO jokers. NO trick clauses. It's extra liberal!
Accumulated CASH BENEFITS for Accidental Loss of Life, Limb or Sight up to $6000.00
For ACCIDENT DISABILITY up to $100 a month for as long as 24 months, or $2400.00
For SICKNESS DISABILITY a regular monthly income up to $100.00 PER MO.
HOSPITAL EXPENSES for Sickness or Accident including room to over $650.00
NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION
Policy issued BY MAIL at big savings. Ages 15 to 69. Actual policy sent for 10 DAYS' FREE EXAMINATION. Write for it today. No cost! No obligation! No salesman will call. Use coupon below. Do it today—it Provide for tomorrow!
FREE 10-Day Inspection Coupon
The SERVICE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
Service Life Bldg. Omaha 2, Nebr.
Without cost or obligation, send your GOLD SEAL $1-A-MONTH Policy for 10 DAYS' FREE INSPECTION.
Name
Address Age
City State
Beneficiary
444-A

Exclusive! Labor Angle on

Along with the great victory of FDR over Dewey, Hoover and Co. in the presidential election, the voters sent an improved Congress to Washington for the session opening Jan. 20.

Some of the most notorious reactionaries are gone. Isolationists particularly felt the wrath of the voters. Several of Col. McCormick's Chicago Tribune stooges were kicked out. More members of the un-American Dies Committee found that the wages of red-baiting are political death.

Many CIO-backed candidates, both for Congress and for local office, were returned. In most cases these candidates were also backed by other organized progressive groups, from labor, farmers, professional workers, businessmen.

CIO-PAC proved to be a decisive factor because it did the organized, door-to-door work that brings success in a campaign. Even the most reactionary newspapers, including the arch-tory New York Sun, admitted that CIO did a job, that labor had definitely arrived as a force in American politics.

These same newspapers had done their best to build up CIO political action during the campaign as a No. 1 bogey to scare the voters. It didn't work. The voters, on the contrary, were scared of the prospect of a Dewey victory—so scared that they retired many Congressmen and Senators who fought FDR's United Nations policy, and put his supporters in their place.

For the convenience of our readers, The CIO NEWS presents an alphabetical list of the Congressional elections in each state. At the time of writing (Nov. 9) the reports, gathered from CIO and PAC officials throughout the nation, are still incomplete.

To the many CIO and PAC officials, especially CIO and PAC editors and publicity men, The CIO NEWS expresses its thanks for their cooperation.

ALABAMA

Sen. Lister Hill (D), a strong FDR supporter, won a 100,000 majority in the general election. CIO support for Hill in the primary some months back helped greatly in the real struggle in this campaign.

Luther Patrick (D), who defeated Rep. John P. Newsome in a primary runoff, also won easily in the general election. Patrick was supported by CIO in both primary and election.

Albert Rains, who defeated Joe Starnes (D), member of the un-American Dies Committee, in the primary and the election, was also supported by CIO.

In Birmingham, CIO endorsement of an advisory referendum on a new city hall site helped put the proposal over.

ARIZONA

Sen. Hayden (D.) was re-elected with CIO support, as were Reps. Richard Harless (D.) and John Murdock (D). Governor Osborn (D.) was also re-elected with CIO support. CIO, AFL and Brotherhoods have carried on united political action in this state.

ARKANSAS

Election of former Rep. J. W. Flbright (D), followed his victory in the primaries over Sen. Hattie Caraway. Fulbright was the author of the "Fulbright resolution" for international cooperation in the House last year, which was supported by CIO.

All incumbent Congressmen were returned, with the exception of one new man, J. W. Trimble (D).

CALIFORNIA

Sen. Sheridan Downey (D) won handily over his Republican opponent, Lt. Governor Frederick Houser. Downey had strong CIO support.

Franck Havenner (D) running for Congress with CIO support in San Francisco, was leading in a tight fight with Rep. Thomas Rolph, GOP reactionary and isolationist. The GI vote is expected to help Havenner materially. Rolph voted against the Federal GI vote ballot plan in Congress.

Helen Gahagan Douglas (D), movie actress, was aided by CIO to become one of three new Democratic Congresswomen. CIO support also helped former Lt. Governor Ellis Patterson (D), beat Jesse Kellems, brother of the notrious Vivien Kellems who advised refusal to pay taxes.

Rep. Chet Holifield (D), with a good record of defending consumers in the House, was re-elected with CIO support. Three CIO-backed men elected are George P. Miller (D) who beat GOP reactionary A. E. Carter in Oakland; Ned Healy who beat Morris Poulson, GOP anti-CIO Congressman in Los Angeles, and Clyde Doyle who beat reacitonary GOP Rep. Ward Johnson.

Rep. Jerry Voorhis (D) was elected with CIO support in Los Angeles. Hal Styles, who beat ex-Rep. John F. Costello (D), member of the un-American Dies Committee in the primaries with CIO support, lost out after a Hearst-inspired charge of Ku Klux Klan membership. In the northern part of the state, CIO-backed Rep. Clair Engle, Rep. George Outland and Rep. John H. Tolan—all Democrats—were re-elected. In San Diego, CIO-backed Rep. Ed V. Izac (D) was returned.

The state's only CIO-backed Republican, Richard J. Walsh, was also re-elected.

In all, CIO and most of California labor backed 17 Congressional candidates, of whom 16 won election and one (Havenner) is in doubt as The CIO NEWS goes to press.

The voters gave Proposition No. 12, an anti-union shop amendment to the constitution, a terriffic beating. All labor united with churches, some farm groups and businessmen against it. The NAM was the principal agitator for it.

COLORADO

Majorities in Denver and other cities for CIO-backed Democratic candidates were insufficient to overcome big GOP votes in the rural areas. Closest race was run by CIO-backed Charles Graham for Representative, who was nosed out by a small majority.

CIO did place two candidates in the state Senate and seven in the Legislature. Two of the seven are CIO members; Thomas Crazer of USA-CIO and Philip Caldwell of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

CONNECTICUT

CIO-backed candidates did well in Connecticut. All but two of six Republicans opposed by CIO were eliminated. Principal cause was a greatly increased state vote (950,000—almost 100,000 over 1940) which was due to CIO-PAC activity.

Sen. John Danaher (R), one of the leading isolationists in the light listed by Sen. Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.) who supported FDR, was defeated by CIO-backed Brian McMahon (D).

Of the two GOP Representatives re-elected, Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, isolationist and sniper at the United Nations, was the best known. La Luce had a terriffic fight to hold her seat from 29-year-old Margaret Cnnors, CIO-backed candidate, and ran well behind Dewey. The other GOP winner was Rep. Joseph Talbot, an extreme tory with a long anti-FDR, anti-union and anti-New Deal record. Talbot was opposed by CIO member Peter Higgins.

The four CIO-backed Democrats who won are former Rep. Herman P. Koppelmann, who had a good record in the House before he lost out in 1940; Mrs. Chase Going Woodehouse, who beat John D. McWilliams; James Geelan, who beat Ranulf Compton, another rabid reactionary, and Joe. A. Ryter, who beat B. F. Monkiewicz, specialist in anti-United Nations incitement, for Congressman at large.

Nicholas Tomassetti, member of the CIO Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, was re-elected to the state Assembly.

DELAWARE

Delaware has one Representative-at-Large. The incumbent, Earle D. Willey (R.), was defeated by CIO-backed Philip A. Traynor.

CIO backed the entire Democratic state ticket, all of which won except the candidate for Governor. Four CIO men were placed in the state Legislature: John E. Reilly (D), USA-CIO; Francis Q. Lemon, Barbers and Beauty Culturists; Charles Allegretto of the same union, and James Quigle of UAW-CIO.

FLORIDA

Chief CIO victory took place during the primary fight around renomination of Sen. Claude A. Pepper, one of the Senate's leading supporters of FDR.

GEORGIA

All incumbents were returned in Georgia. Earlier, CIO-PAC had opposed renomination of Rep. Eugene Cox, who was revealed to have taken a fee from a radio station while endeavoring to get it a license. Cox later set up the Cox Committee to investigate the FCC which made this revelation.

IDAHO

CIO-backed Glen H. Taylor (D), the "singing cowboy," won the Senate seat over the GOP Governor who ran against him.

CIO-backed incumbent Rep. Compton White (D), was re-elected. Another CIO-backed House candidate, Phil Evans, lost in a tight race to his GOP opponent.

CIO also backed the successful candidate for the governorship, Charles Gossett (D).

ILLINOIS

CIO-backed candidates gave several of Col. McCormick's stooges a beating, beginning with the victory of Sen. Scott Lucas (D) over Richard Lyons (R), McCormick's choice.

Rep. Fred E. Busbey, isolationist and member of the un-American Dies Committee, was beaten by CIO-backed Edward Kelly. Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, backed by CIO, defeated Representative-at-Large Stephen A. Day, a McCormick stooge who sent Hitler a telegram of congratulations when he took power.

Another McCormick stooge defeated by a CIO supported candidate was Rep. Charles S. Dewey, author of the anti-CIO, anti-FDR "investigation" of Sewell Avery's defiance of the U. S. Government in the Montgomery-Ward case. The successful candidate against Dewey was A. J. Resa (D).

Still another McCormick man defeated with CIO opposition was Calvin Johnson (R), who lost to Melvin Price.

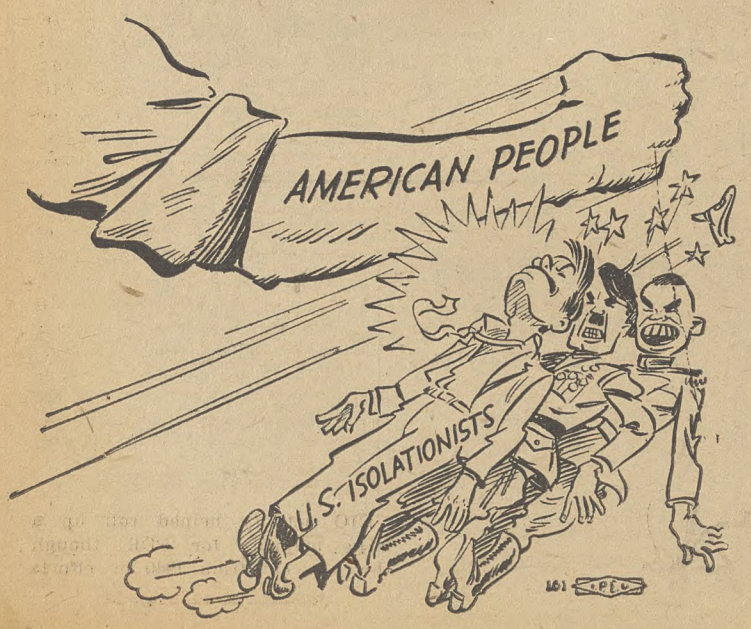
Rep. Adolph J. Sabath (D), one of labor's oldest allies in the House and chairman of the Rules Committee, won with CIO backing in a close race.

Not all of McCormick's agents were defeated, however. Rep. Jessie Sumner (R), anti-war and anti-FDR, won, as did Rep. Church (R), and others.

INDIANA

All incumbents were re-elected, and in addition Homer Capehart, reactionary GOP juke box manufacturer, won the Senate seat from the Democratic candidate Henry F. Shricker, who had CIO-PAC support.

CIO-PAC activities cut down GOP majorities for House incumbents, but were not able to overcome apathy and indifference of Democratic state apparatus. Official Democratic leaders went on the theory, according to reports, that FDR was a liability that should not be mentioned during the campaign. They actually issued buttons urging people to vote for Dewey (GOP) and Schricker, Democratic nominee for the Senate.



FDR Sweep, State by State

IO-backed Rep. Ray Madden , and Louis Ludlow (D), were lected by larger majorities n in 1942.

ncomplete returns show that state government will be in hands of the GOP again, ugh by a slightly smaller ma- ity.

OWA

IO-backed candidates were de- ted by Republicans, though they ried almost all counties where O is organized. Some CIO- ked candidates for the state gislature were elected in Wa- lo County, where the Ottumwa 3 Council is.

ANSAS

OP incumbents were returned Kansas, with the exception of . William Lambertson, who was eated in the primaries with CIO osition. Lambertson was no- ious for personal attacks on R and on the war record of R's sons in the services.

ENTUCKY

IO-backed Senate Majority ader Alben Barkley was re- cted by about 75,000 majority. n House races, Rep. Andrew J. y (D), not endorsed by CIO- C, was running a close contest The CIO NEWS went to press. s opponent, Dr. Elmer F. Gab- rd, was endorsed by CIO-PAC. Other CIO-endorsed House can- ates who won are: Emmet Neal (D), of Louisville; Frank elf (D), who beat GOP incum- nt Chester Carrier, whose one- ar tenure was distinguished by 100 per cent anti-union record; ent Spence (D), Joseph Bates), Noble J. Gregory (D), and rl C. Clements (D). Clements n in a primary contest against mocratic incumbent Beverly Vin- nt, with CIO backing at the he.

OUISIANA

All incumbents were returned Louisiana.

AINE

Maine voted for three Repub- an House incumbents Sept. 12. O-PAC activity is largely cred- d with cutting the GOP ma- ity of 70,000 in September to 000 for Dewey November 7. Al- st all cities where CIO locals nt for FDR, including Portland, wiston, Waterville, and Biddle- d. Shoe, Textile and Shipbuilding re the CIO unions responsible.

ARYLAND

IO activity was a big factor in ing up the huge majority for osevelt in Baltimore City which set the Dewey lead in the rest the state and carried Maryland FDR.

IO did not make an endorse- nt in the Senate race, which s won by incumbent Millard Tydings (D).

IO endorsed Rep. Thomas Alessandro (D), who won by large majority. A Progressive publican, Rep. Daniel Ellison, t to a Democrat, and other in- mbent Congressmen, mostly Dem- ats, were re-elected.

ASSACHUSETTS

Contrary to newspaper reports, ich were denied by CIO-PAC ector Joseph Salerno, CIO did endorse Gov. Leverett Salton- ll, who won the Senate seat. Of seven CIO-backed House can- ates, two, Reps. John W. Mc- rmack (House Majority Leader), d Thomas J. Lane (D), won. A rd of the seven, McAndrews), lost by 1,000 or less and is orted to be seeking a recount. Democratic candidate for Gov- nor Maurice J. Tobin, mayor of ston, was backed by CIO and n by a large majority.

MICHIGAN

All Democratic incumbents in Michigan were endorsed by CIO and all were re-elected. These are Reps. George Sadowski, Cecil Bailey, George O'Brien, Louis Rabaut, John Dingell and John Lesinski.

In addition, CIO backing helped former Congressman Frank Hook to win over GOP incumbent John B. Bennett. Most reactionary Republican that CIO opposed but who won was Clare Hoffman, whose AFL opponent was endorsed by CIO.

CIO had many successes in local elections. Candidates of a CIO-endorsed slate in Wayne County won out, with the exception of Circuit Judge William Friedman. The county ticket was headed by Gerald K. O'Brien, and included eight CIO members. These were state Senator Stanley Nowak, UAW; C. Pat Quinn, a leader of the CIO Council; Tracy Doll, former UAW executive board member; Jack Fuller, UAW Local 174; Vincent Klein, UAW Local 7; Jack Ellstein, Clothing Workers.

One Republican, Clarence Reid, was backed by CIO for state Senator, but lost to a non-endorsed UAW member, Patrick J. Doyle of Local 157.

With outstate returns still meager, Pontiac elected Charles E. Yeager, Yellow Cab Local UAW and three Republicans. In Gogebic County (Flint), CIO put a number of other UAW members in state and local offices. In Flint, CIO also put in five of nine city commissioners.

Political action by the UAW local in Owosso is credited with holding Dewey's majority in his home town to two to one.

MINNESOTA

CIO support helped elect Frank Starkey, an official of the AFL Teamsters, in the place of Rep. Melvin Maas (R), a vocal isolationist who made a career out of "charging" FDR with responsibility for Pearl Harbor.

CIO also backed Wm. P. Gallagher for Congress, who with Starkey becomes one of the first two Democrats from Minnesota since 1938.

MISSISSIPPI

All the incumbents were returned.

MISSOURI

Roy McKittrick, who won the Democratic Senatorial nomination from isolationist Bennett Champ Clark with CIO-PAC support, was trailing his Republican opponent as The CIO NEWS went to press. A service vote estimated at some 80,000 was still to be counted.

Rep. Miller of St. Louis, a reactionary Republican who was active on the Cox committee, was defeated by John Sullivan (D), who had CIO support. Edward M. Jayne (D) won in the House over Rep. Max Schwabe (R), also with CIO support.

Loss of thousands of workers in St. Louis, due to deep cutbacks in CIO-organized plants, was partly responsible for McKittrick's failure to lead up to press time.

MONTANA

CIO-backed Mike Mansfield (D) won a House seat, as did James O'Connor (D). Montana has only two Congressmen.

NEBRASKA

All GOP incumbents except one were elected, despite CIO opposition. The one new Congressman is an Independent, elected without CIO endorsement.

NEW JERSEY

Two CIO-endorsed Congressmen won in this state—Rep. Mary T. Norton (D) and Edward J. Hart (D). The CIO-backed candidate for the Senate, Rep. Elmer Wene (D) lost to H. Alexander Smith (R).

CIO-PAC activity had to overcome apathy and defeatism by much of the Democratic apparatus in N. J., which it did by getting out the vote and rolling up around 30,000 of a majority for FDR.

Three CIO Assemblymen were elected: John Grogan and Harry Deith of the Shipbuilding Workers and Giles Frazier of the UE. CIO opposed a revision of the state constitution as "inadequate." The proposal lost.

NEVADA

All counties of Nevada where CIO-PAC was active went for FDR. The state's one Representative-at-Large, Berkley D. Bunker, a Bishop of the Mormon Church, was elected without CIO endorsement. Val Englestad of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was elected to the state Assembly.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

New Hampshire sent two Republican incumbents to the House and one Democratic newcomer, Harry Carlson. Sen. Tobey (R), with a record of sniping at the Bretton Woods monetary conference and other plans for holding the United Nations together, was re-elected.

NEW MEXICO

Reps. Clinton P. Anderson and Antonio M. Fernandez were re-elected with CIO endorsement, as was Governor Dempsey. All three are Democrats. Rep. Anderson was Chairman of the House Campaign Investigating Committee, where he showed some vigor in questioning pro-fascist, anti-FDR outfits such as Gannett's "Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc."

NEW YORK

Biggest victory in New York was the tremendous majority piled up for Sen. Robert F. Wagner (D), which exceeded that of the President. Wagner, who was endorsed by CIO-PAC, was not endorsed by the AFL officialdom, which backed GOP Curran. Curran campaigned almost entirely on red-baiting.

New York was supposed to be a "close" state for Dewey. It gave FDR over 300,000 of a majority, with the biggest leads in New York City, which gave him 700,000 over Dewey, and in several upstate cities.

The job in New York was done by a mobilization of volunteers through the CIO unions, some 50,000 coming out to work not only on registration and on election day but day by day during the entire campaign.

Another labor achievement in New York was the American Labor Party vote of close to 500,000. David Dubinsky's Liberal Party, which split off from the ALP after Dubinsky lost control by majority vote, polled close to 300,000. Many thousands of Liberal Party votes came from GOP Willkie followers who wanted to vote for FDR but were scared off from voting ALP by Dubinsky's red-baiting.

All successful New York Congressmen carrying ALP designation were also endorsed by CIO.

Outstanding among CIO-opposed Congressmen who were defeated was Hamilton Fish, isolationist and associate of George Sylvester Viereck, indicted seditionist. Clothing Workers, Shipbuilding Workers and Fur Workers were active in his district, and helped unseat him after 24 years.

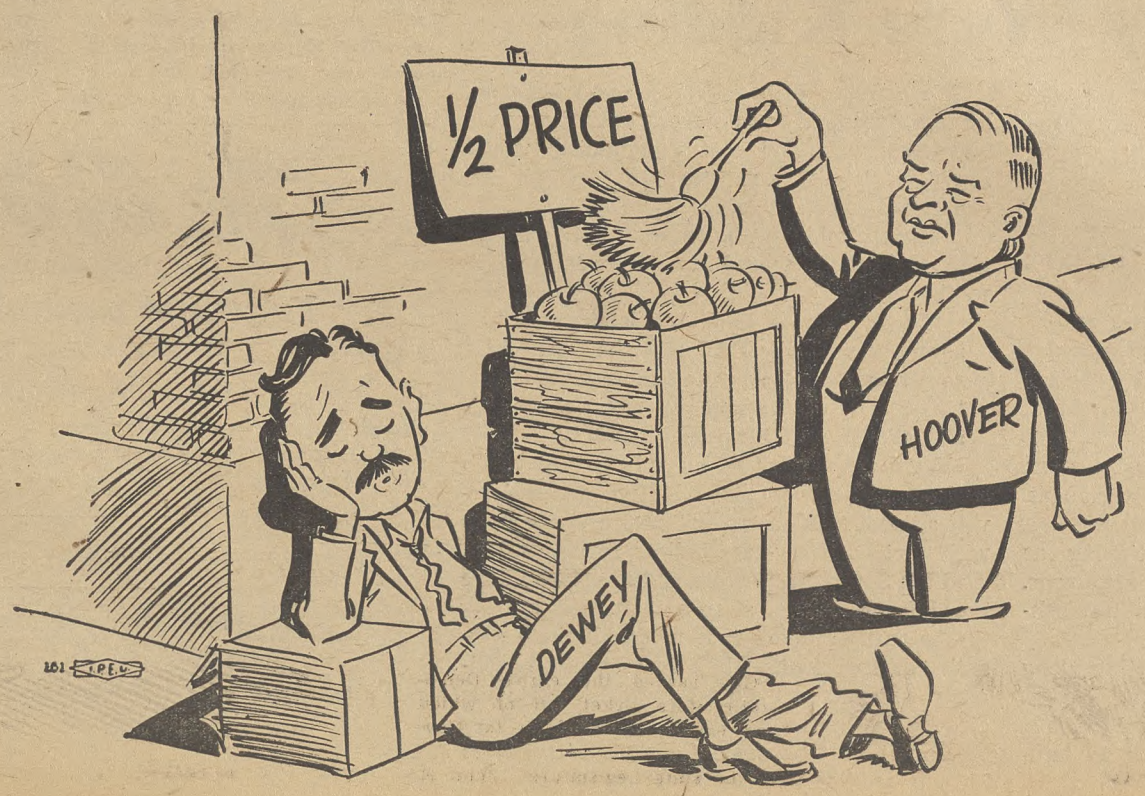
The Rev. Adam Clayton Powell, pastor of the largest Negro church in the world, was assured of election when he won Democratic, Republican and American Labor Party nominations, as was Rep. Vito Marcantonio. Both had strong CIO support. Rep. Powell is the second Negro to be elected to the new Congress, the other being William Dawson (D) of Illinois.

A feature of the campaign in New York state was the defeatism of some sections of the Democratic party, which were apparently willing to throw in the towel until CIO-PAC went to work. This was true in Syracuse, for example, where the local Democratic leader "conceded" the city to Dewey before the election. CIO activity put Syracuse in FDR's total by 4,000.

NORTH CAROLINA

CIO activity helped roll up a large majority for FDR, though this was cut from 1940 by efforts

(Continued on Page 10)



The CIO Plays Its Part

The 1944 elections were a great victory for America.

Despite one of the dirtiest and most disruptive propaganda campaigns in political history against Roosevelt, against the New Deal, against labor and against our national war unity, the American people demonstrated their democratic faith, their progressive purpose and their drive for victory and lasting peace.

Turning out to the polls in huge numbers, despite all war difficulties, they assured the retention of our great Commander-in-Chief. They retired many isolationists and defeatists. And they showed their scorn for the Hitleristic "red scare" by rejecting most of the worst labor-baiters and red-baiters and electing pro-FDR progressives in their place.

The CIO is proud to have played its part in this great democratic upsurge of the American people. Its millions of members worked harder in this political campaign than perhaps any other single group.

They rose to their democratic responsibilities as good citizens and good Americans, seeking no narrow partisan advantage but working to unite all the people behind a broad progressive program in the national interest.

The results of CIO political activity were evident in every industrial district. It kept the big issues of war and peace and postwar planning to the fore. It secured record registrations and brought millions of voters to the polls.

This was American labor's first big organized effort in the political field. It demonstrated its effectiveness beyond all expectations.

Maybe They Were Kidding

To those of us who believe what we read in the papers and hear over the radio, the United States has presented a strange scene since November 7.

There isn't a sign of a red flag over the White House nor of Communism sweeping the country.

Sidney Hillman hasn't taken up residence at the White House nor even ousted Bob Hannegan from his job—and if he's doing any dictating, it's only to his stenographer.

The churches are still open. Businessmen are still doing business. The government hasn't taken over industry.

Democracy seems to be functioning as usual. Congress is getting ready to reconvene. The CIO hasn't taken over control in Washington.

And above all we seem to be getting along with the war very nicely, thank you.

Yet we were told that if Roosevelt were re-elected, democracy would come to an end and dictatorship take its place.

We were told that Browder and Hillman, having swallowed the Democratic Party, would take command; and that Communism would cease to "stalk" and start to "sweep" the country.

We were told that business would be strangled, religion destroyed and "free enterprise" would expire.

We were also told that labor was in revolt against the PAC and the South in revolt against Roosevelt; and that the CIO "kiss of death" would destroy Roosevelt and all other CIO-endorsed candidates.

Yet the mortality seems to have been much higher among the unkissed. The workers' revolt against "CIO coercion" swamped the polls with their secretly-cast ballots for Roosevelt. And the Southern "revolters" too seem to have voted for FDR almost to a man.

As to the papers that made all these sensational predictions, they have become curiously subdued and almost objective since the elections.

Can it be that some folks were trying to kid the public?

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

LIKE the people of London, Paris and Leningrad, the American people too have shown they "can take it," in another way.

Theirs has not been the test of invasion or the terror that comes from the air. It has been a grueling mental test of their morale and their democratic faith.

For months they were subjected to the poison-gas of a foul propaganda campaign, such as Goebbels himself might have devised.

At the height of a world war against fascism, 80 or 90% of the press and daily radio speeches tried to panic them with the idea that the CIO, the New Deal, all progressives and our Commander-in-Chief himself were in league to deliver them over to an imaginary "Communist menace."

This campaign was a reckless insult to our most powerful ally as well as to the intelligence of the American people. And along with it went all the other trimmings of Hitlerite propaganda.

To labor-baiting and red-baiting were added sly and open Jew-baiting, appeals to religious and anti-foreignborn prejudice, and every other device to divide us group against group.

★ ★ ★

But the American people just gritted their teeth and bided their time—until election day. Then they showed they could not only take it, but also dish it out.

They turned out to the polls in record numbers, laughing their scorn at the liars and fakers who thought they could frighten them into surrendering to reaction.

Spurning the advice of the daily press and all other attempts to divide them among themselves and from their allies, they gave Pres. Roosevelt a sweeping mandate to carry on with winning the war and organizing the United Nations for lasting peace, as well as with a progressive domestic program for full production and jobs for all.

★ ★ ★

The people's mandate was clearest in the Presidential elections, where the big national and world issues were clearest. It was more confused in state and local elections, due to sectional issues, though here too the trend was definitely progressive, pro-labor and anti-isolationist.

Scores of the worst reactionaries were defeated, most of the pro-FDR Senators and Congressmen were re-elected, and many sterling progressives were added to their number.

The new Congress will be a definite improvement over the old. But it still will not reflect the people's will as clearly as the Presidential election has done—partly because many tories have ridden in on local and sectional issues, and partly because the polltax regularly assures the re-election of many anti-New Deal reactionaries by minority vote.

The elections have shown, however, a sturdy growth of liberalism in the South and have completely debunked the much-touted "Southern revolt" against FDR.

But there is still danger that Southern polltaxers and tory Republicans will again combine to dominate Congress and to defy the people's mandate for Roosevelt's progressive policies.

★ ★ ★

The credit for this magnificent election victory goes to the majority of Americans of all groups and classes. But the CIO's fair share of this credit is very large.

If it had not been for CIO initiative and political activity, the American people might not have been aroused as they were, and the workers in particular might not have turned out to the polls in such splendid numbers. Complacency, apathy and a light vote might have permitted the Deweyites to win by default.

The success of CIO political activity was shown by the record registration and voting turnout in industrial centers, particularly where CIO unions were strongest.

Contrary to predictions, nearly every important industrial state went for Roosevelt. In Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York, for instance, the Deweyites counted on sufficient rural and small-town votes to offset expected pro-FDR majorities in the cities.

But instead, thanks largely to CIO efforts, the vote turnout and FDR majorities in industrial cities, small and large, reached unexpectedly big proportions, and these and other states listed as "doubtful" or even pro-Dewey joined the Roosevelt column.

Labor, of course, cannot claim exclusive credit for this, no matter how large its share. For evidently farmers and small-town voters weren't deceived by anti-FDR propaganda as much as the Deweyites hoped; and the overwhelming G. I. preference for Roosevelt was another large factor in the final victory swing.

The CIO News

Published Weekly

Congress of Industrial Organizations

Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer

Vice-Presidents

Joseph Curran, John Green, Reid Robinson
S. H. Dalrymple, Allan S. Haywood, Frank Rosenblum
Albert Fitzgerald, Emil Rieve, R. J. Thomas

Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director

Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.

Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925

Vol. 7 November 13, 1944 No. 46

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

Roosevelt Wins!

Congratulations to every officer and member of all our CIO affiliates for the splendid teamwork which brought about this victory over the forces of bigotry and reaction. The election of Pres. Roosevelt has demonstrated the strength of the CIO. It is a tribute to the leadership of Pres. Murray and fully justifies the creation of the Political Action Committee and selection of its chairman, Sidney Hillman.

This victory means much not only to the people of the United States but also to the whole world. With this accomplishment, we must now rededicate ourselves to the major task of organizing the unorganized.

The writer participated in a wage conference between the officials of the West Virginia Paper & Pulp Co., together with Brother Frank Grasso of the Paper Workers Organizing Committee and officers from the local unions in the company's plants.

From a deadlock came a much improved agreement, providing Christmas bonuses, some holidays with pay, and other benefits. This lays a foundation for building a real union in the company's plants and for strengthening the Paper Workers Organizing Committee.

Thomas Andert, chairman, Optical & Instrument Workers Organizing Committee, reports a splendid victory at the Spencer-Lens Plant, Buffalo, N. Y., important subsidiary of the American Optical Co. CIO Rep. James O'Reilly, assigned to the OIWOC, was in charge. The vote resulted in 723 for CIO, 289 for AFL and 23 for no union. Good work—keep it up!

Pres. S.H. Dalrymple, United Rubber Workers, reports: Goodyear Fabric Corp., New Bedford, Mass., CIO 626, against 150. CIO Rep. Samuel Macri assisted in this victory.

Wm. B. Taylor, Dir. Oil Workers Drive, reports: War Emergency Pipe Lines, Division 3, Princeton, Ind., to Egypt, Ark., CIO 93, against 47.

Act. Reg. Dir. R. W. Starnes, New Orleans, advises: Chalmette Petroleum Corp. plant, Chalmette, La., employes voted 100% for CIO.

Sub-Reg. Dir. John J. Maurillo reports overwhelming victory won by CIO at Dunn McCarthy Shoe Co., Auburn, N. Y., CIO 294, against 47. This drive was conducted by the CIO office and assisted by USWA Field Rep. Dan Gardini.

Reg. Dir. C. H. Gillman, Atlanta, Ga., reports: Hormel Packing Co., Atlanta, Ga., election conducted by a cross check of cards resulted in 22 for CIO to 4 against. Rep. Hathaway of the UPWA conducted the organizing drive.

Reg. Dir. Hodson, Wilmington, Del., reports: Nicaro Nickel Co., Wilmington, USA-CIO, won by a card check of 59 to 30.

G. Geo. DeNucci, Reg. Dir. Columbus, reports: Crawford Steel Co., Bucyrus, Ohio, USA-CIO, 90; against 87. Reps. Henry Johnson and William Bell were in charge under the direction of USA Dist. Dir. Howard N. Porter.

UAW Reg. Dir. Chas. H. Kerringan reports: Pratt Whitney, Southington, Conn., CIO, 1,375; against, 849.

IUMSWA Org. Dir. Thos. J. Gallagher advises: Dade Shipbuilding & Drydock Co., Miami, Fla., CIO, 260; AFL, 182. Merrill-Stevens Drydock Co., Jacksonville, Fla., CIO, 14; no union, 9. Norfolk Shipbuilding & Drydock Co., Norfolk, Va., CIO, 731; no union, 652.

Geo. Craig, Reg. Dir. Philadelphia, reports: Utilities Realty Co., Philadelphia, CIO 12; AFL 0. Sharpe & Dohme, Inc., Philadelphia, CIO 557; Employes Assn. 521. In the Sharpe & Dohme election, CIO Field Rep. Loren Houser was in charge of the drive with GCCWA Rep. Joe Wright, CIO Reps. Victor Ulivitch and George Bucher assisting. Congratulations to all participating. This is a break in the open-shop drug industry.

Frank Bender, CIO Reg. Dir., reports: Oxfibre Plant, Frederick, Md., CIO 227; AFL 4. CIO Rep. Robert Brylke was in charge.

CIO Reg. Dir. C. H. Gillman, Georgia, advises: Upchurch Packing Co., a division of Armour & Co., CIO 81; no union 1. This organizational work was under the supervision of UPWA Reg. Dir. Hathaway.

Reg. Dir. Edw. McCrone Connecticut, reports: Excelsior plant of the Torrington Company, CIO 496; no union 318

Wm. B. Taylor, Dir. Org. Oil Workers, advises: Skelly Transports, Transportation Dep., Neodosha, Kan., voted 100% for the CIO.

W. A. Copeland, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Memphis, reports: Humko, UCAPAWA-CIO, 92; no union 44. Reps. Joe Hellinger and Jesse Harrison handled this campaign.

CIO Reg. Dir. Walter Harris, Chicago, reports: Intl. Harvester Co., McCormick Works, Chicago, CIO Farm Equipment Workers, 185; against 107 Bisbee Linseed Co., Chicago Heights (production and maintenance employes), USA-CIO 43; against 7. Crown Stove Works, Chicago, Ill. (production and maintenance employes, including watchmen and inspectors), UAW-CIO 34; against 15. Intl. Harvester Co., McCormick Works, Chicago (plant design engineers, etc.), CIO Farm Equipment Workers 43; against 10.

Disrupters Blasted

Vet-Worker Unity Vital In Postwar World—'Yank'

The Army Weekly, "Yank," did some thinking about relations between workers and servicemen in its latest issue and came up with an editorial based on an incident where some GI's tore a picket sign out of a picket's hands in Kansas City. Said Yank:

"But you can't disguise the fact that the AFL and CIO have outlawed strikes for the duration, that the few you read about are wildcat strikes. You can't ignore figures: in the first 109 days of the Normandy invasion we put ashore 17 million shiptons of Allied vehicles and supplies, more than twice the total received by Gen. Pershing through friendly ports in the entire 19 months of our participation in the first world war. Who do you think made that stuff—pixies?

"No one is condoning strikes in wartime. There shouldn't even be the few there are. But the kind of action that took place at Kansas City is loaded with trouble. It may be spontaneous.

"Or it may be instigated by unscrupulous people who would like to see a wild scramble between veterans and civilians for jobs after the war. It would seem though that this is not the way to get that 'national unity' that everyone talks about.

"There is a lot of discussion about those two words, but what they simply mean is that we are all part of the same country. We are winning the war by working together, and we will have to work together after the war if we want jobs and security.

"It is going to be tough enough reconverting to full civilian production without starting a fight among the men who will do the producing. And if you begin by setting veteran against civilian, you will end by setting Protestant against Catholic, Catholic against Jew, white against Negro—and you will wind up by having the very thing we are fighting the war to destroy."

Inside Dope On Texas U. Battle

Deep in the heart of Texas reaction and intolerance threaten the future academic standing of the University of Texas. A Board of Regents, appointed by Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, while he was Governor of Texas, and by Coke Stevenson, present governor, has ousted Dr. Homer P. Rainey, nationally known educator from the presidency of the University, which position he had held since 1939.

Dr. Rainey had charged the Board with 16 specific acts which he said were designed to destroy academic freedom at the University.

The controversy began in 1942 when the regents discharged three instructors who dared to advise a mass meeting of the falsity of statements made by sponsors of the meeting. The sin of the instructors was their public statement that the Wage-Hour Law did not prohibit a man from working more than 40 hours per week, and that many men did work far more than 40 hours.

A faculty committee, after investigation, exonerated the instructors of any conduct warranting discharge.

After ousting Dr. Rainey, without denying the truth of any of the 16 charges made, three members of the Board of Regents resigned. And three others said they would resign, but have not done so to date.

The Natl. Lawyers Guild in Texas, acting through its president, Arthur J. Mandell, Houston labor attorney, immediately wired the governor protesting the ouster, and urged acceptance of all tendered resignations from the Board of Regents.

Ky. CIO Renews No-Strike Pledge

ASHLAND, Ky., Nov. 11—Renewal of labor's no-strike pledge with no qualifications was approved by delegates to the sixth annual convention of the Kentucky State CIO Council held here last week-end.

Outside CIO speakers at the convention included Van A. Bittner, asst. to the president of the United Steelworkers; John Brophy, CIO director of Industrial Union Councils, and Adolph Germer, Natl. CIO representative.

Mayor Clyde R. Levi of Ashland also addressed the delegates.

Council Pres. Al Whitehouse was re-elected by acclamation, and Fred Foss was chosen secretary-treasurer. The 10 vice-presidents elected were:

Arthur Bishop, Arthur Warren and Henry Beatty, all from the United Steelworkers; Frank Bruno, Marine & Shipbuilding Workers; Lillian Yadon, Textile Workers; Melvin Boss, Auto Workers; Emma Sauer, Amal. Clothing Workers; Lucy Jarvis, Rubber Workers; Harold Burney, Oil Workers; and Walter Johnson, Electrical Workers.

Hits Blast Against Hillman

CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey in a letter to William N. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific Railroad, asks why he in a recent speech singled out Sidney Hillman, CIO Political Action Committee chairman, "as a target for your prejudice against foreigners?" Hillman, a native of Lithuania, is a naturalized citizen.

In the speech to the San Francisco Executives' Conference on Public Relations, Jeffers said:

"I believe in unions directed by Americans. I do not believe in PAC, I do not believe in Sidney Hillman, and I do not believe in his kind of people."

Jobs for All Seen By Carey As Best Crime Preventive

Full employment will prevent a crime wave such as followed the last war, CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey told the American Prison Association at a recent meeting in New York City.

Carey, who was the first labor leader ever to address the association, stressed the twin-theme that poverty breeds crime and that the CIO has declared war on poverty in America.

Because the CIO believes that boys and girls should have healthy minds as well as bodies, Carey said, his organization has consistently supported Federal aid to education. For the purpose of safeguarding our children, the CIO has also backed the Lanham Act to provide funds for child care, he pointed out.

The speaker declared that good as these measures are to prevent child delinquency, they do nothing about unemployment which breeds poverty, which in turn makes crime attractive.

While there is little unemployment because of the boom of war industries, there is danger of a repetition of the dark days of the '30's when the veterans return. Millions of them, he declared, have no jobs to return to, inasmuch as they were not employed when they went to war.

It is because of its realization of the gravity of this problem that the CIO has been taking steps to meet it, he asserted. Carey said that because of the danger of race riots the CIO has been in the forefront of the battle against race discrimination.

The CIO leader warned that returning veterans dissatisfied with the economic chaos formed the backbone of fascism in Germany.

He said that he recalled such historical facts "to remind us all of the tasks which are ours now."

L. J. IMBER
COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber, Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE
METAL LITHOGRAPHED
BUTTONS

for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES

Recognized Union Labels
No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in
Light and Heavy Stamping - Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and Special Stampings - Tools and Dies
N. Y. Representative, Herbert R. Lerman, 37 E. 14th St., Algonquin 4-3356

L. J. IMBER COMPANY
1725-41 W. North Ave., Chicago 22, Illinois
BRUnswick 7815

Labor Angle on Roosevelt Sweep, State by State of the anti-New Deal "Constitutional Democrats," which were a part of the "Southern revolt" that fizzled here as in other Southern states.

(Continued From Page 7)

Rep. John Folger (D), running with labor support, defeated J. J. Ingle (R), who campaigned solely on an anti-CIO stand.

An earlier victory was the decision of Sen. Robert R. Reynolds (D) not to run for renomination, which he realized he couldn't get. Reynolds praised Hitler Germany after a visit in 1938 and ran a pro-fascist publication called the Vindicator. His record in the Senate was isolationist and anti-New Deal, anti-labor.

NORTH DAKOTA

Outstanding victory here was the defeat of appeaser Gerald P. Nye in the Senate, who was opposed by CIO and endorsed by Pres. William Green of the AFL.

Rep. Usher Burdick, who had local labor support in trying for the Republican nomination against Nye, lost out in the race for Representative-at-Large. Burdick was one of the very few Republicans in the House who voted on the side of labor and of the war effort.

OHIO

Sharpest contest here was for Sen. Taft's (R) seat. William E. Pickrel, who ran against him with CIO support, came within 20,000 of winning—two and a half votes per precinct would have elected him.

Cleveland's Mayor Frank J. Lausche won the governorship with a large majority. CIO activity backed him, helped give him a 107,000 lead.

Eight CIO-PAC backed candidates won seats in the House of Representatives. These were: Michael J. Kirwan (D); W. R. Thom (D); Michael Sheehan (D); Robt. Crawford (D); Edw. J. Gardner (D); Ross Michener (D); Frances P. Bolton (R); George Bender (R), Representative-at-Large. Previously there were only three Democrats in Congress from Ohio.

A number of CIO-backed Democrats were elected to the Legislature, but control remains with a Republican majority.

Ohio was one of the "sure" states for Dewey in all the newspapers. Dewey won by only 18,000, out of more than 3,000,000 votes cast. The narrow squeak that put Taft back in was due to CIO-PAC activity against him, as he recognized early in the campaign when he tried to stop publication of CIO pamphlets and CIO broadcasts.

OKLAHOMA

CIO-backed Sen. Elmer Thomas won over considerable opposition by a Republican named Otjen who campaigned on an anti-labor line. CIO-PAC supported all six of the Democratic Congressmen elected. Rep. Walt Disney, author of the resolution that killed FDR's $25,000 net salary limitation, was defeated.

OREGON

Major victory for a CIO-endorsed candidate here was the election of Wayne Morse (R) to the Senate. Morse was backed by CIO in his primary race last summer.

Other Congressional candidates, all Republicans, were opposed by CIO. CIO opposition to a sales tax amendment helped materially in defeating it by three to one. The Oregon State Legislature remains Republican.

PENNSYLVANIA

Defeat of "Puddler Jim" Davis for the Senate by Francis J. Myers, who ran with CIO support, was seen assured in a close vote as The CIO NEWS went to press. Pennsylvania's service ballots, which will undoubtedly go for the CIO candidate, will not be finally counted until Nov. 22.

Myers campaigned against Davis' isolationist record, showing once more that the voters are determined to put a pro-United Nations Senate in office to ensure a permanent peace.

Many reactionary Republican Congressmen were defeated by CIO-backed Democrats. In Philadelphia, all six Republicans were defeated. CIO-backed winners were: Wm. Barrett, Wm. Granahan, Michael Bradley, John Sheridan, Wm. Green, Jr., Herbert McGlinchey.

In Chester, James Wolfenden (R) was holding a narrow lead against Vernon O'Rourke (D), with the soldier vote uncounted. In the 11th District, Daniel Flood (D) was leading Thomas Miller (R). In the 13th, Daniel Hoch (D) defeated Randolph Stauffer (R) and Raymond Hofses (Soc). In the 20th, Rep. Francis Walter was in, as was Rep. Herman Eberharter (D) in the 32nd. Eberharter is the one liberal member of the Dies Committee, has consistently protested its un-American methods. He is also one of two incumbent Dies Committee members to hold his seat.

The State Legislature remains Republican, though by a reduced majority.

The GOP campaign in Pennsylvania was distinguished by some of the lowest depths yet reached in anti-Semitism, anti-laborism and general racial and class hatred incitement. Despite this, despite a somewhat moribund Democratic apparatus, and despite a well-oiled GOP machine in charge of the state, the voters gave FDR a majority. John L. Lewis had little effect on the rank and file of the coal diggers, who went for FDR.

One serious loss was the defeat of Rep. Thomas Scanlon (D), best known for his work on cost of living problems in Congress, where he was chairman of the Congressional Committee to Protect the Consumer.

RHODE ISLAND

United CIO, AFL and other labor political action put Rhode Island in the FDR column with its biggest Democratic vote in history, while the Republican vote from the rural areas and small towns fell behind.

CIO backed both Congressmen, Reps. John Fogarty (D) and Aime Forand (D).

SOUTH CAROLINA

As in many Southern states, the biggest gain here was made in the primaries, when Sen. Ellison ("Cotton Ed") Smith was finally defeated after nearly 40 years of reactionary work in the Senate. Sen. Smith's defeat removed him as chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, one of the key units in Congress.

CIO generally supported the Democratic ticket in South Carolina, which was successful.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Both Republican candidates for Congress were elected. CIO made no endorsements in this state.

TENNESSEE

CIO supported Rep. Estes Kefauver (D), who was re-elected. All other Congressional seats were filled by Democrats.

TEXAS

CIO activity here was largely in getting out the vote and in fighting the so-called "regular Democrats," who were FDR haters trying to switch the electoral vote of the state from FDR despite the desires of the voters.

Again, as in other Southern states, labor won a big victory before the election when Rep. Dies, the unAmerican expert, decided not to run for renomination. Defeated at the primaries was Rep. Kleberg, enemy of price control and agent for the cattlemen. Rep. Nat Patton, another anti-New Dealer, was also retired in the primaries.

CIO was also very active in urging voters to pay their poll tax, though CIO opposes the poll tax itself, and was successful in securing the largest registration in recent Texas history. CIO-PAC put on a number of radio broadcasts, and was successful in several state contests.

UTAH

CIO support helped put Sen. Elbert Thomas (D) back in the Senate in a close fight. Thomas, as head of the Senate Labor and Education Committee, was a consistent supporter of progressive measures and an opponent of restrictive bills aimed at labor. He has also been a strong supporter of FDR's foreign policy.

With the defeat of Sen. Robert Reynolds (D. NC) Thomas is expected to take Reynolds' place as chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee. Sen. Arthur Murray (D. Mont.) is expected to take the Labor Committee post.

Both Democratic Congressmen, Reps. Walter Granger and J. W. Robinson, were supported by CIO-PAC, as was Governor Maw.

VERMONT

Such showing as FDR made in this state was due to CIO-PAC activity in the cities. CIO and labor supported Sen. George Aiken (R), who led Dewey by 9,000 votes.

VIRGINIA

National news was made by the fight against Rep. Howard Smith of Alexandria, who was opposed by CIO backed Mrs. Murray. Smith won, but only after a stiff campaign.

One new Congressman, Ralph Daughton (D) of Norfolk, was elected with CIO support. CIO-PAC was active in getting out a large vote. One city, Richmond, went for FDR by 72 per cent—largest vote in its history.

WASHINGTON

CIO-PAC support helped put all its candidates into office, including Sen. Mon C. Wallgren (D) who was elected to the governorship over incumbent Arthur B. Langlie. Langlie was endorsed by state AFL leaders, who were repudiated by the AFL rank and file.

Two new Congressmen were elected with CIO support, Hugh de Lacy, member of the AFL Machinists and Charles Savage, member of the CIO Intl. Woodworkers, both Democrats.

CIO-PAC endorsed two successful incumbents in the House, Reps. John M. Coffee (D) and Henry Jackson (D), both FDR supporters. CIO support also helped elect Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D) to the Senate over his GOP rival Harry Cain.

CIO-PAC helped give Gov. Wallgren a comfortable majority in both state houses.

WEST VIRGINIA

CIO political activity helped give this state to FDR by around 70,000 majority.

CIO supported Congressmen were E. B. Pennybacker (D); Cleveland M. Bailey; E. H. Hedrick; John Kee and Matthew Neely. Final returns were awaited as The CIO NEWS went to press.

Despite John L. Lewis, every coal county in the state voted heavily for FDR.

WISCONSIN

CIO endorsed Andrew J. Biemiller (D) won a House seat, defeating the "Ham Fish" of Wisconsin, Lewis Thill (R) who tried to regain the seat he lost to Howard McMurray in 1942.

CIO county organizations backed Thad Wasieleswski (D) in Milwaukee, who won, as did District Attorney Wm. McCanuley, also supported by CIO in the county.

Several state Assembly seats were won by CIO backed candidates, including the first Negro to be elected in 100 years, Leroy Simmons, a member of an AFL union. Three members of UAW-CIO Local 248 also won Assembly seats; Charles Fischer; Alfred Swendson and Michael O'Connell, incumbent. All are Democrats.

WYOMING

The CIO backed Congressional candidate (Wyoming has one Congressman), Charles E. Norris, lost by a small margin.

HELEN GAHAGAN DOUGLAS, one of the 5 CIO-backed women candidates elected to House of Representatives, from California.

CIO Man May Win Congress Seat

The president of a CIO United Steelworkers local may be elected to Congress! He is Sam Neff, Local 1220, Elwood City, Pa.

In an unofficial tabulation of votes, he was trailing his opponent by 15,744 to 16,768, with 5,000 soldier votes to be heard from yet in Pennsylvania's 25th Congressional District. The GI ballots will be counted Nov. 22.

Auxiliaries To Hear Reports on Election

By ELEANOR FOWLER

Secretary-Treasurer, CIO Womens Auxiliaries

CIO Auxiliaries will celebrate the reelection of President Roosevelt at their Fourth Annual Conference in Chicago. Nell Proctor will be there from Los Aneles to tell about the splendid help the auxiliary women gave in the California campaign. Vera Ford is planning to come from Port Arthur, Texas, where she has been secretary of the Citizens Progressive League, the organization which united all labor and progressive forces in Dies' bailiwick behind the President.

Pearl Palmer from Utah will report the fine job the women did there—especially on reaching families. Carrie Spott of Hopkins, Minn., will tell how her auxiliary got Hopkins residents 100 per cent registered and 100 per cent voted.

We'll hear from Verna Bell of Indianapolis how Negro women in the Transport Service Auxiliary helped to mobilize the votes of our Negro brothers and sisters to reelect our Commander-in-Chief. Irene Miatico and Doris Smorodin will report the all-out job Shipyard Auxiliary No. 1 did in Camden, N. J.

And that's just seven of the hundred or so delegates who will be there.

REASONS TO BE THANKFUL

We'll be proud and we'll be thankful. Sometimes during the campaign we stopped to think what would happen if President Roosevelt should be defeated. We saw war and breadlines, unions weakened, people starving, hatreds rising, and we were frightened for our families, for our boys overseas.

Now we've laid the basis to go ahead, to speed the Victory and to build a new world after the war with lasting peace, with jobs and security.

The delegates to the Fourth Annual Auxiliary Conference will do more than enjoy the memory of an all-important job well done. They realize that, sincerely as President Roosevelt wants to see our country achieve those goals, he can't do the job alone. He's got to have Congress with him. He's got to have the outspoken support of the American people and more particularly of American women.

This war, alas, is far from over. Perhaps Hitler will be crushed by spring—we all devoutly hope so. It looks like a long pull against Japan. Eleven million of our boys aren't around to check up on their representatives in Washington and won't be here for some time. It's up to us to do that job for them just as many of us had to vote for them It's up to us to keep track of what is happening in Congress, to keep the letters flowing in to let our Congressmen and Senators know what we want done.

RESPONSIBILITY CONTINUES

We women must take to heart what the President said in his speech election eve. "When the ballots are cast, your responsibilities do not cease. The public servants you elect cannot fulfill their trust unless you, the people, watch and advise them, raise your voices in protest when you believe your public servants to be wrong, back them up when you believe them to be right."

One big part of the work of the Chicago CIO auxiliary conference will be to plan how we can get all the women we're in touch with to join us in doing that job.

Packinghouse Victory

New York, Nov. 11—Production and maintenance workers of Wilson & Co., Inc., voted recently for the CIO Packinghouse Workers, which received 258 out of the 443 votes cast.

Workers Education

A workers' library in the union office of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, Chicago.

Peoples Center All For New Ways of Teaching

The People's Education Assn., an independent, non-profit organization on the West Coast, has achieved a reputation and a success during its short life which has led it to dream of "new and exciting ways" to advance the whole cause of adult and workers' educations.

Formed in July 1943, the Association now has 44 affiliated organizations, the large part of them CIO and AFL unions, and a total membership of 243,000. It has established People's Educational Centers in downtown Los Angeles, San Pedro, and Hollywood, Calif., where classes in labor studies, creative writing, social sciences, labor journalism and many other subjects are held.

Union members who would like to learn how to edit and write for labor newspapers, or those interested in learning to write for the radio, screen or stage, can find such instruction on the extensive list of subjects given in the fall term catalog.

Methods of teaching, the Association states, "have been based on principles of free, open inquiry and full discussion conducted by a staff drawn from leaders in the field of education, labor, government, the arts, religious and civic endeavor."

A scientific and social understanding of the American tradition, labor, economics and world history is stressed.

Referring to prospects of developing new methods of instruction through full use of the screen, radio, animated cartoon, the Association states that it "could find new and exciting ways to use these magnificent educational means to extend its scope and influence, and, in the process, advance the whole cause of learning."

A radio extension school is already planned, and other projects the Association has in mind include a children's theater, traveling libraries and exhibits, film service, and a speaker's bureau.

Headquarters of the People's Educational Assn. is at 524 South Spring St., Los Angeles 13. William Wolff is executive secretary.

FE Union Wide-Awake On Education Needs

An educational program representative of the wide-awake interest shown by progressive unions not only in the intellectual advancement of their own members and leaders but also in the public schools to which their children go, was set up at the recent national convention of the CIO Farm Equipment Workers in South Bend, Ind.

In authorizing the formation of an Education Committee to keep members of the union informed on issues "that concern them as parents and citizens," a resolution on organized labor and the free public schools passed by the convention, calls attention to the fact that more than a million young people between the ages of 14 and 17 have left school to go to work during the last few years.

For the most part they are employed in dead-end jobs "which together with the lack of general and technical education will have a blighting effect on their future both as well informed citizens and well trained workers," the resolution points out, in endorsing the Natl. Go-to-School campaign initiated by the U. S. Office of Education.

If union men and women are to take their rightful place in the postwar world. "Labor must have a say in the affairs of the nation and the world," states another resolution on Education passed at the convention, which instructed the Intl. Union to expand its educational program by inducting classes in every district and making them available to as many locals as possible.

It also called for an annual session of the union's Natl. Training School which has already helped to train 40 students selected by 24 locals.

Women have made good on jobs in U. S. shipyards, the Dept. of Labor said last week, commending the 17,500 women wage earners in the industry on their role in America's phenomenal wartime ship production.

Labor and the Movies

Canadian Unions Have Own Film Circuit

By HOLLACE RANSDELL

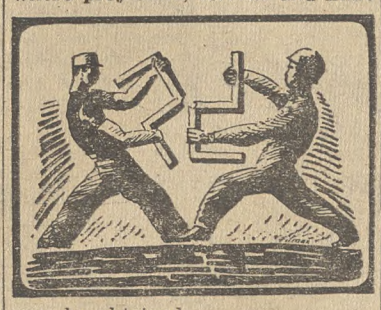
From Canada comes information about a Natl. Trade Union Film Circuit which will be of interest to union educational directors and union leaders in this country who are looking for ways to enliven meetings and stimulate rank and file discussion.

Films For Unions

Inside the gay orange-colored cover of the latest pamphlet to be issued by the Natl. CIO Dept. of Research & Education is a lot of information on films which will be of value to unions interested in showing movies at meetings and other affairs.

The new pamphlet, "Union Hall Films," contains an extensive and selected list of 16-mm. sound films grouped under 10 subjects: Labor History & Problems; Industrial Front; Home Front; Farm Front; Fighting Front; Background & History of the War Anti-Fascism; Reconstruction and the Postwar World; Education; and Health & Nutrition.

Also included are brief instructions on how to operate a projector, together with information about where projectors, screens and films may be obtained.



Union Hall Films, issued by CIO Dept. of Research & Education, 718 Jackson Place, Washington 6, D. C.; 10c a copy.

Along with the films dramatizing subjects of vital concern to workers, are sent discussion trailers, planned to aid discussion after the showing of the motion picture.

Specially selected film programs are released monthly from September through May, and projection facilities are supplied free of charge to Canadian unions requesting them. Included with the films and discussion trailers are discussion leaflets and other material.

The Natl. Trade Union Film Circuit is sponsored jointly by the Canadian Congress of Labor, to which CIO unions in Canada are affiliated; the Natl. War Film Board; the Trades & Labor Congress of Canada and the Workers Educational Assn. The WEA arranges for the showings.

PROJECT POPULAR

"It is with an awareness of the motion picture's effectiveness as a medium of instruction and information that the labor movement across Canada has taken so eagerly to films—this through the project of the Trade Union Circuits," states the Natl. Film Board of Ottawa, in announcing the fall program.

"With the showing each month, unionists are finding an opportunity to investigate subjects of particular interest to them as Canadians, as members of society, as labor people. During the past season, 45,000 of them took advantage of this opportunity each month."

A similar project for circulating films to unions in the United States would undoubtedly receive hearty support. Many suggestions and plans for promotion of film distribution to labor groups have been discussed at various times especially by those interested in workers' education, and it is hoped that before too long something may come of them.

UAW PIONEERS

The CIO's largest union, the United Auto Workers, already has a Film Dept. for distribution of motion pictures to its own locals, and other CIO unions in their educational work, are making increasing use of motion pictures obtained from government and private film distributors.

To aid these groups, the Natl. CIO Dept. of Research & Education has compiled a pamphlet, described elsewhere on this page, which lists a number of films suitable for union showings and tells where they may be secured.

Shows Labor's Part In Birth of B-29

A new motion picture showing the development of the B-29 Superfortress is now available for showing to labor organizations throughout the country, the War Dept. announces.

The 20-minute film, entitled "Birth of the B-29," shows how construction of the Superfortresses was started, how thousands of workers played a vital role in keeping the secret of the B-29 as it was being developed, and how these huge new bombers will help crush Japan.

The film was produced by the War Dept. especially for showing to men and women engaged in war production and pays high tribute to the ingenuity and hard work of those who helped develop this great plane.

Prints may be obtained from the Motion Picture Branch, Industrial Services Division, War Dept., Room 1315, 1501 Broadway, New York 18, N. Y.

Advice On Training Politicians

If the American politician is too often a slick guy who will promise anything to get a vote, it is partly our own fault, says Kermit Eby, asst. director of the CIO Dept. of Research & Education, in the fall issue of the Antioch Review.

"Political leadership," he writes in an article on "Politics for the Intellectual," is too often "left to the job holders, to the persons on the spot. . . . To the average thin-skinned intellectual politicians are crooks, busily engaged in corrupting the American people. This is not so. It has been my experience that we people corrupt the politicians.

"We want traffic laws enforced but we also want our own tickets fixed. We want an efficient police force and an honest civil service system but we also want to be sure that our own sons and cousins get jobs. We want a school system second to none and we also want a faculty staffed by our relatives."

Eby believes that teachers should teach their pupils to become politicians, to join a political organization and to take an active part in election campaigns. He thinks that political action is "a year-round job."

"There is a lot of hard, unromantic work in keeping the democratic process going," Eby concludes. "It is easy to get a blueprint for Utopia; very easy to get a crowd out to meet the candidate. . . . It is much more difficult to get help to stuff envelopes and crank mimeographs."

An experimental program in workers' education is now under way in various communities in Michigan under the extension service of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, announces Arthur Elder, newly appointed coordinator of the University's Workers Educational Service.

Requests for discussion groups so far, he reports, have involved such topics as postwar employment, current economic problems, workmen's compensation, social security and veterans' aid.

Barney Hopkins, sec-treas. of the Michigan CIO Council is a member of the advisory committee of the Educational Service.

War Bond Films

Vivid war action and stories of the home front are shown in 11 special War Bond films are now available for distribution, the War Finance Division of the Treasury Dept. announces.

Five are exclusive Navy Dept. productions for 16mm of 10 to 21 minutes running time, and six are War Dept. 2 minute trailers. They are aimed to boost the 6th War Loan Drive, Nov. 20-Dec. 16.

Prints may be obtained from State War Finance Committees, or if not available locally, write to the Bureau of Motion Pictures, Office of War Information, Washington 25, D. C.

Back the Sixth War Loan Drive!

Ships Named For Three Great Americans

Washington, Nov. 11 — Liberty ships now under construction will be named in honor of three great Americans who have died in recent months, the U. S. Maritime Commission announced this week.

The ships will bear the names of Wendell Willkie, 1940 Republican nominee who has won world renown in his efforts toward world peace; George W. Norris, former Senator from Nebraska, father of the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Rural Electrification Administration, and an active endorser of labor legislation; and Alfred E. Smith, four times governor of New York State.

(Continued from Last Week)

"Hereos in Dungarees" first appeared in Comic Cavalcade No. 8 and is reprinted with permission of its copyright owners, the Gainlee Publishing Co., 225 Lafayette St., N. Y. 12, N. Y.

LONG BEFORE PEARL HARBOR, THE MEN OF THE SEA KNEW THE SCORE IN THE FIGHT AGAINST THE AXIS...

MANY LONGSHOREMEN REFUSED TO LOAD SCRAP, AND MANY SEAMEN REFUSED TO SAIL IT TO JAPAN!

FREE THE CHINESE PEOPLE

WE WON'T LOAD SCRAP FOR CHINA'S MURDERERS

WE WON'T CARRY SCRAP FOR JAPANESE MILITARISTS

THEN CAME PEARL HARBOR...

FROM NOW ON, ALL AMERICANS HAVE ONLY ONE AIM....TO SMASH THE AXIS...NO STRIKES...IT'S OUR JOB TO DELIVER THE GOODS AND KEEP 'EM SAILING!

DAILY GLOBE DEC. 7 1941 JAP'S ATTACK

WHEN FREQUENT SINKINGS SHOWED THAT LIFE-SAVING GEAR DIDN'T WORK, SOME SHIP OWNERS STILL FELT THAT...

...THIS EQUIPMENT IS GOOD ENOUGH!

TORPEDOED SEAMEN SENT SWORN COMPLAINTS TO WASHINGTON AND FORCED MANY CHANGES...

"LIFE-BOATS RESTED IN THEIR CRADLES, INSTEAD OF BEING SWUNG OUT, READY FOR INSTANT LAUNCHING."

"THERE WAS NO BLACK-OUT, BECAUSE OF NO BLACKOUT LIGHTS!"

THE MAST OF THE LIFE-BOAT WAS ROTTEN AND COULDN'T BE USED!

"LIFE RAFTS BURNED WHEN THE WIND BLEW THEM INTO THE FLAMES!"

AS A RESULT, LIFE-BOAT DRILLS AND REGULAR INSPECTIONS OF EQUIPMENT ARE NOW MANDATORY....

THAT'S FINE, MEN. NOW LET'S SEE HOW FAST WE CAN WORK AWAY FROM THE SHIP!

4

ASHORE, THE SEAMEN OPENED THEIR OWN ADVANCED SCHOOL...

A VERY NEAT SPLICE, JACK!

WE'RE FIGHTING THIS WAR ACROSS ALL THE SEAS... AND ON EVERY OCEAN MERCHANT SEAMEN RISK THEIR LIVES TO DELIVER THE MEN AND THE GOODS!

GOODBYES ARE SAID WITH A SMILE....

BYE NOW... BE SEEING YOU!

BYE ED, DEAR... GOOD LUCK!

BUT THEN....

IF I ONLY KNEW WHERE HIS SHIP WAS GOING OR HOW LONG BEFORE I'D SEE HIM AGAIN!

OH, ED!

PLEASE DON'T CRY, MUMMY.... THEY HAVE TO KEEP IT A SECRET! DADDY TOLD ME SO!

BUT AMERICA NEEDS HER ED...TO MOVE SEVEN TONS OF SHIPPING FOR EACH SOLDIER WE LAND ABROAD....

GOOD LUCK, BOYS!

...AND TO MOVE TEN TONS A MONTH TO KEEP THAT SOLDIER SUPPLIED!

PART OF THE BATTLE WAS THE FAMOUS MURMANSK RUN.... TO RUSSIA.

I'LL BET YOU'RE ANOTHER CHUMP, HEADED FOR THE MURMANSK RUN...SKIP SHIP, OR YOU'LL NEVER SEE DRY LAND, AGAIN!

5

BUT TRUE SALTS DON'T SCARE....

IF YOU AIN'T MAN ENOUGH TO FIGHT NAZIS, YOU AIN'T MAN ENOUGH TO SCARE ME WITH THEM!

SOCK!

THROUGH ICY NORTHERN WATERS THE CONVOY CRAWLS....

WE MAY DUCK THE SUBS, BUT NAZI PLANES ARE HARDER TO SHAKE OFF!

WHEN THEY COME WITHIN RANGE, NAZI PLANES CONTINOUSLY POUNDS THE CONVOYS...

WHAT CHANCES THEY TAKE...IT'S CERTAIN DEATH!

ONE CONVOY LOST SEVEN SHIPS IN NINE MINUTES...

...BUT THIS IS HOW OUR SEAMEN FIGHT...

LOOK AT HIM! HE LAUNCHED THIS RAFT BY HIMSELF....PUSHED IT RIGHT THROUGH THE FLAMES...HE'S COVERED WITH BURNS, BUT STILL HE WON'T STOP....

WE'D ALL BE DEAD DUCKS WITHOUT ED....

MANY MERCHANT SEAMEN HAVE WON MEDALS FOR THEIR COOL DARING UNDER FIRE...

YOUR EXTRAORDINARY COURAGE AND DISREGARD FOR YOUR OWN SAFETY IN RESCUING YOUR SHIPMATES WILL BE AN ENDURING INSPIRATION TO SEAMEN EVERYWHERE!

6

"AMERICAN SEAMEN ARE HEROES...THOUSANDS HAVE DIED UNDER BOMBARDMENT AND TORPEDO ATTACK.... THEY AND THEIR ORGANIZATIONS, PARTICULARLY THE NATIONAL MARITIME UNION, HAVE ACQUITTED THEMSELVES WITH HONOR...THE APPECIATION OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE IS THEIR'S!" *

(*FROM THE U.S. SENATE REPORT ON WAR MOBILIZATION, 1943.)

PLEDGE TO OUR SHIPMATES WHO HAVE DIED IN THE STRUGGLE....
FOR FREEDOM AGAINST FASCISM

WE TAKE THIS SOLEMN OATH....."WE WILL CONTINUE YOUR STRUGGLE. WE WILL NEVER REST UNTIL THE CAUSE FOR WHICH YOU DIED HAS TRIUMPHED. WE WILL KEEP 'EM SAILING IN YOUR HALLOWED SPIRIT-THE SPIRIT OF FREE MEN WHO NEVER HAVE AND NEVER WILL BEND THE KNEE TO FASCIST SLAVERY"

FOURTH NATIONAL CONVENTION
NATIONAL MARITIME UNION, JULY, 1943

LAKES - DEEP SEA - INLAND WATERS

C.I.O.

N.M.U. of A.

"We keep 'em sailing!"

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 47 82 November 20, 1944

At CIO Parley

Murray Calls For Unity Of Intl. Labor

(Convention Report—Pages 2, 3, 4)

★ ★ ★

CIO Ranks Swelled by 650,000

(Page 2)

PAC Helps Democracy To Work

(Pages 6-9)

★ ★ ★

WLB Living Cost Report Draws Fire From Thomas

(See Page 5)

Murray Tells Convention:

CIO's Top Job—Help Beat Axis

★ ★ ★

650,000 New Members Added

THE main goal of the CIO has been and will continue to be "the quickest military defeat of our Axis enemies, the utter destruction of Nazism and avoiding any possibility of a negotiated peace," Pres. Murray writes in the introduction of his report to the CIO convention.

CIO, through organizing workers and building national unity, "has afforded the opportunity to the wage earners to participate in our nation's struggle," he says.

"Through our recent efforts in awakening the American people to the crucial issues involved in the political campaign of this year, we have performed a truly historic task.

"We have maintained our no-strike pledge. . . . History will record the remarkable self-discipline imposed by labor while maintaining its no-strike pledge in the face of any and all provocative acts.

"Until we have accomplished the complete and absolute destruction of the German and Japanese military forces there can be no question of our basic responsibility to the nation to continue intact our no-strike pledge."

Turning to the postwar period, Murray adds: "Cooperation between labor and industry is another essential for full production after this war. Only chaos and destruction of our industrial life will result if employers look to the war's end as an opportunity for a union-breaking, wage-cutting, open-shop drive, and if labor unions have to resort to widespread strikes to defend their very existence and the living standards of their members."

Labor realizes the need for world cooperation after the war, Murray says: "This war has taught us that America cannot and does not stand alone, isolated from the rest of the world. Our future peace and economic welfare depend upon intelligent international collaboration with the rest of the world."

HIGH spots in President Murray's report on the Organization Dept., headed by CIO Vice-Pres. Allan S. Haywood, are:

The CIO is today stronger than at any time in its history. Membership in the United States and Canada has increased by some 650,000 since the 1943 convention.

National and international unions and organizing committees now number 41. Local industrial unions, many of which are continually being absorbed by the national unions as they expand their activities throughout the country, now total 292.

Gains of CIO international unions listed in the report show a steady growth in activities and influence in all sections of the country. The CIO's biggest union, the United Automobile Workers with a monthly paid-up membership of more than a million, signed up some 300,000 new members in the year's period ending June 30, 1944, and now has 1,671 plants under contract.

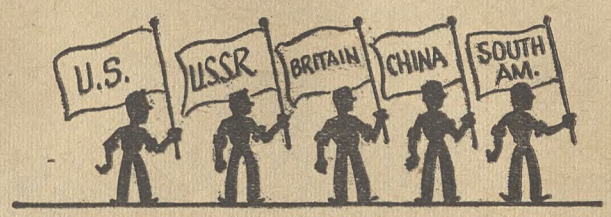
The United Steelworkers, with a total enrolled membership of 983,801, chartered 312 locals during the year. In June 1944 the Aluminum Workers of America merged with the steel union and an intensive drive in the entire aluminum industry is now under way.

A new Organizing Committee, the United Railroad Workers, was set up during the year to organize the shop crafts on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

FORMATION of a State CIO Council in New Hampshire this year has brought the number of state organizations to 36, states President Murray's report in the section on the Dept. of Industrial Union Councils, headed by John Brophy.

The part the Councils have played in cooperating closely with the CIO Political Action Committee is stressed in the report, which points out that in many parts of the country, the structure of the Councils was the principal machinery PAC relied upon to carry out its work on a local and state basis.

Contacts with state and city governments and with relief and other semi-governmental agencies have been increased, the report states, and the Councils have been urged to take an active part in community activities and groups.



UNITY of labor in the United Nations has provided the "fighting strength" to win the military war against the Axis, President Murray writes in his CIO report, and must be continued after victory to ensure peace and security against possible future aggression.

"The unshakeable unity of the United Nations during the war has been based, to a large degree, on the fighting strength furnished by labor," he writes.

"The great war leaders of the United Nations could map their political and military strategy for coalition warfare because of the united support they enjoyed among their own people.

"Similar and equally effective participation of labor in the building of the new world must be based on international labor collaboration."

Murray reviewed the problems that must be met by a world labor organization, as planned at the London meeting, now set for Jan. 8. He wrote:

"With the military defeat of Nazi Germany there arises the all-important question of how to guarantee to the people of the earth that every phase of Nazism shall be wiped from the face of the earth.

"The full and stern punishment of war criminals must be assured. It must be made clear to the German people that they shall atone for the crimes and horrors they have visited upon this earth.

"The experiences of the last war, wherein German industrialists and Junkers were granted amnesty through their business and social contacts in victorious nations to renew their drive for world conquest under Nazism must not be repeated."

International labor must see that cartels, used by German industrialists to lay the economic base for aggression, are curbed, Murray writes. This, he adds, can only be done by carrying out the policies laid down at Teheran, at Bretton Woods, at Dumbarton Oaks and other United Nations meetings.

THE CIO Veterans' Committee cooperated with the Legislative Dept. in urging the passage of the GI "Bill of Rights," which "was not as comprehensive as the CIO desired," President Murray's convention report indicates.

The committee consists of Clinton S. Golden, chairman; James B. Carey and J. Raymond Walsh.

Selective Service Administration's interpretation of Section 8 of the Selective Service Act is criticized.

Under this interpretation of the law "veterans who did not have jobs before they went to war, or who had 'temporary' positions, or who are no longer capable of performing their old jobs, or whose employers find it 'impossible or unreasonable' to rehire them, or who fail to apply for their old jobs within 40 days after discharge, or who have not honorable discharges—all these are completely unprotected," says the report.

"The CIO has recommended," the report continues, "that veterans be granted accrued seniority for all the time spent in the service. In this way the veteran is entitled to his job on the basis of cumulative seniority, including the period in service; but, on the other hand, is not entitled to take another person's job who has longer seniority."

CONTACT of CIO with fellow union members in Latin-America was maintained throughout the year covered by President Murray's report by the Committee on Latin American affairs, headed by Jacob S. Potofsky.

Growing fascism in Argentina has concerned the committee, which has given "full public support to the policy of Secretary Hull in withholding recognition from the present Argentine regime." It has also urged "positive aid to the labor and democratic forces of the Argentine people in their struggle for a free and democratic Argentina".

The committee accepted the invitation of Lombardo Toledano, head of the Latin-American Confederation of Labor (CTAL), in sending a fraternal CIO delegate to the CTAL conference in Montevideo in February.

In addition, the committee helped in the struggle for improvement of conditions of the workers of Puerto Rico, and in urging the U. S. to use its buying power in Latin America to secure guarantees of better treatment of workers there.

SHARP cutbacks in war production, particularly last May at the Brewster Aircraft plants, made CIO keenly aware of the need for government to plan adequately for reconversion of industry, President Murray's convention report indicates.

Appointment of a CIO Reconversion Committee was one of the outgrowths of a CIO Executive Board meeting which fully discussed the reconversion problem. The committee acts as an information center, serving national unions and dealing with government agencies. Its chairman is Ted F. Silvey.

In pointing out that planning has made the war production program successful, Murray's report says:

"Congress and government war agencies so far have refused to admit the same cooperative planning for reconversion and postwar prosperity. America must continue to use the War Production Board method of setting goals and cooperatively combining our intelligence and resources to achieve them."

Murray Tells Convention:

WLB Shirks Duty to Nation

★ ★ ★

NLRB Rules Threat to Unions

THE Natl. War Labor Board was taken strongly to task in the wage policy section of President Murray's convention report. "Though it is charged with the duty of addressing itself to the wage problem in relation to other economic factors, the board after a full year of encouraging the unions to submit their cases on the basis of voluminous records has refused to discharge its obligation," the report said.

Discussing the case of the CIO United Steelworkers, the report points out that the union consumed only six days during a 10-month period in presenting its case for a pay increase, a guaranteed annual wage, dismissal pay, sick leave, group insurance and other gains. The employers were responsible for the other nine months and 24 days, the report holds.

"This travesty that has been conducted by the board during the past 10 months is but a reflection of all the problems which the board has created as a result of its weakness, fears and lack of courage to meet its grave responsibility to the nation."

The report notes that the CIO has proved that wages have failed to keep pace with the cost of living, which has shot up approximately 45 per cent, and points to the need for increasing the substandard pay which is prevalent in many industries, particularly textile.

Murray points out that steel industry reports show employers are capable not only of meeting the pay demands of the union but also the request for a guaranteed annual wage that will help to assure "continued mass purchasing power, which is the key for any sound economy and increasing prosperity."

The USA's demand that the steel industry institute the principle of equal pay for similar work is "aimed at the elimination of the abominable wage bracket system and the vicious geographical differentials imposed by industry at a time when labor was too weak to resist such unjustified exploitation," the report states.

PROPOSALS of the Natl. Labor Relations Board during the last year threatened the existence of unions, President Murray states in the section of his report on the Legal department, headed by Lee Pressman, general CIO counsel.

It was proposed by the board that, upon termination of a contract, employers would be able to request elections on the ground that they question the majority status of contracting unions.

The change in the attitude of the board is attributed to Board Member Gerard Reilly. The report adds that "a continuation of the present attitude and policies of Reilly constitutes one of the most serious threats to the organization."

Repeal of Executive Order 9240 and of the Smith-Connally Act is called for in the report.

The report, after giving substantial reasons, calls for "a complete change in the policies, approach and attitude of the members of" the Nat'l. War Labor Board "or a change in personnel."

THE CIO Publicity Dept., under Len De Caux, publicity director, has promoted improved relations between labor and servicemen, has stimulated interest in labor political activity, and has made arrangements for CIO broadcasts over three major networks, President Murray's report states.

In January the CIO expects to go on the air with regular weekly programs over both the Columbia and Blue networks, and later in the year will start a similar program over the Natl. Broadcasting Co.'s network. The CIO News has also called attention to the possibilities for labor in FM broadcasting after the war.

As a result of CIO Executive Board action, a special committee was appointed to find means of counteracting anti-labor propaganda among the troops and took steps to see that the servicemen received a true picture of unions.

In line with these activities, the Publicity Dept.. has been issuing since last February a monthly Servicemen's Edition of The CIO News, a lively, eight-page, half-tabloid size paper, which has achieved a large circulation and considerable popularity among the troops, particularly overseas.

DISCRIMINATION against Negroes is a blot on our national honor, declares President Murray's report to the convention in urging all CIO unions to support the demand that the Fair Employment Practice Committee be made permanent.

At present the FEPC exists only by Executive Order and will die at the end of the war unless legislative action is taken. The FEPC's case load has greatly increased during the year. On Oct. 1 this year, it had more than 2,000 cases pending. Complaints are being received at the rate of 300 a month.

John Brophy is CIO representative on the FEPC. Malcolm Ross is chairman.

UNDER procedure worked out by the Natl. CIO Committee to abolish Racial Discrimination, in cooperation with the Industrial Union Council Dept., 85 state, county and city committees have been set up by CIO affiliates throughout the country.

The Natl. Committee seeks to maintain contacts with all government agencies to insure full minority participation and integration in their programs, states President Murray's report.

James Carey is chairman of this committee, Willard Townsend secretary, and George L-P Weaver director.

THE CIO Cost of Living Committee helped beat off two major assaults on price and rent control during the past year, but continued vigilance will be necessary to halt further moves against these regulations, President Murray states in his convention report.

The committee, joining with the Legislative Dept., helped the Administration in saving subsidies and in extending the price control law beyond June 30.

As part of the OPA Labor Policy Committee, the Cost of Living Committee works continuously upon the numerous price, rent control and rationing issues.

The committee joined with other groups to defeat a move to abolish circulation of ceiling price lists to consumers, and helped expand labor participation in plant transportation committees.

MANY obstacles are being thrown in the way of passage by Congress of legislation improving the Social Security Program, the President's report brings out in discussing the CIO's Committee on Social Security. Van A. Bittner is chairman of the Committee.

"An enormous amount of popular education is necessary throughout the country if adequate Social Security legislation is to be passed during the 79th Congress," states the report.

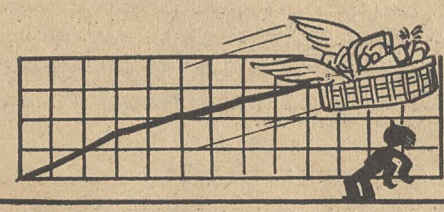
Debates in the Senate and House showed an "abysmal Congressional unawareness of the needs of the people on the issues involved and the callous disregard of some Senators and Representatives about these needs," declares the report.

"If America is to have an expanding economy in the postwar period," says the report, "Congress must hasten to pass adequate Social Security legislation to supplement a program for full employment."

THE CIO Health & Welfare Committee is compiling information on the work being done by CIO unions on health, safety and welfare, and offers assistance to unions in preparing contract provisions on such matters.

"The CIO, because of its interest in and knowledge of these problems and because of the activity of many of its international unions, is in a position to bring leadership to this field and set an example for all other groups," states President Murray's report.

James B. Carey is committee chairman, and George F. Addes, secretary.



THE CIO Women's Auxiliaries have given during the past year increasing, effective support to the CIO program, placing major emphasis on political action, President Murray says in his annual report.

Auxiliaries have made a real contribution to the CIO legislative program by participating in the CIO legislative committee in Washington, by testifying before House and Senate Committees, by sending delegations to the Capitol on the soldier vote and other issues, and by letters from the membership to Congressmen.

The women have also served on price panels and as price panel assistants and have in many communities checked compliance with price ceiling regulations.

Appointment of women to various governmental advisory committees shows the increasing recognition being given the auxiliaries.

THE CIO Maritime Committee has won important gains in wage equality and disability payments for seamen, President Murray's convention report indicates.

The committee's activities have also been slanted toward the postwar period, with a program which calls for full employment and full utilization of American merchant ships.

The committee is working on the "human side" of reconversion, seeking unemployment insurance for seamen, educational aid for young boys who have entered the industry, and hospitalization and benefit payments for dependents of 5,700 seamen lost during the war.

Murray Tells Convention:

Political Action Big Success

★ ★ ★

Keep Your Eyes on Congress!

THE re-election of FDR and the change for the better of Congress' complexion show that "the lesson of the need for united, non-partisan and organized political activity by all the people has been driven home," the political action section of President Murray's report points out.

This realization was aided by PAC's work in mobilizing not only workers but also "far-seeing elements in the professions, the arts and sciences and in business" as well as among farmers, for FDR and speedy victory in the war.

"It is now realized that the future security of the nation is a political question, to be decided by political means," Murray writes. "The common people do not propose to leave this all-important issue in the hands of individuals who care less for their country than for partisan advantage, as happened after World War I.

"They do not propose to let World War II be followed by World War III, and they intend to take action, political action, to see that this does not happen."

PAC's record in helping build unity around these issues "augurs well for future united action in support of the fundamental issues that will confront our nation," Murray writes.

"The political problems of the American people are not solved in one election campaign. World peace, full employment and security for all are still to be achieved. The goals we are striving for through political action are still to be reached."

THE new Congress has two main tasks to do in working out a tax program, President Murray writes in his annual report: 1) raising revenue to help in finishing off both Germany and Japan, and, 2) countering any crisis that may arise from the loss of jobs in the reconversion period after Germany's defeat.

This, rather than vague theories on postwar taxation, is what is needed to help keep the country going at full employment and full production both now and after victory, he says.

Current taxes on corporations and personal incomes above $5,000 a year must be continued, while the tax burden on low incomes must be lightened to increase purchasing power.

Exemptions on personal incomes should be set at $2,000 for a married couple, with credit for each child of $500. This would allow married couples a basic $3,000 a year of income—provided they receive that much—which is the minimum for health and decency worked out by the Heller Committee of the University of California.

In addition, the new tax bill should give individuals the same protection that corporations get in the "carry-back and "carry-forward" system that guarantees industry against any possible loss after the war.

THE National CIO War Relief Committee is playing an ever expanding role in the collection and administration of war and community funds throughout the nation, President Murray reports to the CIO convention.

The committee has taken the lead in assisting civic, veteran and governmental groups to develop referral and rehabilitation centers for war veterans and war workers, and has joined with the AFL in seeking $3,650,000 this year for aid to war sufferers abroad. During the past year this joint campaign raised $3,100,000 for these special overseas projects.

During the three years of the committee's life, representation on policy-making boards of social agencies has increased to 4,000 CIO men and women. In addition there is CIO representation in the Natl. War Fund, the American Red Cross, Community Chests and Councils, many allied war relief societies and similar groups.

The committee is headed by Irving Abramson.

LABOR'S voice in Congress became stronger and better organized, during the year, President Murray writes in the legislative section of his report, and even though the struggle has been necessarily a defensive one, CIO was able to block the more extreme reactionary proposals that came up.

"The composition of the 78th Congress presented a challenge to organized labor, in its desire to see legislation passed which would strengthen and unite the nation," Murray writes.

"Certain reactionary elements fought such measures every step of the way. The CIO through its legislative program met that challenge and held reaction in check."

Legislative action is the necessary basis for political action, Murray points out, and it is through legislative action that the workers see the need for political action.

Failure of the 78th Congress to carry out the President's stabilization program, direct sabotage of the tax bill by reactionary Republicans and polltax Democrats, failure and sabotage on reconversion, the vote steal directed against servicemen, and a dozen other examples of the need for political action to back up legislative action are cited in the report.

In warning of the need for greater legislative work during the next session, Murray points out that the incoming Congress will have to deal with the problem of world security in the peace settlement.

"The CIO must be alert to any threats against our country's full and complete participation and cooperation in such a world organization," he writes.

THE idea that military compulsion throughout civilian life is necessary for war production . . . is less popular today than ever before," asserts President Murray in the manpower section of his report.

"CIO has consistently," he points out, "called for attention to such causes of manpower difficulties as lack of housing, inadequate transportation, insufficient child care and other community facilities, and sub-standard terms and conditions of employment."

CIO representatives have served in positions where they could influence governmental decisions on manpower.

Clinton S. Golden, assistant to the president of the United Steelworkers, has served as vice chairman of the War Manpower Commission, and as vice chairman of the War Production Board. On the National Management-Labor Policy Commission, Michael Ross, Washington representative of CIO Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, acts as alternate of President Murray.

THE Government has drawn heavily in recent months upon the CIO for representatives in various agencies, states President Murray's report. The War Production Board, War Manpower Commission, War Labor Board and Office of Price Administration are the main war agencies in which CIO'ers are serving.

Clinton S. Golden, assistant to the president, United Steelworkers, was appointed vice chairman both of WPB and WMC. Among other CIO members serving on these four boards are:

WPB: Edward L. Gallagher, Carl Bersing, Harold Sharpe, Philip Clowes, Leonard Reece, William Spicher, Kenneth Douty and Arvid Sheets.

WMC: Darrell D. Smith.

WLB: UAW-CIO Pres. R. J. Thomas and Van A. Bittner, assistant to the president, USA-CIO, regular board members; Pres. Emil Rieve, Textile, and John Brophy, CIO Council director, alternates.

OPA: Sam Jacobs. OPA Labor Policy Committee members: Don Montgomery, John Edelman, Leo Goodman, Hoyt Haddock, Clifford McAvoy and John Thornton.

A planned housing program on a national basis is an imperative postwar necessity, President Murray's report to the convention declares.

The report takes a strong slap at the failure of Congress to provide adequate shelter for war workers, blaming the policy on a reactionary Congressional bloc and on the timidity of the Natl. Housing Agency.

"There has . . . been a complete lack of the sort of courageous leadership on the part of the NHA which might have helped greatly in a difficult legislative situation," the report declares.

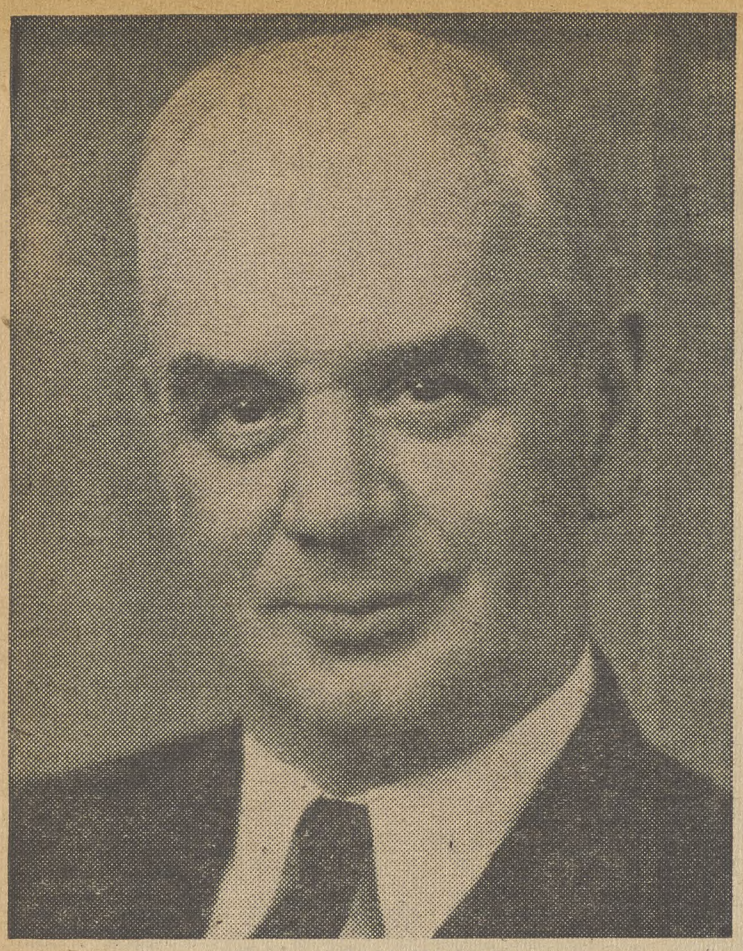
Major proposals of the CIO Committee on Housing, headed by CIO Vice-Pres. R. J. Thomas, include:

Extension of Lanham Act appropriations to provide better housing for war workers; resumption of the low-rent slum clearance program; and broadening of the U. S. Housing Act to extend operations of public housing authorities into the field of planning and land acquisition for purposes of fundamental urban reconversion.

DIGGING out facts to aid CIO in collective bargaining and in making its program clear to its members, the public and government agencies is the main job of the Dept. of Research & Education.

As stated in the President Murray's report, "Facts are tools that supplement labor's economic power and contribute to policy decisions. During the war, when labor has agreed not to use its most powerful weapon, the strike, the terms of union contracts have depended increasingly on statistics and arguments presented to the WLB."

More than two and a half million pamphlets in the "Facts for Action" series issued by the Department have been distributed during the year, and a mailing list has been built up of 60,000 teachers, ministers, priests, rabbis, social agencies, town and county newspapers and other molders of public opinion.



PRES. PHILIP MURRAY
To Preside at CIO Convention in Chicago

PRE-CONVENTION ACTION

Board OK's London Parley, Delegates

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—Confirmation of the decision to send three delegates to the preliminary World Labor Conference in London December 4 and discussion of critical war production needs marked the first day of a two-day pre-convention CIO Executive Board meeting here.

Commenting on the Dec. 4 conference which will precede the full United Nations labor meeting in January, President Murray said that the CIO delegates would seek establishment of a new world labor federation. He did not expect, he indicated, that the present Federation of Trade Unions would change its constitution to admit the CIO to membership, and that an entirely new world labor federation would be necessary.

The three CIO delegates who will leave late this month for the December meeting are R. J. Thomas, Sidney Hillman and Emil T. Rieve. They will be followed in January by President Murray, Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey, the nine CIO vice-presidents and CIO General Counsel Lee Pressman.

War production needs, particularly in heavy artillery ammunition, trucks, radar and armed transports, were outlined to the Board by WPB Chief J. A. Krug, who praised labor's role in stepping up production and asked for continued aid. Krug revealed that General Eisenhower was making strong appeals for increases, especially in heavy caliber shells.

At the same meeting, President Murray released his "CIO Re-employment Plan," which calls for jobs for all and a productive rate of some $200,000,000,000 a year. The plan has seven main points for immediate application after V-Day:

1. Modernizing and extending the U. S. transport system. With the building of 6,000 airports, primarily for private planes; rebuilding our run-down railroad system and wide extension and rebuilding of highways and other motor transport facilities.

2. A program of building at least 1,500,000 new homes a year for the next 10 years, with all needed facilities such as shopping centers, etc.

3. A vast extension of regional development plans along the lines of TVA.

4. Greatly increased foreign trade, worked out with the aid of machinery set up at Bretton Woods, Dumbarton Oaks and other United Nations conferences.

5. Adequate hospitals, medical care and the like for all our people.

6. Modernizing and improving our educational facilities, including new schools and improved wages for teachers.

7. Extension of social security along the lines of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill.

Basis of the new prosperity that will come to America from adoption of this plan, Murray said in the report, is guaranteeing union security and a high wage level for all workers.

WLB Living Cost Report Draws Fire From Thomas

Sharp criticisms of certain parts of a Natl. War Labor Board cost of living report, released for Sunday publication by the White House, were made this week by R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Auto Workers Union and a member of President Roosevelt's Cost of Living Committee.

The WLB report, submitted over the signature of Chairman William H. Davis, continued to uphold the discredited Bureau of Labor Statistics price index, despite the fact that the index has proved to be as phoney in estimating the increased cost of living as most of the pre-election polls were in predicting a possible Dewey victory.

Davis made a weak apology for BLS figures, pointing out that the index held the cost of living had risen 25.5 per cent from Jan., 1941, until Sept., 1944, and that a later and more comprehensive report by the Mitchell investigating committee showed the cost of living had risen only 29 to 30 per cent.

"We find it difficult," Thomas said, "to understand the fulsome praise which Mr. Davis accords to the BLS index. The 3.5 to 4.5 understatement by the index amounts to an error of from 14 to 18 per cent!

"If the Gallup Poll were guilty of an error of from 14 to 18 magnitude in predicting the outcome of the Presidential election, it would be completely discredited."

REAL RISE 45%

Thomas pointed out that he and CIO Pres. Philip Murray had found, as the result of extensive nation-wide investigation, that the cost of living has shot up 45 per cent.

Davis recommended that the Bureau of Labor Statistics be given more funds to enable it to do a more comprehensive job.

He admitted that BLS reports do not include families in small cities, where prices in many cases have risen faster than in metropolitan communities; that they do not include single individuals, nor families that have recently located in communities, despite the fact that these people frequently are forced to pay higher rent than families which have been long resident.

The families covered by the original BLS survey, on which all past studies have been based, were relatively "well off," Davis admitted.

"The rise in the cost of living for families in the very low income groups is certainly greater than the BLS figure would indicate," he declared.

Thomas pointed out that the CIO considers it necessary to consider changes in the manner of living in reporting cost of living increases.

"Workers' families have incurred a great variety of extra expenditures because of wartime conditions," he said. "In order to make their contribution to the war effort, many of them have had to move to war centers where, because of the congestion, prices have been abnormally high.

"In the case of many articles there has been a great deal of forced 'trading up'; because of the disappearance of the cheaper articles, workers have had to buy in higher price lines than formerly."

Pointing out that CIO is in agreement with many of the essential parts of the WLB report, Thomas criticized its failure to tie in the cost of living with the question of wage increases. Addressing his comments to President Roosevelt, Thomas said:

"Your request that a committee be established to study the cost of living must obviously be interpreted in the context of labor's request for modification of the Little Steel formula. Nevertheless . . . there is a studied avoidance of the central issue: the utility of the BLS index for the purpose of wage adjustments."

CIO Parley To Hear Mrs. FDR, Wallace

Headline speakers will be a big feature of the CIO Convention, opening Monday, Nov. 20, at the Stevens Hotel in Chicago. Included among the notables will be Vice-Pres. Henry A. Wallace, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Sec'y. of the Interior Harold Ickes and Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commanding general, Army Service Forces.

Sec.-Treas. Pat Conroy of the Canadian Congress of Labor will also address the annual meeting.

With CIO Pres. Philip Murray presiding, the parley will consider actions affecting not only the destiny of nearly six million members but the fate of the entire nation.

Important points for discussion will be: Revision of the Little Steel Formula, the future of CIO Political Action, the coming World Labor Congress, reconversion and other legislation, and compulsory military training.

Pres. Albert Towers of the Chicago CIO Council is slated to open the meeting, and Bishop Bernard J. Sheil will deliver the invocation. An Army show will be a feature of the parley.

PAPER WORKERS LOCAL 396 UNION MADE CIO ORGANIZING COMMITTEE
LET MILPRINT FURNISH YOUR CIO STATIONERY
WRITE FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES
MILPRINT, Inc.
431 WEST FLORIDA STREET
MILWAUKEE 1, WISCONSIN
Over 750 CIO Employees

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

UNION MADE BUTTONS
Celluloid or Litho-Metal
For—
Union Dues
Advertising
Campaigns
Badges - Emblems
CHARLES M. GERAGHTY
INCORPORATED
500 Sherman St. - Chicago, Ill.

CASH WHEN NEEDED MOST!

NOW $1 A MONTH PROVIDES
AMAZING NEW GOLD SEAL POLICY
Provides all-around protection, cash for almost every emergency! Issued by old-line LEGAL RESERVE company, yet actually costs less than $1 a month. Protection you need at a price you can afford!
Pays for ANY and ALL Accidents, ALL Common Sicknesses, as provided, even minor injuries. Disability benefits paid from first day. No waiting period. NO, this is NOT the usual "limited" policy. NO jokers. NO trick clauses. It's extra liberal!
Accumulated CASH BENEFITS for Accidental Loss of Life, Limb or Sight up to $6000.00
For ACCIDENT DISABILITY up to $100 a month for as long as 24 months, or $2400.00
For SICKNESS DISABILITY a regular monthly income up to $100.00 PER MO.
HOSPITAL EXPENSES for Sickness or Accident including room to over $650.00
NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION
Policy issued BY MAIL at big savings. Ages 15 to 69. Actual policy sent for 10 DAYS' FREE EXAMINATION. Write for it today. No cost! No obligation! No salesman will call. Use coupon below. Do it today—Provide for tomorrow!
FREE 10-Day Inspection Coupon
The SERVICE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
Service Life Bldg. Omaha 2, Nebr.
Without cost or obligation, send your GOLD SEAL $1-A-MONTH Policy for 10 DAYS' FREE INSPECTION.
Name
Address Age
City State
Beneficiary
444-A

SOLD EVERYWHERE

5c
EAT A BAG A DAY FOR MORE PEP
PLANTERS NUT & CHOCOLATE CO.

• PAC LEAFLET CREW in action, before Dayton, O., court house. The job these and other loyal workers did helped break all registration records in that city.

• BEST PUBLICITY of any political campaign was that PAC. Easy-to-read, well illustrated leaflets told the story

PAC MAKES DEMOC

Chalk up last Nov. 7 as a "Day for Democracy." Democracy means people voting. The more votes, the more democracy. One month ago wiseacre politicians predicted that the people of America wouldn't get to the polls. Only 40 million votes . . . and a Dewey victory . . . were what the wise boys saw.

They counted noses, but they didn't count on CIO Political Action. PAC registered the voters. PAC got out the vote. PAC did a job for democracy, for domestic progress, and for cooperation by the United States of America in building a peaceful world. The pictures on this page tell most of the story.

PAC distributed tons of literature that told the A-B-C's of politics.

PAC called meetings of rank and file leaders, shop stewards, union officers, forward-looking civic leaders, and politicians of both big parties when either side ran progress

ting the PAC
millions, until th friends vassing,
ple to re
And for PAC
the peop
at the p
It w tionism.
Semitism of simil
the Dew
The wanted
wanted
world fo
And when F

• A MOBILE REGISTRATION booth, in the sound truck, helped Californians to register. This scene was repeated many other places as labor trumpeted its message to the people.

• "WE WERE NEVER jammed like this before," said registration officials in Dayton, O., as the CIO-PAC swelled the march of the people to become eligible to vote.

• "IT'S EASY." That's what Bill Davy, of Cleveland, said about talking politics to Ed Pellow.

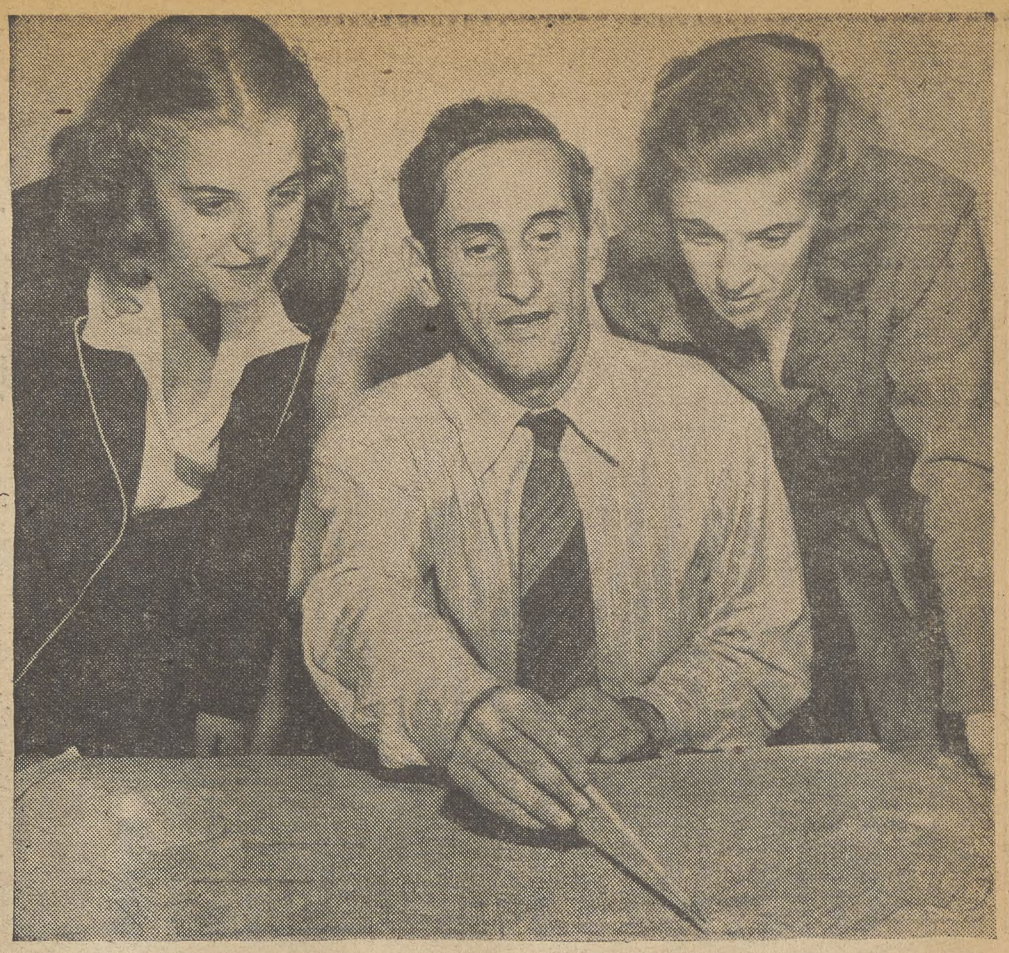
• S
On

out by get out the vote, and why the election was of such crucial importance how to to the American people. Above, a few samples.



• COLLEGE STUDENTS helped PAC. Laying plans with Barney Comal, NYC CIO Council, are, left, Miss Margot Hass and Mrs. Gertrude Kingdon Behrle.

RACY WORK

candidates, to talk about get-ple out to register and vote.
rkers passed out leaflets by the uted into sound truck "mikes" throats were sore, talked to neighbors in door-to-door can-ke at meetings, urging the peo-er, and vote.
work that PAC did was good, confidence in the people, and those millions who turned out knew what they wanted.
't breadlines. It wasn't isola- wasn't CIO-baiting, or anti- red-baiting or all the scores ppeals to prejudices made by ricker-GOP gang.
ple wanted progress. They rity. They wanted jobs. They ooperate with the rest of the ace in their time.
people got what they wanted, won.

• "PICKETING" FOR PROGRESS in Rock Island, Ill. This standard helped bring workers out to vote.

• ACTORS, teachers, intellectuals generally helped to swell the turn-out for FDR. Hazel Scott, movie and night club star, made her maiden speech for Roosevelt.

ICE VOTERS were helped by PAC. Mrs. Lucille Miller, secretary, Women's PAC, distributes applications for absentee ballots.

• ALL RACES help make democracy work. The Philadelphia Negro Victory Committee, cooperating with CIO-PAC, helped to get these folks out to register and vote.

NOV.
1976
WHAT DID WE DO IN THE GREAT 1944 CAMPAIGN ?
NOV. 1942
VOTE HERE
Z Z Z Z Z
1. WELL, SON, BACK IN '42 ONLY A FEW PEOPLE VOTED ME NEXT
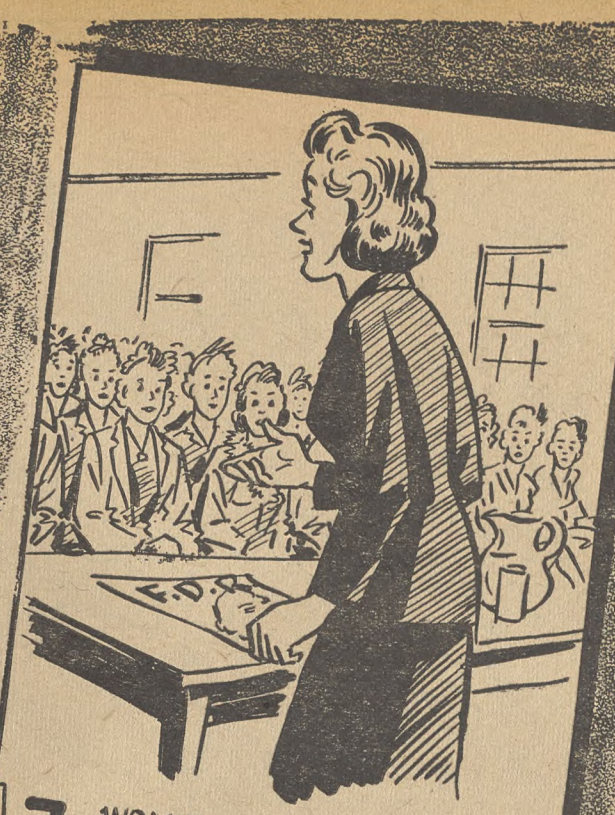
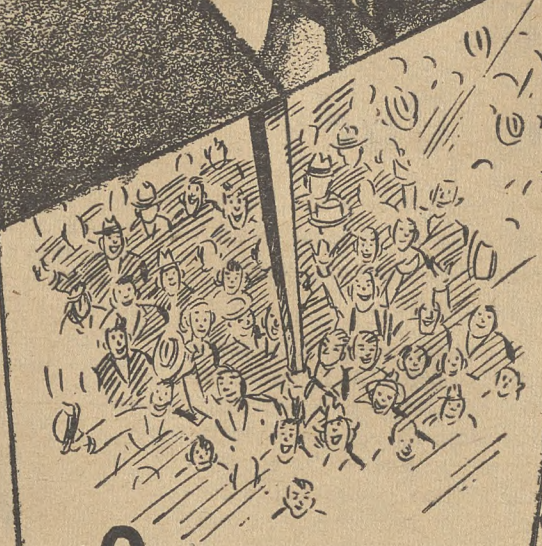
WIN-THE-WAR PROGRAM
2. SO WE GOT A VERY BAD CONGRESS
CIO PAC
3. THEN IN JULY '43 THE CIO STARTED POLITICAL ACTION
VOTE
4. ALL OVER THE UNITED STATES
5. POLITICAL ACTION WAS PEOPLE WHO WORKED

6. TO GET OTHER PEOPLE TO REGISTER AND VOTE



7. WOMEN LIKE YOUR GRANDMA DID A SPECIALLY GOOD JOB

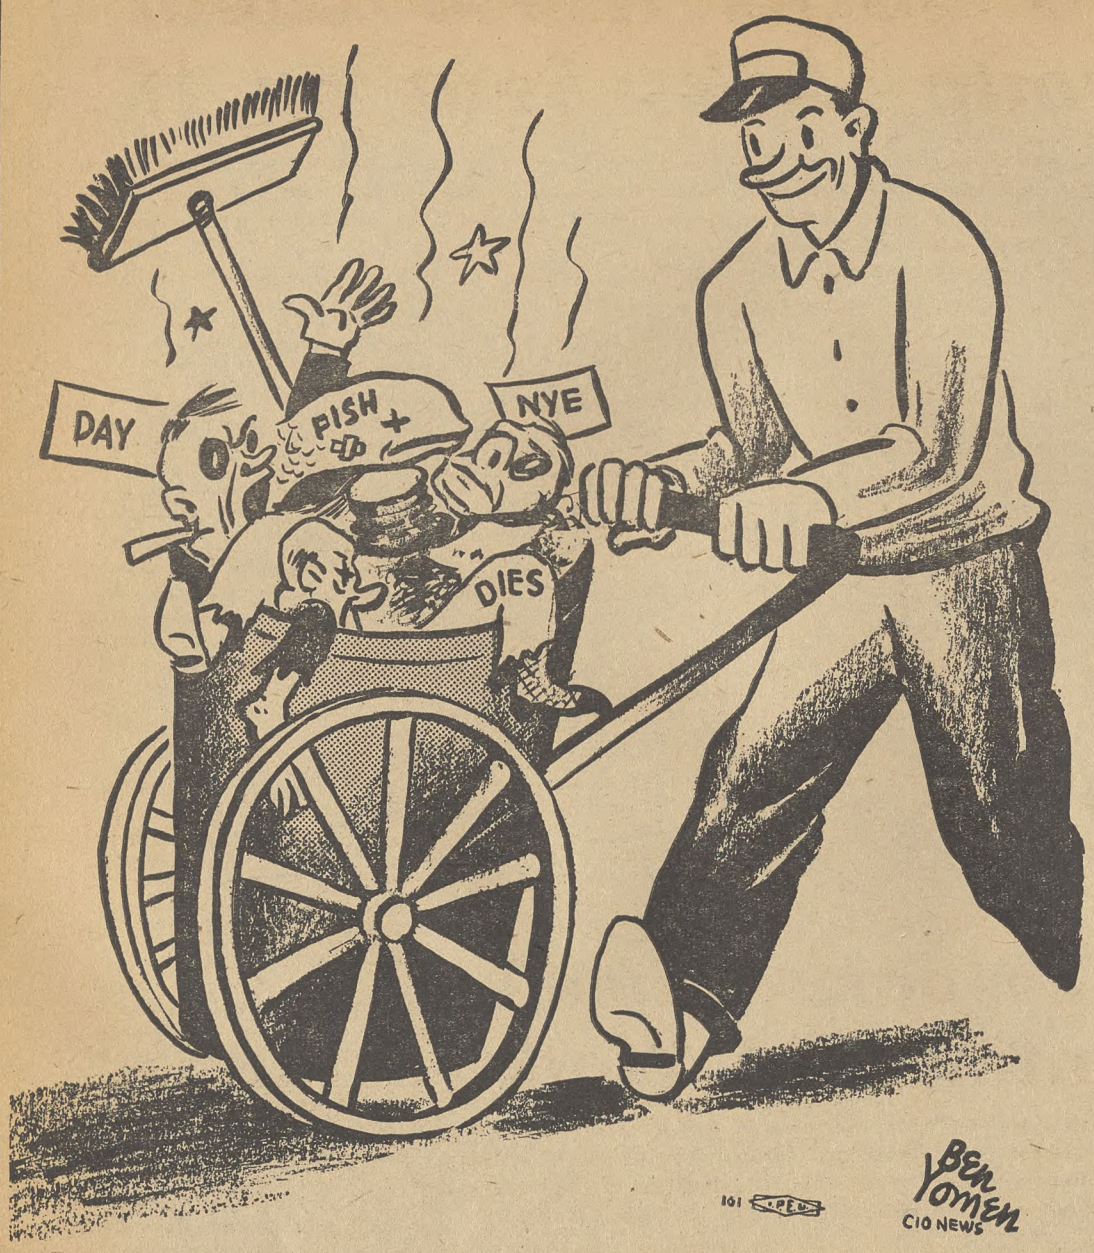
8. WE WERE WORKING NOT JUST FOR OURSELVES BUT FOR G1 JOE TOO



9. AND WE WON!

10. THERE WAS STILL LOTS LEFT TO DO

'PAC Can't Do This to Us!'



Good Grounds for Confidence

The CIO looks forward from its Chicago convention with confidence based on the solid record of achievement reported by Pres. Philip Murray.

The splendid success of CIO political action has captured most attention of late. But it is only one part of a much broader record of contribution to America's victory effort.

The CIO and its members have been on the job every day of the year boosting war production, fighting inflation and doing everything else in their power to strengthen the home front and the fighting fronts.

In so doing, the CIO has also served its members aggressively and well as wage-earners, as consumers and as citizens. Its unions have grown to record strength.

To meet the critical needs of the future, the CIO can rely on its powerful union organization, effective political activity and the clear-sighted and progressive planning of its outstanding leadership.

A Real World Labor Body

It is difficult to exaggerate the importance of the coming world labor congress in London.

If a real people's peace is to be won after this war, the wishes of the world's working people will have to be taken into account.

If the world organization of the United Nations is to be effective in preventing future wars and promoting world prosperity, the influence of labor in all countries must make itself felt in backing up such plans.

But how can world labor play its full part at the peace table and in the future world organization, if it does not first unite internationally in a really representative organization of its own?

The present International Federation of Trade Unions is not such an organization. It includes only one section of American labor, the AFL, to the exclusion of all others. It does not include the unions of the Soviet Union. In fact, it represents little more effectively than the British Trades Union Congress and the AFL.

That is why CIO Pres. Philip Murray calls upon the London conference to lay the groundwork for a real world labor organization, including all of labor in all the United Nations and the Latin American and liberated countries.

Murray sees an ominous warning, however, in the petty attitude of the AFL leadership which has so far opposed any international arrangement which does not give it exclusive American representation; and in the appeasement policy of the British Trades Union Congress, as evidenced by its refusal to send fraternal delegates to the CIO convention for fear of offending the AFL.

If such petty considerations of jurisdictional prestige are to be allowed to stand in the way of the unity of world labor, it is an ill omen indeed.

Let us hope that the overwhelming demand of working people the world over for united labor action to win the war and promote world peace and prosperity will sweep aside all such obstructions, and that the London conference will lay the basis for a world labor organization that really represents world labor.

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

HE made victory over fascism his first and foremost goal.

He worked hard, long and steadily, broke all production records, resisted all provocations to strike.

He backed up our fighting forces in every other way too, gave blood, money and spare time, demanded a square deal for our servicemen.

He was a good union man, brought in new members, worked through his union and the War Labor Board to bring wages up to living costs, so we might have a stable and productive war economy.

He fought against inflation, too, by supporting price control and trying to make it really effective.

He was a good citizen. He worked hard to get everyone to register and vote, to back up and re-elect our Commander-in-Chief and to return a progressive Victory Congress.

He was a forward-looking citizen. He realized America does not and cannot stand alone, in the war or after. He opposed isolationists and defeatists, supported the unity of the United Nations for victory and for lasting peace.

He looked ahead at home too. He realized war unity and planning must be carried over to postwar days, if we are to achieve national prosperity based on full production and jobs for all.

★ ★ ★

But who might "he" be (or it could just as well be "she")?

Not one individual, but millions and millions of them—the whole CIO, in fact.

The CIO is no abstraction. Its program and policies are not mere generalities. They are the individual worker, his activities, thoughts, hopes and wishes, multiplied by several millions.

President Murray, great leader as he is, can go no further than the membership he represents. His words and plans have power only insofar as they express the will of these millions.

Murray's report to the CIO convention therefore is much more than a personal document. It is a record of the activities of millions of working people, reflecting their thinking and expressing their hopes and plans for the future.

★ ★ ★

It is an outstanding record. The CIO and its members have kept the faith with America.

More than a million and a quarter of them have covered themselves with glory in the fighting forces.

Those who have remained at home have broken all records in war production and have observed their no-strike pledge with a minimum of exceptions.

The CIO has led the fight against the injustice of frozen wages and soaring living costs. But it has also fought against inflation and for a stable war economy.

The CIO unions have gained in membership and strength, adding 650,000 new members to their ranks in the past year.

★ ★ ★

A few years ago the CIO proved that America's great mass-production industries could be unionized, despite all the powers of corporate wealth, violence and company unionism.

This year, the CIO has proved that "it can be done" in politics too.

The sceptics said labor had never cut much ice in politics, that labor voters were apathetic and divided. But the CIO proved that with a progressive program, good organization and lots of energy, labor can become a leading and decisive factor in America's democratic political life.

The CIO membership rolled up its sleeves and put the same energy into political education and organization that it had put into organizing the unorganized.

In every industrial center the CIO was chiefly responsible for a record registration and a record voting turnout. These were the factors in the re-election of President Roosevelt, the defeat of scores of isolationists and labor-baiters, and the election of a more progressive Congress.

★ ★ ★

To the CIO convention, President Murray could report not only magnificent achievements in the war effort in organization and in political action, but also a record of clear-sighted and patriotic planning for the future.

CIO's plans are not narrow, selfish and short-sighted. They are based on the belief that labor's interests correspond with the interests of all the people, and America's interests with world interests.

That is why CIO works for real international labor organization to back up the world organization of the United Nations and their plans for expanding world trade and security against future aggression.

That is why the domestic program of the CIO calls for planned reconversion, looking toward full production and jobs for all, through the close cooperation of labor, industry, agriculture and government.

The CIO News
Published Weekly
Congress of Industrial Organizations
Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer
Vice-Presidents
Joseph Curran, John Green, Reid Robinson, S. H. Dalrymple, Allan S. Haywood, Frank Rosenblum, Albert Fitzgerald, Emil Rieve, R. J. Thomas
Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director
Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.
Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925
Vol. 7 November 20, 1944 No. 47

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

A. R. Hardesty, CIO Sub.-Reg. Dir., Dallas, Tex., reports: Mexia Cotton Mills, Mexia, Tex., Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, 146; no union 18.

Wm. B. Taylor, Dir., Oil Workers Organizing Committee, reports: J. S. Abercrombie Refining Co., production employes, OWIU-CIO 162; against 88.

Michael Livoda, CIO Sub.-Reg. Dir., Denver, Colo., reports: Ajax Ramapole Co., subsidiary of the Ajax Brake & Shoe Co., Pueblo, Colo., USA-CIO 30; no union 16. Election was supervised by Michael J. Soldren, USA-CIO representative.

Joe Dernoncourt, CIO Reg. Dir., Oklahoma City, Okla., reports: L. A. Young Mfg. Plant, Tulsa, Okla., USA-CIO 35; against 3. Organization work done by John Curry.

Ben Henry, CIO Reg. Dir., Des Moines, Ia., reports: Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America won an election in the Continental Overalls Company's plant in Oskaloosa, Ia.

Paul R. Christopher, CIO Reg. Dir., Knoxville, Tenn., reports: National Rose Spring & Mattress Co., Memphis, Tenn., United Furniture Workers of America, CIO, 100; against 54. UFWA Representative Walter Carson, assisted by CIO Field Representative Henry B. White, handled the organization work. Swift Refinery, Memphis, Tenn., UCAPAWA 77; AFL 7; neither 4. Joseph W. Hellinger and Jesse Harrison, business agent and organizer, respectively, for UCAPAWA Local 19, handled the campaign.

Virgil Burtz, CIO Field Rep., Seattle, Wash., reports: Office and Laboratory Workers of the American Smelting and Refining Co., who are affiliated with Local 25, Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers, signed a working agreement covering those workers.

Geo. Brown, Dir. of Orgn., IWA-CIO, reports: Peterman Mfg. Co., Tillamook, Ore., IWA-CIO 20; AFL 12. Bonifas Mill, Marinisco, Mich., CIO 55; AFL 34. Forcia Larson Logging Co., IWA 46; no union 31. McFarland-Brown, Sand Point, Ia., IWA-CIO 26; no union 24.

UCAPAWA won an election at Port Gibson, Miss., CIO 59; against 3.

Sam Sponseller, CIO Reg. Dir., Cleveland, Ohio, reports: National Screw & Mfg. Co., Cleveland, UAW-CIO 1,273; against 503.

Sees West As Racial Frontier

The diverse racial groups on the Pacific Coast will make that section the "racial frontier" of the country in the post-war period, Carey McWilliams, former California Commissioner of Housing and Immigration said at a press conference in Washington this week.

The conference was called by the Natl. Comm. to Abolish the Poll Tax.

The influx of Negroes, which has raised their numbers to 250,000, and of Mexicans from the Southern States since 1940, will create many racial problems, he said. Any beliefs that the bulk of the migrants will move out after the war boom are illusionary, he declared.

McWilliams said that the West Coast is prepared to fight the South's polltax laws if Congress ignores legislation the West considers essential for its economic survival in the post-war years.

"The West Coast States feel that the Southern States, using the polltax as a means of depriving thousands of voters of the right to vote, are 'over-represented' in Congress," he said. "If the polltax were abolished this situation could not continue."

Lyon Heads Radio Writers

Peter Lyon, well-known to CIO'ers for his contributions to the Labor For Victory radio programs during the past year, has been elected national president of the Radio Writers Guild.

L. J. IMBER
COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber, Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE
METAL LITHOGRAPHED
BUTTONS

for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES

Recognized Union Labels

No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in

Light and Heavy Stamping - Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and Special Stampings - Tools and Dies

N. Y. Representative, Herbert R. Lerman, 37 E. 14th St., Algonquin 4-3356

L. J. IMBER COMPANY
1725-41 W. North Ave., Chicago 22, Illinois
BRUnswick 7815

CIO Backs World Labor Group, Asks Seat on It

Major issue that CIO will present to the preliminary world labor meeting set for Dec. 4 in London will be creation of a continuing world labor organization in which CIO and other United Nations' unions will be given "their rightful representation," Philip Murray told a press conference of foreign correspondents here this week.

This can either be done through the present Intl. Federation of Trade Unions (IFTU) or an-other world organization, he said, but will require a change in the IFTU constitution to give CIO representation. The IFTU now limits members to one labor group in each country, and this place has been pre-empted by the AFL.

At the same time, Murray revealed that he had asked Sir Walter Citrine, head of the British Trades Union Congress TUC and convenor of the meeting to vention delegates to the CIO convention now meeting in Chicago. Sir Walter refused, Murray said, on the ground of "the practice which has endured for some 50 years for the TUC to confine its delegation to the AFL."

The chance of the IFTU amending its constitution to admit CIO and other unions is rather remote, Murray said, since the AFL would vote on this question within the IFTU "and Sir Walter has indicated that his emotions might be somewhat swayed by their decision."

PLAYING WITH AFL

The situation is somewhat contradictory, since Citrine issued the invitation to CIO to attend the London meeting and yet indicates by refusing Murray's invitation that he still regards the sensitivities of the AFL officialdom as paramount. If the AFL refuses to attend the London meeting—as it has implied it will refuse—then the revision of the IFTU to admit more than one union group per country will either have to be done without their vote or over their opposition.

"We don't intend to let the AFL speak for the whole of U. S. labor," Murray said, "because they don't represent it. CIO is very much here to stay, and must be recognized. Somewhere, sometime, CIO is going to be recognized in its rightful place in world labor affairs—AFL or not."

The only way he could see of overcoming the apparent reluctance of Sir Walter Citrine and other TUC leaders to recognize this fact is through the pressure of public opinion in England, he told the correspondents.

In any event, he said, the CIO delegation—Sidney Hillman, R. J. Thomas and Emil Rieve—are going to London to present this problem to the conference; either amend the IFTU setup to allow CIO and other unions in, or establish a new permanent world labor body.

AFL ISOLATIONISM

If the AFL persists in its attitude of refusing to attend any meeting at which CIO, the Soviet trade unions and the Latin-American unions under the CTAL are present, it will succeed in isolating itself completely from world labor.

This would be in line with official AFL support for isolationist Congressmen and Senators—notably Fish and Nye who were defeated in last week's election—but scarcely pleasing to the membership.

As Murray put it, the CIO "expects to see the day soon when world labor can get together to promote international understanding and close relations, and to have its rightful representation at the peace table."

AFL, IFTU or what not, the CIO, as Murray indicated, is determined to take its place in a world labor organization that will guarantee these accomplishments.

CIO Women Urged To Continue PA Work

Political action "work this year is just a beginning," Pres. Faye Stephenson and Sec.-Treas. Eleanor Fowler assert in their Officers' Report to the Fourth Annual Convention of the Congress of CIO Women's Auxiliaries meeting Nov. 20-23 in Chicago.

"In the coming year," the report continues," we must help to build up political action among women still further so that they can play their full part in strengthening the hand of President Roosevelt in bringing about speedy and complete victory over the axis, a lasting peace, and jobs and security for the people of America."

Ten national auxiliaries and nine auxiliary state councils will be represented at the convention, which will be the largest and the most representative the women's group ever had, the secretary-treasurer says.

The officers tell of the numerous down-to-earth political tasks which contributed to the Nov. 7 victory. The auxiliaries fought for a uniform federal ballot for servicemen, and as part of the CIO legislative committee worked for the renewal of the price control law with no weakening amendments.

WORK REVIEWED

The Washington representatives of the auxiliaries, also fought for renewed appropriations for the school lunch program, the Lanham Act child care projects and the President's Fair Employment Practices Committee, and opposed the so-called Equal Rights Amendment which would undermine legislation safeguarding women workers and the welfare of the family.

Other points emphasized by the reports are: Need for an immediate educational campaign among women to support continuation of rationing and price control, and for continuance of the auxiliary campaign to get the War Production Board to create a more adequate textile and clothing program.

Evidence of the effective work that the auxiliaries have done in the consumer field is the appointment of Sec.-Treas. Eleanor Fowler to the Natl. Consumer Advisory Committee of OPA. The report stresses importance of auxiliary programs for servicemen.

Auxiliary President's Message

"The national sweep which re-elected our great President to office and ousted most of the die-hard isolationists and labor-baiters in Congress offers our country and the world the hope of a new era," said Faye Stephenson, pres., CIO

MRS. FAYE STEPHENSON

Women's Auxiliaries in a message to the delegates attending the CIO convention.

"Our work in the political action campaign during the past year helped to make the victory of Nov. 7 possible. We think that a lot of credit should go to Verda Barnes, Women's Director of the CIO Political Action Committee, for the splendid work she and her staff did.

"We realize, though, that the campaign of victory and peace, jobs and security did not end Nov. 7. That is just the beginning. The next step is to get behind the legislative program which is necessary to reach those goals. How we can do that job most effectively is the main theme of our Fourth Annual Conference."

UAW Calls Education Conference

An annual three-day Education Conference will be held by the CIO United Auto Workers in Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 5-7, the UAW Executive Board decided at its last meeting. Education workers from all over the United States and Canada will be invited to attend this conference, the second to be held, to work out programs for the coming year.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS Films

MOVIES
FOR TRADE UNIONS
on
FULL EMPLOYMENT
POST-WAR ECONOMY
HOUSING - COOPERATIVES
LABOR and THE WAR

16mm. Soundfilms
FOR RENTAL AND SALE

Show Army and Navy Films
At 66th War Loan Rallies
Special Free Films!

BRANDON FILMS
1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

Warning—Lame Ducks Pack Nasty Punches

By C. W. FOWLER

Lame ducks can still pack a nasty punch, unless they're watched—and the last few weeks of this lame duck Congress will bear watching.

According to reports around Washington in this second post-election week, the final days of the Congress that goes out Jan. 20 will show a determined effort by defeated reactionaries and anti-war Congressmen to wreck the Wartime Powers Act and deprive FDR of many of its provisions.

Chief provisions of the Act that the lame ducks are out to get are those giving FDR authority to order rationing and subsidies to hold food prices down.

Having failed to end food subsides through their attacks on the Commodity Credit Corp. last summer and the year before, they're now out to try this new tack. A similar attack on rationing also failed with the general failure of the assault on the OPA last June.

The act must be renewed by December 31. If the lame ducks can succeed in gutting the War Powers Act, they will do more than strike a serious blow at the progress of the war. They will set what they hope will become a precedent for the new incoming Congress when it meets Jan. 20.

The new Congress will be minus a number of the worst reactionaries and obstructionists—men such as Fish, Dies, Busbey, Day and the like. But it will still have plenty left, both from the Republicans and among the poll-tax Democrats.

In addition, it will have a number of "middle-of-the-roaders"—men who aren't either strong supporters or strong opponents of FDR and his war policies, but who usually go along with the crowd. If these people can be influenced by an all-out attack on the President on the part of this lame duck Congress, the reactionaries of both parties will be satisfied.

The War Powers Act gives FDR the broad authority he needs to conduct the war. It was under this act, for example, that he was able to order the seizure of Montgomery-Ward and stop Avery's defeatist disruption of the whole war effort. The same act was the basis for army control of the Philadelphia transit system, when a company-union inspired walk-out over employment of Negroes threatened all Philadelphia's war production by tying up transit.

The reactionaries of both parties don't care, however, what they do to the war as long as they see a chance of doing something against FDR. Their country is less important than their party, in their eyes.

Watch This Bird!

Ask 65c Minimum

Low Pay Wrecks Lives Of Workers

The CIO case for a 65 cent minimum wage was presented this week, beginning with statistics but turning soon to the fate of poverty-stricken humans. The case was presented at CIO NEWS press time before a subcommittee of the Senate Education and Labor Committee.

First came official statements of the unions. Emil Rieve, president of the CIO Textile Workers, told the committee:

"Eleven million American workers are now earning less than 65 cents an hour and constitute 40 per cent of all the workers.

Then came the testimony of this "40 per cent of the workers."

It was a story of meager existence, of houses without plumbing, of clothes that had to be worn whether or not they were threadbare, of children who died from lack of medical care and of other children who had to quit school because their help was needed to add to the family income.

It was the story of Mrs. Irene Gillespie, Martinsville, Va., garment worker and member of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers, who earns 45 cents an hour and would like to get a decent place to live for her three children, her mother and herself, and another quart of milk for the children.

It was the story of John Vernon, member of the Textile Workers Union employed at the Dan River and Riverside Cotton Mills, Danville, Va., who, somehow, has reared a family of seven children on wages of 53 cents an hour as a weaver.

He now gets 51½ cents as a cloth hauler, because he told the boss that he could not handle 60 looms—he had been handling 43. He hasn't had a new suit in 10 years, and he owes a $30 grocery bill.

It was also the story of Mrs. Christine Gardner, Piedmont, N. C., member of the Cannery Workers Union, who earns only 40 cents an hour at an R. J. Reynolds tobacco factory and who broke down after testifying that one of her four children died because she was unable to afford a doctor.

UE Job Security Plan Aids Vets, War Workers

Proposals for a General Motors contract designed to provide employment for war veterans and to safeguard present workers were announced this week by Neil Brant, Washington representative of the CIO United Electrical Workers.

Disabled veterans formerly employed by GE would be "placed and retained on any job they are capable of doing, or may be trained to, without regard to the seniority rules," under one proposal.

Veterans, including those disabled, who were not previously employed at the plant would be granted seniority equal to their total military service after January 1, 1941.

Such veterans may replace present employes who have the least plant-wide seniority provided they have been hired since January 1, 1941, it is proposed by UE.

The UE proposals state: "If the employes of an occupational group all have higher seniority than an employe veteran, then it shall be the Corporation's responsibility to:

"Place the employe veteran in a comparable occupational group paying the same rate of pay, provided the group has empolyes with lesser seniority than the employe veteran; or

"Place the employe veteran in an occupational group that calls for a higher rate of pay and train him, provided that the occupational group has employes of lesser seniority than the employe veteran; or

"Place the employe veteran in a temporary pool until he is trained for another job or his former position opens."

"Poor John. He has such a hard time picking a winner!"

Rent Deposit Racket Hit

Pres. R. J. Thomas of the CIO United Auto Workers and John Edelman, representing the CIO Housing Committee and the CIO Textile Workers, expressed vigorous opposition to any revision of present regulations governing security deposits on rented houses, in testimony this week before the House Smith investigating committee.

Citing cases of landlords who have refused to make refunds on claims of "excessive wear and tear" caused by the tenant, Thomas held that security deposits were actually hidden rental increases, were unpatriotic, "definitely inflationary and endanger the entire stabilization and rent control program."

If security deposits are legalized for a minority of landlords, he said, there would be nothing to prevent all owners of the 14 million rental units from charging a one month's rent as a security deposit.

Edelman branded as unfair and groundless the claims of priority housing landlords that war workers are peculiarly destructive and inclinded to move out without paying their rent.

Murray Backs Xmas Seal Drive

A pledge of full CIO cooperation in the Christmas Seal campaign was recently sent by CIO Pres. Philip Murray to the National Tuberculosis Association.

Expressing awareness that wartime conditions such as undue physical and mental strain have lowered resistance to tuberculosis, Murray said that "as a labor organization representing millions of war workers, we are concerned not only with improving these conditions, but also with attempting to remedy their results."

See Hope For Permanent FEPC

Hope rose this week for the establishment of a permanent Fair Employment Practice Committee, following hearings before the House Labor Committee, with not a single witness appearing to oppose the plan. Committee Chairman Mary Norton (D., N. J.) said the committee will meet next week to report out, with only minor changes, the Scanlon-Dawson-LaFolette bills making the present FEPC permanent.

The committee this week heard Mrs. Frances Saylor, of the CIO Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, tell how the FEPC has aided her union in combatting job discrimination.

In cooperation with employers, the UE pushed a program calling for the extension of Negro employment and for the upgrading of Negro workers, with periodic meetings being held to discuss progress and new methods.

Mrs. Saylor poined out that the Axis made a strong bid for Negro support, but was unsuccessful "because the government, through the FEPC, the nation generally, and particularly the unions were able to demonstrate to the Negro people the sincerity of their firm stand against Hitlerite racial doctrine."

Establishment of a permanent FEPC has the endorsement of both major parties. The legislation's fate lies with Congressional Republicans, who must decide whether to risk their alliance with polltax Democrats by supporting the plan.

Yank Stories Dramatized

A new radio series made up of dramatizations of stories from the GI magazine, "Yank" will be broadcast over NBC from 1 to 1:30 P. M. starting Nov. 25.

Protect Your Home from TUBERCULOSIS

BUY and USE Christmas Seals

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 48 82 November 27, 1944

CIO Lists No. 1 Job

UNITE THE PEOPLE FOR DEFEAT OF REACTION

(See Stories Inside)

★ ★ ★

Full Throttle Voted PAC

(See Page 3)

WLB OK's Big Gains For CIO Steelworkers

(Convention Action—Page 5)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—Major pay concessions were made by the Natl. War Labor Board to the CIO United Steelworkers late this week, but the union's request for a general hourly wage increase was denied.

In a decision affecting 400,000 steel workers, the Board ordered 4 cents an hour extra be paid to workers on the second shift, and 6 cents extra on the third shift. Industry members dissented on this action.

In denying a general wage boost, the Board said that its order "is without prejudice to resumption by the board of its consideration of the demand for a general wage increase and of the procedure that might then be appropriate if there is any change in the National Wage Stabilization policy.

"This provision is made in order that the Board may not be forclosed in such an event from using the evidence which has been presented to it in this case." Action by the Board on this section was unanimous.

The whole question of proposed relaxation of the Little Steel Formula will thus be placed in the hands of President Roosevelt.

The shift differentials and vacation pay concessions will in most cases be retroactive to December, 1943, when the steel contracts expired.

While not granting the annual wage demand, the Board recommended that President Roosevelt name a commission empowered to make recommendations. This commission, the Board recommended, should not include members of the Board.

The Board directed each of 86 "basic steel" companies involved to negotiate for severance pay within 60 days. The Board pointed out that unemployment will result when companies close down less efficient plants, and concentrate production in the modern units built during the war.

Such a move by the companies would reduce the overall costs of operation, the Board said. A portion of such benefits should be given the workers as severance payments, the Board recommended.

The Board granted one week vacation with pay for one year's service, and five weeks vacation for five years or more. Industry members dissented.

This vacation order is another advance for the union, inasmuch as the present contract provides a week's vacation for workers employed three years or more, and two weeks for those employed 15 years or more.

Another important advance was established for the Steelworkers Union by an allowance of up to 5 cents an hour for the elimination of wage inequities.

The Board proposes to establish a commission to which matters of wage inequities shall be referred. Any agreements or disagreements on wage inequities shall be submitted to this Commission.

The number of holidays will be increased to six under the Board's directive. The holidays shall be Thanksgiving Day, Labor Day, Christmas, January 1, Memorial Day and July 4.

PLEDGED TO WIN: Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell told CIO Convention delegates that the Army is pledged to win the war in the shortest possible time, and CIO President Murray assured him that CIO production line workers will help the Army do it. Murray is pinning an honored guest badge on the General.

'Keep It Coming,' Somervell Urges; Tells Army's Needs

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—The CIO's seventh convention here heard an eloquent plea from Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell to produce greater quantities of mortars, artillery, ammunition and a number of other supplies.

The commanding general of the Army Service Forces com-mended labor for its production achievements during the past year.

He declared that "Hollywood has not adjectives stupendous enough to describe" the immense production job.

"But we are not at the end of the road," Somervell added. "It is going to take harder work and harder fighting before we get there. Right now, our armies on all fronts are ahead of schedule. They have moved so fast we have not caught up with them on production."

"We are falling short on 40 per cent of our schedules," Somervell said, "and that 40 per cent can mean the difference between victory and a long drawn-out stalemate.

MAJOR NEEDS

"Some 27 per cent of our shortages are in the items most urgently needed right now. These are mortars and mortar ammunition, artillery and artillery ammunition, heavy trucks and tires, airborne radar, tanks, cotton duck, field and assault wire.

"Our schedules call for an immediate increase of 35 per cent over our present output of heavy ammunition, 31 per cent in heavy trucks, 35 per cent in tanks.

He praised production workers for the work they have done, but he urged "take it upon yourselves to recruit people in all vital industries. Get them into the plants where they are needed. See that they stay there.

"See that they keep on working as faithfully as our men are fighting."

Memo for Action

Take No-Strike Pledge Home and Keep Making It Work—CIO Convention

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—CIO this week renewed its pledge to our fighting men abroad and to their wives, mothers, sweethearts and children back home—a pledge to maintain uninterrupted, all-out production until final victory. The CIO Convention adopted by unanimous standing vote a resolution again strongly defining the organization's no-strike policy, after tendering an ovation to President Philip Murray following his speech urging renewal of the pledge.

Murray again and again drove home the point that it is to the interest of both the entire nation and to labor as part of the nation to maintain inviolate CIO policy of setting wartime grievances peacefully.

He emphasized the need to take back to the membership and put into practice the policy outlined by Convention resolution:

"That the CIO hereby reaffirms its solemn pledge that until we have accomplished a complete and absolute destruction of the German and Japanese military forces there can be no question of our basic responsibility to the nation to continue intact our no-strike pledge."

The resolution pointed out that the CIO does not regard its no-strike pledge as a bargaining matter with the nation.

"To the contrary," the resolution stated, "we recognize that the enemies of our war effort would constantly seek to provoke labor into engaging in strikes and that there are employers who, for their own personal profit, would endeavor to take advantage of our war situation and attempt to exploit labor regardless of the impact of their policies upon the war effort. This has involved sacrifices by labor to assure continuous and maximum production of war materials for our armed forces."

MURRAY'S WARNING

Murray warned the delegates that no responsible labor leader can advocate in any manner the abolition of the no-strike pledge during war and still serve the best interests of his members.

Excerpts from Murray's remarks follow:

"Do you know why labor in the United States is giving it's all-out support to the winning of the war? Look back over the dark pages of Nazi history and the history of Fascism. Who were the first groups to be exterminated? Whose destruction did they first seek?

"The history of the occupied countries in Europe is replete with the destruction of free trade unionists. All over Europe Hitler and Mussolini and their cohorts determined that if dictators were going to prevail they must first seek the destruction of the trade union movement.

"So they set out to destroy the trade unions of Europe and within a comparatively short time the strong, powerful labor movements of Europe were rendered extinct.

"They were destroyed, and their leaders were either put in concentration camps or brutally murdered. It was the high purpose of the Hitlerites of Europe to first bring about the destruction of trade unionism in order that their particular brand of philosophy may prevail throughout the world.

"Underneath this no-strike commitment which your organizations have made to the President of the United States and have made to one hundred and thirty million souls in this country and have made to eleven million young people now in the armed services, underneath all of that was this record of the Nazis, this record of the Fascists, when they did bring about the destruction of the trade union movement in Europe.

"No responsible leader of labor in the United States of America under circumstances such as that can hope to serve the best interests of the members which he is privileged to represent if he attempts by word of mouth or by act to set aside labor's no-strike pledge in the course of this pres-

"It is a sacred obligation. It is an obligation that you have to your son, to your daughter, to your brother, and to your sister, fighting somewhere, yes, perhaps dying somewhere, living in some global hellhole, bleeding, yes, dying, and whilst young men and women are making sacrifices of that description for you and I back home the least, the very least that we can do to help them is by giving them every assurance that every single weapon that they need to win this war shall be provided them.

"Posterity needs your no-strike commitment. The future generations need the maintenance of that no-strike commitment because the maintenance of that no-strike commitment means absolute sure and inevitable victory, and victory means the democratic way of life throughout the world.

HAILS LABOR RECORD

"We cannot simply gloss over situations of this kind, read a resolution and vote for it, and then have someone violate it.

"Might I before closing pay my true respects to all of our organizations and to the overwhelming majority of the members of our organizations for the splendid spirit of cooperation they have so loyally manifested in the maintenance of this no-strike commitment.

"The record of American labor in the United States in the course of this war has been an almost miraculous one. To maintain that kind of a record, and, yes, improve upon it, if need be, is what we all look forward to."

CIO War Relief Aid Mounts To Millions of $'s

Chicago, Nov. 25—Tens of millions of dollars have been contributed by CIO members to the aid of victims of Fascism, prisoners of war, American GIs and underground fighters for democracy in countries overrun by axis enemies, the CIO convention noted in a resolution commending the achievements of the Natl. CIO War Relief Committee.

The resolution urged all CIO affiliates to support the program, and authorized the Executive Board to determine the continued nature and type of activities and operations of the Committee.

HARMONY: Not a barber shop quartet, just top CIO officials having a swell time at a dinner given at the CIO convention in honor of President Murray. Left to right: Murray, CIO-PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman, Pres. Samuel Levin of the Illinois CIO Council, and UAW-CIO Pres. R. J. Thomas.

TALKING POLITICS: The two men most responsible for CIO's effective contribution to the re-election of President Roosevelt, put their heads together at the CIO convention. Left, President Murray, and CIO-PAC Chairman Hillman.

CIO's Main Theme

People Must Unite To Defeat Reaction

(See Detailed Stories on Other Pages)

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Six hundred delegates fresh from the field and flushed with the biggest political victory in labor's history made the seventh annual CIO convention this week one of the most stimulating the organization ever has held.

Jammed into the biggest hotel in the world with delegates to the Intl. Aviation Conference, CIO representatives from Portland, Maine to Portland, Oregon, concentrated on outlining a program for 1944 and '45 that calls for:

1. Intensified political action pointing toward 1945 and 1946 elections, with CIO-PAC given full throttle to do the same kind of a job it did this November, under a main theme of unity of all progressive forces for victory over reaction.

2. Insistence that the War Labor Board junk the Little Steel formula to unfreeze wages that have not kept pace with rising prices.

3. Renewal of CIO's no-strike pledge, with a strong recommendation that delegates take it back to the membership and see that everyone in CIO continues to practice it.

4. Wholehearted approval of CIO's cooperation with trade union organizations in the Soviet Union and other United Nations countries, with the recommendation that if necessary a new world trade union federation be formed so that unions from all democratic nations can be represented.

5. Development of a program for war veterans that will protect their job rights.

6. Pressure for a postwar guarantee of 60 million jobs, with protection for war workers during reconversion, and with a broad program that calls for the practical application of FDR's economic "Bill of Rights."

7. Continued stress on organizing the unorganized.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

The convention unanimously re-elected President Philip Murray, Sec-Treas. James B. Carey, and Vice-Presidents Joseph Curran, S. H. Dalrymple, Albert Fitzgerald, John Green, Allan S. Haywood, Emil Rieve, Reid Robinson, Frank Rosenblum and R. J. Thomas.

Main theme of the convention was unity, not only in the CIO but in the entire nation, and this was constantly hammered home in the speeches of delegates, in resolutions, and in appeals from prominent outside speakers—including Vice-President Wallace, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Sec. of the Interior Harold Ickes and Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell.

In his keynote speech, President Murray said that the CIO program is "designed to build a better America, a bountiful America, an America blessed with the kind of resources which, if properly utilized, can bring great benefits to all of the people, not the people who work in the mills and mines and factories alone, but all of the people.

NO QUARREL WITH BUSINESS

"We have no desire to quarrel with business," he said. "We believe that business should secure from its investment reasonable profit, and we also believe that out of the bountiful benefits that flow from the increased productivity and increased efficiency the workers should be assured a larger proportion of the financial benefits that pour from industry."

Almost an entire afternoon session was devoted to discussion of political action, with a rousing 20-minute demonstration for President Murray and Chairman Sidney Hillman of CIO-PAC. Hillman pointed out that CIO during the 1944 campaign associated with the best forces in America, and that because these forces were united, the reactionaries, isolationists and anti-laborites were defeated.

"They failed because we did not pursue a narrow or a selfish course," he said. "Our program was not a program for labor alone. We voiced the deepest hopes and aspirations of the greatest majority of all Americans — workers, farmers, small businessmen, native and foreign born, white and black, men and women.

CIO AIDED PEOPLE

"We claim no monopoly of this program for ourselves. But we believe that the great organizations of the CIO and their millions of enlightened and devoted members have a special contribution to make in its attainment.

"What we did was to place our minds, our energies, our special skills as organizers in the service, not only for our own membership, but for all the people—showing them the way to the fulfilment of their hopes and aspirations through the simple exercise of their rights as citizens in a democracy."

CIO's unity program was further stressed in a resolution which called for a "break" for farmers with "the continuance of price guarantees at levels which will encourage full production and assure them a fair return for their product."

The convention renewed its attack on discrimination against minority groups, particularly Negroes and Jews, and pointed out that the technique of fascists is to single out some small portion of the population, make its members scapegoats, and thus aid the fascists' rise to power.

Work of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries, particularly in political action, was commended, and all CIO affiliates were urged to encourage and expand programs involving women.

Give PAC Full Throttle, Convention Tells Hillman

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—CIO Political Action, approved by the American people Nov. 7 is here to stay in the unanimous decision of 600 delegates to the convention here.

Any question in anyone's mind that PAC might go out of business after the election was settled not only by the speeches of President Murray and PAC Chairman Sidney Hillman, but also by the roaring enthusiasm of the delegates on the floor.

CIO-PAC, with a solid record of achievement behind it, was set on its course for 1946 and 1948 in a resolution which outlined its tasks as:

1. To maintain and stimulate PAC committees where now existing and to build them where they do not yet exist.

2. To promote united political action by labor, progressives and liberal leaders and individuals of both major political parties.

3. To continue the struggle for full freedom of franchise, to end the poll tax and other unfair voting restrictions.

4. To carry on effective political education in preparation for a maximum registration and turnout of the vote in 1946 and 1948.

The PAC was continued with its present officers, headed by Sidney Hillman, and with many of the staff workers whose hard work at the national office made its success possible.

Enthusiasm for continuing the PAC under its present leadership of Murray and Hillman was shown in the prolonged demonstrations that greeted the two men when the resolution came up.

"This is truly the movement of the common man," Murray said in discussing the resolution. "When I speak of the common man I speak of that great segment of our national population comprising approximately 98 per cent. Of all the people living in this nation, we are setting in motion here this afternoon a movement to serve his interests, the interests of the common man."

Emphasizing the victory that the people won in the November 7 election, Hillman drew a comparison between it and the victories won at Stalingrad and in the Battle of Britain.

"Great as they were, these military victories did not decide the war nor seal the fate of Hitler. They weakened the Nazi juggernaut, they did not destroy it. But they created the opportunity for final and decisive victory.

"So too the victory of November 7 does not guarantee the attainment of the great goals we seek. It does give us new ground and a more favorable terrain from which to carry on the fight.

"The forces of reaction have suffered a serious setback, but they have not been routed. They are well financed and powerful. They will strike back with the fury of desperation."

Pointing out that the 1943 CIO convention charted a course of independent nonpartisan political action, Hillman said that PAC rejected any alliance with either major party as well as "the infantile kind of action of indulging in third parties."

"Participation in a third party," Hillman declared, "would only serve to cut us off from large and important progressive groups with which we have been so successfully allied.

"It would destroy our own influence, weaken the progressive coalition which has developed in the course of the election campaign, and, by creating disunity, provide an entering wedge for reaction."

CIO's determination to build its political strength to meet the challenge of reaction, when it comes in state and local elections in 1945, in Congressional elections in 1946, and in the national election in 1948, was made as clear as anything can be made at the 1944 convention.

PAC Discussion Highlight Of Convention

Chicago, Nov. 25—Highlight of CIO Convention enthusiasm was the demonstration touched off around political action. CIO Pres. Philip Murray introduced Chairman Sidney Hillman of PAC, and the crowd went wild, throwing torn up paper round the room, whistling, stamping, clapping and cheering in a joint demonstration for Hillman and Murray that lasted over 20 minutes.

"There are no words to express my appreciation for the kind of a reception you have given me," Hillman said. "It was a great fight and I'm glad that we're clearing it with the CIO Convention!"

Murray said that Hillman "showed great gallantry and remarkable fortitude in directing the destinies of the CIO-PAC, and his reward has been your reward in that the sound judgment of the American people prevailed, and victory was his and victory was yours."

The PAC resolution drew more comment from delegates than any other, with one after another CIO representative taking the floor to urge unity, and to point to the need for financial as well as moral support if the 1945-46 campaigns are to be as successful as was 1944's.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

EAT A BAG A DAY FOR MORE PEP

PLANTERS NUT & CHOCOLATE CO.

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

PAPER WORKERS LOCAL 350 UNION MADE CIO ORGANIZING COMMITTEE
LET MILPRINT FURNISH YOUR
CIO STATIONERY
WRITE FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES
MILPRINT, Inc.
431 WEST FLORIDA STREET
MILWAUKEE 1, WISCONSIN
Over 750 CIO Employees

UNION MADE BUTTONS
Celluloid or Litho-Metal
For—
Union Dues
Advertising
Campaigns
Badges - Emblems
CHARLES M. GERAGHTY
INCORPORATED
500 Sherman St. - Chicago, Ill.

The CIO NEWS, November 27, 1944

Wallace Calls For $2,500 a Year Minimum Wage

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Vice-Pres. Henry A. Wallace virtually took over the CIO convention for nearly an hour this week as he pounded home the need for the expansion of job opportunities, for a $2,500 a year minimum wage, and for the supremacy of human rights over property rights.

Greeted with a tumultous ovation, with cries of "Wallace in '48" and "We want Wallace," the smiling Vice-President enjoyed himself hugely, joking in a conversational mood with delegates prior to delivery of a prepared speech which was broadcast over the radio.

BILL OF RIGHTS

Wallace reminded the delegates and the crowded galleries of FDR's recently enunciated Economic Bill of Rights—the right to a good job the right of farmers to earn an adequate return from their work, the right of businessmen to trade free from monopolistic restriction, the right to adequate medical care, to a good education and to protection from old age, sickness, accidents and unemployment.

"No expert," Wallace declared, "will ever tell the American people that it is impossible to whip unemployment in our own American way. We cannot permit closed factory gates while hungry men seek work."

Wallace said that any realistic postwar employment plan "must provide the basis to enable the average working man to earn $2,500 a year."

URGES WAGE HIKES

"Fair take home pay legislation," Wallace said, "means a raising and not a lowering of minimum wage laws. It means government machinery providing that any person willing to work can get work. And it may ultimately have to provide that any person not willing to work shall be told that he must work. We cannot carry drones—either poor or rich."

Wallace urged repeal of the Smith-Connally Law, restricting among other things the political activities of labor unions.

HUMAN RIGHTS FIRST

Urging extension of labor political action in the interests of the people, Wallace declared:

"Our government must be kept strong and stable. I, as a Democrat, believe that the way ahead is in a strong humanity-minded democratic faith which is committed to the proposition that human rights and human happiness are the first business of government and that whenever there is a conflict between human rights and property rights, the weight of orderly government should take care of human rights first and property rights second.

"Labor must support good men in Congress as well as fight bad men," Wallace advised. "You must not be silent for one day ever again.

"The job of participating before the barn door is left open to the lobbyists of special privilege is the most important single duty of the workers during the next two years.

"If we want economic victory through 60 million jobs we must begin right now to plan for political victory in 1946. The fall of 1945 and the spring of 1946 will be decisive in the battle against depression and idleness."

PAYROLL INSURANCE

Turning to business problems, Wallace said that some type of government payroll insurance plan must be found to tide sound, young businesses over temporary depressions.

Wallace was greeted by CIO President Murray, who said:

"Henry Wallace symbolizes the thoughts of the common man. We love him because he is a common man."

BISHOP SHIEL
Delegates Liked His Talk

POST-ELECTION CONFAB: "Still a Democrat" and proud of it, Vice-Pres. Henry A. Wallace was one of the hits of the CIO convention. Delegates added their cheers to the enthusiastic welcome of President Murray, right, and Chairman Sidney Hillman of CIO-PAC.

Annual Wage, End of Steel Formula Asked by Bishop

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—"Labor's demand for the revision of the Little Steel formula is both just and imperative.

"I believe that the guaranteed annual wage for the working man is just; it is socially necessary; it is economically feasible; it is a democratic imperative."

Those were the frank statements made to cheering CIO convention delegates this week by the Most Rev. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, D.D., Senior Auxiliary Archdiocese of Chicago, in an address that called for a "break" for the common man by the extension of democracy, both economic and political.

"Surely all America," Bishop Shiel declared, "knows the extraordinary record of war production made by the organized labor movement. This miraculous production was not the sole contribution of labor to the war effort. With it came a patience and a devotion to democracy expressed in its no-strike pledge and its willingness to accept financial sacrifices in order to maintain an economy at war.

"The time is here—now—when labor cannot be asked to continue carrying an unfair part of the effort. The Little Steel formula must be revised!

"Another answer that labor can give to the persistent questioning of the common man is the guaranteed annual wage. From every standpoint this seems to me a fundamental requirement for full employment; for economic stability; for peace; finally for dignified human living."

Bishop Shiel warned that an internal threat to democracy exists among those "groups and individuals who are unaware that an era has died, an era of selfishness and unfettered greed."

"Blinded by fear of changes they cannot understand or control, they cling tenaciously to their privileges and desperately defend their special interests," Bishop Shiel said.

"They would have us believe that a desire for economic security is incompatible with the American way of life. They would have us believe that labor should be a very silent partner, and should never, under any circumstances, mix in politics.

"They distrust the common people. Distrusting the people, they seek to restrict democracy; restricting democracy, they seek to emasculate it; and, if they were allowed to continue, they will destroy it completely."

Bishop Shiel pointed out that people all over the world are asking questions—whether they will be given the right to participate fully in the political and social institutions which they have helped to create, which they support and under which they live; whether they will be given, "above all," an equitable share of the wealth of the world.

"These are questions which ruthlessly cut across all lines of race, of political beliefs, of national differences," Bishop Shiel said. "They are questions which spring from the very heart of the revolution in which we are living. And they are questions upon the answers to which the existence of democracy depends."

The Bishop called for union cooperation in fighting anti-Semitism and in striking down discrimination against Negroes.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS Films

MOVIES
FOR TRADE UNIONS
on
FULL EMPLOYMENT
POST-WAR ECONOMY
HOUSING - COOPERATIVES
LABOR and THE WAR

16mm. Soundfilms
FOR RENTAL AND SALE

Projectors and Screens
Available on Priority
Write for Details

BRANDON FILMS
1600 BROADWAY - NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

Congratulations On Your 7th Successful Convention
from
The McGREGOR PAPER CO.
The only 100% Union Paper House in America
412 So. Wells St. Chicago, Ill.

"MADE BY BASTIAN"
Means Union Made in Every Detail
Manufacturers of—
UNION DUES BUTTONS
CONVENTION BADGES
DRESS LAPEL EMBLEMS
AUTO LICENSE PLATE EMBLEMS ANNIVERSARY SOUVENIRS
PASS CARD CASES
SIGNS, PLAQUES, ETC.
BASTIAN BROS. CO.
ROCHESTER, N. Y.
Offices in Principal Cities

U.S. Pay Pledge Violated—Murray

Hits Steel Formula Tactics Of WLB

Chicago, Nov. 25 — Government officials charged with administration of the national wage policy have shown "bias and unfairness" toward the workers of America, CIO Pres. Philip Murray told the CIO convention Friday in a fighting speech summing up the CIO's position on the wage question.

Speaking on two resolutions presented together to the convention as being closely related—one on national wage policy, the other on the Natl. War Labor Board—Murray declared that the "administration of the so-called Little Steel formula has been extremely bad."

He said that when the CIO made a pledge it kept it, but that this could not be said of certain government agencies. He asked the CIO delegates to keep in mind that the U. S. Government has violated its pledge to maintain the relationship between wages and prices as of September, 1942, and that "it is bad business for any group to violate a pledge."

Pointing out that steps have been taken to protect business in the post-war period by compensation to be paid out of the public treasury which might approximate as much as 22 billion dollars, Murray declared that "these inequities create confusion and misunderstanding as to why Congress should protect the interests of big business and forget the common people."

MUST RAISE WAGES

We cannot have full employment after the war unless the people have wages high enough to maintain their maximum purchasing power, he said. As to the argument that labor cannot have a wage increase because of the "bogey of inflation," Murray asserted that figures presented during the course of the steel hearings before the WLB showed conclusively that wages can be increased without a price increase and leave a wide margin for profits.

"The people of the United States have had four years of wage freezing," Murray declared, "and four years is just a little too long to be regimented in the United States."

"We're not seeking any selfish advancement in this war. We're asking an even break, no less. We're asking for equal and exact treatment, and we are demanding that our government accede to our request now!"

BREAD AND BUTTER NEED

Speaking earlier on the same resolutions, Van A. Bittner, assistant to the president of the United Steelworkers, told the delegates that the problem involved was one of the most important to come before the convention, as it "deals with the bread and butter life of the people."

Emil Rieve, president, Textile Workers Union, spoke on the 65 cent minimum wage section of the resolution and quoted figures showing the extent of sub-standard wages in America.

Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel, outlined for the delegates some of the findings that had come out in the USA-CIO's case before the WLB during the fight to get revision of the Little Steel formula, which he said had now reached a crucial point. The WLB's report to the President has not yet been issued, he said, and what recommendations it will contain are not known.

Pres. R. J. Thomas of the Auto Workers, who also spoke on the wage policy issue, began by saying that as a member of the WLB, he should apologize to the convention for being on a board which had been "breaking down collective bargaining" instead of maintaining it.

He urged CIO members to let the President of the United States and the members of the WLB "know how you feel."

"The Little Steel formula won't be broken," he declared, "unless we hear from you back home."

MURRAY IN ACTION: The CIO President in three of many attitudes he vividly expressed as he chaired the seventh CIO convention in Chicago.

CIO Meet OKs New World Labor Organization Plan

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—CIO's determination to build a new world labor organization was ratified in a resolution and underlined in a major speech on international labor unity by President Murray at the convention here this week.

Reviewing CIO's consistent efforts over the past two years to break through the barriers set up by the AFL leaders with the help of Sir Walter Citrine, British Trades Union Congress head, the resolution said:

"The CIO supports the project of a new and powerful international labor body that shall include all the unions of free countries on a basis of equality, excluding none and relegating none to a secondary place, and shall be capable of defending the interests of the common man."

This new world labor body, which CIO delegates will press for at both the preliminary meeting in December and at the full meeting February, will undoubtedly take the place of moribund International Federation of Labor Unions to which the AFL belongs.

IFTU BANS CIO

The constitution of the IFTU as it now stands allows only one labor organization from each country into membership. It also excludes the unions of the Soviet Union. Though CIO will make every effort to break down this barrier at the London meeting, it is President Murray's conviction that a new world labor organization will need to be set up.

"I should like to point out what seems to me to be a barrier which, for the moment, still stands in the way of perfecting a world federation of labor," he said.

"That barrier in the constitution of the IFTU. That constitution would definitely exclude the CIO from meetings of the IFTU. Under those circumstances the officers of your organization and the members of your resolutions committee recommend to the convention the creation of a new world labor movement."

The AFL has refused to attend the London meetings called by the British TUC. At roughly the same time, the IFTU will call a meeting, Murray revealed. At this IFTU meeting, the AFL will undoubtedly resist changing the constitution to admit the CIO or the Soviet trade unions. Further, he added, they will undoubtedly call the London meeting at which CIO will be represented "unconstitutional."

NO ALTERNATIVE

No alternative remains, he said, but to set up a new world labor organization if we are to have any international labor collaboration at all. Even if the IFTU should amend its constitution, the final ratification could be delayed for months, thus again obstructing world unity.

World labor unity is more important now than ever before, he said, pointing out that labor's voice and point of view must be effectively heard at the United Nations meetings which will write the peace and effect world security organization.

"No labor organization anywhere in the world has expended more energy in that direction than has the CIO," he said. "We cannot stop now, we cannot permit the AFL or an official of the TUC to block the organization of a new world labor movement.

"We must needs, in the interest of our people and in the interest of other peoples throughout the world, have a rightful place in this international labor picture."

Little Steel Plan Blasted

Chicago, Nov. 25—The CIO vigorously condemned the Natl. War Labor Board's refusal to submit a recommendation to President Roosevelt calling for a revision of the Little Steel formula to bridge the wide gulf between wages and the sharp rise in the cost of living, in a resolution approved at the CIO convention this week.

The need for revision of the formula, it was stated, can be demonstrated by the facts that government agencies now admit that there has been a minimum rise of 30 percent in the retail price of goods, and the Murray-Thomas report shows that the total rise in wartime living costs from January, 1941, to March, 1944, has been about 45 per cent.

In the face of this, the resolution continued, the national economic stabilization program, presented by the President, expresses determination to protect wage standards against any rise in living costs. Wage rates, however, have been frozen, it was pointed out.

Resolution Hails Work Of Murray

Chicago, Nov. 25—Wildly cheering delegates to the CIO Convention showed their appreciation of President Philip Murray not only in a standing ovation during a report on political action but also by passage of a resolution which praised his "statesmanlike leadership."

"The CIO," the resolution stated, "Voices its appreciation of Philip Murray for his wholehearted support of the Commander-in-Chief, for the contribution which he has made to mobilize labor and the people of America behind the war effort, for the leadership he has given in gearing the CIO to work for victory on the military, political and economic fronts, for the building of a lasting peace and for the wise guidance he has given on all problems before the American people."

Increased Production & Bond Purchases Are Equally Essential to Win the War

Universal Button Fastening and Button Co.

Detroit, Mich.

6th WAR LOAN

NO-DISCRIMINATION policy of CIO is carried into practice, with various races working and playing together. At this convention dinner, CIO Vice-Pres. Allan S. Haywood is seated at table, second from left, and CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey is second from right.

Haywood to Parley—Keep on Organizing

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 — CIO pledged to continue its "fundamental task of organizing the unorganized into strong and powerful industrial unions" this week at the CIO convention, and through expanded membership bring to the workers the benefits of collective bargaining and to the country "the added strength, discipline and leadership" necessary for victory, peace, full employment and full production.

Vice-Pres. Allan S. Haywood, director of organization, spotlighting the contribution of organized labor in the presidential campaign, attributed its success to the fact that the CIO had several millions of workers organized. "Had we had just double that number organized," he said, "our contribution would have been double what it was."

Calling for a spirited return to the job of organizing, Haywood predicted: "If we leave this convention with the idea there is a job to be done, you will come back into your next convention with more than six hundred and some thousand new members. I am not satisfied with six or seven hundred thousand new members; I want a million."

Urging adoption of the resolution as "one of the most important to come before the convention," Pres. R. J. Thomas of the United Auto Workers warned of attempts of labor's enemies to poison the minds of the unorganized with fear of unemployment. President Roosevelt has pledged 60 million jobs in postwar America, he said, and "we are going to have 60 million organized people in this country."

Van A. Bittner outlined the tremendous importance of organizing and the program for the coming year. The CIO, he stated, will not only bring to workers the jobs, but the conditions under which they will work.

Naming the South as a goal of organizing thrusts, Bittner pointed to the "power and the influence of the strength of the CIO" as all on which the working men and women of America can depend.

Speaking in support of the resolution, William Taylor of the Oil Workers called for concentrated attention and action in organizing the South, and Amalgamated Clothing Workers Vice-Pres. Dorothy Bellanca urged organization, protection and recognition of the millions of working women.

Wage Boosts OK'ed

Philadelphia, Nov. 25—Wage increases up to six cents an hour for Pittsburgh building service employes are permissible under the revision of minimum stabilized rates announced last week by the Third Regl. War Labor Board.

CIO Meet Cheers Mrs. FD, Hears Unity Plea

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was presented to the CIO convention here this week by CIO Pres. Philip Murray as "a gracious lady, one of God's noble women," and was greeted by a deafening burst of cheers and applause from the delegates which left her in no doubt about her popularity with the CIO.

The First Lady began her speech by congratulating the CIO on "the work which you have done as citizens during this last campaign. I made no political speeches," she said, "but I did talk about the real need to get our people out to register and vote.

"If we could do that, I was quite sure that we would really have the wisdom of the majority of the people of our country to count on, and I thought that whoever was elected had a right to a big participation on the part of the voters of the country, so that there was a real recognition of the seriousness of the times and the obligation of every individual man or women to carry their share of responsibility in this democracy."

Expressing the belief that the country has a great many thoughtful, liberal citizens who have been shown what can be done, Mrs. Roosevelt said:

MANY STRUGGLES TO COME

"You have won one victory, but there is still a great many more to be won, and I think I would like to make an appeal to all of you to go and educate your groups wherever they are, so that they will really think through the questions that come to them, not as members of labor groups, but the ones that come to them as citizens of the biggest, strongest democracy in the world today."

Speaking of the danger some fear that our servicemen will come home after the war concerned only with their own interests, the President's wife said she did not think this would happen.

"I hope that all of us are going to realize that we cannot be separated into groups. We have got to think of the big questions that will come before us in the next few years as citizens of the United States." The way America faces these problems, she said, will influence the whole world. "We must be an example for other nations to follow," she declared.

The growing importance of women who "have only just begun to take a more active part in citizenship," Mrs. Roosevelt said, is a hopeful sign for the future. "I hope that every woman is going to feel that she has to be an active citizen."

CORDIAL WELCOME to the CIO convention was extended to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the name of the membership by CIO Pres. Philip Murray.

Shoes that laugh at the WEATHER

You can look well dressed regardless of the weather! Picture yourself in one of these handsome Douglas winter shoe styles. The shoe illustrated at upper right is of sturdy Scotch Grain—the other of fine, Douglas Buffalo. These shoes will wear for seasons, and they're rugged enough to take the stormiest weather and still retain their smart appearance. What more can a man ask?

Airplane stamps Numbers One, Two, and Three now valid.

Top Style — THE ETON No. 4675
Bottom Style — THE CLIPPER No. 4665

W. L. Douglas Shoes
W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO., BROCKTON 15, MASS.
905 PENN. AVENUE N. W.
(Opposite Department of Justice Building)
(Men's and Boys' Shoes Exclusively)
Open Thursday and Saturday Evenings
STORES IN PRINCIPAL CITIES • GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

MANY STYLES WITH OIL-TREATED SOLES FOR LONGER WEAR.

INVEST IN VICTORY—BUY BONDS

Nov. 7 Was New Kind Of Labor Day—Murray

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Nov. 7 was a new kind of Labor Day in the history of America, CIO President Philip Murray told the 600 delegates to the CIO convention this week. Warning that the unity that made the FDR victory possible must be carried into the future, Murray outlined a program for CIO action. Important excerpts from his speech follow:

"This convention, to my mind, might be likened to a victory convention in the sense that we have just recently passed through another unusual effort in our history. I speak with reference to that great day, November 7.

"Strange as it may seem that was a peoples' day, that was a CIO day, that was another kind of a Labor Day. In that it set the forces of reaction in the United States of America back upon their heels, if heels are the words that ought to be used.

"This convention will, as usual, give prime consideration to the adoption of programs designed to expedite the winning of the war, to lend every possible degree of support to our armed forces, to our Commander-in-Chief, and to our gallant Allies in that effort.

"If our nation needs our production and our production must be had, it shall be the firm purpose of the members of the organizations affiliated with the CIO to provide all of the materials essential to the successful conclusion of the war.

"I am reminded of a commitment made by the Congress of the United States of America to 130,000,000 people living within our confines, through the commitment of a Congressional Bill which promised, in substance, that the relationships between wage and prices would be maintained throughout the war, as of September 15, 1942.

Promise Broken

"The commitment made to the people of the United States by the Congress in that bill has been deliberately and flagrantly violated. Prices have gone up considerably higher than the amounts alloted through the so-called Little Steel formula, so much so that evidences are to be found on every hand of the crying need, yes, the desperate need, of our federal administration recognizing the immediate necessity of an upward revision of the Little Steel formula.

"I trust that the President of the United States to whom the matter has now been referred by the National War Labor Board is giving consideration to the pleadings of the workers of the United States of America, and will see to it that the Little Steel formula is revised and that sufficient compensation will be provided through the medium of collective bargaining, or the directors of the National War Labor Board to compensate the workers of this country of ours for the many real losses that they have sustained due to rising living costs, ration of programs designed to provide full employment for all workers able to work and willing to work at the end of the present war. Such a program has been drafted and will be presented to you for your consideration in the course of this convention.

"It is the type of a postwar program designed to build a better America, an America that will afford its people the kind of economy to which Bishop Sheil made reference here this morning, a bountiful America, an America blessed with the kind of resources which, if properly utilized can bring great benefits to all of the people, not the people who work in the mills and mines and factories alone, but all of the people.

"Business—We have no desire to quarrel with business. We don't want to indulge ourselves in constant fights with business or with industry. It is our desire to get along with industry.

"We believe in labor-management cooperation. We do not subscribe to the foolhearty, antiquated notions of strike and strife. We believe that intelligence should be constructively applied around the collective-bargaining table with employers here in the United States.

"We believe that business should secure from its investment reasonable profit, and we also believe that out of the bountiful benefits that flow from the increased productivity and increased efficiency the workers should be assured a larger proportion of the financial benefits that pour from industry in the United States.

Aid for Farmers

"Well, my good friends, there are other matters to which I believe this convention should direct a great deal of its attention, problems affecting the farmers; it is my considered judgment that while we are pressing for industrial labor in the United States of America, the institution of a system of annual minimum wages provided through the method of collective bargaining, that the time has come for the CIO to stand four-square for a minimum annual income to working farmers here in the United States.

"We believe that there should be incorporated in our CIO program and accepted by American industry an assurance for the full utilization of all available labor. We believe, in the Congress of Industrial Organizations, during the peace time period in raising the minimum age for children leaving school. We believe in lowering the age limit for the receipt of pensions by our elders who have been employed both in industry and in agriculture.

"We contend that there should be provided through the means of our own program here an insurance for the universal establishment of minimum annual wages through collective bargaining for all workers, including agriculture.

"We think that the coming Congress should see to it that there is a complete overhauling and broadening of our system of social security in the United States, that it is the bounden responsibility of our government to see to it that our citizens are amply protected against the various vicissitudes that visit them throughout life, such as old age, sickness and death.

"We believe that there should be promoted through the means of this national convention a broad comprehensive program of national housing. We do not believe that it should be the bounden duty of the Federal government to assume direct responsibility for all such undertakings.

Housing a 'Must'

"We encourage private initiative in this field, and that where private initiative is not sufficient to meet the requirements of our people that the government then should assume whatever liabilities may be necessary to further proper housing for the people in the United States of America.

"And then through our social services it is our contention, and it is my hope that this convention will again reiterate its convictions in this particular regard, that every child, every woman and every man who does not possess sufficient finances to provide proper medical care, that it should be the bounden duty of government to see to it that every kid that God brings into this life of ours is provided good medical care.

"Now I do hope that before this convention ends its sessions that you will insist not only through the adoption of a resolution, but by hard work in seeing to it that our Federal Government institutes for the first time in its history a real Bureau of Statistics.

"Our convention will undoubtedly by resolution in giving consideration to the nation's postwar problems go on record for a comprehensive system of public works to implement the work of private initiative and to insure full employment, together with a broader and more equitable system of Federal taxation.

"And again might I emphasize in this convention the need of action being taken by our Federal government to broaden the educational opportunities for all of the people throughout the United States."

CIO Pushes Job Program For Vets

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—The seventh convention of the CIO this week approved a seven-point program to assure jobs for war veterans, and saw the Auto Workers receive the Bushemi Award for the CIO union which had done the most for the returning servicemen.

A resolution adopted by the convention included the following veterans' program:

1. Continuance of the CIO campaign for "full production, full employment and security for all."

2. Recommendation to affiliated unions that contracts provide cumulative seniority rights for the time spent in service since Sept. 1, 1940, the date of the passage of the Selective Service Act, for veterans employed for the first time in plants under contract.

3. Continuance of the policy of waiving initiation fees for veterans becoming members of CIO unions.

4. Protection by unions of accrued seniority for time in service for veterans returning to their old jobs. The resolution attacked "the action of certain administrative officials who have promoted the illusion among the veterans that their way of securing jobs is through displacing workers with longer seniority."

5. Establishment by unions of committees on a local and a national basis to aid veterans in securing jobs, obtaining benefits to which they are legally entitled, and in aiding them in retraining, rehabilitation, and in seeing that they have "a secure and easy return to civilian life."

6. Liberal interpretation of the GI Bill of Rights "so that every returning serviceman and woman can easily obtain education, financial and employment opportunity."

7. Continuation of cooperation by the CIO "with established organizations of veterans to further these and all other aims of mutual benefit to veterans and to the people of the United States."

UAW-CIO Pres. R. J. Thomas, who accepted the award in behalf of his union, said that the UAW began considering veterans' problems after realizing that 400,000 of its members were in the armed forces.

He said that the UAW had concluded that it was "not a good idea" to set up a separate labor organization for the returning servicemen.

"I am of the opinion that all our CIO organizations should do everything they possibly can for those veterans," the Auto Workers' leader continued.

Thomas, who recently returned from a tour of the battlefront, said that the soldiers "are discussing post-war problems, and if you and organized labor are not prepared to help them out with their problems when they return from the war, then I say to you we do not deserve having them as members of our organization."

Vets' Head Praises CIO Job Program

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Complete agreement of the Veterans of Foreign Wars with the CIO's program of jobs for all was expressed by Omar B. Ketchem, UFW national legislative representative, in a speech to the seventh CIO convention.

"The VFW is in complete agreement with labor that true solution of Section 8 (of the Selective Service Act governing employment of veterans) and all other $64 questions on who gets what job and how, is an expanding national economy which will provide full employment at decent wages for all who are able and willing to work," Ketchem said.

"We believe," the speaker continued, "that veterans are entitled to consideration from the nation by reason of their special services and sacrifices, but we also believe that economy which would provide jobs only for veterans, leaving other millions unemployed could only result in the complete destruction of all work opportunities.

"The VFW pledges to the CIO, and to all other groups in America, its full cooperation and best efforts within the scope of its permitted activities, to encourage the development of a national economy which will not make necessary special privilege, political maneuvering and industrial strife in the search for employment opportunities."

The VFW official said that his 45-year-old organization has grown to approximately a million members with about half of them veterans of the present war and men still in the armed forces.

"Credit for the final victory will belong to the entire nation," Ketchem said. "The armed forces, labor, management and agriculture, all are making their contribution. Matching the courage and the daring of our fighting forces, have been the miracles of production of armament and foodstuffs.

"In this overall picture, the contribution of members of the CIO have been of incalculable value and an inspiration for the future. Mistakes, misunderstandings and disputes have occurred, but they have been held to a surprising minimum. The overall record of labor is exceptionally good."

SPEED VICTORY

Help bring our boys back sooner! Meet the challenge of the times. A 100% all-out effort is vital to success in this most stupendous production job in all history.

Only adequate production and financing can give our forces and our Allies the things they need.

Buy more War Bonds than you think you can afford.

CLEVELAND TRENCHER CO.

CLEVELAND, OHIO

60-Million-Jobs Plan Urged by CIO

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—The CIO this week offered its cooperation to all sections of the population to plan and work together with government in formulating a program to secure an economic Bill of Rights that would boost the people's standard of living and would help to guarantee 60 million jobs.

With the provision that industry will respect the rights of organized labor and must recognize war prosperity must be built on increased purchasing and productive power, the CIO pledged to "help preserve industrial peace and cooperate to the limit to increase the production of goods and services upon which our common prosperity depends."

Pointing to the production "miracles" and the military successes to date which have been "primarily due to firm national unity achieved among the people during this war," the resolution calls for the same effective unity among labor, progressive industrialists, farmers and veterans after the war.

Reconversion

The process of reconversion to partial peacetime production after V-E Day, the CIO holds, must be coordinated with the necessary wartime production in order to assure material for our armed forces and, at the same time, full use of the country's resources and manpower to continue full employment and production.

For the successful achievement of reconversion, it was recommended, a board of representatives of industry, labor and agriculture, with full authority to direct the process of demobilization, should be made part of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

Through effective coordination and centralized control of cutbacks, redistribution of war contracts, and maximum production of civilian goods, demobilization can be accomplished successfully, the resolution stated.

Would Aid War

"Only by thus assuring war workers that there will be full protection in the provision of jobs for all during reconversion," it was pointed out, "can we stop the unfortunate situation now developing among war workers who, fearing cutbacks and unemployment, are departing to other work."

In addition, the CIO advocated that the disposal of surplus property be placed in the hands of administrators who have "a complete understanding and appreciation of the need that the purchasers of such property will maintain full production and provide full employment."

Every safeguard must be taken to assure small business the opportunity to buy such property and thereby maintain "free and healthy competition," the resolution continues.

Travel Expenses

To make certain that no worker shall suffer during the period of reconversion, the CIO called for payment of expenses for the transportation of workers back to their homes, federal unemployment benefits up to $35 a week for the full period of unemployment, retraining of war workers and veterans with guaranteed maintenance allowance to be provided, and federal aid to state and local governments for public works to be used to take up the slack in reconversion unemployment.

A prosperous postwar with full production and the 60 million jobs promised by President Roosevelt, it was warned, will depend upon the expansion of purchasing power and employment security. "Our national policy," reads the resolution, "shall be that the present weekly wages, as a minimum, must be maintained and cannot be reduced with the decline in overtime. The minimum wage must be sharply increased above prevailing substandard levels."

A further necessary step for full employment, the CIO indicated, is the establishment of an annual wage. As industry and agriculture have secured their guarantees, industrial workers also must receive security of employment.

Government Aid

The government must assume its share of responsibility for guaranteeing full employment by undertaking "enterprises which are beyond the capacity of private industry," the resolution emphasized.

The expansion of rural electrification and the development of regional power authorities, such as the TVA, it was suggested, will "provide a basis for the conservation of our great natural resources and for increased prosperity," and assistance should be provided to states for highway and airport construction.

The 60 million jobs will also depend upon the expansion of world trade, continued the resolution. Naming the Dumbarton Oaks conference as indicative of the determination of the United Nations to force a lasting peace, the CIO stressed that "only on this basis and through the growth of stable and democratic governments can there arise the framework within which international trade can prosper and grow."

Praise Currency Plan

Also lauded as an encouragement to international trade was the Bretton Woods conference for creating the foundation for the stabilization of the currencies of the various nations and for mobilizing credit from which war-devastated and undeveloped countries could secure the capital to purchase the goods they need.

Rehabilitation and reconstruction, it was stated, "open a vista for expanding world trade which can unquestionably assure increasing prosperity for all peace-loving nations. We therefore heartily endorse the program and policies formulated at the Bretton Woods conference and urge Congress to authorize the full participation of this country."

The resolution capitalized on the fact that, within the framework of international trade proposed, there would be no room for international cartels "which created and nourished Nazi imperialism, restricted production and placed profits above the interests of the common people." Instead, healthy and free competition was advocated.

"On the basis of this program," the resolution concluded, "the common people of the earth shall really secure peace and enjoy the blessings of Freedom from Want and Freedom from Fear."

AFL Paper Rebukes State Leaders for Election Stand

Seattle (FP)—A sharp attack on Pres. James Taylor and the executive committee of the Washington State AFL Federation of Labor appeared in a post-election front page editorial of the Washington Teamster last week. The Teamster is the official organ of the Joint Council of Teamsters (AFL).

The editorial is based on the refusal of Taylor and the executive committee to indorse the Democratic candidates following what was widely regarded as a mandate to do so from the state federation convention.

The influence of Taylor and the other state AFL officials "has reached an all-time low," the editorial said. "The working people of Washington refused to follow them."

Dutch Dish It Out

Labor in parts of Holland still occupied by the Germans have brought practically everything to a standstill in open defiance of the Nazis, the United Nations Information Office reports. The railway strike is almost complete, and the Germans have not been able to keep a single train running through lack of railwaymen. All the factories are silent and deserted.

Give Farmers Fair Prices, CIO Urges

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—The nation's farmers should be guaranteed prices which will encourage full production and assure them a fair return for their products, the CIO convention stated this week in a resolution.

Praising farmers for accomplishing "a miracle in the production of food," the CIO parley stated:

"We express our firm desire to work with our farmer friends for a speedy and victorious end to the war and for a stable, prosperous peace. Full employment in the factories and mills for industrial workers means much to the farmers who seek a market for their products.

"Full prosperity, fair prices, and maximum production on the farms is equally vital to the welfare of industrial workers.

"All agricultural programs and planning should be designed to eliminate discrimination against rural areas and give farm people equivalent social and economic benefits enjoyed by city dwellers.

"All farm programs, including the farm tenant purchase program, the rehabilitation program, and soil conservation program should be directed toward the protection of the family-owned and operated farm which is the backbone of the nation's agriculture."

YOU NEED HIM!
HE NEEDS YOU!
BUY WAR BONDS

New Group Formed To Tap FM Radio Opportunities For Labor

New York (FP)—Helping unions get in on the ground floor of FM broadcasting is the newly formed Peoples Radio Assn., which includes a number of prominent CIO leaders.

PRA's national campaign to speed up labor's entry into the new field of FM broadcasting includes a plan for community-operated radio stations owned by progressive membership corporations in towns and cities throughout the U. S.

Among the charter members of the new organization, which is applying for an FM broadcasting license in the New York area, are: Pres. Joseph Curran of Natl. Maritime Union, Pres. Ben Gold of Intl. Fur & Leather Workers Union, Pres. John T. McManus of the Newspaper Guild of New York, Pres. Arthur Osman of Local 65, Wholesale & Warehouse Workers, Pres. Joseph P. Selly of American Communications Assn., Pres. Rockwell Kent of the Intl. Workers Order and Sec. William Feinberg of Local 802, American Federation of Musicians (AFL).

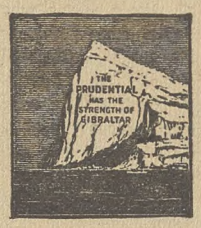
The Security Of Their Future

To protect the future of those you care for . . . that is a natural and deep-rooted desire.

As long as you can work and earn, you'll see that their wants are supplied. But what if they should lose you and your earnings?

The way to protect them is through life insurance. Out of its wide choice of plans, The Prudential can help you guarantee your family's future in the way your needs require.

Feel free to discuss this whole big subject with the Prudential agent in your community.



The PRUDENTIAL
INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA
A mutual life insurance company
HOME OFFICE NEWARK, NEW JERSEY

Auxiliaries Strong Arm Of CIO—Murray

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Pres. Philip Murray of CIO told delegates to the fourth annual conference of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries today that their organization is "the strong arm of the CIO."

"I knew you have been doing a great work," President Murray said. "You implement the work of the CIO, subscribe to and prosecute its policies with a great deal of energy. You have served shoulder to shoulder with our PAC Committees, our local unions, our industrial unions and our state councils in the great campaign to re-elect our President."

No organization in the United States, Murray said, has centered more attention on direct postwar planning than the CIO. The CIO, he said, has to plan for the future, for the winning of the war, and the kind of peace that will be perpetual and that will promote good understanding in relationships between all countries.

The problems of internal reconstruction immediately facing us, he said, are those of the soldier, of the women in industry, of charting a practical program to provide 60 million jobs, and of maintenance of a system of economic stabilization guaranteed to protect the interests of all people against the ravages so-called inflationary conditions—the maintenance of an effective system of price regulation and control.

CAREY SPEAKS

Earlier, CIO Sec.-Treas. James Carey, a member of the CIO Auxiliary Committee, addressed the Conference.

"Our catechism for the coming year," he said, "is getting along with people; our job is not only leadership, it's education."

"Your work," Carey told the delegates, "does not start with the White House and work down. It starts with the ration board and works up."

November 7, he said, marked "the winning of a great war for the emancipation of all people," but he added a warning that although Nye and Dies and Fish and others were eliminated they are preparing now for the 1946 campaign when the President won't be a candidate.

Verda Barnes, National Director of the Women's Division of the Political Action Committee, told the conference that "our job is far from completed: we had a wonderful victory on Nov. 7, but that does not end the fight for us. . . . It is the natural apathy in off-election years that we have to counteract."

Pointing out that "everything we touch now is a political issue" Miss Barnes urged women not only to involve themselves in political action work, but to see that qualified women are nominated for public offices.

Laud Work Of Auxiliaries

Chicago, Nov. 25—The work of the Congress of Women's Auxiliaries was commended in a resolution this week at the CIO Convention, and all assistance to the organization by the CIO was approved.

Lauding the outstanding job of the Auxiliary in mobilizing women behind the CIO political action campaign, the resolution urged all CIO affiliates to "encourage and expand programs to involve the women in CIO families in carrying out the CIO program in every community."

YOUNGEST 'DELEGATE': Pretty Karen Eline Crane was champion in her field at the CIO convention. Eighteen months old, she's the daughter of Julius and Mrs. Crane. He's a vice-president of the CIO Shoe Workers, in Chicago.

Sees Price Control As Postwar 'Must'

Chicago, Nov. 25—Emergency conditions created by the war will continue to operate for some time after the armistice and continuation of price controls will be necessary if we are to prevent an inflationary spiral, Mrs. Hazel Kirk, professor of Home Economics at the University of Chicago, and chairman of the National Consumers Advisory Committee of OPA, told delegates to the Fourth Annual Conference of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries, meeting here.

These controls, Miss Kirk said, will be necessary until the discrepancy between the rate of supply and the rate of demand is corrected.

She pointed out that in the last war, eighteen months after the armistice was signed, food costs were up 26% more than at the time of the armistice, clothing was up 45% more, rents were up 23% more, and home furnishings were up 43% more. In 1920 the inevitable collapse came, with factory payrolls dropping 44%, farm income dropping 66%, and corporations 101%.

What we get for our dollar as well as how much we get must be the concern of organized groups, Miss Kirk warned her listeners, adding that only by their interest in what a pay check will actually buy as well as how much is on it, can these groups be effective in shaping market practices and public policy.

CIO Auxiliaries Hit 'Equal Rights' Plan

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 — A nation-wide legislative and educational campaign to obtain the guaranteed annual wage and revision of the Little Steel Formula was authorized by the fourth annual conference of the Congress of CIO Women's Auxiliaries, meeting here during the seventh CIO convention.

The conference also went on record as opposing the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, which, it was declared, would "endanger the minimum pay laws, laws governing night work for women and all other legislation that has been enacted to safeguard the health and well-being of women workers."

Support of the purposes and aims of conferences at Moscow, Cairo, Teheran, Bretton Woods, Dumbarton Oaks and Quebec was stressed in another resolution. Passage of legislation granting suffrage to the residents of the District of Columbia was asked.

The conference also went on record as favoring child care programs, continuation of the OPA act, and voted support of all CIO campaigns to obtain equal pay for equal work.

Other resolutions urged OPA and WPB to provide war models for essential items. Repeal of the Taft amendment to the price-control act prohibiting grade labeling was also urged.

Other resolutions asked for repeal of the Hatch Act, establishment of fair wage standards, extension of social security, and recognition of majority unions as bargaining agents for government employes, representation by women at the peace tables, and enactment of legislation for a permanent Fair Employment Practices Committee.

4 Millions Won By Chrysler Workers

A total of $4,200,000 in pay in lieu of vacations will be received by 110,000 hourly rated employes of the Chrysler Corp., as a result of negotiations between the company and the CIO United Auto Workers, it was announced this week by Norman Matthews, director of the union's Chrysler Dept.

Keep Plugging for '46 Election, Congresswoman Tells Women

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Women must begin to work now in order to cement the gains they made November 7, and to elect internationally minded representatives in 1946, Congresswoman-elect Emily Taft Douglas of Illinois told delegates to the Fourth Annual Conference of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries at a luncheon in her honor this week.

In the 1946 elections women will not have the magic of Roosevelt's name on the ballot to aid them as it did on November 7, Mrs. Douglas warned the delegates, and, therefore, they have before them the constant task of education; they cannot rest assurance of victory on last minute campaigns.

"The greatest single issue that faces us today" she said, "is that of building and abiding peace. We women are, in a way, pioneers again. This is the first generation of women that has a chance to help shape a peace.

"It won't be an easy job," she said, "even with the President we want." She recalled the end of World War I, when the people's hopes for peace were killed by "reservations and discussions to confuse."

NEED STABILITY

"Building a peace that will stick," Mrs. Douglas said, "will demand stability in international relations and economic stability at home. We have to start now, before this Congress is over."

Agreeing that "yes, women had better mind their business," the speaker went on to ask "but what is their business? Government, legislation, world politics you can't draw the line at anything that isn't women's business."

The importance of the Political Action Committee in the election campaign is one thing on which liberals and conservatives were united upon, Mrs. Douglas said.

In reply to a remark by Mrs. Dorothy Bellanca, vice-president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and Chairman of the luncheon, to the effect that the women were "proud that a woman defeated Representative Stephen Day, Mrs. Douglas replied that it "was not one woman but the women who defeated him."

Guests at the luncheon included Mrs. Sidney Hillman, wife of the head of CIO's Political Action Committee. Miss Charlotte Carr, formerly director of Hull House in Chicago, and now Regional director of the Political Action Committee for New York State; Mrs. James Carey, wife of the secretary-treasurer of CIO; Miss Friedy Miller, director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor; Mrs. Verna Bell, vice president of the Auxiliary of the United Transport Service Employes; Mrs. Verda Barnes, director of the Women's Division of the Political Action Committee; and Mrs. Faye Stephenson, of Cleveland, Ohio, who has just been re-elected national president of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries.

BAD NEWS!

ALONG with all the good news of victories abroad, comes some very bad news here at home.

Fat salvage collections are taking a nose dive in many sections of the country. They are going down when they should be going up higher than ever.

★ ★ ★

That can mean just one thing! Too many of us are letting the good news go to our heads. Too many are jumping to the conclusion that, with the collapse of Germany, we can relax.

Don't these people know that the battle of Germany is just one chapter in this global war—and that we still have a long, tough road to travel in the East? The boys who are dying in the Pacific could tell them!

★ ★ ★

Even the total defeat of Germany can't help us one bit as far as the fat situation is concerned. And for a specific reason: It's the Japs who have our fats.

Our fat shortage troubles began when Japan moved into the Pacific areas and cut us off from one billion pounds of fats and oils we used to import every year. The Japs are still there—and we're still cut off!

★ ★ ★

So we must continue saving used fats to help make up that loss. To help make the munitions, synthetic rubber, medicines, soaps and other materials needed to finish the war. We must save even harder than ever.

Let's put a stop to this "bad news!" Let's get busy again and send the fat collections climbing up in every town in America! The need is so urgent, our government gives you 4c and 2 free red points for every pound saved!

So keep saving used fats until V-J Day—the day when we can celebrate final victory over our last and toughest enemy—Japan.

Approved by WFA and OPA - Sponsored by

HILL DIESEL ENGINE CO.

LANSING, MICH.

AWARD TO MURRAY: The CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries presented this picture of the American Flag to President Murray at the CIO parley. Left, Mrs. Faye Stephenson, Auxiliary president, and Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, secretary-treasurer.

CIO Women Played Big Election Role

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 — Through their political action work, women's auxiliaries of the CIO played a major part in the November 7 elections, according to an officers' report to the Fourth Annual Conference of the Congress of Women's Auxiliaries of the CIO, by Mrs. Faye Stephenson, national president.

Political action and the related programs of legislative work and consumer action, according to the report, were the major activities of the auxiliaries during the past year.

The auxiliaries worked closely with the Women's Division of CIO's Political Action Committee, the body that directed the tremendous job of mobilizing women voters, acquainting them with the issues nationally and locally, and getting them out to register and to vote.

In the final months of the campaign, the auxiliaries arranged for distribution of over 450,000 copies of a special Political Action Committee leaflet calling upon women to vote for President Roosevelt.

However, the report states, November 7 was not the end but the virtual beginning of political action work, for in the coming year political action among women voters must be built to the point where they play a full part in strengthening the hand of the President in "bringing about speedy and complete victory over the axis, a lasting peace and jobs and security for the people of America."

Closely tied in with the auxiliaries' political action work has been their continuing activity on national legislation, particularly on:

Price control — The auxiliaries actively supported the President's subsidy progam, and campaigned for renewal of the price control act without weakening amendments and with full apropriations.

Soldier vote—A national delegation to Washington of wives, mothers and sisters of servicemen spent two days interviewing Congressmen and Senators on this.

Child care—The auxiliaries have worked actively for expansion of the Lanham Act provisions for child care, and for appropriation of adequate funds to make the program fully effective in releasing women for war work.

SCHOOL LUNCH AID

The auxiliaries have also campaigned for school lunches, for maternity and infant care for servicemen's families, for a permanent Fair Employment Practices Committee, and for abolition of the poll-tax. They have also tackled the critical shortage of needed, durable work clothes and children's clothes.

Special sections of the report urge combatting of racial intolerance and investigation of fascist women's organizations which preach racial intolerance and advocate a negotiated peace.

Auxiliary members have also served on advisory bodies of a number of government agencies.

President Stephenson represents the Congress of Women's Auxiliaries on the National Women's Advisory Committee of the War Department's Public Relations Division, and was also appointed to the Children's Bureau's National Commission on Children.

Eleanor Fowler, national secretary-treasurer, is a member of the National Consumers Advisory Committee of OPA.

Re-Elect Stephenson, Fowler Auxiliary Heads

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Mrs. Faye Stephenson of Cleveland, Ohio, was unanimously reelected this week to serve a fourth term as president of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries at the organization's fourth annual conference at the Stevens Hotel.

Also reelected by unanimous acclaim was Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, secretary-treasurer, of Washington, D. C.

The following vice-presidents were elected: Mrs. Dorothy Keene, United Auto Workers Auxiliary, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Mary Orlich, Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers Auxiliary, Butte, Mont.; Mrs. Lucille Wenzel, United Electrical Workers Auxiliary Cleveland, O.; Mrs. Agnes Doe, Natonal Maritime Union, New York City; Mrs. Verna Bell, United Transport Service Employes Auxiliary, Minnesota; Mrs. Mary Vessey, United Farm Equipment Auxiliary, Chicago; Mrs. Betty Hays, United Federal Workers Auxiliary, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Miriam Murphy, United Transport Workers Auxiliary, New York City; Mrs. Wanda Brown, International Woodworkers Auxiliary, Wilhelmina, Ore.

The Executive Board of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Auxiliary will designate an additional vice-president from that organization.

Honor Murray

Chicago, Nov. 25—A framed picture of the American flag will hang next to one of the President of the United States in the office of CIO Pres. Philip Murray.

The picture was presented to Murray by Mrs. Faye Stephenson, national president of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxilaries, and Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, national secretary-treasurer, at the CIO Convention.

Mrs. Stephenson presented the picture as a "symbol of our country and our democracy" and pledged that "we, the wives, mothers, and daughters of labor will continue our work to hasten the winning of the war and to have something to say about the winning of the peace."

Auxiliary Delegates Have Widely Varied Backgrounds

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Over 100 delegates, with industrial backgrounds varying from cigar maker to seaman's wife, attended the fourth annual conference of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries this week. Among those present were:

Evelyn Benedict, from the National Maritime Union Auxiliary in Galveston, Texas. Her husband was torpedoed and lost at sea. She has a 12-year-old daughter, and is now employed as a dispatcher in the NMU hall.

Mrs. Emma Williams, from the Detroit UAW Auxiliary of the Ford Local. She has four grown children and three grandchildren. She is vice-president of her auxiliary and regional director of the State auxiliary council.

Agnes Doe, secretary-treasurer, National Maritime Union Auxiliary, New York. Her husband, a seaman, is now home on leave, taking care of their children while she attends the Conference.

Lucille Wenzel, international president of the CIO Electrical Workers Auxiliary. She has three children and four grandchildren, and has been five times a blood donor. Back in Cleveland, where she lives, Mrs. Wenzel helped get out 4,300 letters on political action before election day.

Faye Stephenson, just re-elected for a fourth term as president of the Congress of Women's Auxiliaries, hails from Cleveland, Ohio, has a 35-year labor history. She went to work as a cigar maker when she was 13 years old, and after hearing her union father debate with her mother on the labor question, quickly made up her mind as to which side she was on. She has two sons-in-law in the service and a daughter in the WAC.

Nell Proctor, from the ILWU Auxiliary in California. Her husband is now in the South Pacific. She did a bang-up job on PAC, helping to get rid of Rep. Costello.

'Equal Rights' Amendment Hit by CIO

Chicago, Nov. 25—The so-called "Equal Rights Amendment" was condemned by the CIO convention this week as "bogus" legislation which would break down all state laws for the protection of women workers won through the years by hard struggle.

In opposition to this, the CIO approved a program which included the extension of the provision of equal pay for equal work to all plants under contract with CIO unions, and urged enactment of state laws prohibiting discrimination against women in payment of wages.

CORNELIUS PRINTING COMPANY

6th WAR LOAN

6th WAR LOAN

PRINTERS TO INTERNATIONAL UNIONS

For More Than 30 Years

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. SILVER SPRING, MD.

Pre-Nov. Disunity Forces Still Stir Disruption—Ickes

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Sec. of Interior Harold Ickes in an idea-packed and caustic speech before the CIO convention, blasted reactionaries who, while now preaching unity, are still practicing disunity as they were during the recent election campaign.

Warning against monopolies, he said that "the enemy" is confident that he can come back as he has in the past and resume his goverance in the interest of concentrated wealth and corporate power."

"Now, with the election over, some are already pretending," the speaker said, "that unity exists among our people simply because the noise and the shooting have died down. This is nonsense.

"As a matter of fact, by these phony appeals for unity the reactionaries are now trying to win the same things they fought for and lost in the election.

"The forces which preached unity and practiced disunity have not even taken a brief vacation. They are still preaching unity and practicing disunity. This habit of preaching one thing and practicing another is not new with the forces of reaction. They have exercised it again and again and again."

Ickes said that "the reactionary press and the caluminous columnists" have converted the great American ideal of private enterprise into an ugly form of monopoly.

REACTIONARY CONFUSION

"They have denounced liberalism and progressive legislation as socialistic and communistic," the speaker continued. "Their verbal attacks have not stopped with the counting of the ballots. They are continuing to attempt to confound and confuse, to divide and conquer. They will redouble their efforts when they think we are off our guard . . ."

He said that he was not convinced that "disloyal newspapers," inciters of race and religious hatred, "reformed Bundists, appeasers and Roosevelt haters," had changed their ways.

"We will be the better prepared to face the peace," the Cabinet member declared, "if we take stock of our disuniters and know where to find them when it is time to be counted. But we don't want synthetic unity."

Turning to the convention's work, Ickes asserted "you have adopted a great program, a progressive program and one that will receive the support of not only labor but of all forward looking farmers and business men. It should receive the support of everyone who is concerned with the lives and the livelihood of American men and women, now and in the future."

"The country and the world owe a great debt of gratitude to those two great leaders of the CIO, Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman," Ickes asserted. "This generation will never be able to repay what it owes to the CIO and its PAC. I have never been a witness to a better or a more intelligent political job in this country than the one that was done during the recent campaign by PAC.

"The CIO forgot to forget that the way to get out the vote is to break down one's arches trotting from door to door and to make the skin and the thumb callous by intensive doorbell ringing."

Protest Successful

London, Nov. 25 (ALN)—The recent demonstration by 3,000 London workers before the House of Commons in protest against the dismissal of 450 of their workmates without proper consultation this week resulted in an agreement between the local manpower board and the Amalgamated Engineering Union guaranteeing full preliminary consultation between management and trade union representatives before dismissals.

GI Assault Bill Needs Final Push for Passage

WASHINGTON (FP) — Unless swift pressure is applied, a bill protecting the welfare of servicemen is doomed to die in committee with the expiration of the 78th Congrss, a check with the House judiciary committee revealed this week.

Known as the GI assault bill, S. 1227 amends an existing law to extend federal protection to all members of the armed forces who are assaulted by civilians.

It passed the senate and was pushed to the brink of house passage by labor and other progressive groups, but got stuck in the house judiciary committee after a favorable subcommittee report.

Supporters of the bill feel its immediate enactment is particularly urgent to protect increasing numbers of Negro soldiers and sailors who are victims of unprovocked attack by bigoted civilians in certain southern states.

In many instances local and state authorities refuse to act. S. 1227 would give federal authorities power to arrest, try and punish such criminals who threaten the welfare of servicemen and the war effort.

Smash 'Equal Rights' Amendment—CIO

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—A resolution urging defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment was passed this week by the CIO convention "because of CIO's great interest in the problems and conditions of working women, and its gains on their behalf." The amendment would kill all progressive legislation which the CIO has supported in protection of women workers, the resolution stated.

A CIO program was extended calling for the prohibition of discrimination against women in the payment of wages and the inclusion in bargaining agreements of a provision for rest and lunch periods, maternity leave without loss of seniority, and group insurance, including maternity benefits.

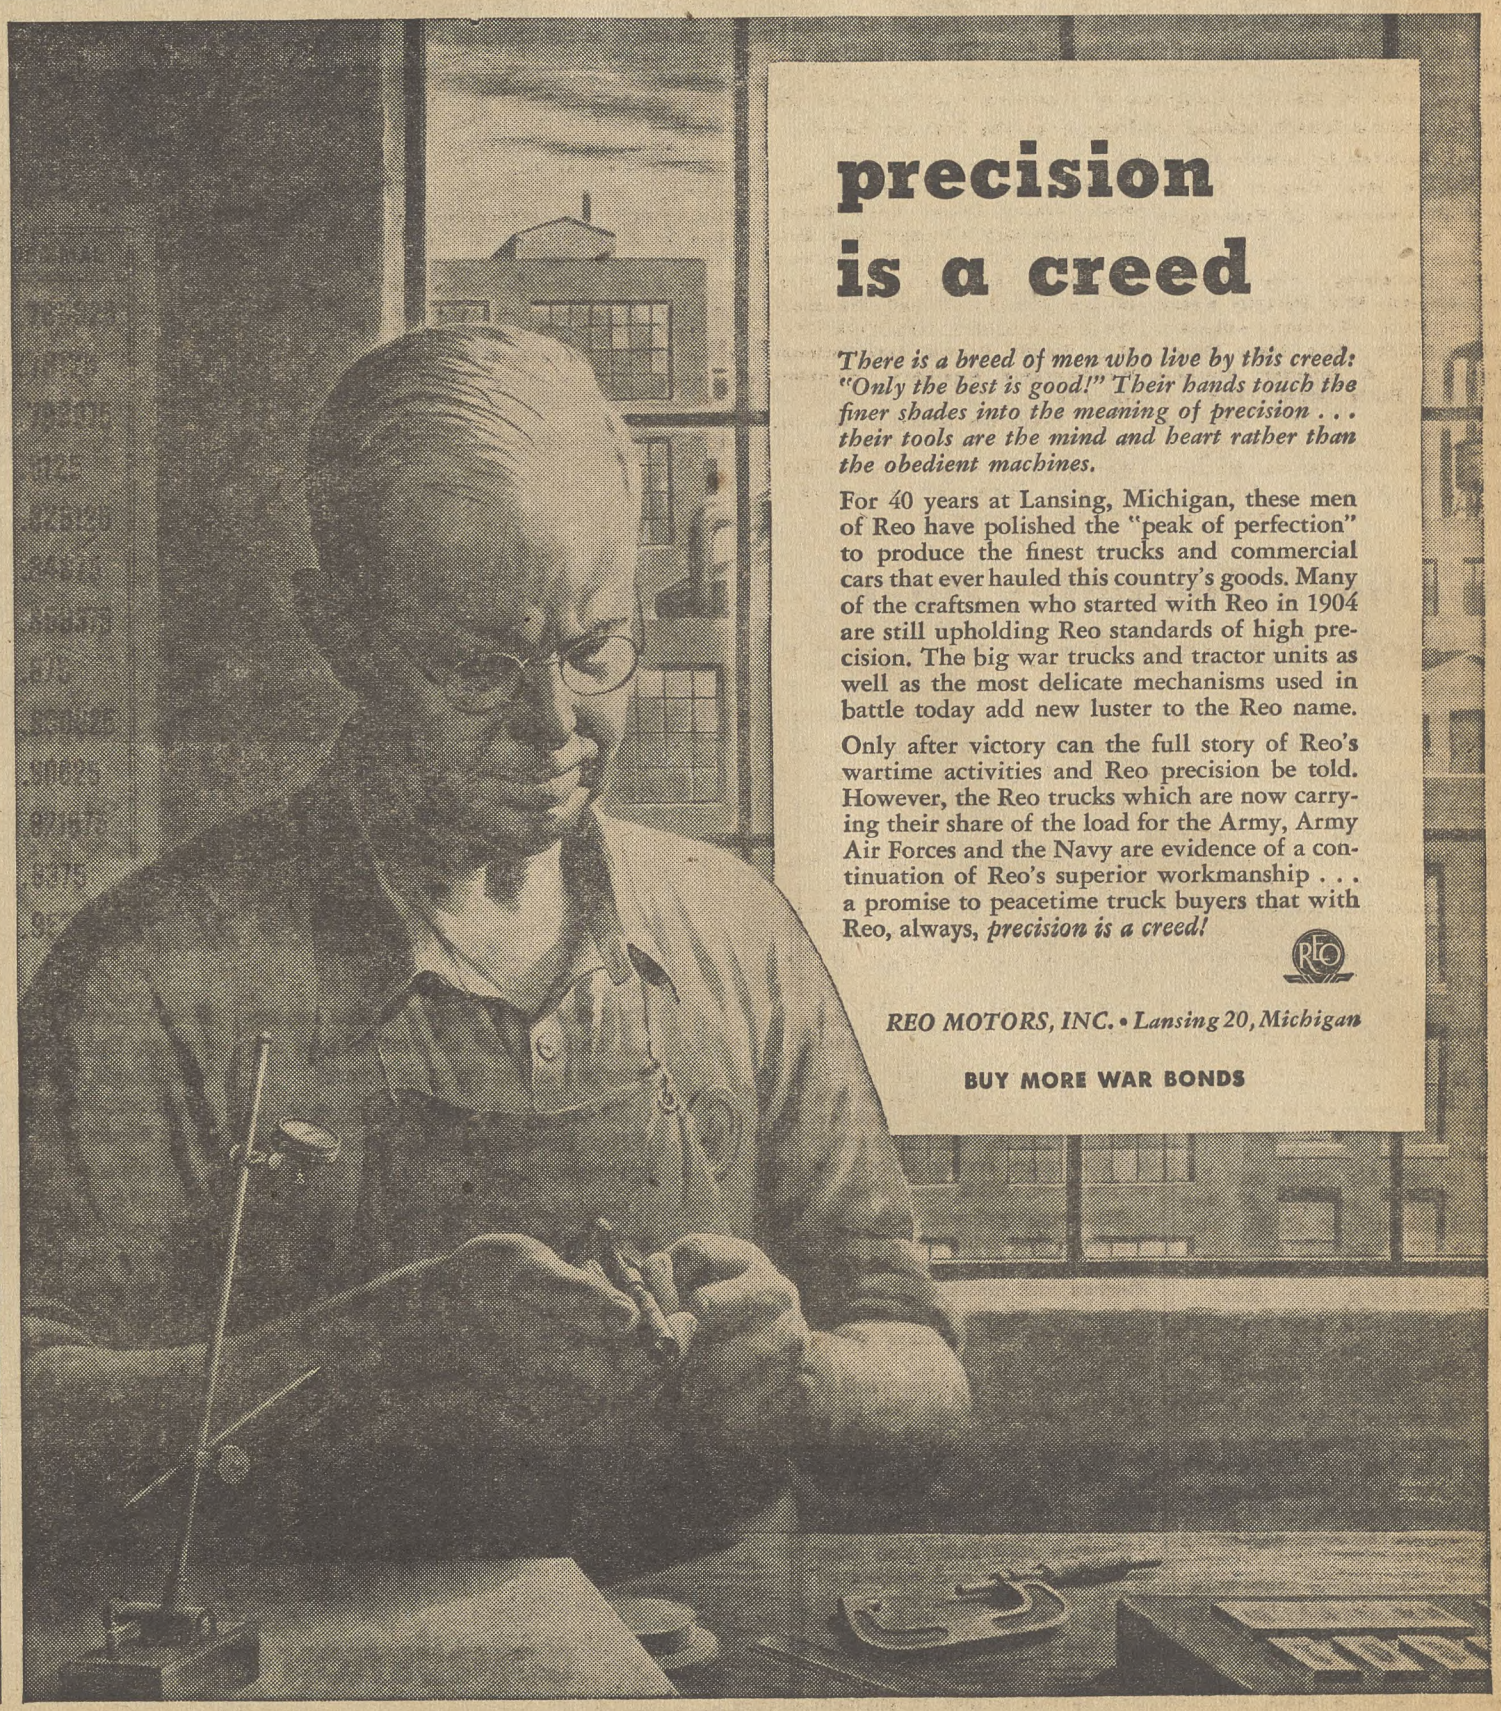
In addition, the program included further development of community activities for child care centers and proper housing and extensive recreational facilities, and urged cooperation with community organizations and the Women's Division of the U. S. Dept. of Labor, "so that these facilities may become a permanent part of postwar community life."

The expansion of educational programs by unions designed to enable women to accept positions of greater responsibility and leadership and the protection of women's rights through the seniority clauses of unions contracts were further advocated in the program.

BLS Shakeup Urged by CIO Convention

Chicago, Nov. 25—Reorganization and expansion of the Bureau of Labor Statistics headed by a full time Commissioner "in whom labor can repose confidence" was demanded by the CIO convention this week, in a resolution pointing to the need of "reliable labor research" as a basis for constructive action during reconversion and the postwar period.

The convention also urged that the annual appropriation of the BLS be increased to $10,000,000. It is now only $2,800,000.



precision is a creed

There is a breed of men who live by this creed: "Only the best is good!" Their hands touch the finer shades into the meaning of precision . . . their tools are the mind and heart rather than the obedient machines.

For 40 years at Lansing, Michigan, these men of Reo have polished the "peak of perfection" to produce the finest trucks and commercial cars that ever hauled this country's goods. Many of the craftsmen who started with Reo in 1904 are still upholding Reo standards of high precision. The big war trucks and tractor units as well as the most delicate mechanisms used in battle today add new luster to the Reo name.

Only after victory can the full story of Reo's wartime activities and Reo precision be told. However, the Reo trucks which are now carrying their share of the load for the Army, Army Air Forces and the Navy are evidence of a continuation of Reo's superior workmanship . . . a promise to peacetime truck buyers that with Reo, always, precision is a creed!

REO MOTORS, INC. • Lansing 20, Michigan

BUY MORE WAR BONDS

CIO PURPLE HEART BRIGADE: Six CIO wounded war veterans, led by Maj. Hale Nelson (standing) told their stories to the CIO convention. Left to right: S/Sgt. Robert Ledford, T/Sgt. Howard Hardrath, Cpl. Clyde Nichols, Pfc. Rodwell Burbridge, Pvt. Olindo Grasso and Lt. Barney Taylor.

GI's Give Score On War Hardships

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Six wounded war veterans, all of them members of CIO unions, gave delegates to the CIO convention a vivid impression of some of the blood and terror of war, at an Army Show presented by Lt. Col. A. H. Brawner, director of the Labor Branch, Sixth Service Command, U. S. Army. All have been given the Purple Heart.

They were men of few words, for the most part. Their stories were told briefly in startling bits of understatement drawn out by the questioning of Maj. Hale Nelson, as he introduced them one by one to the tensely listening delegates.

There was Cpl. Clyde Nichols of Odell, Ark., member of the Gas, Coke & Chemical Workers, who found himself the sole surviving man of a gun crew of 12, the other 11 killed by enemy gunfire, and he seriously wounded. And Pvt. Olindo Grasso, member of the United Auto Workers, who was injured so badly while serving in the Italian campaign that he was given the last rites of the Catholic Church.

Two members of the United Steelworkers, Staff Sgt. Robert Ledford from Sheffield, Ill., and Pfc. Rodwell Burbridge of Chicago, who used to work for Youngstown Sheet & Tube, answered Major Nelson gravely with no words wasted. Ledford was wounded twice in Italy; Burbridge got his wound stripes in France.

Tech Sgt. Howard Hardrath of Unity, Wis., former member of the United Federal Workers, whose outfit was the first to enter Cherbourgh, admitted when questioned by the Major that he had shrapnel wounds in his leg to keep this exciting event ever fresh in his memory.

Last to tell his story was Lt. Barney Taylor, member of the American Newspaper Guild, who served in the Normandy campaign, was wounded twice, and has been recommended for a Silver Star.

Lieutenant Taylor, who spoke at greater length than the others, gave a vivid account of some of his war experiences and then entertained the convention with stories of the exploits and sayings of an amusing fellow in his outfit named Abe who always came up unexpectedly with some new "postwar plan" of his own, at the most harrowing moments.

Other features of the Army Show were selections played by the 347th Army Service Forces Band, including "Salute to the CIO" and "March of the Men of Steel" dedicated to the United Steelworkers, and a judo exhibition presented by Capt. K. G. Vail, judo instructor at Fort Custer, Battlecreek, Mich.

The show closed with an exciting performance in which dogs trained for war were put through their paces amidst the roar and crackle of gun fire.

Cannery Workers Will Meet Dec. 4

Sixty-eight thousand members in more than 30 states will be represented by delegates to the fifth annual convention of the CIO United Cannery Workers to open Monday, Dec. 4, at the Hotel Sylvania, Philadelphia.

Harold Lane, Int'l sec-treas., said plans will be made to build the union and to conduct organizing drives. The Cannery Workers, it is anticipated, will take a stand on Pepper resolution for the 65-cent minimum wage, as members of the union include low-paid workers.

Donald Henderson is general president of the union.

Included on the program will be a Pearl Harbor Day ceremony to honor members now in the armed forces and those who gave their lives fighting fascism.

UAW Wins Veteran-Aid Award

Chicago, Nov. 25—Service to veterans by the CIO United Auto Workers Union was honored this week at the CIO Convention. UAW-CIO Pres. R. J. Thomas accepted for his organization the presentation of a plaque, the John A. Bushemi award, given by the Natl. CIO War Relief Committee to the CIO union which has done most for veterans of World War II.

The plaque, in handsome silver and designed by Sculptor Enrico Alfredo, was presented by Chairman Irving Abramson of the War Relief Committee.

Abramson pointed out that the UAW has established a War Policy Division, headed by Thomas and staffed by a full-time crew of six persons who work solely on veterans' problems.

A feature of the presentation was the presence on the platform of the Bushemi family, whose hero, John, a member of the CIO Newspaper Guild, was killed in the Marshall Islands while photographing a battle.

Present with Peter and Mrs. Bushemi, father and mother of John, were two other sons, Frank and Marion. Two other sons are overseas. Every member of the family eligible by his job to belong to a union is a member of the CIO.

Ban on Job Bias Asked By CIO

Chicago, Nov. 25—Again reaffirming "its unwavering opposition to discrimination against the Negro people or any other minoritey" the CIO convention urged all affiliated unions to seek the incorporation into collective bargaining agreements of the provision "that no person seeking employment shall be discriminated against because of race, creed, color or place of origin."

Work of the President's Committee on Fair Employment Practices was commended and Congress was urged to make the Committee permanent.

"Out of this war must emerge a complete understanding and determination on the part of the American people that full political and economic equality must be accorded to all Americans," the anti-discrimination resolution declared.

"Jim Crowism, the abominable poll tax, and other form of discrimination and bigotry must be excised from our national life. The struggle against the vicious practices would be the strongest weapon in forging real and effective national unity among all decent-minded Americans."

Let 'em hatch, Brother, let 'em hatch!

THOSE WAR BONDS you're buying today—what a beautiful nest egg they're making for your future!

In ten years, you'll get back four dollars for every three dollars you invest now.

That is—unless you redeem them before they mature.

You see, in one respect, War Bonds are like eggs—you've got to let 'em hatch to get the most profit from them.

So let 'em hatch, Brother, let 'em hatch!

Sure, there may be times when you need money. But before you cash in your War Bonds, take a minute to think of the future—and then stick those precious Bonds back in their hiding place!

Here's something else to remember. Whenever a War Bond is redeemed before maturity, it means not only less profit for the person who cashes it in—it also takes those dollars out of the fight.

So be smart. Buy all the War Bonds you can. Put them where they'll be safe—and let 'em hatch!

WAR BONDS to Have and to Hold

Sponsored by

COMBUSTION ENGINEERING CO.

CHICAGO, ILL.

No Soft Peace For Axis—CIO

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—CIO's postwar plans include no room for a soft peace or an easy retirement for Nazi and Japanese war criminals after the victory, according to a resolution demanding stern punishment and the complete extermination of all remnants of Fascism and aggression, passed by the CIO convention.

To achieve this, the CIO supports world security organization as outlined at Dumbarton Oaks, Bretton Woods and other United Nations meetings, and pledges support to the struggles for freedom of the peoples of China, India and other oppressed nations.

"There cannot and must not be any negotiated or soft peace," the resolution said. "With the military defeat of Nazi Germany, there will arise the all-important question of guaranteeing that every phase of Nazism shall be wiped off the face of the earth.

"The murderers of Maidanek must not be permitted to escape retribution. The full and stern punishment of war criminals must be assured. The German people must be taught that they shall atone for the crimes and horrors they have visited on this earth.

"The German industrialists and Junkers shall not receive any amnesty through their business and social contacts in the victorious nations to renew their drive for world conquest in the future."

CIO 'Belongs,' Kelly to Parley

Chicago, Nov. 25—"We in Chicago feel that we are the center of real intelligent leadership both in labor and industry, and we think that you belong right in this city," Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago told delegates in a speech of welcome to the CIO convention.

"You typify everything that Chicago stands for," he said. "It has 30 different 'races,' 60 different dialects, and all of that blood is running in just one direction and that direction is for the good of mankind, the winning of the war and the winning of the peace."

Praise Tito's Fight to Free Yugoslavs

Chicago, Nov. 25—Support for the fight of the Yugoslavs led by Marshal Tito and for the Italian Confederation of Labor in its struggle to rebuild democracy in Italy were voiced by two CIO convention resolutions.

Praising the "heroic and almost barehanded struggle of Tito's Partisans, the convention urged support for the Committee for a Yugoslav Relief Ship to take "food, clothing and medical supplies to the heroic Yugoslav people."

The CIO gave its "wholehearted support to the Italian Confederation of Labor in its fight in the interests of the people of Italy" and sent thanks and fraternal greetings to all who aided CIO's delegate, George Baldanzi of Textile Workers, in his recent trip to that country.

3 CIO Delegates to Attend Latin-American Union Meets

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Three CIO delegates will go to Latin-American union meetings early next month, Jacob S. Potofsky, chairman of the CIO Latin-American committee, announced during the CIO convention.

The three men, who go as fraternal delegates of CIO, are O. A. Knight of the Oil Workers and Joseph P. Selly of the Communications Union, attending the Confederation of Latin-American Workers (CTAL) meeting in Cali, Colombia, Dec. 10, and Willard S. Townsend, of Transport Service, going to the Cuban Confederation of Labor meeting in Havana, Cuba, Dec. 1.

In addition, the committee presented an outline of a program of economic aid to Latin-American countries to the convention, with chief emphasis on industrialization. The program was drawn up by David J. McDonald and Martin C. Kyne.

The resolution, after hailing the CTAL, praised the good neighbor policy and endorsed Secretary of State Hull's policy of refusing recognition to the Fascist regime in Argentina.

"We strongly condemn the present Fascist regime in Argentina and support the policy of Secretary Hull in refusing recognition," Potofsky said in discussing the work of the committee.

CIO War Bond Record

Washington, Nov. 25—More than 7,500 international and local unions of the CIO now have substantial portions of their funds invested in war bonds, reports to the U. S. Treasury indicate. These investments range from a few hundred dollars for the smaller local unions to more than $500,000, representing purchases of the United Steel workers.

Rabbi Backs Annual Wage

Chicago, Nov. 25—Taking as his theme the symphony written by the great Russian composer, Shostakovich, during the invasion of Russia by the Nazis, Rabbi Louis Binstock of the Temple Sholom here, compared the movements of this symphony to the situation now facing America and the world.

"Our job is to do what this Russian artist did," he said, "write a symphony in this dark hour for the future . . . a world symphony which I hope will be played by a world orchestra and so played that never again will dissension and disunity dishearten or mar the life of man on earth."

In the course of his speech, Rabbi Binstock expressed hearty approval of the annual wage program of the CIO. "I say to you that a nation that can afford to spend billions of dollars to fashion the tools of death can afford to spend billions of dollars to fashion the instruments of life," he said.

United Labor Legislative Program

Chicago, Nov. 25—A united labor legislative program, with wholehearted cooperation by CIO, AFL and Railroad Brotherhoods on issues vital to all, was urged by the CIO Convention.

A resolution expressing these sentiments noted that labor took a licking on the Kilgore Reconversion bill because support by the CIO, AFL and Brotherhoods "unfortunately was not based upon a united effort of these forces."

Joint action was urged on a program covering such issues as the Kilgore Bill, extension of social security, legislation to insure the maximum prosecution of the war, and the establishment of an international security organization.

We're backing them up . . .

There's a day coming when the enemy will be licked, beaten, whipped to a fare-thee-well—every last vestige of fight knocked out of him.

But, in the meantime, we're backing up our fighting men to the limit!

We're working longer hours, keeping on the job, speeding up production of the things they must have—to hasten the Victory that will bring them back home again.

We're saving gasoline and rubber and paper and scrap—to give our fighting men the tools to knock the "Heil" out of Hitler—to sink the Rising Sun without a trace.

We're doing without, fighting the black market, keeping prices down to make America the kind of place they will want to come back to.

We're buying, and holding, more and more War Bonds—right now at the rate of over $3,000,000 a month!

And we'll keep on doing all of these things until the time comes when we can lay down our tools and cheer for the greatest Victory in history.

The 116,000 men and women of Westinghouse

who have already purchased more than $90,000,000 in War Bonds

Major Resolutions of

Political Action

WHEREAS, The historic contribution which the CIO Political Action Committee made to the successful results of the election fully demonstrates the wisdom and foresight of President Murray and the Executive Board in establishing the Committee in July, 1943. Just as CIO met a vital national need when it organized the unorganized workers of the mass production industries into powerful industrial unions, so again it has blazed a new trail by providing opportunity to the American people, both within and without the ranks of labor, for organized, energetic and planned participation in independent political action.

WITH the reelection of President Roosevelt, the strengthening of the progressive forces in Congress, and the defeat of a number of outstanding isolationists and reactionaries, the first immediate objective of the Committee has been realized. But the great goals to which CIO together with all progressive Americans are dedicated still lie ahead: winning the speediest possible victory in the war and exterminating every vestige of Fascism, Nazism, and Japanese Imperialism; the establishment of an enduring peace; the planning of a domestic economy which will yield full production, full employment and real security for the American people; the strengthening of the basis of our democracy to assure full political and civil equality and equal economic and cultural opportunities for all men and women of every race, creed, and color. The electoral victory which we have won does not of itself guarantee the attainment of these goals. It has, however, won us the opportunity to carry forward the struggle for their attainment under far more favorable conditions.

THE FULL participation of CIO in conduct of this struggle requires the continuance of our mobilization in the political field. In addition, the contribution which the CIO Political Action Committee made during the course of the campaign to the development of united action with forward looking leaders of the American Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods, the rank and file of these organizations, and progressive individuals and groups outside of the ranks of labor must be continued and extended.

THE EXPERIENCE of this election campaign has fully confirmed the correctness of our decision to abstain from and discourage any move in the direction of a third party. We reaffirm that decision and reject any and all proposals for a third party. A third party would serve only to split and divide the forces of progress at the very moment when unity is our greatest need. The political activity of CIO must and will be continued on an independent and nonpartisan basis, giving support to the progressive forces in both major parties and basing its judgment of candidates solely on their records.

THE IMMEDIATE political tasks of CIO are:

(a) To maintain and to stimulate the activities of existing political action committees established in state and city industrial union councils and local unions and to establish such bodies where they are not now organized.

(b) To maintain, extend and stimulate the activity of community organizations formed under the leadership or with the participation of CIO.

(c) To promote united action in the political field in collaboration with other organizations of labor, progressive groups, and forward looking leaders of the two major political parties.

(d) To continue and intensify the work of securing the fullest possible exercise of the right of franchise by organization for a maximum registration and vote.

(e) To carry on the work of political education through the publication and distribution of pamphlets, servicing the labor press, the use of the radio, and all other appropriate means.

(f) To prepare the ground work for effective participation in important local elections of 1945 and in local, state and national elections in 1946.

RESOLVED, That the CIO Political Action Committee be continued in its present form and as now constituted:

THAT THE Committee shall be charged with the task of directing the work of political education and political action of CIO and shall service, advise and coordinate the work of the political activities of CIO in the field.

THAT THIS Convention expresses its deep appreciation for the outstanding service rendered by Chairman Hillman and the members of the Political Action Committee and its grateful acknowledgement of the devoted effort of the staff of the committee, the officers of the international unions of CIO, and the thousands of CIO men and women whose energy, enthusiasm, and tireless effort made possible the successes which have been achieved.

Wage Policy

WHEREAS, The CIO and its affiliated unions have, during the past year, been prosecuting the several cases before the National War Labor Board to obtain wage adjustments in the face of the rise in the cost of living beyond the 15 per cent of the original Little Steel Formula, to eliminate the wage bracket system imposed by the War Labor Board and to improve prevailing substandard conditions.

AFTER ONE full year, the War Labor Board continues to fumble, procastinate and delay, reflecting its own weaknesses, fears and lack of courage to meet its grave responsibility to the nation; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, The CIO vigorously condemns the action of the National War Labor Board in refusing to submit a recommendation to the President of the United States calling for a revision of the Little Steel formula to bring wages in realistic alignment with the sharp rise in the cost of living.

WE EXPRESS our confidence that the facts have been disclosed clearly establish the imperative need for the President to revise the Little Steel formula so as to grant the wage requests submitted by the CIO unions in their War Labor Board cases. These facts demonstrate that:

(a) Government agencies now concede that there has been a minimum rise of 30 per cent in the retail price of goods and services purchased by wage earners. The Bureau of Labor Statistics admits that its Index does not cover the real wartime rise in the cost of living. The Murray-Thomas report demonstrates that the total rise in wartime living costs from January, 1941, to March, 1944, has been approximately 45 per cent.

(b) The national economic stabilization program, enunciated by the President of the United States, projected the determination to protect wage standards against any rise in the cost of living. The national economics stabilization program, enunciated by the President of the U. S., projected the determination to protect wage standards against any rise in the cost of living. General wage rates have been effectively frozen by the War Labor Board but the same has obviously not been true for the cost of living.

(c) The demand of the CIO to revise the national wage policy, to bring wages in line with cost of living would not have any inflationary effect. Specific basic industries have been shown to be able to pay the requested wage adjustments without any need for increasing their prices. Financial reports of all corporations show that in 1944 there will be an increase of approximately 450 per cent in corporate profits before taxes, as against those enjoyed during the peacetime era of 1936-39.

(d) The important problem today is to assure continued purchasing power as against the loss in earnings due to cutbacks, cancellation of war contracts, and loss of overtime. Obviously if deflation is to be avoided, which should be our fear instead of anticipated inflation, the necessary wage adjustments should be made now to make certain that there will be the desired mass purchasing power to encourage production of peacetime goods and assure continued maximum production and full employment.

The national wage policy must be revised to afford wage earners a wage increase to meet the sharp rise in the cost of living. The productive efficiency of workers, the maintenance of a high morale, and the need for a firm economy which will assure a postwar prosperity compel such change now.

THE ABOMINABLE wage bracket system, invoked by the War Labor Board, which in operation has laid the basis for the destruction of the wage standards established through years of arduous collective bargaining, must be terminated. The national wage policy must be based upon the equitable principle that within each industry there shall be equal pay for similar work.

Order No. 31 of the War Labor Board must be repealed and automatic progression within rate ranges be permitted.

THE NATIONAL War Labor Board has determined that a wage rate of 50 cents or higher does not reflect a substandard condition. This flies in the face of the hardships which confront a wage earner who must support himself and his family on that meager wage. There should be an immediate adjustment by the War Labor Board, which has the authority to do so, raising such standard up to a minimum of 65 cents, below which all wages shall be considered as substandard and to be thereby raised to the minimum.

SOME EMPLOYERS have already indicated their antici-

1944 CIO Convention

ated desire to cut wage rates uring reconversion. It is imperative that the War Labor Board dopt a firm and unswerving policy ot to permit and to directly proibit any such wage cuts. The merican people do not intend to olerate any policy of wage cuts hen the need of maintaining an ncreased purchasing power to ecure full production and full mployment has become so clear.

No-Strike Pledge

WHEREAS, The working men and women of this nation desire above anything else to exert ll their effort and energy toward chieving maximum production of ar materials. The CIO, at the utset of this war, gave its no-trike pledge which it has religiusly maintained;

WE RECOGNIZE that a strike or stoppage of work, frequently provoked by management r caused by the weaknesses and elay of government agencies, nust necessarily interfere with his effort for all-out production nd to that extent actually assists ur enemies and endangers the ife of those men and women on he battlefronts fighting the Axis rmies;

LABOR does not regard its no-strike pledge as a bargaining natter with our nation. To the ontrary, we recognize that the nemies of our war effort would onstantly seek to provoke labor nto engaging in strikes and that here are employers who, for their wn personal profit, would endeavr to take advantage of our war ituation and attempt to exploit abor regardless of the impact of heir policies upon the war effort. This has involved sacrifices by abor to assure continuous and naximum production of war materials for our armed forces; now, herefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the CIO hereby reaffirms its solemn pledge hat until we have accomplished a omplete and absolute destruction f the German and Japanese miliary forces there can be no quesion of our basic responsibility to he nation to continue intact our o-strike pledge.

Each member and leader of oranized labor must make it his esponsibility to the nation to disharge with scrupulous care this acred obligation.

WE MUST recognize that for the duration of the war all ssues in dispute between labor nd management must be adjusted hrough the peaceful means of ollective bargaining, mediation, r through disposition by the National War Labor Board.

FURTHER, we must rocegnize that to assure the prosecution of the war program and to prevent special groups from exploiting labor or benefiting from the sacrifices of others, organized labor has the task of mobilizing the people on the legislative and political fronts behind a program designed to meet the basic economic problems arising out of the war and to protect the interests of the common people.

On Veterans

WHEREAS, the unity between our fighting men and the working men and women of the production lines who make up the CIO has been built and maintained through our common war effort.

This unity is forged in our common stake in victory over Axis oppression and is born of the fact that workers and fighters in this war are of the same roots in the American people.

Despite malicious attempt to divide the American people on the home front from their sons and brothers on the fighting fronts, this unity has not been broken.

In addition, it must be recalled that 1,500,000 members of the CIO are today serving in the armed forces, using the weapons and supplies produced by their fellow CIO members at home.

The interests of veterans returning from the fighting fronts are identical with those of workers at home, and can only be served through the carrying out of the program of jobs for all and security that has been outlined by the CIO.

This program of jobs and security can only be guaranteed to veterans through the continued existence and strength of industrial unions, which offer them a protection that goes beyond the present provisions of law and a protection that is assured through the operation of collective bargaining contracts; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, that the CIO shall continue to press its program for full production, full employment and security for all and assure means of furthering the welfare of workers and veterans and all the people of the United States.

THE CIO recommends to its affiliated unions to provide in their collective bargaining agreements that veterans who are employed for the first time in their plants be accorded cumulative seniority rights for the time spent in service since September 1, 1940, to the date of the passage of the Selective Service Act.

THE CIO and its affiliated unions shall of course continue their present practice of waiving any requirement of initiation fees from those veterans who upon returning to employemnt desire to become members of our unions.

THE CIO and its affiliated unions will protect the accrued seniority of veterans who upon their discharge from the service seek to return to their jobs. In this way the veteran will be entitled to his job on the basis of cumulative seniority including the period in the service. However, we deplore the action of certain administrative officials who have promoted the illusion among veterans that their way of securing jobs is through displacing workers with longer seniority. The application of any such practice would only create a conflict between the veterans of this war and veterans of the last war or between veterans and other workers who were deferred not because of their own request but in the interest of the war effort.

THE CIO urges all its affiliated unions to establish committees on a local and national basis to aid veterans in securing jobs, in obtaining the benefits to which they are entitled under various legislative enactments, and in securing all needed aid in retraining, rehabilitation, and other measures to promote a secure and easy return to civilian life.

THE CIO calls upon the administrative agency charged with the responsibility of interpreting the G. I. Bill of Rights to do so liberally so that every returning serviceman and woman can easily obtain education, financial and employment opportunity, and pledges its support behind all needed changes in existing legislation designed to aid veterans.

THE CIO pledges to continue to work with established organizations of veterans to further these and all other aims of mutual benefit to veterans and to the people of the United States.

Intl. Labor Unity

WHEREAS, The CIO has consistently urged the establishment of international labor unity, including the unions of all the United Nations and the free countries. Such unity is essential to speeding victory in the war and to establishment of a just and lasting peace after the war.

THE UNSHAKABLE unity of the United Nations during the war has been based on the fighting strength furnished by labor, which provided the material and political strength needed to carry out the decisions of the leaders of the United Nations.

If labor is to have a voice in the history-making decisions that are being made and will be made in the peace settlements, it must present a united voice through a positive, working alliance of the laboring people of the free world.

IN OUR own hemisphere, the resistance to the fascist trends and the affirmative aid to the prosecution of the war by the United Nations has been due to the existence of free trade unions wherever they have been able to function. Cooperation and collaboration between the labor organizations of the Latin American countries and their Confederation, the CTAL and the CIO has been of utmost mutual value.

THE RE-EMERGENCE of organized labor in the liberated countries of Europe, first as the spearhead of the various resistance movements and then as a vital partner in the rebuilding of free institutions, has underlined the importance of our cooperation with them.

THE REBUILDING of trade unions in countries yet to be liberated and finally in the enemy nations themselves is the surest guarantee of a rebirth of democracy and of world security.

THROUGH international labor collaboration the trade unions will be in a position to guarantee to the people of the world that every phase of Nazism shall be wiped off the face of the earth and assure the full and stern punishment of war criminals. It must be made clear to the German people that they shall atone for the crimes and horrors that they have visited upon this earth; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, The CIO endorses and approves President Murray's action in accepting an invitation of the British Trades Union Congress to attend both a preliminary conference in London on December 4 of representatives of the British Trades Union Congress, the Soviet Union, and of the United States, and the full conference in the same city early in January of next year.

THE CIO supports the project of a new single powerful international labor body that shall include all the unions of free countries on a basis of equality, excluding none and relegating none to a secondary place, and be capable of defending the interests of the common man.

CANDID: This shot of delegates from the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers, attending the CIO convention, was made when they were listening to one of the speeches.

F. C. Smith Resigns NMU Post

New York, Nov. 25—The Nat'l. Maritime Union council at a recent meeting accepted "with deepest regret" the resignation of Ferdinand C. Smith as national secretary. Smith, an official of the union since its inception, remains a member in good standing.

A council statement hailed Smith as an outstanding leader in his union and country and noted that reactionary newspapers had "launched an attack on Smith's status as a citizen and a leader of his union" precisely at the moment the union was sending him on a nationwide tour to inform the Negro people of the issues facing the country in the recent elections.

A union committee, investigating the charges that Smith was not a citizen, learned that he had entered the country legally in 1918 and had filed his entention to become a citizen in 1920. Because of frequent sea duty, however, Smith neglected to complete the necessary legal steps to secure his citizenship.

According to the union constitution, only American citizens are eligible to hold union offices.

In his resignation, Mr. Smith said:

"I must take that step which will make it impossible for this issue to be utilized by forces hostile to the union to split or weaken the union in any way."

Highlander School Plans New Course

Chicago, Nov. 25 — Plans for a one-month leadership training school to be held at Highlander Folk School, Monteagle, Tenn., were outlined this week at a special conference held during the National CIO convention. The meeting was attended by CIO regional directors in southern states from Maryland to Texas, and by the Highlander executive council and former students at the school.

This is the second CIO-sponsored school to be held at Highlander. Students for the coming term will be selected by the regional directors from among the leaders of southern CIO locals.

The training course will take up union problems, organizing techniques, procedures of the War Labor Board and Natl. Labor Relations Board and legislative and political action. Further plans will be formed at a meeting to be held in Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 20-21, when a directing committee will be set up.

CIO leaders who have expressed strong approval of the CIO training school include L. S. Buckmaster, vice-president, United Rubber Workers; Miss Lucy Mason, CIO public relations representative in the South; George S. Mitchell, Southeastern Political Action director; and Ben Signal, adviser to CIO members of the WLB.

Chicago, Nov. 25—A national adult educational program, supported with federal funds in cooperation with and administered by the various states, was urged in a resolution passed this week by the CIO convention.

WALTER LAIB, General Manager

WOLF DETROIT ENVELOPE COMPANY

TELEPHONE MADISON 2200
530 PIQUETTE AVENUE
DETROIT 2, MICHIGAN

Telephone 2221
530 Piquette Avenue
Detroit 2, Michigan

CARL A. KNISELY, Sales Manager

CONGRATULATIONS

DELEGATES

On the Success of Your

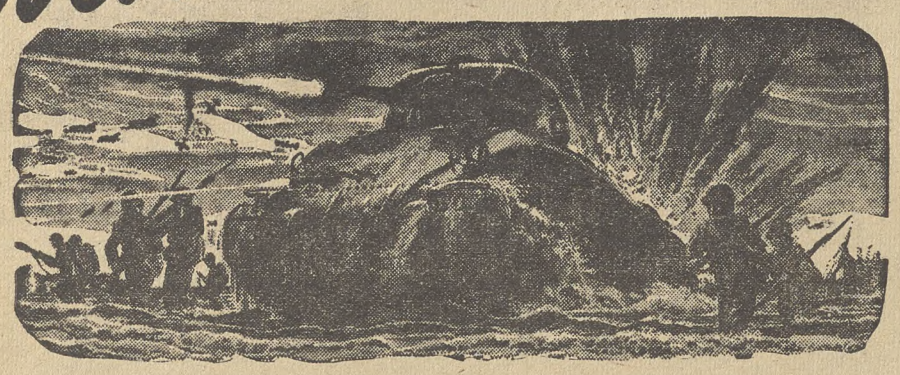
7TH CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

Chicago's Labor Bank

AMALGAMATED TRUST & SAVINGS BANK

111 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Where would we be if THEY said — "We've done enough?"



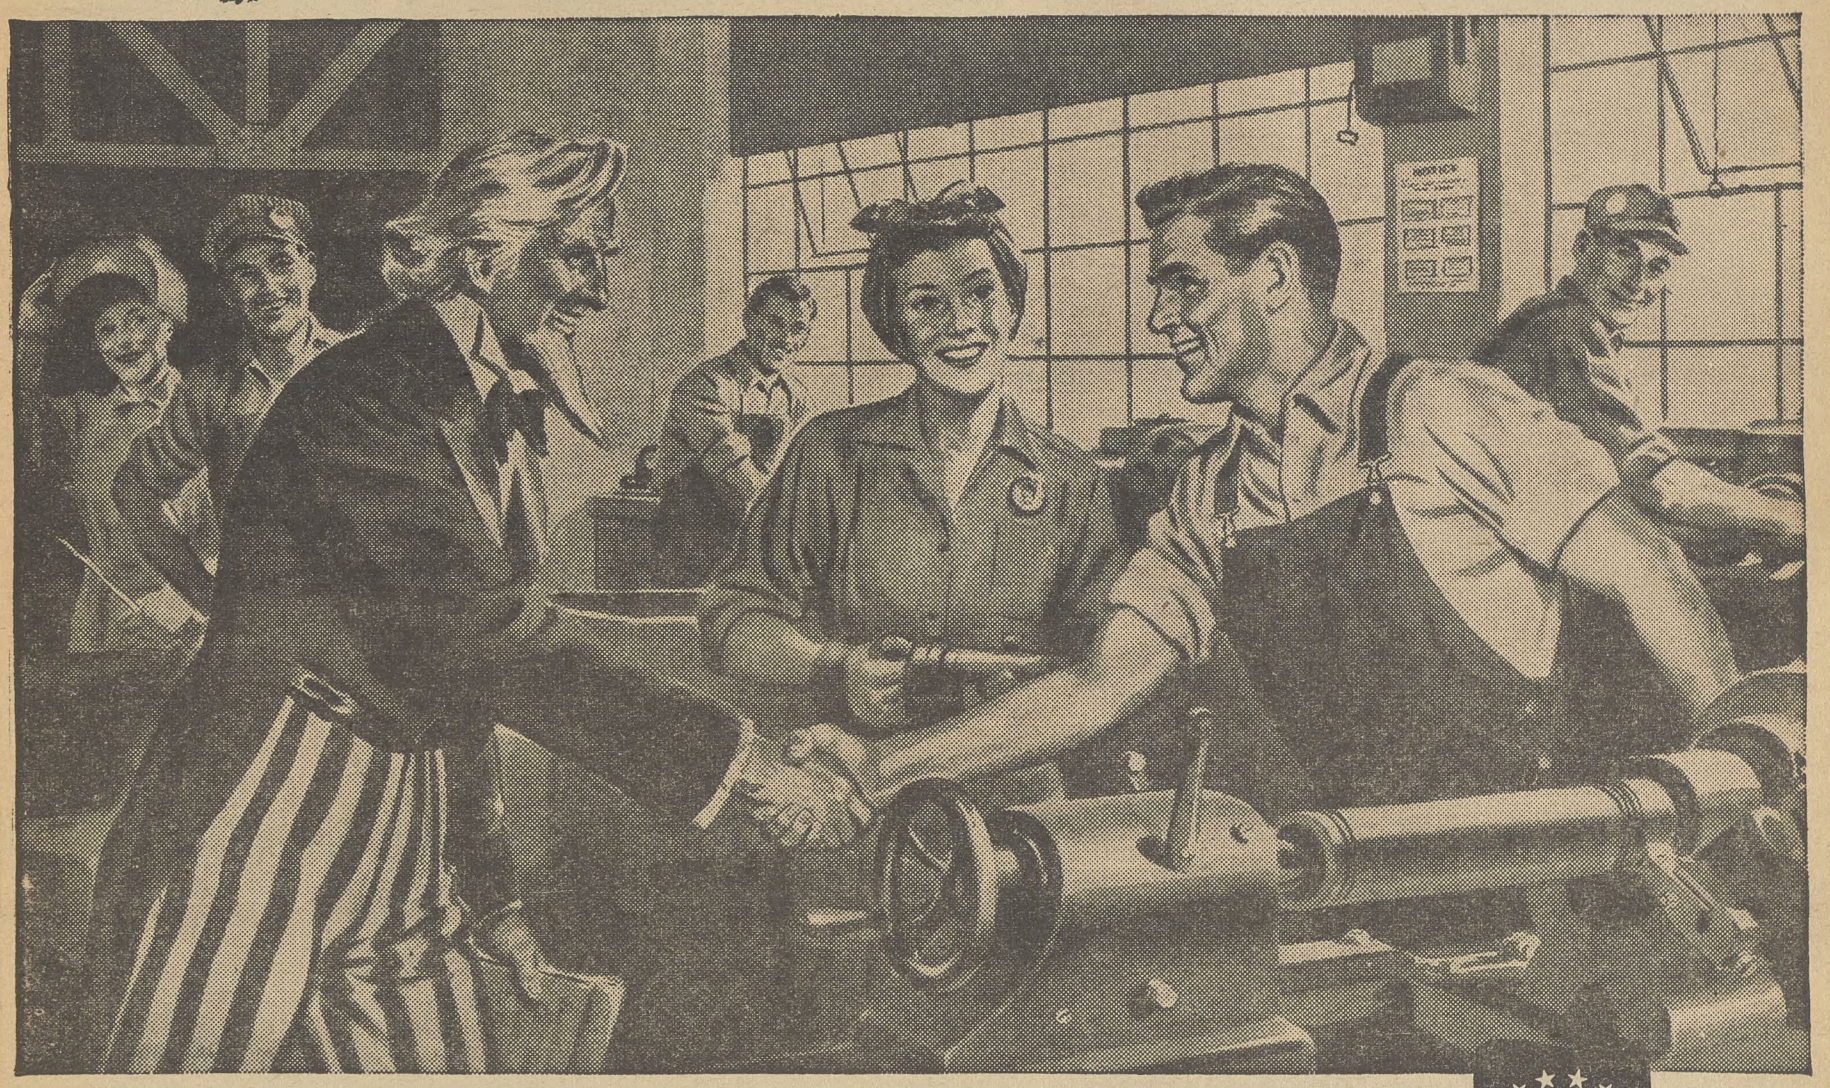
DO MORE FOR THE INVASION --AT LESS THAN $100

MONROE AUTO EQUIPMENT CO.

MONROE, MICHIGAN

WHEN YOUR CO-WORKER SAYS:

"HOW ABOUT SIGNING UP FOR EXTRA WAR BONDS ON THE PAYROLL PLAN?"



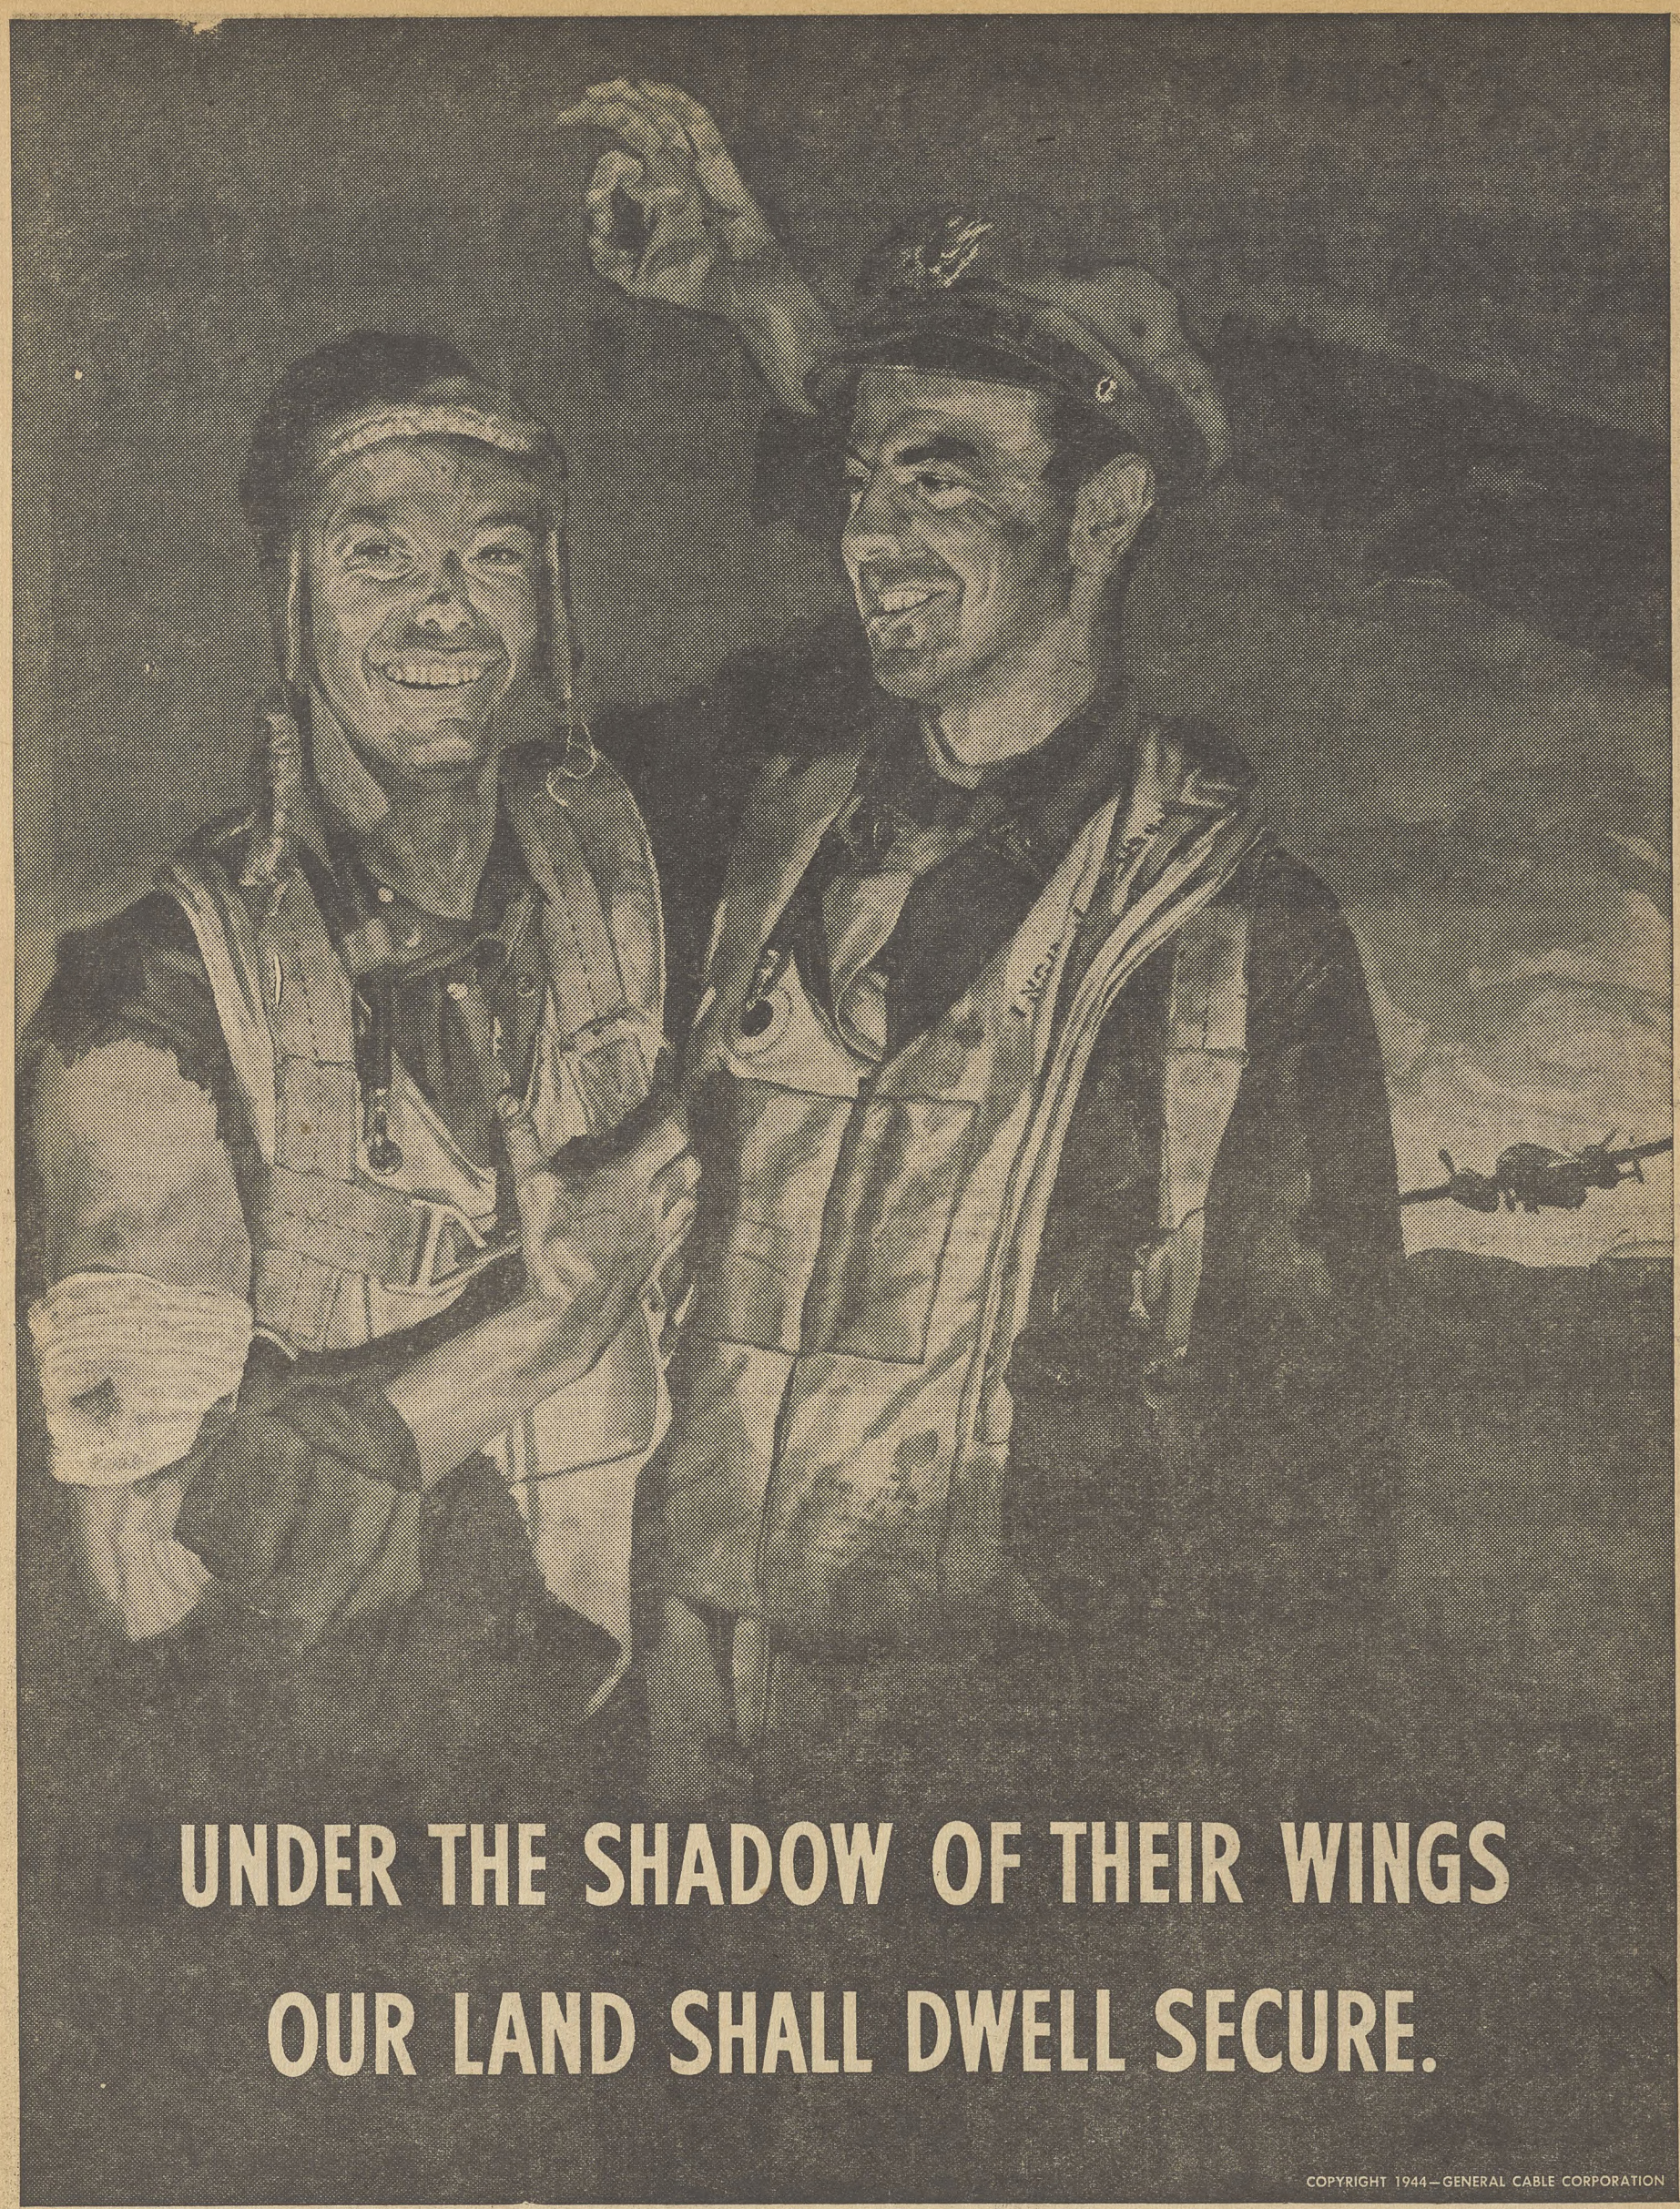
Remember it's Uncle Sam asking you to

BACK THE 6TH FOR FINAL VICTORY

Starts Nov. 20th

NOTE: This patriotic message sponsored by the following Chicago firms:

Arrco Playing Card Co.
Custom Printing Co.
I. Esses
Fashion Clothing Co.
I. H. Freeman
Nathan Gefter
General Transformer Corp.
Grand Sheet Metal Works
Grunwald Plating Co., Inc.
E. J. Gutmann & Co
Hoffman Stafford Tanning Co.
Illinois Zinc Co.
Industrial Lamp Co.
L. N. B., Co.
M. H. S. Co.
Metal Specialty Corp.
Monarch Leather Co.
National Steel Container Corp.
R. L. & S. Co.
M. A. Richardson Co.
Sternstein Bros.
Tuthill Pump Co.
Wheelco Co.



UNDER THE SHADOW OF THEIR WINGS
OUR LAND SHALL DWELL SECURE.

COPYRIGHT 1944—GENERAL CABLE CORPORATION

In tribute to the courage of the fighting fliers . . . and the devoted energies of all who labor to arm and equip the American Air Forces, Army and Navy . . . this newest war plant poster is gratefully dedicated.

GENERAL CABLE CORPORATION

DELEGATES: Nearly 600 of them attended the seventh CIO constitutional convention. Most of them are shown in this photo.

Labor Needs To Take To 'Mike'—CIO Rept.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Radio broadcasting is of utmost importance to labor as a medium of bringing labor's point of view to the attention of the public, and combatting anti-labor propaganda, the Committee on Press and Public Relations reported this week to the CIO convention.

"During the past election campaign in particular, several prominent radio commentators have abused their privileges and exhibited their anti-labor bias by constant attacks on labor and its leaders," the report stated.

"In all such cases, CIO unions and members are urged to protest vigorously to the commentator, his sponsor and the local broadcasting station against misstatements of fact and attempts to stir up prejudice and intolerance. Wherever necessary, time should be demanded to reply to such attacks on labor and its leaders."

The report called attention to the outstanding job done by the Political Action Committee in the past elections, in making available to the labor press the best in information, pictures, cartoons and other material.

"Today labor and its press can reap the benefits of its loyalty and its sweat," the Committee report declared, "As labor takes its place proudly in the forefront of national affairs, the labor press has a new and wider responsibility.

"To look deeper into its effectiveness and its power; to extend itself not only as a house organ, rallying its own, but to be the face and voice of labor to the citizen at large, becomes the order of the day."

In emphasizing the importance of the radio to labor, the report urged CIO unions to continue to exercise "vigilance against any and all restriction on their radio rights and to make vigorous protest against any station that unfairly denies time or censors labor's broadcast."

An encouraging development, the report stated, has been the action of three of the four national radio networks in granting the CIO regular weekly programs in 1945 on a sustaining basis.

Continuation of efforts to counteract anti-labor propaganda directed to our servicemen here and abroad was urged by the committee.

"The CIO must bear the responsibility," the report declared, "of seeing to it that the truth about labor's great contribution to the war effort is made known to all and particularly to the men and women in uniform."

Board Okays Oil Workers' Severance

A joint application by the Sinclair Oil Corp., N. Y., and the CIO Oil Workers Union for approval of a liberalized severance pay plan has been approved by the War Labor Board.

The plan provides for one week's severance pay after one year of service, two weeks after two years, three weeks after five years, and four weks after ten years. About 9,000 employes will be affected by the plan.

L. J. IMBER
COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber, Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE
METAL LITHOGRAPHED
BUTTONS

for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES

Recognized Union Labels

No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in

Light and Heavy Stamping - Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and Special Stampings - Tools and Dies
N. Y. Representative, Herbert R. Lerman, 37 E. 14th St., Algonquin 4-3356

L. J. IMBER COMPANY
1725-41 W. North Ave., Chicago 22, Illinois
BRUnswick 7815

CONGRATULATIONS
CIO
DELEGATES OF THE 7TH CONVENTION ON YOUR FINE WORK
from
The Manufacturers Of ACW

UNION MADE SUIT — ISSUED BY AMALGAMATED CLOTHING WORKERS OF AMERICA — AUTHORITY OF CLOTHING WORKERS OF AMERICA — SERIES B

UNION MADE

LEATHER and LEATHER PALM
WORK GLOVES
20th CENTURY GLOVE COMPANY
Manufacturers of Leather and Leather Combinations
WORK GLOVES • DRIVERS • MITTENS
2652-2656 BELDEN AVENUE • CHICAGO 47, ILLINOIS

Your Blood Donation Will Save Him

Wounded Marine being transferred from Barge to PT Boat, Cape Gloucester, New Britain. Army Signal Corps Photo

YOUR BLOOD DONATION WILL SAVE HIM—
That is IF you have given blood

IF NOT, WHY NOT?
and
WHY NOT TODAY?

Call the Red Cross TODAY for Appointment

DON'T LET YOUR ARMED FORCES DOWN

This very important war message made possible by the patriotic firms listed hereon

Accurate Parts Mfg. Co.
Acme Packing & Supply Co., Inc.
Advance Mfg. Co
Agerstrand Corporation
John Bean Mfg. Co.
Big 4 Cartage Co
Craftsman Tool & Die Co.
Differential Wheel Corp.
Hardie Mfg. Co.
Hydro Mfg Co.
Industrial Automatic Co.
I. C. P., Co.
Keystone Press, Inc.
A. C. Klopping Stamping Co.
L. C. Co.
Leake Stamping Co.
Metal Parts Machine Co.
Michigan Rust Proof Co.
Michigan Scrap Iron & Metal Co.
Montague Casting Co.
Printz Electric Co.
R. M. Co.
Troy Tool and Gauge Co.
W. & C. Corp.
Weldig Gas & Equipment Co.
Williams & Houghton Printing.

Cut Taxes On 'Little Man,' CIO Proposal

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Taxes on the "little man" should be lowered to help maintain postwar purchasing power and improve the living standards of the people, the CIO convention declared this week by resolution. The CIO said that there are two main tax problems for 1945—furnishing adequate revenue for the successful prosecution of the war, and checking developments that would cut sharply into mass purchasing power.

At the same time that the Convention urged continuation after victory of current tax rates on corporation and personal incomes above $5,000 a year, it also recommended special tax relief to small business and to new business enterprises started after V-E Day.

"A most vicious proposed measure," the CIO warned, "is the suggested amendment to the U. S. Constitution which would limit the power of Congress to levy taxes on incomes, inheritances and gifts beyond 25 per cent. This is designed to place the heaviest burden of taxation on labor, farmers and small businessmen."

The convention noted that this amendment has been endorsed by 14 state legislatures, and urged CIO representatives to be alert in opposing further approval of it.

The CIO called for raising of personal income tax exemptions to $2,000 for a married couple and $1,000 for a single person, with $500 credit for each child or other dependent, and also asked repeal of a camouflaged victory tax.

Among other recommendations of the Convention were: plugging of tax loopholes by which corporations and wealthy individuals frequently evade their responsibilities; rejection of any type of sales tax; and extension to individuals of the "carry-back-carry-forward" provision enjoyed by corporations, which are allowed to average their profits and losses over a five-year period in computing taxes.

"The major guiding principle for a national tax program must be the maintenance and extension of purchasing power of the people," the Convention decided. "We must avoid the old and discredited Mellon-Hoover theory of letting prosperity trickle down from the corporations and high income groups to the lower ones."

Blast Open Shop State Legislation

Chicago, Nov. 25—State legislation aimed at returning labor to the days of the open shop was strongly condemned at the CIO Convention this week.

The parley noted that five states have passed such legislation, and that two of these, Florida and Arkansas, have enacted constitutional amendments banning the union shop.

The delegates voted to push legal action designed to prove such laws are unconstitutional, and recommended the fullest possible cooperation with the AFL and other labor and progressive groups to seek their repeal.

The convention declared that the laws constitute a serious threat to democracy itself by abrogating the rights of union members to free speech, press and assembly as exercised through union organization."

Ask Reilly Ouster From Labor Board

Chicago, Nov. 25—Three demands for the improved administration of the Natl. Labor Relations Board were included in a resolution passed this week at the CIO convention:

1. Removal from the Board of Gerard Reilly, charged by the CIO with "bias, prejudice and unprincipled administration."

2. Elimination of the "vicious Frey rider" to the Appropriations Act for the NLRB, on the basis that it has drastically curtailed the right of workers to choose collective bargaining agencies.

3. Consistent following of a policy based on the fundamental principles of the Wagner Act and an end to attempts to appease those seeking to destroy labor's rights.

CIO Stands Firm Against 'Service' Law

Chicago, Nov. 25—Continued use of voluntary methods to recruit workers for vital war jobs, instead of national service legislation, was advocated by the CIO Convention this week.

Affiliated unions piedged to do all in their power to help man war plant jobs, but also called on responsible government agencies to identify the jobs and to help in the solution of the problem.

"With V-E Day the restrictive controls which have been accepted by labor should be relaxed as speedily as is consistent with the prosecution of the war against Japan and the orderly transition to a peacetime economy," the convention stated.

The CIO urged continuation of the U. S. Employment Service to aid in solving national job problems, as well as continuation of "the structure of labor-management committees . . . in order to deal with the manifold problems of reconversion of peace."

Ask 1st Class Citizenship For U. S. Workers

Chicago, Nov. 25—Rights of first-class citizenship for Federal employes were demanded in a resolution passed by the CIO convention.

Provisions for fair wage standards, extension of social security and collective bargaining rights would promote "an efficient and impartial government service" and remove the adverse condition under which Federal government employes are set off from the rest of the country's workers, the resolution declared.

Abolition Of Child Labor Urged

Chicago, Nov. 25—National abolition of child labor below 16 years of age and development of a broad educational program designed to aid young people in getting better jobs, were urged this week by the CIO Convention.

Pointing out that millions of young men and women who are serving in industry and the armed services have been denied proper educational opportunities, the Convention urged in a resolution:

1. A program of federal and state aid to education, assuring attendance at college by young workers now in industry who qualify for higher education.

2. Establishment of a permanent Natl. Youth Service Administration, to act as a coordinating agency in solution of reconversion and postwar problems of youth.

3. Participation of labor, industry and government in re-establishing and strengthening federal and state laws protecting work standards for young men and women.

Invasion Movies To Aid Bond Sales

Four hundred prints of the "Normandy Invasion," U. S. Coast Guard motion picture of the assault on Europe, are being distributed by the Treasury Dept. in connection with the Sixth War Loan drive.

Copies of the film are being placed with 166 mm. film libraries throughout the country and will be available for showing in every state.

Make Anti-Semitism Illegal, CIO Urges

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Race hatred, religious bigotry and anti-Semitism were vigorously condemned by the CIO in a resolution declaring that these evils "have ever been the foes of organized labor."

"Anti-Semitism seeks to undermine the very foundations of the trade union movement," the resolution pointed out. "It seeks to set worker against worker, it seeks to uphold discrimination against workers because of their religion or race and it seeks to keep labor divided.

"This alone is sufficient to make the CIO the undying enemy of anti-Semitism and racism in any form."

ANTI-BIAS LAW

Expressing agreement with Pres. Roosevelt that anti-Semitism is "Hitler's game," the resolution urged adoption of the Dickstein Joint Congressional Resolution which incorporates the President's position on this question as the stand of the U. S. Congress, and pledged support for the enactment of a Federal law to make anti-Semitism a crime punishable by imprisonment.

The resolution hailed the formation of the Natl. Committee Against Nazi Persecution, headed by Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, and lauded the participation of CIO members in numerous community movements against anti-Semitism and race hatred which have spread throughout the country.

It condemned the Chamberlain White Paper which still discriminates against the Jews in Palestine, reaffirmed support of the program of the American Jewish Conference and endorsed the Intl. Bill of Rights proposed by the Conference.

Washington, Nov. 25 — The release of 14 new motion pictures to aid in training war production workers in vocational schools and war industries has been announced by the U. S. Office of Education. Topics include aircraft maintenance, pipefitting, welding and engineering.

BUY BONDS FROM UNCLE SAM

Buckland-Van Wald

New & Used Office Furniture

Office Machines

Service Supplies

CH. 2113

DETROIT

"DON'T FORGET--- BUY AN EXTRA BOND! TODAY!"

6th WAR LOAN DRIVE

THIS PATRIOTIC AD SPONSORED BY: THE MIDWESTERN TOOL CO. CHICAGO

the Chemistry of Hope

Liberation! Final freedom for the long enslaved . : : is surging across the world. Hope is being reborn for all humanity. : : : We begin to vision the day when the last vestige of horror will be but a shadowy memory—when, like a trusting child, we can rest secure in a productive peace.

As a nation, we have tested our strength : : : have measured our capacity : : : and the demonstrated accomplishment has been beyond our own belief.

This, then, is the chemistry of hope : : : hope compounded of great productivity —of new technological advances—of notable scientific achievements—that will carry our nation to new heights of gainful employment—to new and richer standards of living for every man, woman and child in America.

THE DOW CHEMICAL COMPANY, MIDLAND, MICHIGAN

New York • Boston • Philadelphia • Washington • Cleveland • Detroit • Chicago • St. Louis • Houston • San Francisco
Los Angeles • Seattle

DOW

CHEMICALS INDISPENSABLE TO INDUSTRY AND VICTORY

BUY AT LEAST ONE EXTRA $100 BOND

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

Edward McCrone, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., New Haven, Conn., reports: Risdon Mfg. Co., Naugatuck, Conn., IUMM & SW-CIO 167; no union 121.

Virgil Burtz, CIO Field Rep., Seattle, Wash., reports: State of Washington Toll Men of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph, ACA-CIO 63; AFL 2; Neither 40.

C. H. Gillman, CIO Reg. Dir., Atlanta, Ga., reports: Mandeville Mills, Carrollton, Ga., CIO 475; against 93. The work was under the direction of CIO Representative H. W. Denton. US & APWA won an election at Whitestone, Ga., CIO 28; against 12. Field Representative Ben Widenhouse was in charge.

Frank J. Bender, CIO Reg. Dir., Baltimore, Md., reports: T. B. Woods Plant, Chambersburg, Pa., UAW-CIO 121; neither 29. Field Representative Robert Bryle conducted the drive. This is the first CIO union in this area.

G. Geo. DeNucci, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Columbus, Ohio, reports: Wood Preserving Co., Marion, Ohio, USA-CIO 74; against 4. Henry Johnson was in charge under the direction of USA District Director Howard Porter.

A. R. Hardesty, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Dallas, Tex., reports: Hicks-Hayward Mfg. Co., El Paso, Tex, ACWA-CIO 116; against 65.

Carey E. Haigler, CIO Reg-Dir., Birmingham, Ala., reports: Bama Food Products Co., URWDSEA-CIO 30; against 5. Field Representative Clarence St. John was in charge.

Alex Bail, Secy-Treas., IUPJ & NW reports: Attleboro election won CIO 157; against 70.

Wm. B. Taylor, Dir of Orgn., OWIU reports: Bareco Oil Co., Brandsall, Okla., OWOC-CIO 137; company union 44; neither 7.

Bert Danquer, Staff Rep., USA-CIO, Syracuse, N. Y., reports: Seneca Falls Machine Co., Seneca Falls, N. Y., Machine Shop, USA-CIO 113; no union 62; AFL 1: Foundry, USA-CIO 16; no union 3.

C. Cecil Nash, Int. Rep., Un. Shoe Workers of America, Lynchburg, Va., reports: Maintenance workers of Craddock Terry Shoe Corp., Lynchburg, Va., USWA-CIO 41; against 21.

Leonard Levy, Exec. Vice Pres., URW & DSEA-CIO, reports: URW & DSEA signed an agreement with the American Furniture Mart Bldg., Inc., covering twenty-three (23) warehousemen in the largest furniture display building in the world. Result of card-check with the company, CIO 100 per cent.

Joseph D. Cannon, CIO Reg. Dir., Louisville, Ky., reports: Machined Products, USA-CIO 43; no union 16.

Samuel Macri, Field Rep., Fall River, Mass., reports: Firestone Textile Plant, Fall River, Mass., TWUA-CIO 543; AFL 413; no union 116.

FAECT-CIO reports the following election victories: Radio Receptor Corporation, N.Y.C., N. Y., technicians in test and supervision departments, FAECT 29; against 4. Standard Electronics and Standard Aircraft Products, N.Y.C., N.Y., research and development engineers and technicians, FAECT 17; against 5. Other elections were won by the FAECT at Technographic Corp. and Royer Studios, New York City, designers of technical and engineering manuals. FAECT announced the signing of a collective bargaining agreement for 150 engineers and draftsmen at Emerson Radio & Phonograph Co.

Ernest Pugh, CIO Reg. Dir., Richmond, Va., reports: National Carbide Corp., Ivanhoe, Va., Production Workers, CIO 172; AFL 23. Guards, CIO 5; AFL 0. W. I. Smith, Field Representative was in charge.

John J. Maurillo, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Syracuse, N. Y., reports: Marshal & Meadows Co., Auburn, N. Y., CIO 118; against 114.

United Shoe Workers of America reports: International Shoe Company, Mattoon, Ill., CIO 295; District 50, 99. Elmer Jones was the representative in charge.

Murray Says Our Duty To Buy War Bonds Is 'Clear'

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—CIO members and officers were urged by CIO Pres. Philip Murray in a radio address over Station WGN here "to back the Sixth War Loan Drive to the limit."

"We are proud of the war record of the CIO," he said. "One million two hundred and fifty thousand of our members are in the military service and many of them have made the supreme sacrifice.

"On the production front, the CIO has taken the leadership in the development of labor-management committees. These committees have brought a unity of purpose to management and labor which has resulted in a smashing of production records in steel, in aircraft, in shipbuilding, in the electrical industry, and everywhere CIO members are employed.

"Through the CIO National War Relief Committee, we have made unprecedented contributions to the National War Fund and the Red Cross. To do this we have developed the same unity of purpose and action between labor and management by establishing labor-management committees in approximately 4,250 industrial plants.

PAST DRIVES BACKED

"In the past bond drives, Secretary Morgenthau has asked for the support of the CIO. Each time it has been given in full measure.

"Wherever the initiative and the enterprise of CIO members have been given opportunity of expression, outstanding bond records have been established.

"Bitter struggles lie ahead, on the battlefield of Europe, in the Pacific and in the vast areas of the Far East. Production must be maintained and war costs met.

"Our patriotic duty is clear. The members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations will measure up to the task ahead. I ask of them, members and their officers alike, to back the Sixth War Loan Drive to the limit."

Washington, Nov. 25—A war veteran returning to his job is to be "re-employed at the level at which he would have been entitled if there had been no break in his service with the company," the War Labor Board has ruled.

Don't Deport Bridges, CIO Tells FDR

Chicago, Nov. 25—Urging President Roosevelt to recognize that the deportation of Harry Bridges, president of the Intl. Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, would be a "blow to morale, to national unity, and to the war production," a resolution passed this week at the CIO Convention appealed to the President to dismiss charges against Bridges and to give him every opportunity to become a citizen.

Attorney General Biddle was requested in the same resolution to release from internment Ernest Fox, member of the National Maritime Union, "whose record demonstrates his firm belief in democracy and opposition to Nazism and Fascism."

English Educator Speaks

Teaching methods and policies of labor education in England were described by Harold Sherman of the Workers Education Assn. of Great Britain at a luncheon held during the CIO convention by the CIO Dept. of Research & Education.

Although the WEA is a non-partisan organization not tied to any group, it works closely with the Labour Party, the British Trade Union Congress, and the Cooperative movement, as a sort of "fourth arm" in the labor movement, Sherman told the large group of CIO members, delegates and visitors interested in workers education who attended the luncheon.

Emphasizing that the WEA was a "grass-roots" organization working through some 800 local branches which did the "spade work," Sherman said that its teaching methods were based on the principles of freedom of inquiry, thought and discussion.

CIO Urges Anti-Politics Law's Death

Chicago, Nov. 25—The CIO this week renewed its drive for repeal of the Smith-Connally Law. The CIO Convention noted by resolution that the law, which was passed over FDR's veto, has served to encourage strikes and retard production, and added:

"The provision of this vicious legislation that seeks to deny labor organizations as democratic institutions and their members as free Americans the right to participate in the political affairs of the nation has been justly condemned by the American people.

"Results of the recent national election have demonstrated the determination of the people not to tolerate such legislation which constitutes an attack on labor's patriotism and national unity, and hence upon the war effort."

SEE YOUR
SINCLAIR DEALER
for service that makes your car last longer

We're in the war of Production

●

Enlisted for the Duration

●

LAKEY FOUNDRY & MACHINE CO.
MUSKEGON, MICH.

EVERY MAN--- EVERY MACHINE--- at
MECHANICAL PRODUCTS, INC.
Is Being Used to BEAT The AXIS
618 No. Mechanic St.
JACKSON, MICHIGAN
"We Keep 'Em Flying"

Conn. Parley Blasts Little Steel Formula

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 25—The Connecticut State Industrial Union Council, meeting here last week-end, urged immediate modification of the Little Steel Formula, renewed its no-strike pledge, urged continuance of PAC and re-elected its principle officers.

Congratulatory messages were sent the convention by President Roosevelt through a secretary, by CIO Pres. Philip Murray, CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey, and Vice-Pres. Allan S. Haywood, CIO director of organization.

The convention in resolutions: Advocated establishment of a permanent Fair Employment Practice Committee, extension of Social Security and the passage of the Murray-Wagner-Dingell Bill, and the passage of the Kilgore-Truman Bill to provide adequate unemployment payments during the reconversion period.

The following officers were re-elected: President, Edward J. Lavery, Steelworkers; secretary-treasurer, John J. Driscoll, Mine, Mill and Smelter; trustees, Daniel Gallagher, Textile Workers; Mitchell Sviridoff, Auto Workers, and Robert Webster, United Electrical.

The following vice-presidents also were elected or re-elected: Alex Cashin, Mine, Mill and Smelter; George Froehlick, Rubber Workers; James Donnelly, United Electrical; Katherine Pierce, Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Ovide Garceau, Mine, Mill and Smelter; Clyde Finnemore, Auto Workers; Martin Janow, United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store; James Connors, UE; Archie Yaple, UAW; Edward Peavy, URW; George Ashe, Steelworkers; John Bello, Dyers Federation, and Wanda Pilot, Textile Workers.

Negro Press 'Covers' CIO Convention

Chicago, Nov. 25—That the CIO and its affiliated international unions have captured the imagination and the warm support of the Negro people is seen in the large delegation of Negro workers and representatives of large Negro newspapers attending the seventh annual convention of the CIO.

While only two Negro delegates were present at the AFL's convention in New Orleans, 24 Negro delegates participated in this convention.

Though none of the nationally known Negro papers and press services covered the AFL convention in New Orleans, the top-ranking Negro labor reporters spent the week with the CIO at Chicago.

L-M Groups Praised by CIO

Chicago, Nov. 25—The CIO at its seventh convention here praised the work of the 1500 labor-management committees on which the CIO is represented, and called upon the Government to continue to assist these committees "as a technical service in this field of union-employer dealings."

V-Day Housing Need Cited By CIO

Pointing to the need for housing accentuated by the war and to construction as a source for post-war prosperity, the CIO convention here resolved to join with other groups to eliminate rural and urban slums.

The resolution also put the CIO on record as favoring both private and public programs for large-scale low-cost housing.

Parley Blasts Monty Ward

Chicago, Nov. 25—"Severe condemnation of the acts and policies" of Montgomery Ward & Co., and the chairman of its board, Sewell Avery, was expressed in a resolution adopted by the CIO's seventh convention here.

Both the War Labor Board and President Roosevelt were urged in the resolution to take all necessary steps to protect the Montgomery Ward employes and to compel the concern to obey the directives of the board in the firm's dispute with the CIO Retail, Wholesale & Dept. Store Employes and other CIO unions.

Keep Rent, Price Control CIO Urges

Chicago, Nov. 25—Holding that uncontrolled inflation at the expense of wage earners and small business men will be the result of relaxed price and rent controls, a resolution passed this week at the CIO Convention asked that the OPA maintain rent control in all areas until it has been proved unnecessary to protect the tenants living there, and to continue price ceilings on some products after V-Day.

To prevent inflationary pressure on price ceilings, the CIO appealed to the War Production Board to retain controls over the distribution, use and stock-piling of materials required by industries converting to civilian production and to require the textile and clothing industries to produce in sufficient quantity the necessary clothing and household necessities, establishing price ceilings on textile goods to thwart profiteering.

Wherever the shortage of supplies is causing hardship among workers' in obtaining necessities, rationing controls should be enforced, the resolution stressed. This includes goods returned to the market as reconversion takes place until they are produced in quantities.

Push Social Security Aid, CIO Asks

Chicago, Nov. 25—The CIO renewed its support for a program of improved and extended Social Security as outlined in the Murray-Dingell bill, in a resolution passed at the CIO Convention this week.

The resolution urged "speedy action" by committees of the House and Senate on this measure as a step toward the realization of President Roosevelt's Economic Bill of Rights.

President Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union appealed to the Convention for support of H. R. 5256, covering a broad GI program for merchant seamen. Expressing concern that the bills now being drafted might exclude a provision for unemployment insurance, Curran expressed confidence that the return to office of President Roosevelt will make possible during unemployment periods the protection of seamen who have in this war "demonstrated their courage and ability."

HOTEL TULLER

on

GRAND CIRCUS PARK

For Convenience—Economy—Comfort
800 Rooms • 800 Baths

Frank S. Booth, Mgr.

BUY YOUR 6th WAR LOAN BOND TODAY

Buhl Stamping Company

DETROIT

"Working and Fighting for Victory"

Buy AT LEAST one EXTRA $100 WAR BOND TODAY!

ROYAL MFG. CO. OF DUQUESNE
CHICAGO

EMPLOYES and MANAGEMENT of The

S & B

MACHINE SHOP

Welcome with enthusiasm every effort to discourage delay in the production of materials for our armed forces.

To the People of this Community

GI Joe in his Pacific foxhole—maybe he is your brother, husband, sweetheart or friend—is listening in on you today.

He knows you have a date with a Victory Volunteer, a neighbor with a War Bond order in his or her hand. The two of you may talk it over at your work bench, in your office or in your home. Will GI Joe pick up phrases like "I can't afford it," "I bought Bonds in the other drives," "I've just got to have that new dress," "See me tomorrow," "I'm tired of lending," "What, another Bond drive!" "Why do they have to have more money?" "We'll lick Japan with one hand tied behind our back"?

GI Joe counts on you to have enough sense and knowledge of the facts about the Pacific war to back him up in his foxhole. Any way you look at it, your answer to the Victory Volunteer will be the most important words you have spoken since Pearl Harbor. The extra $100 War Bond you buy today is a War Bond with the most power. It gives GI Joe the support he must have at the time when he needs it most. It tells Tokyo you're in the fight to the finish.

Sponsored by

JOHNSTONE TOOL & MACHINE CO.

Detroit, Mich.

"A Chain Is Only As Strong As Its Weakest Link!!"

Labor & Management must not have any weak links in Production for VICTORY to Defeat the Axis

★ ★ ★

NATIONAL STAMPING CO.

DETROIT

CIO Pledges FDR Full Production

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 — In reply to a letter from President Roosevelt commending production records but pointing out that the job of defeating our enemies is not yet done, the CIO at its seventh convention here resolved to guard against undue optimism and to support the Commander in Chief in the battle against Fascism.

The President declared that "we at home must permit no let down in our support of those who are proving once more that united free men in a vigorous democracy can always prevail over dictator ridden people."

"American men and women on assembly lines, at machines, in mines, at counters, in office work, on farms and those directing production have, almost without exception, done everything humanly possible to help our brave fighters carry on against ruthless enemies.

"They have supplied matchless guns, tanks, planes and ships in record quantities. It is a job of which workers, management and farmers may well feel proud.

JOB NOT YET DONE

"That job is not yet done, however. We must, and I know we will, keep turning out the weapons and the materials needed by our fighters so that the war may be shortened, lives saved and our boys returned at the earliest possible moment to their homes and loved ones."

In reply, the CIO said:

"We recognize the dangers in permitting undue optimism to weaken our war effort at this crucial moment and take heed that great sacrifices will still be required to bring about the unconditional surrender of our common foe.

"We shall continue, as in the past, to give to you our complete and unswerving support to accomplish the utter destruction of Hitler Germany and Japanese imperialism, the abolition of every vestige of Fascism, and establish a lasting peace with security and prosperity for our peoples and for the peoples of the free world."

Will Stay on Job Until Victory— Murray to 'Ike'

Chicago, Nov. 25—CIO Pres. Philip Murray in response to an appeal from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for more munitions and supplies this week cabled him that the seventh CIO convention had renewed its no-strike pledge and dedicated itself to "still greater effort and devotion" to furnish war materiel.

"I owe it to every GI American soldiers in this great fighting force," Eisenhower said, "to urge upon you increased production of ammunition, signal equipment, winter clothing, engineering materials, vital medical instruments, and again, ammunition, always ammunition."

"Your call for more and still more shells, artillery, trucks and other arms and supplies," Murray replied, "finds an acceptance in the CIO's unequivocal renewal of its no-strike pledge and in renewed dedication to still greater effort and devotion in the job of getting the supplies to you and your heroic men.

"Our people will stay on the job until we have given you everything you need for the final victory over the Nazis."

Medical Care, School Lunch Plans Pushed

Chicago, Nov. 25—Protection of the health and welfare of the mothers and children of the nation was urged in programs adopted this week at the CIO convention.

Declaring that it is "the right of all mothers and children, whatever their race, residence, or family income," to obtain adequate medical care, the CIO pledged to continue efforts to obtain passage of the health provisions of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill.

Support was also pledged for the school lunch program administered by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture "to make it possible for every child to have a hot, well-balanced lunch at school." Sufficient funds to carry out the program should be granted to the U. S. Office of Education, the CIO declared.

WLB Rule Aids Pay Hike Drive

Two rulings of the Natl. War Labor Board this week brought gains to workers.

The WLB empowered employers to put into effect wage increases, without Board approval, provided that they do not raise the total pay to more than 50 cents an hour. This authority extended only to a 40 cents an hour limit previously.

The WLB said that it will not discriminate against workers in Florida and Arkansas in awarding maintenance of membership clauses, despite the fact that both states passed constitutional amendments prohibiting union shops. The constitutionality of the amendments is being challenged.

NEW FCC MEMBER: Paul Porter, who handled Democratic party publicity in the recent election campaign, was appointed a member of the Federal Communications Commission. (Federated Pictures.)

CIO Meet Greets Mine Membership

Chicago, Nov. 25—Comradeship with the membership of the United Mine Workers of America was expressed this week in a resolution at the CIO convention.

Despite the "self-imposed and dictatorial leaders of that great organization," it was stated, the United Mine Workers demonstrated their position in the national election by their earnest support of the President for re-election.

Kill Hatch Act, CIO Meet Urges

Chicago, Nov. 25—Repeal of the provision in the Hatch Act which denies Federal employes their full rights and privileges as American citizens was demanded in a resolution passed at the CIO convention.

The Act, which prevents Government employes from engaging in any active political activity, relegates them to a "Class B citizenship with an inferior status in the political life of the country," the CIO declared.

AT CIO CONVENTION

Delegates Peppy, Eleanor Gracious

Chicago, Nov. 25—There was more pep displayed at this CIO Convention than there has been in years. The whole proceeding had a victory air about it, a feeling of confidence in strength that had been tested and found to be not wanting.

The convention was held in the largest hotel in the world, the Stevens. The grand ballroom was decorated with seven huge American flags, back of the speakers' platform, flanked by large pictures of FDR and President Murray.

* * *

Adding an international flavor to the gathering were flags of the United Nations, displayed at both ends of the platform.

* * *

Of interest to delegates who sat close to the speakers were the photographers, scrambling like busy beavers to photograph Mrs. Roosevelt, particularly, and other notables.

The First Lady added additional proof to her unquestioned graciousness when she consented to return to the platform to oblige two photogs who came too late to catch her speaking. Despite the fact that she had already said goodby to President Murray, she returned to pose with him just to help the boys out.

* * *

Convention speakers were presented with CIO Honored Guest badges, and in some appropriate cases, with a just-published book on CIO-PAC, "The First Round," by Joseph Gaer. Murray seemed delighted in his role as a November Santa Claus.

* * *

Some of the speakers from the floor had "mike" trouble. Seems as though it takes awhile for an announcing system to warm up. One man in difficulty for purely mechanical reasons was NMU Pres. Joseph Curran, who found that the pesky gadget kept slipping down to waist-high level. Cracked President Murray: "The delegate will get down on his knees to talk!"

* * *

Oldest union at the Convention was the Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers, which grew out of the Western Federation of Miners, an organization formed 51 years ago.

* * *

In top form and excellent humor was Vice-Pres. Henry A. Wallace, who just bubbled over at the warm welcome he received. Best Wallace "crack": "Coming down on the elevator one of the men said to me, 'If things had not come out right on Nov. 7, I wonder if there wouldn't have been some alternates at this convention.' Somebody else said, 'Yes, there would have been an alternate labor organization.'"

Chicago CIO Men Open Parley

Chicago, Nov. 25—Temporary Chairman Albert M. Towers, president of the Chicago Industrial Union Council, opened the first session of the CIO convention on Nov. 20 and related to the convention the accomplishments of the CIO in the Chicago area.

In an opening address, Samuel Levin, president of the Illinois State Industrial Union Council, paid tribute on behalf of the CIO to America's fighting men "who have made victory of the United Nations an inevitable certainty," and expressed further pride in the great role that organized labor has played on the home front.

Welcoming the delegates and guests to Chicago, Walter H. Harris, regional director of the Illinois CIO, presented CIO Pres. Philip Murray to the assemblage.

WASTE PAPER
..NEEDED..

Save your waste paper, cartons, boxes for the Waste Paper Drives

COOPERATE IN SALVAGING
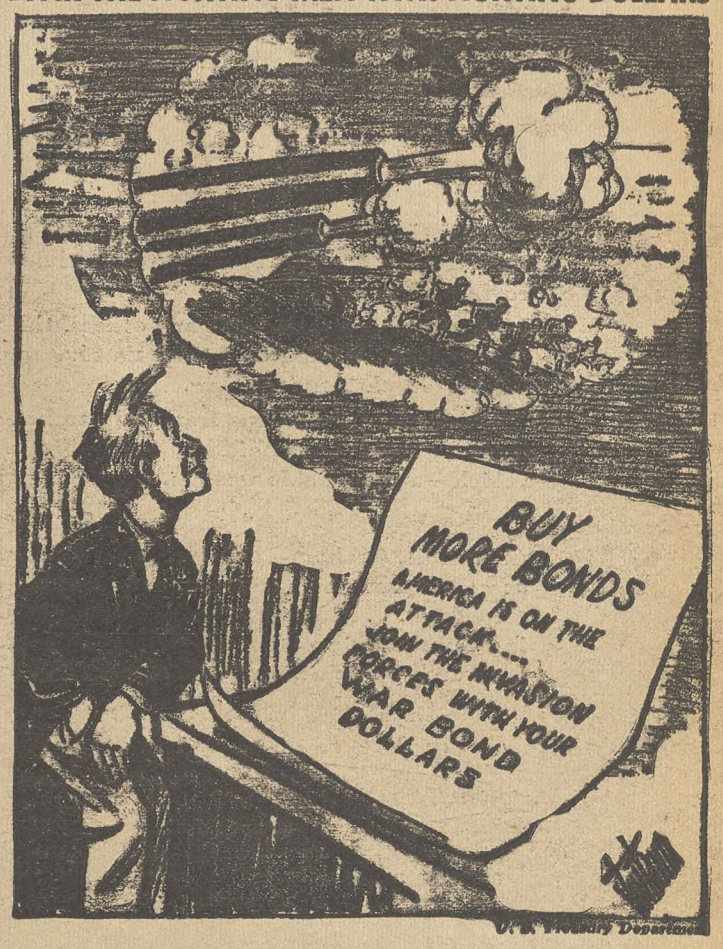
WASTE PAPER FOR WAR

●

Contributed by

WOLVERINE FABRICATING & MFG. CO.
Detroit, Mich.

BACK THE FIGHTING MEN WITH FIGHTING DOLLARS



BUY BONDS & KEEP THEM

EXTRUDED METALS CORP.
BELDING, MICH.

ALLIGATORS TO THE RESCUE!

DRAWN FROM OFFICIAL U. S. MARINE CORPS COMBAT PHOTOGRAPH

CUT off from the main body of American troops on Biak Island, one battalion of American fighting men owes its very survival to the "Alligators."

It was the LVT's—the "Alligators"—that brought them supplies and enabled them to rejoin the main forces under cover of darkness.

In this instance, as in so many others, the "Alligators" displayed the power and versatility that has made them a mainstay of amphibious warfare.

Whether carrying troops from ship to beach or hurling its crushing weight at a pillbox, the "Alligator" is a powerful vehicle—a formidable weapon.

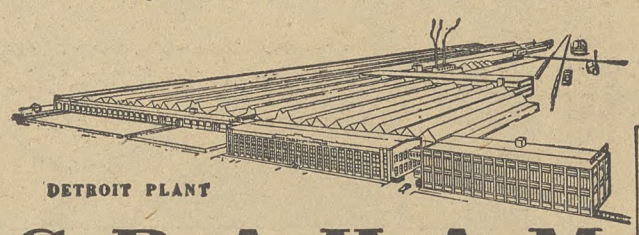
• • •

At Detroit, Graham-Paige produces the famed "Alligators," as well as precision components for aircraft engines and naval torpedoes . . . at Warren, Ohio, its Warren City Manufacturing Subsidiary produces LCM-3 landing craft, mechanisms for warship engines, and other essential war material.

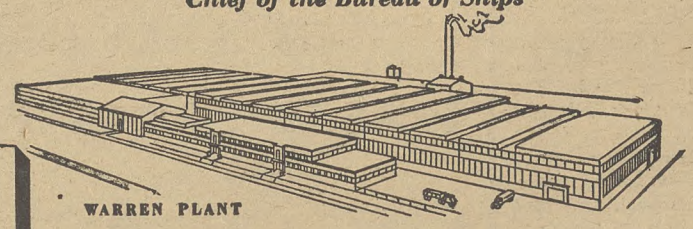
TELEGRAM RECEIVED BY GRAHAM-PAIGE FROM THE NAVY

"A dispatch from the New Guinea front cites the fine performance of amphibian tractors in helping to rescue an American battalion cut off by the Japs on Biak Island. The 'Alligators,' operating in the face of constant artillery and machine gun fire, got ammunition, fuel and medical supplies through to the beleaguered men. The troops were thus enabled to hold out until they could rejoin their main forces under cover of darkness. The Bureau extends thanks to you who are providing these LVT's to our fighting men.

E. L. Cochrane, Rear Admiral, USN
Chief of the Bureau of Ships"



DETROIT PLANT



WARREN PLANT

GRAHAM GP PAIGE

DETROIT 32 MICHIGAN

Subsidiary . . . . . WARREN CITY MANUFACTURING COMPANY . . . . . Warren, Ohio

Labor-Backed Party Wins In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Nov. 25 (ALN)—Complete election returns give an overwhelming victory to the labor-backed Popular Democratic party of Puerto Rico, which won by a majority of over 150,000 votes of the more than half a million votes cast, electing the island's Resident Commissioner in Washington, winning complete control of the legislature and almost all municipalities.

The victory of the Populars and the reelection of President Roosevelt are regarded as major steps in the direction of Puerto Rican freedom.

Led by Senate president Luis Munoz Marin, the Populars elected as Resident Commissioner Jesus T. Pinero and won 37 out of 39 seats in the House of Representatives, 17 out of 10 in the Senate and the government of all but three of the 77 municipalities. They decisively won this capital city, for 20 years a Republican stronghold. Opposition parties, which had nominated joint candidates for most elective posts, polled less than one third of the votes. Republican and Socialist parties, united in a coalition since 1930, received 80,000 and 67,000 votes respectively, while the Liberal party, joining the coalition for the first time, received only 33,000 votes.

The election campaign was bitterly fought. The Populars, standing on a four-year record of progressive social legislation, campaigned on the following four major planks: 1) expansion of health and educational facilities to increase human productive capacity; 2) maximum use of cultivated and idle land; 3) full development and use of all the island's national resources; 4) maximum development of industries by government and private initiative. The opposition parties, backed by the sugar interests and Falangists, attacked Popular Democratic measures and Gov. Rexford G. Tugwell.

On the question of political status, the Populars promised that votes for their candidates would not be counted in favor of independence, statehood or other solutions, and that a referendum will be held to determine what solution the people want not later than the end of the war. The purpose of this was to take the decision of Puerto Rico's destiny out of partisan politics where it has been an issue for over a century. The Popular party itself originated from an independent faction which split off from the Liberal party and entered the 1940 elections for the first time to win a majority in the Senate and a near majority in the House.

Asks Hike In Jobless Benefits

Washington, Nov. 25—Increase in maximum weekly unemployment benefits to $25 is one of several recommendations made by the Social Security Board for broadening the program it supervised.

In addition, the board recommends extension of unemployment compensation coverage, lengthening of the duration of benefits to 26 weeks for all eligible individuals who remain unemployed that long, and elimination of unduly restrictive disqualification provisions.

In announcing the recommendations, Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer pointed out that unemployment compensation, properly strengthened and expanded, "should provide a genuine first line of defense for workers, employes and the country in the reconversion period ahead."

Back Jewish Palestine Plan

Chicago, Nov. 25—Steps to effect the immediate rescue of Jews in Axis dominated countries was strongly urged this week in a resolution of the Seventh CIO Convention.

Support for Jewish rights in Palestine was extended in the resolution, with particular focus on President Roosevelt's "stirring and historic document" giving his endorsement of the movement to reconstitute Palestine as a free and democratic Jewish commonwealth.

Continue Fight Against Polltax

Chicago, Nov. 25—The CIO convention this week pledged to continue its determined efforts to have Congress enact legislation eliminating the polltaxes in eight southern states, and granting the right of suffrage to residents of the District of Columbia.

Congress was also urged to pass a law granting all American citizens 18 years old and over, the right to vote in all elections.

Murray Hits 'Raid' Charge As Straight Lie

Chicago, Nov. 25—A charge by AFL Pres. William Green that the CIO is "raiding" the AFL was nailed by CIO Pres. Philip Murray this week as "a palpable lie on the face of it, wholly unsupported by any facts." In a side remark at the CIO Convention, Murray declared:

"The growth of this organization has not come about as a result of any raids we have made upon other labor organizations. We have carried the flag of trade unionism, and we have no interest in creating conflicts with our ancient enemies, and that is, of course, the frustrated and corroded leadership of the American Federation of Labor."

Ask U. S. Law On Health, Safety

Chicago, Nov. 25—A national law protecting the health and safety of the nation's workers through the establishment of minimum standards covering conditions of employment was urged this week in a resolution passed at the CIO convention.

A program was also endorsed aiming at education of its own members and the general public as to the need of providing and enforcing adequate standards against employment hazards.

6th WAR LOAN

BONDS BUY BOMBS

GLENVALE PRODUCTS CORP.

Detroit, Mich.

6th WAR LOAN

TECH-NI-CRAFT

TOOL — METAL PRODUCTS

Detroit

Photo Engravings From

J. S. VAN ALSTYNE PHOTO ENGRAVING CO

Are Union Made by Experienced Workmen

457 W. Fort RA. 0466 Detroit, Mich.

PRODUCING in HARMONY for VICTORY

6th WAR LOAN

STANDARD MACHINE PRODUCTS CO.

Detroit

PRODUCING FOR VICTORY!

6th WAR LOAN

Charles L. Petch Tool & Die Co.

Mt. Clemens Mich.

There Is No Freedom Where There's Slavery

★

This year means more to us than those that have gone before, for we are fighting to maintain the rights of free men and free women.

In dictatorship countries Labor has no rights; neither has it a voice.

In the United States of America, the Constitution gives us the right to work our own destiny. Article III, Section I, reads:

"Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their conviction."

No other nation on the face of the earth has a clause like the above, and no other nation is more considerate of labor. This, and our other freedoms, are worth fighting and dying for.

★

FORMED TUBES, INC.

STURGIS, MICH.

Workers Call 65-Cent Wage Floor A 'Must'

WORKERS STATE THEIR CASE: Their plea for the 65-cent minimum wage supported by statistics presented by CIO officials, workers told a senate subcommittee the hardships they endure because of substandardwages. Left to right, Elizabeth Sasuly, Washington representative of the United Cannery Workers, introducing her witnesses; Mrs. Christine Gardner, Piedmont, N. C., a member of the United Cannery Workers, who broke down after testifying that one of her children died because she was unable to afford proper medical care, also in the picture is Solomon Barkin, Textile Workers' research director, who presented statistics and was in general charge of presenting CIO witnesses. Jack Stewart, United Shoe Worker, tells what low wages do to families, while Mrs. Lena Batt, another Shoe Worker, waits to tell her story. Mrs. Ruth Decker, member of the United Cannery Workers, said fellow workers took up a collection so that she would have decent clothes to wear at the hearing.

Difficulty and heart-break of living on meager pay were unfolded by several members of CIO unions to a Senate Labor and Education subcommittee conducting hearings on the resolution for a 65-cent minimum wage.

One of the array of witnesses for the CIO was Mrs. Ruth Decker, a member of the United Cannery Workers, who said that after six years with the Frazier Canning Co., Elwood, Ind., she was earning 50 cents an hour.

She said that the only meat for her family was provided by raising rabbits and chickens in the yard of her home which contained no running water and which she and her husband were purchasing with the help of a friend. The house cost $350, Mrs. Decker told the committee.

"We owe a $80 doctor's bill," she said. "For 18 years my husband hasn't had a suit of clothes. I borrowed the dress I'm wearing. The girls at the plant took up a collection to buy me my hat."

SICKNESS A PROBLEM

Mrs. Beulah Littleton, member of Amalgamated Clothing Workers employed in a Salisbury, Md., shirt factory, testified that her take-home pay was only $18.50 a week after 18 years at the plant.

"If I get sick, it takes a long time to pay the bill," she declared.

Another member of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Thelma Douglas, who is employed in a New York City laundry, told the committee that she must support herself and her mother on $24 a week.

Vera Miller, representative of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, said that Thelma's plight was typical of thousands in the laundry industry who were getting as much as they could under the Little Steel formula.

Another witness was Mrs. Lena Batt, a member of the United Shoe Workers, employed in a Hagerstown, Md., factory, who said she earned about $23 a week.

She testified she tried to support her children on that salary, but was compelled to take her oldest daughter out of school and putting her to work. Her son, she explained, helped solve her difficulty by joining the Navy, and another child is still in school.

Jack Stewart, another member of the United Shoe Workers, employed for 22 years in a Lynchburg, Va., factory, said that he earned $23 a week, or $92 a month.

He said that the least the family could live on was $133 a month, a deficit of $41 which was met by taking his oldest daughter out of school and putting his wife to work.

For firing the boiler at the Danville Knitting Mill at Danville, Va., Will Evans, who belongs to the Federation of Hosiery Workers, said he was paid 47 cents an hour. Other witnesses were:

Mrs. Christine Gardner, of Piedmont, N. C., United Cannery Workers, who broke down after testifying that one of her children died because she was unable to afford medical care.

John Vernon, member of the Textile Workers, father of seven children, who earns 51½ cents an hour as a cloth hauler at the Don River and Riverside Cotton Mills, Danville, Va.

Mrs. Irene Gillespie, Martinsville, Va., who earns 45 cents an hour, and supports her mother and three children.

Members of the subcommittee are Senators Pepper (D., Fla.); Tunnell (D., Del.), and Aiken (R., Vt.) Senator Pepper is the sponsor of the resolution which would permit employers to increase wages to 65 cents an hour without War Labor Board approval.

While Geraldine Shandross, representative of the American Communications Association, was testifying, Senator Aiken wanted to know whether the consolidation of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph systems had boosted the wages of the employes of the two firms.

She replied in the negative.

Aiken remarked the Postal Telegraph stockholders were probably helped.

"If helping stockholders you are a stateman, but if helping workers you are a politician," quipped Senator Pepper.

As a classic example of what was expected for 30 cents an hour, the ACA witness read the following bulletin dated August 17, 1942, as to the duties of a manager of a Postal Telegraph Co. office at Achison, Kan.:

"Qualifications — Combination Morse and Teletype operator, Must have knowledge of operating routine and ability to turn out satisfactory copies in both Morse and Teletype. Must be able to make up payrolls, to rate messages, speedily and accurately. Also experience in handling foreign and domestic money orders and special collections necessary.

"Must have known knowledge of accounting practices, daily statements, call and delivery desk. Must have past successful record on both productive and developing selling in an office of this size. Must be neat in appearance and work. Must be aggressive, persistent, resourceful and industrious.

"Wage: $.30 an hour."

Here's What CIO Heads Said On 65-Cent Wage

Here's what CIO leaders told a Senate Labor and Education subcommittee, on behalf of the 65-cent minimum wage:

CIO President Murray's statement:

"It is significant that a ranking of the (Selective Service) rejection rates by states and the ranking of the 1940 per capita income-tax payments indicate that the states with the lowest per capita incomes are generally the states with the highest rejection rates. North Carolina had the highest rejection rates of all states in the Union and its annual per capita rate was sixth from the bottom. South Carolina had the third rejection rate and was fifth from the bottom in per capita income.

"We can improve the physical and the mental health of our American people by raising their incomes. The proposed 65-cent minimum wage is a step in our national defense program and a contribution to the reduction of the human wastage in America."

Emil Rieve, president of the CIO United Textille Workers, testified:

"Eleven million American workers are now earning less then 65 cents an hour and constitute 40 per cent of all workers.

"For the industries involved, total profits in 1943, based on corporate tax returns, were 303 per cent above 1936-39. Increased wages under Senator Pepper's proposal represent only 7 per cent of the 1943 profits in manufacturing industries, 1.1 per cent in mining industries, 6.85 per cent in finance, insurance and real estate industries. This, it is plain, would still leave employers a substantial proportion of their increase in profits over 1936-39."

Jack Rackcliffe, legislative representative of the CIO United Shoe Workers, said:

"Workers in the (shoe) industry who are paid the legal minimum of 40 cents an hour earn only 16 dollars a week, when they are lucky to work a full week. Such wages are a guarantee of the continuation of slum housing, ill health, and poor living conditions."

Statement of Donald Henderson, president of the CIO United Cannery Workers:

"On the basis of government figures, it is estimated that 45 per cent of the workers in the food processing and tobacco industries are earning below 65 cents per hour. In the canning industry, which employs about half of the total food workers exclusive of packing sheds, plant averages of straight-time hourly earnings are 40 cents and 68 cents per hour in every area except the higher-wage Pacific States.

"Average hourly earnings in the canning industry rank among the lowest 15 per cent of the 154 industries for which figures are available. The tobacco industry ranks in the lowest 6 per cent. Cotton processing falls even lower."

Statements also were submitted to the Senate Labor and Education subcommittee by the following CIO unions and groups:

United Electrical Workers, Maritime Committee, United Auto Workers; State, County, Municipal Workers; United Office and Professional Workers, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers; American Communications Association, and ShipbuildingWorkers.

UAW Head Urges Plans For Housing

R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, emphasized the importance of decent housing in the post-war era for all, not just a part, of the American people, regardless of race, color and creed, in a recent address to the U. St. Savings and Loan League Conference in Chicago.

Without sound planning for growth, Thomas pointed out, communities cannot be healthy and efficient. These plans, he said, should include total metropolitan regions rather than being limited to political sub-divisions within such areas.

Advocating the wiping out of city slums, the UAW President told the Conference that "the Government should, to the greatest extent possible, use housing as part of a public works insurance program against possible critical postwar unemployment."

Junk Standard Oil Co. Union

Richmond, Calif. (FP)—CIO workers at the Richmond and El Segundo refineries of Standard Oil of California are celebrating an NLRB decision ordering the company to disband its 10-year-old fake union, the Standard Employes Assn.

The order clears the way for complete organization of the company's 13,700 workers by the Oil Workers Intl. Union, which is expected to request a collective bargaining election as soon as NLRB rules allow. The NLRB decision sets aside an election held at the Richmond refinery Oct. 26 which was won by the company union.

Evidence presented at an NLRB hearing in 1943, held on charges brought by the CIO union, showed that a Standard Oil attorney helped draw up the dummy union's constitution, that the first organizer received $900 in car mileage from the company and that the company union never demanded better conditions, but simply made "recommendations and suggestions," which it withdrew if they offended the company.

Frankensteen Fears Air Cartels

Hope of international collaboration in dealing with world-wide aviation and opposition to air cartels were expressed this week by Richard T. Frankensteen, vice president and national aircraft director of the CIO United Auto Workers.

Frankensteen sent telegrams expressing his views to President Roosevelt and Adolph Berle, assistant secretary of State and chairman of the International Civil Aviation Conference of 57 nations meeting in Chicago.

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 49 82 December 4, 1944

Help Needed!

60,000 Western Union Workers To Vote on CIO

Sixty thousand employes of the giant Western Union telegraph monopoly will vote sometime in January in one of the biggest elections ever handled by the Natl. Labor Relations Board. The issue will be whether to affiliate with the CIO American Communications Assn. or the AFL, or vote for "no union." Full support for the ACA was urged last week by the CIO Convention, which in a unanimously adopted resolution said:

"The unprecedented complexity and size of this election, the fact that the employes are located in more than 5,000 communities, and the unfair and illegal support by the Western Union Co. for the AFL, make this an organizing job requiring extraordinary effort and cooperation."

Pointing out that CIO Pres. Philip Murray has declared that Western Union is CIO's No. 1 organizing job, the resolution urged "that all unions participate actively in the drive by distributing literature, contacting friends and relatives in Western Union, making available organizers, and taking responsibility for delivering the vote in small communities."

★ ★ ★

Steel Hails Wage Gains, Presses For 'Formula' Revision

(See Page 20)

UAW Asks FM Radio Rights In 6 Major Cities

Applications for FM Radio station licenses in six major cities have been filed with the Federal Communications Commission on behalf of the CIO United Auto Workers Union, UAW President R. J. Thomas announced today.

The applications were filed with the FCC by the Radio en-gineering firm of Woodward and Keel of Washington, and request licenses for FM broadcasting in Detroit, Flint, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Chicago and Newark, New Jersey.

Thomas emphasized that in entering the radio field, the UAW-CIO was anxious to cooperate with all progressive elements in the field in the futherance of freedom of expression. He said that the UAW was not so much interested in the narrow application of this idea to labor problems only but "in the greatest educational advantage for the whole listening public."

Thomas explained that while the FCC was entertaining applications for FM licenses now, it was unlikely that the commission would take any action until radio broadcasting equipment was released after the war.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

The purpose of the UAW in entering the FM broadcasting field, according to Thomas and George F. Addes, UAW-CIO secretary-treasurer, is to "concentrate on educational features, including the arts, literature, economics, political and social sciences."

The statement, filed with the FCC outlines the educational program envisaged by the UAW-CIO for broadcast over this new medium of public communication.

As part of the educational program and related thereto, the history and current problems of the labor movement will be discussed. As bearing on the subject of labor, both industry and the consumer will receive adequate representation through discussion of their mutual problems.

"The UAW-CIO will undertake FM broadcasts," said the two UAW officials, "to enhance the cause of our political, economic and social democracy" through affording "all groups and classes such freedom of speech and opportunities for discussion as to be unparalleled in the history of the radio broadcasting industry."

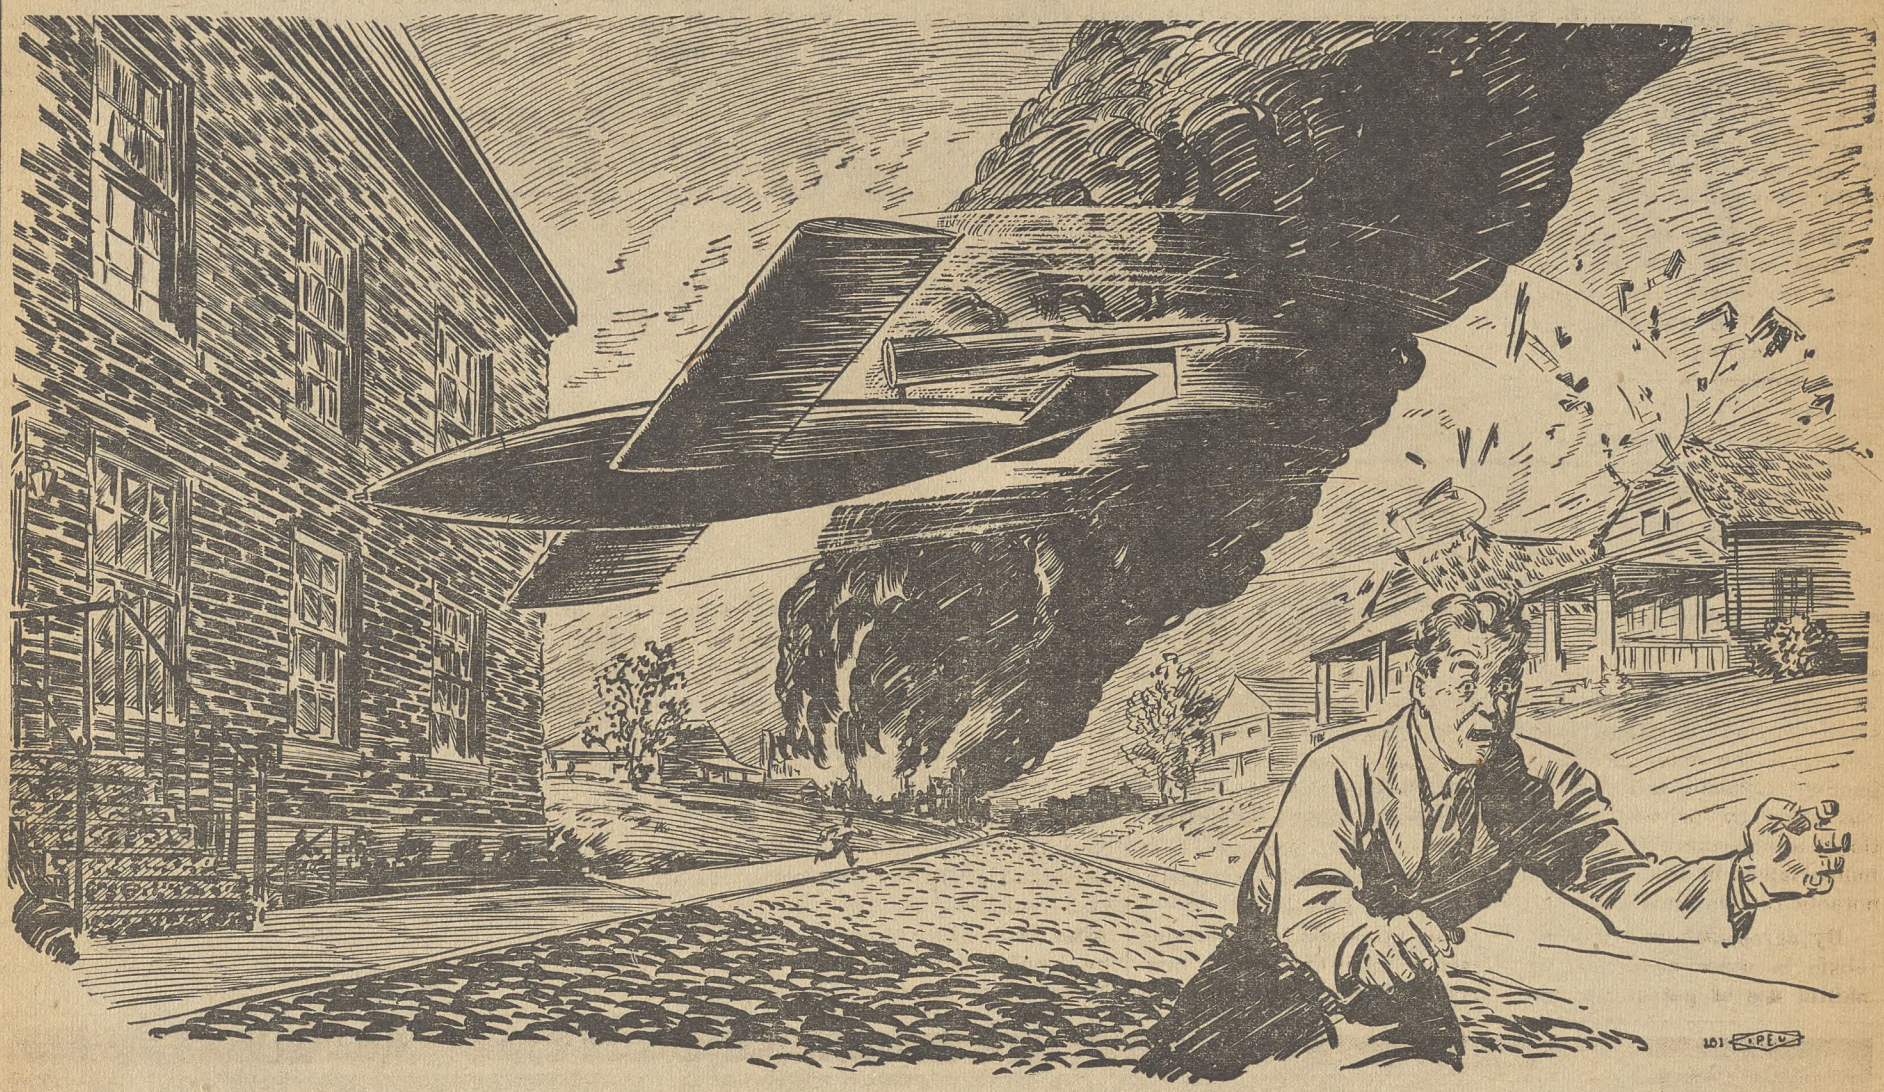
Anti-Union Drive in Kansas

Wichita, Kans., Dec. 2—A campaign to break labor unions through state labor control laws was instigated here when the Associated Industries of Kansas framed a labor law which would prohibit high union initiation fees and "excessive dues."

The employer group, which is closely linked with the Natl. Assn. of Manufacturers, also indorsed the so-called right-to-work amendment outlawing the closed shop, which was passed in Florida and Arkansas and defeated in California.

BUSHEMI AWARD TO UAW: Pres. R. J. Thomas of the CIO United Auto Workers Union is shown at the CIO convention accepting for his organization the CIO War Relief Committee's award of a silver plaque to the CIO affiliate that has done the most for veterans during the past year. Left to right: Peter Bushemi, father of John A. Bushemi, Guild member killed in action, for whom the award was named; Marion Bushemi, Thomas, CIO Pres. Philip Murray, Mrs. Bushemi, Chairman Irving Abramson of the War Relief Committee, and Frank Bushemi. (Photo by Archer.)

Terror of Buzz Bombs Told to CIO Convention



The terror of the buzz bombs and terrific obstacles faced by our invading armies in France were dramatically described to the CIO Convention by the Secretary-Treasurer of the CIO United Steelworkers, who recently returned from an Army-sponsoerd visit to the European battlefronts. Excerpts from his remarks follow.

McDonald Reports 157 Killed in One Explosion

"This bomb knocked off the top of some houses on one side of the street, skidded across the street, went in the front door of an apartment house, blew that apartment house literally inside out, and killed 157 people, 157 people in one place, men and women and kids destroyed, their lives snuffed out in just an instant."

By DAVID J. McDONALD

The very first morning we were in London we were awakened by the air raid sirens. We didn't know what was going on. Within a few seconds, it seemed—I suppose about 30 seconds—we heard the sound of what we thought was a very fast airplane engine going at a terrific rate of speed, and suddenly this engine stopped.

We wondered what was going to happen, and after about a five seconds' pause we heard a terrific explosion, and the Savoy Hotel in which we were staying shook slightly.

Sherman Dalrymple ran in from the room where he was staying and when he got R. J. Thomas and me out from under our beds he said, "I guess that was one of them there buzz bombs." We were sure it was a buzz bomb, and we hastily got dressed and went downstairs and were told yes, that was a buzz bomb that came over.

A few minutes later we heard more of these things come over, and as soon as the air raid all-clear sounded we set out to find some of that destruction that had been caused by those bombs that had come over that particular morning.

This bomb had come along, knocked off the top of some houses on one side of the street, skidded across the street, went in the front door of an apartment house, blew that apartment house literally inside out, and killed 157 people, 157 people in one place, men and women and kids destroyed, their lives sunffed out in just an instant.

The buzz bomb is a terrific thing; it is absolutely an irresponsible instrument, it is not a military weapon at all, it is simply fired at a great big target like London, no control at all except in the fact it will go so far and its fuel will run out, and then it will fall.

No One Safe

It does not always fall straight down. It does not always go in a straight line. People may perhaps think, "I am safe, it is going to glide over my head," but then in a few seconds they find out they are not safe, because the thing has begun to make a semi-circle or a complete circle, and they have to dive into some hole in order to prevent themselves from being mangled or being killed.

WE WENT aboard a D.C.-3 and started for France. Crossing the Channel we could see the convoys going along carrying troops and equipment to the far shore.

I saw the beaches still intact, as they had been, they hadn't been cleared away by the engineers of the United States Army or the British engineers. And this is what they looked like.

Running for about two miles out into the ocean were fields of mines, and inside these mines were posts about thirty feet high sticking up from the floor of the ocean. These posts were about ten feet apart, and on top of every post was a mine about two and a half feet in diameter, and interspersed between these posts and in a solid phalanx were traps like cow-catchers on the old styled locomotive, except the sharp points were sticking up. Those were designed to rip the bottom out of ships as they came in.

Behind these traps were the beaches themselves, and every single foot of those beaches was mined, every square foot was mined with anti-personnel mines. And rolled up on top of the mines were big heaps of barbed wire, perhaps eight feet high, every square foot of the beaches covered with the barbed wire, and behind this barbed wire and mines was an embankment about ten feet high, and on this embankment were placed great big guns, reinforeed concrete gun emplacements, and they were placed so they would enfilade the beach, up or down, and earth works were running between the gun emplacements, and on top of the earth or concrete walls were mounted machine guns and nests, or else revolving turrets that had been imbedded in the walls.

Beaches Mined

Behind that were more mine fields and more barbed wire, anti-aircraft guns, anti-personnel guns of all kinds—and there were houses in this area, and the houses had been filled with reinforced concrete and guns were sticking out of the windows, and behind that, as though that were not enough, ran a bluff about 100 feet high, and the entire surface of that bluff was mined, and the entire top of it was mined and lined with guns, anti-personnel guns of all character and anti-aircraft guns.

And behind that were more of these posts sticking up, about thirty feet high. They did not have mines on top of these posts, they were there so when the gliders came down the wings would be sheared off and the men would fall about thirty feet and be killed or badly busted up, or else when the paratroopers came down their parachutes would catch on the posts and make them easy targets for machine gunners.

Remember what we were told about D Day? Remember we were told that the Atlantic wall was nothing. It is absolutely unbelievable that men could fight through these things, but somehow they did fight through them, and enough of them lived to be able to go forward.

WE CAUGHT up with one flank of the Third Army, and met General Patton there. Sherman Dalrymple was a veteran of the World War, so immediately he went up and proceeded to talk with Patton in soldier language, and the first thing he said was, "General, how are things going out there?" And Patton, a great big fellow, well over six feet tall, in a high squeaky voice said, "Well, Mr. Dalrymple, they are going all right—killed a thousand of them yesterday and going to kill a damned sight more today."

He said this to us: "You fellows have done a magnificent job back home. We are awfully proud of that work, awfully proud of that job. Please keep it coming." We assured everybody along the line we would keep it coming.

ALL OVER the countries, all over the United Kingdom and France, the morale of the troops was very high. They were trying their best to get along with the work they had to do. None of them liked it, but they knew it was a job that had to be done, so they were doing their damnedest to get it done. They said, "You keep pouring it to us—you keep pouring it to us and we will keep pouring it at the enemy."

Cartels—Threat to Peace; How to Curb Them

By C. W. FOWLER

In the first two articles of this series, we looked into the nature of cartels, which are private agreements between industrialists of different countries to hold output down and prices up. We saw how they are used by German industrialists to lay the economic base for war. We found that the same people behind German controlled cartels that planned World War I and II are now planning World War III.

Last Of A Series

How can we prevent these people — the steel, oil, coal, chemical and other cartel kings of Germany—from trying for world conquest again in 1970?

The first thing to remember is that military defeat alone does not crush German aggression. The Versailles Treaty was supposed to disarm Germany in 1918. Within two years, Germany's arms-making plant was functioning again; within a few years after 1920, it was going stronger than ever.

How did German industrialists do this? First, by moving some key plants (Krupp, Zeiss, etc.) to neutral countries—notably Sweden and Switzerland. But this accounted for only a small portion of German war industry. The main job of expanding German war industry was done by private international agreements (cartels) with industrialists in other countries, notably Britain and the U. S.

By agreement with monopolists in other countries, by skilful use of patents, know-how and division of markets, in which Germany always got the lion's share, German war industry was able to rearm the country for a second try at world conquest.

The advent of Hitler, promoted by German industrialists and abetted in many instances in other countries, fitted in perfectly with German plans for aggression, giving them a mass base in Germany and after 1940 an economic base throughout Europe.

United Nations Way

It is interesting to note that the greatest expansion of cartels occurred in the 20's and early 30's, during the Republican regime in the U. S. The duPonts, Standard Oil, Bausch and Lomb, General Electric and other GOP supporters joined in the cartel system with German and British monopolists in cartels during this period.

Many proposals for disarming German industry have been made. They range from plans to strip Germany of all heavy industry to rigid Allied control over a period of years. Some plans are reported to favor making Germany a purely agricultural nation without any mass production at all.

What plans are adopted must be worked out through the United Nations apparatus set up at Teheran, Bretton Woods, Dumbarton Oaks and other world security conferences. The United Nations must plan not only the disarmament of Germany but also the strengthening of all peace-loving nations and peoples in the world.

German industry must work many years for the reconstruction of invaded countries. German industrialists must be punished along with their Nazi agents in the Wehrmacht, the SS and the Gestapo. They must not be permitted to hide out in neutral countries, as they did after 1918, either in person or by transferring their assets. Direct manufacture of munitions must be prevented.

But direct control of German industry is not enough. German dominated cartels were able to grow because of the industrial weakness of smaller countries as well as the help the cartelists got from monopoly in bigger and stronger nations.

"Backward" countries must be industrialized, as outlined at Bretton Woods and recommended by the CIO. Latin-America, China, India, Africa, the Balkan countries — economically weak and therefore easy victims of monopoly and cartels—must be strengthened with their own industries controlled by their own people.

The basis for ending cartels and substituting peaceful expansion lies in world trade agreements, world-wide industrial growth and in control of monopoly. This basis has been laid down by the United Nations.

The re-election of President Roosevelt makes it possible for us to go ahead. The CIO is back of this program. All we need now is to carry it out—for a world free of war and full of jobs and security for all.

Film Released

The U. S. Coast Guard has released a remarkable two-reel 16 mm. film, "Normandy Invasion," for use in conjunction with the Sixth War Loan Drive. The film will be shown throughout the nation during the drive and is available through State War Finance Committees.

Kill Polltax, Cut Voting Age—CIO

Chicago, Dec. 2—Elimination of the poll tax and the granting of suffrage to 18-year-olds and residents of Washington, D. C., were urged in the following resolution passed at the CIO convention.

WHEREAS, (1) Free and democratic elections of those who represent the people in public office are the greatest guarantee for the preservation of democracy and our basic freedoms;

(2) The right to vote must at all times be protected and no petty obstacles be permitted to stand in the way of the exercise of this sacred right by all the people;

(3) The outpouring of the people to participate in the recent national election demonstrates their earnest desire, wherever possible, to discharge their obligation as American citizens; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, (1) The CIO pledges to continue its determined effort to have Congress enact legislation eliminating the poll tax requirement which now prevails in eight of our States, and granting the right of suffrage to residents of the District of Columbia;

(2) We call upon Congress and the various States to enact legislation granting to all American citizens 18 years of age and over, the right to vote in all elections;

(3) We call upon Congress and the various States to enact legislation which will eliminate the many unnecessary obstacles which now beset American citizens with regard to registration and voting so that we can look to the coming local and national elections with a complete participation of all Americans eligible to vote.

NEW EXECUTIVE BOARD: Members of the CIO's executive board elected at the convention in Chicago last week who were present when this picture was taken are, left to right: First row, Pres. Joseph Curran, Natl. Maritime Union; Pres. Sherman Dalrymple, Rubber Workers; Pres. Emil Rieve, Textile Workers; CIO Secy-Treas. James B. Carey; CIO Pres. Philip Murray; Pres. R. J. Thomas, Automobile Workers; CIO Vice-Pres. Allan S. Haywood; Pres. John Green, Marine & Shipbuilding Workers; Vice-Pres. Frank Rosenblum, Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Pres. Reid Robinson, Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers.

Second row: Chairman Harold J. Straub, Utility Workers; Pres. S. J. Hogan, Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn.; Pres. A. H. Esposito, Playthings, Jewelry & Novelty Workers; Pres Morris Muster, Furniture Workers; Pres. Lewis J. Clark, Packinghouse Workers; Chairman Thomas Andert, Optical & Instrument Workers; Secy-Treas. P. Charles DiNeri, Barbers & Beauty Culturists; Director A. B. Martin, Railroad Workers; Pres. Martin Wagner, Gas, Coke & Chemical Workers.

Third row: Secy-Treas. Jacob Potofsky, Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Van A. Bittner, assistant to the president, United Steelworkers; Pres. Willard S. Townsend, Transport Service Employes; Pres. Samuel Wolchok, Retail & Wholesale Employes; Pres. O. A. Knight, Oil Workers; Secy-Treas. James J. Leary, Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers; Pres. Harry Bridges, Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union; Secy-Treas. Julius Emspak, Electrical Workers; Pres. Abram Flaxer, State County & Municipal Workers; Secy-Treas. Harry Sayre, Paper Workers.

Back row: Pres. Lewis Merrill, Office & Professional Workers; Pres. Joseph Selly, Amer. Communications Assn.; Vice-Pres. L. S. Buckmaster, Rubber Workers; Pres. Joseph Froesch, Glass Workers; Pres. John M. Fox, Inlandboatmen's Union of the Pacific; Pres. Ben Gold, Fur & Leather Workers; and Pres. J. F. Jurich, Fishermen & Allied Workers.

Remaining members of the 40-man Exec. Board not present when the picture was taken are: Pres. Lewis Berne, Architects, Engineers, Chemists & Technicians; Secy-Treas. George F. Addes, Auto Workers; Pres. Donald Henderson, Cannery Workers; Pres. Grant W. Oaks, Farm Equipment Workers; Pres. Eleanor Nelson, Federal Workers; Secy-Treas. E. F. Burke, Marine, Cooks & Stewards Assn.; Secy-Treas. John Grogan, Shipbuilding Workers; Secy-Treas. M. Hedley Stone, Maritime Union; Pres. Milton Murray, Newspaper Guild; Pres. Frank McGrath, Shoe Workers; Secy-Treas. John O. Lawson, Stone Workers; Exec-Vice-Pres. George Baldanzi, Textile Workers; Pres. Michael J. Quill, Transport Workers; and Pres. Worth Lowery, Woodworkers.

Photo by Archer

'LITTLE FLOWER' speaks at CIO convention. Mayor LaGuardia of New York is shown with CIO President Murray and Vice President Wallace at the recently concluded Chicago parley.

Farm, Labor Interests Common—La Guardia to CIO

CHICAGO, Dec. 2—The common interests of labor and the farmers were stressed in a speech by Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York at the CIO convention here last week. Calling himself "a farmer from Manhattan," LaGuardia told the delegates that it is part of his job as mayor of the largest city in the world "to see to it that 7,500,000 people get a constant daily supply of food." And that, he said, brought him "very close to the source of production."

Referring to "the misunderstanding and misapprehension on the part of farmers as to the position of labor," the Mayor advised the CIO to work "to bring about a better understanding through the medium of direct approach, direct conference and joint action on legislation in which both groups are interested."

WORLD TRADE

Earlier in his speech LaGuardia discussed a number of problems facing labor and the country. "There are still millions of people in our country who are not living up to the American standard as established, and surely not living up to a decent human standard of living," he declared. "We have got to bring them up and you can do a great deal."

To bring the standard of living up in America, he said, we will have to have a proper balance of world trade that will enable other countries also to raise the standard of living of their workers.

"The answer is not to shut ourselves off, not to let those people die, not to lead them into another war, but to see to it and use our influence to bring their standards of living up, too. I see the possibility if we would only cooperate in creating a proper world balance of the products of the world."

Insurance Pact Kills Bias

Discrimination in the field of group insurance this week was given a setback by at least one large insurance company as a result of efforts of the Fur Dressers & Dyers Union, affiliated with the CIO Fur & Leather Workers.

The Prudential Insurance Co. set aside its 27-year rule requiring applicants for group insurance to state their color, following a conference between officials of the union and the company, and the union's insurance consultants, the Trade Union Agency.

A special study prepared under the auspices of the union convinced the company, which is underwriting the joint labor-management insurance plans in effect in the industry, that the question of the applicant's color has been rendered unnecessary.

Farm Union Backs Unity Program For Jobs, Just Peace

DENVER (FP)—The winning team in the election campaign—farmers, labor and other progressive groups—must stick together to shape a people's peace with a new high standard of living for all, the Natl. Farmers Union pledged in its first national conference in two years here last week.

The union renominated all of its national officers, headed by Pres. James G. Patton, who is a vice-president of the Natl. Citizens Political Action Committee. A movement to replace Patton for taking a partisan role in the election in campaigning for Pres. Roosevelt was repudiated by the farmers from more than 30 states attending the conference.

Calling the NFU to a "tough, hardboiled postwar fight for the common people," Patton set the goal for the nation's economy "at a postwar level undreamed of before the war—a gross production approaching $200 billion a year, which would mean new comforts and a new high standard of living for even the humblest family."

"One way to do this," he said, "is to keep the power of the government ever ready to supplement the efforts of private industry. The Farmers Union advocates that government loans and public works be applied whenever the total capital expenditures in the nation fall below $40 billion a year.

"Capitalism must be saved from suicide, tamed, bridled and trained to serve the people of this nation. . . . The penalty for fear, evasion and failure is death, our death as free men, as family-type farmers, the death of rural democracy and ultimately, of all democracy, the early death of a sickly armistice and the death of civilization itself in a new world war beginning in five, 10 or 15 years."

Program of the union listed by Patton includes:

A guarantee that no family-type farmer who makes a reasonable attempt to conserve his soil and do a good job of farming will be moved from his farm against his desire.

A guarantee of a $300-a-month living standard for all family-type farmers, as well as other workers.

Cooperation of farm organizations and government to let farmers take advantage of great stocks of surplus war materials. Removal of commercialized farming's "immunity to all social and labor legislation."

Development of the nation's river valleys along the lines of TVA.

Universal health care and federal aid to education.

Answers to the farmers' major worry—markets for his produce after the war—were suggested to the conference by Sec. of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard and Exporter Morris S. Rosenthal, vice-president of Stein Hall & Co., of New York. Full industrial employment after the war, help for low income families and soil conservation will help maintain American farm standards after the war, Wickard said.

Broaden Scope of 'PA' In Canada

Ottawa, Ont.—The scope of the Canadian Congress of Labour Political Action Committee was broadened at the first meeting of PAC since the CCL convention to bring it more in line with the CIO PAC in the United States.

By unanimous vote, the PAC decided by resolution that it "is an agent of Congress unions and is wholly independent of any political party." The United Auto Workers, largest unit in the CCL, returned to the PAC at the last meeting.

Previous to the PAC meeting the CCL Executive Board ordered removed from the 20-point PAC printed program, both the page and preamble. The first page carried a resolution passed at the 1943 convention which referred to the CCF as the "political arm of labor." The 29-point program now has been presented to all political parties in Canada.

An extensive campaign was mapped by PAC to set up groups in each union with a provincial and national set-up.

Another important point in the PAC resolution provided that "PAC is eager to co-operate with and will seek the co-operation of the Political Action Committee which the Trades & Labor Congress of Canada (AFL) has decided to establish, and of other labour and democratic bodies in the development of day to day activities for the enactment of legislation that is required by labour and the common people of the country."

Back the 6th War Loan!

STAINLESS STEEL PROTECTS FOOD PRODUCTS

Food processors report that stainless steel equipment increases the effectiveness of many dehydrating units. The stainless steel protects food vitamins, colors, and flavors by preventing metallic contamination. This freedom from contamination also is found to reduce food spoilage and cut weight.

The need is greater now—

THAT CROSS OF RED

. . . what does it stand for?

IT IS AN ORGANIZATION OF MEN AND WOMEN BANDED TOGETHER TO TRY TO SAVE YOUR BOY OR YOUR NEIGHBOR'S BOY IF HE IS WOUNDED

- to find him if he is lost
- to see that he is treated better if he's taken prisoner
- to tell him what's happening to the folks back home

WHEN YOU GIVE TO THE AMERICAN RED CROSS THERE IS MORE THAN CONTRIBUTION OF MONEY TO A WORTHY CAUSE

This Patriotic Advertisement Sponsored By

SHERIDAN ELECTRO CORP.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Keep Your Eye on Congress

The last few weeks of the 78th Congress are being kept busy with a variety of bills—some offered by lameducks with the idea of last minute sabotage, some more positive.

In either event, the two or three weeks between now and Jan. 10, when the new Congress comes in, are important, and should be watched. Successes on the progressive side will help direct the actions of the new Congress, and failures of course will make our job harder after January.

Below is a summary list of bills now active.

BILL	WHAT IT DOES	WHERE IT IS	ACTION
War Powers (HR 4993)	Renews FDR's authority on war agencies, other emergency powers.	Passed House with weakening amendment.	Wire Senators to renew without amendments.
Social Security "freeze" (no number yet))	Freezes social security payments at present level of 1%. Cuts down potential benefits.	House Ways and Means Committee. Executive hearings now on. Senate Finance Committee next.	Wire Representative and Senators against freeze, for normal increase to 2% to take place Jan. 1.
FEPC continuation (HR 3986)	Makes anti-discrimination FEPC permanent.	Reported out of House Labor Committee. Headed for floor.	Urge Representative to support.
"Equal Rights" Amendment (SJ Res. 25)	This venerable phony would end all social laws protecting women workers; be wedge against all labor laws.	Can be brought up on Senate floor any time; Sen. Gillette (lame-duck, Ia.) threatening to call it up this week. Requires unanimous consent for debate.	Wire your two Senators to oppose; and to be on Senate floor to protest calling up.
65c wage floor (S Con. Res. 48)	Puts 65c floor under 10 million workers now getting 50c an hour or less.	In Senate Labor sub-committee (Pepper, D., Fla., chmn.)	Urge Senators to support.

(Note: Address all Senators, Senate Office Bldg., all Representatives, House Office Bldg., Washington D. C. Don't hesitate to wire or write to men who have been defeated. They're still your representatives in Congress until Jan. 10. Meantime, contact any newly elected men also.)

Don't Freeze Security Tax—CIO To Congress

Declaring that "this is no time to undermine the social security program," CIO Legislative Director Nathan Cowan today wrote to all members of Congress urging them to vote against the proposed "freeze" in social security payments.

"Both workers and employers can better absorb an increase now than they may be able to do a year from now," he said. "The added funds are needed for the present program and certainly will be needed for the expanded program which the people of this country are determined to have for themselves and their children."

INCREASE NEEDED

"The CIO believes that an adequate social insurance system should be financed through contributions of employers and employes supplemented by a contribution from the general tax revenue of the government.

"The increase of the old-age and survivors insurance contribution to two per cent on employers and employes will be needed to cover the costs of the present benefits.

"If Congress acts to prevent the automatic increase next January, this will be the fourth time the planned gradual introduction of the contribution step-up has been set aside. This continued postponement injuries the financial stability of the present system.

"The same groups who support the freezing of the contributions were also opposed to the original old-age insurance program in 1935 and have fought openly or through delaying tactics against the improvement or expansion of the present program. They do not speak for the workers of America; they are not the friends of social security for the American people.

"The CIO wants the scheduled old-age and survivors insurance increase to stand for the same basic reasons that it is actively supporting the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill. The CIO wants more and better social security and its members are paying their fair share of the cost.

"We strongly oppose the freezing of contributions and urge that the Congress refuse to go along with any weakening of the present social security system."

New York, Dec. 2—CIO Secy-Treas. James B. Carey will be one of the keynote speakers at a Natl. Conference on Postwar Reaction to be held at the Labor Temple Dec. 8-9.

LET'S FINISH THE JOB— BUY EXTRA BONDS TODAY!

UNION MADE BUTTONS
Celluloid or Litho-Metal
For—
Union Dues
Advertising
Campaigns
Badges - Emblems
CHARLES M. GERAGHTY
INCORPORATED
500 Sherman St. - Chicago, Ill.

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

PAPER WORKERS LOCAL 286 UNION MADE CIO ORGANIZING COMMITTEE
LET MILPRINT FURNISH YOUR
CIO STATIONERY
WRITE FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES
MILPRINT, Inc.
431 WEST FLORIDA STREET
MILWAUKEE 1, WISCONSIN
Over 750 CIO Employees

SEE YOUR SINCLAIR DEALER
for service that makes your car last longer

TUA
TRADE UNION AGENCY
CONSULTANTS TO UNIONS
ON ALL INSURANCE PROBLEMS
80 WEST 40TH STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.
Group Insurance · Pensions · General Insurance

Lame Ducks Limp Through Last Act Before Final Curtain

The lame ducks in Congress—the Senators and Representatives whose records caught up with them Nov. 7—are busy as predicted in The CIO News trying to foul up vital legislation before the new Congress comes in Jan. 10.

Four major items have caught their attention in the remaining few weeks before a much improved Congress takes over:

1. They've tried to hamstring renewal of the War Powers Act by amendments, one of which got by the House this week. This is an amendment to force OPA and WPB suspension orders into court review. This may sound innocent, but it's loaded with potential TNT directed against the prosecution of the war.

The War Powers Act gives FDR authority to set up rationing, allocation of materials, etc. Without it, the various government war agencies could not function.

Subjecting the power of ordering suspensions that OPA and WPB now possess to court review means that anyone subjected to such an order in the interest of the war effort can go through endless court procedures, during which the order does not operate.

To take an extreme case, a black market operator in gasoline who may be ordered to suspend by OPA can fight the case through all of the courts in the land. Or a manufacturer, ordered to make low cost clothing and refusing to do so, could similarly fight a suspension order.

2. A determined group of Republicans and anti-FDR Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee are pushing through another "freeze" of social security payments, which will cut potential social security funds if successful. GOP Sen. Vandenberg (Mich.) is leading the same fight in the Senate.

An automatic raise in payments by workers and employers to two per cent is due Jan. 1. The freeze would hold payments at the present one per cent level. CIO, AFL and Brotherhoods are opposed to the freeze.

"EQUAL RIGHTS" AGAIN

3. The mis-called "Equal Rights" amendment which would wipe out progressive laws protecting women workers and open a wedge attack on all labor laws is threatening again in the Senate. Sen. Gillette (D) anti-FDR lame-duck from Iowa, is pushing it in the hope that he can capitalize quickly on both GOP and Democratic campaign platform endorsement before Jan. 10.

4. Though the lame-ducks and the still incumbent reactionaries are lying low on the 65 cent wage floor bill (S Con Res 48) the measure is active and should be pushed. Sen. Pepper has finished hearings in the Senate Labor sub-Committee, and the bill can be brought to the floor before this Congress ends.

Passage would give 10,000 Americans now trying to live on 50 cents an hour or less a glimpse at a decent living standard. It would raise consuming power now and for the postwar period. It would help in War Labor Board cases involving substandard wages, giving the WLB a Congressional go-ahead to raise them.

Don't forget to write your Congressman—even though he may be a lame-duck, he still represents you.

To the People of this Community

"Sad little personal belongings are strewn all over these bitter sands." Thus wrote Ernie Pyle from a beachhead in Normandy.

More than 2,000 bundles of these belongings, carefully collected and packed by the armed forces, are sent monthly from a Kansas City depot to homes throughout America. That's the current price of victory over enemies who forced this war upon you. Sometimes it is a comb, a pocketbook or pictures of loved ones. These "souvenirs" are enveloped with heartaches and drenched with tears.

How long this tragic depot stays in business is up to you. You have the power to cut the time of war. Few prisoners have been taken by either side in the Pacific war. It is kill or be killed. Every second prolongs the slaughter. Every extra $100 War Bond in the Sixth War Loan helps to shorten the fighting. Can you do less than to lend your money for speedy victory?

★

Welding Gas & Equipment Co.
Detroit

Sixty Million Jobs

The goal of sixty million jobs after the war is much more than a fine-sounding slogan, so far as the CIO is concerned. It regards this goal as not only practical and possible but also as a necessity if we are to be avoid the horrors of postwar depression and mass misery—and the recent CIO convention outlined a concrete program for attaining this goal.

This program is based on the close cooperation of labor, farmers, industry and all other community groups with government in a united crusade for our common prosperity, with the same kind of planning, energy and enthusiasm that have gone into our war effort.

The program suggests the machinery and the practical steps necessary for planned reconversion, with full protection of the human factor, and for stimulating the full production that is needed to provide jobs for all.

It recognizes that increased wages and purchasing power are necessary to provide the domestic market on which expanding postwar prosperity must be based.

It advocates a guaranteed annual wage to provide security for the workers as well as a steady level of purchasing power.

And it calls upon government to supplement the expansion of private industrial production by undertaking enterprises such as TVA and the proposed Missouri Valley Authority that are beyond the capacity of private industry.

The CIO program also recognizes that full production and employment depend on a vast expansion of world trade. It welcomes the steps taken by the United Nations at the Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods conferences to lay the basis for world cooperation for reconstruction, rehabilitation, the industrialization of economically backward nations and the promotion of world prosperity.

This war has shown the imperative necessity of unity within nations and between nations to achieve victory. To achieve such great goals as sixty million jobs after the war, the same kind of unity and cooperation nationally and internationally will be necessary—and the CIO will dedicate all its efforts to this end.

Continuous Political Activity

In voting to continue the work of the Political Action Committee, the recent CIO convention sought to avoid the shortcomings which have marked much previous labor political activity.

There have been other elections in the past in which much enthusiasm and effort have gone into a particular campaign, only to be dissipated once the election was over, so that an entirely new start had to be made all over again when the next election rolled around.

The convention recognized the great victory involved in the re-election of Pres. Roosevelt and the strengthening of the progressive forces in Congress. But it also recognized that this is only a step in the direction of the great goals to which the CIO and all other progressive Americans are dedicated.

We now have more favorable conditions under which to carry forward the struggle for the attainment of these goals, the convention pointed out, but CIO's mobilization in the political field must be continued, if we are to carry on this struggle effectively.

We must be good citizens, not only on election day, but also every other day of the year, keeping tab on our elected representatives, letting them hear from us, maintaining our local political committees, concerning ourselves with state and local as well as national issues, and starting to prepare right now for the important local elections of 1945, as well as for the 1946 elections.

The CIO News

Published Weekly

Congress of Industrial Organizations

Philip Murray .....President
James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer

Vice-Presidents

Joseph Curran | John Green | Reid Robinson
S. H. Dalrymple | Allan S. Haywood | Frank Rosenblum
Albert Fitzgerald | Emil Rieve | R. J. Thomas

Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director

Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925

Vol. 7 December 4, 1944 No. 49

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

HE NUDGED me as I was passing through the lobby of the Stevens during the CIO convention, and beckoned me mysteriously to a quiet corner.

"I've been around at some of your conventions," he said, introducing himself, "and I want to get the lowdown on this one."

He looked bored as I started to talk about political action and other issues, and finally broke in:

"Cut out the baloney, bud, and give me the real dirt. How're they lining up behind the scenes? Who's going to be ditched? How's the fight on the no-strike pledge? How's about . . ."

And he started shooting questions in terms of factions, personalities and the like.

"Sorry I can't give you anything spicy," I replied. "But there's more unity and harmony and general agreement at this convention than at any I've seen—and if you want the real story, it's right on the floor of the convention."

"Nuts!" he said, turning away. "That's what I get for wasting my time questioning a press agent!"

★ ★ ★

My cynical friend avoided me thereafter, though I noticed him buttonholing other people.

Once I caught his eye, in the visitors' section, when he seemed to have caught the fever of the demonstrations on political action. He blushed and stopped clapping.

But he need not have felt so frustrated in his quest for "the lowdown." For with the biggest press ever at a CIO convention, including most of the ace labor reporters, there was hardly a story written "from the backroom." The news that made the headlines all came from the convention itself.

★ ★ ★

The convention met in the flush of triumph over CIO's magnificent success in political activity.

It had a lift and a lilt to it. And emotions were all the more deeply stirred because of the venomous attacks of the campaign.

So when Sidney Hillman was presented, the target for all of reaction's most scurrilous abuse, the convention went wild. And the demonstration rose and swelled as he in turn paid tribute to Philip Murray as the man whose leadership had made possible this great labor advance.

There was no disagreement on political action, no undercover tugging and pulling—just a mighty wave of enthusiasm over the vindication of labor's political efforts and a solid determination to continue and extend them.

★ ★ ★

But there were deeper grounds for all this unity.

All the delegates had relatives or friends at the fighting fronts. They scanned the papers daily for news from Leyte, Italy and Germany's west wall—news that meant something personally to every one of them.

How could anyone play factional politics with issues that might mean life or death to their loved ones? How could there be anything but unanimity on policies designed to back our armed forces to the limit and to speed victory?

★ ★ ★

On wage policy, on reconversion, on planning for 60 million jobs there was little room for serious disagreement and every incentive for concerted effort.

Then, too, the convention mapped out such a bold, clear-cut and progressive program on foreign policy and world labor unity that it stirred the enthusiasm of all who feel that human brotherhood and lasting peace are practical goals that can and must be worked for.

But still one more important factor must be added to explain the almost complete absence of bickering at this convention.

That is the outstanding leadership of President Murray. He took office when the movement was at low ebb and rent with bitter factionalism. Day after day, year after year, he worked with extraordinary patience and skill to heal old wounds, to adjust differences and to map progressive policies behind which the whole movement could unite.

Among all the tributes paid to Phil Murray, the greatest testimonial was this convention itself—representing a new peak in the power, unity and progressive purpose of the great movement he heads.

★ ★ ★

I ran into my cynical friend on the last day and asked him how much dirt he had dug up.

"Aw, skip it," he said. "Got to hand it to the CIO. It's certainly going to town."

Convention Stresses Organizing Work

CHICAGO, Dec. 2—The CIO pledged to continue to organize the unorganized into "strong and powerful industrial unions" in a resolution passed last week at the CIO convention. The resolution reads:

WHEREAS, (1) The CIO has demonstrated the importance of organized labor in securing a total mobilization of our war effort, thereby assuring a decisive victory over the Axis forces;

(2) Since only though strengthened and expanded union organization can labor continue its initiative in constructing a coalition of the people for a durable and lasting peace and full production and full employment; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, (1) The CIO shall continue its fundamental task of organizing the unorganized into strong and powerful industrial unions.

(2) We must direct special attention to the problems which will arise during reconversions and the postwar period as a result of the influx of millions of workers into industry, such as women workers and Negro workers now being employed in other than unskilled jobs, to the number of former white-collar professional workers who are now working on production jobs, and to farm workers engaged in factory work for the first time;

(3) Through the expanded membership of the CIO unions, we shall bring to the workers of the nation the benefits of collective bargaining and to our country the added strength and leadership necessary for an early victory, a just peace, and the securing of full production and full employment.

CIO Bushemi Family Does Job for War

The CIO Bushemi award is named after a CIO family that has contributed, in its way, just about as much to the war effort as has any family in the United States.

Hero of the family, in whose name the award was established by the Natl. CIO War Relief Committee, is John A. Bushemi, a CIO Newspaper Guild member and photographer who was killed in action in the Marshall Islands.

Father of the family is Peter Bushemi, who's been a member of a union since 1906, and a member of the CIO since 1937. He is employed in the blast furnance department of the Gary works of the Carnegie, Illinois Steel Co., largest steel plant in the world, and is a member of Local No. 1014, United Steelworkers.

SONS CIO MEMBERS

One of his sons, Marion, is a crane operator in the same plant and a shop steward of the local. "My father was always a strong union man and he brought us boys up that way," Marion said, and the record bears him out.

One of his brothers, Sam, was a CIO member working in the sheet and tin mill of Carnegie, Illinois, in Gary before joining the Army. He is now a Private First Class and a photographer for the U. S. Marines.

Pvt. Joseph A. Bushemi, of the Army Medical Corps, has served 31 months overseas, and recently returned home to visit his parents on furlough. He is now stationed in Miami, Florida.

Emil Bushemi, a Lieutenant in the Plant Protection Force at the Carnegie plant, was also a CIO member before taking his present job which precludes union membership.

Frank P. Bushemi is a clerk in the office of the plant and therefore not officially a union member except "in my heart."

Sam Bushemi was chief air raid warden for the city of Gary, a job that developed through CIO's participation in home defense work. He has been assisted in that work by a sister, Mary Ellen Bushemi, and his brother, Marion.

There are two other sisters in the Bushemi family, Margaret Pozatto and Carmella Macainso. Both of them are married to good CIO members.

3-1 UAW Victory

The CIO United Auto Workers Union last week was named collective bargaining representative for 1,950 employes of the Natl. Screw & Manufacturing Co., Cleveland, O., by the NLRB. The vote was nearly 3 to 1 for CIO.

Ask Reilly Removal From NLRB, End Of Frey Rider

CHICAGO, Dec. 2—A call to compel the removal of Gerard Reilly of the National Labor Relations Board and a determination to eliminate the Frey rider were included in a resolution passed last week at the CIO convention. The resolution follows in full:

WHEREAS, (1) The continued effective administration of the National Labor Relations Act following the termination of the war will assume even greater importance than it has had in the past. Recent acts of the Board reflect a retreat from the basic policies and principles underlying the Wagner Act and actually deprive the workers of the fundamental rights which the Act was intended to guarantee to them;

(2) The entire change in the course of conduct in the administrative attitude on the part of the National Labor Relations Board is dut to Board Member Gerard Reilly. It has been clearly established in a series of important cases that the decisions of Gerard Reilly are not based upon merit or past precedents of the Board, but rather upon a determined design to defeat the efforts of the CIO unions to obtain the protection for their members to which they are entitled under the National Labor Relations Act; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, (1) The CIO condemns the activities and policies of Gerard Reilly. His expressed bias and prejudice and unprincipled administration which results in the practical negation of the benefits guaranteed by the Wagner Act should compel his removal from the National Labor Relations Board;

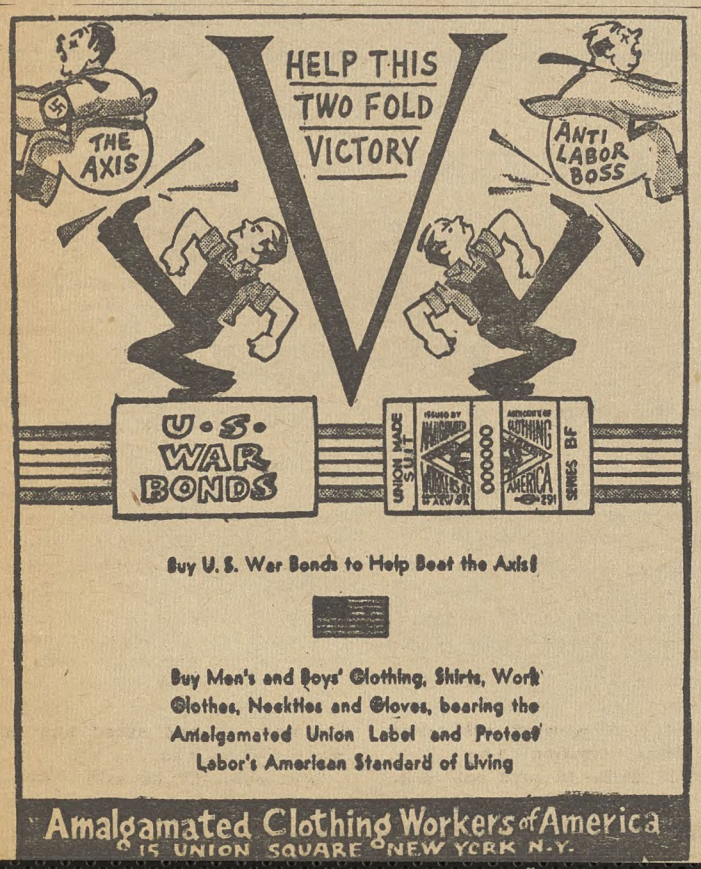
(2) While the vicious Frey rider to the Appropriations Act for the National Labor Relations Board is in its latest form has been drastically curtailed, even its restricted application reflects a negation of the cardinal principle of the Wagner Act guaranteeing to workers the right to choose their own representatives for purposes of collective bargaining. The CIO pledges to continue its fight to have this rider eliminated in toto from any future appropriation act.

(3) The CIO calls upon the members of the National Labor Relations Board to pursue a policy consistent with the basic principles of the Wagner Act and not to attempt to appease those who through their attacks and pressures on the Board seek to destroy the legislation.

Loans Books To Unions

Boston, Dec. 2—Some 250 books were loaned to unions during the past month under a union deposit book service maintained by the Boston Public Library for the convenience of trade unions.

Everybody! Back the 6TH WAR LOAN DRIVE



Buy U. S. War Bonds to Help Beat the Axis!

Buy Men's and Boys' Clothing, Shirts, Work Clothes, Neckties and Gloves, bearing the Amalgamated Union Label and Protect Labor's American Standard of Living

Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America
15 UNION SQUARE NEW YORK N.Y.

THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS ARE STILL IN JAP PRISONS

What Will YOU Do About it?

6th WAR LOAN

REMEMBER CORREGIDOR? Remember the pictures of grinning Japanese soldiers guarding American prisoners? We're out to wipe the grins off their faces. We're out to liberate thousands of American soldiers and civilians still in Jap prisons. That day can come only with final victory.

We're out to finish the job the Japs started. The 6th War Loan Drive is part of the great national effort to win quick victory in the Pacific. The cost of victory comes high. It costs billions of dollars a month to fight Japan! But we know you'll do your full share, as you have in all the other war loan drives. Your full share is at least one extra $100 War Bond. Buy more if you possibly can. War Bonds are your best insurance of a safe, independent future.

BUY AT LEAST ONE EXTRA $100 WAR BOND

NOVO ENGINE COMPANY
LANSING, MICH.

★ This is an official U. S. Treasury advertisement—prepared under the auspices of Treasury Department and War Advertising Council. ★

Suppress Criticism Of Reader's Digest

Columbus, O.—Attempts to suppress a report questioning use of the Reader's Digest in the classroom broke up the opening session of the Natl. Council of Teachers of English here last week.

The report aired charges that the Digest is "anti-Semitic, anti-Negro, anti-labor and anti-Roosevelt" and asked teachers to study these charges before recommending the magazing to their pupils.

Members of the newspaper and magazine committee appointed to investigate the Digest were distributing copies of the report among the delegates when Pres. Angela M. Broening, Baltimore highschool teacher, ordered the distribution stopped and asked that all copies be returned.

Later the committee managed to get the report circulated among the teachers along with documents which indicated that pressure had been brought by editors of the Digest to suppress the report.

BONDS
Keep Bombs Falling!
6 WAR LOAN

How to Entertain a GI Jane

THAT HOMEY FEELING is what the gals in service like, so if you're inviting one of them to share your family's holiday season, make her understand she's one of the gang. Best bet is to invite several service people, as in top left, and then put them to work doing some of the jobs they've had a yen for since they left home, as in top right. A bit of quiet relaxation, like the woman Marine in the bottom photo is getting, isn't a bad idea for your service guests.

BUY A BOND TODAY!
HELP BEAT THE AXIS!

A bargain hunter's reasons for buying War Bonds to help him now

to help us later

I THINK Bob's the bravest man in the world.

But I know that he, and the millions like him, can't win this war without money. My money—War Bond money. When I buy Bonds, I feel I'm helping to bring him back sooner.

But there's another reason.

When Bob comes back, we'll need money too, a lot of it. Money to tide us over till Bob gets back into the swing of being a civilian. Money to build that house we both dream about. And money to raise a family to fill it.

So every bond I buy will give me double value. It will do two jobs—one now and one later. And as an old bargain hunter, I just can't resist a deal like that!

War Bonds - to have and to hold!

This patriotic message sponsored by

HERRON-ZIMMERS MOULDING COMPANY

Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE

CONVENTION EDITION OF THE CIO NEWS
STILL AVAILABLE

COMPLETE CONVENTION NEWS

BUNDLE ORDERS

1½c per copy in quantities to 1,000
1½c per copy in quantities between 1,000 and 2,000
1c per copy in quantities over 2,000

WRITE—
CIO NEWS,
718 Jackson Place, Washington 6, D. C.

Enclosed find (check, money order) for ..... copies CONVENTION CIO NEWS.

Name .....

Local .....

Address ..... City ..... State .....

By ELEANOR FOWLER
Secretary-Treasurer, CIO Auxiliaries

There is no time to spare in following up on the resolutions opposing the Equal Rights Amendment which were adopted both at the CIO Convention and the CIO Auxiliary Conference in Chicago.

Senator Gillette (D., Iowa) ardent Senate champion of the measure, will not be back in January, so this month is his last chance to push passage of the amendment. Since the Senate Judiciary Committee has already approved it, all he has to do is arrange to have it brought up.

According to the newspapers, Senator Barkley has promised the Senate a chance to vote on Equal Rights before adjournment, so there's really not a moment to lose in letting our Senators know how we stand.

The Equal Rights Amendment is really a very tricky piece of legislation. Off hand most forward looking citizens would probably say that they were in favor of it. Here's what it says, as revised by the Senate Judiciary Committee:

"Equality of rights under the law on account of sex."

the United States or by any State

What, exactly, would that mean in practice?

WHAT'S AT STAKE

In the first place, all special protective legislation for women such as minimum wage and maximum hours laws, seating and rest period laws, etc., now on the statute books would be voided, and no such laws could be passed in future.

Would this be in the best interests of a majority of American women? Women in the labor movement don't think so. We have worked for years to secure the passage of protective legislation. We know that it is an important safeguard for women in the service trades, many of whom do not have strong unions to protect their interests.

The amendment would affect far more than labor legislation, however. It would endanger the welfare of the family. Non-support laws, for instance, which would make men responsible for the support of wives and children do not generally apply equally to women. And yet those laws provide basic economic protection for the women in the home.

There are special provisions in social security laws, too, as for instance in workmen's compensation, for men with dependent wives or surviving widows. Are we to do away with all those family safeguards in the name of an abstract equality?

The thing that is basically wrong with the amendment, as the National Women's Trade Union League so well points out in their October Bulletin, is that it "fails to take into account that there are physical and functional differences between men and women."

Women in the labor movement are just as anxious as women in the professions to have equal civil rights with men—the right to serve on juries, to hold office, to have custody of their children, etc. But we must not jeopardize all special laws protecting women at home and on the job in order to do away with remaining discrimination in civil rights.

LET YOUR SENATORS AND CONGRESSMAN KNOW TODAY WHY YOU ARE OPPOSED TO THE EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT.

Women Back 'Equal Pay' Program

The CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries at its fourth annual conference in Chicago resolved to support "all campaigns of the CIO to win legislation and contract provisions which will guarantee" women "equal pay for equal work."

The resolution points out "discrimination against women workers through the policy of paying women a lower scale than men for similar work is still prevalent in most industries . . ."

"This policy," the resolution adds," creates a situation where women are thereby a source of cheap labor which constitutes a direct threat to wage standards and works undue hardship on million of women workers. . ."

Race Bias Case

New York, Dec. 2—A case to determine whether a union which discriminates against members on account of race or color can act as a bargaining agent for the workers will be the first of its kind to be heard by the Natl. Labor Relations Board.

The case involves the Tobacco Workers Union (AFL), Local 219, which segregates Negroes and denies them voting rights in the union.

Photo by Archer
MRS. CARRIE SPOTT
Her Political Action Work Is An Inspiration

Says FM Offers Labor Chance On Air Waves

Chicago, Dec. 2—Possibilities for labor offered by FM radio broadcasting were outlined by Allen Sayler, radio expert with the CIO Auto Workers Union, at a special conference for CIO publicity directors and editors held during the CIO convention last week.

Sayler presented a film at the conference explaining some of the technical improvements made possible by FM, such as elimination of static and of station overlapping.

A report presented to the convention by the Press and Publicity Committee, also took up the opportunities offered by FM broadcasting.

"Unless labor and other public-spirited groups take speedy action, these new facilities for FM broadcasting will become monopolized by the same interests that now control AM broadcasting and the daily press, to the detriment of labor's rights and interests," the report warned.

57-Year-Old CIO Woman Is Political Whirlwind

Mrs. Carrie Spott is a 57-year-old political whirlwind of Hopkins, Minn., who turned time backwards 20 years this fall to show fellow CIO members how to help elect a Congressman. She did it too!

Double proof that age is no barrier to action was the fact that the man she helped elect is 12 years older than she is! He's William Gallagher, ex-street sweeper and perennial candidate, who decisively defeated anti-labor Congressman Richard P. Gale.

Sprightly Mrs. Spott attended the CIO Convention last week in Chicago, and told, with coaxing, the story of her political success.

"I used to be a Republican," she admitted, "and this year I pulled some of the tricks they taught me!"

Mrs. Spott hastened to add that everything in Hopkins was on the up and up—no low shenanigans.

A good part of the job was done, she said, by CIO Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers Local 1138, to which her husband belongs.

YOU CAN'T LOSE

"When you have a local like 1138 behind you, you can't lose," Mrs. Spott declared.

Mrs. Spott recently spent six months at the Abraham Lincoln School in Chicago, to round out her education, and took what she had learned back to Hopkins to put it into practice.

Mrs. Spott started a personal house-to-house canvassing campaign early in the year. She got a lot of volunteers to help out. Then on election day, when people in her district registered to vote as well as cast their ballots, Mrs. Spott really went to town.

BIG MAJORITY FOR FDR

The job she helped to do is best told by what happened in her own precinct—it rolled up a heavier majority for FDR than any other in the city. And Congressman Gale was whipped by 68,000 to 61,000!

Mrs. Spott is a walking example of the kind of personal unity that CIO members ought to build with the rest of the community. She's not only recording secretary of her CIO Auxiliary and PAC chairman of her husband's local (as an honorary member) but also is vice-co-chairwoman of the Democratic-Farmer Labor Committee for half her Congressional district.

"You bet I'm in favor of unity," Mrs. Spott said. "Why I even got some Republicans to vote for Mr. Roosevelt!"

UNIONS USE BNA LABOR REPORTS

To keep continuously and reliably informed—with a minimum expenditure of time, money and effort—about all happenings in labor relations which might affect the rights, responsibilities or privileges of their members. For authoritative information and practical guidance, they turn to:

- Labor Relations Reporter

For the news and law of labor-management relations, including: proceedings and decisions of National Labor Relations Board; digests of decisions by War Labor Board; text of court decisions on labor; latest techniques in collective bargaining and contract negotiations; and analysis of significant developments.

- Wage and Hour Reporter

For a weekly check-up on the latest developments in wage-hour regulation and control, including all official action, interpretations and decisions applying the Wage-Hour Law.

- Wage and Salary Stabilization—War Labor Reports

For full text coverage of all executive orders, directives, regulations and decisions bearing on wage and salary stabilization, plus approved going wage rates for specified occupations in all areas. Reports the full text of all decisions handed down in dispute and non-dispute cases by the National War Labor Board as well as important decisions by regional boards.

- Weekly Manpower Reports

For weekly manpower information and regulation, including full text of all official releases from War Manpower Commission and from related agencies. Weekly supplementary sheets furnish up-to-date information on changes in local hiring controls, reemployment rights of veterans, WMC plans for demobilization of war workers, etc.

For Further Details, Mail The Coupon Today!

The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc.
2201 M Street, N. W.,
Washington 7, D. C.

We are interested. Please send complete information on the reports checked below:

- ☐ Labor Relations Reporter
- ☐ Wage and Hour Reporter
- ☐ Wage and Salary Stabilizazion—War Labor Reports
- ☐ Weekly Manpower Reports

Name .....

Union .....

Street Address .....

City.....No.....State.....

We Can Best

SUPPORT The WAR by

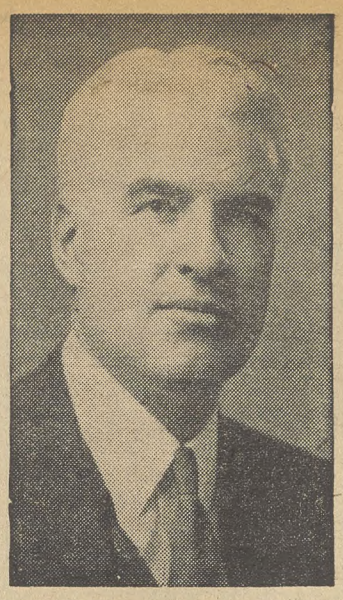
1. MAXIMUM PRODUCTION

2. BUYING WAR BONDS

ATHEY FORGED-TRAK WHEEL

ATHEY TRUSS WHEEL CO.
5631 WEST 65TH STREET
CLEARING STATION
CHICAGO 38, ILL.
U. S. A.

HULL RETIRES: With deep regret President Roosevelt has accepted the resignation of Sec. of State Cordell Hull whose ill health compelled him to withdraw from the State Dept. (Federated Pictures)



UPGRADED: Under Sec. of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. (above) has been nominated by President Roosevelt to head the State Department, succeeding Cordell Hull, who resigned because of ill health. (Federated Pictures)

Hold Education Conference

Roanoke Va., Dec. 2—Locals of the CIO Textile Workers Union in Virginia attended a regional educational conference held here recently under the direction of the Southern School for Workers and Local 11 of the TWUA.

John W. Edelman, Washington representative of the textile union, was among the speakers. Boyd Payton, pres., Virginia CIO Council, announced plans for enlisting the cooperation of the Virginia Board of Education in eliminating illiteracy.

When peace comes to our nation . . . and a sick and wounded world . . . will you be able to look in your mirror and feel proud that you had at least done everything in your power to help? . . . take a look now . . . it is not too late to change if you aren't satisfied with what you see!

How About . . .

Those Extra War Bonds
The Red Cross Drive
Your Local Blood Bank
Food Rationing and Gas
Wasting Food and Paper
. . . just to mention a few!

H. M. SCHILLER CO.

CHICAGO, ILL.

Have You Bought A BOND?

THE HAND THAT DESTROYS WASTE PAPER DRIVES A STINGING BLOW TO THE WAR EFFORT

Waste Paper Will Serve the War Effort, Your Community and Yourself

Waste paper is the most critical war material in the nation. The shortage of pulp, plus the increased war needs for paper, have created a serious condition . . . a condition that must be improved fast.

This newspaper, the wrappings around your packages, the cartons and containers you regularly receive . . . all are urgently needed for making ration boxes, gun wrappers, overseas shipping cases and a multitude of other important war materials.

Save every scrap of paper. Use only waxed or coated paper for wrapping garbage. Tie your paper together and set it on the curb the next time that paper is collected in your area. Waste paper is converted into War materials. The money collected for its sale goes to local Charities, and you have the pride and satisfaction of knowing that you have made an important contribution to victory. The more Waste Paper collected, the more paper we will have for home-front needs.

NOTE: This urgent message sponsored by

MERCURY PRESS
WASHINGTON 5, D. C.

EXCEL CURTAIN CO.
ELKHART, IND.

60-Million-Jobs Resolution Passed by CIO

CHICAGO, Dec. 2—The CIO last week offered its cooperation to the nation to plan and work together with government in formulating a program to secure an economic Bill of Rights that would increase the standard of living and would help to guarantee 60 million jobs. The pledge was embodied in the following resolution:

WHEREAS, (1) The production miracles and our splendid military successes to date have been primarily due to the firm national unity achieved among the people of our country during this war. This national unity and the coordinated effort which has directed our mobilization of war must be carried through for reconversion and postwar;

Aid to Industry

(2) A number of steps have already been taken affording direct assistance to industry to meet reconversion and postwar problems, such as provision for quick settlements following the termination of war contracts; removal of war goods from private plants following cessation of hostilities; and tax relief which guarantees industry against losses and the maintenance of a high level of profits during the postwar.

On the other hand, no heed has been given at all to the human factor involved during reconversion and postwar. The failure to do so evades the crucial factor which shall determine whether we secure an expanding and prosperous postwar economy, namely, increasing the mass purchasing power and affording continued security and employment for all;

(3) The people of the nation have given a fortright mandate to the President to make real the Economic Bill of Rights—job security, adequate wages, expanding business opportunities, decent housing, a good education, adequate medical care and protection from fear of old age, sickness, accident and unemployment; now, therefore, be it

Cooperation

RESOLVED, (1) The CIO offers its sincere cooperation to the many forward-looking industrialists and farmers as well as to all other sections of the population to plan and work together and with government to formulate the necessary program and policies to actually secure the benefits of the Economic Bill of Rights.

If industry will respect the rights of organized labor, will bargain with the unions in good faith, and will recognize that postwar prosperity must be built upon increasing purchasing power and increased production, our unions will help to preserve industrial peace and will cooperate to the limit to increase the production of goods and services upon which our common prosperity depends.

The common interests of labor, progressive industrialists, farmers and veterans demand a unity of program and action on the part of these groups. There can and must be a common solution for our mutual problems. With an indestructible unity we can achieve the aspirations of all the people.

(2) The process of reconversion to partial peacetime production following V-E Day must be coordinated with the necessary wartime production so as to assure all required material for our armed forces and at the same time the full utilization of our resources and manpower to continue full production and full employment. This requires a drastic amendment of the inadequate outstanding legislation in the following respects:

Demobilization

(a) A board of representatives of industry, labor and agriculture, with full authority to direct the process of demobilization, should be made part of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion. The many defects which arose during the process of conversion to obtain full war production should be avoided in the demobilization process through effective coordination and centralized control of cutbacks, redistribution of war contracts, and maximum production of civilian goods.

Only by thus assuring war workers that there will be full protection in the provision of jobs for all during reconversion can we stop the unfortunate situation now developing of war workers, fearing cutbacks and unemployment, departing to other work.

(b) Disposal of surplus property be placed in the hands of administrators who have a complete understanding and appreciation of the need that the purchasers of such property will maintain full production and provide full employment. Adequate safeguards must also be provided to assure small business of full opportunity to purchase such property and thereby to maintain free and healthy competition.

(c) In order to make certain that no worker shall suffer during the period of reconversion, adequate provision must be made for the payment of expenses for transportation of workers and their families back to their homes or to new jobs; supplementary federal unemployment benefits up to a maximum of $35 a week and for the full period of unemployment should be assured, and provision be made for direct unemployment compensation for federal government employes.

Opportunity for retraining of war workers and veterans with guaranteed maintenance allowance should be provided; provision should be made now for federal aid to state and local governments to plan and prepare blueprints for public works to be used to take up the slack of reconversion and unemployment.

Purchasing Power

(3) A prosperous postwar with full production and the sixty million jobs promised by President Roosevelt will depend upon the expansion of the mass purchasing power for our domestic market and established security of continued employment.

It is simple to understand that unless the purchasing power of the workers is sustained and increased there can be no real prosperity. Our national policy shall be that the present weekly wages, as a minimum, must be maintained and cannot be reduced with the decline in overtime. The minimum wage must be sharply increased above prevailing substandard levels.

A further necessary step for full employment is the establishment of a guaranteed annual wage. Industry and agriculture have secured their guarantees. Industrial workers must receive security of employment.

Increased purchasing power on the part of the workers will encourage the expansion of capital investment in this country in new industries, such as housing, aviation, and manifold other enterprises.

Government must assume its share of responsibility for guaranteeing full employment by undertaking enterprises which are beyond the capacity of private industry. This involves vast expansion of rural electrification and the development of regional power authorities, such as the TVA and the proposed Missouri Valley Authority and elsewhere, which will provide a basis for the conservation of our great natural resources and for increased prosperity; and assistance to states and localities for highway and airport construction.

Trade Expansion

(4) A prosperous postwar with full production and the sixty million jobs promised by President Roosevelt will also depend upon the expansion of world trade.

The Dumbarton Oaks conference has shown that the United Nations are determined to force a lasting and enduring peace. Only on this basis and through the growth of stable and democratic governments can there arise the framework within which international trade can prosper and grow.

The Bretton Woods conference has further created the foundation for the stabilization of the currencies of the various nations to encourage international trade and for the mobilization of the necessary credit and facilities for immediate payments with which the war-devastated countries and undeveloped nations can secure the capital and purchase the goods they need.

The rehabilitation and reconstruction of Europe and the industrialization of Africa, Latin America, China and other economic backward nations open a vista for expanding world trade which can unquestionably assure increasing prosperity for all peace-loving nations. We therefore heartily endorse the program and policies formulated at the Bretton Woods conference and urge Congress to authorize the full participation of this country.

Cartels

Within the framework of the policies and objectives of Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods, there can no longer be any place for the type of international cartels which created and nourished Nazi imperialism, restricted production and placed profits above the interests of the common people.

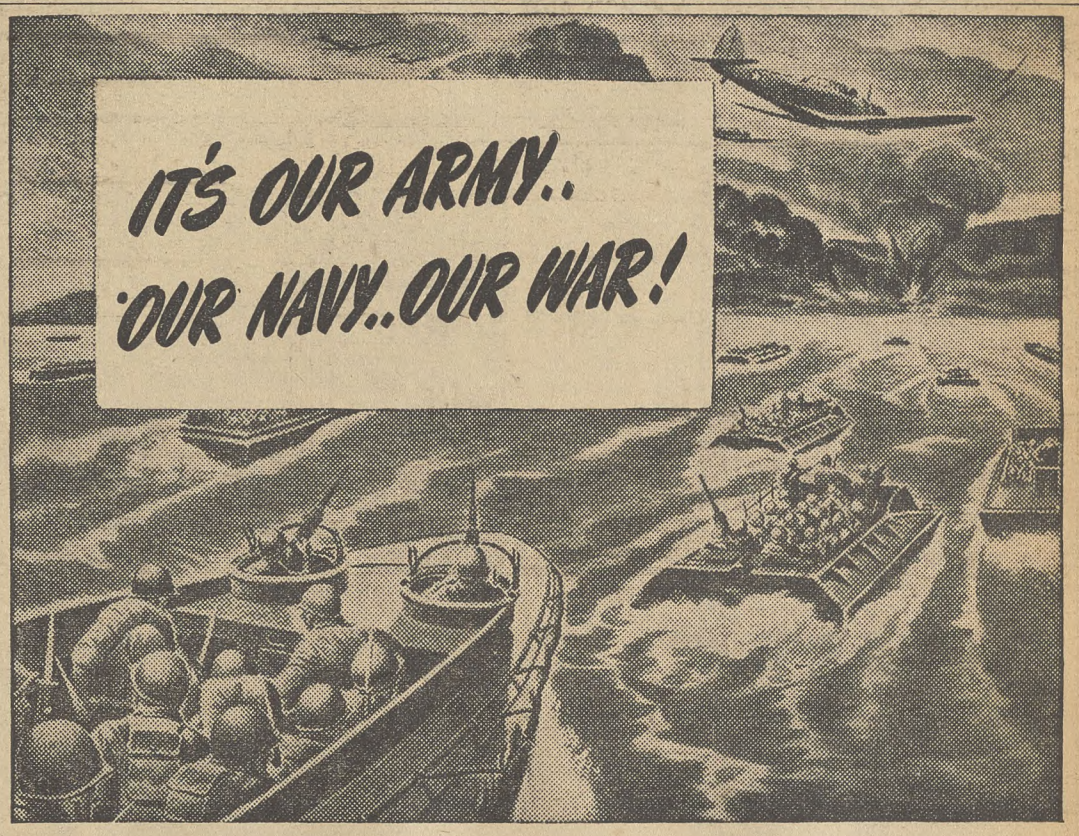
The governmental machinery projected at the Bretton Woods conference, based upon the unity of the United Nations, shall give direction to and coordinate international trade and capital investments but at the same time encourage healthy and free competition.

(5) On the basis of this program the common people of the earth shall really secure peace and enjoy the blessings of Freedom from Want and Freedom from Fear.

Once a Bonus, Always A Bonus, WLB Holds

If an employer has given employes a bonus of one week's earnings in the past and the work-week is lengthened, he may continue the bonus and base it on the number of hours in the new work-week, the Natl. War Labor Board said last week.

The WLB ruling was applied in approving liberalization of an existing attendance bonus plan at the Life Savers Corp., Port Chester, N. Y., which lengthened its work-week from 40 to 50 hours.



Back up the Boys! BUY ANOTHER BOND. IN THE 6th WAR LOAN!

It's not over, over there—not by a long shot.

Uncle Sam can count on the fighting men to keep on fighting—and he must be able to count on you to keep on backing them, by buying extra War Bonds in the Sixth War Loan Drive, now on.

SEE WHAT YOUR EXTRA $100 BOND WILL DO:

It will help pay for the things our men must have—guns, planes, tanks, food.

It will help hold down the cost of living.

It will provide a nest egg for the future—the United States Government guarantees that you will get your money back.

It will show our fighting men that you are willing to do your part!

YOUR COUNTRY IS STILL AT WAR—ARE YOU?

Sponsored by

DANLY MACHINE SPECIALTIES, INC.

2100 SO. 52ND AVE., CHICAGO 50, ILLINOIS

★ This is an official U.S. Treasury advertisement—prepared under auspices of Treasury Department and War Advertising Council ★

'Yank' Refutes Stories Of Playboy Workers, Says Cost of Living Zooms

"Yank" magazine, the Army weekly for men and women in the Armed Forces, has paid a signal tribute to production soldiers of the home front and to one of the great unions sparkplugging war production—the CIO Electrical, Radios & Machine Workers of America.

In a report to its readers in all parts of the world on "the average guy in a war plant"—CIO-UE member—a "Yank" staff writer refutes the notion that war workers are making huge wages and living off the fat of the land.

"Millions of . . . war-worker families . . . aren't shooting their wad on expensive pretties and night-club carryings-on," Sgt. Al Hine, "Yank" staff writer, states in the magazine's Nov. 24 issue. "They can't afford to. . . . Cost of living has risen as fast as incomes, maybe faster."

'TYPICAL' WORKER

To illustrate actual living conditions of a typical war worker and his family, "Yank" magazine selects Frank Hanley of Turtle Creek, Pa., as an "average war worker in a large industrial plant."

Hanley, 27 years of age, rejected from military service because of a trick knee, married and father of two children, works as a panel wireman in the electric shop of the East Pittsburgh Works of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. and is a member of UE Local 601.

This is the second time that the Union has been thus honored by an official newspaper of the United States Armed Forces. On Feb. 9, 1944, "Stars and Stripes," daily Army newspaper in the European theatre of operations, editorially cited the UE for its outstanding record of war production.

"Frank has kept up his union membership and is in good standing," Sgt. Hine writes. "Labor relations at the plant are good, and he's never been involved in a strike."

"His reasons for not shooting his pay down the easy-money drain," the Army magazine states, "are the same as those of most other war workers. Only a microscopic percentage of them are doing that kind of boom spending you read about in the more sensational Stateside newspapers. . . ."

"It isn't as interesting to read about a normal, hardworking guy like Frank Hanley as it is to read about a Coal-Oil Johnny, but it's a lot more important if you want to know the truth about things at home."

"Frank's pay check now is $240 a month," the article points out. "The increase is not all a war-time raise; he has had two advancements since he joined the company."

BLOOD AND BONDS

"Yank" goes on to point out that Hanley donated blood to the Red Cross Blood Bank, uses 25 per cent of his income towards paying for his home, 15 per cent for food and buys War Bonds equalling 15 per cent of his earnings.

"The whole picture," Sgt. Hine sums up," explains why the Hanleys and the millions of other war-worker families like them, aren't shooting their wad on expensive pretties and night-club carrings-on.

"They can't afford to. Their incomes are higher than they were before the war, but it doesn't put them in a millionaire-playboy brackets by a long shot. And cost of living has risen as fast as incomes, maybe faster.

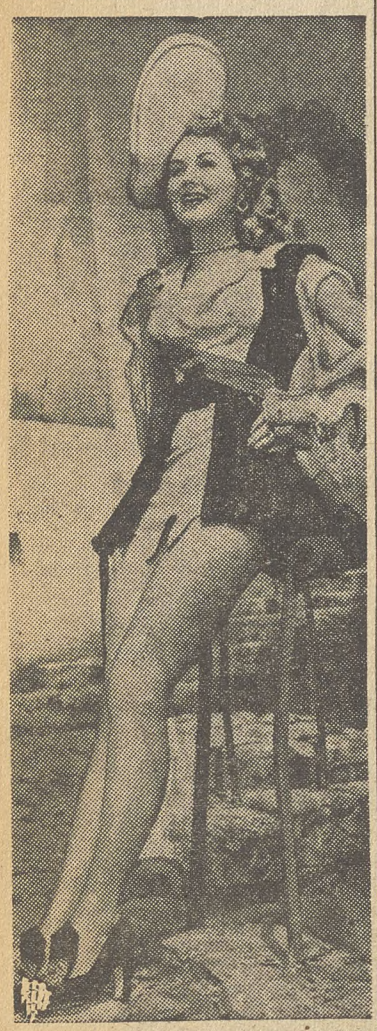
TO WIN THE WAR

"Most war workers have other, more important things to do with their money. They have families to think about, their families' future and their own.

"Working in war industries, they know there is a war going on. Bomber noses instead of electric irons go down the assembly lines.

"Frank Hanley doesn't buy bonds simply because they're good investment. He doesn't give blood to the Red Cross because he likes its color. He has two older brothers who saw active sea duty with the Navy before they were discharged because of age. He has another, a younger brother, who is sweating out the war as a GI in New Guinea.

"Most families in the U.S.", the "Yank" writer concludes, "are like that because most families are soldiers' families."



WHISTLE BAIT: Movie Starlet Virginia Mayo was chosen by the Whistling Teachers Institute of America as the girl most likely to be whistled at in 1945. (Federated Pictures)

Every Day, Every Hour Of Production Vital to Our Fighters—Marshall

Chicago, Dec. 2—General George Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, in a statement read at the CIO Convention last week, urged CIO workers to exert every effort to increase the production of weapons with which our fighting men can crush the Axis. The statement follows:

"You are holding your annual convention at a most critical moment in the war. The record in the greatest production race in history represents a tremendous accomplishment.

"You have made possible the overwhelming superiority in supplies and equipment that has enabled our armies and those of our Allies to wrest the initiative from the enemy in every theater of war.

"Despite these achievements at home and abroad we are forced to view the future with deep concern. The very speed of our advance has created new production problems.

"If we are to knock Germany out of the war and keep moving forward in the Pacific with minimum loss of American lives, we must intensify the force of the blows we are striking against the enemy.

"Specifically we now need, as a matter of the utmost urgency, more artillery and mortar ammunition, more tanks, more heavy trucks and tires, more field and assault wire, more tentage and more radar equipment.

"The soldiers face a desperate and determined enemy day after day in the mud and in the snow. They look to us for assurance that they will receive the urgently needed supplies in rapidly increasing volume until the German army is eliminated.

"Every day is vital. Every hour of delay means hundreds of lives and millions of money.

"Everyone in this country, every worker must be made to understand that where a few divisions for brief periods consumed our munition output, today we must maintain a raging battle along a thousand miles of front in Europe and a steadily increasing battle in the Philippines."

Once there was a man named Bill

Bill was with the first Marines who went to the Pacific. For three years he fought Japs.

Then at Saipan, Bill had a quick decision to make.

He saw a job he thought should be done. He couldn't be sure it would help. He couldn't be sure he'd come back if he tried it. But it seemed worth trying.

He went ahead with the job. And it did help. And he didn't come back.

Perhaps there's a lesson in this story for some of us at home.

Bill had already done quite a bit for his country. But when the time came, he didn't stop to think about that. He didn't look around for someone else to take the risk for a change. He knew his work wasn't finished.

The same thing is true about buying War Bonds. Don't waste time wondering whether or not you've done your share.

As long as there are men like Bill still fighting—your job isn't finished yet—your job is to back them up. So keep on buying War Bonds.

WAR BONDS
-to have and to hold!

★ This is an official U.S. Treasury advertisement—prepared under the auspices of Treasury Department and War Advertising Council ★

Push Drive For Good, Low-Cost Clothing

The CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries and a dozen other nation-wide organizations this week united in a campaign for reasonably priced, durable clothing.

The organizations are circularizing the housewives of America, pointing out that there is a scarcity of reasonably priced, good clothing.

Housewives are urged in a circular to write their Congressmen demanding that the War Production Board and the Office of Price Administration act to see that "essential clothes are produced ahead of luxuries and sold under tight price ceilings tied to quality."

"Ask him to let you know what he does about it," the circular says.

URGE TIGHT CONTROLS

The 13 organizations state that they have urged "WPB to use its powers to direct the production of needed fabrics and to allocate those fabrics under a system of tight controls to the manufacture of basic clothing, made according to their figures.

"So far, all it has done has been to set up a few small progams completely inadequate in quantity, in control of quality and in enforcement. The latest children's program, according to WPB figures, allocates cloth to meet only one-quarter of the need for children's cotton garments.

"We have asked OPA to put enforceable price ceilings on clothing in dollar-and-cent terms which consumers can see and check. So far, OPA has done this on rayon stockings, men's work clothes and a few other items. But the vast majority of clothing prices have not been held in line."

ORGANIZATIONS COOPERATING

The organizations cooperating with the CIO auxiliaries in the campaign are:

American Association of University Women, American Home Economics Association, CIO Cost of Living Committee, Consumers Union, Ladies Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen, League of Women Shoppers, National Consumers League, National Council of Jewish Women, National Council of Negro Women, National Farmers Union, National Federation of Settlements and National Women's Trade Union League.

At its conference held simultaneously with the CIO convention in Chicago, the CIO auxiliaries resolvd to call upon the OPA to increase the facilities and activities of the OPA textile and clothing divisions and to coordinate their efforts with the other government agencies concerned to whatever extent necessary to provide:

"1. War models for essential items based on reasonable standards of serviceablility whereby goods of specified quality are allocated into specified price lines which are controlled by uniform dollar and cents ceiling regulations, but not requiring the production of identical designs by different manufacturers.

"2. Immediate pre-ticketing by manufacturers as a basis for retail ceiling prices.

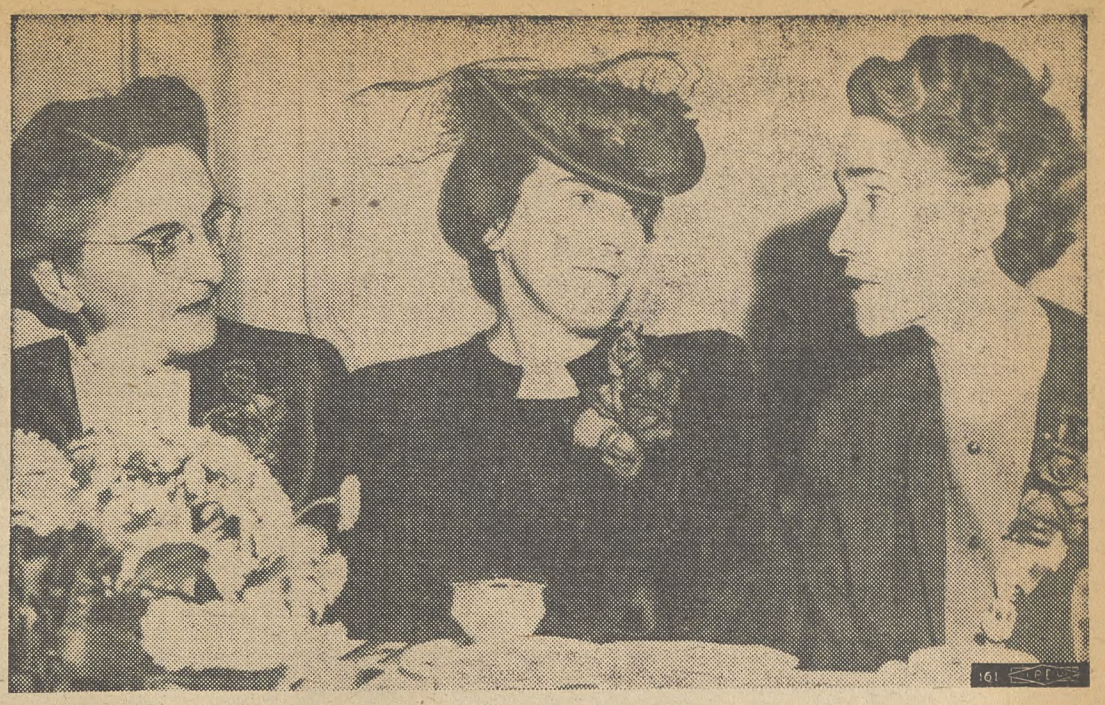
"3. Sustained efforts to develop dollars and cent prices.

and be it further

"RESOLVED, that we call upon the War Production Board to use its powers to the full to assist OPA in bringing about adequate production of needed durable clothing items, and be it finally

"RESOLVED, that the CWA urge all affiliated auxiliaries to organize community pressure campaigns for the repeal of the Taft Amendment to the Price Control Law which prohibits grade labeling.

BACK THE 6th WAR LOAN!



MORE POLITICAL ACTION by women is needed if labor and progressive forces are really to make over Congress. That's what the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries heard last week at the CIO convention in Chicago, from some one who ought to know. The speaker was newly elected Congresswoman Emily Taft Douglas, second from left, with Mrs. Faye Stephenson, CWA president, and Miss Dorothy Bellanca, a vice president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

Child Care Programs To Keep Women On War Jobs Urged

The CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries went on record at its fourth annual conference in Chicago for adequate child care programs and other community facilities to enable women war workers to stay on their jobs.

A conference resolution stated that "the inadequacy of community child care and after school programs have forced many women to leave their jobs in the interest of the health and security of their children, therefore be it:

"Resolved that this conference . . . redouble its efforts, along with the CIO, and all interested community groups, to secure adequate community programs for the care of children of all ages and for other needed community facilities which will make it possible for women to devote their best efforts to their war jobs, and be it further

"Resolved that this conference go on record urging the women of the nation to go into war industry where they are needed and to enter the armed forces to free men for the front lines and speed the day of victory for us and our allies."

BACK THE 6th WAR LOAN!

To the People of this Community

Take a good look at the Sixth War Loan sales totals in today's edition. Do they represent your sweat, your will to stay in the fight to the finish, your recognition of wartime responsibilities? Have you done all you could do to make the Sixth War Loan your greatest individual contribution to victory?

Ted R. Gamble, National Director of the War Finance Division of the United States Treasury Department, wrote the keynote for this war loan. You have undoubtedly seen it on billboards in the city and out on country roads. It reads:

"My thinking, my money, my time will stay in this war to the finish."

Are you satisfied that you can say these words to yourself and not have your conscience kick back? In a few hours the Sixth War Loan will be history. Your duty to continue buying as many War Bonds as possible will continue every moment until the enemy surrenders and our fighting men are home.

★

GOODWILL PRINTING COMPANY.

8338 12th - Detroit, Mich.

MA. 0945

Clarion RADIO

TODAY ALL-OUT FOR VICTORY

TOMORROW ALL-OUT FOR

FULL EMPLOYMENT

WARWICK MANUFACTURING CORPORATION

4640-50 W. HARRISON ST.

CHICAGO 44, ILL.

AUTO SPECIALTIES MFG. CO.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH.

CIO's 'Foreign Affairs' Decisions Affect Jobs, Security Of All People

CIO's interest in what are loosely called "foreign affairs" reached new heights at the 7th convention just ended in Chicago. Six resolutions dealt with one or another aspect of our relations as workers and as citizens with the peoples of other countries.

There was the resolution on international labor unity—and President Murray's detailed review of the steps leading up to the CIO initiated London conference in the beginning of the new year.

There was the resolution on Latin-America, with cordial greetings to the CTAL, the sending of delegates to Latin-American labor meetings, and with presentation of a plan for industrialization of Latin-American countries by Jacob Potofsky Martin Kyne and David J. McDonald.

There was a resolution sending greetings to Marshal Tito and the heroic partisans of Jugo-Slavia; one supporting the Italian Confederation of Labor in its struggles to rebuild democracy in Italy; one urging a commonwealth of Palestine.

Among the most important was one on international security after the war, supporting the policies of Teheran, Bretton Woods, Dumbarton Oaks and other United Nations conferences.

WHY THE CONCERN

Why all the concern on the part of CIO for "foreign affairs?" Why devote six resolutions out of a short total of 45 to this subject?

Well, to begin with, perhaps we ought to drop the phase "foreign affairs" out of our thinking. The world war against fascism has shown that all people's interests are the same. All peoples want freedom and a chance to grow in security. Fascism wanted to destroy not only freedom and growth but even the desire for them, so the peoples of the free world united against fascism.

After fascism is destroyed, we won't slip back into isolation and disunity. After all, it was isolation in the 20's and 30's that allowed Germany and Japan to start this war. German industrialists want to try again; are already planning World War III while losing World War II, just as they planned this war while losing the 1914-1918 round.

We need world unity — and world labor unity is on the top of the whole unity agenda — to prevent another war from coming in 1970. We need it not only to prevent war 25 years from now but to lay the base here and now for the security and prosperity that prevent wars.

NOT JUST DREAMING

So the CIO is not just dreaming or being idealistic when it takes time in an extremely busy convention to pass six resolutions on "foreign affairs." World labor unity is a strictly down-to-earth proposition that concerns our own living standards, our jobs, our security and our eating habits.

Without world security we won't have world trade. Without world trade America's huge production machine will rot, and millions of people will lack jobs and rot with it. Without world labor unity, the interests of the common people won't be heard at the peace table—as Philip Murray warned at the convention.

And without the word of the common people carrying its full weight at the peace conference, we might as well start preparing our kids for the next war here and now.

These are a few of the reasons why Philip Murray's leadership has brought CIO to spend time on what we used to call "foreign affairs."

It Ain't the Sentiment, It's Cash That Counts!

Best record yet reported on CIO Political Action Contributions was that proudly hung up this week by Local 27, CIO Office & Professional Workers, in Washington D. C.

The local reported that a quota of $140 was exceeded by nearly 500 per cent—$680 in all being collected for political action work prior to Nov. 7.

To the People of this Community

The European war has been expensive, but almost everything in the Pacific war will cost more. Take transportation costs, for instance. Because of the longer distances the same amount of freight costs 25 per cent more when shipped to the South Pacific than to Europe. It takes twice as many cargo ships in the Pacific to support a task force of a given size since turnaround time is twice as great!

6th WAR LOAN

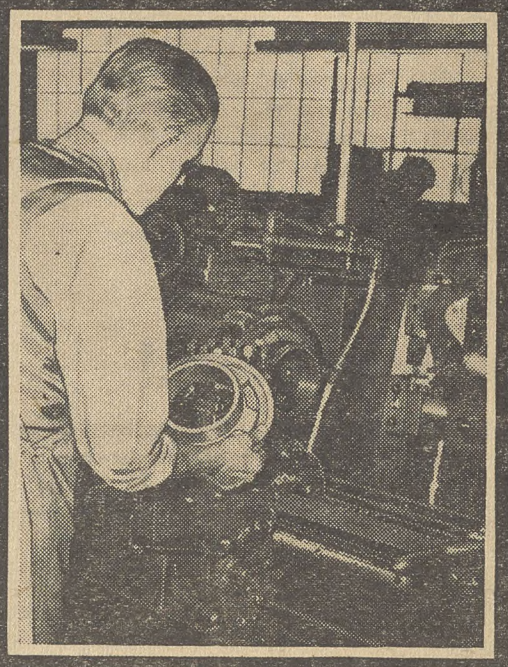
In addition, we will need more of everything. More B-29 Superfortresses that cost $600,000 each. More P-47 Thunderbolts that cost $50,000 each. More M-4 Tanks, with bulldozer blades, that cost $67,417 each. More amphibious tanks—more aircraft carriers—more supply ships—more gasoline and oil than it took for the invasion of Europe!

And lest anyone forget, we will need more battalion aid stations—more clearing stations—more evacuation hospitals—more convalescent hospitals—more hospital ships. Your personal responsibility in the Sixth War Loan in helping to pay for the Pacific war is to buy at least an extra $100 War Bond over and above your normal War Bond purchases.

★

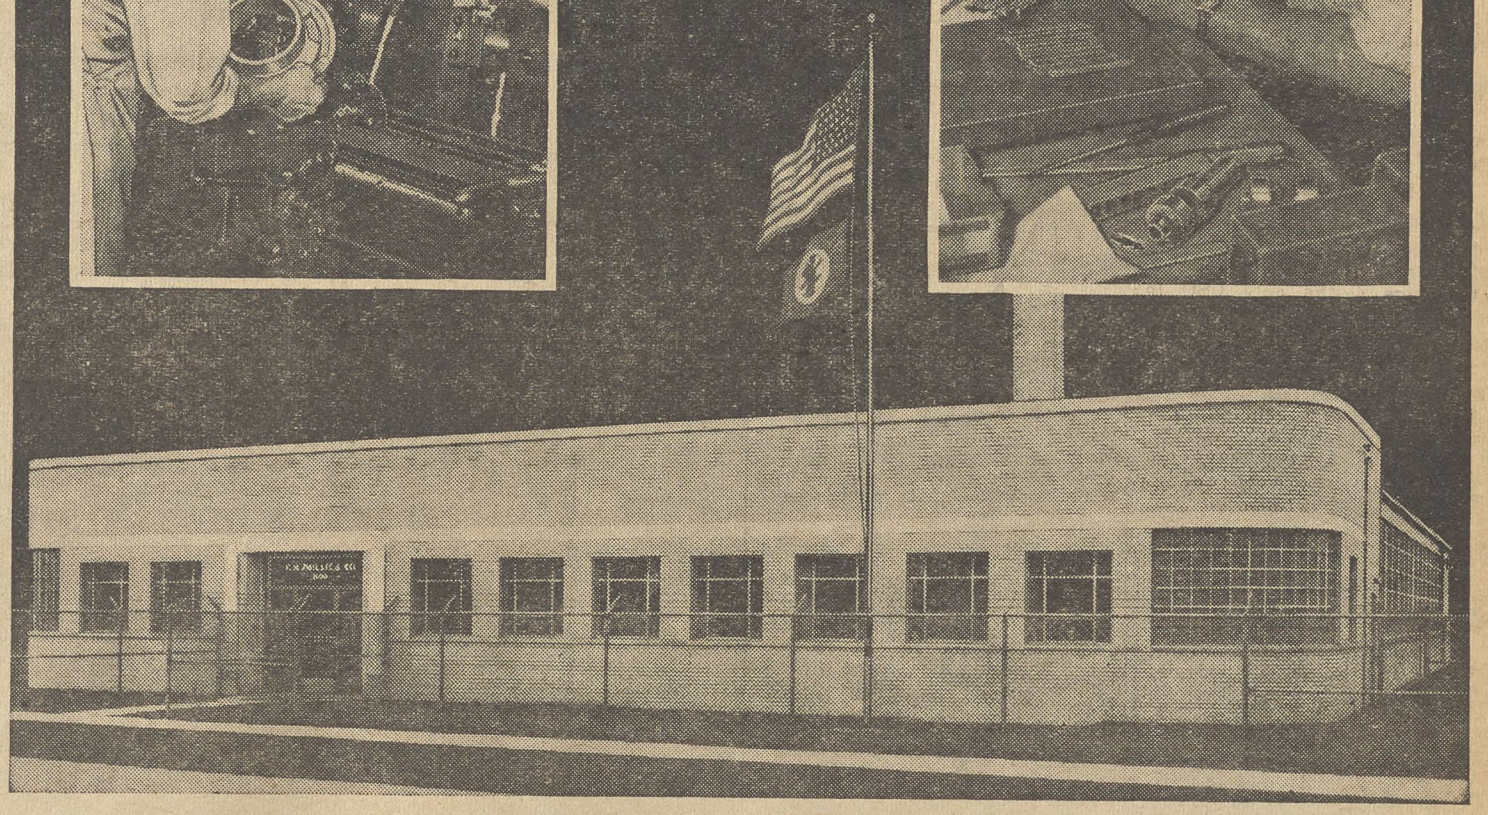
MISSISSIPPI GLASS CO.

St. Louis, Mo.



Smillie equipment handles as large a precision part as the airplane hub shown here.

A toolmaker building one of the special tools that enable us to control quality.



OUR PLANT

NOT THE SMALLEST and NOT THE LARGEST

BUT

WE AIM FOR THE HIGHEST PRECISION STANDARDS

At C. M. Smillie Company the objective is not to be the largest in our field. Nor do our present facilities label us as small. We aim at maintaining a reputation for excellence that will be known and valued throughout industry.

Since the founding of the C. M. Smillie Company in 1889, craftsmanship and ingenuity have been the watchwords. To this has been added modern plant facilities including amazingly accurate machines and scientific equipment that coupled with engineering and planning have produced thousands of parts of the highest accuracy.

The C. M. Smillie plant has caused many visitors to remark "the finest plant of its size." We appreciate this. But the efficient layout, the modern machines for every type of operation, a complete tool and gauge department, and inspection equipment—all reflect our basic aim—to operate so as to produce the very best in precision parts that can be made.

After Victory, this extra measure of value in Smillie precision will help to achieve your product leadership.

C. M. SMILLIE & CO.

1100 WOODWARD HGTS. FERNDALE, MICH.

TOOLS PRECISION SCREW MACHINE PRODUCTS FIXTURES

PRECISION • YESTERDAY • TODAY • TOMORROW

GIs Praise Union-Backed Canteen for Doing Swell Job

HARRISBURG, Pa. (FP)—It's 1 a. m. and nothing is moving in this steel town except the wind blowing rain and dirty newspapers down the deserted streets—and a couple of sailors shivering under a street lamp, wishing there was somewhere they could go to kill the hours before their bus leaves. A hamburger and a cup of coffee would sure hit the spot, but every joint in the town is shut. Might as well go back to the bus station and sweat it out, just a couple of sad sacks with wet feet. Hey, wait a minute . . . there's a place all lit up! What's that sign say—USO Labor Club—open all night—c'mon, Joe!

Conceived and sponsored by AFL, CIO, railroad and independent unions of Harrisburg and operated by the Natl. YWCA and the Natl. Jewish Welfare Board, the USO Labor Club here is living proof day and night to thousands of servicemen that unions are OK.

Seventeen thousand GIs from all over the country—recruits straight from the induction center, men with overseas ribbons waiting for reassignments, sailors stationed here at the largest naval supply depot in the world—enter its doors each month. And out of its doors each month go 17,000 GIs whom no newspaper can ever convince again that unions are a menace.

The unions themselves thought of it first. They noticed a need for a place in the center of town where servicemen could relax, get a shower, food, write a letter, talk to friendly people. There were four USO clubs, but none right in the heart of the city and none open all night. First the unions were going to start their own servicemen's center. Then they went to the USO.

DONATED $5,000

Labor raised $5,000 to renovate and remodel a building and the USO matched the sum. It was dedicated June 4—the only USO in the country with the official title and sign "Labor Club," operated by the USO with the cooperation of organized labor. More than 75% of the volunteer workers are from union families.

Union wives bake the cakes and chicken pot-pies. Unions contribute the food for the snack bar. The junior hostesses who dance, play pingpong, talk to the GIs and on special occasions entertain with their own chorus are called Laborettes. The club is manned from 11 p. m. to 7 a. m by men hosts—AFL paperhangers, garment workers, bartenders, CIO steelworkers and newspapermen, railroad porters, engineers and other unionists.

One of the most popular places in the club is the cozy corner devoted to labor papers. The papers are sometimes carried off back to the camps, USO Director Rosemary Reinhold says. Many of the boys who come in proudly take out their union cards—they are so glad to find people who know about unions, she says. Some say it's the first time since they've been in the army that they've been able to read their union papers.

GIS LEARN SCORE

Others come in who only know what they read in the newspapers about labor, like the boy from overseas who says bitterly: "Somebody ought to bomb those unions off the earth." Maybe he has a beer with one of the union hosts, or dances with a Laborette or just sticks around for a while—he learns the score about strikes in war time and labor's part in the war effort, and changes his mind about the bombing.

The whole community has become interested in the Labor Club. The Rotary Club, Kiwanis, the Chamber of Commerce, the Women's Club and church organizations have come around to help. And they are so impressed with the way union men and their wives do things that they are inviting them to join all sorts of civic boards which never knew unions existed before.

Success of the Harrisburg USO Labor Club may lead to such clubs in other cities, the USO director told Federated Press. "There couldn't be a rift between soldiers and workers like you read about if they got together more as they do here," she said.

CIO Union Sues Pegler, 'PM'

San Francisco—Libel suits totaling $1,000,000 will be filed against the newspaper PM and against Westbrook Pegler and a number of papers using his column, the CIO Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's union announced this week.

The $500,000 suit against PM, New York tabloid owned by Marshall Field, is based on a series of articles by its Washington correspondent, James A. Wechsler, alleging that ILWU Pres. Harry Bridges was to be removed as regional director of the CIO for California.

Other PM stories "wholly misrepresented" the union's postwar position on strikes, the ILWU said.

The Pegler suits will be filed as the result of two columns he wrote Sept. 26 and Sept. 27 alleging that a man named Douglas K. Hyde was ousted from ILWU Local 34 for supporting Dewey for President. The columns also implied that money collected for the Bridges Deportation Defense Fund was turned over to the Communist party and that the ILWU conducted "kangaroo courts controlled by thieves, murderers and Communists."

Two newspapers which printed the Pegler columns have already agreed to print retractions.

BUY MORE BONDS
Everybody! Back the WAR LOAN DRIVE

Nothing's Too Good For GI Joe

Back in the days when they were still available, Local 100, CIO, United Rubber Workers in Los Angeles started sending cigarettes to its members in the armed forces. From this small beginning the local has expanded its activities into a full-fledged servicemen's welfare committee—one of the liveliest in the union.

Every Wednesday the committee, bolstered by the local's prettiest girls, visits the port of embarkation hospital, leaves gifts for wounded veterans and gives them sports equipment and materials for handicraft work.

And as an extra treat, each week the committee pays for long distance phone calls to the families of three injured GIs whose birthdays occur nearest the date of the union's visit. The committee is headed by a man who really loves his work—Earl Farwell, a veteran himself with two sons in military service.

Asks Pay Boost

Newark, N. J.—Metropolitan Life Insurance agents, at a state-wide meeting last week, called on Chairman William H. Davis of the Natl. War Labor Board to break the Little Steel formula.

How Dutch Built Secret Radio Station

New York, Dec. 2 (Aneta)—How the new Dutch radio station, Herrijzend Nederland (Resurgent Netherlands), was built secretly, piece by piece, "under the very eyes of the Germans" in different parts of occupied Holland was related yesterday by Frank Gillard, British Broadcasting Corporation correspondent, in a broadcast recorded by the Office of War Information.

Gillard said that a group of Dutch patriots early last year had begun to build the transmitter, which broadcast from liberated Holland for the first time on Oct. 3, in order "to have a radio station ready to go on the air as soon as the Allies reached Dutch territory."

"Through 18 months of occupation, under the very eyes of the Germans, the work went on," he said.

"Three men were given the job of constructing a transmitter which would be powerful enough to cover the whole of Holland and be adequate for the job. They drew up their plans. Everything had to be done with great secrecy."

"The transmitter was constructed in sections at scattered points, and then when the great day came the sections could be put together and free Holland could go on the air."

LABOR UNITES

behind Raleigh's special offer to labor unions for men in overseas service . . . . . .

RALEIGH CIGARETTES, union made, for our men overseas — with name and number of your local union on each package — delivered for about one-third of the retail domestic price! ..... 4½¢ PER PACK

Arrange to have your local union or other group to which you belong order IMMEDIATELY. More than 3,000 local unions have sent RALEIGHS overseas in this way. A grand idea—for you, too.

A card bearing a greeting from you will be enclosed in each carton of 200's. The cards are designed so servicemen can mail them back to you.

THE SPECIAL OFFER

With each order for 5,000 packs of RALEIGHS we will add 500 packs free!

YOU PAY		WE SHIP AS YOUR GIFTS
$2,500.00	You buy - - 50,000 packs
	We add - - 5,000 packs	55,000 packs
$1,000.00	You buy - - 20,000 packs
	We add - - 2,000 packs	22,000 packs
$ 500.00	You buy - - 10,000 packs
	We add - - 1,000 packs	11,000 packs
$ 250.00	You buy - - 5,000 packs
	We add - - 500 packs	5,500 packs
$ 125.00	You buy	2,500 packs
25.00	You buy	500 packs

NO LIMIT ON QUANTITY—STANDING ORDERS ACCEPTED FOR REGULAR SHIPMENT

Send us your order NOW for prompt shipment through Special Service Officers of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard to their forces at foreign battle stations and bases. Specify your favorite branch of Service in either the Atlantic or Pacific theatres. We will do the rest.

You may order direct from this advertisement or you may use this coupon to write for our special order form.

EXTRA — RALEIGH — EXTRA
Sir Walter Raleigh Smoking Tobacco

Minimum Order—5 cases—720 packs.....$60.00

Each Order—10 cases—1440 packs

We add—1 case—144 packs.....$120.00

Greeting stickers, acknowledgment cards, etc., same as for cigarette offer.

★ ★ ★ ★

Export Department
Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation
Louisville, Kentucky

Send your SPECIAL overseas order form to

Name .....

Union and local number.....

City..... State .....

BUY-A-BOND BABIES: The Bachant Triplets (the other three are mirror reflections) get fixed up for their roles as supersalesmen in the sixth war loan drive. You can't match their sacrifice—their daddy, who had never seen them, was killed in action in Normandy— but you can buy an extra war bond. (Federated Pictures.)

Delegates from Food, Tobacco Centers Gather For UCAPAWA Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2—Tomato-pickers from Texas, tobacco-leafers from North Carolina, and "fruit tramps" from California are among the hundred or more delegates arriving for the colorful convention of the CIO United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing & Allied Workers which opens here Monday, Dec. 4.

On the agenda are problems confronting the 68,000 members of the union, pertaining to the interest of food, fibre and tobacco workers as well as the interests of the entire nation.

"Our convention will take place at a crucial time in our country's history," said Donald Henderson, the union's general president.

"The war against fascism in Europe and Asia has reached its final phase, and we are faced with the task of doing our part to insure that peace will prevail in the world for many generations to come, with jobs for all, adequate living standards and greater social security."

A Pearl Harbor Day ceremony will be held on Dec. 7 to honor members of the union now in the armed forces and those who have given their lives in the fight against fascism. Honors will also be conferred on locals which have won government "A" awards for outstanding achievements in food production, including Campbell's Soup and American Preserve in the Philadelphia area.

Senator-elect Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania has been invited to address the opening session.

Unemployment Total Reaches Record Low

Washington, Dec. 2—The number of unemployed in the United States in October stood at the record low of 630,000 persons, or 140,000 below the previous low point in April, 1944, the Bureau of the Census reported in its monthly estimate of the labor forces. Total of employed persons was 52,240,000.

25,000 Shoe Workers Get Pay Boost

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 2—Six weeks of negotiations between the CIO United Shoe Workers and the Intl. Shoe Co. resulted this week in annual pay increases which union officials say may reach $3,500,000, for 25,000 company workers in 20 major plans.

The agreement provides for basic minimum wage rates of 50c hourly with sliding increases up to 85c hourly in all plants outside St. Louis. In St. Louis the basic rate will be 55c except in the large sole leather plant, where the floor has been set at 60c after six months employment.

Retroactive pay dates have been set separately for different plants, union officials said. In St. Louis retroactive pay will be figured back 20 months, while workers in other plants will receive not less than two months back pay, it was announced. Natl. War Labor Board approval is expected within two or three weeks.

TO THE CIO

ARMY (E) NAVY

6th WAR LOAN

LET'S BUY WAR BONDS AND WIN THE WAR TOGETHER

DOEHLER DIE CASTING CO.

WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCER OF DIE CASTINGS

NEW YORK 16, N.Y.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE
386 FOURTH AVENUE
NEW YORK 16, N. Y.

PLANTS AT TOLEDO, O.
BATAVIA, N. Y.
POTTSTOWN, PA.
CHICAGO, ILL.

L. J. IMBER COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber, Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE METAL LITHOGRAPHED BUTTONS

for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES

Recognized Union Labels

No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in

Light and Heavy Stamping
Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and
Special Stampings.
Tools and Dies

N. Y. Representative
HERBERT R. LERMAN AL. 4-3356
37 E. 14th St.

L. J. IMBER COMPANY BRUnswick 7813
1725-41 W. North Ave.
CHICAGO, 22, ILLINOIS

GENERAL MACHINERY CORPORATION
HAMILTON, OHIO

SOLD EVERYWHERE

EAT A BAG A DAY FOR MORE PEP

PLANTERS NUT & CHOCOLATE CO.

Farm Income Key to Jobs For Equipment Workers, Says New FE Pamphlet

An attractively illustrated new pamphlet, "Jobs After the War," just been issued by the CIO Farm Equipment Workers, sets forth the union's demands in its postwar program and then discusses how these may be obtained.

First, it says, the fight for the program must be carried on through the union, and the union must therefore be strong. Second, is the problem of how to expand the market for farm equipment. This hangs up with the question on providing the farmer with a steady income, or as the pamphlet puts it, "Money for the Farmers, Jobs for Us."

On the back page, the FE-CIO Program for Returning Veterans is given.

The pamphlet which was issued by the union's Editorial & Research Dept., was designed and illustrated by George T. Guernsey and Chandler Montgomery. It may be obtained by writing to the United Farm Equipment Workers, 188 W. Randolph St., Chicago, price 10 cents a copy.

Seamen's Chorus Trains At NMU Hall

A choral group, sponsored by the Natl. Maritime Union and the United Seamen's Service, meets Friday evenings in the recreation hall at NMU headquarters in New York, under the direction of Herbert Haufrecht, formerly director of the American Peoples Chorus.

Haufrecht has composed music in collaboration with the poet, Langston Huges, has collected folk songs, and has had his new composition, "Square Set," performed over the radio.

The choral group is planning to sing at meetings of the union and the Women's Auxiliary, and to entertain at the NMU Canteen and during lunch hours.

Urges Federal Education

The election of a more progressive Congress makes hopes brighter for winning federal aid for education, Dr. Frank P. Graham, public member of the Natl. War Labor Board, told the Southern Conference for Human Welfare at a meeting held recently in Washington.

Dr. Graham, who is president of the University of North Carolina and honorary president of the Conference, said both Democratic whips of House and Senate, Rep. Robert Ramspeck (Ga.) and Sen. Lister Hill (Ala.) have come out in favor of federal funds for education and President Roosevelt has also expressed hope for enactment of such legislation.

Since the greatest concentration of children is in the South, where there is least concentration of wealth, Graham said, southern states particularly need federal aid to equalize educational opportunities throughout the nation.

Monopoly Charged In White Lead

Seven companies, including the powerful Anaconda Copper Mining Co. and the Natl. Lead Co., were charged with monopolistic pricing of white lead in a Federal Trade Commission complaint this week.

The FTC said the companies account for 85 to 95 per cent of the nation's white lead production, and the complaint charged they conspired to reduce price competition.

TWU Arbitration Demand Is Backed

New York, Dec. 2—Outstanding national leaders, including Senator Robert F. Wagner and a number of recently elected New York State and Federal legislators, have pledged their support to the CIO Transport Workers Union in its fight to force the New York City Board of Transportation to arbitrate the union's demands for improvements of wages and working conditions for 30,000 transport employes of the city.

The TWU launched its arbitration campaign after it became clear that the board was deliberately stalling and refusing to comply with the arbitration recommendations of the Mayor's Transit Committee.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS Films

MOVIES
FOR TRADE UNIONS
on
FULL EMPLOYMENT
POST-WAR ECONOMY
HOUSING - COOPERATIVES
LABOR and THE WAR

16mm. Soundfilms
FOR RENTAL AND SALE

Projectors and Screens
Available on Priority
Write for Details

BRANDON FILMS
1600 BROADWAY - NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

WHEN YOU'RE A.W.O.L.
YOU'RE WORKING
FOR THE AXIS

DELPHOS WOOD BENDING COMPANY
DELPHOS, OHIO

QUALITY JACKSON PRODUCTS

for SAFETY

Here, at Local 155, UAW-CIO, loyal wrokers are producing Jackson's fully insulated and semi-insulated electrode holders that range from 200 to 500 Amps. They are also producing Jackson's Eyeshields—a complete line of devices for protecting the eyes and faces of workers.

When you use these products, when you recommend their use to others, you are actively advancing the cause of industrial safety—better working conditions.

JACKSON PRODUCTS
Fitzroy 8500
8265 Wight Street - Detroit 7, Mich.

QUALITY—the Keystone of Willard DEPENDABILITY

Quality is built-in at Willard factories . . . with strictly high quality materials . . . by men who have grown from youth to manhood, to middle age, in the Willard quality tradition. Quality, safeguarded by the 74 tests and inspections which every Willard Battery must pass, is, indeed the keystone of Willard Dependability. When your customers buy a Willard, they buy wisely . . . because they buy QUALITY.

Awarded Cleveland Plant, Willard Storage Battery Co.

"SAFETY-FILL" BATTERIES
Willard
the power to carry on!

WILLARD STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY
CLEVELAND, OHIO

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

William B. Taylor, Dir. of Orgn., OWOC, reports: Texas Co., South Texas, OWOC-CIO 176; against 129. Carbide & Carbon Chemical Corp., Whiting, Ind., OWOC-CIO 116; against 108.

George Craig, CIO Reg. Dir., Philadelphia, Pa., reports: Bethlehem Steel, Steelton, Pa., USA-CIO 31; against 22. Blow-Knox Co. (Special Ordinance Div.), York, Pa., USA-CIO 16; against 0. Blow-Knox Co., York, Pa., USA-CIO 30; AFL 3; against 6.

Ewald Sandner, CIO Reg. Dir., Newark, N. J., reports: Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Newark, N. J., CIO 112; AFL 85; no union 5. William Ross was in charge.

George Brown, Dir. of Orgn., IWA-CIO, reports: Port Gibson Veneer & Box Co., Port Gibson, Mississippi, IWA-CIO 199; no union 19.

E. L. Sandefur, CIO Reg. Dir., Winston-Salem, N. C., reports: O. L. Williams Veneer Co., UFWA-CIO 103; no union 10. Sumter Veneer Co., UFWA-CIO 44; no union 11. Brothers Hiatt and Slemmer handled the organizing.

The United Furniture Workers of America also signed the first contract to be consummated between a union and employer in Henry County, Va., a border county. American Furniture Co. was the contracting firm. Representative Bernard Hiatt handled negotiations for the union.

Ralph Tillotson, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Erie, Pa., reports: Erie City Iron Works, Erie City, Pa., USA-CIO 204; against 118.

E. D. Hodson, CIO Reg. Dir., Wilmington, Del., reports: Pusey & Jones Shipyard, Wilmington, Del., among the guards: IUM&SWA-CIO 43; against 4. The CIO won certification at the American Car & Foundry Co., Wilmington, Del., to represent the guards, by a unanimous count in a NLRB cross-check of cards.

Large sections of the Natl. Council of Marine Draftsmen voted to affiliate with the FAECT-CIO. Affiliates of that national group which have joined the FAECT-CIO are the Cox & Stevens Marine Draftsmen's Assn., the Sparkman & Stephens Marine Draftsmen's Assn., and the George Sharp Marine Draftsmen's Assn.

Thos. F. McGuire, Representative, IUM&SW, Kirkland Lake, Ontario, reports: Kirkland Lake Mine & Mill Workers' Union, Local 240, IUMM&SW-CIO, and Macassa Mines, Ltd., signed a one year collective agreement.

The Seventh Convention of the CIO adjourned last week in Chicago, completing the most successful, enthusiastic, and harmonious convention in its history. The successes resulting from past years organizing activities and from political action enthused the delegates and everyone left the convention determined to carry our program on with greater vigor in order to bring even greater results. They decided to intensify organizing activities, to continue PAC and adopt the entire program as recommended by Pres. Murray.

Immediately following the Convention we received the report of the War Labor Board on the splendid victories won by the United Steel Workers, on matters that Labor has struggled for for many years and which will undoubtedly be effectuated in other industries.

The speaking was of the highest calibre and included Bishop Sheil, Mrs. Roosevelt, Vice-Pres. Wallace, General Somervell, Secretary of Interior Ickes, Mayors Kelly and LaGuardia, wounded CIO veterans and inspiring addresses by CIO Pres. Murray and PAC Chairman Hillman.

It was a week that will be long remembered. Organize! Educate! Activize!

8th Air Forces Only Actors In New 16-mm. War Film

"Target for Today," a 16mm. sound film produced and directed by Lt. Col. William J. Keighley of the Army Air Forces, is the most comprehensive story ever told of an air bombing mission, states the OWI Bureau of Motion Pictures, in announcing release of the film. Running time is 93 minutes.

There are no actors in the film. The cast is the famous 8th Air Force, and the camera has followed their activities on flying fields scattered throughout Britain, emphasizing the split-second timing necessary to make a major operation click.

Prints of "Target for Today" may be obtained locally from 16mm. educational and commerical film libraries cooperating with OWI in distributing war films.

New Zealander Urges People's Ownership

Chicago, Dec. 2—The CIO Convention last week heard Daniel G. Sullivan, minister of supply of industries and commerce in New Zealand, call for "the application of the principle of ownership by the people themselves" as the only solution to the problems of the world today.

Sullivan emphasized that the prosperity of a nation is dependent on the prosperity of its working people.

"Whatever industrial and technical programs the country may make may come to nothing and end in chaos," he pointed out, "unless the purchasing power of the working people is kept up in full measure to the production power."

The problems of every nation are essentially the same, and differ in degree only, Sullivan stated, in citing the accomplishments of his labor government in war and peace. The future problem to tackle—security—will never be attained, he warned, "unless all other countries are lifted up to the same standard of living as ourselves."

Hits 'Air Empires'

Detroit—The CIO United Auto Workers Union opposes the creation of "new air empires as a potential threat of the future world," UAW Natl. Aircraft Director Richard T. Frankensteen wired President Roosevelt and Asst. Sec. of State Adolph A. Berle, chairman of the Intl. Civil Aviation Conference of 57 nations, meeting in Chicago.

BACK THE SIXTH WAR LOAN DRIVE!

If it isn't PM... it isn't an Evening

PM for Pleasant Moments

P.M.'s the time. PM's the order. "Two, please, at this table ... two PM Manhattans for two Particular Men. Made with famous PM de Luxe Whiskey . . . Patiently Mellowed, Perfectly Marvelous." Hm! Sounds inviting!... let's join them!

LET'S FINISH THE JOB . . . BUY AN EXTRA WAR BOND

National Distillers Products Corp., N. Y. Blended Whiskey. 86.8 Proof. 51% Straight Whiskey, 49% Grain Neutral Spirits.

DEDICATED TO THE MEMORY OF WENDELL WILLKIE

ONE NATION, INDIVISIBLE, WITH LIBERTY AND JUSTICE FOR ALL

To Reach This End We Must

EDUCATE—So that we all know why
PRODUCE—So that we all can live
PURCHASE WAR BONDS—To give tool to our brothers at the front
GIVE BLOOD — So that our wounded brethren might live

ALL TOGETHER, PULLING WITH CONCENTRATED STRENGTH, WE'LL ACHIEVE MILITARY VICTORY AND BUILD A LASTING PEACE IN THIS

ONE WORLD

THE MANAGEMENT OF THE APEX SMELTING CO.

CHICAGO 12, ILLINOIS

Steel Hails Wage Gains, Presses For 'Formula' Revision

By VINCENT SWEENEY

PITTSBURGH, Pa. Nov. 30—By unanimous vote, representatives of nearly a half-million steelworkers went on record here today accepting the recent War Labor Board directive in the United Steelworkers' case and instructing the international officers to continue their efforts to secure revision of the "Little Steel" formula.

The 400 members of the Wage and Policy Committee, which a year ago drafted the original 24-point program for a 17-cent wage increase and other contract improvements, came here from all parts of the United States. The resolution adopted today emphasized, as did Pres. Philip Murray in an opening address, the "tremendous victory" scored by the United Steelworkers in the WLB directive and pointed out that the 17-cent wage demand was "still very much alive."

Highlights of the directive include improved vacation plan; an afternoon and night shift premium of four and six cents respectively, a fund to straighten out one of the worst problems in the steel industry—wage inequalities; six holidays; dismissal pay. With the exception of the holiday provision all provide for retroactive pay to last December.

Particular emphasis was also placed on the directive which sets up a presidential commission to study the guaranteed annual wage.

TREMENDOUS VICTORY

"We have won a tremendous victory," said Mr. Murray, "and millions of men and women will benefit from it."

The conference unanimously went on record re-affirming the union's no-strike pledge.

Mr. Murray read a cablegram from General Dwight D. Eisenhower in reply to one sent from the CIO Convention in Chicago last week. It read:

"I am indeed grateful for your renewed pledges of support to the fighting forces. All of us have complete confidence in American workers. We are anxious only that they understand the enormity of the task still facing the Allied Armies in Europe. My personal thanks to you and to your organization for your encouraging message." Signed, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The International Officers of the union were instructed by the delegates to proceed at once to contact executives of the U. S. Steel Corp. subsidiaries and other corporations looking toward resumption of collective bargaining conferences and the inclusion of the directive in a signed contract.

Men Jobless, UAW Asks Cut in Hours

Detroit, Dec. 2—With employment in 20 major Detroit war plants declined to about 24 per cent of peak war-time scale, R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, declared this week that President Roosevelt's executive order fixing 48 hours as the minimum work week in war plants must be relaxed in order to absorb a greater number of workers.

For the first time since the war, Thomas said, the UAW is aware of an unemployment problem. A policy of sharing available work is the all-important step necessary to combat plant layoffs and to maintain the morale of the war workers, he declared.

At the same time, Thomas continued, "the Federal Government should direct institution of wage policies which will maintain the total 'take home' pay of workers whose hours of work are decreased. This is necessary," he warned, "if we are to avoid a serious crisis at the end of the war through depletion of buying power and savings."

$30 Office Minimum Set At Plane Co.

A minimum hiring salary of $26 per week and a guaranteed minimum of $30 per week after three months, both based on a 40-hour week, were established for office and professional employes at the Curtiss Wright Corp. in Buffalo, N. Y., in a decision this week by the Natl. War Labor Board.

Thousands of Curtiss workers will receive pay adjustments of $2-$6 a week in the next three months under this and other provisions of the decision. The CIO Office & Professional Workers represents the 5,500 white collar workers at Curtiss.

Take Congress To 'Mike,' Is CIO Suggestion

Chicago, Dec. 2 — Broadcasting the proceedings of Congress was one of the interesting suggestions made in the report of the Committee on Press & Publicity to the CIO convention here last week.

"There are few things in American life that affect the man on the street more than the actions of Congress," the report stated. "Debates on such issues as social security, low cost medical care, postwar planning, poll tax, labor legislation, tax measures, rehabilitation of members of our armed forces, reconversion from wartime to peacetime economy and other vital issues are of major importance to every citizen."

If proceedings of Congress were broadcast, the report said, it "would put a premium on truth, and would make it possible for the people to hear at first hand exactly what is said in Congress and would give the people a daily score on the actions of their Congress."

CONGRESSMAN DRIPP by Yomen

the latest BOOK FIND

A punch-packed story about SUPPRESSED FACTS of American History!

BOOK FIND CLUB offers you FREEDOM ROAD by famous novelist HOWARD FAST—at the one low price for members on all selections: $1.35! To get FREEDOM ROAD (value $2.75), you need agree to take only a total of 4 books a year, each at $1.35.

BOOK FIND's selections are always quality works—stimulating, important new novels . . . up-to-the-minute non-fiction dealing with world affairs. A few past selections: Lillian Smith's Strange Fruit, Louis Adamic's My Native Land, Howard Fast's Citizen Tom Paine, Ray Josephs' Argentine Diary, John Roy Carlson's Under Cover.

BOOK FIND's titles are for thinking, intelligent readers. Books are well printed, well bound—the kind you are proud to display.

Members receive, FREE, BOOK FIND News, describing each selection in advance — and also reviewing latest books, literary events, etc. If members do not want a title, they send in a postcard . . . Or, the book itself can be returned at BOOK FIND's expense by merely re-addressing the carton. There are no extra fees or dues! All books are postpaid.

Start your membership with FREEDOM ROAD. Send no money unless you wish. Fill out the coupon below. Remember—paper is limited. Act now!

CRITICS SAY—

". . . You owe it to yourself to read FREEDOM ROAD. In it you will find the story of 8 exciting years from American history concerning which the textbooks all seem to maintain a conspiracy of silence." (N. Y. Post)

". . . A stirring, passionate tale that will leave few readers unmoved." (N. Y. Herald Tribune)

by Howard Fast

The BOOK FIND Club
480 LEXINGTON AVE.
NEW YORK 17, N. Y.

The BOOK FIND CLUB Dept. A C1
480 Lexington Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

Please start my membership with FREEDOM ROAD. ☐ Bill me later for $1.35. ☐ Enclosed is $1.35. I agree to accept at least 3 more books within a year.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....
(include zone, if any)

.....

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 50 — 82 — December 11, 1944

Wage Boost Needed

You Can't Eat A 'Sales Tax Medal'—CIO To Roosevelt

(See Page 3)

★ ★ ★

Lame Ducks Lay Bad Eggs

(See Page 3)

New World Labor Setup To Guarantee Unity, Postwar Jobs

By C. W. FOWLER

Sidney Hillman, R. J. Thomas and Emil Rieve are in London this week meeting with heads of the British and Soviet trade unions to work out the agenda for the United Nations labor conference now set for February 6.

With President Murray's action in naming these three men to the preliminary meeting, and with his leadership of the full CIO delegation in February, labor takes the first long step toward a new world organization of workers of the United Nations and all free countries.

It comes as the result of Philip Murray's and CIO's initiative over a period of at least three years—the time during which CIO has been pressing for such a meeting.

What does CIO expect from it? What benefits will the members of the CIO get from this meeting with delegates of British, Soviet, Latin-American and free European unions?

ON THE AGENDA

First on the agenda in London, as outlined by Murray as far back as last April, is creation of a new worldwide labor federation to replace the dead Int'l. Federation of Trade Unions.

The IFTU is the outfit to which the AFL belongs as U. S. representative. The British Trades Union Congress (TUC) also belongs. The CIO, the Railroad Brotherhoods, the Soviet trade unions and the Confederation of Latin-American Workers (CTAL) do not belong. The constitution of the IFTU limits the U. S. to one union body on its membership, and the AFL has shown that it would refuse to permit any change in this setup.

Consequently, a new world labor setup is needed to bypass the AFL officialdom and the limitation of the IFTU. The Railroad Brotherhoods of this country are in agreement with the CIO, and have announced that they will have a delegate at the London meeting.

The Soviet trade unions are in favor of the new organization. So are the Latin-American unions. As reported by Allied Labor News, the Soviet magazine, "War and the Working Class" has this to say in support of CIO's proposal:

"The sooner the unity of international labor is established, the greater the prestige the unions will gain in the eyes of democratic people and the more resolute will be the voice of labor during the solution of basis postwar problems."

World labor unity, the writer adds, "cannot fail to impress itself upon the character and the program of the coming peace conference"—which is the point made by Philip Murray in his speech on the subject at the Chicago convention.

WHO ARE AGAINST IT?

Another measure—though a negative one—of the need for a new world labor organization is the opposition to it. The leading enemies of United Nations cooperation in the AFL—Matthew Woll and Big Bill Hutcheson — are against it. So is John L. Lewis. William Green, who fronts for the AFLers, is the same AFL president who endorsed such isolationist Senators as Nye and Davis and Congressmen such as Day and Dies in the elections.

The connection is clear. International labor unity means a strong union base for all United Nations cooperation now and after the war. This is CIO's belief and policy.

United Nations cooperation after the war means world stability, which means world trade, which means jobs and prosperity for workers abroad and for us here at home.

With CIO delegates at the current meeting in London and with the creation of a new, inclusive world labor organization in February, we will have the strongest possible guarantee of jobs and security after our victory over fascism.

CIO Wins at Natl. Carbide

Ivanhoe, Va., Dec. 9 — The CIO United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers scored another victory at the Nat'l. Carbide Corp., when it defeated the newly chartered AFL Chemical Workers Union and two of the older AFL organizations, Machinists and Operating Engineers, at a recent NLRB election.

Of 242 eligible to vote, 117 cast their support for the CIO to 23 for the AFL Chemical Workers, the Machinists Union and Operating Engineers.

Furniture Union Wins Three Elections

Washington, Dec. 9 — The CIO United Furniture Workers came out on top by decisive majorities in two Nat'l. Labor Relations Board elections in Sumter, So. Carolina, with a vote of 103-10 at O. L. Williams Veneer and 44 to 11 at the Sumter Veneer Co.

Another election was also won by the UFWA at the Nat'l. Rose Spring and Mattress Co., Memphis, Tenn. The vote was 100 for the union and 54 against.

$120,000 WAS GIVEN by 9,000 members of Local 39, CIO Marine & Shipbuilding Workers, to the CIO War Chest for the benefit of the National War Fund, Red Cross and the Greater New York Fund. All records in New York City were broken by this contribution, the campaign being aided by Movie Star Constance Bennett, who was overwhelmed at rally with pledges of 12 hours' pay.

Feed-'Em-Up School Lunch Program Helps Build Young America

THIS article is of prime concern to hundreds of thousands of parents who'd like to give their kids a fair share of 50 million dollars for Christmas. Last year four million kids of other parents enjoyed similar Christmas presents. This year the U. S. Government would love to see a lot more children made happy.

The 50 million dollars is resting cosily in the coffers of the U. S. War Food Administration, which will be only too glad to see it spent to help provide hot, nourishing lunches for hundreds of thousands of kids from kindergarten through high school age, any place in the country.

Four million children in 31,000 schools last year were aided by the school lunch program. They got a balanced meal each school day noon that helped restore their energy, make their minds more alert, and stimulate their interest in their studies.

They were aided—as many more can be—by the WFA program, which provides about 50 percent of the total school lunch cost, with local interests paying for the other half.

Any public or private school of high school level or under, or any non-profit organization, is eligible to participate in the WFA program, and should write WFA for details.

The WFA makes funds available for serving three types of lunches, ranging from those which provide from one-third to one-half of the children's daily nutritional requirements to simply half a pint of milk a day.

The large lunch, for which WFA contributes up to nine cents each includes: half a pint of milk; a protein food such as meat, poultry, cheese, fish, eggs, dry peas, beans, soy beans or peanut butter; vegetable and/or fruit; whole grain or enriched bread, or rolls; and butter or fortified margarine.

The second type of lunch, for which WFA contributes a maximum of six cents each, is similar, only the portions are smaller, making it advisable for students to supplement it with food from home. The third type, for which WFA contributes no more than two cents, consists of half a pint of milk.

Supplementing the WFA cash contributions are occasional gifts of food which WFA has acquired as a result of its price-supporting activities. Schools can get as much of these foods as can be properly stored, awaiting consumption.

Keep Your Eye on Congress

Little is left to be said about the 78th Congress that goes out of business in a week or two, to make room for the new Congress coming in next month.

The lameducks and the other reactionaries have tried to do some damage; they've done little or nothing positive since the election.

Main damage was in the freezing of social security payments (see below) which passed the House and now goes to the Senate.

The bills listed below include this and some unfinished business, with one item the "Equal Rights" amendment, that requires special action now. Other action recommended should of course be taken only if Congress has not adjourned.

BILL	WHAT IT DOES	WHERE IT IS	ACTION
Social Security	Freezes payments at present 1% level. Cuts potential old age benefits.	Passed House; headed for Senate.	Urge Senators to reject freeze; if there's time before adjournment.
War Powers (HR 4993)	Renews FDR's authority on war agencies, other war powers.	Passed House with weakening amendment; reported out of Senate Judiciary Committee as passed.	Wire Senators against amendments.
FEPC (HR 3896)	Makes FEPC permanent.	Reported out of House Labor Committee.	Urge Representative to support.
"Equal Rights" (SJ Res 25)	Would end laws protecting women; wedge against all labor laws.	Can be brought up on Senate floor any time.	Wire Senators to oppose.
65c wage floor (S Con Res 48)	Puts floor under substandard wages; affects 10 million.	In Senate Labor sub-Committee, Sen. Pepper (D. Fla.) chmn.	Write your Senators to support now and in new Congress.

Lame Ducks Lay Bad Eggs for '45

You might expect that an outgoing Congress, due to hand in its checks in a couple of weeks, would be content to mark time or at least inflict a minimum of damage in its closing days. After all, the voters made lameducks of quite a few Congressmen, and the least they could do would be to behave with the modesty and humility becoming to men who have been repudiated by the people.

But lameducks don't believe in modesty or humility, and it is a mistake to expect them to do so. They behave as they always behave —only more so.

Witness the House vote on freezing the social security payments to one per cent from both worker and employer. The freeze will stop an increase in contributions that will be needed for old age benefits at a time when both workers and employers can afford to contribute them better than in recent years. It lays up trouble for the future, and it stands as a bad precedent for enlarging social security next year.

Lameducks voted in flocks for the freeze. Joined by other reactionaries, they put it over against both AFL and CIO protest by a vote of 262 to 72.

SENATE TOO

This behavior is not confined to the House. Witness the last minute attempt to pass the mis-called "Equal Rights" amendment in the Senate, led by lameduck Sen. Guy Gillette, anti-FDR Democrat from Iowa. This venerable phoney would wipe out all laws protecting women workers under the disguise of "equalizing" men and women—thereby actually discriminating against women workers rather than aiding them.

These are only two examples of lameduck quackery. There are others, such as the failure to vote on the permanent FEPC, the monkey wrench amendment thrown into FDR's War Powers Act, etc.

They take place because we let them take place. There was a letdown in our work with Congress immediately after the election. The fact that a new Congress is coming in has persuaded people to let things slide until January.

LONG RANGE EFFECT

But the truth is that what this Congress does now has a direct effect on what the new Congress will do from January on out. Freezing social security payments will make it harder to pass the Wagner-Dingell bill next session. A defeat for FEPC now would make it harder to repeal the polltax in 1945. Senate passage of the "Equal Rights" phony would make it harder to get a bill for equal pay for equal work later on.

Any Congress, lameduck or brand new, reacts as the voters react. When the voters are up high enough on their toes, Congress does the progressive thing, or refuses to do the reactionary thing. When the voters sit back on their heels, the reactionaries in Congress have their innings.

A new Congress is coming up. What it does for the war, for the nation and for our welfare is up to us. Let it go by default, and we lose as the nation loses. Work hard with Congress, and it will wo k hard for us and for our country.

CIO Praised By Director Of Religious Group

For the second consecutive year the National Interseminary Division of the Religious and Labor Foundation held its annual conference simultaneously with the CIO convention.

One hundred and fifteen seminarians from Catholic and Protestant institutions—twice as many as last year—attended the conference, and sessions of the CIO convention, where they and the director of the foundation, Willard Uphaus, were greeted by CIO Pres. Philip Murray.

"On behalf of the CIO," Murray said, "I wish to express the earnest hope that this part of the religious and labor movement will develop in all of the theological courses of the different faiths of the United States, to the end that the clergy of tomorrow will join hands with those great forces that are fighting the battle of the common people for justice and peace."

Uphaus praised Murray and other CIO leaders for "their interest in bringing about a finer understanding on the part of the religious leaders of America and this great trade union movement of the CIO to the end that these great victories that are being won now may be continued and extended and that the America we love will become the America of justice and peace and the America of the Four Freedoms."

New York, Dec. 9 — The CIO Wholesale and Warehouse Workers Union, Local 65, won an NLRB election last week among the employes of Nestle Le Mur by a vote of 68 to 14.

Wage Boost Needed

You Can't Eat A 'Sales Tax Medal,' Murray Tells FDR

A good conduct medal in the form of an oppressive "sales tax" has been hung round the collective neck of millions of American workers, CIO President Philip Murray this week informed President Roosevelt, top U. S. stabilization officials and public members of the Natl. War Labor Board.

In a letter to the President pointing to the imperative need for upward revision of the national wage policy, Murray quoted FDR as saying that if prices outrun wages, the net effect on workers' pocketbooks is exactly the same as if the U. S. Congress should impose a sales tax.

Here's what FDR said, in his 1942 message to Congress requesting enactment of the Price Control Law:

"If this rise should be permitted to continue, the increased cost of food to wage earners next May would be more than 15 percent over the level which existed when the ceilings were set.

"This would be equal to imposing a 15 per cent sales tax on all food purchased by wage earners. Obviously no one would consider imposing such a tax. . .

"If wages should be stabilized and farm prices be permitted to rise at any rate like the present rate, workers would have to bear the major part of the increase. This we cannot ask."

POINTED COMMENT

Murray pointedly informed President Roosevelt that the situation has become even worse than that which FDR projected as possible.

"Recently," Murray wrote the President, "a Cost of Living Committee, which you appointed in November, 1943, submitted a report to you conceding that the rise in retail prices of selected goods, rents and services bought by families of wage earners has been 30 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941.

"This conclusion is based upon the Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. But the Bureau itself frankly admits in its monthly reports that 'the Index does not show the full wartime effect on the cost of living of such factors as lowered quality, disappearance of low-priced goods, and forced changes in housing and eating away from home.'

"The full rise in wartime living costs has been calculated by the Labor Representatives of the Cost of Living Committee to be approximately 45 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941.

WAGE RATES FROZEN

"In the face of this continued rise in the cost of living, wage rates have remained frozen under the Little Steel Formula.

"The expressions of pious hopes or statements that the cost of living has not risen, which have from time to time emanated from those responsible for preventing any rise in the cost of living, cannot refute the foregoing stubborn facts.

"The situation which you projected in Sept., 1942 as one which would be the equivalent of a 15 per cent sales tax and wage cut has actually occurred."

Murray pointed out that with huge war profits and economies resulting from greater mass production, industry is well able to absorb the cost of wage increases without boosting prices. He cited reports of the Office of Price Administration and the Securities and Exchange Commission to back up his position.

NEED IS URGENT

He told President Roosevelt that the unanimous action of the CIO Convention in asking for upward revision of the Little Steel Formula was based on the need "both to protect the deteriorated wage standards resulting from the continued rise in the cost of living and to secure the mass purchasing power against the anticipated decline following reconversion."

Murray warned that if mass purchasing power is to be kept sufficient to keep the wheels of industry turning, wages must go up now. He said it would be fantastic to assume that they can be raised in a period of layoffs, when overtime is being rapidly replaced by work spreading, and when the labor force is being expanded by millions of returning servicemen.

He said the OPA reports that even if present employment levels are maintained, a return to the 1939 level of average work time will reduce the manufacturing wage bill by $8.2 billion, and that a shift back to the 1939 pattern of manufacturing will cause a further decline of $8.2 billion.

"It is conceded that the effect of down-grading, which will come with a loose labor market, will result in a further drop of at least $2 billion," Murray told President Roosevelt.

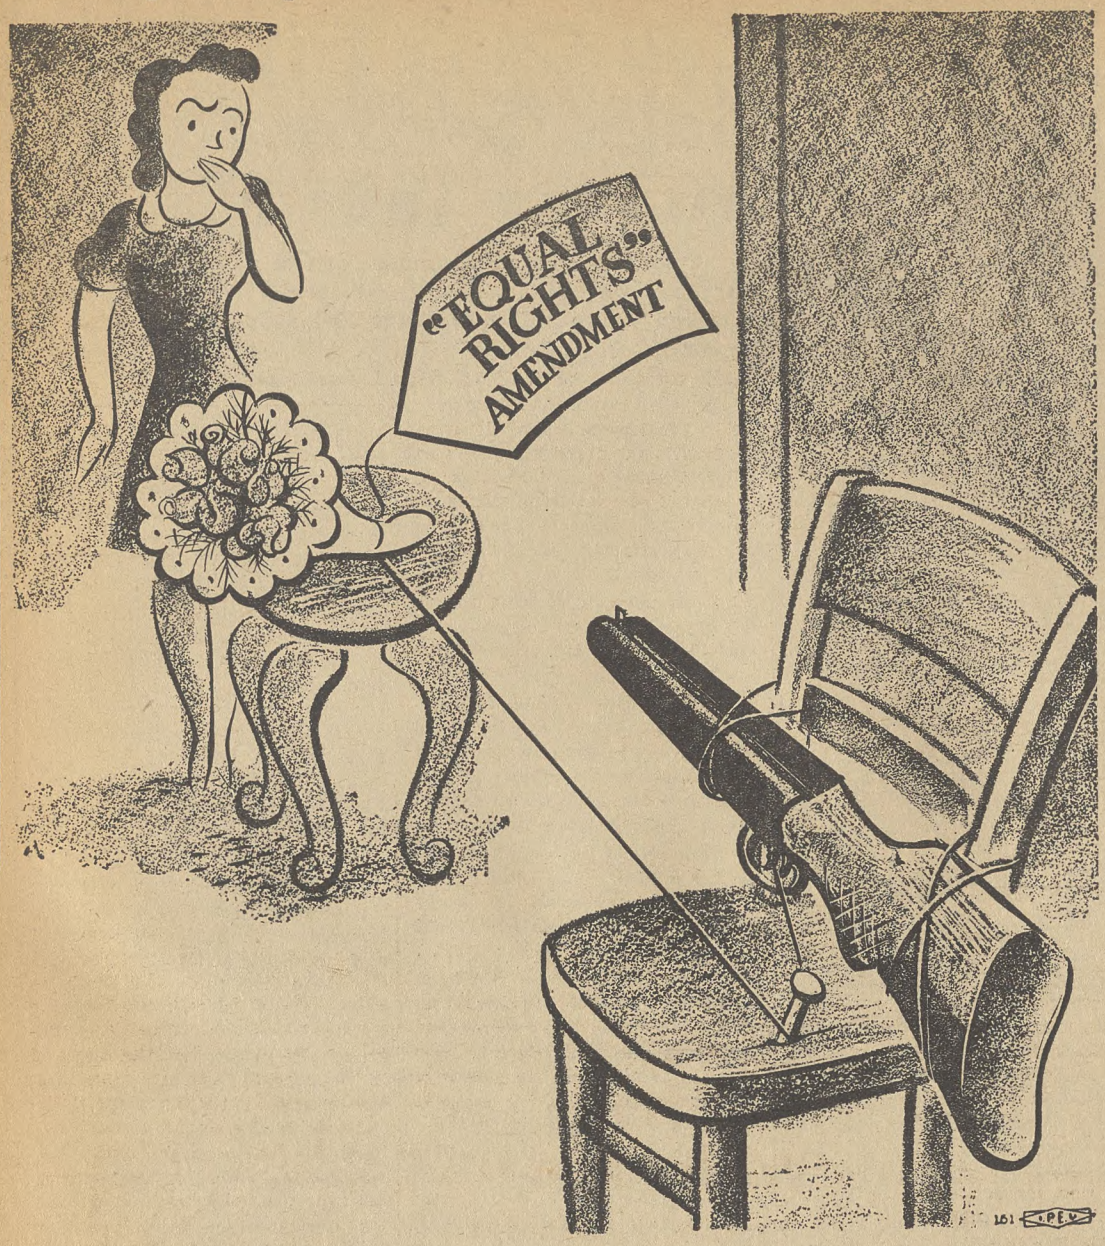
"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

PAPER WORKERS LOCAL 350 UNION MADE CIO ORGANIZING COMMITTEE
LET MILPRINT FURNISH YOUR
CIO STATIONERY
WRITE FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES
MILPRINT, Inc.
431 WEST FLORIDA STREET
MILWAUKEE 1, WISCONSIN
Over 750 CIO Employees

UNION MADE BUTTONS
Celluloid or Litho-Metal
For—
Union Dues
Advertising
Campaigns
Badges - Emblems
CHARLES M. GERAGHTY
INCORPORATED
500 Sherman St. - Chicago, Ill.

TUA
TRADE UNION AGENCY
CONSULTANTS TO UNIONS
ON ALL INSURANCE PROBLEMS
80 WEST 40TH STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.
Group Insurance · Pensions · General Insurance

Booby Trap!



Issue That Can't Be Dodged

Every device known to man has been used to sidetrack labor's case against the Little Steel formula.

The War Labor Board has had the issue before it for a year now. It has looked over it, under it, around it—and has done everything else about it except look it squarely in the face and render a decision.

The Board's final decision has been not to render a decision, but simply to report to the President on the matter without recommendation. But even this long-awaited report is still being awaited at this writing.

But this is an issue that cannot be disposed of by burying one's head in the sand. It is based on the obvious and well-recognized fact that living costs have risen far and away above the 15% increase on which the Little Steel formula was originally based.

So long as wage rates remain frozen far below the level of living costs, this issue will not down. Delays and evasions kid no one, except perhaps the delayers and evaders.

The issue grows in importance with every additional day that justice is denied to America's war workers.

One of the latest evasions given currency in Washington is the idea that labor should wait for revision of the national wage policy until war orders come to an end and layoffs become widespread—and then try to get wage increases.

This is adding insult to injury. For, as CIO Pres. Murray asks, "does anyone actually believe that wage rates can be increased when workers are laid off wholesale through cutbacks, when overtime is rapidly being supplanted by work spreading, and when the labor force is being augmented by large numbers of returning servicemen? This is obviously unrealistic."

The CIO, which has led the fight against the Little Steel formula from the first, is increasing its insistence on immediate action, and Philip Murray has put the issue squarely up to President Roosevelt.

"An immediate upward revision of the Little Steel formula," he says, "is vitally necessary both to protect the deteriorated wage standards resulting from the continued rise in cost of living and to secure the mass purchasing power against the anticipated decline following reconversion."

Bury It Now

People who work for the labor press get awfully tired of beginning an editorial or a story with the sentence: "The so-called 'Equal Rights' amendment is coming up again—watch out."

But they have to write this sentence every so often, because the thing does keep coming up, and because people and their Congressmen are still confused by it.

Now that the amendment is up again in the Senate, and with a chance of passage before the old Congress bows out, let's restate as briefly as possible the reasons why the 'Equal Rights' phrase is so misleading.

1. It does NOT remove any discriminations that now exist against women in state laws. The amendment is merely an "enabling act" that may or may not encourage their removal.

2. It does not protect women, or the family, but does the contrary, since it would pave the way for repeal of laws providing for support of children and wives. Such laws are "discriminatory" because they are aimed at protecting women alone.

The amendment can come up in the Senate any time. Wire your Senators now—and let's bury this perennial phoney for goo

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

SHIRLEY's baby got killed the other day. Just walked out into the street—in line with her habit of doing everything Shirley is not supposed to do—and was run over by an automobile.

Instead of being stricken with grief, the young mother (4½ years old) reported the incident quite casually and described the gory details in a most matter-of-fact manner.

Asked if she would not miss her baby, Shirley shrugged and replied that she didn't like "pretend babies." She said she wanted "a real baby"—adding hastily, "and a piano and a chocolate ice cream cone."

The death of Shirley's baby did not last long, however. The very next day, when Shirley needed someone to chat with who wouldn't answer back or change the subject, she barred nosy adults from her conversation by announcing: "I'm talking to my baby."

★ ★ ★

The mortality among "pretend babies" is always heavy, of course. Here today and gone tomorrow, they require no burial rites, no funeral orations—and frequently no explanations even for their sudden demise.

Then too they can be brought to life again so easily, it's hardly worth mourning their occasional decease.

Consider the "pretend babies" of the last election campaign, for instance, like "clear it with Sidney," the "Browder-Hillman-Roosevelt axis" and all their relatives.

They just died all of a sudden on November 7, and the papers that had mothered them shed not a tear. They did not even report their bereavement. They merely changed the subject.

Why should they mourn? They have so many more "pretend babies" for every occasion.

★ ★ ★

Remember that great big pretend baby of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, which he called "Absenteeism?"

Through his fertile imagination, the circumstances which sometimes keep workers from their jobs—and which the unions were working hardest to overcome—were presented as an ogre of union sabotage.

That pretend baby just died of exposure a couple of years ago and hasn't been heard of since.

But now the Captain has given birth to another idea—without gestation or reflection. He suggests we "cancel the national debt"—just like that!

Uncle Sam owes too much, it seems, so he should just repudiate his obligations to War Bond holders and everyone else.

That baby won't be taken seriously, but it's no sillier than those that are, if they can be used against labor.

★ ★ ★

Our next exhibit is the brainchild of Pres. William O'Neill of the General Tire & Rubber Co.

You may think that 60 million jobs after the war—as proposed by President Roosevelt and the CIO—is a swell idea.

But not Mr. O'Neill. He says that 60 million jobs would destroy family life and produce economic chaos. "It means," according to him, "that we will have fewer children. . . . It means increased business in the divorce courts, increased juvenile delinquency and a breaking up of the greatest of all American institutions, the home."

Evidently one man's meat is another's poison, and you never can tell where the next "menace" will show up.

You may think that unemployment causes juvenile delinquency and breaks up homes, not to mention starving folks, ruining business and causing general depression and chaos.

But there are still some who regard unemployment as a good way to depress wages and to "keep labor in its place."

So if you've nothing better to worry about, why not join Mr. O'Neill in worrying about the awful prospect of "jobs for all" which the naughty CIO is trying to bring about?

★ ★ ★

In one respect Shirley lacks the imagination of the anti-labor press. She may play fast and loose with her "pretend baby," but she has never tried to make a real baby disappear.

The Little Steel formula limits wage increases to 15 per cent, though living costs have risen three times that much. Just think of all the attempts to make those stubborn facts disappear!

The latest attempt has been to give the impression that the United Steelworkers' victory on demands unrelated to their basic wage rate demand somehow sidetracks CIO's case against the Little Steel formula.

But that's one baby that won't disappear until labor gets justice, and Philip Murray has just put the issue squarely before President Roosevelt with all the vigor at his command.

The CIO News

Published Weekly
Congress of Industrial Organizations
Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer

Vice-Presidents

Joseph Curran	John Green	Reid Robinson
S. H. Dalrymple	Allan S. Haywood	Frank Rosenblum
Albert Fitzgerald	Emil Rieve	R. J. Thomas

Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director

Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.
Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925

Vol. 7 December 11, 1944 No. 50

ALL CORPORALS NOW: These four smiling soldiers from Chicago, three of them union members, were inducted into the Army together, trained together in this country and in England, and received corporal ratings at the same time. They call themselves the "Lucky Four." Shown celebrating their promotion at an American Red Cross Donut Dugout in England, they are, left to right: Cpls. George Maxey, member of the AFL Letter Carriers; William H. Beckman, of the CIO Rubber Workers; Robert F. White; and John E. Bryant, the CIO Packinghouse Workers.

London Talks Show 'Big Three' Unity

LONDON, Dec. 9 (ALN)—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee, today expressed extreme satisfaction with the progress of the preliminary world labor conference talks being held here.

The preliminary conference revealed that CIO President Philip Murray will open the February 6 meeting with a report on the need for a new world labor organization, which CIO has long advocated.

He will be reporting to about 150 delegates, British TUC head Sir Walter Citrine said. Though "neutral" countries—Sweden, Switzerland and Eire—will be at the conference, Argentine and Spanish fascists were not invited. Spanish Republican delegates, however, will attend.

Complete agreement was reported at the advance conference, with Citrine for the British, Hillman for the U. S. and Sidorenko for the USSR working out procedure and agenda.

Asked if American labor could make an effective contribution to the world trade union conference in the absence of the AFL and the United Mine Workers, Hillman stated: "The AFL leaders' decision not to come is against the interests of the rank-and-file, who have a stake in lasting peace. Labor has responsibilities internationally as well as domestically. We haven't much time to wait until some people make up their minds."

Hillman described the USSR as "one of our great allies," adding that the internal affairs of the Soviet Union "are their own affair." He stated: "We want to deal with the spokesmen of the Soviet trade unions on the basis of achieving maximum international cooperation."

Replying to the recent attack on him by Congressman J. Parnell Thomas of the House Military Affairs Committee, who stated at a press conference in London recently that Hillman was one of the "labor barons" responsible for the shell shortage, Hillman declared: "Thomas is one of the left-overs of the Dies committee. This gentleman would not be taken seriously in the U. S. The whole record of American labor is one of closest cooperation with the service chiefs of staff."

Asked if he agreed with Ebby Edwards, secretary of the British miners' union who attended the recent UMW convention, that John L. Lewis is "the world's greatest trade union leader," Hillman stated: "His membership turned him down in 1944 the same as they did in 1940, and the coalfields supported Roosevelt."

Discussing the CIO-PAC, Hillman declared that for the first time in American history "there is now a large mass movement in the U. S. vitally interested in progressive international policies and pledged to a Good Neighbor policy internationally as opposed to 'power politics.'"

Hitting out at cartels, Hillman stated: "Although we support free enterprise, we have no confidence in the cartel system. We believe that international cooperation must come through respective governments and not through big business." He also denounced the isolationist politicians and press in the U. S., describing the recent election as "a heavy defeat for America's own 'Axis'."

Correction

It was incorrectly stated in the Nov. 27 issue of the CIO News that the constitution of the CIO National Maritime Union provides that only American citizens are eligible to hold union offices. The NMU informs us that the constitution states "a citizen of the United States or" one "who has legally filed his intention to became a citizen of the United States" is eligible for office.

CIO WORKER THANKS GI: Charles A. Oppek, right, member of CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers employed at Harmon Color Works, Haledon, N. J., congratulates Staff Sgt. Joseph Santuzzi on the part he played in the Normandy invasion. The picture was taken at ceremonies at which the Harmon plant received the Army-Navy "E" award for large and quality production of atabrine, anti-malarial drug. Lt. Comdr. V. W. H. Campbell, who is smiling his approval, related how the drug had kept Sgt. Santuzzi free of malaria during the North African campaign. The sergeant was wounded by a sniper's bullet near Cherbourg.

THE ENEMY IS STILL THERE!
Keep Buying 6th WAR LOAN Extra Bonds!

Keep—'Em—Well Plan Urges Natl. Medical System

A system to provide good medical care to all Americans through Social Security collections was announced this week by Dr. Michael M. Davis, chairman of the Health Program Conference.

The conference consists chiefly of progressive doctors, and includes J. Raymond Walsh, CIO director of research and education, and Florence C. Thorne of the AFL Research Dept.

Under the proposed plan employes, employers and self-employed persons would be required by law to contribute in proportion to earning capacity. Low income families would be provided for by supplemental taxation.

For Better Health

A number of the conference members previously approved the principles of the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill which would include the costs of medical care for Americans in the Social Security system.

"The doctors and the laymen of this conference," Dr. Davis points out, "are not putting forth their report as a bill for Congressional action. Instead they are offering basic principles which could serve as a framework for improved health legislation and for action by non-governmental bodies."

Plan sponsors state that the average American family now spends 3 percent of its income on doctor and hospital bills and that the proposed plan would regularize payments. A poll conducted recently by the National Opinion Research Center of Denver shows that Americans are in favor of adding health insurance to social security payments and that they would be willing to pay 2½ per cent of their monthly earnings for that purpose, Davis said.

National System

A national rather than a state system is proposed by the conference. Administration would be decentralized, with local administrative units exercising autonomy under national standards, and the activities of national, state and local agencies being coordinated.

In answer to charges of socialism made by the American Medical Association against proposals of this type, the conference points out that physicians would be free to refrain from taking part in the public system, but they would also have the right to join other physicians in group practice.

If they joined with doctors, they would be assured adequate training, intellectual freedom and economic security, which should discourage financial but not profession competition.

Patients would be free to select their own doctors and hospitals by individual or group choice. The plan would safeguard the rights of existing hospital, clinic and health insurance services with high standards to participate.

"The powers of modern medicine to prevent and cure disease," Dr. Davis said, "are now only half available to most of the people because of their cost. There are not enough doctors, hospitals and public health depts., in many rural areas where millions of our people live."

Rail Unions To Attend World Meet

Approval for the world labor conference opening in London February 6 came this week from four of the largest Railroad Brotherhood unions—while a fifth, the Railroad Trainmen, has written to Sir Walter Citrine its desire to attend.

This action, coming after the CIO's designation of its top leaders to the meeting, means that only the AFL and the Mine Workers among sizable American unions will not be represented.

"We are anxious to play our part in the peace negotiations, working in combination with labor in the U. S. and with the labor movements in the countries of our allies," Harvey W. Fraser, head of the Order of Railway Conductors, said in announcing the decision. Fraser will be the delegate for the Brotherhoods concerned.

The Railroad Trainmen, in an announcement by their President, A. F. Whitney, revealed that they had written to Citrine but so far have not heard from him. Citrine is head of the British Trades Union Congress which is acting as host for the meeting.

The four Brotherhoods announcing their intention to attend are; Order of Railway Conductors; Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen; American Train Dispatchers Association.

BACK THE 6th WAR LOAN!

SOLD EVERYWHERE

5c
EAT A BAG A DAY FOR MORE PEP
PLANTERS NUT & CHOCOLATE CO.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS Films
MOVIES
FOR TRADE UNIONS
on
FULL EMPLOYMENT
POST-WAR ECONOMY
HOUSING - COOPERATIVES
LABOR and THE WAR
16mm. Soundfilms
FOR RENTAL AND SALE
Projectors and Screens Available on Priority
Write for Details
BRANDON FILMS
1600 BROADWAY - NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

CIO Helps Draft Women Workers' Postwar Blueprint

By HOLLACE RANSDELL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—What is going to happen to women in industry after the war was discussed here this week at a conference held by the U. S. Dept. of Labor's Women's Bureau. A program giving a "Reconversion Blueprint for Women" was adopted at the conference which was attended by representatives of 30 national organizations, including the CIO.

At a press conference following the conference, Miss Frieda Miller, director of the Women's Bureau, explained that the program drawn up considered the question of women's employment not only as a problem concerning women alone, but also from the point of view of human welfare. This includes, she explained, women's status in the wage-earning world, their home responsibilities and their relation to the national economy.

Recommendations Listed

The program recommended:

Analyses of women's impending job shifts and possible transfer of skills acquired during the war period to civilian employment.

Establishment of policies and procedures for necessary layoffs to prevent discrimination against women as such.

Assurance of competent public employment service facilities equipped to handle all needs including special groups, and the establishment of state and local advisory committees.

Adequate counselling and training facilities for women.

Provision of funds for women workers when demobilized to return to former homes or new areas for work opportunities.

Advance planning of public works programs to meet the needs of all workers affected by reconversion shifts.

Services of competent, informed women on public postwar planning bodies.

The conference also urged that state legislation be passed to safeguard women with good work standards, both by reenactment of repealed prewar labor laws and passage of new laws to improve legal labor standards. The vital importance of effective administration of such laws was stressed.

CIO representatives at the conference included Mrs. Dorothy Bellanca, Mrs. Faye Stephenson and Mrs. Katherine Ellickson.

THREE HOSTESSES of the Washington, D. C., CIO Canteen are receiving certificates for having attending all sessions of the Canteen Institute designed to make them better hostesses. A total of 70 hostesses received certificates. Shown here are, left to right: Lucille Shapson, secretary of the canteen and chairman of the institute; Ruth Linden, Lillian Taylor, and Jeannette Gillerman, secretary of the D. C. CIO Council.

By ELEANOR FOWLER

Secretary-Treasurer, CIO Women's Auxiliaries

The sudden upswing in war production requirements, to keep pace with the forward drive of our armies, has focussed attention once more on the problems of women workers. There is an urgent need for thousands of women on war jobs in a number of areas, and yet over the country as a whole just as many women quit as took jobs in September.

In some war areas the situation is much worse—with more women leaving the labor market than entering it.

Why do they leave? Because they're tired, because their household duties pile up, but most of all because they cannot make satisfactory provision for care of their children.

Of course we have made progress in setting up child care centers during the war emergency but we haven't come anywhere near meeting the need. A report of the War Manpower Commission last September showed 138 war production communities in need of better facilities to handle problems of women workers, especially child care.

And of course lack of these facilities discourages and prevents many women who want and need jobs from taking them.

At one of the housing projects in Camden, New Jersey, for instance, as a delegate reported at the Fourth Annual Auxiliary Conference, there are at present five working mothers. There are others who would like to work but there is no child care center. A large group petitioned for a nursery but they were told that there must be 20 working mothers eligible to use the nursery before one could be opened. Since none of them can go to work until the nursery is opened, they are completely stymied.

Or take Los Angeles where there is a shortage of several thousand women workers. War Manpower studies show a need for group care of some 2100 infants. They recommended opening at least 50 infant care centers. These are needed especially by wives of servicemen who have gone to work to supplement their meager allowances and by young mothers who are war widows and must support their children.

The situation is just as critical in San Diego, with infant care listed as the number one child care problem. So far, because of the opposition of child care experts who oppose group care for infants, needed facilities have not been provided. Infants continue, thanks to these experts, to be locked in trailers and left in motor cars. Their mothers, who need the work and are needed on the job, continue to quit, and war production suffers.

There's another factor that is causing women to leave war jobs. They know it may be hard for them to get jobs after the war. They're looking around now, just as men are, for jobs with a peace time future.

Special reconversion and post war unemployment benefits, which will give war workers the same kind of assurance GI's have that they won't starve when the war plants close down, are the only answer.

Recent studies show that about 80 per cent of our present women workers will want, and need to work after the war. Realization of the CIO program for full employment for all Americans is the only way women can be sure of a postwar pay check. They must get out the vote for that program just as they turned it out for President Roosevelt in November.

They must also do an educational job in their communities to head off discrimination against women in the period of reconversion unemployment. People should know the high proportion of women who work because they have to support themselves and their families. They should know that proportion is constantly increasing as the casualty lists come in. They should respect the right of a woman to a job on the same basis as a man—a basis of skill, ability and experience.

Women Tell House Group Cotton Industry's Faults

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—Prosperity of the cotton industry depends on good products, reasonably priced, and full employment at good wages for all industry, representatives of seven consumer organizations this week told a House subcommittee on postwar planning for agriculture.

The contention of Oscar Johnston of the National Cotton Council that sales promotions were necessary to sell cotton products was sharply challenged.

"Consumers today," the representative of the consumers groups, which included Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, secretary-treasurer of the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries, "are literally up-in-arms over their inability to find in the stores essential cotton garments of minimum quality to be serviceable, and at a reasonable price....

"Both the Secretary of Agriculture and the War Food Administrator, in their testimony before this Committee, stressed that the most important factor, without which the cotton industry cannot expect to solve its problems, is full employment at good wages throughout the American economy.

A table was presented showing that in 1941 average annual expenditures for principal cotton clothing items rose sharply from families with income levels under $500 to those in the $1000 to $1500 bracket, the increases ranging from 58.6 per cent for items for men to 169 per cent for girls' items.

SEVEN RECOMMENDATIONS

Seven ways to maintain full employment at high levels were recommended by the women's committee and included:

Elimination of substandard wages and providing minimum pay standards for farm labor.

Greater production efficiency on farms and in industry.

Cotton production and the textile industry to be "reconverted," as recommended by the Secretary of Agriculture Wickard.

Non-restrictive price policy for all industry.

Prices to consumers should not carry the burden of maintaining inefficient production and distribution in industry.

International trade policies such as would increase total employment and raise the national income.

Faith in postwar markets.

Other members of the women's committee were: Caroline F. Ware, American Association of University Women; Harriet Howe, American Home Economics Association; Margaret Cross, National Federation of Settlements; Laura Somers, League of Women Shoppers; Mrs. Gerson B. Levi, National Council of Jewish Women, and Florence Wyckoff, National Consumers League.

L. J. IMBER
COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber,
Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE
METAL LITHOGRAPHED
BUTTONS

for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES
Recognized Union Labels
No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in
Light and Heavy Stamping
Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and
Special Stampings.
Tools and Dies

N. Y. Representative
HERBERT R. LERMAN AL. 4-3356
37 E. 14th St.
Detroit Representative
CLARENCE L. HOULE CAD. 9085
424 Book Bldg.

L. J. IMBER COMPANY BRUnswick 7815
1725-41 W. North Ave.
CHICAGO, 22, ILLINOIS

NEW—JUST OFF THE PRESS
ELECTRICIANS HANDBOOK
A Book Every Electrical Worker Needs

Here's a BRAND NEW, up to the minute Electricians Handbook. A book electrical workers need for reference on the job. Over 5,000 electrical facts—wiring diagrams—essential electrical formulas—latest code rules, tables, charts, and wiring methods. Includes Industrial Electronics data. A practical book every electrical worker can use every day. Pocket size, flexible leatherette cover to stand every day usage.

Electricians Handbook

See this book FREE for 7 days. It's a book electricians have been waiting for—350 pages "chuckfull" of VALUABLE ELECTRICAL DATA that can earn it's small cost many times over. Price $2.75, payable after 7 days' FREE inspection.

GET THESE BOOKS 7 DAYS FREE

ELECTRONICS
The QUICK Way To BIGGER PAY

To get ahead in Electricity NOW and in the future you should know ELECTRONICS. It is the big pay field for Electrical workers. Coyne's new 400 page book—just off the press is especially written for busy electricians who want practical "on the job" simplified, electronic information. This is no text book—it's a practical book written for practical men. Electricians should find this book a "GOLDMINE" of EASY TO FOLLOW electronic data. Priced at only $4.95—payable after 7 days' FREE inspection.

Send No Money

See both of these books FREE for 7 days. Here's my offer. I'll send either or both books to you for 7 days' inspection at my expense. If you decide you don't want the books, send them back and you owe nothing; if you keep either or both you can pay as outlined in the coupon. Don't delay—SUPPLY LIMITED due to paper restrictions—send that coupon NOW!

COYNE ELECTRICAL SCHOOL
H. C. LEWIS, President
500 S. Paulina Street, Dept. 0000, CHICAGO 12, ILLINOIS

Send me the books checked below on 7-day free trial. I'll either return them in 7 days or pay for them according to the plan I select as outlined here ☐ Coyne Electricians Handbook: 1 Volume. Price $2.75 after 7 days FREE examination.
☐ Electronics for Electricians & Radiomen: 1 Vol. Price $4.95 after 7 days Free examination.

SPECIAL PAYMENT PLAN
If you keep both books you can send $2.00 in 7 days and pay $2 monthly until $7.70 is paid.

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____ Zone _____ STATE _____
☐ If you want books sent C.O.D.—you pay postman cash price (shown above) check here. Same 100% satisfaction guarantee.

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

The CIO lands at Plymouth! At this historical spot, cherished by all Americans the CIO came through with an election victory at the Plymouth Cordage Company, the largest cordage plant in the world, founded in 1823. Preceding the election, the AFL withdrew. The results were USA-CIO 594; Plymouth Cordage Employees Assoc. 802; no union 24.

Regional Director Francis Carmichael and Representatives Collins and Davis were in charge. The Readers' Digest some time ago carried an article stating it was impossible to organize the employes of this company. The CIO gave the answer! This was followed by another election victory at the National Bisquit Company plant, Burlington, Vermont, CIO 55; no union 0.

R. W. Starnes, CIO Reg. Dir., New Orleans, La., reports: Evans Cooperage Co., CIO 29; against 3.

Walter Smethurst, Dir., PWOC, reports: Aristocrat Paper Co., Chicago, Ill., PWOC 53; no union 8.

Wm. B. Taylor, Dir., OWOC-CIO, reports: Richfield Oil Co., Bayonne Terminal, Bayonne, N. J., 7 to 1 in favor of OWIU-CIO. Bay Refining Co., McPherson, Kans., OWIU-CIO 29; against 2.

John C. Lawson, Secy-Treas., US&APWA, reports: William-Little Stone Co., Whitestone, Ga., CIO 28; no union 12. Representatives Sam H. Scott and Ben L. Widenhouse were in charge.

E. L. Sandefur, CIO Reg. Dir., Winston-Salem, N. C., reports: Gaffney Brick Co., Gaffney, S. C., US&APWA 23; no union 2. Representative S. H. Scott was in charge.

Frank Bender, CIO Reg. Dir., Baltimore, Md., reports: Southern Shoe Co., Hagerstown, Md., CIO 47; no union 35.

The FAECT-CIO added to its recent string of organizational victories in the New York area when it scored a major NLRB victory among engineering employes at the Lloyd-Rogers Co. The vote was CIO 171; no union 51.

Paul E. Miley, Director., Reg. 2A, UAW-CIO, Cleveland, Ohio, reports: Delco-Remy Plant, Kings Mills, Ohio, CIO won by four to one. This is the 110th General Motors plant under the banner of the UAW-CIO. Dist. 50, which had tried to organize this plant, finally withdrew from the ballot just before the election. Int. Rep. Ray Quinlan was in charge, assisted by Int. Rep. H. L. Smith and George Wilkins.

Alex Bail, Secy-Treas., PNTWIU, reports: General Aircraft Equipment Corp., South Norwalk, Conn., CIO 255; against 173. Casper Lowenstein Co., South Norwalk, Conn., CIO 24; against 13. Resisto-flex Co., Belleville, N. J., CIO 95; against 67.

Walter H. Harris, CIO Reg. Dir., Chicago, Ill., reports: Miehle Printing Press & Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill., (production and maintenance employes) UERMWA-CIO 645; against 402.

John Galluccio, PNTWIU, Everett, Mass., reports: D. E. Makepiece Co., CIO 157; against 70.

Edward McCrone, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., New Haven, Conn., reports: Singer Sewing Machine Co., Bridgeport, Conn., UERMWA-CIO 954; no union 283. Waldoon Tool & Metal Mfg. Co., New Haven, Conn., voted 100% for CIO. CIO Field Rep. Michael Roxas handled this job.

C. H. Gillman, CIO Reg. Dir., Atlanta, Ga., reports: Tubize plant, Rome, Ga., TWUA-CIO 1043; against 456. The drive was under the direction of Horace White, assisted by O. A. Boyles and Irene Bailey.

Virgil Burtz, CIO Field Rep., Seattle, Wash., reports: Timekeepers Office at Alcoa Rolling Mill, Spokane, Wash., USA-CIO 20, no union 8. W. O. Allen, USA Representative was in charge.

Hear Cases of Discharged Negro Seabees This Week

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—The cases of fifteen Negroes discharged from the same battalion of the Seabees because of what they term "racial discrimination on the part of their commanding officers" will be reviewed here by the Navy Board of Review, Discharges and Dismissals this week.

The men, all stationed in Trinidad, were discharged October, 1943, as "undesirable" by reason of being "unfit." They were issued "yellow" discharges which deny them rights and benefits granted honorably discharged servicemen, such as mustering-out pay and education. The men claim they have had trouble getting jobs because of the stigma attached to the discharges.

They stated they were discharged several days after they were invited by their commanding officer to send a group to discuss with him and seven other white officers segregation and the failure of those Negroes qualified to rise to higher ratings.

Irving Abramson, chairman of the National CIO War Relief Committee, interested himself in the case and obtained from Secretary of the Navy Forrestal permission for an impartial review of the case before the Navy Board. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Civil Liberties Union have become interested in the case, and attorneys for the two organizations will represent the men at the hearings.

CIO Theater

A CIO Little Theater is being formed in Gary, Ind., to put on plays, skits, comedy acts, vaudeville and other types of entertainment at union and community affairs, announces the Steelworker News of Gary.

Cannery Convention Backs World Labor Conference

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9—Delegates representing more than 24,000 members in agricultural and food packing centers of America are attending the fifth convention of the CIO United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing & Allied Workers in session here this week.

In his keynote speech to the convention, Pres. Donald Henderson spoke of the problems involved in the liberation of European countries from the yoke of the Nazis, and of the necessity for fighting our own home-grown fascists.

A special emergency resolution was passed by the delegates in support of the mission of the 3-man CIO delegation now in London for a preliminary conference in connection with the calling of a World Labor Conference in February, and urging the necessity for a world labor organization as the only way to insure lasting peace.

Powers Hapgood, Local 84 delegate, stated that he endorsed the conference and told of being a member of the Russian Miners Union when he was working as a miner in Russia some years ago.

Speaking on a resolution to continue the work of the Political Action Committee, Mrs. Zella Whitfield, Arkansas sharecropper and the mother of 15 children, five of them now in the armed forces, said that in her area many Negroes voted in November for the first time due to the work of the PAC.

CIO leaders who addressed the convention included George Craig, CIO regional director; Franz Daniels, of the PAC regional office, and Joseph Donoghue, PAC director in Pennsylvania.

Senator-Elect Francis J. Myers from Pennsylvania discussed the recent election campaign and paid tribute to the union's members now in service.

Resolutions were passed calling for an hourly 65 cents minimum wage and extension of the Fair Labor Standards Act to all groups; asking for labor representation on the War Food Administration; congratulating farmers for their war food production record; and urging revision of Little Steel formula.

Another resolution introduced by delegates from a local in Winston-Salem, N. C., asked for an investigation of the cigarette shortage on the basis that workers in the tobacco industry are producing more cigarettes than ever before.

Maryland-D.C. Council Sets Plans to Help Kill Fascism

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—Problems facing labor and the common people in America during the war and in the peace to come made up the subject matter of both speeches and action taken at the eighth annual convention of the Maryland-District of Columbia CIO Council in session here this week.

Nearly 200 delegates from CIO unions in the shipyard, aircraft, textile, maritime and other industries through the state were present, as well as a number of government workers affiliated with the United Federal Workers.

In his report to the convention Pres. Ulisse De Dominicis reviewed the past year's record of the Council which he said had all been focused upon one main issue, "how we can best use our strength toward winning a complete victory over fascism, and how following that victory we can help guarantee for the people of our country a lasting peace and security."

Main speakers at the first day's session included A. Clayton Powell, newly elected Congressman from New York, and Preston Lane, chairman of the Democratic Committee for the State of Maryland, who gave outstanding support in the campaign for the re-election of Pres. Roosevelt.

In his stirring speech on "Winning the Peace" Powell said that "the people of America, black and white, have made this war, a war of democracy." They have made it a "people's war, not a white man's war," he declared. Referring to the war achievements of Negro members of the armed forces, Powell said, that many of them have "covered themselves with glory" by their feats of valor.

Dem. Chairman Lane in his speech declared that problems facing America after the war require "the prompt intelligent cooperation of all of us." He was greeted with a roar of laughter when he recited what he called his morning prayer: "May God give me strength to keep my big mouth shut until I know what I am talking about."

The convention passed a number of resolutions backing up policy action of the recent National CIO convention, including reaffirmation of the no-strike pledge, and favoring the CIO's participation in a World Labor Conference.

Union Pamphlets

UE's Handbook For Organizers

The new "Handbook for Organizers and Local Unions" issued by the CIO United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers is proving to be a valuable aid in negotiations, organizing drives, Labor Board elections and other phases of the union's work, states the UE Int'l. office.

Made up in looseleaf form to allow insertion of new material and replacement of pages by revised and up-to-date information, the handbook contains boiled-down, easy-to-find material on such subjects as: Organization, the NLRB, WLB, contracts, literature and publicity, union books and records and sample local constitutions.

A second edition of another popular UE pamphlet, "The Shop Steward on the Job," first published last July, is also now being distributed by the union. This pocket-sized booklet, compiled for the aid of some 20,000 UE stewards in shops and plants throughout the country, who "are the backbone of the UE," tells how to enforce the contract, settle grievances and help build the union.

Inquiries about these two pamphlets should be directed to the UE's national headquarters, 11 East 51 St., New York 22, N. Y.

For Recreation Leaders

A Handbook for UAW-CIO Recreation Leaders has been added to list of interesting and informative printed material being issued by the Education Dept. of the CIO United Automobile Workers.

Written by Melvin G. West, the union's recreation director, the 96-page illustrated handbook takes up various phases of a union recreation and sports program including tournaments, picnics, theatricals, music and singing, camps, social activities, hobbies and crafts, victory gardens and community participation.

The handbook may be obtained from the UAW Education Dept., 1324 Maccabees Bldg., Detroit 2, Mich. Price 50 cents a copy.

Council Plans Worker School

Plans for a fulltime workers school as well as an information and social center for returning servicemen will be placed before delegates to an education conference called by the Greater Detroit & Wayne County CIO Council, Sunday, Jan. 21, at the Maccabees Bldg., Detroit.

Sam Sweet, chairman of the Education Committee, said the Council hopes, "to interest a large number of civic and fraternal organizations in this education and veterans project." Locals affiliated with the Council are urged to send delegates.

UAW to Talk On Women's Problems

A conference on problems affecting women members of the CIO United Automobile Workers will meet in Detroit, Dec. 8-9.

Delegates from UAW locals to the conference will formulate proposals on seniority, equal pay, child-care, housing and health for consideration by the UAW Int'l. Exec. Board.

Marine Cooks To Meet in '45

San Francisco, Dec. 9—Complying with the results of a membership referendum recently completed, the CIO Marine Cooks & Stewards Assn. will hold its first rank and file convention in 1945.

Like some other maritime unions, the MCSA has never held a convention because of the constant shift in ship's personnel and the difficulties of adequate representation.

News Saves Paper

The National Edition of The CIO News this week is printing an eight-page paper to help conserve the small supply of paper, following publication of large post-convention issues. Next week the National Edition of The CIO News will be back to its regular 12-page schedule.

LET'S FINISH THE JOB— BUY EXTRA BONDS TODAY!

Set Western Union Vote For Jan. 2-10; ACA Needs Help!

By LAWRENCE KAMMET
Editor, ACA News

The date for the most extensive and dramatic Labor Board election ever held in the U. S., among 60,000 Western Union employes in more than 5000 communities, has been officially set for the week of January 2-10, 1945.

The employes will face a choice between the CIO American Communications Assn. and the designation "AFL." For the purposes of this election four AFL unions among Western Union workers have banded together to be represented on the ballot by the national AFL.

With the help of the national CIO and practically all affiliated unions, the ACA has been conducting an intensive organizing drive among Western Union employes in all parts of the country. Every principal city is covered with full-time organizers.

Chances Good

Reports from organizers and active Western Union employes indicate that ACA has an excellent chance of sweeping to victory.

The three weeks ahead are crucial and it is in this period that the ACA will need extraordinary assistance from all CIO forces in the field.

In principal cities the major task in which all CIO forces can aid will be in bringing the ACA vote to the polls. All CIO forces are urged to contact ACA regional directors (contact the nearest one) or the ACA office in your city.

At the 1944 CIO convention, winning the Western Union election was recognized as CIO's number one organizing task. A special resolution was unanimously adopted which called upon all affiliated unions to render every possible assistance.

CIO Aid Vital

The quantity and the quality of help which has been given ACA by the CIO national office and affiliated unions has been one of the phenomenal examples of teamwork in the history of the American labor movement.

Of crucial importance has been the support, guidance, and leadership which has been made available by CIO Pres. Philip Murray.

In addition to special financial assistance which has been received from the national CIO many of the affiliated international unions, industrial union councils, and local unions have made noteworthy contributions. Among the larger amounts that have been contributed are the following: $10,000 from the Auto Workers; $5,000 each from the Steelworkers, Nat'l. Maritime Union, and Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers; $2,500 from the Fur & Leather Workers. Substantial amounts have also been given by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Shipyard Workers, Rubber Workers, etc.

AFL Smears

The leaders of the AFL unions have been waging a campaign that bears striking resemblances to that carried on by Governor Dewey, which was originally patterned after Herr Goebbels.

The AFL unions are claiming all ACA victories and successes as their own; they are disseminating vicious anti-Semitic literature in cities where they think they can get away with it (particularly in the south); they have distributed Dies committee literature accusing ACA leaders of being part of a world plot to seize communications for the Communists.

The AFL leaders haven't bothered to advance a constructive program. They hope to win on a campaign of disunity and confusion.

ACA Progress

On the other hand, the ACA has brought forward a program designed to meet the needs of the Western Union employes, calling for (1) Full support to our Commander-in-Chief, (2) Observation of the no-strike pledge unconditionally (3) An 18 cents an hour increase for all Western Union employes, (4) And a national democratic union responsive and responsible to the membership.

The Western Union Telegraph Co. has for many years been one of the great bulwarks of company unionism in the United States. In 1919 the company organized the association of Western Union employes and placed at the head of various units its own favored employe pets.

After organizing all the employes of the Postal Telegraph system the ACA then tackled Western Union. After bringing charges before the National Labor Relations Board, the government held hearings and ordered the disestablishment of the company union in 1941. Immediately thereafter the same officials of the company union locals applied to the AFL for charters and got them! The company was thus enabled to deal with the same company union setup, this time with an AFL label.

Postal Merger

The present election arises out of problems which were created by the merger of Postal Telegraph and Western Union. Western Union employes in all parts of the country are now working side by side under two sets of rules, two different contracts — the AFL company-union contract and the ACA-CIO contract.

The CIO contract in all instances is far superior, in terms of hours, conditions of employment, and in many instances in terms of wages, etc. Western Union employes everywhere are getting an object lesson in what trade unionism really means merely by working side by side with ACA union members.

The elections will be held on a divisional basis, the country being divided into seven regions. Whichever union wins in each division will be certified as the exclusive collective bargaining agent there.

AFL Resignations

An indication of the way the wind is blowing is indicated by wholesale resignation of AFL members in recent weeks. In Los Angeles, the largest AFL local in Western Union voted to disaffiliate and to join ACA. In Boston, the president of the second largest AFL local in Western Union recently resigned and joined the ACA and is now campaigning for ACA in the North Atlantic states.

Out of this election, ACA-CIO is confident it will emerge as the decisive leader of the employes in all branches of the communications industry. After victory in Western Union, ACA-CIO will move right ahead into the telephone industry.

GI SAINT NICK: New York members of the Western Union ACA Victory Committee in the largest local of telegraph workers in the world (representing 10,000 Western Union employes) shown wrapping gift packages for their fellow ACA members in the armed services.

New York FEPC Urged

New York, Dec. 9—Saul Mills, secretary-treasurer of the Greater New York CIO Council, urged this week that a State Fair Employment Practices Commission be immediately established "with all the power necessary to vigorously and constructively wipe out the un-American practice of discriminating in employment because of race, color or creed."

'No-Strike' Vote Slated By UAW-CIO

"1,200,000 ballots will be mailed out by the UAW-CIO in carrying out the referendum vote of its membership on the question of the no-strike pledge," Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes said this week.

The membership is being asked to vote whether they favor the action of the Ninth Convention of the UAW which reaffirmed the no-strike pledge for the duration of the war.

Cards have been ordered on which the ballot will be printed, and the Committee and Addes said, "these would be ready for mailing to the membership some time around the second week in January." The postmark deadline for the return of ballots has been set for February 17. Servicemen will be given until February 28 to mail their ballots.

Two Weeks' Vacation For Steelworkers With 5 Years' Service

The Nov. 27 issue of The CIO News incorrectly stated that the Natl. War Labor Board in the steel case decision had granted five weeks' vacation with pay to employes having five years or more service. Two weeks' vacation with pay for employes in that category is the correct award. Under the WLB decision employes with one year's service get one week's vacation with pay, as was stated in the Nov. 27 story.

White Collar Willie

Boy! How Hearst Loves The Workers!

Latest anti-labor trick of the Hearst press, disguised as a move in behalf of the white collar worker, was exposed recently on the Los Angeles CIO Council's radio program, "Our Daily Bread."

Commenting on an editorial appearing in the Los Angeles Examiner entitled, "Organize the White Collar Classes," Vern Partlow, CIO news commentator said:

"Gist of the Hearst appeal to white collar workers is to convince everybody not actually working with a shovel that he is somehow different from all other workers, is somehow suffering because of organized labor, that nobody loves him, that he is the victim of Roosevelt bureaucracy, left wing unionism, dictatorship and what not.

"It's a pretty vague thing, but it hints that the white collar workers ought to organize very separately from the rest of the population and throw their weight around—no doubt, because this would keep them from joining white collar unions to benefit themselves, as so many thousands have done."

The editorial alone would not appear so important, the CIO radio commentator pointed out, it if were not for the fact that "its publication ties in with a brand new fascist-type movement spreading through the nation from New York and claiming to have a pledge of editorial support from the Hearst papers.

VAGUE ABOUT MEMBERS

"The new organization, called the White Collar League by its proprietor, Robert Routh, refuses to divulge its membership, possibly because it hasn't any, outside the palatial Wall Street office from which Routh operates with unlimited funds supplied by a mysterious source.

"Routh called a secret meeting of his so-called League Nov. 17 and dished out a line of anti-labor propaganda reminiscent of what Goebbels used to tell German office people when Hitler was climbing to fame with the money of the German steel and chemical trusts and on the backs of German working folks."

A Federated Press reporter, present at the meeting, quoted Routh as saying: "You are superior to workers even if you do get paid less because you belong spiritually and culturally to the upper class. Will you let a tyrannical minority—the international labor unions—take over the government?"

OPPOSES UNIONS

Chief aims of the White Collar League, the FP reporter said Routh declared, were to oppose the march of union organization, to keep government out of business, and to seek representation on the Natl. War Labor Board.

Although it is true that white collar workers are paid far less on the average than organized industrial workers, the CIO commentator said, the explanation is that "they are underpaid because they are unorganized. On the other hand, thousands of white collar and professional workers are organized and command rates of pay and working conditions commensurate with their contribution to society."

"Through unionism, the white collar worker can join in the benefits accruing to other portions of organized labor. Without it, he is a comparatively helpless individual, subject to the whims and caprices of his employer, who in turn, is tied to the whims and caprices of business in an unorganized field."

Delco-Remy Goes CIO

Kings Mills, Ohio, Dec. 9—Local 634, CIO United Auto Workers, recently, won an NLRB election by a four to one vote at the Delco-Remy plant here.

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 51 82 December 18, 1944

WLB Cracks Down on Monty Ward; U. S. May Seize Stores

(See Page 5)

★ ★ ★

Steel Firms' Wage Stall Gets KO'd By WLB

(See Page 5)

Hike U.S. Pay Scales, Is Civil Service Plea

The U. S. Civil Service Commission this week submitted a report to Congress urging upward basic adjustments in federal pay to meet the soaring cost of living. Pointing out that the U. S. government "must be the most progressive employer in the nation" if its employes are to make the maximum contribution to speedy victory, the Commission also urged:

1. Enactment of a permanent overtime compensation law, providing for time-and-a-half for work over 40 hours per week.

Ten per cent extra payment for salaried night employes (most federal workers paid on a daily basis receive extra night work pay).

3. Time-and-a-half for national holidays.

4. Equal pay for equal work.

5. Increases in salary every 12 months in the lower pay brackets and every 18 months in the higher brackets instead of the 18 and 30-month current limitations.

6. Unemployment compensation or a 90-day dismissal wage. "No legitimate reason can be advanced for drawing a line of demarcation" between federal and private employes, the Commission stated.

7. Inclusion of federal workers in any law passed to provide transportation home for war workers when their jobs are finished.

8. Cash awards for efficiency suggestions.

The report was praised by Pres. Eleanor Nelson of the CIO United Federal Workers who said that the union will urge Congressmen to establish for federal workers the same wage policies set for workers in private industry.

Annual Wage Is Urged By U.S. Labor Parley

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—The annual wage, for which the CIO has been pressing, was endorsed late this week by the National Conference on Labor Legislation, consisting of representatives of State labor depts. and held under the auspices of the U. S. Labor Dept.

The conference, meeting for the eleventh time, urged the Labor Dept. to make a survey of the operation of the annual wage where companies have put it into effect. The conference, in a resolution, stressed "the value of a guaranteed annual wage in maintaining the stability of employment and purchasing power for the products of industry."

"Such a wage," the resolution added," will be of even greater value after the war in achieving the higher living wage for which we are fighting today."

The CIO United Steelworkers in presenting their case for the modification of the Little Steel Formula called for the annual wage, and the Natl. War Labor Board urged President Roosevelt to name a commission empowered to make recommendation on the annual wage.

Other CIO planks which the conference supported included:

Immediate repeal of the Smith-Connally Anti-strike Act, which it declared had "actually encouraged and provoked wartime strikes."

Enactment of legislation in all States, similar to that now in effect in five states, to provide that women get the same pay as men doing similar work.

Action by all States "as rapidly as possible to extend the benefits of legal minimum wage rates of not less than 65 cents an hour to all workers." The CIO recently presented an array of witnesses before a Senate subcommittee to stress the urgency of the need for the enactment of the Pepper resolution which would authorize the Natl. War Labord Board to consider any wage under 65 cents an hour as substandard.

The conference condemned anti-labor laws in many states, asking that they be rescinded. The following provisions were condemned: Incorporation of the union, licensing union officers, State control of internal union affairs, regulation of elections and submission of financial statements, outlawing the closed shop, and "unreasonable restrictions" on strikes, peaceful picketing, boycotting and "other legitimate union activities."

A Congressional probe of the Christian American Association and other organizations promoting such legislation was asked by the conference.

In a message to the conference President Roosevelt said that "our first responsibility is to produce goods" needed to assure victory on the battlefronts.

Secretary of Labor Perkins called for consolidation of labor agencies in the U. S. Dept. of Labor after the war, and said that "fixing of wages and prices should be abandoned as soon as possible "and the Labor Dept. should have jurisdiction over the prevention of industrial disputes. The conference endorsed her proposal for unification of labor agencies.

CONGRESSMAN DRIPP by Yomen

"IT'LL BE A RELIEF TO GET SOME NEW BLOOD — AFTER ALL THESE YEARS."

A Christmas Story

The Finest Gift Of All

By Joseph Greene

THERE was no sleep for any of them that night. Something was in the air, and the men felt it uneasily. The ragged remnants of Washington's army huddled about the flickering campfires, or crawled miserably into improvised shacks, half-buried in the ground.

Outside Washington's tent, Amos Blaine shifted from foot to foot and wished he had never left his farm. He had set out with the militia in the spring, believing that the revolution would be over in time to harvest the crops. Instead, he had blundered from one bloody defeat into another. The rout at Brooklyn had been followed by flight through Manahattan Island, then across the Hudson River and down the length of Jersey. Now tired, hungry, discouraged, the army of ragged dreamers shivered on the banks of the Delaware River.

And Amos, as he waited beside Washington's tent, felt the cold grip his toes, seeping in through the rags that bound his feet. Like the rest, he had worn his shoes through long before the deadly cold of winter. It was Christmas Eve and he was weary unto death, here beside the frozen Delaware River. This was one Christmas his children would have no gift from him, for he was away chasing his dreams.

THE MURMUR of voices within the tent suddenly became still. Amos leaned closer in order to overhear what was being said.

A moment of hushed silence, then he heard Washington's voice.

"It has been my intention to retreat as long as necessary and build our militia into a fighting army. As long as the Army existed our revolution could not be defeated, and the dream of America to be free and independent would remain alive. But we cannot retreat any longer. By tens and by hundreds, our men are deserting. There is no discipline in our army. There is only one thing we can do, and we must do it at once." The General was silent for a moment. Then, "Gentlemen, we must attack!"

"Attack!" Amos heard a number of amazed voices exclaim.

"Yes," Washington replied quickly. "We shall recross the Delaware River tomorrow and attack the Hessians on the evening of Christmas Day!"

AMOS stepped back from the tent. He had heard enough. The doubts that had been stirring within him for days were now resolved. "Attack!" he cursed beneath his breath. The General had lost his mind, there was no other explanation. He had given up his farm, left his children fatherless and his wife alone to carry on the farm work. Now, dead tired, exhausted, he was being ordered to go into attack against the well-fed, well-rested and perfectly trained Hessians! That fox-hunting gentleman from Virinia had lost his mind.

"And I'll have no part in his madness!" Amos thought to himself. He turned and began to walk away from the tent.

He had not taken a dozen steps when he heard a voice behind him, then the crunch of boots on the fresh crisp snow.

"Are you the soldier Captain Blakely sent me?" It was Washington's voice. Amos stopped and the next moment a hand rested on his shoulder. The General was standing beside him.

"There is a rowboat up the river, about a half mile away," the General said. "I need you to cross ahead of the troops and scout out the land. I expect the Hessians to be drunk this Christmas Day. But if I am mistaken, you will report to me as soon as we are across the Delaware. Is your duty clear to you, son?"

"Yes," Amos mumbled.

"The lives of our men, the future of our country may well depend on you!"

"I understand, General," Amos replied.

"Good luck, then." Washington reached out and grasped his hand. In another second he had returned to his tent and Amos stood alone.

AMOS didn't waste time. He hurried toward the river. But when he eached the boat, he shrugged his shoulders and walked past it. "I'm bound for home," he muttered. "Home and my family!"

The snow was deep. With each step more and more of the snow packed against his naked feet, pressing in through the holes in the rags that covered his feet.

"No time to fix the bindings now," Amos thought. "I've got to put distance between me and this camp. But if I had some paper, I could stuff up the holes for a while."

He felt through his pockets as he walked. His frozen fingers touched a booklet. "That's Tom Paine's new pamphlet," Amos remembered. "Well, it'll do!"

He found a log half-buried in the snow and sat down. Pulling the booklet out of his pocket he glanced at it. The sky was already greying in the East and there was enough light to make out the words.

Idly his eye took in the first lines.

"These are the times that try men's souls." The words seemed to leap at him from the page. He read on, unable to tear his eyes away. ". . . The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. What we obtain too cheaply, we esteem too lightly . . . and it would be strange indeed if so celestial an article as FREEDOM should not be highly rated. . . ."

He read on and on, forgetting the bitter cold that was creeping over him and chilling the blood within him. He slipped from the log and rested his back against it, sitting in the snow. He was beginning to feel warm, confortable.

And then a figure was standing before him!

Amos blinked his eyes, amazed. "Tom Paine!" he exclaimed. "You here? I thought you'd gone to Philadelphia?"

Tom Paine smiled and shrugged his shoulders. "No, I'm not here in the flesh, Amos Blaine. But I'm inside of you, deep down inside and you can't get me out of your mind!"

"I'm dreaming this," Amos murmured. "The cold's got me! I'm freezing to death and beginning to see things. What do you want of me, Tom?"

"Go back, Amos Blaine! Go back to your duty!"

"I can't, Tom! I'm sick to the very soul of me! I want to hear them laughing when I give them presents this Christmas as I did last year. This is the first time I'm not home to give them some gift. . . . "

"You've lost your mind, Amos Blaine," the figure of Tom Paine interrupted him angrily. "No gift from you this Chirstmas? Why, man, this is the finest gift of all! Across the Delaware lies FREEDOM! Go back, Amos, go back and win it for your children and for your children's children! Go back, Amos Blaine, go back!"

The figure fadded suddenly, and Amos Blaine realized that he was crawling through the snow on hands and knees, talking to himself like a man gone mad. . . . "Go back, Amos Blaine, go back!"

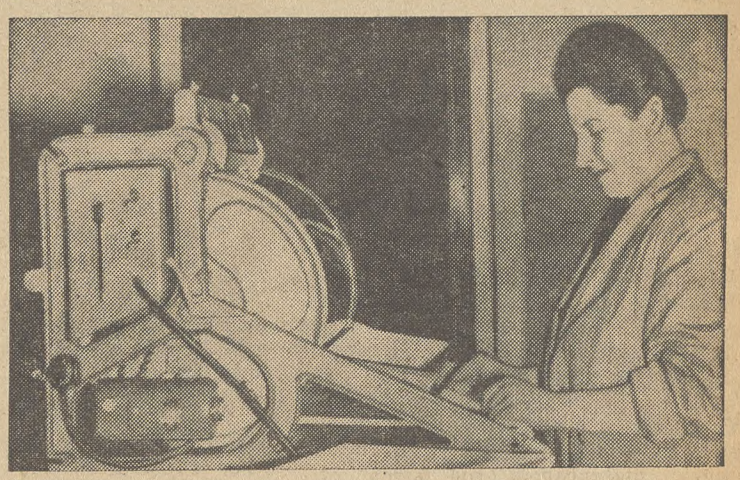
AMOS raised himself to his feet and staggered back the way he had come. The row boat was still lying at the river bank. Amos pushed it out into deeper water and tumbled in. He grasped the oars and began to row. "I've got to exercise," he thought. "I've got to keep moving or I'll freeze to death!"

He rowed rapidly across the river. Soon his head began to clear. In the East the first rays of the sun burst through the haze. As he rowed, the rhythmic creaking of the oars was a song in his ears.

And the words to the song were: "The finest gift of all. . . . "

Copyright By Joseph Greene

French Women's Heroism Is Written In Blood; Nation Gives Them Vote



FRENCH WOMEN HONORED: General Charles De Gaulle (above) decorates a French Wac for bravery.

•

FRENCH WOMEN FIGHT: A French woman guerrilla (left) is holding high the Tricolor, while in the other hand she grasps a hand grenade. The women tore down the sign designating the German headquarters when this Resistance group raided the building and seized arms and ammunition after American forces took the French town of Troyes. The guerrillas put the seized equipment, part of which is shown here, to good use by harassing the remaining Nazis in the area.

TRAINING AND WORKING:

A French Wac, Pvt. Claire Merger (top), who formerly was employed by the French Delegation in Mexico City, was trained for her duties as as an ambulance or truck driver at Fort Meade, Md. Another French Wac is shown (in bottom photo) serving as a hospital laboratory assistant. (Photos on this page courtesy of the French Press and Information Service, 501 Madison Ave., N. Y., and the U. S. Signal Corps.)

FRENCH women took and are taking all the torture the Gestapo sadists devised—floggings, broken spines and even bloody death — and are fighting back in the Resistance Movement and in the Volontaire Francaise, the Gallic equivalent of the Wacs.

They took all the pain dealt by the fiendish Nazis, and emerged with dauntless spirit true to the indomitable Joan of Arc.

Shattering the traditional social and political subservience of French women, a grateful nation has given them the franchise, which they will use for the first time in the country's history on municipal election day, February 5, when they will vote and be voted for.

Already they are participating in an advisory capacity in the Provisional Government of the French Republic by serving along with men as representatives of the various Resistance groups in the Consultative Assembly.

The French cabinet asked the various resistance groups — or Maquis—to choose delegates to the Assembly. Women were named by some of the groups, and the choice was not questioned by the government, according to a spokesman for the French Embassy in Wasihngton, D. C.

The Cabinet apparently felt that women, through their participation in the fight against the Nazis still occupying parts of France, had earned representation on the Assembly and the right of franchise.

Liaison Agents

Women worked as liaison agents between the different Maquis organizations. Sometimes they carried dynamite for sabotage activities. They aided Allied airmen shot down by the Nazis to escape; they hid and fed members of the Maquis.

In the Volontaire they drove trucks and ambulances, and in countless others ways joined in the fight.

There was Mme. Lucie Aubrac, of the Movement of National Liberation, an underground organization, who certainly earned her right to a place on the Consultative Assembly.

Three times her husband, Raymond—active in the Resistance—was arrested by the Nazis, the last time by the Gestapo, and three times she arranged his escape.

Held for Execution

The Gestapo were holding him for execution. His wife, Lucie, who had been a professor of history in a French university, told the Gestapo officers that Raymond was her finance and convinced them that he should be released so that they could be married.

To convince the Gestapo she meant no harm, she denounced the Resistance in her husband's presence, but she managed to whisper to him that plans had been completed to attack the prisoners' truck on its return to prison. But let Raymond tell the story:

"I left at six when it was getting dark. I was chained to another prisoner, Armed Nazis were our guard. The Gestapo lorry was in a street where there was a lot of traffic.

"I noticed that it was being followed by four cars. Suddenly one of the cars went past. A shot was fired from it. The German driver of our lorry fell with a bullet in his head.

"As our lorry stopped, bullets rained from the three cars following us. Two Nazi guards with submachine guns were killed. Three more fired back but soon fell badly wounded. With my companion in chains I stepped out and ran toward one of the cars. We jumped in and our cars raced away. Twelve more prisoners jumped from the lorry and got into three other cars. All escaped. My wife was in one of three cars."

Break Girl's Back

Then there was the French girl Resister whose back was broken by the Gestapo when she failed to reveal the names of her comrades.

They tied her hands behind her back and threw her on a bed, where she lay for three days, her only sustenance being water. Members of the Maquis finally were able to break into the house and rescue her.

She had not given away her comrades, and her courage and that of thousands of her sisters won the gratitude of the French nation.

Not only did Frenchwomen serve their country bravely on their native soil. The French also tell of three French ambulance drivers who were returning with wounded from a battalion aid station, when shells hit two jeeps on the same road.

Girl Gives Life

They rescue the wounded jeep occupants, but in trying to go around one of the damaged vehicles, two of the amblances became mired.

Enemy artillery opened fire on them. One ambulance was hit. Two wounded were decapitated by the explosion, and one girl was pinned in the wreckage.

The girls started to carry the wounded to the shelter of a nearby knoll. One girl had carried several wounded from her vehicle, and was returning with a first aid kit when struck by a shell fragment, which severed both of her legs at her hips.

She died within a few minutes. Another of the girls was seriously wounded in the arms and legs, but the wounded were removed to the knoll where the girls took care of them until a fourth ambulance arrived.

Doctors Ask Laymen For Lowdown On Health Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—Members of the liberal Physicians Forum kicked precedent out the window here last weekend at their Conference on the Problems of Medical Care and asked their patients how doctors should "conduct their business."

The medicos discussed with representatives of CIO, AFL, consumer, veterans' and other organizations how better medical care may be brought more cheaply to more people.

Forum members said this was the first time that physicians in this country invited their patients to diagnose them. A National Health Conference held here in 1938 for physicians and patients was conducted by the government.

DEBUNKING PILLS

Debunking Pills

Besides taking down their own hair and asking labor and consumer group representatives "what do you think?" the medicos debunked the claims of vitamin pill manufacturers.

A warning against the false advertising claims of vitamin pill manufacturers was sounded by Dr. Channing Frothingham, Boston, chairman of the Committee of Physicians for the Improvement of Medical Care, who said that certain medical preparations "are of value in certain instances but . . . are often advertised to have value in other conditions in which their value is uncertain."

The doctors diagnosed their own work, and in discussion recommended:

1. A national health plan to provide better medical care more cheaply for most of us.

2. Steps to provide well-trained physicians and nurses and essential medical equipment.

3. More and better hospital facilities, particularly in the rural areas.

Members of CIO affiliates participating in the discussion included Sec.-Treas. George F. Addes and L. H. Anderson of the United Auto Workers George F. Delaplona and Elizabeth Fullerton, National CIO War Relief Committee, and Robert K. Lamb, Washington legislative representative of the United Steelworkers, who served as chairman of the panel on Medical and Hospital Facilities.

This panel discussed the speech of Dr. Henry B. Richardson, Cornell University Medical School, who said:

"The need for hospital beds in rural communities cannot be judged by the utilization of existing facilities. The chief barrier to their use is that patients cannot pay for them.

"The small community also has to compete with the economic advantages of the city, and some method will have to be devised to meet the cost of medical and hospital care. New hospitals will be required and also the reorganization of hospitals that already exist."

A sound nation wide health program could be provided by the four per cent of the income spent by the average American family on medical bills, according to Dr. Franz Goldmann, of the Yale University Medical School.

He said that with "national income . . . at an unprecedented height only a small proportion of the public had availed themselves of non-compulsory prepaid hospital and medical care programs."

Preventive Treatment

The need of preventive treatment for veterans, particularly those with nervous disorders, was stressed by Dr. Sidney M. Greenberg, Cornell University Medical College. He said that the high rejections for medical service demonstrated the need for the preventive medicine.

"This nation needs its returning veterans for peace," he continued. "Are we going to see to it in the important years ahead that as many of these veterans as possible will be as healthy as possible or shall we in 25 years again have to reject, this time from civilian life, hundreds of thousands of veterans because we did not provide adequate medical care when it was? needed?

Reporting on the panel discussion based on Dr. Greenberg's speech, Dr. Michael M. Davis, Ph. D., New York, chairman of the Health Program Conference, said:

"Full employment for all veterans would solve quite a number of special problems that doctors and hospitals and quite a number of persons who vote and pay taxes are considering now."

MEDICAL CARE for this boy and thousands like him would be provided more cheaply under a national health program, speakers declared at the Physicians Forum's Conference on Problems of Medical Care, held in Washington.

Children Need More Medical Care

Washington, Dec. 16 — Startling facts on the health of the nation's children were revealed by Miss Katharine Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau, Dept. of Labor, at a press conference on her tenth anniversary on the job last Saturday. They included:

More than 200,000 babies are born annually without a doctor in attendance.

Fifty thousand new maternity beds are required to meet the need for hospital facilities for mothers.

Of the 18 million children under 21 years of ago, ten million have defective vision, two million have impaired hearing, almost a million have congenital syphillis, a half million have orthopedic or plastic conditions and 400,000 have tuberculosis, almost half a million have rheumatic fever.

It is estimated that three fourth of all school children have dental defects.

These and host of other facts she presented augmented her plea for expansion of health and medical facilities to care for children.

GOOD NEIGHBORS: Pres. Joseph Selly (left) of American Communications Assn. and Pres. O. A. Knight of Oil Workers Intl. Union, special CIO delegates to the Latin American Trade Unions convention in Cali, Colombia, are shown before leaving for South America. (Federated Pictures)

CIO 'Cooking With Gas' On World Labor Fronts

CIO solidarity with world labor is cooking on both hemispheres these days with CIO men working with their union brothers in Britain, the USSR and Central and South America.

Over in England, the three-man CIO delegation, R. J. Thomas, Sidney Hillman and Emil Rieve, has finished a three-day preliminary session on the World Labor Conference in London. Perfect agreement is reported from the meeting of U. S., British and Soviet trade union heads on the agenda for the big meeting in February. CIO President Philip Murray will lead the meeting off with a proposal for a new world labor body.

In ths hemisphere, President Joseph P. Selly of ACA and President O. A. Knight of the Oil Workers, are attending the Latin-American Federation of Labor (CTAL) conference in Cali, Colombia, and Willard S. Townsend, president of the Transport Service Employes, is down in Havana, Cuba, at the convention of the Cuban Confederation (CTC). Both are fraternal delegates from the CIO, appointed at the Chicago convention and representing the CIO Committee on Latin-American Affairs.

Support for the people of Greece has also been expressed during the week by CIO union leaders, led off by a statement from George F. Addes, secretary-treasurer and acting president (during Thomas's absence in England) of the UAW-CIO.

Addes's statement supported the position of Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius that liberated nations, especially those who have fought against the Axis, must be allowed to work out their own destinies.

"This is the only policy consistent with the unity of the United Nations," Addes said. "For a British general to use guns on another ally only gives ammunition to opponents—including American opponents—of any United Nations' unity."

Speaking for 700,000 war workers, the Executive Board of the UE-CIO commended Stettinius for his "support of the right of the people of such nations as Italy and Greece to form their own governments without outside interference."

The Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers, CIO, the Office and Professional Workers, the New York and Chicago City CIO, the Fur and Leather Workers, the NMU and others expressed similar support.

With all these anti-fascist dishes cooking, what are the officers of the AFL doing? They've.. turned down every invitation to the February meeting in London, because the CIO, the CTAL and the Soviet unions are going to be there, and besides it's unconstitutional, they keep saying. John L. Lewis has also refused a bid to London.

According to the New York Times, George Meany, secretary of the AFL, is off to Mexico to meet with "important Mexican labor leaders." Since all of these are down in Colombia at the CTAL meeting, this can only mean that the AFL officialdom is trying to revive the CROM, corrupt predecessor of the CTM.

The Times, in fact, gives the game away when it says: "Such a move, it was hoped, would check the organization headed by Mr. Toledano (CTAL) and would replace the moribund Pan-American Federation of Labor, of which the AFL is a member."

And according to some Washington rumors, the AFL officials and Lewis are preparing to unite again. If the rest of world labor goes on its way without them, at least they'll have each other.

'Balanced Team' Urged On Foreign Policies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 — Following up CIO's convention stand in support of FDR's foreign policy, President Murray this week sent a message to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee considering appointments to the State Dept. of aides to Edward R. Stettinius, the new Secretary of State.

Murray quoted from the convention resolution, which said in part: "The State Dept. and all other agencies dealing with foreign affairs, economic and political, must support the determined stand of the President for unity among the United Nations and for a firm and lasting peace. These agencies must devote their best efforts to the formation of an international organization on the basis of the Dumbarton Oaks conference . . . Labor wishes to make its contribution to the international activities conducted by this organization and to this end must be represented at future international conferences and at the peace table."

Commenting on the new appointments to the State Department, Murray added in his message to the Senate Committee:

"In the estimation of the CIO, the nominations of an Undersecretary and five Assistant Secretaries of State do not provide a balanced team for the conduct of our foreign affairs in the cruical years immediately ahead.

"A balanced team should contain the best qualified persons of good will toward such principles as are set forth in the resolutions we have enclosed for your information.

"To strengthen the hand of the President and make effective future actions of Congress in international affairs, we strongly urge the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to use the foregoing principles as a measuring rod for all future appointments of officials responsible for administering these international programs brought before the committee by Congress or the executive."

Crackdown on Ward's

Obey WLB Orders Or Else, Avery Told

The Natl. War Labor Board this week unanimously slapped down Sewell L. Avery, as the author of Montgomery Ward's mid-Victorian labor policies continued to defy not only the CIO but the U. S. Government's entire wartime labor relations machinery.

The Board ordered "I-won't-get-out-unless-you-carry-me" Avery to comply with WLB orders issued late last year and early this year providing for a 46 cents an hour minimum wage in four Detroit stores employing 1,800 people, for payment of back wages, and for union security.

The WLB unanimously voted that Avery must comply with the latest directive by Monday (Dec. 18) or the case wold be referred to Economic Director Vinson for more direct action—and possibly for seizure of Montgomery Ward property similar to that involving the company's Chicago store last year.

According to the CIO union representing the workers involved, the Retail, Wholesale & Dept. Store Employes, more than $300,000 in back pay is due the Detroit workers alone, and many thousands of dollars more are due other workers among the 60,000 to 65,000 currently on the company's payroll.

The company's defiant attitude was best expressed by its refusal to appear with the union at a Board hearing this week, and by a telegram sent by the firm's labor relations "expert," John A. Barr. Barr wired the Board:

"Ward's reasons, for believing the orders referred to in your telegram to be illegal and uneconomic, have been frequently and fully stated to you. The courts have adopted the view of your counsel and have held these orders to be unenforceable and merely advisory. In view of these facts we question the necessity of any further hearing. If the purpose of these hearings is merely to ascertain Ward's position, it remains the same."

Barr said that the company was "unable" to be represented at the hearing.

"INSULT TO BOARD"

The firm's attitude was described by Retail & Wholesale President Samuel Wolchok as "an insult not only to the Board but to the workers of Ward's."

"I don't think the company can face us," Wolchok declared. "That's why they are not here. Mr. Barr is not sick. Nor is Mr. Avery. And they have a staff of 29 or 30 lawyers besides Mr. Ball."

Wolchok, earlier at a press conference, told of the Detroit workers' inability to obtain even the pitifully low minimum of 46 cents an hour from the mail order magnate, and of their mounting dissatisfaction over Avery's refusal to pay them back wages as ordered by the WLB.

AVERY RESPONSIBLE

Wolchok pointed out that Avery's defiance is directly responsible for the fact that Detroit Ward workers have left their jobs for an "economic showdown" because their bellies simply could not be kept filled on Ward's starvation pay scales.

Wolchok said that the union's demands that Avery live up to WLB orders have been supported by a meeting of presidents of CIO locals in the Detroit area.

Further support came from CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey, who said of Avery:

"He has set himself above the procedures established for maintaining orderly and peaceful relations under the stresses and strains of the War Labor Board setting a minimum wage rate of only 46 cents an hour in Detroit. In spite of industry's obligations under the no-strike pledge, he refused to pay some $300,000 due the workers in that city.

"The directive order involved in the Detroit case was made the occasion of a series of law suits that were decided against Mr. Avery all the way up to the Supreme Court of the United States. He lost in every court, yet he has refused to abide by even that final decision.

"I feel the time has come for the government of this country to take whatever steps are necessary to finally secure effective compliance with all outstanding directives involving Montgomery Ward Co, U. S. Gypsum, Pullman standard and all other corporations under the control of Sewell Avery."

SEIZURE URGED

President Roosevelt was urged "to meet the contemptuous fascist threat" of Avery by seizing Ward property, in a wire sent by Sec.-Treas. George F. Addes of the CIO United Auto Workers Union, acting president in the absence of R. J. Thomas, who is in Europe attending a preliminary meeting of the group that is laying plans to set up a new world trade union organization.

"The conduct of Avery and Montgomery Ward constitutes open defiance not only of WLB and the Supreme Court, but the whole Government, and must be unqualifiedly condemned by every true American," Addes stated.

WLB KOs Stalling By Steel Firms

The Natl. War Labor Board this week took another step forward along the path leading to wage increases for nearly half a million members of the CIO United Steelworkers by denying a petition of 73 steel companies for further delay in the union's pay case.

The companies had asked the Board for "reconsideration" of its decision Nov. 25 recommending adjustments in night shift pay, liberalized vacations, elimination of wage inequities and other gains.

WLB Chairman William H. Davis said that the Board "decided that the companies' petition contained no grounds warranting reconsideration of the case, since the points raised by the petitioners had been fully discussed in the hearings on the case and in the Board's discussion before it reached its decision Nov. 25."

The WLB action came following receipt of a telegram from Philip Murray, president of CIO and of the Steelworkers, who pointed out the legality of the Board's wage decision and said:

"The union is extremely anxious to initiate collective bargaining with the companies and consummate our contracts as quickly as possible. It is unfortunate that the companies have taken this additional step after the long delays which they have caused during the processing of the basic steel case.

"Therefore we request that the Board address itself to the petition for reconsideration filed by the companies and dispose of it as quickly as possible."

NMU Hails Plans

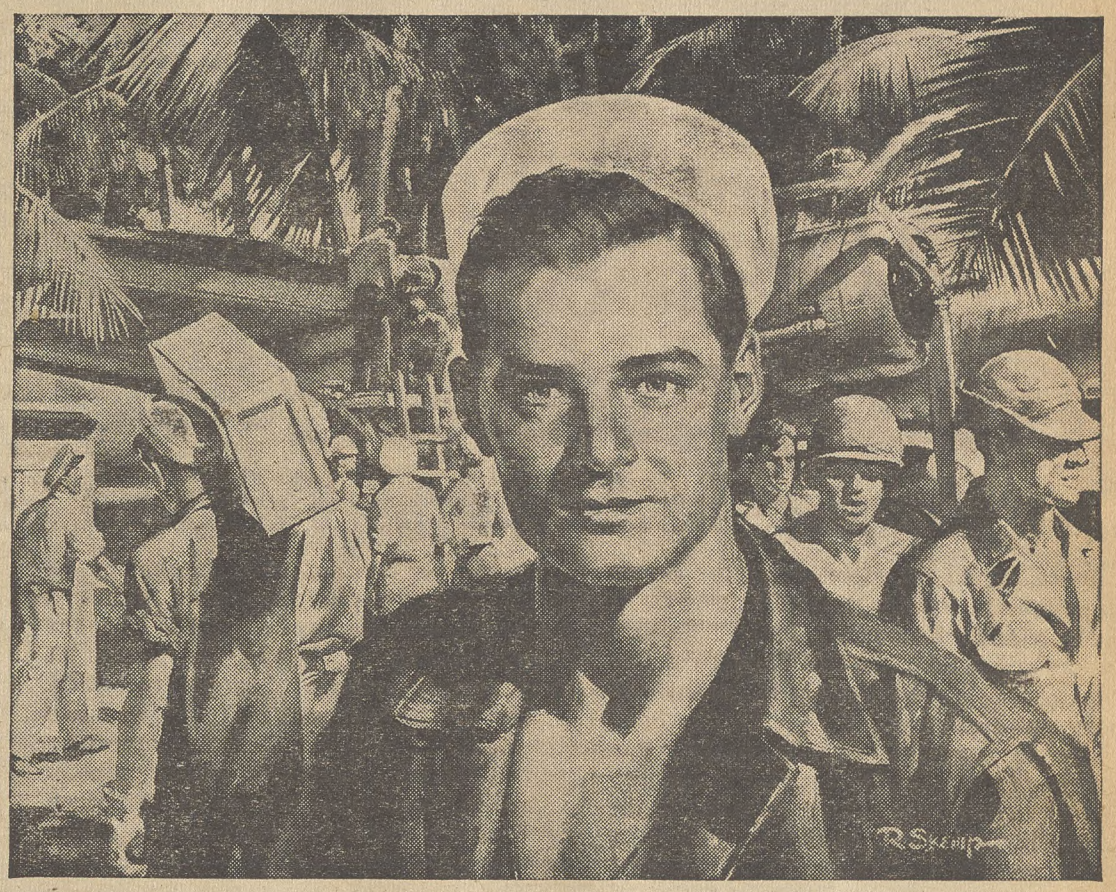
San Francisco, Dec. 16—The rumor—via Drew Pearson—that Henry J. Kaiser is planning to establish his own line of ships between the west coast and the Orient after the war was hailed by the CIO Natl. Maritime Union.

"The more shipping lines, the more jobs," Port Agent James Drury commented," and Kaiser has a good labor record. It is another proof that management in the shipping industry on the coast is not fearful of the unions and has learned to cooperate with them."

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N. W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

UNION MADE BUTTONS
Celluloid or Litho-Metal
For—
Union Dues
Advertising
Campaigns
Badges - Emblems
CHARLES M. GERAGHTY
INCORPORATED
500 Sherman St. - Chicago, Ill.

PAPER WORKERS LOCAL 388 UNION MADE CIO ORGANIZING COMMITTEE
LET MILPRINT FURNISH YOUR
CIO STATIONERY
WRITE FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES
MILPRINT, Inc.
431 WEST FLORIDA STREET
MILWAUKEE 1, WISCONSIN
Over 750 CIO Employees



"Seabee" Balaban and his father helped build many a Studebaker in peacetime

And they're comrades in craftsmanship still

Studebaker's Joe Balaban has another son and a daughter in the Navy—Like thousands of Studebaker automotive veterans, Joe Balaban now works in one of Studebaker's aircraft engine plants. Other Studebaker car and truck experts build heavy-duty Studebaker military trucks and Weasel personnel and cargo carriers.

KEEP ON BUYING WAR BONDS AND KEEP ALL THE BONDS YOU BUY!

THE whole nation is justly proud of the accomplishments of our Navy's fighting construction battalions known as the Seabees.

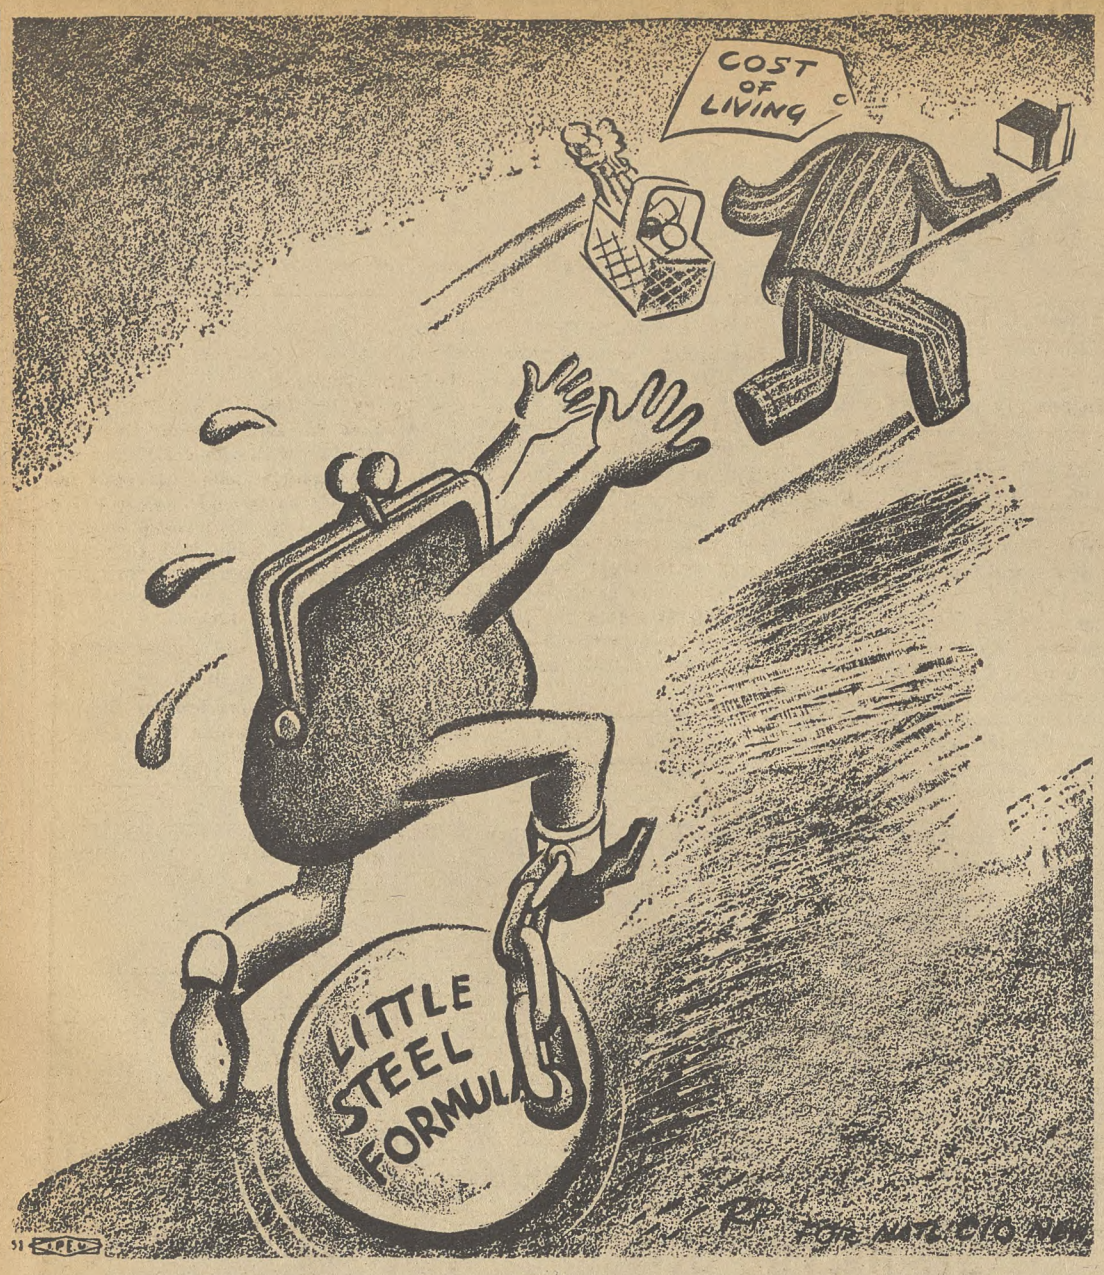
One fine example of the resourceful Seabees at their best is First Class Seaman Milan Balaban of South Bend, Indiana. He learned his way around with tools as an apprentice millwright in the Studebaker automotive plants—working close by his father who has been a Studebaker employee for more than 26 years.

Today, Joe Balaban, the father, is putting his skill and experience to good account in the Studebaker Aviation Division—from which tens upon tens of thousands of Studebaker-built Wright Cyclone engines for the famous Boeing Flying Fortress have been steadily streaming forth.

It's largely because of the painstaking craftsmanship in peacetime, of numerous Studebaker father-and-son teams like the Balabans, that wartime America is getting such dependable performance from Studebaker motor cars and motor trucks.

STUDEBAKER

Building Wright Cyclone engines for the Boeing Flying Fortress—heavy-duty Studebaker military trucks—the Weasel personnel and cargo carriers.



Our Stake In Foreign Affairs

In calling to the attention of the Senate the position of the Congress of Industrial Organizations on foreign policy, Pres. Philip Murray has urged the most careful consideration of every appointee and policy concerned with international affairs.

His advice applies not only to our representatives in Washington but also to the people who elected them. For it is certainly the people's business to see that a people's peace results from this people's war. The future lives, livelihood and freedom of all of us depend today more than ever before on what is usually called "foreign policy."

Every CIO member in particular should study the CIO's unanimously adopted policy and be alert to see that its patriotic and progressive principles are adhered to by his representatives.

The first point in CIO's foreign policy is United Nations unity for the complete destruction of Axis tyranny and for postwar reconstruction; and full support for President Roosevelt's determined leadership in this direction.

CIO's next point is that there must be no "negotiated or soft peace." This reflects labor's determination that there must be no truce with fascism; that the German people must make restitution for their crimes; and that there must be no concessions to their ruling classes, on account of their business and social contacts, that will permit them to renew their drive for world conquest in the future.

To insure a lasting peace, the CIO calls for complete support for the world organization outlined at Dumbarton Oaks. It asks for its immediate formation and opposes any reservations, or denial of authority to our representatives on this body, that might block the use of armed force to check aggression.

To make labor's voice effective in winning a people's peace, the CIO demands labor representation at all international conferences and at the final peace table.

CIO's next major demand is for "the elimination of fascism wherever it may be found." This means barring Franco Spain and the fascist government of Argentina from the United Nations, and aiding the peoples of such countries to win freedom and democracy.

For the present war really began when Hitler and Mussolini launched their armed attack on Spanish democracy to place Franco in power. And experience has shown that when fascism takes root in any country it threatens the peace and freedom of all other countries.

The final point in CIO's major foreign policy resolution is self-government and self-determination for the peoples of India, Ireland, Africa and Asia—and aid for their rapid industrialization and social and economic advancement, without any discriminations based on race, creed or color.

In this, the CIO recognizes that imperialistic policies which hold nations and races in subjection, and retard their economic and social progress, are not only unjust but also lead to world depression and future wars.

The CIO also recognizes that expanding world trade is necessary for postwar prosperity and jobs for all.

This calls for stabilized currencies and international provision of credit, as planned at Bretton Woods, so devastated and undeveloped countries may get capital and goods for rehabilitation and industrialization — and the barring of such cartels as nourished Nazi imperialism, restricted production and placed profits above the interests of the common people.

To achieve all the above objectives, American labor needs the support and cooperation of labor in other countries.

Fundamental, therefore, to the whole program is CIO's stand for international labor unity; for closer relations with Latin-American labor and the new labor movements of Italy and other countries; and for a new world labor body that shall include all the unions of free countries on a basis of equality.

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

ONE of the most revealing tests of the way people think is known as the "association test." It consists of mentioning a word and requiring a person, at once and without thinking, to say the first thing this word suggests to him.

As a parlor game, it sometimes produces startling, amusing or embarrassing results. You may be surprised, for instance, to find what or whom a word like "love" or "kiss" may first suggest to some of your best friends, if they're really caught off guard and answer honestly. Or the only answer may be a rosy blush.

This test can also reveal how people's thinking changes. Before the war, a word like "diplomat" would have brought reactions like "silk hat," "intrigue," "tact," "ambassador," "social functions," "secrecy," "career," etc.

But today you would probably also get reactions revealing a deeper realization of what diplomacy and foreign policy really mean to us—such as "war and peace," "fascism," "democracy," "world organization," etc.

★ ★ ★

If you read the society pages of the papers, you may get the impression that diplomatic life is a constant round of parties at which vapid but immaculately groomed gents and gorgeously gowned dames balance tea-cups and engage in formal chit-chat about the weather to avoid saying anything significant.

As to diplomatic statements, they are usually so carefully worded that to the uninitiated they sound like obvious and meaningless bromides. One wonders how the newspapers can read into them such sensational and often varying interpretations.

But it must be remembered that the ruling classes of most countries have long tried to keep diplomacy and foreign policy as their private property. They have fenced them around with the trappings of wealth and "high society," and with all sorts of protocol and mumbo-jumbo.

They have tried to give the impression that such matters of state are too highbrow, too complicated, too technical—or even too trivial or meaningless—to concern the man in the street.

Ordinary folks have too often fallen for this guff—until suddenly they are landed in a world depression, an international crisis or a war.

Then they realize that all this high-falutin' diplomacy, word-splitting and juggling with policies supposed to be beyond their ken, really dealt with matters of life and death for them and their families—matters to which they should have given the closest attention and over which they should have exercised the firmest democratic control.

★ ★ ★

Even labor unionists have tended too much in the past to regard foreign policy as somewhat out of their range, something to be left to "experts," and as less important to them than practical bread-and-butter matters like wages, living costs, etc.

This war has shown the shortsightedness of such an attitude. Life or death, war or peace, democracy or fascism—these are no technical abstractions to be left to experts. They are the vital concern of every American.

The foreign policies that decide such issues also determine whether the labor movement itself shall live or die, whether we shall have jobs or unemployment, and what our living standards will be.

So it is not surprising that no fewer than six of the major resolutions at the last CIO convention dealt directly with American foreign policies.

★ ★ ★

Reflect for a moment on some of the main points of these resolutions (treated at greater length in an editorial on this page).

(1) United Nations unity for the complete destruction of Axis tyranny.

(2) No "negotiated or soft peace."

(3) Support for the world organization started at Dumbarton Oaks, without any reservations that would prevent the use of force to check aggression.

(4) Labor representation at all peace conferences.

(5) Elimination of fascism wherever found, including Spain and Argentina.

(6) Self-government for colonial and subject peoples, with full opportunity for economic and social advancement.

(7) Expansion of world trade through currency stabilization and credit facilities as planned at Bretton Woods.

(8) International labor unity through a new world labor body to include all unions of free countries.

The goals of this program are quick victory, lasting peace, no more fascism, a strong labor movement, jobs for all, decent wages and conditions, and other bread-and-butter and life-and-death matters that are very much the business of every American.

The CIO News
Published Weekly
Congress of Industrial Organizations
Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer
Vice-Presidents
Joseph Curran, John Green, Reid Robinson
S. H. Dalrymple, Allan S. Haywood, Frank Rosenblum
Albert Fitzgerald, Emil Rieve, R. J. Thomas
Len De Caux.....Editor and Publicity Director
Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.
Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C., Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925
Vol. 7 December 18, 1944 No. 51

Congress and US

Job With Congress Now Is Key To '46 And '48 Elections

The next national election is 21 months away. That may seem like a long time. Actually it's only a few months more time than CIO had between the setting up of PAC in July '43 and November '44. The decision to be made in November '46, when we elect a new Congress, is just as vital as the one made last November.

The key to success in the electioins of 1948 lies in the shape of the elections in 1946. The key to success in 1946 lies in what the 79th Congress does in the next two years. And the responsibility for what this new Congress does in the next two years rests with the workers, housewives, farmers, businessmen, the voters of America.

We have a new Congress coming into Washington in January. A number of the most reactionary men have been defeated. A number of new, progressive members have been elected. A large core of "middle-of-the-roaders," men who are not always sure of their stand but who are basically honest will be there. There's still a number of reactionaries left—men and women who ought to be chastened by the last election but aren't.

The job we have to do with this new Congress is to get good bills passed that will help win the war and prepare for security and prosperity after the war. The better the record we can help this Congress make, the bigger and more progressive will be the vote in '46. People vote in large numbers when they see something positive to vote for—as they voted on FDR's positive record and against the negative record of the Dewey-Hoover gang last November.

The best approach to this new Congress is a positive one. These tips may prove useful to remember in our work with Congress this year and next:

OUR APPROACH

1. Congressmen don't always divide neatly into two kinds—liberal or reactionary. Some are always bad. A few are always good. The big majority is frequently uncertain—and can be persuaded to do the right thing if a good case is made.

2. Congressmen respond more to a united appeal from their own voters than to anything else. A cause in which farmers, housewives, businessmen as well as union members are interested and in which they convey their united interest to Washington has a big head start on one in which union members alone are concerned.

3. Legislation is passed or defeated not only on the floor of Congress with open debate and a record vote. House and Senate committees which prepare the bills also decide their fate. Following the progress of a bill in committee is not always easy. It pays off in big dividends when the bill comes up for final action.

4. Watching your Congressman, particularly one of the middle-of-the-road kind—doesn't mean giving him the third degree on every move he makes. Watch your man, yes, but not like a cat watches a mouse. The better technique is explanation, education, persuasion.

The job with Congress is to help it work with the people for victory and security. How well we do this job will govern how well we will do, not only during the next two years but in '48 and beyond.

International Bill of Rights Widely Urged

Thirty-four high ranking labor leaders, headed by CIO Pres. Philip Murray and AFL Pres. William Green, were among the 1326 signers of a statement issued this week by the American Jewish Committee, urging an International Bill of Rights to serve as a post-war guarantee of religious and individual rights for all persons throughout the world.

Approved by President Roosevelt, and signed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, Supreme Court Justices Owen J. Roberts and Frank Murphy, the Declaration calls for the recognition of the individual human being "as the cornerstone of our culture and civilization."

The six points of the Declaration of Human Rights call for:

1. An International Bill of Rights "to guarantee for every man, woman and child, of every race and creed and in every country, the fundamental rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

2. A world in which the rights of national sovereignty do not permit any nation to deprive those within its borders of fundamental human rights "on the claim that these are matters of internal concern."

3. A recognition of the fact that bigotry and persecution by a barbarous nation "is a matter of international concern" because it eventually "throws upon the peace-loving nations the burden of relief and redress."

4. A policy of "fair redress" for those who have suffered under the Hitler regime because of race, creed or national origin.

5. A plan for repatriation, with their rights unaffected, for those who have been driven from their homes.

6. An international machinery whereby new homes will be found in other parts of the world for "those who wander the earth unable or unwilling to return to the scenes of unforgettable horror" from which they fled.

CIO Speeds Legislative Job

Washington, Dec. 16 — Timed to meet the new (79th) Congress coming early in January, the CIO this week laid plans for stepping up its legislative work with an eye to helping the new Congress do a positive job for the war and postwar period between now and the '46 elections.

The CIO Legislative Department, with Nathan Cowan as director and Robert K. Lamb as secretary, will work with CIO legislative representatives stationed here and with affiliates in the field, and will be under the policy direction of the national CIO Legislative Committee. This group, led by President Murray, consists of the nine CIO Vice-Presidents, Secy-Treas. James B. Carey and General Counsel Lee Pressman.

The new legislative setup has an executive committee, headed by Cowan, and a series of sub-committees assigned to work on various angles of the CIO program with Congress. Members of the executive committee are: Pressman, Lamb, USA-CIO; John Edelman, Textile; Clifford McAvoy, UE; Tom Owens, Rubber, and Irving Richter UAW-CIO.

This committee will meet weekly, to report on legislation to the full group of representatives and to draw up recommendations for action. The full group will meet every other week, oftener when necessary.

Sub-committees have been set up to deal with eight general issues that will come up in Congress. These are: foreign policy; reconversion and social security; economic stabilization; franchise and anti-discrimination; regional development and housing; education, youth, maternal and child care; labor, work standards, veterans, etc.

The sub-committees will be responsible for Congressional action on subjects assigned to them, will work with Congressional committees and government agencies, and will keep CIO up to date on pending and current bills.

They will also work with specific Congressmen and with non-CIO organizations interested in similar bills. They will, in effect, do the CIO leg work on Capitol Hill.

Special emphasis will be put on publicizing CIO's position on the issues in Congress. Means employed will be letters and memos to CIO affiliates and to Congress itself; The CIO NEWS, and simple, explanatory pamphlets, leaflets and comic strips.

A legislative newsletter, tentatively called "Washington Guide," is also being planned. This will be aimed primarily at union people on legislative committees. It will be a factual and analytical information service, which will list voting records of Congressmen as well as discussing bills and other issues.

Still further coverage of Congres will also be promoted throughout the CIO labor press.

UNIONS USE BNA LABOR REPORTS

To keep continuously and reliably informed—with a minimum expenditure of time, money and effort — about all happenings in labor relations which might affect the rights, responsibilities or privileges of their members. For authoritative information and practical guidance, they turn to:

- Labor Relations Reporter

For the news and law of labor-management relations, including: proceedings and decisions of National Labor Relations Board; digests of decisions by War Labor Board; text of court decisions on labor; latest techniques in collective bargaining and contract negotiations; and analysis of significant developments.

- Wage and Hour Reporter

For a weekly check-up on the latest developments in wage-hour regulation and control, including all official action, interpretations and decisions applying the Wage-Hour Law.

- Wage and Salary Stabilization—War Labor Reports

For full text coverage of all executive orders, directives, regulations and decisions bearing on wage and salary stabilization, plus approved going wage rates for specified occupations in all areas. Reports the full text of all decisions handed down in dispute and non-dispute cases by the National War Labor Board as well as important decisions by regional boards.

- Weekly Manpower Reports

For weekly manpower information and regulation, including full text of all official releases from War Manpower Commission and from related agencies. Weekly supplementary sheets furnish up-to-date information on changes in local hiring controls, reemployment rights of veterans, WMC plans for demobilization of war workers, etc.

For Further Details, Mail The Coupon Today!

The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc.
2201 M Street, N. W.,
Washington 7, D. C.

We are interested. Please send complete information on the reports checked below:

- ☐ Labor Relations Reporter
- ☐ Wage and Hour Reporter
- ☐ Wage and Salary Stabilization—War Labor Reports
- ☐ Weekly Manpower Reports

Name .....

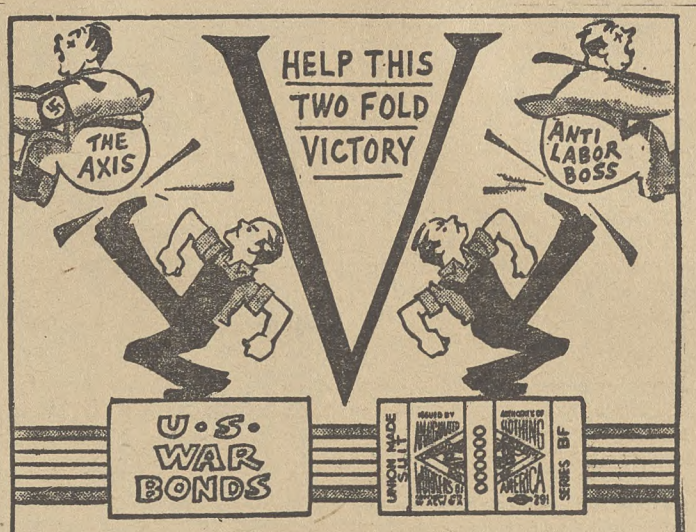
Union .....

Street Address .....

City.....No.....State.....

STAINLESS STEEL PROTECTS FOOD PRODUCTS

Food processors report that stainless steel equipment increases the effectiveness of many dehydrating units. The stainless steel protects food vitamins, colors, and flavors by preventing metallic contamination. This freedom from contamination also is found to reduce food spoilage and cut weight.



Buy U. S. War Bonds to Help Beat the Axis!

Buy Men's and Boys' Clothing, Shirts, Work Clothes, Neckties and Gloves, bearing the Amalgamated Union Label and Protect Labor's American Standard of Living

Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America
15 UNION SQUARE NEW YORK N.Y.

SEE YOUR SINCLAIR DEALER for service that makes your car last longer

UAW Women's Meet Asks Equal Wages, Jobs For All

DETROIT, Dec. 16—Delegates to the first annual Women's Conference of the United Auto Workers-CIO, meeting here last weekend, urged equal wage treatment in industry but voted against any special privileges for women industrial workers. Going on record in support of the position taken by the UAW in convention action, the women decided that jobs for all was the answer to the problem of employment for all workers after the war.

The 150 delegates, representing 300,000 UAW members, the largest group of women workers in any trade union, rejected proposals for super-seniority for women workers, and cast their lot with all war workers and veterans in pledging cooperation in a program aimed at full production and full employment after the victory in Europe and Asia.

The conference was opened on Friday morning with a message from UAW Pres. R. J. Thomas, who is in London attending preliminary meetings of the World Labor Conference which is to convene there in February.

Thomas told the delegates that men and women in the UAW were "brothers and sisters committed to the same ideals of good trade unionism," and that in a period of unemployment "it does not make any difference whether you are a man or a woman, whether your skin is black or white, your job security is threatened."

He said that the "measure of the union's effectiveness in the years after the war" would be determined by its success in "weathering the period of reconversion."

The conference unanimously opposed the "equal rights" constitutional amendment, labeling it as a device to break down Federal and State laws protecting the rights of women in industry.

Following a speech by Joseph Velosky, director of the veterans bureau, war policy division, of the UAW, promising that the status of returned service men would not be used as a club to destroy the seniority rights of women or other workers, the delegates endorsed the UAW veterans' program which gives to returned soldiers seniority privileges for the accrued period of their service with the armed service in addition to their prior service, if any, in shops covered by UAW contracts.

FRIEDA MILLER TALKS

Frieda Miller, director of the women's bureau of the Dept. of Labor, told the conference that provision would have to be made for 4,000,000 more jobs for women in industry after the war than existed in 1940.

She said that wages and working standards in the service industries, the "traditionally feminine" occupations, would have to be improved after the war, if they were not to be used to lower standards set up in mass production industries where women had become a large part of the work force during the war years.

A strong resolution in support of the "equal pay for equal work" principle, requiring the same rate of pay for women as men on comparable work, was adopted, with the recommendation that the PAC draft a model bill incorporating this principle to be introduced in those states not having such legislation.

The conference also went on record in support of the Pepper resolution enabling the War Labor Board to classify as sub-standard wages below 65 cents an hour.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, in a message to the conference, urged an "economy for the future which will give employment to every man and woman who wants to work."

Mrs. Roosevelt said that, of course, the immediate job was to "do the best we can in the job we are now working at, in order to win the war," but that "we must be concerned in laying foundations for a stable peace, and people in the labor movement the world over have a great influence on the kind of peace which is coming to the world of the future."

Congressman-elect Frank E. Hook, from the 12th Congressional District in Michigan, praised the women of the UAW and of the CIO generally for their work in the recent elections.

Hook said that the re-election of President Roosevelt was "more than a mere political victory for a man or a party. It was a vote of confidence in the ideal and practice of progressivism which Franklin Roosevelt has stood for in the eyes of the common people of this country and of all the countries of the world."

APPOINTMENTS ATTACKED

The people voted for the "vision of a better America" expressed by the President, and in support of his program of 60,000,000 jobs after the war, Hook said, "I say it takes a strong faith, an unshakeable confidence, not to quail in the face of events in Washington today."

Expressing the conviction the President would never betray the "solemn trust placed in him through his re-election," Hook called on the national administration "to at least lay the groundwork for the 60,000,000 jobs to give some substance to the vision of a better America after the war."

WALTER REUTHER SPEAKS

Walter Reuther, vice-pres. of the UAW, commenting on the discussion of seniority rights by the conference delegates, said important as the question of seniority is, "we make a mistake if we believe that seniority is the answer to postwar employment. It is not the answer at best. It is the rule for dividing up scarcity when there aren't enough jobs to go around."

"The answer to GI Joe's postwar employment problem cannot be solved by laying off Mary Jones or Joe Smith, his neighbor," Reuther said. "There has got to be a job for everyone."

He warned that the CIO in the immediate postwar period better fight for a 30-hour week with a guaranteed annual wage with wages coming up and prices coming down or we are just kidding ourselves that we can achieve full employment, full production, full consumption.

Vote for Recount

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 16—Tory Republican Robert A. Taft's seat in the Senate was under direct fire from Ohio Democrats and the CIO Political Action Committee as both groups voted this week to finance a recount of ballots cast in Cuyahoga county in the Taft-William G. Pickrel Senate race.

OPA Battles for More Rationing to Share Food

By Eleanor Fowler

Secretary-Treasurer, CIO's Women Auxiliaries

A big battle is in progress over whether to remove almost all food rationing controls or to return the major portion of the meat and canned vegetable supply to rationing.

The War Food Administration, which decides what food shall be rationed, has wanted to remove controls. They forced the original meat holiday last spring and the August removal of canned vegetables from the ration list.

Consumers have been afraid that the food processors were the real power behind the scenes there. They want to sell this year's poor quality canned vegetables at present high prices as quickly as possible for fear they might have to lower prices in case of an early victory and release of some army stores.

CANNERS UNCONCERNED

They don't seem to be too concerned about the fact that this year's civilian supply of canned vegetables is considerably under last year's. Maybe they even look forward to the time when shortages develop, as they will if the present reckless policy of no rationing continues, because shortages build pressure for increased prices.

The blue point holiday on canned vegetables has had another serious effect. It has reduced the amount of processed foods being rationed to such a small fraction of the total supply that the system doesn't work. So few things are being rationed that rationing does not achieve its goal of fair distribution of short supply.

For those two reasons OPA has been pleading for authority to restore at least peas, beans, corn and tomatoes to the ration list. So far WFA has refused to give that authority.

At present only some 28 per cent of the meat supply is rationed. Every housewife knows what that has done to distribution and she wants more meats back on the ration list so that she will be able to buy what she wants.

That's another thing OPA has been fighting for. Officials there want 70 or 80 per cent of the meat supply back under rationing, including utility beef. They could then make rationing work to give a fair distribution. WFA has suggested lifting rationing from meats entirely—a step which would create enormous pressure for price increase because supplies are short.

EUROPEANS STARVING

There's another point we Americans should keep in mind when we think about rationing. Millions of people in Europe are starving. In Italy almost half of the infants born die before they are one year old. Yugoslavia and Greece are in just as desperate plight.

It's our responsibility to help. We've escaped the horror and devastation of war in our own countryside. The least we can do is to keep our suffering allies from dying of starvation.

If we're going to do that we can not be wasteful with our food supplies. We should distribute them carefully and according to need and build up some surpluses. And the best way we know to do the job of distribtion according to need is rationing.

It's up to the consumers to convince government that they approve of rationing and want it retained and extended as long as shortages exist. Marvin Jones, Director of the War Food Administration, should hear from us and Judge Fred Vinson, Director of Economic Stabilization. And let's let Chester Bowles, Administrator of OPA, know that we think OPA is fighting for consumer interests in its stand on rationing.

BARE FACTS: The diaper shortage brought forth this protest from tiny tots at a New York nursery. (Federated Pictures)

Mrs. FDR Hears Plea On Clothing

Washington, Dec. 16—Representatives of 16 organizations, including the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries and the CIO Cost of Living Committee, called on Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt last Monday to discuss with her two pressing consumer problems, the need for low-cost, durable clothing, and for more food rationing.

The auxiliaries were represented by their secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, and Donald E. Montgomery appeared for the Cost of Living Committee.

Lack of adequate clothing controls by the War Production Board, these organizations maintained, has resulted in the appearance of sleazy articles at high prices, the disappearance of necessary, serviceable garments for children, war workers, and farmers, and an abundance of luxury apparel. They objected to the continued use of scarce manpower in producing luxury and sleazy materials and garments, while needed clothing is often impossible to obtain.

UNEVEN DISTRIBUTION

The removal of canned vegetables and meats from rationing, they asserted, has led to uneven distribution of supplies. This penalizes war workers and low income city consumers who cannot afford to buy ahead and who are dependent on what they find on the store shelves from day to day or who can only shop late in the day.

They reported that the millions of consumers whom they represent regard food rationing as a protection and a guarantee of fair distribution, and want it maintained so long as supplies are short. It is their hope that those foods which are still short will be restored to rationing immediately.

The desperate food needs in the liberated areas were discussed. The representatives agreed that the members of their organizations want United States supplies managed in such a way that the United States can carry out its promises and do its share toward relieving starvation and distress among liberated peoples.

Other representatives attending were: Mrs. Harriet Howe, American Home Economies Association; Miss Caroline F. Ware, American Association of University Women; Mrs. Henry R. Atkinson, National Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Gerson B. Levi, National Council of Jewish Women; Miss Hazel Davis, National Education Association; Mrs. Annie Stein, National Women's Trade Union League; Miss Margaret Cross, Consumer Interest Committee, National Federation of Settlements; Mrs. Jeanetta Welch Brown, National Council of Negro Women; Mrs. Esther Coppock, Consumers Union; Mrs. Laura Somers, League of Women Shoppers; Mrs. Eugene Burr, Women's Auxiliaries of Labor, AFL; Mrs. Florence Wyckoff, National Consumers League, and Food for Freedom; Mrs. Leslie Falk, Legislative Committee, Council for Social Action of Congregational Christian Churches, and Paul Sifton, National Farmers' Union.

Pleads for Job Action

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 16—Industrialist Henry J. Kaiser, America's No. 1 shipbuilder, made an impassioned plea for joint action by industry, labor and government to provide 60 million jobs in the postwar era, before 1,400 Hoosier industrialists at the annual conference of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce.

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

CIO Sub-Reg. Dir. G. Geo. DeNucci, Columbus, Ohio, reports: Continental Can Co., USA-CIO, 375; AFL 36. USA Rep. Kessler was in charge of this campaign under the direction of Dis. Dir. Paul Rusen.

Reg. Dir. Edw. McCrone, reports another Steelworkers victory, as follows: Plainville Casting Co., Plainville, Conn. CIO, 73; No Union 36.

Additional USA-CIO victories are reported by USA Staff Rep. Bert Dauquer, Syracuse, N. Y.; American Locomotive Co., Auburn, N. Y., Election No. 1: CIO, 488; AFL 473, no union 19. This now results in a run-off. Election No. 2: CIO 504, AFL 504. Another election was petitioned for, resulting in CIO 545, AFL 518, no union 12. The AFL previously had been in this plant for three years. Office Workers: CIO 110, no union 43. Conducting these campaigns were Staff Reps. John Kowalski, Leo Bonner and Bert Danquer.

James Sweeney, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., reports an additional USA-CIO victory: White Collar Workers of John A. Roebling Sons Co., Roebling, N. J.: CIO 130, against 36. Reps. Charles Kovacs, Fred Clarici and Local Pres. Andrew T. Gazsi were responsible for this fine victory.

Sub-Reg. Dir. Michael Livoda, reports: Silver Engineering Workers, Inc., USA-CIO 56, AFL 29. This election was under the supervision of Intl. Rep. John Monarch, with the cooperation of the CIO office.

Julius Emspak, Secy-Treas., UERMWA, reports: Singer Sewing Machine Co., Bridgeport, Conn., CIO 954, no union 283. This brings the third plant of Singer Sewing Machine under contract to the UE.

Sub-Reg. Dir. G. Geo. DeNucci, Columbus, Ohio, reports: Hoover Co., Zanesville, Ohio, UERMWA-CIO 385, against 72. UE Rep. Paul Dunham was in charge.

Field Rep. Frank Vrataric, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., reports: Blakley, Pa., CIO Rubber Workers, 78, District 50, 25, no union 1. President S. H. Dalrymple of the URWA, reports: Goodyear Fabric Co., New Bedford, Mass., CIO 626, no union 159.

Walter H. Harris, CIO Reg. Dir., Chicago, reports: American Industrial Rubber Co., URWA-CIO, 11, against 2. Illinois Rubber & Plastics Co., Chicago, CIO 41, against 12.

Reg. Dir. Geo. Craig, Philadelphia, reports: General Ribbon Mills, Inc., Emaus, Pa., CIO Textile Workers, 51, against 1.

Fred Joyce, Intl. Rep., reports following victories: St. Clair Processing Co., Sarnia, Ont., CIO Gas, Coke, Chemical Workers, 444, AFL 36. (Mechanical local) St. Clair Processing Co., CIO Gas, Coke Chemical Workers, 128, Processers Assn. 100, AFL 8. Congratulations to Local 14, Gas Coke Chemical Workers and all those participating in these fine victories.

Hugh Thompson, CIO Reg. Dir., Buffalo, N. Y., reports another CIO Gas Coke Chemical victory: Chisom-Ryder Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y., CIO 280, AFL 140, no union 17. The AFL previously had bargaining rights at this company for several years.

A. R. Hardesty, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Dallas, Tex., reports: Barrus Feed Mills, Dallas, CIO 49, against 8. Lone Star Peanut Co., Dallas, CIO 34, against 8. American Paper Stock Co., Dallas, CIO 61, against 20.

Wm. B. Taylor, Dir., Org. Oil Workers Organizing Campaign, reports: Republic Pipeline, Corpus Christi, Tex., voted 60% for CIO.

Sub-Reg. Dir., Sylvester Graham of Helena, Montana, reports: Mike Horse Milling and Mining Co., Lincoln, Mont., CIO Mine, Mill Smelter Workers, 70, no union 14.

A. B. Martin, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Altoona, Pa., reports: Hoffman Ice Cream & Dairy Co., Altoona, Pa., plant: CIO 60, against 7. The other plant of this company is located at Bedford, Pa., where we also won the election involving about 20 employes.

Reg. Dir. Paul Christopher, Knoxville, Tenn., reports: Pittsburgh Plate Glass plate, Memphis, Tenn., CIO Glass Workers, 17, AFL 8. Sub-Reg. Dir. Copeland and Field Rep. Henry White were in charge. Brother Christopher reports an additional victory at the duPont plant, Old Hickory, Tenn., CIO Textile Workers 18, against 11. Recently the Textile Workers won the election in the cellophane unit there. Brother William Tullar, Tenn. State Director of the TWUA, advises us of these results.

IWA Pres. Lowery Dies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—Worth Lowery, president of the Intl. Woodworkers of America, died suddenly of heart failure last Sunday in Seattle, Wash., his many friends in the CIO were shocked to learn this week. He leaves a wife and small daughter.

Immediately upon hearing of the IWA president's death, CIO Pres.

WORTH LOWERY

Philip Murray sent the following letter to Mrs. Lowery expressing his sorrow:

"I am shocked to hear of the death of your beloved husband. The CIO was proud of him and his association with us. We shall feel his loss greatly. I want to extend to you and your family my heartfelt sympathy in your great bereavement."

For months before his death, Lowery had led a long and determined struggle waged by his union to win compensation for travel-time for workers in the logging and lumber industry. Just a short time before he died, this struggle was successfully concluded by a decision of the Wage-Hour Division of the Dept. of Labor extending application of the "portal-to-portal" or travel-time provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act to wood workers.

Reporting on this victory to CIO Director of Organization Allan S. Haywood on Dec. 7, Lowery said: "We believe that this is the first time that the question of compensable travel time has ever been decided in favor of employes and the union on anything other than underground work."

As it affects the woodworking industry, Lowery said in his report that this would mean that "in so far as the logging camps are concerned, travel that is necessary in order to reach the scene of operation in the logging camps will be compensable and paid accordingly."

Lowery had been an active member and official of his union for some years. He was elected international vice-president in 1939, and in 1941 became president. At the 1944 referendum election of officers he was re-elected without opposition.

Tribute to Worth Lowery

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

He was truly a Woodworker. He talked as they; lived as they. He impressed all by his sincerity, loyalty and devotion to everything that Woodworkers stand for. He was noble in his modesty and great in his tenacity for what was right.

Having just come through in the fight he led to establish travel-time, the "portal-to-portal" pay in the lumber industry, a lasting and important major gain, he rejoiced in what he had accomplished, not for himself, but for his buddies and his Union.

He became president of the Intl. Woodworkers of America at a time when the Union was suffering through internal dissension and its resources were limited. He devoted himself to laying a foundation upon which these conditions could be eliminated, and built on the solid rock of sound industrial unionism.

The Union under his sterling leadership overcame most of its internal difficulties and effectively dealt with its economic problems. We of the CIO learned to admire and love this solid citizen of the woods. He belonged to the Woodworkers, yes, and to all of CIO. His last act on earth was to win portal-to-portal pay for his Woodworkers, before he himself went through the portals to a greater reward in Heaven.

So long, Worth, we shall miss you but your association with our great movement has enriched it and our association with you has enriched us in all that stands for greatness and goodness.

Wins at Big Georgia Plant

Rome, Ga., Dec. 16—Workers at the big Tubize Rayon Corp. here chalked up a smashing victory for the CIO Textile Workers Union in a Natl. Labor Relations Board election held earlier this month. The vote was 1043 for the TWU to 456 against.

This is the third large company in Georgia that has gone for the CIO textile union in the past three months. Elections were won previously at the Athens Mfg. Co., Athens, Ga., and at the Mandeville Cotton Mills, Carrollton, Ga.

Fishermen Want Postwar Plan For 'Forgotten' Industry

By C. L. IRVINE

ABERDEEN, Wash., Dec. 16—The program and policies laid down by the recent national CIO convention in Chicago were enthusiastically endorsed and adopted by the fishermen of the Pacific Coast at the sixth annual convention of the CIO Intl. Fishermen & Allied Workers, held here last week.

Both the "no-strike" pledge resolution and the decision to continue political action committees were endorsed unanimously by the convention.

Some 50 delegates attended the convention from every section of the Pacific Coast, from San Diego to Alaska, representing over 20,000 organized fishermen.

Adequate government aid to help solve postwar reconversion problems, similar to that planned for agriculture and industry, was demanded by the convention.

The officers' report, adopted by the convention, called attention to the fact that the fishing industry had been left out of government plans to take care of postwar problems. "In none of these programs is the welfare of 200,000 fishermen and shoreworkers considered," the report stated. "Just as we were the 'forgotten industry' of peacetime, so, today, are we the forgotten industry of postwar planning."

POSTWAR PROGRAM

The specific program advocated for the fishing industry in the postwar period calls for:

1. Extension of economic safeguards now provided farmers to the fishing industry as a means of insuring a stable future, including extension of the support price program and the crop insurance program to cover fishermen; and provision for government loans to producers at low interest rates.

2. A comprehensive program to increase consumption of fish.

3. An overall government finance project to improve fishing ports and facilities planned so as to provide jobs for fishermen and shoreworkers during the offseasons.

4. Adequate representation of the fishing industry at the peace table in order to guarantee equitable arrangements with foreign governments to make possible the use of foreign waters and ports without payment of discriminatory fees; protection against unfair competitive factics.

FRATERNAL DELEGATE

Establishment of an international commission to handle all problems connected with the fishing industry of the United States and Canada was also called for by the delegates. The convention's action was supported by George Miller of Vancouver, B. C., secretary of the United Fishermen's Union of Canada, and a fraternal delegate to the convention. Miller told the delegates they should make sure that fishermen had representation on the policy-making committee of any such body.

Jeff Kibre, international representative of the union in California, stated that such an international group would be invaluable in helping to solve problems connected with postwar reconversion.

"Such a move would help to bring into reality the cooperation sought by this convention." Kibre said. "We hope by the time of the next convention our brothers from Canada will be seated as full-fledged delegates."

Food, Tobacco Union Re-elects Top Officers

Philadelphia, Dec. 16—Under its new name, Food, Tobacco, Agricultural & Allied Workers, adopted by vote of the delegates, the fifth convention of the United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing & Allied Workers concluded here last Saturday.

Pres. Donald Henderson and Secy.-Treas. Harold Lane were re-elected and an executive board was chosen for the coming year. The 111 delegates attending the convention represented a membership of 77,000 workers. (The membership was incorrectly reported as being 24,000 in last week's story on the convention.)

The union changed its name to give prominence to the tobacco workers who are now an important section of the union. Pres. Henderson mentioned particularly the outstanding work done by Local 22 in Winston-Salem, N. C., in organizing the R. J. Reynolds (Camel cigarette plant) and completely ousting the company union.

Resolutions were passed calling for a world labor conference, including the labor representatives of all the United Nations; 65-cent hourly minimum wage for all workers, including agricultural workers; asking for labor representation on the War Food Administration and urging the end of all discrimination in order to achieve home front unity.

Farm, CIO Unity Urged

Topeka, Kan., Dec. 16—Farmers must be able to produce all they can and sell it at fair prices to consumers who have the jobs and the good wages to buy it with, CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey told the Kansas Farm Bureau Federation at its annual convention here.

"Farmers should be allowed to produce their foodstuffs in unlimited quantities without being penalized," he said. "What makes farm production profitable is plenty of people with plenty of money to buy all the food they need and all the food they want.

"Neither you nor we can make good on a pledge to produce for abundance if the other is not working on that pattern also. A nation cannot prosper half abundant and half scarce. Farmers know that, from experience, better than anyone else. Of necessity we are engaged in a joint enterprise.

"There is the challenge to us for the years of peace—succeed together or fail separately.

"As trustees of the future that awaits a generation fighting and winning this war, we must make up our minds we shall rise to that challenge together. We can produce for peace as abundantly as we have produced for war."

PAC's True Story Told in Full

"The First Round" Explains What All The Shooting at the Political Action Committee Was About and Why Its Campaign Made Such a Stir

By HOLLACE RANSDELL

One of things that strikes the reader of "The First Round" is its promptness. The new book, on CIO's Political Action Committee, was written by Joseph Gaer before the smoke of battle had cleared after the bitterly fought November elections.

It made its appearance first at the CIO National Convention in Chicago in a special edition of a thousand copies presented to delegates and visitors as a gift from the PAC. The regular edition is now on sale and offers excellent opportunities to solve the Christmas present problem. Its lively style and timely subject make it a fascinating book.

JOSEPH GAER

The "mountains of paper and lakes of ink," as Gaer puts it, spent to tell the public about PAC, for the most part were used to write lies and distortions that confused people instead of giving them the real facts.

Clears the Air

"The First Round" clears up all this misinformation by telling the whole story of PAC from the beginning — how it came to be formed, how it functioned, who was behind it and what it aimed to do.

"Now that the elections are over," Gaer writes, "one may ask: What was all this shooting at PAC about? The fair-minded citizen would undoubtedly like to know how much of the abuse or praise of PAC was justified and how much of it was mere campaign year froth.

"More than that: he may want to know of the events which led up to the formation of PAC—how it was organized, what really motivated its activities, who were the people or organizations that gave it prominence and what were the sources of its strength. Furthermore, what is PAC's future?

"This book attempts to give fair and accurate answers to these questions."

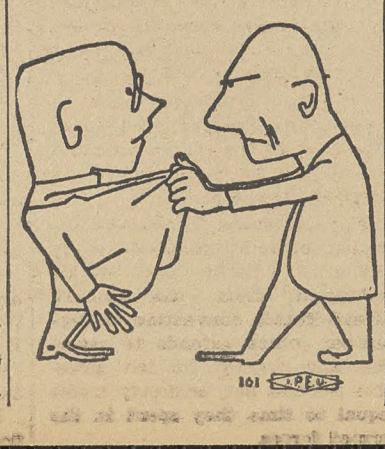
Although the press turned out "an endless flood of news items," many were written with venom and malicious intent and for the most part dealt with isolated campaigns and events, says Gaer. "The blazing light of publicity was focused on a very small area and kept there, with the result that the rest of the picture was obscured by its glare.

PAC's Strength

"Contrary to the general impression created by press and radio, the strength and the weakness of PAC was not in New York but in Kalamazoo; not in Mr. Hillman's private office, but in the offices of the CIO International Unions and, more particularly, in the more than 12,000 unions and in the hands of their shop stewards and politically aroused members."

The national PAC office and Mr. Hillman served as a hub into which many spokes were more or less securely fitted," Gaer explains. "The formulation of policy (always subject to the approval of the CIO Executive Board and the various boards of the international unions) originated in the national office."

Here were prepared the pamphlets, manuals, radio programs, leaflets and other material that were circulated by the millions and created national attention. Many of these, original and often startlingly simple in approach, were something new in their educational approach and well worth saving for permanent record.



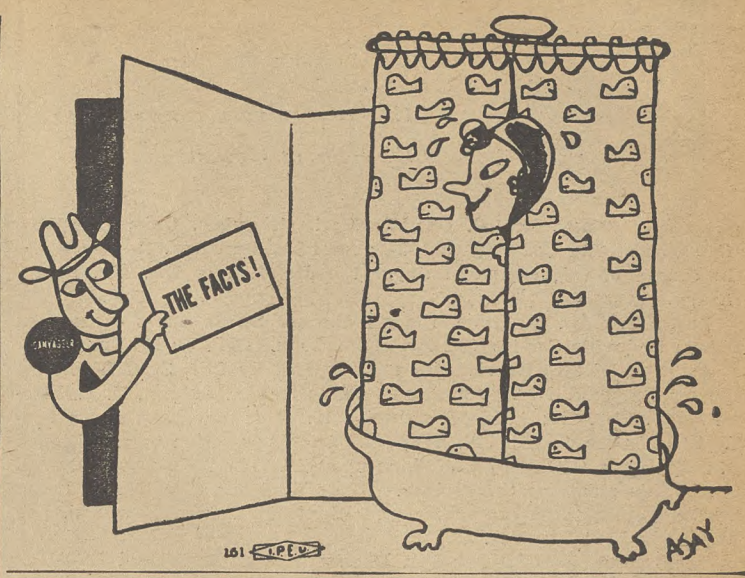
The outstanding ones are reprinted in "The First Round," beginning with the effective "This Is Your America," addressed to the worker, farmer, small business man and housewife.

Others included, that were received with enthusiastic comment when they first appeared, are the popular Speakers Manual and the Radio Handbook, which created a furor in the broadcasting world, A Woman's Guide to Political Action, This Is the Church, The Negro in

SIDNEY HILLMAN

1944, Every Worker a Voter, Jobs for All, The People's Program and What Every Canvasser Should Know.

The First Round, the story of the CIO Political Action Committee, by Joseph Gaer; published by Duell, Sloan & Pearce, New York; $2.50. A special edition for trade union members has been issued to sell for $1.50. It may be ordered from the Political Action Committee, 205 East 42 St., New York 17, N. Y.



CIO Council Leaders Talk On State Laws

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 — Delegates from 32 of CIO's 36 State Industrial Union Councils met here this week in a conference on state legislation called by John Brophy, director of the IUC Dept. of the national CIO.

The session, held in view of the fact that some 45 state legislatures are meeting in 1945, was scheduled to meet for two days to discuss threats to union rights expected in many of the state assemblies.

Discussion on this subject, led by CIO Counsel Lee Pressman, and chaired by Louis Hollander, president of the New York IUC, was planned to cover such subjects as compulsory incorporation of unions, licensing of union officials, prohibition of closed shop, checkoff and other normal union practices, including the right to strike and picket, and weakening on state anti-injunction laws.

John Gibson, president of the Michigan CIO, led discussion on relations with state governments and officials, including relations with governors, legislatures, following the courts, etc.

Ted F. Silvey, chairman of the CIO Reconversion Committee, talked on state labor laws and departments administering them, including compensation laws, child labor laws, safety and health, etc. Sander Genis, president of the Minnesota IUC, acted as chairman.

The second day was scheduled to take up social security—with the discussion led by Van A. Bittner, assistant president of USA - CIO and chairman of the CIO Social Security Committee, and Katherine Ellickson, assistant director of research for CIO.

The final session, chaired by Pres. James Thimmes of the California Council, was devoted to a talk on state election laws by C. B. Baldwin, assistant chairman of the CIO-PAC.

Carey Urges Annual Wage, End of Discrimination

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 16—Interest of workers in the annual wage, in elimination of discrimination and the creation of a workable world organization of nations was stressed by CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey in an address this week to the Fourth District Convention of the United Steelworkers here.

"When workers in one industry win the struggle for the annual wage," Carey said, "all the workers of America will benefit, so will the economy of the nation, and if the nation is made healthier, the entire world will feel its beneficial repercussion."

The CIO leader declared, "that in periods of job scarcity the unorganized black worker is used to club the white worker into accepting a lower wage scale, that, therefore, the insecure black worker constitutes a threat to the security of the white worker; that workers competing for scarce jobs set up lines of conflict based on color, sex, age and—after the war—military vs. civilian."

"Such conflict," he continued, "can only result in chaos, disunity, low living standards and finally violent outbreak.

"The world organization we create at the conclusion of this war must incorporate an international conciliatory body, comparable to the International Labor Office, to which nations can appeal their economic grievances."

(Advertisement)

Does Labor Buy Books?

By ALLISTON CRAGG

Book publishers in general claim that there is no labor market for non-fiction books. In this writer's estimation, the publishers are nuts! It would be more accurate to say that publishers in general make no competent effort to capitalize on the reading interest of labor. This is realized by the UAW-CIO Department of Education, which is now launching a program that in the coming year should excite the surprised attention of the publishing world. In view of the publishers' backwardness I am taking this means of reaching directly America's greatest organized labor group—the CIO membership.

My new book, "We the Voters," is written for the workers of the nation, especially such as the CIO workers whose awareness of the value of the vote has just been so splendidly demonstrated. Shunning academic verbage and high-brow pomp, it is brass-tacks consideration of the great economic questions confronting labor that must be answered if economic democracy is ever to become a fact, and that can be settled ultimately only by labor's vote. The book ends with a practical post-war plan that without upsetting the applecart, with increased income for labor, with full regard for the worker's dignity and self-respect, and without taxation of either labor or business, would assure full employment and the simplest and quickest approach to equitable distribution of the national wealth.

To obtain the book (standard size) with no advance payment and at the special Labor Union price of $2.00, merely send your name, address, and local union to the Merryall Press, New Milford, Connecticut, and it will be sent subject to five days inspection before payment.

TRIBUTE TO LONGSHOREMEN:

Capt. W. S. Towle presents the Coast Guard Security Shield of Honor for "valued and important contribution to the port security program of the U. S. Coast Guard" to Pres. William S. Lawrence of Local 13, CIO Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union. Local 13 is the first union to receive the shield. (Federated Pictures)

Auto Union Plans Labor Book Club

DETROIT, Dec. 16—A Labor Book Club run on a non-profit basis to provide automobile and aircraft workers and their families with good books at moderate cost was announced jointly this week by the United Automobile Workers' Educational Dept. and Reynal & Hitchcock, Inc., of New York City.

The club has been incorporated in Michigan by the UAW and is operated by the Union's Educational Dept. Reynal & Hitchcock have been retained as consultants and advisors on technical and professional matters in connection with the book club's operations.

Selection and distribution of books will be the responsibility of the UAW, which will select titles from the lists of all publishers. Negotiations already are in progress with publishing firms for the acquisition of book-club rights. Six books ranging from popular novels to works on national and international affairs, will be selected annually. First selection will be announced in January.

UAW Pres. R. J. Thomas, prior to going to Europe to attend the world trade union congress, took part in negotiations for the establishment of the club. The union this week made public a statement issued by Thomas describing the labor book club as one of a number of projects planned by the UAW's Education Dept., to fulfill the educational and cultural interests of the membership now and in the postwar period.

William H. Levitt, UAW educational director, is mapping plans for a subscription campaign in all 800 locals of the union in the United States and Canada. Full details of the campaign will be outlined at the UAW's educational conference to be held in Milwaukee Jan. 6.

Confidence that the club will be highly successful was expressed by Levitt, who based his view on the response to advance announcements which appeared in the UAW press in recent weeks and on the success of the UAW's book store in Detroit which was opened 11 months ago.

Details as to the cost of the Labor Book Club selections and the means of determining titles preferred by subscribers are being worked out on the basis of this response, and will be made public in the near future, the union stated.

L. J. IMBER
COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber,
Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE
METAL LITHOGRAPHED
BUTTONS
for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES
Recognized Union Labels
No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in
Light and Heavy Stamping
Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and
Special Stampings.
Tools and Dies
N. Y. Representative
HERBERT R. LERMAN AL.
37 E. 14th St. 4-3356
Detroit Representative
CLARENCE L. HOULE CAD.
424 Book Bldg. 9085
L. J. IMBER COMPANY BRUnswick
1725-41 W. North Ave. 7815
CHICAGO, 22, ILLINOIS

Advance's Editor Resigns

New York, Dec. 16—Resignation of J. B. S. Hardman, editor for 25 years of "The Advance," official organ of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers, is announced in the current issue of the union's paper.

"J. B. is taking a leave which he has long planned," Advance says. "In fact, he was scheduled to leave early in the summer, but postponed his departure in order to participate in the political campaign. J. B. will be missed by his friends and admirers in the organization. However, he will maintain contact with us even though he will not be officially connected with the Amalgamated.

"As the chairman of the Inter-Union Institute, he plans the publication of a monthly magazine, 'Labor and Nation' that will interest the leaders as well as the active people of the entire labor movement.

"There are few who can speak with as much authority and brilliance about the movement as J. B. He is a student, an idealist of the old school and a man of whose accomplishments the Amalgamated has long been proud."

Canada PAC Maps Drive

Ottawa, Dec. 16 — The Political Action Committee of the Canadian, Congress of Labour will launch an immediate political educational and organizational campaign among Canadian workers, it was announced by C. H. Millard, MPP, chairman of the Committee, following a day-long session in Ottawa.

Eamon Park of the Steelworkers has been named Director of Organization for the Committee and will devote full time to developing the unions' political program.

EAMON PARK

The Canadian Congress of Labour has endorsed the CCF "as the political arm of labour" but the functions and activities of the PAC will be independent of any particular political party. The 29-point PAC program, endorsed at the recent convention of the CCL at Quebec, has been submitted to all major political parties in Canada.

All work of PAC's in Canada will be co-ordinated through the National Committee, it was decided at the meeting. Local unions are asked to name their own PAC's. Following the formation of local committees the chairman of each one will sit on a community or city-wide PAC.

Representatives of the various city PAC's will form the Provincial Committees, the chairman of each city committee representing his community on the provincial organization.

The provincial committees will be responsible to the National PAC Committee which has been established by the Executive Council of the CCL.

Stone Workers Get Pay Boost

Barre, Vt., Dec. 16—A contract increasing wages five to ten cents an hour has been won for workers of the Willingham-Little Stone Co., Whitestone, Ga., The CIO United Stone & Allied Products Workers announced here this week.

Also provided in the contract are vacation pay, seniority rights, check-off and arbitration machinery.

R. I. Council Asks Workers' Education At State College

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 16—A proposal to introduce legislation setting up a Dept. of Workers Education at the Rhode Island State College for the benefit of organized workers in this highly industrialized state was endorsed unanimously at the seventh annual convention of the Rhode Island State CIO Council held here Dec. 2-3.

Under the proposed plan, the trade union movement would contribute to the project but the major share would come out of state funds.

A number of other important resolutions were passed which followed the policy formulated at the recent CIO national convention. These included reaffirmation of the no-strike pledge and support for a permanent Political Action Committee.

Council Pres. Frank J. Benti and Exec. Vice-Pres. Albert G. Clifton were both re-elected without opposition. A newcomer to the executive Board was Sec.-Treas. Algernon E. Hartshorn and Edward Healy, Edward J. Doonan and Wilfrid Boudreau were elected as new vice-presidents.

William A. Cahir, acting Mayor of Providence welcomed the convention in a speech on the opening day. Other speakers included Joseph A. Salerno, president of the Massachusetts CIO Council and PAC regional director and William Pollock, sec.-treas., Textile Workers Union.

Gov. McGrath of Rhode Island in a speech on Sunday praised the activities of the State Council and assued the delegates that he would confer with the Council's representatives on all questions concerning labor.

18c an Hour Not Enough, Say Laundry Workers

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 16—Some 500 workers in this city's five leading laundries, sick of being kicked around for the privilege of working for 18c and 25c an hour, have finally balked. They left their jobs Dec. 7.

When the CIO first began organizing the White Swan laundry in 1942 the minimum wage was 14c an hour, states the Tenn. CIO Council. Most of the workers received this rate. A few "highly skilled" employes were paid 25c.

Then the CIO won an NLRB election that year and signed its first laundry contract which raised the minimum to 18c and provided for other increases up to 10c an hour. Other laundry workers quickly followed the example of the White Swan group, and in a few months the CIO won elections in the Plymouth, Star, Modern Way and Chatanooga steam laundries. Agreements were signed providing benefits similar to those won for the White Swan workers.

When this first contract expired in the fall of 1943, the union attempted to negotiate a uniform agreement covering the laundry industry. Negotiations collapsed on the issue of a 35c minimum. The laundries refused to sign any new agreement, despite CIO insistence that some working contract should be in effect pending disposal of the wage dispute by the War Labor Board.

Workers stayed on the job for an entire year pending settlement of the case, until the Natl. WLB on Oct. 4 finally ordered a 35c minimum starting rate with a 39c rate after 60 days' employment and 21c per hour increases in all wage brackets.

The laundries refused to abide by the WLB directive order. The Board then ordered the union and the laundries to negotiate and again the companies refused. On Nov. 17 the laundries appeared at a "show cause" hearing ordered by the Board and continued their refusal to abide by the Board's directive.

In taking this action they followed the course of some 38 other firms in the Southeastern states over which the Fourth Regional WLB has jurisdiction and ignored the Board's order.

The workers therefore decided that they could not persuade the laundries to raise their wages to the levels ordered by the Board by continuing to work for less," states the Tennessee Council.

UAW Saves Vets' Jobs

Detroit, Dec. 16 — What unions can do to safeguard jobs of World War II veterans was demonstrated effectively at the Packard plant last week, when through an agreement with Local 190, CIO United Auto Workers, the management kept on the job some 500 ex-servicemen who had been laid off or were shortly to be laid off.

The veterans affected were not employed by Packard prior to entering the service and consequently had no job protection under the Selective Service Act.

The agreement is based on the model contract clause drafted by the UAW Veterans Dept. on instructions from the union's Grand Rapids convention in September, which extends to veterans not covered by the selective Service Act, seniority credit equal to time they spent in the armed forces.

Mine, Mill Union Elects

Denver, Colo., Dec. 16—Three top officials of the CIO Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers have been re-elected by referendum vote of the membership, the union announced this week. They are Pres. Reid Robinson, Vice-Pres. Ralph Rasmussen and Sec.-Treas. James J. Leary.

Seven of nine incumbent executive board members were also re-elected: Dan Edwards, Salt Lake City, Utah; Angelo Verdu, East St. Louis, Ill.; Homer Wilson, Bessemer, Ala.; John J. Mankowski, Waterbury, Conn.; Chase Powers, San Francisco; Robert Carlin, Sudbury, Ont., and Edward T. Cheyfitz, Toledo, Ohio.

Board member Thomas Murray, Anaconda, Mont., was defeated by William Mason, Butte, Mont., and Board member Gobel Cravens, Joplin, Mo., was defeated by Leonard Douglas, Herculaneum, Mo.

New Board members will take office January 1.

"I liked Mr. Gaer's book very much and think everyone with an interest in the labor movement and in politics will want to keep a copy of The First Round in his library."

—ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

YOU May Look Now . . . YOUR Splendid Record Is Showing!

READ THE HISTORY YOU HELPED MAKE

Why did the reactionaries attack your POLITCAL ACTION so bitterly?

How and why was PAC organized?

What are PAC's objectives?

Who runs PAC and who belongs to it?

What is PAC's future?

READ THE BOOK YOU HELPED TO WRITE!

"The First Round is an uncommon book for the Common Man. It tells clearly and forcefully what PAC is about and why PAC is here to stay. The PAC program is one designed to safeguard our democracy. Why this program looks to the welfare of all our people is lucidly underlined in this book—'must' reading for every student of America's dynamic institutions."

—Vice-President Henry A. Wallace.

"PAC is here to stay. It has already demonstrated its usefulness in our struggle to preserve and to strengthen our democracy. PAC's educational and political efforts will undoubtedly increase and expand. Anyone who wishes to obtain an accurate account of PAC's objectives and its mtehods should read The First Round. It contains good food for deep thinking on our political future."

—Sidney Hillman, Chairman
CIO Political Action Committee.

"Every labor leader, as, in fact, every forward-looking citizen interested in political action as a rampart against reaction, should read The First Round. It is both a splendid record of what the CIO Political Action Committee has accomplished to date, and a primer on the important educational approaches leading to political action. I heartily recommend this book to you."

—Philip Murray, President
Congress of Industrial Organizations.

PAC
205 East 42nd Street
New York, N. Y.

To Officers, Shop Stewards, Committee men and leading members of the CIO.

The PAC has made special arrangements with the publishers for a special price for The First Round. This special price is available to members of the CIO only. It is understood these copies are not for resale.

1 to 25 copies, $1.50 plus 20c for packing and postage; 25 to 250 copies, $1.50 each; 250 copies and over, $1.00 each.

Please send me:

——— copies of THE FIRST ROUND
——— Enclosed ——Send C. O. D.

Name.....

Address.....

City..... Zone..... State.....
(2R)

The CIO NEWS

National Edition

Weekly Publication
Of the Congress of Industrial Organizations

$1 A YEAR, 5c A COPY—$1.50 IN CANADA

Vol. 7, No. 52 82 December 25, 1944

Same Old Tune

'Organic-Or-Bust' Green Spurns CIO Joint Action Plan

(See Pages 3 and 8)

★ ★ ★

CIO on Air Over 2 Big Networks

(See Page 3)

Hit Avery As Ward Seizure Looms

Action by President Roosevelt, involving possible seizure of property to enforce War Labor Board orders, was seen as a week-end probability in the Montgomery Ward case, as company chairman Sewell Avery continued to defy the government.

Avery continued his hit and run policy of sabotaging national unity by making a partial, weasel-like concession to a WLB order for maintenance of membership, checkoff of union dues and a 46 cents an hour minimum for stores in Detroit and six other cities.

Avery agreed only to the wage provision, and then attempted to chisel half a million dollars from underpaid workers by seeking to make the minimum retroactive only to Sept. 1, 1943, instead of to Dec. 8, 1942, as ordered by the Board.

Meanwhile, several public and labor members of the WLB sharply condemned Avery's continued refusal to obey WLB directives. They pointed out that unions are expected to and do comply with Board orders, even though they may disagree with them. Among comments were those of:

UAW-CIO Pres. R. J. Thomas to FDR, urging immediate seizure: "Thousands of American and Allied soldiers are dying every day. Extreme difficulties must be overcome before victory is won. Under such circumstances any disruption to war production or disruption of national unity should not be permitted. Defiance of the government by Sewell Avery is a direct threat to the war effort."

CIO Textile Pres. Emil Rieve, also urging seizure: "Sewell Avery is running interference for a group of low-wage employers who are determined to defy the WLB."

WLB Chairman William H. Davis: "If Montgomery Ward chooses to continue its defiance of the government, that action could prolong the war. They will have to answer to the American people for the resulting weakening of the no-strike, no lockout pledge; for lowered morale of the workers and fighters; for decreased production in war plants, and for possible lengthening of the war."

Court Kills Anti-Labor Law

Decision of the Colorado Supreme Court ruling invalid two sections of the so-called "labor peace act" of 1943 was hailed as a victory for labor this week by Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel, who had argued the case before the court.

The two sections which the court ruled invalid required incorporation of trade unions and declared a strike unlawful unless by a majority vote in a secret ballot.

Thomas, Back From Europe, Predicts World Labor Unity

Pres. R. J. Thomas of the CIO United Auto Workers Union returned this week from Europe with Presidents Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and Emil Rieve of the Textile Workers to predict that the February international trade union meeting will be an outstanding success.

Fresh from preliminary conferences which outlined the agenda of the coming parley, Thomas told of his meeting with representatives of the British Trades Union Council and the All-Union Council of Trade Unions of the Soviet Union.

"We met," Thomas declared, "in a spirit of unity and friendliness, and the agreement that we worked out on a preliminary agenda for the full world trade union meeting in February, shows, in my opinion, that the meeting itself will be completely successful.

"The meeting, which will lay the groundwork for a new world labor federation, will take the place of the moribund Int'l. Federation of Trade Unions.

"Such a world labor organization is imperative to world peace and security after the victory is won. The firm unity of all workers of the freedom-loving nations is the surest guarantee that the policies of world security outlined at Dumbarton Oaks, Bretton Woods and other United Nations conferences will be underwritten by the common people of the world.

"It is our task here in America to unite, as workers and as citizens, behind the plans for a just, people's peace that have been laid and will be further perfected when military victory is won.

"To attempt to secure a genuine peace without seeking the cooperation of the Resistance forces in Europe and elsewhere is to defeat our own ends.

"Our boys and the heroic fighters of our allies are doing their job. Let us get on with ours. And let us build the kind of world unity that we need so desperately, not only to win the military victory but to win the peace and security that must come from this war."

Hit Anti-Housing Plot

In a sharply worded statement, the New Castle County CIO Council this week attacked what it called "a deliberate attempt to sabotage and destroy the movement for better housing in Wilmington" by the Wilmington Housing Authority.

Meet J. Barry, Trouble Shooter!

There's a punch in every panel of CIO NEWS' new full-page comic strip, "Jim Barry—Trouble Shooter," that's going to start running next week. You'll find yourself meeting the mail man half way down the steps to find out what's happened in the latest "scoop" that United Labor Press has cooking.

Hero and editor is Jim Barry. Screwball "photog" Woody Williams helps Jim get into trouble—and boy, there's plenty of it! There's Mr. Winters—hero or bum? And Pug Gavin, ex-strike-breaker, former labor spy and first class rat—in charge of Stewart Aircraft's reconversion department.

There's . . . but we won't tell you more. Read it yourself next week . . . and every week thereafter . . . in The CIO NEWS National Edition!

CONGRESSMAN DRIPP by Yomen

"I THINK I'D LOOK GOOD IN THE GREEK CABINET."

It's Up to Congress Now

60-Million-Jobs Bill Gets Green Light

Sixty million Americans who want to work will be able to breathe easier as they contemplate the postwar world if Congress passes a bill for full employment which was approved this week by the War Contracts Subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs.

The bill says that it's the hope of government that private industry will be able to provide 60 million jobs, and it's the duty of government to encourage industry in its task.

Then the bill flatly adds that if private industry can't do the job, government should take up the slack.

The bill calls for possible federal expenditures, if needed, to aid business enterprises, "particularly small business enterprises; for useful public works, particularly such public works as tend to promote increased investment and other expenditures by private enterprises; for useful public services, particularly such services as tend to raise the level of health and education; for slum clearance and urban rehabilitation; for conservation and development of natural resources; and for rural electrification."

The bill says that "every American able to work and willing to work has the right to a useful and remunerative job in the industries, or shops, or offices, or farms or mines of the nation."

Unanimous endorsement of the proposed legislation was voted by the Subcommittee, including Sen. James E. Murray (D., Mont.), Sen. Chapman Revercomb (R., W. Va.) and Sen. Harry S. Truman (D., Mo.—Vice President-elect).

The bill would set up a Joint Committee on the Budget, to be composed of six members each from the House and Senate, empowered to make a detailed study of the national economy and recommendations as to policy to guarantee full employment.

The bill defines full employment as " a condition in which the number of persons able to work, lacking work, and seeking work, shall be no greater than the number of unfilled opportunities to work at locally prevailing wages and working conditions for the type of job available, and not below minimum standards required by law, and in which the amount of fractional unemployment, including seasonal and technological unemployment, and other transitional unemployment, is no greater than the minimum needed to preserve adequate flexibility in the economy."

Anti-Labor Laws, Poll Tax Flayed At First IUC Parley

Imperative necessity of working for beneficial state legislation and against anti-labor measures was stressed by speakers at the first conference of CIO State Industrial Union Councils on State Legislation held at Washington last weekend.

Other speakers called for repeal of the polltax and continued cooperation between PAC and State IUCs.

"The exclusive responsibility for the origination and the promotion of all legislative endeavors must rest with the national CIO Legislative Committee, and with the State IUCs in the respective states," CIO Pres. Philip Murray told representatives from most of the nation.

He added that the Political Action Committee will lend the IUCS every possible degree of support.

ACTION NEEDED

Necessity for the CIO to become more active in the field of state legislation was seen by President Murray, who warned that the CIO must meet opposition not only from the Christian American Assn., the Natl. Assn. of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, but must be prepared to advance its own programs.

CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey stressed in a brief welcoming address the eagerness of the national CIO office to cooperate with the IUCs in every way possible.

BROPHY OUTLINES PLAN

The contribution of the conference in aiding the national CIO departments and committees in formulating policies was the theme of John Brophy, director of CIO Councils and conference chairman.

"A record will be made of the many valuable suggestions and individual recommendations which will undoubtedly be forthcoming," Brophy said. "These suggestions and recommendations will be conveyed to the various committees and departments responsible for the work of the CIO in the various fields. My department will shoulder the duty of tying this work together and pushing it along."

Van A. Bittner, chairman of the CIO Committee on Social Security, said that the CIO has been trying without success for over a year to get hearings on the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill, which he described as a No. 1 piece of legislation.

He warned against opposition from the states' rights people and the medical profession, and urged the IUC officials to seek to influence the physicians as well as members of Congress.

Speaking of state laws hamstringing labor, Lee Pressman, general counsel, said that statutes providing for the filing of constitutions and financial statements "are nothing but the first step of more intensive regulation and destruction of labor unions as demonstrated by the Colorado law which accomplishes in one statute what others intend to do by several steps . . .

"These anti-labor statutes are clearly unconstitutional," he declared. "Compliance with these measures would, by virtue of their onerous provisions, be an act of self-destruction on the part of the unions. The basic law of self-preservation compels us to adopt the policy of contesting in court the legality of the laws and refusing to comply with the statutes because of their patent infringement of our fundamental rights and liberties."

Chairman of the session at which Pressman spoke was New Jersey IUC Sec. - Treas. Carl Holderman.

Topics, speakers and chairmen at other sessions were: "Relationships with State Governments," John Gibson, Michigan IUC president, speaker; Louis Hollander, New York State IUC president, chairman.

"State Labor Laws and Departments" Ted F. Silvey, CIO Reconversion Committee, speaker; Paul Christopher, Tennessee IUC secretary-treasurer, chairman.

"Social Security," Van. A. Bittner and Katherine Ellickson, CIO Asst. Research Director, speakers; Sander Genis, Minnesota IUC president, chairman.

"Election Laws," C. B. Baldwin, CIO-PAC, speaker and C. H. Gillman Georgia IUC president, chairman.

Political Action No. 1 Job—ILWU

San Francisco—(FP)The executive board of Intl. Longshoremen & Warehousemen's Union (CIO) constituted itself a permanent political action committee Dec. 16. "We are firmly convinced," the board announced, "that political action will henceforth be the main method for solution of our problems and that economic action will be secondary or obsolete."

Stressing its nonpartisan aims, the board said it does not intend "to take over control of any political party, or to be subservient to any political party or to act in any way separately or apart from other progressive forces in the community."

It denounced "as divisive and subversive to effective political action any attempt to create a third party of labor or liberals."

Tax Frozen But:

FDR Wants More Security

President Roosevelt this week reluctantly signed the bill freezing, for the third successive year, collection of Social Security taxes at only 1 per cent. The bill was passed overwhelmingly by Congress.

The President pointed out that he has felt that the scheduled increases in the Social Security tax should automatically go into effect, but added that he was not unduly disturbed by Congress' action in view of the fact that both Democrats and Republicans have expressed approval of a comprehensive social security system.

FDR said that in the near future he will submit a plan for broadening and improving the social security system.

"The public will understand," he pointed out, "that as a nation we are committed to Social Security, and will undoubtedly increase and not decrease the benefits. Already some other nations have a larger degree of social security than we."

The President explained that the 1 per cent freeze bill "in no way modifies the benefits provided by the present law. "But," he added, "it will be incumbent upon the next Congress thoroughly to review the methods of financing them."

CIO Urges Sedition Re-Trial

Twenty-six self-admitted lovers of the Nazi system, whose trial on sedition charges was discontinued due to the recent death of Federal Judge Eicher, should be re-tried at once as enemies of the U. S., CIO Pres. Philip Murray said this week in a letter to Attorney General Francis Biddle.

Murray wrote Biddle:

"The facts disclosed by the bill of particulars filed by the government in the case and through the evidence which had been introduced, should certainly compel an immediate re-trial of these defendants.

"The anti-Semitic activities of the defendants, their associations with the German Bund and in some cases direct alliance with Hitlerite Germany, stamp the defendants as persons who were determined to conspire against the well-being and interests of this nation and its people.

"The failure of the government of the U. S. to initiate a new trial will unquestionably be construed by the enemies of this nation and by the defendants themselves as an open invitation to renew their previous vicious and dangerous activities.

"This result would merely afford the defendants an opportunity to continue their disruption of our national war effort."

$100,000 CIO Show To Aid GIs

The CIO Marine & Shipbuilding Workers Union is expecting to raise from $100,000 to $150,000 for the Chaplains' and Welfare Funds at five New York City area military hospitals by sponsoring a benefit show at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night, Jan. 9.

Such outstanding entertainers as Milton Berle, Gertrude Niesen, Mary Martin, Bill Robinson, Louis Armstrong, Fred Waring, Cab Calloway, Mae West, Lou Holtz, Morton Downey and June Havoc will be featured.

We Thought PAC Was OK, Too

Praise for the work of the CIO Political Action Committee is contained in an editorial in the December issue of the Railway Clerk, publishd by the AFL Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. The editorial said:

"Thousands of members of AFL, Railroad Brotherhoods, and the CIO gave freely of their time and energy to mobilize their fellow workers and to remind them of the obligations of citizenship.

"Without minimizing in the least the work of AFL and Railroad Brotherhood members, which was important, to be entirely fair a good share of the credit must go to the Political Action Committee of the CIO, which raised funds, employed some of the best journalists of the country, put out the most original and striking political propaganda publicizing records of the candidates, and worked with a zeal and enthusiasm never before seen in a political campaign."

CIO on Air Jan. 6 On 2 Chains

CIO will go on the air Jan. 6 with first-rate dramatic programs over two major national radio networks, Columbia and Blue. This will be the first time since cancellation of the Labor for Victory show, prior to the November election, that CIO will offer regular national broadcasts.

The Blue Netwok program will be broadcast at 6:45 p.m., EWT, Saturdays for 26 weeks and the Columbia program at 3:45 p.m., EWT, Saturdays for 13 weeks.

All CIO officials were urgently requested this week to check their local Columbia and Blue Network stations to see whether the programs have been scheduled. In a letter urging immediate action, CIO Publicity Director Len De Caux said:

"It should be understood that the networks can do no more than make the network programs available to local stations and it remains for each local station to make its own decision as to whether or not to carry these programs.

"If it is sufficiently demonstrated to local stations that there are a large number of labor and other listeners who are anxious to hear these programs, they can usually be persuaded to broadcast them."

ASKS REPORTS TO CIO

De Caux asked local CIO officials to report to the national CIO office the acceptance or refusal of programs by local stations.

The Blue Network program will cover current labor events each week, following a "March of Time" technique, and will include news, dramatization of issues, commentary and interviews with CIO leaders and other prominent persons.

The first Blue program, Jan. 6, will feature CIO Pres. Philip Murray and will deal with CIO and the coming session of Congress.

The Columbia program will be entitled "Job for Tomorrow," and will consist of a series of dramatizations of America's basic industries and their workers. The first program will probably deal with the auto industry.

Both Blue and Columbia programs will be presented with musical and other entertainment features, with the best professional skill available.

"Gosh, that's so outmoded that it reminds me of the Little Steel Formula."

Murray Urges Joint CIO-AFL Action Program; Green Plugs 'Organic Or Nothing' Policy

(See Full Text On This Page)

A broad appeal by CIO Pres. Philip Murray for joint legislative and economic action with the AFL was turned down in twittering haste this week, with mouth organ accompaniment to the tune of "There Ain't Going to Be No Unity Unless It Is Organic."

Murray, in a friendly letter to AFL Pres. William Green, said: "It is my feeling that within the framework of specific economic and legislative aims, we can succeed, through joint effort, in defeating the reactionary forces, and help to win the war and establish a permanent peace with economic security for the common man."

Green replied with the old, wornout tune that "organic unity" is all that is possible and that "there is room for only one, united labor movement in our country."

Murray, in his letter, said:

"It is too late in the day merely to talk of labor unity. It is no longer a question of the prodigal son returning to the fold, nor of the disgraced daughter being sent forth into the winter snows. That time has long passed.

"The promises of forgiveness or forgtfulness fall on deaf ears, on ears that do not even understand the meaning of the promises. For the young people who are in the trade movement today cannot remember, nor do they wish to remember, the scars of yesterday. They only see disruption and division. They are only interested in finding the remedy.

CITES ELECTION UNITY

"During the recent national election campaign the unity within the ranks of labor provided the initiative and propelling force for the moblization of the common people in support of the reelection of our Commander-in-Chief as President, the election of a progressive Congress and the defeat of many reactionaries.

"This experience provides the framework for our future policy. It should be our mutual obligation to forge a broad program of action which can be accepted by all members of the labor movement, honestly interested in the welfare of the American worker, regardless of what their affiliation might be."

Text of Murray Letter Urging Joint CIO-AFL Legislative Action

The complete text of CIO President Murray's letter to AFL President Green, urging joint effort to defeat reactionary forces, to help win the war, and to establish a sound peace, follows:

Today, because of the political wisdom of the American people of re-electing President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and electing a friendly Congress to implement his policies, we are in the fortunate position of beginning a new legislative year which can result in great benefit to the majority of men and women in this country.

Organized labor has a special interest in seeing that the mandate given to the President and to the Congress by the people is faithfully carried out. This election, although a personal tribute to the outstanding quality of the leadership given by the President, was primarily an approval of his win-the-war program and his plan for a future of economic security and enduring peace.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION VITAL

This plan for economic security, based on an Economic Bill of Rights and envisioning sixty million jobs, can and will be achieved if the forces of labor are mobilized. That organized labor must fight on the legislative as well as on the economic front is beyond dispute.

And yet with all the prerequisites for success there is one obstacle that stands in our way. Organized labor is not united on a broad program of action, and the enemies of labor encouraged by misrepresentations in the public press are taking advantage of this division.

The 78th Congress, aware of this disunity, was bold in its willingness to sponsor anti-labor legislation and equally eager to defeat any measure, however pallid, which seemed to grant any measure of welfare for the American worker or to mobilize effectively the resources of the nation for a speedy victory in the war and the securing of a lasting peace. This can be repeated.

BROAD UNITY NEEDED

The time for unity on a broad program of action has come. There has been much talk during the last eight long years about unity. During that time both the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the American Federation of Labor have grown in numbers and in prestige. This despite the fact that for eight long years reactionary forces throughout the land have taken advantage of the lack of unity.

It is too late in the day merely to talk of labor unity. It is no longer a question of the prodigal son returning to the fold, nor of the disgraced daughter being sent forth into the winter snows. That time has long passed.

The promises of forgiveness or forgetfulness fall on deaf ears, on ears that do not even understand the meaning of the promises. For the young people who are in the trade union movement today cannot remember, nor do they wish to remember, the scars of yesterday. They only see disruption and division. They are not interested in the causes. They are only interested in finding the remedy.

ELECTION WAS TEST

During the recent national election campaign the unity within the ranks of labor provided the initiative and propelling force for the mobilization of the common people in support of the reelection of our Commander-in-Chief as President, the election of a progressive Congress and the defeat of many reactionaries.

This experience provides the framework for our future policy. It should be our mutual obligation to forge a broad program of action which can be accepted by all members of the labor movement, honestly interested in the welfare of the American worker, regardless of what their affiliation may be.

Surely our joint interest in obtaining a revision of the national wage policy to provide necessary relief to the workers of the nation, in passing legislation which would provide adequate protection for human needs during reconversion, in securing the enactment of adequate legislation to assure social security and sixty million jobs at decent wages, in repealing any Federal or State anti-labor statutes and defeating any attempt to extend such laws, affords a common basis for action.

QUOTES AFL LEADER

I cannot state my position in any clearer or more forceful language than that used by Woodruff Randolph, member of the Resolutions Committee from the Typographical Union, who, in arguing before your Convention on the question of labor unity, said:

"If it is possible for the President of the United States to make a journey to Teheran to talk with Premiers Churchill and Stalin, two Premiers who represent different philosophies of government and trade than we do here, and come back with a united front for a specific purpose, namely, the winning of the war, it should be possible for the representatives of labor to make short journeys here in the United States and arrive at a concerted action or plan for concerted action, even if that plan is for limited objectives."

It is my feeling that within the framework of specific economic and legislative aims, we can succeed, through joint effort, in defeating the reactionary forces, and help to win the war and establish a permanent peace with economic security for the common man. I take this opportunity of expressing to your organization the sincere desire of the Congress of Industrial Organizations to meet with your representatives for the purpose of achieving this all-important objective.

Pay Fight Tops On UFW Agenda

The Natl. Policy Committee of the CIO United Federal Workers Union this week placed wage adjustments for Federal workers at the top of its agenda for union action during the coming months and gave its backing to the wage proposals made by the Civil Service Commission in its annual report for 1944, released last week.

Base pay increases, recommended by the commission, were considered most urgent by UFWA Policy Committee members who represent Government workers in many parts of the country as well as Washington, D. C.

"Rubber Stamp Headquarters"
Stencils Dues Bronze
Badges Buttons Tablets
THE
BAUMGARTEN COMPANY
925 11th St., N.W.
100% UNION MADE
SEALS
RUBBER STAMPS
WASHINGTON, D. C.

PAPER WORKERS LOCAL 256 UNION MADE CIO ORGANIZING COMMITTEE LET MILPRINT FURNISH YOUR
CIO STATIONERY
WRITE FOR SAMPLES AND PRICES
MILPRINT, Inc.
431 WEST FLORIDA STREET
MILWAUKEE 1, WISCONSIN
Over 750 CIO Employees

UNION MADE BUTTONS
Celluloid or Litho-Metal
For—
Union Dues
Advertising
Campaigns
Badges - Emblems
CHARLES M. GERAGHTY
INCORPORATED
500 Sherman St. - Chicago, Ill.

TUA
TRADE UNION AGENCY
CONSULTANTS TO UNIONS
ON ALL INSURANCE PROBLEMS
80 WEST 40TH STREET, NEW YORK 18, N. Y.
Group Insurance · Pensions · General Insurance

CIO GI Reports

Nazi Guerilla Threat Is Plain Hooey

You can write off all of Dr. Goebbels' threats about organizing effective guerilla resistance for a last ditch fight in Germany.

That's the opinion of Sgt. DeWitt Gilpin, former editor of FE news, publication of the CIO Farm Equipment Workers, who recently led a mine-laying patrol into a shell-blasted French town which had been a nest of collaborationists and German agents.

There had been well-trained Nazi troops in the territory, which was especially suited for partisan activity, and there had been an abundant supply of munitions, but not a single guerilla was in the area.

"The Jerries outside the town got so they expect us," Sgt. Gilpin wrote in a recent issue of FE News.

SGT. GILPIN

"They follow the sound of the truck, try to figure out where we park it.

"They got lucky one night and placed one in the barn where the truck was, but as usual we had all left the vehicle in a hurry."

It wasn't the nightly missions that got Sgt. Gilpin down. The missions were successful; one night one of the boys got behind the German lines and laid four anti-tank mines in a Nazi-held road.

"It's that town that depresses me," Sgt. Gilpin continued. "The vague outlines of shell-pocked houses looming through the rain, the burning rubble heaps that once were houses, and the wall-hugging soldiers hurrying to the shelter of cellars as the whistle of shells and the shrill barking of deserted dogs pierce the night—that is the damn town as we see it every evening.

'Hell of a Deal'

"Then there are the replacements—new men slipping in to replace the casualties. Loaded down with their gear, wet and bewildered, this 'fresh meat' is a familiar sight to us. A tired and sullen sergeant will herd them out to muddy foxholes and say: 'Get in! One man sleeps, while the other stands guard. And keep your head down. The Jerries have got this place zeroed.'

"And we, bolstered by our already established camaradie, say, 'What a hell of a deal.' Nothing seems more awful to a soldier than the fact that other men are going to have to go through what he has. And alone and friendless.

"But it isn't the wreckage, or the shells, or the replacements that makes me hate the town so. This town, you see, was a town of French collaborationists and Germans.

"In going through the houses in this village we have found pictures of Adolph Hitler hanging in practically every home. Letters dumped from desk drawers were written in German. The 'libraries' of most of the homes included copies of late German periodicals and magazines.

"One picture periodical had pictures of 'Russian brutality' on one page and displays of Nazi 'acts of liberation' on the other.

Griping Nazis

"A pamphlet containing nothing but letters from the Russian front in which German soldiers screamed their anguish at the 'unfair' way the Russians fought. Correspondence found in other homes reveals that Nazi officers were quartered there. These fine gentlemen fled. It was only the bodies of German soldiers and non-coms that we found in the streets of the village in which the 'New Order' had been established.

"The Germans and collaborationists fled hurriedly and lacked transportation to take their accumulated booty. Large packing cases yielded quantities of items that are priceless in France. There were men's and women's clothing, silk undergarments, whiskey, and food of every description—ham, bacon, white flour, fine sugar, coffee and tea.

"It was easy to tell the few French homes that had retained their honor—there wasn't a piece of black bread in the house, or a single chicken in their barnyard."

Sgt. Gilpin talked to German prisoners who were trained first as fliers and then were sent in the hills near the town where they were retrained as infantrymen. The U. S. Army captured millions of rounds of artillery and small arms ammunition that were hidden in the forests.

Spiritless Germans

Sgt. Gilpin said that every factor needed was present for guerilla activity except the will of the people to resist. The Germans had been unable to arouse such spirit anywhere, and despite Dr. Goebbels' positive predictions, will not be able to pull the trick in their own land.

"The main point is," Sgt. Gilpin said, "that any partisan activity in Germany will result from the activities of a small group of Nazi fanatics who can only mobilize support at pistol point.

"The partisan movements of Russia, Yugoslavia and China were people's movements, born of man's aspirations for freedom and dignity. The empty cause of Nazism cannot mobilize such support."

"It is inevitable, of course, that we will encounter some guerilla activity inside Germany. The wounded Nazi snake, knowing death is coming, will strike back. But anyone who deems the Nazis capable of developing a partizan movement is certainly selling the democratic ideal short."

CIO Counsel Calls Murphy's Opinion In Rail Case Milestone

By LEE PRESSMAN
CIO General Council

Racial discrimination in its worst form was presented as the crucial issue in a case before the U. S. Supreme Court this week. The court unanimously held that one of the railway labor unions which had been designated as exclusive bargaining representative under the Railway Labor Act could not enter into a contract which discriminated against Negro employes.

Justice Murphy, in a special concurring opinion, gave expression to a fundamental doctrine which marks one of the most important milestones for the Court.

The facts in the case were these: The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen & Enginemen was certified for a group of employes of the Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co. Negro workers were barred from union membership.

The labor union then signed a contract with the company which specifically discriminated against the Negroes in employment, promotion and conditions of work. A Negro employe sued the company and the Brotherhood after he had been denied promotion because of the contract provision.

COURT'S GENERAL OPINION

The Court's general opinion holds that where a union has been designated as exclusive representative under the Railway Labor Act, it has an obligation to represent not merely its members but all employes in the group.

Such obligation, the Court said, imposes a duty to avoid discrimination against non-member employes within the group. The Court held that the Negro employe was entitled to relief and forbade discrimination against Negroes under the contract.

JUSTICE MURPHY'S OPINION

Justice Murphy presented the issue in a clear-cut manner. He specifically stated that discrimination against Negroes must be condemned not because of any legal nicety, but rather by virtue of the constitutional prohibition that condemns discrimination because of race, creed or color.

The full importance of Justice Murphy's opinion is conveyed in his statement: "The Constitution voices its disapproval whenever economic discrimination is applied under authority of law against any race, creed or color. A sound democracy cannot allow such discrimination to go unchallenged. Racism is far too virulent today to permit the slightest refusal in the light of the Constitution that abhors it to expose and condemn it whenever it appears in the course of statutory interpretation."

This decision applies with equal force to similar practices on the part of unions which have been certified under the Natl. Labor Relations Act. Relief will be offered by the Court when a union, purporting to act as the exclusive representative for a group of employes, contracts with an employer to impose discriminatory practices against any of the employes in such group because of race, creed or color.

The decision is a great step forward in prohibiting such clear-cut discrimination. It is unfortunate that the essence of Justice Murphy's opinion was not accepted by a majority of the Court. According to the other members of the Court, it is still an open question whether a union, although purporting to represent all the employes, may deny membership to some of them, because of their race, creed or color.

This is an issue on which there can be no compromise. Political and economic equality is clearly protected under the U. S. Constitution. Such equality demands the complete elimination of any form of racial discrimination on the part of employers and unions.

Report 700,000 Negroes In Army, As 15 in Navy Fight Bad Discharges

While the War Dept. this week revealed that 701,678 Negroes as of Sept. 30 are serving in the Army, 15 Negro Seabees were awaiting the decision of a Navy board which is considering their request that they be given honorable discharges to replace yellow ones issued to them.

There are 5,804 commissioned Negro Army officers, including dental, nurse and other Medical Corps officers, and chaplains, and 411,368 Negroes in the Army are serving overseas, the War Dept. announced.

"The common denominator" of the 15 Negro Seabees given yellow discharges was "their superior education," Arthur Garfield Hays, their attorney, told the Navy Board of Discharges and Dismissals, in presenting their defense.

Hays appeared on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union and the Lynn Committee. The Natl. CIO War Relief Committee filed a petition as a "friend of the court."

The petition states that the discharges were given "to dispose of a problem for which no blame attaches to the petitioners, and following an invitation to speak freely upon the subject of racial discrimination with their commanding officer."

"While such racial discrimination appears to be part and parcel of this case," the petition continued, "we urge that such discharges given in such a manner are opposed to the democratic principle of free speech and equal treatment, and would be so opposed regardless of the race of men in question."

One of the defendants, Isaac G. McNatt, who is studying law at St. John's University, Brooklyn, denied the overall Navy charges against him and 14 others who participated in "seditious meetings" and "attempted sabotage," according to the Navy.

McNatt said that the only meeting in which he took part was held at the invitation of his battalion officer to discuss racial discrimination.

Murray, in Soviet Journal, Hails Intl. Labor Unity Plan

The following article, on international labor unity, was written by CIO Pres. Philip Murray for "War and the Working Class," official trade union publication of the Soviet Union. The article, which was scheduled for publication in the magazine's Dec. 19 issue, is a substantial contribution to the understanding that is needed for solid, working unity among the trade unions of all the United Nations. It is in that spirit that The CIO NEWS prints the article in full.

By PHILIP MURRAY

IT is a source of deep satisfaction to me to have this opportunity to speak to the workers of the Soviet Union through this magazine, the official organ of their trade unions. Workers in free countries the world over, and more especially those who are members of trade unions, are united by a great common bond —the fight they are waging against Fascism and Fascist aggression.

In the United States, as in the Soviet Union and Great Britain, working men and women have sent their sons and daughters to the fighting fronts, while they themselves have manned the production front. In the Soviet Union this has been done under conditions of extreme hardship—and the heroic achievements of Russian workers have stirred the world to admiration no less than the magnificent exploits of the Red Army.

Nor has participation in the fight against Fascism been confined to the workers in those countries which retained their freedom. As country after country fell to the enemy and became subjugated to the Nazi war machine, the workers of these countries through their trade unions became the backbone of resistance movements.

The story of their heroism is only now beginning to be revealed as the armies of the United Nations move forward to liberate Europe. Everywhere these armies are aided by workers who never yielded to Nazi slavery. The story is the same whether the country be France, Belgium, Holland, or the recently liberated territories of the Soviet Union.

Representatives of the Congress of Industrial Organizations recently had the privilege of visiting the fighting fronts in Europe and returned with first-hand accounts of the part trade union members were playing in driving the Fascists from their invaded homelands.

ORGANIZED labor throughout the world has made such an important contribution to winning the war, and especially in the occupied countries such sacrifices, that it has a vital stake in securing a just and lasting peace and in insisting on the complete eradication of Fascism. Trade unions have the obligation to work for better standards of living and a more abundant life on an international as well as national scale.

PHILIP MURRAY

It was with a solemn realization of this obligation that the Congress of Industrial Organizations, at its 7th constitutional convention held in November of this year, passed a resolution on international labor unity which declared in part that "the CIO supports the project of a new, single, powerful international labor body that shall include all the unions of free countries on a basis of equality, excluding none and relegating none to a secondary place, and be capable of defending the interests of the common man."

The convention implemented this statement by endorsing my acceptance of the invitation of the British Trades Union Congress to attend both a preliminary conference in London on December 4 of representatives of the British Trades Union Congress, the Soviet Union and of the United States, and the full conference in the same city early in January of next year.

It is a source of very great satisfaction to me and to the Congress of Industrial Organizations that such an international labor conference is being called, though the date has now been advanced from January to February. Some two years ago the officers of the Congress of Industrial Organizations made formal representations to the officials of the British Trades Union Congress asking for a world meeting of labor. Such a meeting was projected for the month of June, 1944, but had to be cancelled because the invasion of Western Europe was then at its height.

AS the war in Europe enters its final phase and defeat of Nazi Germany is assured, there is urgent need for the convening of an international labor conference and the speedy establishment of a continuing international labor organization which shall include all the nations of all free countries.

Already representatives of the various governments in the United States are meeting to discuss and lay preliminary plans for the final peace settlement and the formation of an international organization to maintain a just and lasting peace. Such meetings as those held at Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks are evidence of the desire on the part of the nations participating to maintain and extend the unity which has developed in the course of the war.

The labor movements of these countries are no less concerned with the maintenance of that unity and there must be labor representation at such conferences in the future and at the final peace settlement. It is therefore imperative that the forthcoming labor conference accept as its major task the development of a truly representative international labor organization which can speak for organized labor on a world scale.

THE trade union movement in any country is dedicated to raising the standards of living for its members and for all workers. Organized labor realizes, however, that rising standards of living in one country cannot endure if based on lowered standards and exploitation of workers elsewhere in the world. The Congress of Industrial Organizations gave expression to this belief as part of its foreign policy adopted by the Executive Board in June of 1944. In addition to calling for the preservation and strengthening of the United Nations coalition after the war and into the peace, and for the establishment of a general international organization open to membership by all peace-loving states, large and small, we said:

"Lasting peace is impossible in a world plagued with poverty, unemployment and economic security. We, therefore, urge the establishment of international machinery to make long term credits available to industrially backward nations, without political strings, so that they may create an industrial economy for themselves which will raise the living standards and provide economic security for their people.

"Each nation must be afforded full and adequate assistance to develop its economy and utilize its resources for the benefit of its people and thus assure to all the people of the world the enjoyment of the Four Freedoms, and the right of all workers to organize and join unions of their own choosing without any distinction by reason of race, creed or color, or national origin."

This statement indicates briefly some of the problems which will face the world at the conclusion of the war: rehabilitation of devastated areas, opportunity for industrialization of backward countries, assurance to the people of liberated countries of the right to choose their own governments, complete eradication of Fascism, punishment of war criminals, and the erection of safeguards against the emergence of international cartels. Labor has a deep concern with all these problems and will want to take part in working out their solutions. The representatives at the London conference will undoubtedly work out programs and policies which will have the support of the majority of workers the world over.

TO implement such programs and policies a vigorous international labor body is necessary. Organized labor must draw a lesson from what happened after the last war when no such strong representative international labor body came into existence. Labor had no broad international program on which it could win the support of the majority of the people in the various countries. And even within each country, the trade unions were not strong enough of themselves and lacked sufficient support from outside their ranks to stem the growth of the monopolies and cartels which led to the rise of international Fascism.

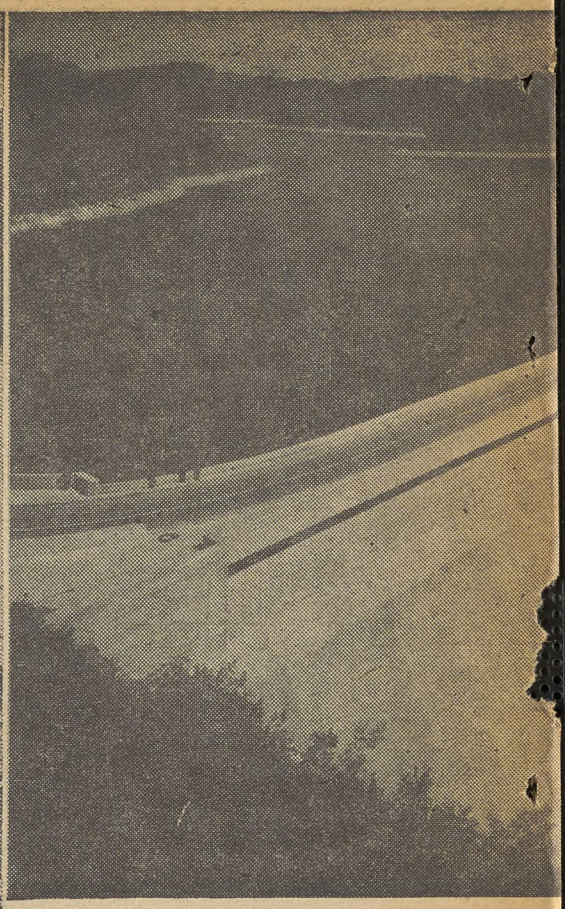
As this year draws to a close the situation is very different. A united international labor organization will be but the embodiment of the unity which all the peoples fighting fascism feel. The labor movements of the various countries fighting fascism have grown in strength and prestige as they spearheaded the national effort for the all-out defeat of fascism. In the occupied countries the trade unions displayed great vitality and assumed the leadership in resisting the enemy.

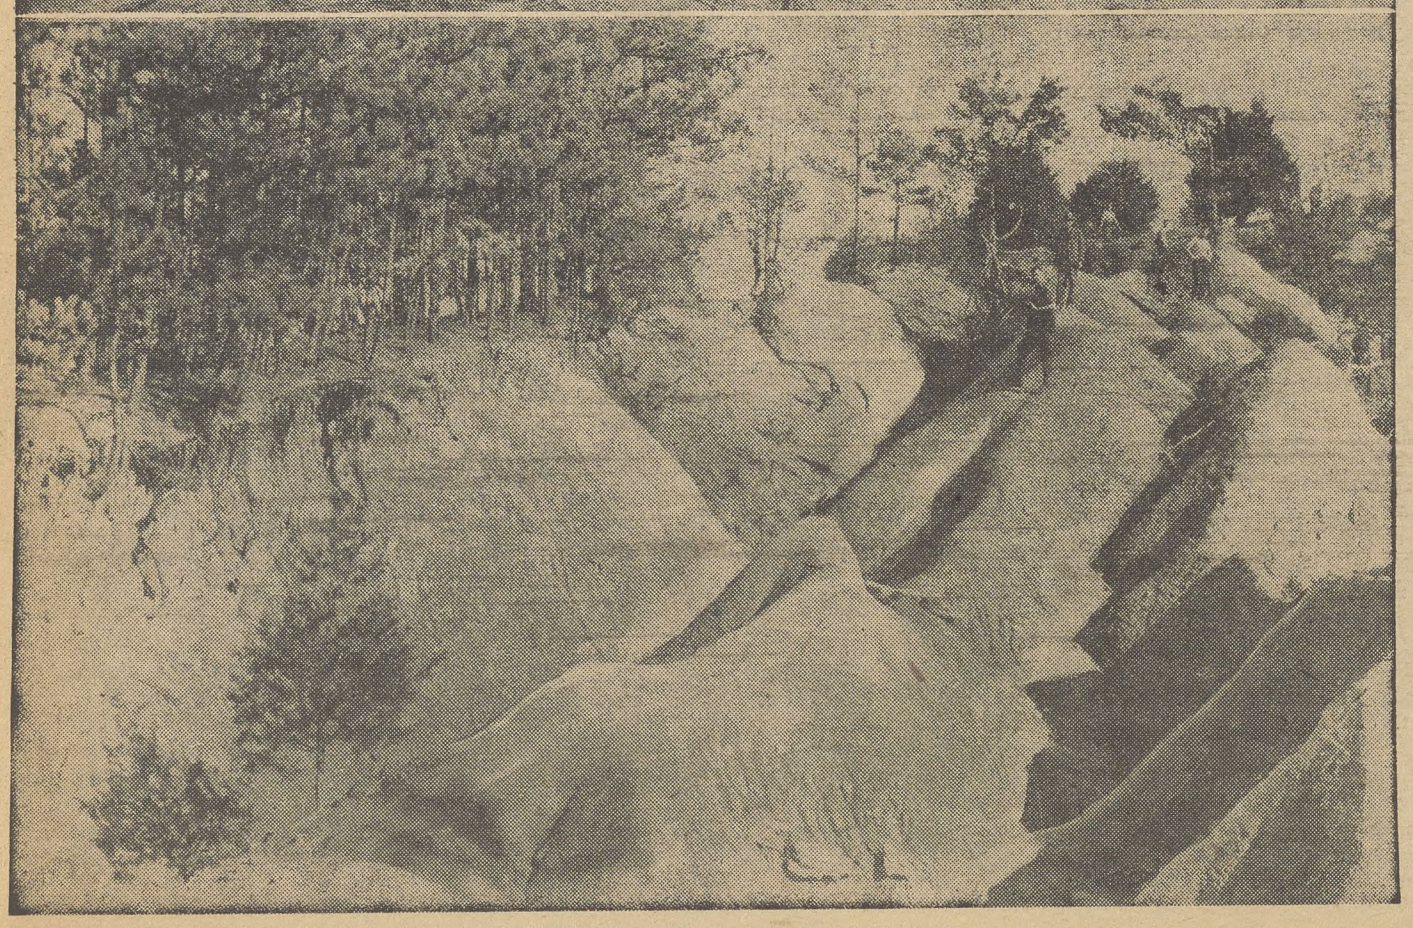
Labor is thus given a great opportunity to make its contribution to the building of a lasting peace, continuation of the United Nations coalition, and the betterment of living conditions everywhere. I am hopeful that the forthcoming international labor conference will seize this opportunity and immediately establish the organization which can be labor's voice in international affairs.

Above all, we of organized labor, together with all freedom loving people, must make certain that the peace lasts. Never again must our peoples be called upon to endure the horrible suffering which this war has inflicted upon them. To this end we must be vigilant to see that the coalition of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union is maintained and thereby peace secured.

We must make certain that the German industrialists and Junkers are not allowed, through their business and social contacts in victorious nations, to renew their drive for world conquest.

The agony of those who suffered under Nazi tyranny must steel our determination to build a world whose citizens can live and work in peace.





River on Missouri

THE 79th Congress that will meet this January has a chance to OK work on a multi-million dollar reclamation project, backed by CIO President Murray, that will:

1. Provide, on the average, one year of work for 1,400,000 people—in line with Murray's plan to guarantee 60 million postwar jobs.

2. Offer 125,000 returning war veterans the chance to get a 40-acre farm apiece.

3. Control floods and soil loss in one of the richest farming areas in the nation, affecting more than seven million people in nine states.

It's no wonder that the CIO Convention thought that this project — involving the Missouri River Valley—ought to be a No. 1 item on the Congressional agenda.

Like TVA Project

Plans for the Missouri River visualize the creation of an MVA — Missouri Valley Authority — similar to the TVA. The TVA has helped to reclaim millions of acres of Tenness has pro hours w millions better li

Plans mendou whole which w national 60-millio
gram is
ity. Mu special regiona
MVA.

The c had a ch rolling.
the sp
muffed i
79th Co chance, and Mos developm
ing—if gress to

PERHA
devel proper
Missouri
like TVA
the Miss the who look at

WHAT CAN BE DONE: Model for r is the Tennessee Valley Authority. V seasonal floods, aids navigation, a electrical power for thousands of re nessee River area. Damage like tha near Harriman, Tenn., is common o
Valley. The Missouri River's contribu be made all-positive by erection o power projects like TVA's Norris Da

a Rampage Can Be Harnessed; Plan Would Give 1,400,000 Jobs

River Valley land, d millions of man- , and has helped people to enjoy a r MVA are tre- important to the tional economy, have to use every ource if Murray's ostwar - jobs pro- e made into a real- y" program paid ntion to proposed evelopments like ing 78th Congress e to start this plan e lame ducks and l interest boys Now the incoming ess will have its one of the biggest rul ul of all area s will start roll- help the new Con- the right thing.

s regional or area ent is not the cription, for the alley Authority, ill serve not only River basin, but country. Take a number of jobs mation projects ck, helps control provides cheap ents in the Ten- ustrated at left, in the Missouri to mankind can od control and bove.

it will create, as estimated by CIO's United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, one of the initiators of MVA.

According to William Sentner, a UE vice - president, MVA will provide up to 250,000 man-years of work for at least five years in construction. This includes 150,000 jobs on building dams, making equipment, laying new railways, road building, etc.

Electrification of homes and farms in the valley, plus manufacture of the steel and other supplies, wiring, plumbing, etc., will provide about 300,000 man-years annually for five or more years.

New housing that will result from the development will add still another million man-years. Stringing power lines alone will take 5,000 men. Irrigation, soil conservation, and the like will take 50,000 workers. At least 30,000 year-round workers will be needed for maintenance. If you like totals, that adds up to around 1,400,000 man-years of work over a period of five to 10 years.

A Big Country

These are big figures. The Missouri river is a big river—2,500 miles of it—and with its tributaries it directly affects the lives of men and women in nine states: Montana, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri.

The Missouri drains about 18 percent of the nation. Missouri Valley farms account for about one third of all farm land in the country. Seven million people live in the valley. And their average income today is around $880 a year. Before the war, it was $500.

The Missouri Valley is rich in people and in resources. Yet these resources, lacking an MVA plan, are being thrown to the winds and the uncontrolled waters of the area at an appalling rate.

Flood damage alone in 1940-43 was estimated at $150,000,000, and that counts only the immediate v i s i b l e ruin—farms, livestock, crops, homes washed away. Three quarters of the best topsoil—the soil that things grow in—has been eroded between Minnesota and the Ozarks of Missouri. The human loss in degraded living standards cannot be measured.

WHAT will MVA do to end these conditions and to raise the living, and producing and consuming, standards of seven million people? The CIO, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, hundreds of civic and business leaders, progressive farm leaders, and government authorities are agreed that an MVA plan can accomplish five main aims. These are:

1. F L O O D CONTROL. Flood destruction along a great river system cannot be stopped just by building dikes or levees along the river banks. They have to be stopped by an overall plan of dams, reservoirs, channels, etc., built and operated by one central authority — as TVA was built and operates.

2. IRRIGATION. According to the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, MVA would add five million acres to our irrigated farm areas. This would provide a 40-acre farm each for 125,000 returned veterans. They would be good farms, with plenty of water to keep them fertile regardless of local droughts.

3. SOIL CONSERVATION. Wastage of soil caused the migration of around 350,000 people from the Valley in recent years—nearly 25 per cent of its population. An MVA that would coordinate the smallest detention pond on a farm with the whole master plan would make up, in time, for the years of drought and erosion. MVA would restore the valley to economic health, as TVA did for the sick Tennessee river valley.

4. POWER. In only one of the nine MVA states—Iowa—do more than half the farms make adequate use of electric power. The average is closer to 10 per cent. This is not because the farmers are backward, but because the power is either not available or is too expensive to use. MVA people would use power, and would buy the things that go with the use of power, just as TVA people do now. Electrification, as the Russians found out, means progress, and progress means jobs.

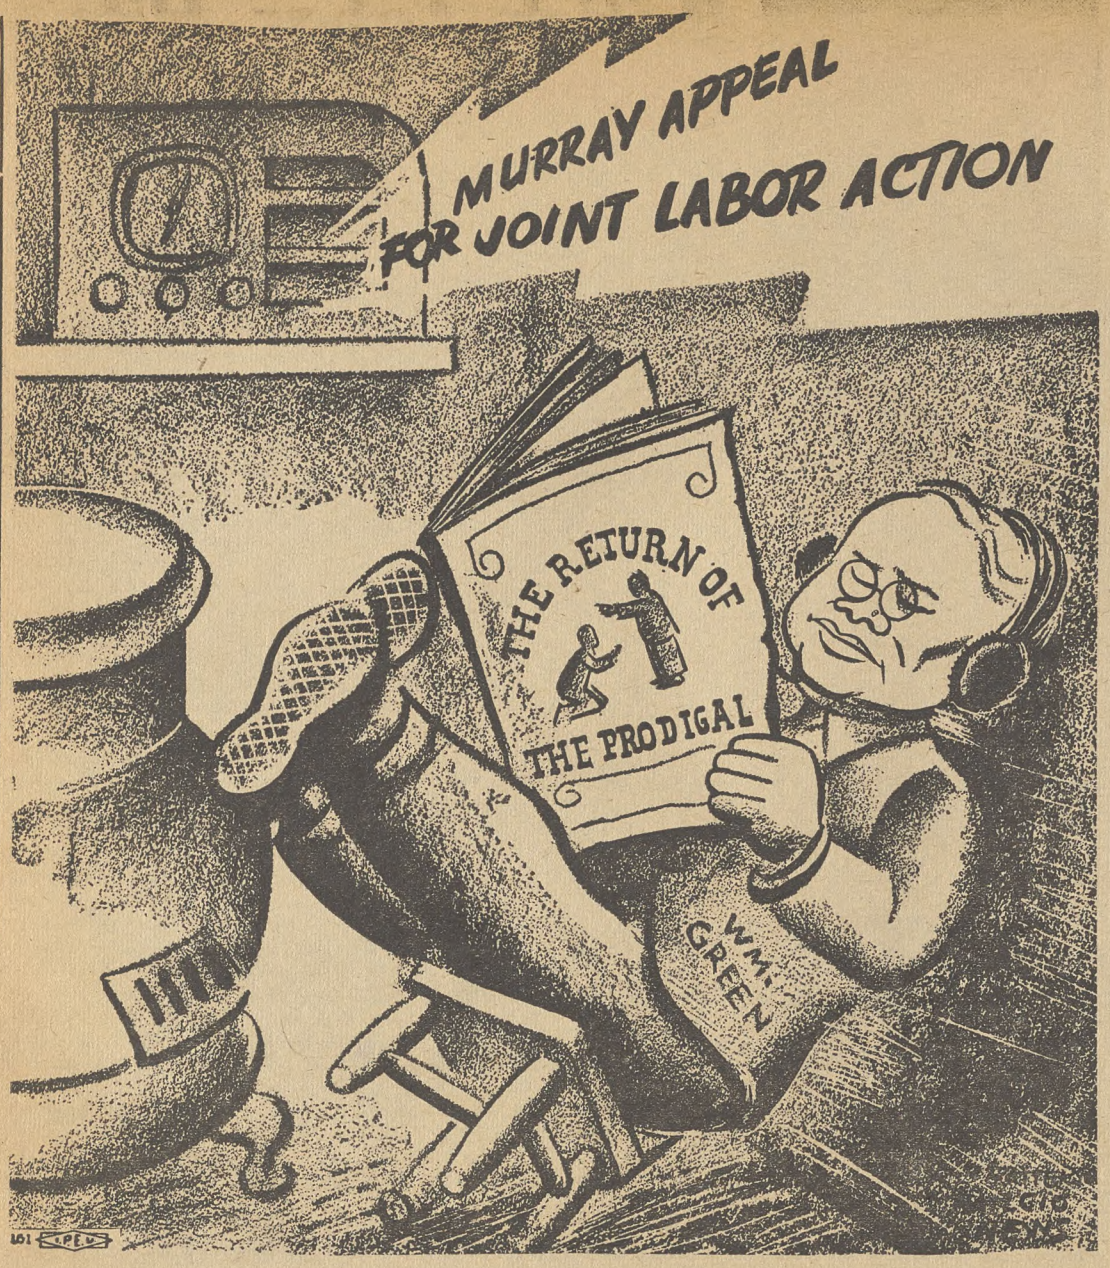
5. NAVIGATION. The Missouri has been historically one of America's most famous navigable rivers. Today the river, with its shifting, silted channels, is almost useless for transport. The National Maritime Union has estimated that with an MVA, the river could provide up to 20,000 jobs for inland boatman, plus thousands more in related industries. Cheap transport would benefit producers and consumers alike.

How to Get MVA

THE leadership of FDR brought us the Tennessee Valley Authority, with its incalculable social and economic benefits. FDR wants an MVA to do the same thing for seven million Missouri valley people.

In the valley, the UE along with other CIO unions, and with progressives from every side, is promoting it.

The issue of MVA is not simply a regional affair—big as the region is. It affects all of us, no matter where we work or live. It is part of the whole plan for jobs and security for all Americans.



For United Labor Action

There is a curious sentence in the statement of AFL President Green rejecting CIO President Murray's bid for united labor action.

"Our experiences during this war have taught us," says Green, "that it is impossible to maintain united labor policies and programs at the top while division, dualism and bitter discord continue in the field."

The experiences of CIO and other labor observers seem to point in another direction

To us, the war has shown more unity "in the field" than "at the top." American working people have rallied behind the war effort so unitedly in local communities that differences in union affiliation have seldom been allowed to stand in the way of joint effort.

CIO, AFL and railroad Brotherhood members have spontaneously formed hundreds of joint committees and have worked side by side without friction in every kind of activity necessary for winning the war.

The demand for unity "in the field" has been so strong that it has brought about similar joint activity "at the top." The main bodies of labor are jointly represented in countless national war activities and manage to work together most amicably for such purposes.

The CIO has long taken the position that there should be more and more of such joint labor action both locally and nationally; that it is essential in the common interest of all labor and of our country; and that it is the logical first step in the direction of greater organic unity.

The CIO also called for united labor political action for the election of Roosevelt and a progressive Congress.

Here again, labor unity was much stronger "in the field" than "at the top." The overwhelming majority of organized workers, regardless of affiliation, campaigned and voted for Roosevelt. AFL and Brotherhood members did not hesitate to join in united committees with CIO members and to work closely together with them in every possible fashion.

But "at the top," some AFL leaders tried to turn back this tide. They took a "neutral" or even pro-Dewey position, endorsed a number of reactionary candidates for Congress and advised their local affiliates not to cooperate with the CIO in political action.

In the coming year, the need for labor unity is greater than ever, particularly on the legislative field. The CIO and AFL have common interests on nearly every issue before Congress, and labor's influence would be greatly enhanced if they worked together legislatively, instead of allowing labor's enemies to divide and conquer.

That is why the CIO called for a meeting with the AFL "to forge a broad program of action which can be accepted by all members of the labor movement."

If the AFL top leaders are not even ready for this much united action, how can they prate about "organic unity"—a consummation which can only be achieved through unity of aim and action?

Achieving labor unity is something like percolating coffee. Heat applied from below causes the water to rise to the top. The boiling water must hit the top before it can percolate down to give you coffee to drink.

Let's hope the rank and file of the AFL, which needs and desires unity of labor action as much as does the CIO, will continue to apply heat from below until the demand for joint action reaches the boiling point and makes itself felt "at the top."

Looking Ahead

By Len De Caux

CIO Phil Murray: The time for unity on a broad program of action has come. It is no longer a question of the prodigal son returning to the fold.

AFL Wm. Green: . . . phoney, functional unity which the CIO has often prated about. The only way . . . is to unite organically. (Come back to the house of labor).

THE snow eddied and swirled. The wind whistled down the chimney. But inside the House of Labor all was snug and cozy.

Papa William settled in his rocking chair. Maybe it wasn't a very modern house, he reflected. But what if it lacked newfangled folderols? Grandpa Samuel had built it that way, and what was good enough for him ought to be good enough for his children's children.

He thought of the children he had shooed off to bed. What a happy family they were!

True, there was the usual fight going on over the beds they shared. Big Bill was chasing his brothers with a hatchet. Harvey was at the window threatening to run away from home. Mattie was looking under all the beds, and there was the customary caterwauling.

But, after all, boys will be boys —and their squabbles were all in the family.

★ ★ ★

That reminded Pop William of the boys who left his House so long ago. He looked tearfully at two pictures turned face to the wall.

One was the picture of John L. he knew so well. He'd been turning it frontward and backward so often in recent months!

John L. had learned his lesson, yes sir—or had he? The prodigal had returned to knock at the door. But he wasn't satisfied with a fatted calf—he had demanded a whole barbecued steer and the carver's place at the table.

★ ★ ★

Then there was Phil, now known as CIO. How often had he pleaded with Phil to return to the House of Labor! The door was always open. A candle still burned for him in the window.

What a kind and forgiving father he was! He would take Phil back just as he was when he left. His little crib was waiting for him. And the boys would wait till he got back before dividing his belongings.

But what a wayward son Phil was! A six-footer now, with a large family of his own, he refused to take seriously the offer of his old crib back.

How about the rest of his family, he had asked. Of course, there wasn't room for them all, Papa William had explained. But if he left them behind, Big Bill and the other boys would take their pick of them —and the rest might die of exposure meanwhile. So that would not be any real problem.

But Phil had criticized the old homestead as too cramped, old-fashioned and unsanitary. He had declared his own CIO House of Labor was much more modern and healthy for a large and growing family.

★ ★ ★

Phil wouldn't even admit that Pop William's was the House of Labor. He pointed to other Houses of Labor, including his own and those of the Rail Brothers.

He asked why all of this growing Community of Labor could not be good neighbors and work together in their common interest.

Was that any way for a prodigal son to talk?

★ ★ ★

Papa William snoozed off, only to be awakened by a knock on the door.

Ah, perhaps CIO Phil had come to repent. He'd wake the boys to welcome him with their pea-shooters and their little hatchets. He himself would be stern but forgiving. He'd pat Phil on the head and bid him rise to his feet.

But it was only a messenger with a letter from Phil. It brought news that a great war was raging and that the whole Community of Labor was threatened. It urged a meeting between CIO and AFL to unite labor's forces for common action.

Papa William tore up the letter. "Go back to my wayward son," he told the messenger. "Tell him to return to the House of Labor. The door is always open. The candle still burns in the window."

And with that, he slammed the door, blew out the candle and went up to bed.

The CIO News

Congress of Industrial Organizations

Philip Murray.....President James B. Carey.....Secretary-Treasurer

Vice-Presidents

Joseph Curran, John Green, Reid Robinson, S. H. Dalrymple, Allan S. Haywood, Frank Rosenblum, Albert Fitzgerald, Emil Rieve, R. J. Thomas

Len De Caux..... Editor and Publicity Director

Publication and Editorial Office:
718 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington 6, D. C.

Entered as Second Class Matter, Post Office, Washington, D. C. Under the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, and Feb. 28, 1925

Vol. 7 December 25, 1944 No. 52

Organizing

By ALLAN S. HAYWOOD

CIO Vice-President and Director of Organization

CIO Reg. Dir. E. B. Pugh reports: Virginia Bridge Division, U. S. Steel Co., Roanoke, Va., CIO 600, AFL 323. USA Field Rep. Robert Boyer and Lee Sorsby were in charge. Allan-Morrison Sign Co., Lynchburg, Va., USA-CIO 81, no union 21.

Reg. Dir. Frank Carmichael, of Mass., reports: Winter Brothers, Wrentham, Mass., USA-CIO 255, Independent 121. We had previously lost this election about a year ago but through the perserverance of CIO Rep. John Collins CIO came through successfully this time.

CIO Field Rep. Michael Roxas, Fairfield, Conn., advises: Waldon Tool and Metal Mfg. Co., New Haven, Conn., employes voted 100% for CIO.

Reg. Dir. A. R. Hardesty, Dallas, Tex. advises: Olive & Myers Manufacturing Co., CIO 94; AFL 1. This company had been under contract with the AFL for the past several years.

Geo. Craig, CIO Reg. Dir., Philadelphia, reports following election victories: Martin Dying & Finishing Co., Bridgeton, N. J., CIO Textile Workers 154, AFL 46. American Chain & Cable Co., Inc., York, Pa., USA-CIO 646, AFL 471.

Paul Christopher, Reg. Dir., Knoxville, Tenn., advises: Herron Yarn Co., Memphis, Tenn., CIO Textile Workers 23, no union 2. TWUA Rep. Walter Ellis was responsible for this victory. DeSota Hardwood Flooring, Memphis, IWA-CIO 125; AFL 6. IWA Rep. John Hawkins was in charge of this election campaign.

Brother Christopher reports that Sub-Reg. Dir. W. A. Copeland advises that this marks the end of the AFL Upholsterers Union in Memphis. During the past year the only four plants where AFL had bargaining rights have gone CIO, two to the CIO Furniture Workers and the other two to the CIO Woodworkers.

Another IWA-CIO victory is reported by Ray Kroeger, IWA Rep., Art Dion Operation, Gay, Mich., CIO 47; no union 10.

Additional victories for IWA-CIO are reported by Geo. Brown, Dir. Org., West Oregon Lumber Co., Eugene, Oreg., involving 20 men. Curtis Lumber Co., Wausau, Wisc., CIO 179; Independent 99.

CIO Reg. Dir., Ewald Sander, N. J., advises that elections were won recently at the following plants by the CIO Automobile Workers: Anco Products Co., American Tool & Die and General Motors Export. UAW Rep. Dominick Ammarato headed these drives, assisted by Joe Biancardi, Al Richlan and Scotty Mullgrew.

Wm. B. Taylor, Dir. Org. Oil Workers Campaign, reports: Phillips Petroleum Co., Gasoline Department, Pampa, Texas, CIO 102, against 10.

The Federation of Architects Engineers, Chemists & Technicians, report the following election victories: Douglas Aircraft Corp., Catalog Div., Los Angeles, Calif., CIO 64; no union 46. Intl. Rep. Dave Teitelbaum was in charge. Sherman & Associates (engineers) CIO 29, Against 5. (Tool and engineering department) FAECT had previously won an election in a different division of this company by a vote of 92 as against 8. Lloyd-Rogers Co., (engineering employes) CIO 171, against 51.

Michael Livoda, CIO Sub-Reg. Dir., Denver, reports: production and maintenance employes of Eaton Metal Products Co., CIO Mine Mill & Smelter Workers 191, AFL 16, no union 19. The AFL had had a closed shop contract in this plant but the employes voted to change to CIO.

Thos. J. Gallagher, Org. Dir., Marine & Shipbuilding Workers, advises: Alabama Shipbuilding & Drydock Co., Mobile, Ala., CIO 76, against 0. Peavey Metal Arts Co., Miami, Florida, CIO received 80% of the votes.

Reg. Dir. Jos. Walsh, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., reports: U. S. Rubber Co., plant, Blakely, Pa., CIO Rubber Workers 78, against 25. CIO Field Rep. Frank Vrataric contributed greatly to this victory.

I want to take this opportunity to wish every CIO member a very Merry Christmas and may the New Year be filled with Happiness.

Wipe Out Starvation Pay Scales—Carey to WLB

CIO Sec.-Treas. James B. Carey this week declared that the passage of the Pepper 65 cent minimum wage resolution now in the Senate is "imperative" and called upon the Natl. War Labor Board to pave the way for complete elimination of substandard wages by granting the demand of the CIO Textile Workers Union for a minimum wage of 60 cents an hour.

Congressional approval of the Pepper Resolution, Carey said in a Columbia Network program originating from station WTOP, is needed "if America's goal of 60 million jobs is to be more than a dream."

Carey said, however, that no Congressional action is necessary to eliminate sub-standard wages. The WLB now has the power "and the responsibility of placing a floor under wages, he declared.

Referring to the cotton wage cases now before the WLB in which the Textile Workers Union is asking for a 60 cent minimum wage, Carey said that this rate of pay, $24 a week for 40 hours work, would be "a stop-gap for hunger, one step toward the ultimate goal of decent wages for every worker."

America's half million cotton textile workers, Carey said, average $25.84 a week on a straight time basis and $27.26 a week including overtime. The minimum wage is $16 a week in some mills, $20 a week in most mills.

Wages like this, which are below the emergency level set by the WPA for relief workers in the depth of the depression from 1935, are at the root of the cotton textile shortage, Carey declared.

The shortage he pointed out is now so acute that WPB officials are seriously considering sheet steel as a substitute for tent fabric and the Army is sending soldiers into cotton textile mills as workers, in an effort to boost production.

"The CIO, the Textile Workers Union of America, and the aroused conscience of the American people expect no less from the Natl. War Labor Board than that it shall discharge its plain obligation to a nation at war and to half a million Americans by granting to the cotton textile workers a wage of not less than $24 a week," Carey said.

"The War Labor Board has all the authority it needs to eliminate substandard and un-American wages for half a million cotton textile workers and to light the way to better living conditions for ten and a half million other sub-standard American workers."

BRANDS STEPFATHER TRAITOR: In a dramatic appearance at a Hands-Off Greece rally in New York, Aliki Kryveli (above) charged that her stepfather, Premier George Papandreou, betrayed the people of Greece. (Federated Pictures.)

British Labor Hits Govt. Greek Policy

By Wireless to Allied Labor News

The Greek crisis has dominated all issues in Britain this week, including the Labor party conference where overwhelming indignation at the government's policy in Greece has colored all debates. The conference is attended by over 1000 delegates and is being held for the first time in the presence of representatives of the CIO, Soviet trade unions and fraternal delegations from France, Belgium Switzerland, Italy and Sweden.

Opposition to the government stand in Greece reached its culmination today in the form of successive floor revolts against the mild wording of the emergency resolution offered by the executive council.

Loyalty to the Labor cabinet ministers, the fear of precipitating the immediate breakdown of the coalition and the rigid conference procedure which ruled strong amendements out of order finally secured the 2,455,000 to 137,000 vote for the executive's proposed resolution, although the terms in no way reflected the delegates strong outburst. The resolution stated:

"The conference deeply regrets the tragic situation which has arisen in Greece and calls upon the British government most urgently to take all the necessary steps to facilitate an armistice without delay and to secure the resumption of conversations between all sections of the people who have resisted the Nazi invaders with a view toward the establishment of a provisional national government which would proceed with a free, fair general election as soon as it is practicable in order that the will of the Greek people may be expressed."

The executive council was confronted with more than a score of strongly-worded resolutions, including the Amalgamated Engineering Union's demand for an "immediate reversal" of the government's "disastrous" policy, and the National Union of Railwaymen's declaration that the government "is putting the entire people of Britain under suspicion on their sincerity towards the liberated peoples and their intention of implementing the Atlantic Charter."

Cat-calls, cynical laughter, groans and cries of "down, down" and "shame" greeted the spokesmen for the executive council who attempted to defend government policy.

Earlier in the week, the Labor party conference resolved to maintain the coalition government "as long as the national interests demand" and rejected the demand of the AEU for progressive unity for the general election, despite urgent eleventh-hour pleas from the miners and other unions.

CTAL Hits Argentine Fascism, Attempt to Turn Latin America Against U. S., Britain

Cali, Colombia (ALN) — Warning that Latin America's most imminent peril comes from Argentine-based fascism "against which the fight must be concentrated," Vicente Lombardo Toledano, president of the Confederation of Latin American Workers (CTAL), this week stressed to the CTAL congress meeting here that the Argentine people remain democratic despite the suppression of all liberties.

The congress, which opened in the Cali Municipal Theater following the largest labor demonstration in Colombia's history with more than 25,000 workers participating, was welcomed by Colombian Labor Minister Arriage Andrade in the name of President Alfonso Lopez.

Fascists allied with the Axis are spreading anti-United Nations propaganda under the pretext of the so-called dangers of Protestantism, Jewishism and communism, Toledano said, pointing out that they "are really attacking the United Nations to prevent post-war democratic unity."

The CTAL's main task, he continued, is "to fight the attempt by fascism to turn Latin America against Britain and the United States on the basis of the false imperialist issue. Latin Americans today do not confuse imperialism with the people fighting for the freedom of the world."

Warning against extremism, Toledano said that "this is not the time to speak of socialism in Latin America, but rather the time to begin building democracy with a social content." He urged avoidance of strikes not only during the war, but when the peace comes, since "the time for sacrifices is not yet past."

Praising the support given Latin American labor by the workers of the United States, Toledano stated: "This is not merely altruism, but is based on the recognition of the mutual dependence of Latin America and North America and is reciprocal."

Textile Workers Life Hard, Says Brophy

A great home-front army of worn, haggard workers, the large part of them women, standing listlessly beside big tireless machines that roared and whirred and clattered as they went on endlessly turning out textiles for use in the war. The humid lint-filled air heavy with noise and the weariness of the workers.

Such was the way the big Dan River & Riverside textile mill at Danville, Va., appeared to him, said John Brophy, CIO member of the Natl. War Labor Board, when he went through the plant recently with a group of six WLB members. Included in the group was another CIO man, Neil Brant, Washington representative of the United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers.

The WLB members visited the Dan River plant merely to get background for the wage case of the CIO Textile Workers Union now pending before the board, as this particular mill where some 12,000 workers are employed is not one of the 54 directly involved in the TWU's case.

The union is demanding wage increases, including a 60c hourly minimum and other improvements necessary to raise the substandard conditions of living now prevailing among cotton and rayon textile workers.

Average weekly earnings of cotton textile workers was $24.82 in January, 1944, only slightly more than in 1920, the union declared in its statement to the WLB. Only one out of ten southern cotton textile workers makes more than 70c an hour and 21 per cent make 50c or less an hour, the union pointed out.

After spending the day going through the Dan River & Riverside mill, watching the workers at their jobs and talking to them, Brophy said that if he were not already convinced that textile workers deserved higher pay, he would certainly have to come to the conclusion that the 60c minimum they were asking was a surprisingly modest demand for such energy-sapping, health-undermining and vitally essential work.

WLB Honors Worth Lowery

A resolution expressing regret at the death of Pres. Worth Lowery of the CIO Intl. Woodworkers of America was passed unanimously last week by the Natl. War Labor Board.

"The nation has lost not only a vigorous and resourceful leader of a great body of workers in the lumber industry of the United States," the resolution stated, "but also a leader who has consistently distinguished himself by his devotion to the public interest and the business of bringing the war to a victorious conclusion at the earliest possible moment."

CIO Groups Ask Reconversion Plan, Consumers' Aide

Fifteen national organizations, including the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries and the CIO Cost of Living Committee, have asked Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes to establish a consumers' counsel in the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

"Your agency is responsible for programs and policies of the greatest importance to the American people as consumers," a joint letter to Byrnes from the 15 organizations states. "We therefore urge, most strongly, that you make specific provision for a consumers' counsel in your administrative organization."

Signers of the letter included Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, secretary-treasurer of the CIO Auxiliaries, and Donald E. Montgomery, chairman, CIO Cost of Living Committee.

CONSUMERS' INTERESTS

"The Reconversion and Surplus Property Acts," the letter points out, "express the clear intent of Congress that the interests of the consuming public shall receive due consideration.

"Had this not been made explicit, it would still be apparent that a major test of the reconversion program will be its effect on the people of the United States as consumers. Its success will be reflected in the maintenance of real consumer purchasing power and the use of productive facilities for the meeting of consumer needs.

"We have observed the operation of both the war agencies and the regular agencies of the Government dealing with economic matters affecting consumers. We believe that the effects of agencies' programs on the consuming public should be continuously analyzed and that administrators should be kept advised of consumer needs and reactions.

"On the basis of our observations, we are convinced that wise administration calls for inclusion of a consumers' counsel or consumer relations office."

Other organizations joining in the recommendation are:

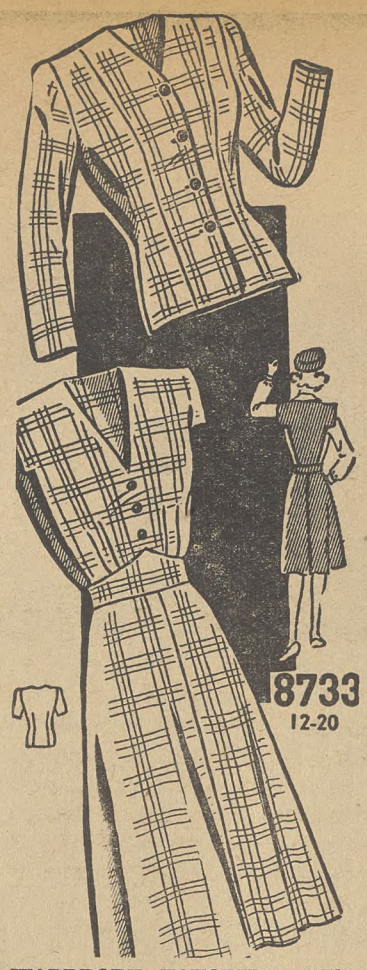
American Association of University Women, American Home Economics Association, A. F. of L. Women's Auxiliaries, Consumers Union, League of Women Shoppers; Legislative Committee of Council for Social Action, Congregational Christian Churches; National Consumers League, National Council of Jewish Women, National Council of Negro Women, National Education Association, National Farmers' Union; National Federation of Settlements, Consumer Interest Committee; and National Women's Trade Union League.

Yule Shoppers Strip Stores

Christmas shopping stripped stores down to the bare shelves, the Wall Street Journal said, reporting the heaviest holiday buying in history. It was the biggest and longest shopping season on record, beginning months ahead of time because of the deadline for sending gifts to soldiers, and never letting up. On Dec. 7 Macy's department store in New York broke the record with $1 million worth of sales in one single day.

Because of this Christmas rush, there may be drastic shortages in the next few months. the business organ predicted. But in spite of the supply outlook, it said that store owners were not grieving—for they not only made record profits, they cleaned out their stocks of ersatz and substandard merchandise which they didn't want to be caught with when peacetime quality goods start being made again.

Commenting on expected shortages in 1945 of underwear, men's shirts, sheets, pillow cases, woolen goods, stockings and textiles in general, one department store executive summed up the industry's attitude as follows: "People want to spend money, and if they can't spend it on textiles they'll spend it on furniture, or if they can't spend it on furniture we'll find something else for them to spend it on. We'll always have something to sell."



WARDROBE FAVORITE: The jumper frock is the perfect all-occason outfit. Extended shoulders give this one that important new tapered look. Pattern No. 8733 is in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Send 20c in coin, your name, address, pattern number and size to Federated Press Pattern Service 1150 Sixth Ave., New York 19, N. Y.

Retain U. S. Price Reins, GI Writes

A dinner of liverwurst and potatoes for $36 in a French restaurant and a dollar for a bar of soap got Cpl. William A. Fagan so steamed up that he sat down on his cot somewhere in France and wrote a letter to an OPA official in the United States, the Federated Press reports. Maybe he should have sent it to the NAM lobby and other profiteering groups trying to smash price control in congress.

"To be honest I saw little or no reason or excuse for price control in postwar America," he said. "But, by gosh, now I see and now I pray that there will be price control. We did a good job in the U. S. A. keeping prices as they were, when you look at them here. It's up to you at home to keep price control because, believe me, you have never seen inflation.

"You have never sat down to a liverwurst and potato dinner and paid 36 American dollars for it. You have never paid two American dollars for a package of cigarets. Nor have you paid a dollar for a bar of 5-cent Hershey chocolate or a dollar for a 5-cent bar of soap.

"You have seen the 1919 boom and the '29 crash but, believe me, without some sort of price control after this war, America and everything we are fighting for is lost. There are a lot of boys over here who never saw $100 before. But, with not being able to spend it at the fronts and with Uncle Sam's saving plans, they are coming home loaded and raring to go.

"With inflation comes black markets, and with them both the ultimate degradation of a nation. Let's have no inflation in the U. S. A. I think I speak for all the boys over here when I say let's knock out black markets so we'll keep our women at home and our kids believing in Santa Claus."

CIO Auxiliaries' 1945 Goals

By FAYE STEPHENSON
President, CIO Auxiliaries

This is our fourth war Christmas. On New Year's Day, 1945, we enter our fourth year of the war.

Most of us cannot have the personal happiness this year which the holiday season has always meant in peacetime. So many of our loved ones are away. But we can enter the new year with confidence and determination.

1944 has been a year of United Nations victories. It is clear now that Hitler and Hirohito are doomed. It may take a year or more to finish the job, but fascism will be wiped off the earth.

In its place we have the promise of a new era of international peace and cooperation among nations. At the Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks conferences the United Nations have committed themselves to a policy of cooperation to enforce peace in the world and stabilize the economy of all nations.

The re-election of our great President Roosevelt has placed our country unequivocally on record for full international cooperation for victory, for an enduring peace and for the welfare of the peoples of the world.

MAKE 1944 PROMISES GOOD

It is our determination, as we go forward into the fourth year of the war, to make all of the promises of 1944 become realities.

First of all, we will do everything within our power to speed the victory. That means sticking to our jobs and urging everyone we know to keep war production going at capacity. It means doing our part in salvage, in bond drives, in Red Cross and other war relief activities and, above all, giving our blood as often as we can for our boys.

Second, we will do everything within our power to see that the international agreements necessary to carry out the promise of Dumbarton Oaks and. Bretton Woods are ratified by the United States.

Finally, we will fight for all the legislation needed to carry out President Philip Murray's program for full employment and full social security for every American.

UAW Members Aid Co-Op Drive

Raising of $15,000 to help finance the new Carver Homes Consumers' Co-op Food Market, at Inkster, Mich., was aided recently by members of the CIO United Auto Workers Union and teachers and professional workers.

Inkster is a residential suburb of Detroit, and includes the George Washington Carver Homes, a 500-family Negro public housing project.

'Smoke' Difference Illusion, CU Finds In Test of Fags

So you can't get your own brand of cigarets? And smokes from the packs with the strange new names taste awful? According to Consumer Union, tests have demonstrated that even if people walk a mile for a certain popular brand, they still can't tell the difference between it and any other brand in a blindfold test. Just shut your eyes and pretend it's a ———.

L. J. IMBER COMPANY
Founded by L. J. Imber, Formerly of Green Duck Co.

UNION MADE METAL LITHOGRAPHED BUTTONS

for ADVERTISING
UNION DUES
POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
EMPLOYEES' BADGES
Recognized Union Labels
No Charge for Designs and Sketches
Also Specializing in Light and Heavy Stamping
Coining and Embossing
Small, Intricate and
Special Stampings.
Tools and Dies

N. Y. Representative
HERBERT R. LERMAN AL. 4-3356
37 E. 14th St.
Detroit Representative
CLARENCE L. HOULE CAD. 9085
424 Book Bldg.

L. J. IMBER COMPANY BRUnswick 7815
1725-41 W. North Ave.
CHICAGO, 22, ILLINOIS

A WIN-THE-WAR MOVIE WITH A REAL WALLOP

HELL BENT FOR ELECTION

CAPTIVATING NEW, COLOR CARTOON FILM
Featuring The Gay Song Hit "GOTTA GET OUT and VOTE"
Music by Earl Robinson
Lyrics by E. Y. Harburg

The American People on the WIN-THE-WAR SPECIAL behind F.D.R. vs. the DEFEATIST LIMITED

ACT NOW! BOOK IT FOR YOUR SPECIFIC MEETING DATES!
Service Points Nation-Wide

BRANDON FILMS
1600 BROADWAY • NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

SEE YOUR
SINCLAIR DEALER
for service that makes your car last longer

STAINLESS STEEL PROTECTS FOOD PRODUCTS

Food processors report that stainless steel equipment increases the effectiveness of many dehydrating units. The stainless steel protects food vitamins, colors, and flavors by preventing metallic contamination. This freedom from contamination also is found to reduce food spoilage and cut weight.

CIO Postwar Plan For Meat Industry

American consumers and livestock farmers are threatened with a drop in the volume of meat production to pre-war levels, warns the CIO Packinghouse Workers Union in a new pamphlet outlining a postwar plan for meat packing.

The pamphlet, "Meat during Postwar — Will There Be Enough?" was prepared by the union's Technical Service Dept., whose research director is Lyle Cooper.

The plan involves one of the basic food industries and some 150,000 workers under the jurisdiction of the union, who in common with all unionized groups of wage earners are deeply concerned with the postwar employment outlook," the pamphlet says.

"A strong threat now exists that the volume of meat production and consumption is headed for pre-war levels. These levels were unprofitable to most livestock farmers. And they provided too little meat for a large proportion of the consuming public."

Pointing out that the first sharp warning of a cut in production was the 1944 spring pig crop, down nearly a quarter from 1943, the pamphlet states: "This drastic cutback in hog production is currently causing shortime and reduced earnings in most of the hog-killing and pork-processing departments at the packinghouses.

"Further cause for concern is the curtailment of cattle breeding, a development which will reduce job opportunities later in the meat packing industry. These forewarnings are straws pointing to what may happen within a few years on a vastly increased scale. The marketing and employment prospects in meat packing are symptomatic of what is in store for the American standard of living."

Specific proposals recommended in the postwar plan for meatpacking include:

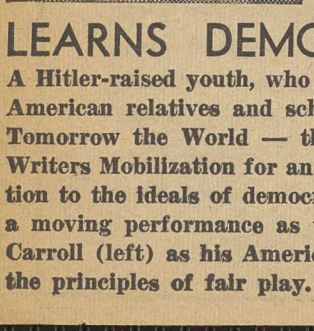
Use of surplus meat supplies for relief abroad at end of war in Europe.

Price controls on livestock and meat products during the transition period to postwar.

A federal food agency with all groups represented.

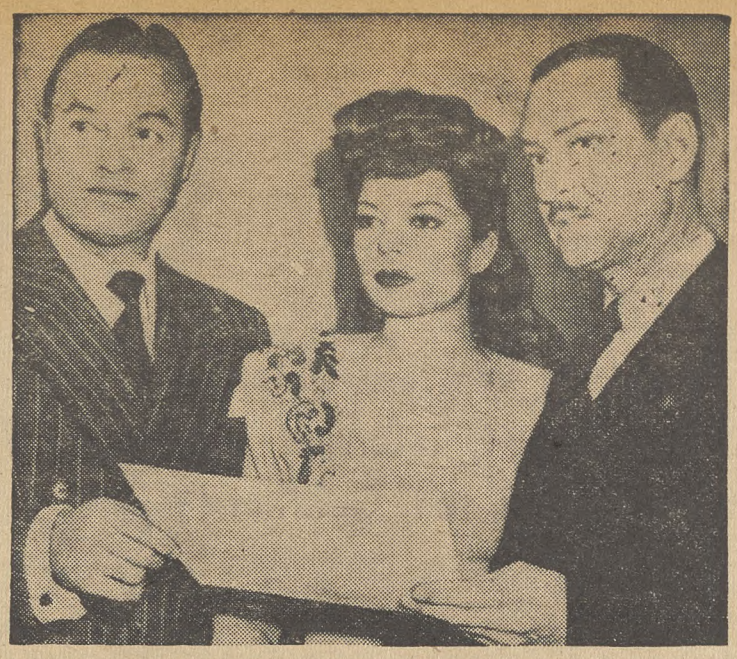
Improved industrial relations, joint union-management cooperation in reducing accidents and illness and adoption of an annual wage.

Meat during Postwar — Will There be Enough? Pamphlet issued by the United Packinghouse Workers, 515 Engineering Bldg., 205 West Wacker Drive, Chicago 6, Ill.



LEARNS DEMOCRATIC A-B-C'S:

A Hitler-raised youth, who tries to impose Nazi methods on his American relatives and schoolmates, gets his come-uppance in Tomorrow the World — the first movie chosen by Hollywood Writers Mobilization for an award for its "outstanding contribution to the ideals of democracy." Skippy Homeier (right) gives a moving performance as the detestable Nazi youngster. Joan Carroll (left) as his American cousin helps teach the Hitler kid the principles of fair play. (Federated Pictures.)



HOPE CITED FOR SERVICE:

War Work is serious business for Screen & Radio Star Bob Hope. With a straight face and no wisecracks he accepted a Distinguished Service citation for his war bond sales from Chairman Howard Mills (right) of the Treasury Finance Committee in southern California. Between Hope and Mills is Singer Frances Langford, no mean little bond seller herself. (Federated Pictures.)

UAW Sets Feb. 17 Deadline on No-Strike Ballot

The 1,200,000 postcard ballots on the CIO United Workers union no-strike referendum must be mailed back by Feb. 17 to be counted by the 9-man committee in charge, Acting Pres. George F. Addes of the union announced this week.

The only exception to the Feb. 17 postmark is the soldier vote where the postmark will be Feb. 28. Ballots will go out about the middle of January.

Field Representative's Son Killed in Action

Robert Colebank of the Marine Corps, son of CIO Field Rep. Harry Colebank, St. Albans, W. Va., was killed in action December 2 in the European theater, his father was officially informed this week.

Young Colebank, who was in service more than two years, also was on duty in Alaska, Africa and the Pacific area. His brother is serving with the U. S. armed forces in Europe.

Flak Hit Fails To Turn Back Negro Flier

First Lt. John J. Suggs, Terre Haute, Ind., probably does not think of himself as typifying the heroism of Negroes in World War II.

When flak ripped through the tail of his Mustang fighter while Lt. Suggs was flying over Zagreb, Yugoslavia, he continued to escort the bombers on their way to blast Vienna. That was his 52nd mission, and he decided it was not going to be his first to return to the base early because of damages.

Three Oak Leaf Clusters on his Air Medal attest to his heroism. Simultaneously with telling of Lt. Suggs latest exploit, the War Dept. in Washington announced this week that 188 Negro soldiers of the 885th Engineer Aviation Battalion have been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received in action in the South Pacific.

Seven Silver Star medals and 22 Bronze Star medals have been awarded Negro Doughboys of the 92nd "Buffalo" Division for gallantry and heroism in combat, the War Dept. also announced.

CIO Man Turns Down Ike's Boots

The famous GI who turned down Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's offer of his boots is a member of a California CIO local. He's Staff Sgt. Darrell Van Ness of Local 550, Mine Mill & Smelter Workers.

The story has it that Eisenhower, wearing sheepskin lined flight boots, paused near the front lines to talk with Van Ness and offered to trade them for the enlisted man's battered artics.

"No, General," Van Ness decided, finally. "I guess you'll need those flight boots more than I will. The deal's off."

Gen. Ike then offered Van Ness 500 francs for his first dead German. The CIO man took him up on that one.

Break Bond Record

Washington, Dec. 23—Members of the CIO United Auto Workers, Local 230, Chrysler Motor Corp. of Los Angeles, Calif., oversubscribed their Sixth War Loan Drive quota in eight hours, two days before the drive opened. The company's 970 workers were allotted a quota of $72,750. Their pre-drive sales were $82,631.

FDR Hails Merchant Seamen

The heroic wartime achievements of the U. S. Merchant Marine were highly commended this week in Christmas greetings extended to the merchant seamen by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vice Admiral Emory S. Land, War Shipping administrator.

"The men of our Merchant Marine form the essential link between the home front and the millions of men in the Armed Forces overseas," FDR said. "These men, although relatively few in number—around 180,000—have performed an heroic task in delivering the goods.

"I am informed that since their first casualties, three months before Pearl Harbor, more than 5,800 have died, are missing, or have become prisoners of war while carrying out their assigned duties.

"Most of our Merchant Seamen will be on the job during the Christmas season. For many it will be the second, third or fourth Christmas away from home on their wartime job.

"At the Christmas season particularly these men may feel that they are the forgotten men of the war. They are not. They deserve, and receive from all of us, our thanks for the job they have done."

N. C. Supreme Court Has De Berry Case

The North Carolina supreme court is expected to hand down a decision early in January on the case of William DeBerry, Negro organizer who faces 60 days on a road gang.

DeBerry, a leader of the CIO Food, Tobacco & Agricultural Workers, was convicted on a trumped-up charge of slapping Louise Johnson, a white company union leader at the R. J. Reynolds cigaret company.

In his appeal to the supreme court I. Duke Avnet, DeBerry's attorney, argued the evidence calculated to provoke race prejudice had prevented DeBerry from receiving a fair and impartial trial in the lower courts.

DeBerry's conviction brought a flood of protests from unions and individuals throughout the country who considered the case an attempt by the company union to break CIO organization at the Reynolds plant through the use of race incitement.

Wartime Challenge

ACA-CIO Victory in Western Union Poll Needed to Guarantee Uninterrupted Telegraph Service During the Conflict

By LAWRENCE KAMMET
Editor, ACA News

COMMUNICATION is the nerve center of war production. Just as the U. S. Army Signal Corps is the nerve system on the battlefield, so the communications network is the key to efficient war production on the home front.

Of crucial importance in the entire communications network is the telegraph. The telegraph message brings the orders for munitions, planes, food supplies, and it is the means of conveying instructions for movement of supplies by rail, sea and air.

All-Out for Victory

From the very beginning, Pearl Harbor Day to be exact, the ACA has geared all of its activities and resources to the one job of guaranteeing speedy and efficient transmission of communications in support of the war effort. On December 7, 1942, the ACA sent a formal pledge to President Roosevelt that there would be no strike in any branch of communications under its jurisdiction for the duration of the war. That pledge has been kept unconditionally despite extremely critical wage and contract problems which the union has had to face in dealing with the communications company. Not one second has been lost due to a strike in any communications company where the ACA has members, since the war began.

In recognizing this vital contribution to the war effort, the War Department paid tribute to the ACA at its last national convention. In a special message the War Department said:

"Any bottlenecks in the transmission of messages for the invasion would have made it impossible to perfect the preparations but there were no bottlenecks. Back at home, the national communications members of the war team—that's us—Signal Corps and ACA—had done its job fast and well. The American Communications Assn. has recognized the need for handling government messages quickly. The ACA has never let us down. We are confident it never will."

The ACA was solely responsible for clearing the wires of all extraneous and non-essential traffic when the telegraph companies were still trying to serve frills to the public and when messages were seriously delayed and wires were completely overloaded.

The Federal Communications Commission, after studying evidence about clogged wires and delayed vital war production messages, adopted all of ACA's recommendations and ordered the elimination of non-essential traffic. This happened more than one year ago.

Stooge Unions

This record has been achieved in spite of opposition not only from the companies, which have looked for profits first, but even more important the opposition of the company stooge unions which are masquerading under AFL labels.

The AFL unions have the dubious distinction of threatening strikes in telegraph on two separate occasions. Only two months ago, the head of the Western Union division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, J. A. Payne, wired President Roosevelt threatening a strike in the telegraph industry unless the National Labor Relations Board ordered an immediate election in Western Union. ACA's response was to gather signatures from tens of thousands of Western Union workers on a renewed pledge that there would be no strike in Western Union no matter what the AFL tried to do. The Labor Board election was subsequently ordered and will be held in Western Union from January 3 to 10.

Not only has AFL built a record against the war effort in communications but it has a miserable record of failure in getting any collective bargaining benefits for its members. In 1942, ACA was the first to go to the War Labor Board with wage cases for Postal Telegraph and Western Union employes. In the Postal case, ACA won an award of 35 percent, which amounted to nearly 8½ million dollars nationally. In the Western Union case, ACA won a 17.6 per cent increase in addition to many benefits such as guarantee of the company's pension and benefit plan in the contract. The AFL, after these victories, was forced to present a wage case to the War Labor Board and because of the precedent set by ACA was able to win almost as much—almost, but not quite, since their bungling resulted in an award of 15 per cent and no guarantees of the company's pension plan in AFL contracts.

The problem that remains in these last two weeks is that of getting out the ACA vote. With the kind of phenomenal teamwork that has already been shown by all of the CIO international unions, there is no question that the last minute push will guarantee a landslide victory for ACA-CIO.

When the ACA succeeds in putting the CIO union label on Western Union telegraph messages everywhere, it will be more than merely a victory of one union over another in an election campaign. It will represent a guarantee and a pledge to the nation that our country's nerve system of war production will continue to function efficiently and without interruptions until the final victory is won.

What They Say About ACA

GENERAL EISENHOWER, ON D-DAY: "All ranks of the allied forces are deeply grateful for your pledge of continued cooperation. We fully appreciate the vital part played by all groups affording communications."

THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL: "The American Communications Assn. has set an example and high mark for all unionism during the war."

JAMES L. FLY, FCC CHAIRMAN: "I know that ACA will continue to consider ways in which it can best assist the winning of the war. The members of your union are of special importance in that task, and I know that they will continue to get the messages through safely, efficiently, and without delay."

CAPTAIN E. M. WEBSTER, representing the commandant, U.S. Coast Guard: "The thorough study made by ACA of the complex problem of providing in time of war greater protection of life and property at sea is most commendable and the suggestions of the union have guided the various government agencies in providing those vitally needed protective measures."

What You Can Do To Help ACA Win

All CIO regional directors, organizers, officers and shop stewards of all affiliated international unions everywhere in the United States are urged to communicate with their nearest ACA office for instructions as to what can be done to help in the last minute drive to guarantee the votes for ACA.

There is an ACA office in every major city throughout the country. (Or wire National Office, ACA, 5 Beekman Street, New York, for last minute assignments.)

The principal tasks are:

1. To make one more personal visit to all eligible Western Union workers to get them to vote for ACA-CIO.

2. To help get out the ACA vote on Election Day. The dates are different in most cities—during the week of January 2 to 10, 1945.

There are 5,000 cities, towns and hamlets to be covered. The help of CIO forces will guarantee victory.

ACA'S PLEDGE TO THE NATION